The Effect of Maturity, Time of Harvest, Weather and Storage Conditions on the Quality and Deterioration of Soybean Seed by Fungi in Florida

BY

Leonard J. Alexander, Phares Decker, and Kuell Hinson

Drs. Alexander and Decker, Visiting Professor and Professor, respectively, Department of Plant Pathology; Dr. Hinson, Research Agronomist, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Service, Florida area, and Professor of Agronomy, Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, Gainesville, Florida.

This public document was promulgated at an annual cost of $1458.98 or a cost of 58¢ per copy to provide information to assist in the production of high-quality soybean seed in Florida.