Perry woman with boating party of drowned man

The body of a Jacksonville man was found Tuesday in the St. Johns River, two days after he disappeared while boating with four others, one of whom is from Perry.

According to Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) officials, James Ricks Jr., 43, was operating the boat and on his way back to the Arlington Boat Ramp when he shut down the engine and jumped into the St. Johns River, near the mouth of the Ortega River.

The boat's passengers attempted to toss him a line. Ricks was unable to reach the line and never resurfaced, officials said.

The passengers were: Charlotte Lundy, 55, of City's new policy flushes out unregistered sexual predator

The Perry City Council's recent decision to post signs in front of the homes of registered sexual predators had an unintended consequence, flushing out an offender who had not registered his most current address with authorities.

During Tuesday night's regular city meeting, City Manager Bob Brown related that one day after the sign was posted at an address on Campbell Street, residents of that address began calling council members with complaints.

"The homeowner came to the Perry Police Department (PPD) and gave a sworn statement that the registered predator (Charles Leon Tinsley) did not reside at the residence, but used it for a mail drop," Brown said.

"A deputy from the Taylor County Sheriff's Office actually went to the address the day before we posted the sign, and apparently just by coincidence, the man was at the home and told the deputy that was where he lived. So the next day, we posted the sign in the right-of-way in front of the residence.

"However, now we've found out that he (Tinsley) not only didn't live at the address, but had apparently been living at two other homes since he registered the Campbell Street residence as his permanent home. He was just using

Want good grades? 2013 Valedictorian: Stay awake in class

Taylor County High School (TCHS) Valedictorian James Clover may have taken a more laid back approach to his studies, but by no means was he any less passionate about doing his best.

It is a mindset that can be seen in his advice to those students following him and his fellow 2013 graduates: "Don't panic. Just go into it thinking you can handle anything they can throw at you. Take one step at a time and you should be fine."

He also adds, "Don't fall asleep in class."

Clover is the son of Terri Clover of Perry and David Clover of Houston, Texas. His family moved here from Dixie County when he was in third grade.

Three years later he joined band and it was there where he met friend Eli Walker, who is salutatorian this year.

Outside of school, Clover was a Boy Scout and achieved the rank of Eagle. His eagle project was a clothing drive for items fitting the school district's dress code.

"The goal was to collect 250 items," he said.

The drive ultimately collected 275 with many additional items which did not fit

Dedication, 4.0 GPA goal pays for Class of 2013 salutatorian

Conscientious to a fault, Eli Walker usually has no problem following the "don't-answer-your-phone" policy at work.

But when he saw who the caller was Wednesday—Taylor County High School—he couldn't resist answering. Hopefully, his bosses will give him a break, because the call was from high school guidance officials informing him he was salutatorian for this year's graduating class.

"When I came into high school, I hoped to maintain the 4.0 grade point average I had in middle school. I never intended to be salutatorian--it just came with wanting to keep my grade point average high," Walker said.

But the high grades didn't come without a price.

"I think of all the dinners I had by myself studying, instead of eating with my family, the nights spent staying up until 2 or 3 a.m. studying…it was stressful. But if you look at the long run, you know it will pay off."

Walker's hard work and dedication is paying big returns with a full Presidential

Active hurricane season predicted

The 2013 Atlantic Hurricane Season begins Saturday and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is once again forecasting an active season this year.

For the six-month hurricane season, which runs from June 1 to Nov. 30, NOAA's hurricane season outlook says there is a 70 percent likelihood of 13 to 20 named storms (winds of 39 mph or higher), of which 7 to 11 could become hurricanes (winds of 74 mph or higher), including 3 to 6 major hurricanes (winds of 111 mph or higher).

These ranges are well above the seasonal average of 12 named storms, 6 hurricanes and 3 major hurricanes.

"With the devastation of Sandy fresh in our minds, and another active season predicted, everyone at NOAA is committed to providing life-saving forecasts in the face of these storms and ensuring that Americans are prepared and ready ahead of time." said Kathryn Sullivan, Ph.D., NOAA acting administrator.

"As we saw first-hand with Sandy, it's important to remember that tropical storm and hurricane impacts are not limited to the coastline. Strong winds, torrential rain, flooding and tornadoes often threaten inland areas far from where the storm first makes landfall."

Taylor County Emergency Management Director Dustin Hinkel concurred, pointing to the damage, flood and mosquito outbreaks caused by Tropical Storm Debby last summer.

"That was a very weak storm and it still had an impact on our daily lives," he said. "With a stronger storm, the impact will be even greater."

It has been seven years since the 2005 season which saw multiple landfalls in Florida, and Hinkel warned residents of becoming complacent.

"It only takes one storm," he said.

Local officials will host a mitigation workshop on Saturday, June 15, at 10 a.m at Forest Capital Hall to inform residents about how to prepare their homes to better survive a high-wind event.

"We're also trying to get the word out about re-entry passes for coastal residents and property owners," Hinkel.

Re-entry passes allow those evacuated from the coast the ability to return to their properties after the area is declared safe but before it is opened to the general public.

If you do not have a re-entry pass, call Taylor County Emergency Management at 850-838-3575 for more information.

According to NOAA officials, three climate factors that strongly control Atlantic hurricane activity are expected to come together to produce an active or extremely active 2013 hurricane season. These are:

- A continuation of the atmospheric climate pattern, which includes a strong west African monsoon, that is responsible for the ongoing era of high activity for Atlantic hurricanes that began in 1995;
- Warmer-than-average water temperatures in the tropical Atlantic Ocean and Caribbean Sea; and
- El Niño is not expected to develop and suppress

