County to salute its veterans Monday

For 27 years, Taylor County High School JROTC has taken the lead in honoring veterans with a Veterans Day ceremony.

And each year the band plays a medley of service songs and veterans rise and are recognized when their branch of service is called: Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force, Coast Guard.

As the years pass, the faces of the men and women rising from their seats and proudly saluting have changed. Some bear a few more wrinkles while others—newly minted returning veterans—could almost pass for high school students themselves.

Former code enforcement board rep cited for violations

Former City of Perry Code Enforcement Board member Tonya Holton has been cited for having horses on her property within the city limits, in violation of current zoning and land use regulations.

Holton, who remains on the city's Planning and Zone Board as well as its Board of Adjustment, has a hearing date of Monday, Dec. 2, before the city's newly appointed Code Enforcement Magistrate. (The violation was issued to both Holton and her husband, Stacy, as the property owners.)

The complaint regarding the horses was filed by former city attorney Mike Smith, according to sources close to the situation.

The complaint was received by the city's Code Enforcement department in late October and Holton was issued a violation notice on Oct. 31.

"The city's code enforcement officer does not patrol the city looking for violations. When a complaint is received, the officer goes to investigate to see if a violation exists and that is what may or may not lead to a violation notice," City Manager Bob Brown said of the process.

"Someone filed a formal complaint, it was investigated and a violation was found—that there were horses on property that is zoned residential, single-family."

Holton was cited for the

Burglar nabbed at scene of break-in

A would-be burglar was caught red-handed and still on the scene of a break-in at the Star Food Mart Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Perry Police Department officers were dispatched to the convenience store at 2:30 a.m. in response to an alarm. Once there they found Mark Ensley, 18, inside the store.

He was taken into custody without incident. When questioned about the break-in, he told officers he was looking for synthetic cannabis because he had purchased the product in the store previously.

"Officers searched the store and found no evidence of synthetic cannabis—spice—in the store," PPD Capt. Jamie Cruse said.

Ensley was charged with burglary and criminal mischief.

Responding officers included Sgt. Gina Deeson, Ptl. Jamin Cephus and Ptl. Kyle Johnson.

Ensley posted a $17,000 bond and was released after being booked at the Taylor County Jail.

Obamacare: What it means for Taylor County residents

By MARK VIOLA
Staff writer

It's been six weeks since the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), most commonly referred to as Obamacare, federal health insurance exchange went online, and its enrollment website continues to experience significant problems, forcing most of those looking to purchase policies to apply by phone or mail.

Although officials say they will have the website—www.healthcare.gov—working properly by the end of the month, reports are spreading of insurance companies canceling millions of existing policies across the country which do not meet the law's new requirements along with "sticker shock" as people begin browsing the new exchange.

• Policies for Single Individuals range from $178 to $319 per month

• Family policies range from $603 to $1,079 per month

*According to healthcare.gov estimates

• What does this mean for Taylor County?

Florida is one of 27 states which opted not to form its own health insurance exchange and is therefore covered by the federally-facilitated exchange, which is accessed through www.healthcare.gov. Due to website issues, however, it is recommended people call 1-800-318-2596 to register, or visit online and download a paper application form to mail.

• What if I already have insurance?

Those who already have individual insurance policies not purchased through a group or provided by an employer should be notified soon by their providers whether or not their existing policies are considered grandfathered in (and will continue) or will be discontinued.

FloridaBlue, for example, recently announced it was not renewing 300,000 individual policies in the state, accounting for 80 percent of such policies, because they do not meet the requirements of the new law. Those policy holders will need to find new plans through the exchange. One such letter provided to the Perry News-Herald states, "You can keep your current benefits until Summer 2014, at which time you'll be contacted to select a new plan. Your plan will be in effect as long as you continue to pay your premium on time."

• What if I do not have insurance?

PPACA requires businesses with more than 50 employees to offer health insurance to full-time employees, defined in the law as those who work more than 30 hours per week. This employer mandate was originally set to begin in 2014, but the U.S. Department of Treasury

Families, community:

Welcome home, soldiers

Editor's Note: The following is a newspaper account following the Korean War on the welcome two POWs received when they arrived home in Perry. On Monday, the community will once again have the opportunity to show its appreciation for its veterans during a number of special Veterans Day activities. The first is a ceremony at Taylor County High School, followed by a flag-raising ceremony at Veterans Memorial Park and a luncheon at Forest Capital Park.