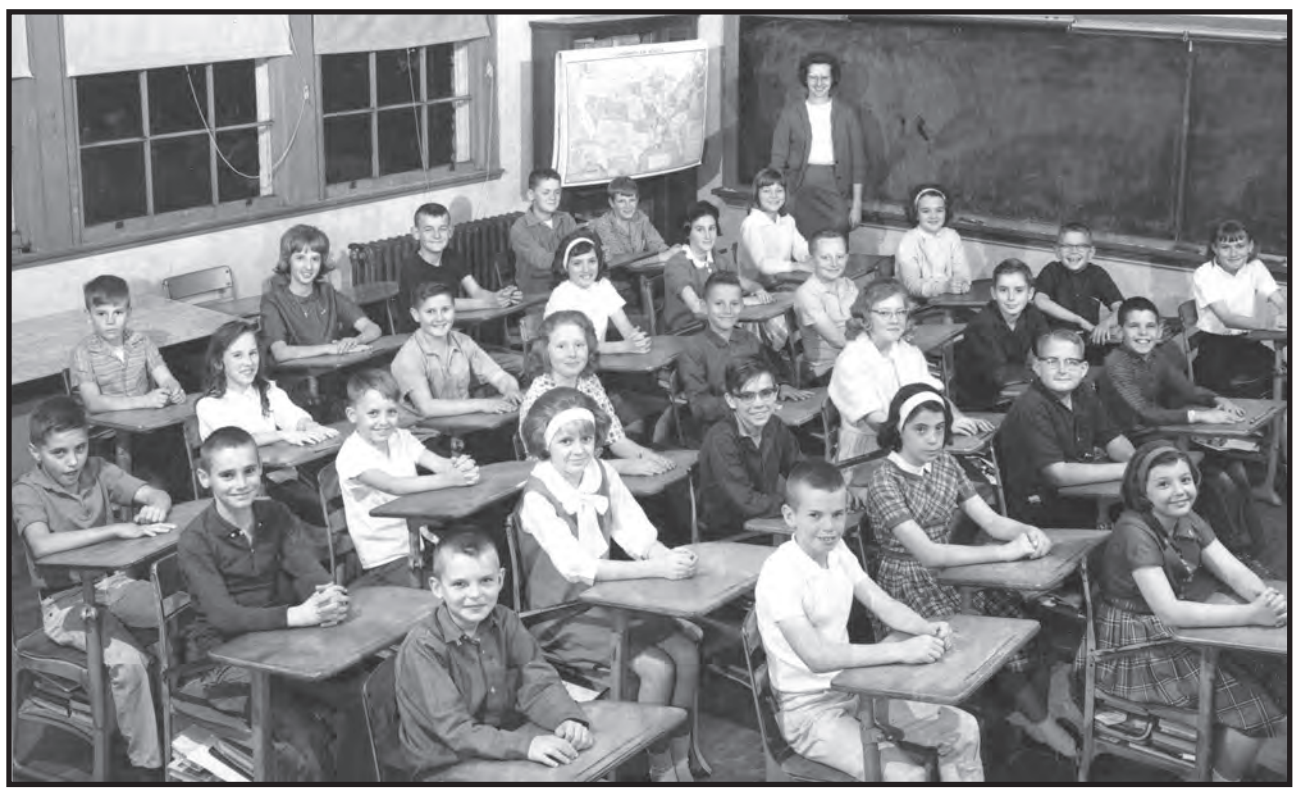
Looking Back



Don't blink

Blink and the elementary students of today will be tomorrow's graduates. As many Taylor County parents prepare to watch their sons and daughters close the chapter on their high school careers, we take a look back at the eager young faces of Mrs. Jane Pettaway's fifth grade class of 1963-64. Perry Elementary School students identified in the photo include: Luther (Butch) Gunter, Butch Young , Cathy Courtney, Barney Johnson, Buddy Johnson, Debbie Howell, Carol Sue Wincey, Jana Holt, Willy Russ, Dean Moseley, Bruce Bolton, Bud Davis, Tom Wiley, Mike Taylor, Connie Brock, Danny Willis and Diane Fletcher.

News from the Taylor County Historical Society

The Taylor County Historical Society honored its out-going president Wanda Cash with the presentation of a plaque at its May 20 meeting in recognition of her 13 years of service. New President Bettie Page, left, and Vice President J.T. Davis invite the community to join them when the group's new year kicks off in August.

Honor your loved ones in the next 'They Were Here' edition

Honor your loved ones by including them in the next installment of the Taylor County Historical Society's "They Were Here" series.

President Bettie Page invites families to submit biographical sketches and photos of their loved ones for inclusion in the book.

"Volunteers are at the historical society every Thursday from 1-5 p.m. and will be happy to help. All photos will be returned," she said.

Copies of previous editions in the series are available at the historical society and at the offices of Perry Newspapers, Inc.

Lydia Andrews, the only surviving grandchild of Robert McFail Hendry and his wife, Martha Ann Carlton Hendry, was guest speaker at the May meeting of the Taylor County Historical Society. "According to the family records, they had 100 grandchildren… and I'm the only one living. My father, Alderman Carlton (Auley) Hendry, was their youngest child. He was 69 when I was born and 85 when I graduated from high school," Andrews related. Her branch of the family was in charge of the 146th annual Hendry Family Reunion held in early May at the church named in honor of Robert Hendry.

Scholarship recipient

Austin Wynn, right, was the recipient of the 2012-13 scholarship awarded by the Taylor County Historical Society. President Wanda Cash recognized Wynn at the society's May 20 meeting. The Taylor County High School senior shared his plans to seek a career in the medical field. He will be attending the University of Florida in the fall.

Remember when...

Life before 24-hour news

By ANTHONY L. WHITE
anthonylamarwhite@yahoo.com

Once upon a time, not so long ago, when the clock struck 1 a.m., the entire world went to sleep. At least it seemed that way in Perry.

There was no 24-hour Walmart to shop and hang out in during the wee hours of the morning.

McDonald's was around, but the golden arches, like most of the businesses in town, locked their doors and called it a night at 11 p.m.

There was no internet to browse until the sun came up.

And there was no television to watch after the 13 channels ended their broadcast day with the same rendition of "The Stars Spangled Banner."

Back in those days, life was nostalgically simpler unless you were an insomniac like I was. Even though I wasn't sleepy, when the clock struck 1 a.m., the only thing I could do was try to force myself to go to bed. You see, back then, the pickings were slim and next to none when it came to finding something to do while the rest of the world slept.

If all you needed was someone to talk to, then you could spend the wee hours of the morning hanging around the 7-11 Store on Jefferson Street. Although the name suggested the store was open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., it was a 24-hour store. This, however, was not an option for me since I was still living under a steadfast curfew of 9 p.m.

If you were hungry, you could either head into the kitchen or you could mosey over to the Howard Johnsons Restaurant on Byron Butler Parkway. Even though my grandmother worked the midnight shift at Howard Johnsons, the only feasible option for my hunger cravings was to warm leftovers in the oven or on the stove.

However, if you were looking for a way to entertain yourself after the television went off, you could lie in bed and listen to the radio or count sheep until the Sandman came.

Things didn't begin to change until June 1, 1980, when the Cable News Network or CNN became the world's first 24-hour news network. For insomniacs like me, CNN was a Godsend. Even though everyone in my house and most of the people in town were fast asleep, the news anchors and reporters at CNN were up with me.

My grandmother usually made me go to bed before she left for work at 11 p.m. She could count on me slipping back up after she left, but she also knew that when the television's broadcast day ended, I would have no choice but to climb back into bed and go to sleep. CNN changed that.

When the phone rang in the middle of the night, I didn't have to wonder who was calling. It was my grandmother.

"Antmar, if you don't go to bed," she would yell into the phone as soon as I picked up the phone. I wouldn't respond, but somehow she knew I was on the other end listening. "Don't make me have to leave my job."

To keep her from coming home, I would answer, "I'm on my way to bed now." But, I really wasn't.

The thing that I find surprising is now that television, Walmart and McDonald's have made the rest of the world insomniacs, I don't have any problems catching a few Z's.

As a matter of fact, I think I'll catch a few now. Zzzzzzzzz.

For failing to register current address?

it as a mail drop, which registered offenders are not supposed to do. Anytime a registered sex offender moves, he or she has 48 hours to register a new address with the sheriff's office (which is charged with keeping track of the 61 registered offenders in the county)," Brown said.

"So his address was physically verified?" Councilwoman Shirlie Hampton asked.

"Yes, just the day before the sign was put up…but evidently he lied," Brown said.

PPD Capt. Jamie Cruse told the council he could not comment further on the case "we are still investigating and there are potential charges that may be made."

Councilman Don Cook said he was not unhappy with the results of the city's first foray into posting signs notifying the public where registered sexual predators live.

"It flushed him out," Cook said.

On Thursday, Brown said that Tinsley had registered his current address (606 Judson Drive) with the sheriff's office Tuesday.

"So we put a sign up in front of the new address in Quail Pointe Wednesday. He had recently married and is living with his wife at that address," Brown said.

"The program did some good. It brought to light a sexual predator who was living in a neighborhood and was not registered. If you did a search of offenders and predators, his address still came up as the Campbell Street residence."

Of the nine registered sexual predators in Taylor County, Tinsley is the only offender living within the city limits.

A search of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement's (FDLE) registry of sexual offenders and predators showed two addresses under Tinsley's registration.

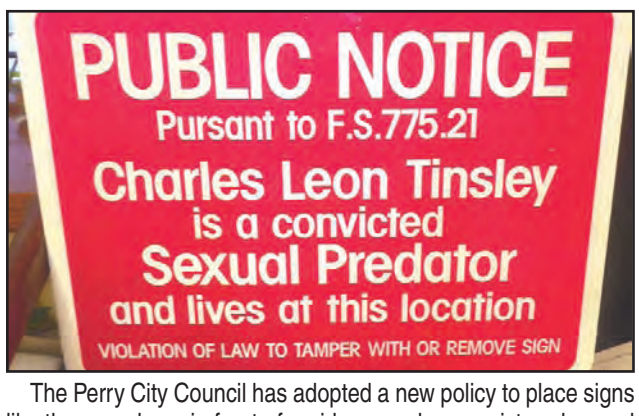
The first registration, dated May 23, 2013, shows 1519 South Campbell Street as a permanent address; the second registration, dated May 28, reflects the 606 Judson Drive address as a temporary address.

Tinsley, 59, was convicted in January 2009 of sexual battery/coercion by threat and sexual battery (injury not likely) in Pinellas County. The victim in the case was not a minor.

The Florida Department of Corrections lists Tinsley as Charles Tensley, with known aliases Jack Bo, Charles L. Tensley, Charles Leon Tensley and Charles Leon Tinsley. The same aliases are on Tinsley's FDLE sexual offender/predator flyer.

He served just over a year in the 2008 case (May 2009 to November 2010). He also has a 1986 conviction for lewd/lascivious indecent assault on a child under 16. Tinsley served seven months in prison for that offense (October 1986 to May 1987).

He completed his latest prison term on July 14, 2011, and had a listed address in Clearwater. He apparently first registered in Taylor County in August 2012.



The Perry City Council has adopted a new policy to place signs like the one above in front of residences where registered sexual predators live (within the city limits).

Graduation speech to focus on true meaning of success, the importance of giving Scholarship to North Florida Community College and a Bright Futures academic scholarship that will propel him toward a bachelor's degree. Walker also received the Fairpoint Communications scholarship.

Although he has not settled on a four-year college, Walker said he plans to major in finance and seek a master's degree in health care administration.

He is already outlining the speech he will deliver during graduation ceremonies Saturday morning at Dorsett Stadium.

"Aside from the thank yous, I am going to talk about the true meaning of success and the importance of giving back," Walker said.

Among those Walker intends to thank are his family (parents Doug and Gena Walker along with older siblings Tyler, Laura and Craig) and teachers Ruth Harvey, Donna Tuttle and Kate Courtney.

"These teachers saw the potential in us before we even showed any," Walker said.

Although academics played a strong role in Walker's four-year high school career, he still made time for extracurricular activities, serving as president of the National Honor Society and treasurer of the Student Council (12th grade).

He was also in the Pride of Taylor Marching Band all four years, leading as drum major his senior year.

Walker participated in the Teen Court program and volunteered last summer with the muscular dystrophy summer camp.

"It was a very rewarding experience and I plan to return as a volunteer this year," he said.

While Walker is capping his senior year with academic successes, it didn't come without challenges.

"There were a lot of times when I was tired and just wanted to stop. At the beginning of the last semester, my grandmother had a stroke. We are a very close family and I missed six days of school during that time. While that doesn't sound like a lot, it was stressful just trying to keep up. But when I reached the point where I would want to give up, my parents and siblings supported me and encouraged me to keep going."