Taylor County's two prisoners of war—Cpl. Edward Sheffield and Sgt. William A. Crews—arrived in Perry last Saturday amid great confusion on the part of the welcoming party but to the great joy of the families and a host of friends who had turned out to greet them at the local bus station.

Scheduled to arrive by bus at 9:30 a.m., then at 10:20 and finally at 2:25 p.m., the soldiers arrived by private automobile furnished by Tobie Walker, a member of the welcoming party. His quick trip to Tallahassee and return got the boys to the local bus station a good half hour before they were expected and caught some of the welcoming party away. Finally, however, after Roland Fisher was located and summoned from a late lunch to take some pictures, the boys were briefed on the county-wide celebration to be held in their honor and released to their families for those long-awaited private reunions.

The county-wide celebration originally planned for the day following the arrival of Cpl. Sheffield and Sgt. Crews, has been re-scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 1, in order for another returning former prisoner of war—M. Sgt. Gaines C. Roberts—to be honored along with the local boys.

M. Sgt. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Roberts, is returning to a new home here in Perry since his parents lived in Columbia, Ga., when he entered the service. He landed in San Francisco last Saturday and is expected in Perry late this week.

Dr. Broward Culpepper of Florida State University, a native of Taylor County, has agreed to deliver the address of welcome at the time of the county-wide celebration. Other features include a parade, a presentation of appropriate gifts and a fish and swamp cabbage dinner. The Taylor County High School Band will participate.

G.D. Hendricks, commander of the local American Legion Post, is general chairman of the celebration activities. The hours remain as originally scheduled—from 10 a.m. when the parade forms until 1 p.m. when the dinner is scheduled to be over.

Remember when...

Dinner: it keeps a family together

By ANTHONY L. WHITE
anthonylamarwhite@yahoo.com

Dinner was the glue that kept my family together.

I'm not talking about the act of dining together because, except for holiday dinners, the grown-ups and kids rarely ate dinner at the same table or at the same time. The glue that held us together were the actual home-cooked meals.

I grew up in a close-knit family. In fact, for the most part, we're all still very close. My grandmother, who was the Julia Child of soul food, had a lot to do with my family's closeness. Her meals could draw us home from places near and far. So it wasn't just our hearts that grew fonder when we were away from home. A few weeks without one of her good ole home-cooked meals was proof that absence can make the stomach grow fonder too.

This was never more apparent than the weeks preceding Thanksgiving.

Home-cooked meals kept my family together throughout the year, but every year around this time, my family would start falling apart. My grandmother saved her best cooking for the holiday season, and to make sure we appreciated her best cooking, she didn't cook--at least not her regular meals--during the weeks leading up to Thanksgiving. This included Sundays when she normally cooked enough to feed a small army for at least a week.

Before November arrived, our usual meals included two entrees--like meatloaf and fried chicken--as well as rice (served every meal), macaroni and cheese (served every other meal), two vegetables, cornbread or biscuits, and a dessert. And we could always go back for seconds, sometimes thirds. However, after my grandmother declared that Thanksgiving was right around the corner, most days you could freeze water on the stove.

Our Friday dinner--hamburgers and fries or hot dogs and baked beans--became our Sunday dinner, and our weekday dinner became bologna sandwiches and potato chips. For a family held together by good eating, this period of grandmother-imposed fasting was devastating.

We walked around not speaking to each other unless it was to blame someone--anyone other than my grandmother--for the lack of nourishing, life-sustaining food in the house. We began to fight over crumbs.

Even though one of my grandmother's pet peeves was "begging children," by the second week of November, we were willing to risk our grandmother finding out we begged a neighbor to let us eat dinner at their house. Being strung up by our toes was not a bad enough deterrent for the walking hungry.

During this time, we were constantly bombarded by the sight of frozen turkeys, picnic hams, beef roasts, freshly picked collard greens, acre and field peas, candied fruit for fruitcakes, cheese, bananas, vanilla wafers and a smorgasbord of other food that still looked appetizing uncooked.

When we were older, we began trying to bribe our grandmother into cooking a meal before Thanksgiving.

"Momma, I'll shell those peas and sell some pecans to buy you some more if you want to go ahead and cook them," I tried to persuade her.

"No," she answered as if she had actually contemplated my suggestion. "If you eat them now, you won't want any come Thanksgiving."

"Yes, I will," I guaranteed her.

"Well, they won't taste as good come Thanksgiving if I cook them now."

"Yes, they will." I reassured her. "If you cook them, they can't help but be good."

She wasn't persuaded.

By the time Thanksgiving rolled around, we were so starved that the foil covering the food tasted good. We knew how much we had to be thankful for. As we devoured the meal my grandmother had enticed us with for nearly a month, we were thankful to be eating real food again. We were thankful the best cook in the world hadn't lost her touch. And we were thankful to be a family again.

Pop tops galore

Tiffany Ragans, representing Ace Hardware, contributed several gallon bags of pop tops to Taylor County Farm Bureau which will recycle the aluminum to benefit the Ronald McDonald House in Tallahassee. Two and a half five-gallon buckets have already been collected. More are needed; the deadline is in February.

Shady Grove float wins 'Grand Marshal' prize, paying tribute to Florida's history

By FLORRIE BURROUGHS

Shady Grove's float in the King Tree Parade of the Florida Forest Festival won the Grand Marshal Prize for keeping with the festival theme, Florida History–500 Years.

The theme of our float was "Fort Pleasant, 1838 – 1845" and depicted one of the many forts that was established during the Second Seminole War. Fort Pleasant was located in Shady Grove, though the actual spot has been debated . . . some say west of Highway 221, some say east. It was located on the Econfina River which runs through Shady Grove.

There were a lot of hands working on the float . . . Valisha Chitwood, Cindy Taylor, Jean McMullen, Claire Hatcher, Jerrod Otero, Scotty Freeman, Patty Otero, Dea Perkins, Barbara Omans and Mireya Otero. Jesse Johnson, Butch Taylor and Red McMullen took care of the construction. A big "thank you" to all who worked so hard and to Glenn Dice for pulling the float in the Parade.

Christmas is coming…

This year's Christmas activities will include the parade, craft booths, bounce house, games, music and Santa Claus. There will also be a chili contest and silent auction. We need volunteers to bring chili and cakes. If you have any questions, please call, as follows: parade entries, Florrie Burroughs, 584-6343 or 838-6692; craft booths, Claire Hatcher, 584-8370 or (850) 253-5120; chili, JoAnn Wilson, 584-8181; cakes, Claire Hatcher or Florrie Burroughs. For other questions, call any of the above.

Riding on the float were our beautiful young ladies: Kealie Johnson, Mireya Otero, Tyler Copen and Haley Chitwood.

The following is a recipe from my sister-in-law, Melodie Rupp, who lives in Pensacola. She and husband, Bob, were here for the Forest Festival. Family gathered for the afternoon at Genaro and Sabrina Parga's home and Melodie made these treats for us. They were delicious!!

Almond Bark Cookies

1 ½ lb. almond bark (white)
1 c. peanut butter (crunchy)
1 t. vanilla extract
4 c. Rice Krispies cereal
2 c. salted cocktail peanuts
2 c. miniature marshmallows

In a very large bowl, melt almond bark and crunchy peanut butter in microwave for approximately 6 minutes, stirring well after 3 minutes. When melted, add vanilla and all other ingredients.

Drop by tablespoons on wax paper. Let cool until hardened.

This is a super recipe that requires no baking. These cookies freeze well and make a large amount.

If frozen just take cookies out just about 15 minutes prior to serving. See you back here in two weeks, Lord willing!

TIDBITS: Graduates recognized on Sunday

By SARAH HALL

Beware!

A closed mind is a dangerous thing. We learn when we listen. So if you close your mind, you retard your learning (your growth). If you’re going to be wise, you must listen to the counsel of others. Accept discipline. Learn to govern your thoughts and be in control of you words. “He that walketh with wise men shall be wise: but a companion of fools shall be destroyed.” (Proverbs 13:20) Learn to not say everything you think. “He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life; but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction.” (Proverbs 13:3) A wise man knows that evil words can hurt. Be a mender of broken hearts, not a destroyer. It’s up to you!

Pomp and circumstance

The familiar sound of “Pomp and Circumstance” played as the graduates entered the room. Taylor County’s Fifth Sunday Union Christian Leadership School (CLS) commencement program was held Nov. 2 in the New Brooklyn Church fellowship hall. The program speaker was Dr. Robert Butler/president of P.A.M.P., president of the District Congress of Christian Education, and present pastor of Little John, M.B. Church. After the program, delicious refreshments were served. Certificates we presented by Rev. Butler, Dean Juanita Scott and Associate Dean Vera Newberry. The graduates are: Bro. Walter Bishop, Bro. Charles Brooks, Sister Jo-Ann Brooks, Bro. Donald James, Deacon James Lockett, Deacon Floyd Mango, Min. Joe A. Rowe, Bro. Enoch S. Smith Sr., Min. Sarah A. Terrell. The Rev. Izell Montgomery Jr. is president of Taylor County Union.