His parting advice to incoming high school freshmen?

"Study hard. You will see that all those hours are worth it."

School ends, fun begins at park

Sports activities begin

The end of the school year signals the start of a lot of fun at the park. The playing will begin around 7 p.m. and go until just before dark. All kids are welcome but please bring your parents or a guardian. Questions: call JoAnn Wilson 850-584-8181 or Claire Hatcher 850-584-8370.

Post Office closes

Post Office box holders were notified on May 24 in a memo from Auley Rowell that the Shady Grove Post Office that has been serving this community since the 1870's would be closed for good as of May 28. On May 25, we received yet another memo from the Postal Service stating the same. Not much time to change our address or make arrangements about our mail. No instructions as to how our mail will be handled, where we may get it, etc, etc. Rumors are flying everywhere but no certain information has been given.

As of this morning, I have been advised by a representative of Rocky's Shady Grove Store that the post office boxes will be placed there, possibly sometime this week. If post office boxes are not readily available for placement, then it could be later as the boxes will have to be ordered. Also I learned that only stamps and pre-paid envelopes will be available at Rocky's.

The closing comes as a great disappointment to the citizens of our community and seems that the meeting held here a few weeks ago was a waste of everyone's time.

We were told the Post Office would remain open for two hours per day. Then out of the blue, it is closed. Feelings here run from disgust to disappointment, bewilderment and just plain anger.

When I visited the Post Office this morning to pick up the last mail I will receive there, people were standing in line. Around 10:45 when I was leaving, a man was already taking down the sign that said Shady Grove Post Office, Shady Grove, FL 32357, though the Post Office did not officially close until 11.

Over the Memorial Holiday week-end the flag at the little Post office has been flown at half mast. It is with much gratefulness and sadness that I reflect on the brave soldiers and their families who have given so much to give us our freedom--but I couldn't help but think the flag at half mast means a little more to us on this Memorial Day.

A loss of our Post office is a little loss of freedom for us here in Shady Grove.

Yard sale items?

Shady Grove Citizens Council is still looking for items for their yard sale on Aug. 3 and for the auction on Sept. 21. If you have anything you might donate, please call me at 850-584-6343 or Claire Hatcher at the number above.

See you next time, Lord willing.

Call SNAP for flowers, plants...now!

If you wish to support the SNAP (Special Needs Adult Program) at Taylor Technical Institute, instructors urge you to call now (838-2545) and enjoy the selections from their greenhouses.

If you've wanted an Ann Magnolia for your yard, or an English dogwood, SNAP students can provide either along with gardenias, azaleas, nandina, sycamore trees and rain lilies.

Pitcher plants are on sale for $1, along with lacebark elm trees, tiger lilies and pilea (house plant).

Prefer vegetable plants? The program has roma tomatoes and bell pepper plants, both three for $1, which is also the price for cedar trees.

"Please call before you come and ask for the SNAP program," urges Connie Gibson who keeps the Green Thumbs on track.

Want a Christmas cactus (in salmon, yellow, coral, orange, pink, pink/white or mixed) or a peace lily?

How about a boxwood, Rose of Sharon, Mother-in-Law plant (snake plant), rain lilies or a podocarpus? "Our prices are reasonable and your support is appreciated," said Gibson.

the dress code and were donated to Goodwill and Refuge House.

Inside the classroom, his favorite subjects have been chemistry and history.

"I like to know how you get from part A to part B," he said. "It's the same with history, figuring out how things work."

It is this love for music and a curiosity about what makes things tick that will lead him to the University of Florida this fall to major in chemical engineering with a minor in music. He is also set to be a member of the UF band playing French horn.

He said he enjoyed the excitement of playing with the band at Bulldog football games.

His school of choice, however, will put him on the other side of the Gator/Seminole rivalry from his sister Lauren, a 2010 TCHS graduate and current student at Florida State University.

He credits his family and friends for "always wanting the best for me" and helping him succeed in his educational pursuits.

He also acknowledged two of his teachers, including Alicia Beshears, his eighth-grade English teacher who is now assistant principal at TCHS, as well as band director Stewart Schlazer.

Now, with high school completed, he is looking forward to the "freedom" provided by the college environment.

"In high school everyone is telling you what to do," he said. "In college, it's up to you."

And it is the myriad of possibilities that he plans to speak about when he addresses his fellow classmates Saturday at the commencement ceremony, although he admits that as of Thursday, his speech was only a rough draft.

"I'm going to focus on the tons of experiences ahead of us. There's still a lot more we can do."

Thanking Kiwanians...

As the school year draws to a close, third grade teachers at Taylor County Elementary School want to thank the Perry Kiwanis Club for their special care, especially during Teacher Appreciation Week. The teachers were served pizza and presented $50 gift cards for classroom expenses. Teachers Kay Dudley, Katie King, Katie Fletcher, Kelli Johnson and Melvelyn Putnal are pictured with Kiwanians Charlton Knowles, Rob Hilley, Bobby Edwards (current president) and Eric Scott (incoming president, who was previously misidentified).

"This year, oceanic and atmospheric conditions in the Atlantic basin are expected to produce more and stronger hurricanes," said Gerry Bell, Ph.D., lead seasonal hurricane forecaster with NOAA's Climate Prediction Center.

"These conditions include weaker wind shear, warmer Atlantic waters and conducive winds patterns coming from Africa."

NOAA's seasonal hurricane outlook is not a hurricane landfall forecast; it does not predict how many storms will hit land or where a storm will strike. Forecasts for individual storms and their impacts will be provided throughout the season by NOAA's National Hurricane Center.

"The start of hurricane season is a reminder that our families, businesses and communities need to be ready for the next big storm," said Joe Nimmich, FEMA associate administrator for response and recovery.

"Preparedness today can make a big difference down the line, so update your family emergency plan and make sure your emergency kit is stocked. Learn more about how you can prepare for hurricane season at www.ready.gov/hurricanes."

TIDBITS: Thanks, and more thanks...

By SARAH HALL

A Sincere Thank You....

When people universally realize that we all are united by the common bond of mortality and by our basic needs... the need to belong, to worship and to love; to be housed, nurtured and fed, and to work and play... perhaps then we will have learned to understand...what it means to love spiritually. Then there will be peace and brotherhood on earth. Our families, friends and communities will come together to share in the joy that God has prepared for us. Without this kind of sharing there will be no peace.

Our sincere thanks to our planning committee, all our volunteers (individually and collectively), our husbands' and wives' teams who set up our tables and stayed with us to help with the clean up. All the people from the Bel Air and Beverly Heights Communities who gave and came out to enjoy. We thank you. Not forgetting our grillers and the donations received from our city and county officials and the Loughridge Park Community Center personnel and all our friends..thanks! We had a good time! We fellowshipped, we had plenty of food and we had fun! Thanks again to all of you. We had a blessed good time! See you again next year!

Summer school begins June 10, not June 3

The 21st Century Community Learning Center Summer School Program is accepting applications for the summer program. Sessions will start June 10 and continue through July 31, beginning daily at 7:30 a.m. and continuing until 3 p.m., Monday-Friday. Parents need to pick up applications now and return them ASAP. Very-important! Program is free!

Foreign mission emphasis

There was a great spirit of camaraderie as we shared a delicious breakfast and information Saturday, May 25, with friends and co-workers. Foreign mission is one of our mandates from Jesus Christ. Go--and take care of the needs of those less fortunate. We work with many churches and agencies to accomplish this task. Three groups were represented at this gathering: Our Father's Storehouse, The Jerkins Clothes Closet and the New Brooklyn Missionary Relief and Resource Ministry. Our special guests were the Rev. Ellis McKenzie of New Creation M.B. Church, West Palm Beach and Missionaries Wayne and Gail Parsons, First Baptist Church, Perry.

After the presentations, Rev. McKenzie and the volunteers of the Jerkins Clothes Closet went to Jerkins to load food, and clothing items which he will take to Haiti on his next trip over there. We thank God for His blessings and all the donations that we have received for this project.

Sis. Lessie Dunnell, is president. The Rev. D. L. McBride is pastor/teacher, and Bro. Walter Bishop-Coordinator.

We also support other mission projects as well.

Thanks for thanks!

I received the nicest message from a reader, Ann Taylor. She wrote, "Thank you, over and over, for your weekly column in the local paper. There is always a "message for me" in your words and I do appreciate the loving way you reach out to everyone, especially those who are ill and others trying to cope with the loss of a loved one. So glad you are on the recovery road. Keep writing, dear lady; we all need your words of encouragement."

Keaton Beach Fishing Report

Holiday weekend had great fishing

BY PAT MCGRIFF
onemorecast@gtcom.net

Trout fishing was outstanding over the Memorial Day weekend for my One More Cast charters as we limited out Saturday for Matt and Natalie Rivers of Perry, Ga.

The couple were the winners of my fishing trip drawing at the Perry, Ga., "Great Outdoors Show" in February.

The Rivers used live pinfish under Back Bay Thunders to land their trout in 4.5-5.5 feet of water. Monday, I had Ben and Debra Golden of Savannah Moon Bakery in Thomasville, Ga., out and they brought in 15 trout, a blacktip shark and a nice redfish also fishing with live pinfish under Back Bay Thunders.

Here are a few reports from Keaton Beach Marina:

On Saturday, Ron and Carolyn Cadle of Live Oak had 6 trout and two BSB using Rage tails under a Cajun Thunder in 3-4 feet of water.

Also on Saturday, George Lisiewecz of Tallahassee caught a 30-pound king mackerel with live bait in 25 feet of water.

Last Friday, Seth Harper of Perry had nine trout, kept five and threw back four over 20 inches using Gulp under a Cajun.

Debra Golden of Thomasville, Ga., shows off a nice 24-inch trout she caught recently while fishing with Pat McGriff of One More Cast Guide Service.

The first camp will be held June 10-14 while the second camp will be June 17-21.

In state and federal waters

Snapper season begins Saturday

The 2013 Gulf of Mexico recreational red snapper season begins June 1 in state and federal waters.

This year's state season is 44 days long and will be open through July 14 with the first day of the closure being July 15. The federal season off Florida will be 26 days long.

The state season was approved by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) at its April 17 meeting in Tallahassee. State waters are from shore to 9 nautical miles in Gulf waters. Federal waters extend beyond that line to 200 nautical miles.

State and federal regulations require all commercial fishers and recreational anglers fishing for any reef fish species in the Gulf of Mexico to use circle hooks, venting tools and dehooking devices. In Gulf state and federal waters, the minimum size limit is 16 inches total length and the bag limit is two fish per person, per day, within a 10-fish snapper aggregate limit.

While the yearly quota for how many pounds of red snapper can be harvested has increased in recent years, the federal season length has gotten shorter over the past few years because of more fishing effort and larger fish, according to federal fishery managers.

The FWC Commission chose to go inconsistent with the 2013 federal season based on reports that the upcoming federal stock assessment would likely show red snapper populations are doing better than previously thought and reports from anglers that the fishery is improving.

More information about red snapper fishing is available online at MyFWC.com/Fishing by clicking on "Saltwater," "Recreational Regulations" and then "Gulf Red Snapper."

Amberjack season closes, slated to re-open in August

The recreational harvest of greater amberjack in Gulf of Mexico state and federal waters closes June 1. Greater amberjack will re-open for harvest in Gulf of Mexico state and federal waters Aug. 1.

State waters in the Atlantic extend from shore to 3 nautical miles and in the Gulf from shore to 9 nautical miles. Seasonal harvest closures protect Florida's valuable greater amberjack populations and help sustain and improve the fishery for the future, FWC officials said.

Learn more about recreational fishing at MyFWC.com/Fishing by clicking on "Saltwater" and "Recreational Regulations."

Soccer camps to teach offense, defense

Taylor County 4-H will sponsor two soccer camps this summer at the Taylor County Sports Complex.

During the camps youngsters will learn individual skills, both defensive and offensive, to be used in one-on-one situations or in space. A variety of strikes on the ball will be taught for passing, shooting, trapping and heading.

Also, the principles of being a part of a team and defense and offense as well as rules of the game will be taught.

Taylor County High Soccer Coach Rodney King will conduct the camps, scheduled on June 10-14 for 7-9 year-olds and July 22-25 for 10-13-year-olds.