Special Prayers

The Rev. Roosevelt Knight (pastor of New Bethel), Ron King, Nobie Roberts, Idell Bass, Donna Washington, all at home.

Special Prayers of condolences to James Lockett’s family in the loss of their loved one.

A positive thought:

“The way of a fool is right in his own eyes; but he that hearkeneth unto counsel is wise.” (Proverbs 12:15).

Keaton Beach Fishing Report

New moon blows water 'out of sight'

BY PAT MCGRIFF
onemorecast@gtcom.net

Trout fishing was grand before this blow and I haven't had any reports since, except to say that the water was blown "out of sight" during these negative new moon tides this week.

Good news is the floating grass problem should be all cleared up by now what with the 15-25 knot east and Northeast W-I-N-D s of late.

Last week, we had limits of trout with several over 20 inches caught each day. Live pinfish under Back Bay Thunders took a bunch of trout on my boat while the largest fish of the day, Friday, was a 24.5-inch trout taken on an Assassin 5-inch Shad (in the "Croaker Shad" pattern) under a Cajun.

Saturday I took Logan and Angela Walker of Americus, Ga., out and we had a limit of trout for them with two over 20 inches on live pinfish under Back Bays. We fished in 3 to 4.5 feet of water for most of our fish, yet finished the day with the three largest trout in less than 2 feet of water.

Here are a couple of recent reports from Keaton Beach Marina, now named, Sea Hag Marina at Keaton Beach.

Robert and Tracey and John Setters of Tifton, Ga. had their limit of trout to 18 inches with 5 sand trout and 5 Spanish mackerel while using Gulp and a cork in 5 feet of water.

Ron and Carolyn Cade of Live Oak on board the "5 C's" had their granddaughter, Isabella, along and they landed their limit of trout to 19 inches using Gulp and Cajuns in 3 to 4 feet of water.

Play Hamilton County tonight

'Dogs celebrate homecoming

The Taylor County High football team will entertain Hamilton County Friday night at Dorsett Stadium in the annual homecoming contest for the Bulldogs.

Hamilton County (4-4, 3-0) comes into the game fresh off a 33-16 victory over Jefferson County that clinched the district title for the Class 1A Trojans.

Taylor County (4-5, 2-1) is stinging somewhat from its 34-19 loss to Fort White that cost the Bulldogs the district title.

Taylor County did qualify for the state playoffs as the Class 4A, District 2 runnerup and will travel to Tallahassee Nov. 15 to take on District 1 champ Florida High in the regional semifinals.

Hamilton County is led by new head Coach Blair Armstrong, who served as an assistant coach here in the late '80s under Coach Paul Dyal (now superintendent of schools here).

Armstrong returned to Florida recently after 13 years of coaching in Georgia.

Hunting season is now in full swing

By TONY YOUNG
Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

November means the 2013-14 huntin' season is in full swing. In this month's column, I cover almost everything you need to know about general gun, fall turkey, quail, snipe and the second phase of mourning and white-winged dove season.

The first thing you need to do is pick up a $17 Florida resident hunting license. Nonresidents pay $46.50 for a 10-day license or $151.50 for 12 months.

If you plan to hunt one of Florida's many wildlife management areas (WMAs), you'll also need a $26.50 management area permit, but don't forget to study the brochure for the specific area you plan to hunt, because dates, bag limits and rules can differ greatly from area to area.

By MARK VIOLA

'Ender's Game' is a better adaptation than expected, but still has its flaws

I first read Orsen Scott Card's "Ender's Game" about four years ago. What I had expected to be a somewhat generic story about a young boy being recruited into a series of war games, was instead a powerful drama, filled with insightful political and moral discussions, terrifying psychological challenges and a main character who is as troubled as he is brilliant.

When I heard they were making a movie adaptation of "Ender's Game," I wondered how they would be able to encompass the story's various plot threads and internal conflicts while also presenting the book's darker material. Card's novel is one of those rare books that defies classification, sometimes called "young adult" or "teen" literature, but also recommended reading for U.S. Marine Corps officers.

Directed by Gavin Hood (whose "Wolverine" film did not help my concerns) and featuring a star-studded cast with multiple Oscar winners and nominees, the film is a surprisingly faithful and mostly successful adaptation of the novel which won both the Hugo and the Nebula awards.