The camps will run daily (Monday-Thursday) from 9 a.m. until 12 noon, ending with a Parents Night at 6 p.m. on Thursday.

The cost is $45 per participant with a limit of 25 for each camp.

To sign up for these camps, contact the 4-H Extension office at 850-838-3508, or email abbeytharpe@ufl.edu or megharley@ufl.edu, for more information.

Entertainment

By MARK VIOLA

‘Fast & Furious’ may be six, but it hasn’t lost any speed

With so many sequels and remakes out there these days, it’s nice to find a series that tosses out a new installment every couple of years, and still finds a way to make both enjoyable and decent movies (even if it might have had a few false starts).

“The Fast and the Furious” franchise has always promised fast cars, fast action and--most importantly--fast and furious fun.

The original film helped launch action star Vin Diesel’s career in 2009, and even though he didn’t return for “2 Fast 2 Furious,” his partner Paul Walker kept the franchise in the fast lane.

Although it was entertaining, that film and its followup “Tokyo Drift,” which moved the action halfway around the world with a new main cast, were merely excuses to have people race cars and look pretty. (I have to admit, “Tokyo Drift” is the only film in the series I haven’t seen.)

That changed with 2009’s “Fast & Furious,” which got the old gang back together and served as a jumping off point to tell longer, more connected stories. Unfortunately that film was probably also the worst of the series, with weak internal plotting and the fact that director Justin Lin used special effects to create most of the chase scenes.

And then we got “Fast Five,” which was the best film in the series since the original, building off the story elements of the fourth film, adding Dwayne Johnson as an law enforcement agent on our heroes’ trail and producing one of the best chase scenes of the past decade. With Lin back in the director’s chair, the series found new life by transforming itself into the “Ocean’s 11” of car movies with the return of nearly every major character from the previous four films.

If there has been a theme laced through the entire series, it’s one of family. They may be a family of criminals, but they are still a family. And it’s been no more central to the story than in “Fast & Furious 6,” which builds off the final scene of “Fast Five,” which showed that Letty (Michelle Rodriguez), thought killed in the fourth film, was actually alive.

The action and the stakes have never been higher, and even though the biggest casualty may be the laws of physics, the series continues the fun and adventure of the previous film. It is one of those instances where all of the previous installments, whether good, bad or simply mediocre, have given us the chance to know and care for the various characters, so now that the series has truly found its stride, it’s almost like welcoming back old friends for a few hours to catch up with what’s new and maybe crash a car or 30.

The story begins with Agent Hobbs (Johnson) gathering Dom (Diesel), Brian (Walker) and the rest of the gang to help him track down a highly dangerous car ring which has elevated its game by stealing the components of a high-tech bomb which, in the wrong hands, could destroy a country’s ability to protect itself.

That team is led by a man named Shaw (Luke Evans, “Immortals”) and one of his lieutenants is Letty. For family and the promise of pardons, the gang agrees to help Hobbs bring down the bad guys, but they soon realize they are in a game with entirely different rules, one which they may not be ready to play.

With all but two of the main gang back from “Fast Five,” the cast chemistry is solid with Jordana Brewster as Mia, Tyrese Gibson as Roman, Sung Kang as Han, Gal Gadot as Gisele and Ludacris as Tej.

Near the end of the film, after we’d seen a chase sequence with a tank and during another one with a military cargo plane, I had an amusing thought about the fact that in the first film, the tension was raised when one of the truckers being robbed by Dom and his crew had a shotgun.

There are moments in this latest film where I had to just laugh off the sheer impossibility of certain events, such as somebody jumping from moving car to catch somebody flying at the same speed in the opposite direction. Of course they survive because they land on a car windshield rather than the roadway (Pro Tip: That’s just one of the “Fast & Furious” rules.)

Still, while the action is often over the top and sometimes even insane, it still manages to be fun and if you can turn your brain off for the generous two hour, 10 minute runtime, you should find more than enough to keep you entertained.

Lin has turned into a solid action director and has corrected his mistakes in the fourth film to create a connected trilogy which more or less concludes here. That’s not to say the series is over, as with the previous film, “Fast & Furious 6” ends with a final scene that sets the stage for the next installment, one that is already in pre-production.

The film is rated PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and action and mayhem throughout, some sexuality and language.

Swamp Kings

Robert Top Thomas & The Swamp Kings will perform tonight (Friday) at the Bradfordville Blues Club in Tallahassee. Thomas’s sound is a “gumbo of Louisiana swamp and Delta roots, influenced by many of his heroes including Lightnin’ Slim, Muddy Waters, Jimmy Reed and Lazy Lester.” Tickets for tonight’s performance are $15 and can be purchased online at www.bradfordvillebluesclub.com. To find the club, take Thomasville Road north from I-10 approximately 4.5 miles to Bradfordville Road. Turn right and drive three miles to Sam’s Lane. Look for the Bradfordville Blues Club sign.

Tallahassee offers free jazz concert Saturday

The Downtown Tallahassee Business Association (DTBA) and the Tallahassee Downtown Improvement Authority (TDIA) will host its third jazz concert in its 2013 “Saturday in the Park” concert series on Saturday, June 1, from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in Ponce de Leon Park, Tallahassee.

Headlining this month’s event will be the Lindsey Sarjeant Group. The “Saturday in the Park” concert series is free and open to the public.

Sarjeant is a Florida A&M University (FAMU) professor of music, director of the Jazz Studies program, as well as director of Jazz Ensemble and music arranger for the Marching “100” Band, Symphonic Band and Jazz Ensemble.

Sarjeant is a jazz pianist, composer, jazz lecturer and historian, adjudicator and jazz keyboard clinician. His tours include Europe with FAMU Jazz Ensemble in Paris, Monteux, Amsterdam and Brienz, as well as touring with Pam Laws in the Soviet Union.

Sarjeant is known for his work with the world-renowned McDonald’s All-American High School Jazz Band and the famous sound of the Marching “100.”

‘Epic’ is a fun, action-filled animated adventure film

Movie names are important. They give the audience a clue about what the movie is about, or at least its themes. Often, they are also a promise. Take “The Fast and the Furious” for instance. The movie with that title should really have some speedy cars or people, or barring that, at least an annoyed cheetah.

Sometimes titles can make it too easy for critics (like me) to tear down the resulting movie, which is why you’re not going to see many films called “Lemon” or “Stinker.”

Conversely, titles can also promise too much, which is why I was concerned about the animated film “Epic,” from Blue Sky Animation, the studio which gave us the “Ice Age” series and “Rio,” both enjoyable but neither movies I would call epic.

“Epic” is a noticeable departure from those efforts, and while it may not entirely live up to its name, the film is a solid animated adventure with a well-rounded voice cast and an intriguing story to tell.

There is quite a bit more action to be found here than in many animated films, brought to life with some of the best animation yet from Blue Sky.

The story follows M.K. (voiced by Amanda Seyfried, “Les Misérables”), a young woman who returns to her father’s isolated home after the death of her mother. Her father is a bit crazy, spending his life trying to discover a group of tiny people living in the forest who he says protect it from the forces of rot and decay.

M.K. thinks her father is insane, at least until she is transported to that world through the magic of Queen Tara (Beyonce Knowles), who protects the forest from the evil Mandrake (Christoph Waltz, “Django Unchained”).

Now only about two inches tall, M.K. must join forces a young leaf soldier, Nod (Josh Hutcherson, “The Hunger Games”) and his commander Ronin (Colin Farrell, “Total Recall”) to protect a magic seed pod which holds the future of the entire forest.

As I mentioned before, the action is more intense than you might expect, but not overly so. It does, however, add a level of seriousness to the overall story which helps strengthen the film as a whole. Of course, there is still quite of a bit of comic relief provided by the slug/snail duo of Mub (Aziz Ansari, “Parks and Recreation”) and an uptight snail named Grub (Chris O’Dowd, “Monsters vs. Aliens”). For my personal taste, the slapstick style of humor they provided was more of a distraction than a benefit, but the kids in the audience I sat with seemed to enjoy it quite a bit.

I also enjoyed that the story was essentially one about nature versus nature, rather than humanity once again being the dark force threatening all that is otherwise good in the world. If nothing else, it was a nice change of pace.

“Epic” may not be epic, but is a solid summer treat for families looking for something to watch and spend a few hours together.

The film is rated PG for mild action, some scary images and brief rude language.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Theatre

May 16 – June 2

Tallahassee Little Theatre presents “The Miracle Worker,” based on the early life of Helen Keller and her teacher, Annie Sullivan. After a childhood illness left Helen deaf and blind, it nearly took a miracle to teach her to communicate with the rest of the world. For more information about tickets and showtimes, visit tallahasseelittletheatre.org or call 850-224-8474.

May 29 – June 23

The Hippodrome’s 40th anniversary season concludes with the internationally beloved Broadway sensation “Avenue Q,” a coming-of-age musical where characters lament that as children, they were assured by their parents, and by certain fuzzy puppets on public television, that they were “special” and “could do anything”; but as adults, they have discovered to their surprise and dismay that in the real world their options are limited, and they are no more “special” than anyone else. The musical contains adult language and situations. Ticket prices vary depending on showtime and seat location. For more information about the production, visit thehipp.org or call 352-375-4477.

June 21 – July 7

Young Actors Theatre presents “Legally Blonde: The Musical,” based on the hit movie featuring Harvard’s beloved blonde as she takes the stage by pink storm. Elle Woods’s life is turned upside-down when her boyfriend dumps her so he can start getting serious about his life and attend Harvard Law. Determined to get him back, Elle uses her charm to get into Harvard Law. Showtimes are June 21-22 and 27-30, July 2 and 5-6 at 7:30 p.m., with 2 p.m. matinees on June 23 and 30 and July 7. Tickets are $14 for children (12 and under), $16 for students and seniors and $18 for adults. Tickets can be reserved online www.youngactorstheatre.com. For more information, call 850-386-6602. this weekend at the movies

After a record-breaking Memorial Day weekend, Hollywood is hoping to continue its summer hot streak into the final weekend of May.

Opening today is “After Earth,” the second post-apocalyptic sci-fi look at Earth to arrive in the past two months, this time with Will Smith (“Men in Black”) re-teaming with son Jaden (“The Karate Kid”) as a father-son duo stranded on the inhospitable planet 1,000 years after humanity fled. Kitai Raige (Jaden) must travel through a natural environment--which the trailers tell us has evolved to kill humans--if he and his father want to signal for rescue. It goes to show just how far director M. Night Shyamalan’s stock has fallen of late that his name has not appeared anywhere in the marketing at all.

The movie is rated PG-13 for sci-fi action violence and some disturbing images.

“Now You See Me” follows a group of magicians who manage to rob banks during their performances, leading to a joint FBI/Interpol investigation to figure just how they are pulling it all off. The ensemble cast is full of A-listers including Morgan Freeman, Michael Caine, Jesse Eisenberg, Woody Harrelson, Mark Ruffalo and Isla Fisher. Director Louis Leterrier cut his teeth working with acting movie godfather Luc Besson on “The Transporter” and its sequel, and spread his wings with the surprisingly solid “The Incredible Hulk.” The trailers give the impression of a mixture of the ensemble thievery of “Ocean’s 11” and the coy slight of hand of Christopher Nolan’s “The Prestige,” and if this one is half as good as those movies, “Now You See Me” could be a surprise hit.

The film is rated PG-13 for language, some action and sexual content.