Packing solid action sequences with the more heady material, the film finds a nice balance, although a rushed final act leaves it stumbling to a close rather than with a flourish. The ending, which jumps from one new idea to the next within the span of a few minutes, may also confuse those who have not read the book, although since I have done so, it's admittedly hard for me to make an accurate assessment.

The story follows Ender Wiggen (Asa Butterfield, "Hugo"), a young boy in a cadet training academy designed to find the best and brightest minds to become the next generation of military commanders to lead humanity against the Formics, a bug-like alien race which attacked Earth years before, killing millions before being driven back at the last moment.

Colonel Graff (Harrison Ford, "42") sees greatness in Ender, and promotes him to officer training, which takes place in an orbiting space station. Graff's methods could be called psychological manipulation at best and emotional torture at worst, something Major Gwen Anderson (Viola Davis, "The Help") is not afraid to point out.

Although Graff sets out to ensure Ender faces his challenges alone and isolated, he does make some friends, namely Bean (Aramis Knight, "The Dark Knight Rises") and Petra (Hailee Steinfeld, "True Grit"). They spend their days in classrooms learning theory and in a zero-G battle arena where they put their knowledge and cunning to the test.

With the possibility of war looming seemingly any day, Ender and his fellow recruits must become the best they can so they'll be ready when the games end and the real battles begin.

The cast is very solid, with Butterfield headlining his second film, capably handling the deep and troubled character of Ender. Ford, who is on screen more than anyone other than Butterfield, proves that 2013 may be a renaissance year for him after his phenomenal turn in "42." Here, he captures Graff's single-minded determination, presenting the justifications for his actions in a way that is understandable, even if we don't agree with them.

The story is also solid, not shying away from the darker elements of the novel and giving the audience what it needs to understand the situation and the characters. Hood, who wrote the screenplay, finds the right elements to cut to fit the story into the film's two-hour runtime, while maintaining a decent pace through the first three-quarters of the movie.

As I stated before, however, "Ender's Game" fails to hit the landing, which is upsetting because it feels like just five to 10 more minutes to allow both the characters and the audience to soak in the climatic events would have gone a long way to fixing the problems and lessening the potential confusion among non-readers. I hope there is a longer cut waiting for DVD and Blu-ray.

"Ender's Game" is an ambitious adaptation, frankly more than it necessarily has to be, but the final product benefits from that ambition.

From director to actors, the film showcases a significant amount of talent, many at the top of their games. Fans of the books should find an enjoyable two hours of sci-fi adventure and deeper philosophical considerations, but others may be left more confused than satisfied.

The film is rated PG-13 for some violence, sci-fi action and thematic material.

Sarah Provost is Philomele in FSU School of Theatre's production of "The Love of the Nightingale," which opens tonight (Friday) at the Lab Theatre in Tallahassee.

FSU presents 'Nightingale'

"The Love of the Nightingale" by Timberlake Wertenbaker comes to life tonight (Friday) on the stage of Florida State's Lab Theatre.

A searing tale of lust, love and violent revenge, this work is presented as part of the School of Theatre's 40th season line-up and will continue through Nov. 17. Directed by third year MFA directing candidate Matt Silva, "The Love of the Nightingale" also showcases the talents of Sarah Provost (Philomele), Katie Marvel (Procne) and Nick Jones (Tereus).

Written in the style of traditional Greek theatre with a modern twist, "The Love of the Nightingale" loosely follows the ancient Greek myth of the rape of Philomela by her sister's husband, the King Tereus of Thrace. Against this dramatic background, the play explores the many intricate layers of power, violence, revenge, love and the conflict of the sexes that are wrapped up in these complex characters.

The Royal Shakespeare Company in Stratford first performed Wertenbaker's "The Love of The Nightingale" in 1989. Since then, it has been produced in a variety of places, often accompanied by an educational component that facilitates a deeper conversation regarding rape and power.

Wertenbaker is noted for her use of language and her integration of historical, mythical and literary sources. Her other notable works include the Tony Award-nominated "Our Country's Good," "New Anatomies" and "The Grace of Mary Traverse."

Describing the play's relevance, Evangeline Ciupek, the production's dramaturg, said, "The characters' questions hover above our heads like disembodied spirits, restless, directionless, needing to be heard but unsure of their own voices. In the tumult of love and lust, war and politics, nations and silence, the audience never disappears. There is always a witness. The Athenians and Thracians could be us. Their time could be now. Their tragedy could be ours."

The production contains material that may be inappropriate for audiences under the age of 17.