Horoscopes

for the fourth week of May

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Don't make assumptions this week, Aries. You just can't trust your gut instincts too much right now. It's better to get all of the facts and act accordingly.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Playing matchmaker isn't so easy, Taurus. You have to understand when people are compatible and when there just isn't a spark. Let this one go.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, you may have to pull back your focus on a problem in order to see it in a new light. Take some time away to regroup and then you can come back at full strength.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
A romantic relationship can be a balancing act, Cancer. You will learn this first hand this week when you have to come to a compromise with your partner.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
Leo, don't apologize if you feel like you have to go your own way this week. Even when everyone seems to be going in another direction, sometimes you just have to set your own course.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, while others may not be able to handle the confusion this week, you are fully capable of multi-tasking and making it through unscathed.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, you may feel more emotionally charged this week but you still have to think with your head and not your heart. A financial decision may need to reassessed.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, look at a situation with a practical eye. Is this really the best answer for the time being? Although you may be leaning one way, you might want to reconsider.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, you need to get work done this week and that can't happen when you are continually distracted. You might have to nip this one in the bud -- quickly.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
A friend needs your support more than ever, Capricorn. Go to great lengths to give this person what they need, even if it means rearranging your schedule.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
An email or other correspondence from a past friend could stir up feelings you weren't ready to deal with right now, Aquarius. Put this on the back burner until you are ready.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, you are more interested in independence this week than hanging out in large groups. This includes hanging out with your spouse or partner.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

120 seniors begin new chapter Saturday at TCHS graduation

One chapter will close and another will open for 120 Taylor County High School (TCHS) seniors Saturday, June 1, during commencement exercises at Dorsett Stadium beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The candidates for graduation will enter the stadium to "Pomp and Circumstance" performed by the Taylor County High School Band, under the direction of Stewart Schlazer.

The JROTC Color Guard will raise the American flag while the band presents the national anthem. The pledge of allegiance for students and guests will be led by Ashley Giacomucci, senior class vice president.

New principal Audie Ash will deliver his first graduation welcoming address at TCHS and introduce special guests at the ceremony.

Salutatorian Justin Eli Walker and Valedictorian James Clover will then deliver speeches to their fellow graduates.

Jharquise Simmons, senior class president, will present a farewell address, followed by the "Alma Mater" led by Senior Class Secretary Je'Da Holmes and Senior Class Treasurer Justin Eli Walker.

North Florida Community College President John Grosskopf will then award associate of arts degrees.

Graduating seniors will be awarded their diplomas by Superintendent of Schools Paul Dyal, Ash and former TCHS Princpal Michael Thompson who was promoted to director of support services earlier this year. Distinction will be given to students graduating with honors (cum laude), high honors (magna cum laude) or highest honors (summa cum laude).

Once the students have diplomas in hand, Thompson will lead the Class of 2013 in the changing of tassels, completing their high school careers and sending them on to their future pursuits.

The band will conclude the ceremony with a musical recessional.

Davis' diploma will be given to her father Sat.

The Taylor County High School Class of 2013 lost one of its own in March when senior Jakourtney Davis died as the result of an automobile crash.

At Saturday's graduation ceremony, her father, Ben Davis, will receive her high school diploma in her place.

Graduation...
An End.
A Beginning.

As we are busy congratulating our graduates on their achievements, let us also take time to challenge them as well.

While high school graduation marks a milestone in the life of the young people, it also brings a new area of freedom--and responsibility--for the future.

Challenge our graduates to move the world back toward "old" values of honesty, integrity, loyalty, patriotism, love, respect and togetherness.

Challenge them to make the world a better place.

Let them know they can make a difference.

"Since time immemorial, the number thirteen has been viewed as incredibly unlucky, but no longer. For thirteen years, this incredible group of individuals has slaved toward their future and June 1 marks the next milestone on that path.

"On that fateful day, all of their work will be realized, the culmination of everything they worked toward since that first day of kindergarten. Some will laugh, some may cry, but all of them will be given the opportunity to walk across the stage, head held high, as beaming faculty hand them the paper representation of the bright and glorious future that stands ready to meet them with open arms.

"On that day they will realize that they have achieved greatness and from then on, everything will fall into place."

Did you know?

The term "high school" means different things in different places. In the United States, high school generally refers to grades 9 to 12.

In Canada, each province and territory has its own educational system, so secondary schools vary with regards to grade levels. In other areas of the world, high school may encompass the equivalent of grades 6 through 12 in the United States.

The phrase "high school" owes its origins to Scotland, where the world's oldest secondary school, Edinburgh's Royal High School, was established in 1505.

It is believed this school served as a model for the first public high school in the United States, the English High School, which was founded in Boston in 1821. Today, there are many high schools across the world.

In terms of enrollment, high schools in the New York City area boast the highest enrollment. Brooklyn Technical High School in Brooklyn, NY, with a 2011 enrollment of 8,076 students, is the largest high school in America, followed by Fort Hamilton High School, also located in Brooklyn, with 7,805 students. Tottenville High School in Staten Island, NY, boasts the third-largest student body with 7,770.

Quotable Quotes

The following quotes were taken from famous commencement speeches given over the past several years:

"Because you are establishing your identities and your beliefs, you need to argue yourself down, because somebody else will. Somebody's going to come at you, and whatever your belief, your idea, your ambition, somebody's going to question it. And unless you have first, you won't be able to answer back, you won't be able to hold your ground. You don't believe me, try taking a stand on just one leg. You need to see both sides."

--Joss Whedon

"That's what art does, that's what it's for--to show you that what you think can be erased, cancelled, turned on its head by something you weren't prepared for--by a work, by a play, a song, a scene in a movie, a painting, a collage, a cartoon, an advertisement--something that has the power that reaches you far more strongly than it reaches the person standing next to you, or even anyone else on Earth--art that produces a revelation that you might not be able to explain or pass on to anyone else, a revolution that you desperately try to share in your own words, in your own work."

--Greil Marcus

"If you imagine less, less will be what you undoubtedly deserve. Do what you love, and don't stop until you get what you love. Work as hard as you can, imagine immensities, don't compromise, and don't waste time. Start now. Not 20 years from now, not two weeks from now. Now."

--Debbie Millman

"When you leave here today and commence the next stage of your life, you can follow someone else's script, try to make choices that will make other people happy, avoid discomfort, do what is expected, and copy the status quo. Or you can look at all that you have accomplished today and use it as fuel to venture forth and write your own story. If you do, amazing things will take shape.

"You and you alone are the only person who can live the life that writes the story that you were meant to tell. And the world needs your story because the world needs your voice. Every single one of you. As your story unfolds, you will inspire others to find their stories, and so on, and so on. And those are the stories… that I can't wait to watch."

--Kerry Washington

"So be wise, because the world needs more wisdom, and if you cannot be wise, pretend to be someone who is wise, and then just behave like they would.

"And now go, and make interesting mistakes, make amazing mistakes, make glorious and fantastic mistakes. Break rules. Leave the world more interesting for your being here."

--Neil Gaiman