Showtimes are Nov. 8-9 and 13-16 at 8 p.m. with 2 p.m. matinees on Nov. 10 and 17. Tickets are $20 for adults, $18 for seniors (62+) and $10 for students. To purchase tickets, call (850) 644-6500 or visit online at tickets.fsu.edu. For more information, visit theatre.fsu.edu.

The Lab Theatre is located on Copeland Street between St. Augustine and Lafayette Streets.

Marvel returns to the cinema this week with its latest superhero sequel, "Thor: The Dark World" in which Thor (Chris Hemsworth) is forced to join forces with his brother Loki (Tom Hiddleston)--who nearly destroyed New York City and the rest of the world with it in "The Avengers"--in order to defeat a new threat to both Earth and Asgard. As good as Marvel's adaptations have been, the sequels to date (namely the "Iron Man" films) haven't been up to the same standard, a trend director Alan Taylor ("Game of Thrones") hopes to put a stop to. Much of the original film's cast returns, including Natalie Portman as Jane Foster and Stellan Skarsgård as Erik Selvig.

The film is rated PG-13 for sequences of intense sci-fi action and violence, and some suggestive content.

And for the counter-marketing, we have the romantic comedy/drama "About Time," which expands into a nationwide release after a limited debut last weekend. From the director of "Love Actually" and "Notting Hill," the film follows Tim (Domhnall Gleeson, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows"), a 21-year-old man who discovers he can travel in time, helping him capture the heart of his love Mary (Rachel McAdams, "The Vow"). The trailers make the film feel like a cross between "The Time Traveler's Wife" and "Groundhog Day," and as long as it doesn't venture too close to either of them and charts its own path, this could be a sweet romantic choice in a field of action and horror films.

The movie is rated R for language and some sexual content.

Oscar winners unite in funny, if unimaginative, 'Last Vegas'

As the saying goes, "What happens in Vegas, stays in Vegas." Unless, of course, you're in a movie about people in Vegas, then it's out there for the world to see. Or I suppose is you get caught by a camera phone and end up on Youtube. I'm betting the Vegas marketing folks really, really hate Youtube.

But back to the movies about Vegas, specially those featuring folks about to head off into married bliss falling to the temptations of Sin City. This most recent revival in pre-wedding debauchery was of course sparked by "The Hangover," the most successful R-rated comedy in history, its sequels and the inevitable copycats.

If the guys can have some fun in "The Hangover" and the girls can do the same in "Bridesmaids," why can't the AARP membership too?

Look no further, because now we have "Last Vegas," about four old friends who reunite when one finally decides to get hitched. There's admittedly not much in the way of originality in the film's story line or even in its execution, but if you group together four actors who combined have four Academy Award wins and another nine nominations, you can bet the final product will entertain.

While there are plenty of laughs, the movie, directed by Jon Turteltaub ("National Treasure"), is not afraid to deal with the serious side of growing older as well, which adds a needed layer of depth to a story that is in need of some substance.

When the movie opens, we meet four young friends, and the girl they love, living it up in Brooklyn. Fifty-eight years later, Paddy (Robert De Niro, "Silver Linings Playbook") is mourning the loss of his wife, Archie (Morgan Freeman, "RED") is living with his overprotective son and Sam (Kevin Kline, "A Fish Called Wanda") has retired to sunny Florida, which looks here more like purgatory than paradise. Meanwhile, Billy (Michael Douglas, "Wall Street"), ruminating on the death of another close friend, decides to propose to his 32-year-old girlfriend.

Feeling nostalgic, Billy calls up his friends to invite them to Vegas and they in turn pledge to throw him a bachelor party, a gathering that will dredge up old memories, relight smoldering grudges and, if they're not careful, break a few hips.

The story feels like somebody threw the scripts to "The Hangover," "RED" and "The World's End" into a blender and poured out the results. Amazingly, it is the resemblance to "The World's End," which struck me the most in retrospect, as both feature a group of four friends reuniting after years apart, with one having to be tricked into coming because of an unresolved feud with the pal who organized the meeting. In both cases, the films benefitted from a deeper-than-expected emotional level to the characters and the story.

On the humor side, there is a somewhat over-reliance on the "old people don't get current pop culture" jokes, but again, the talents of the actors elevate the material. Although the level of raunchy humor was not as high as I expected, it's there, with Kline getting most of the dirtiest jokes.

"Last Vegas" is one of those movies in which the negatives pretty much outweigh the positives, but it still manages to entertain for two hours, providing laughs, a few heartfelt moments and Morgan Freeman drunk on Red Bull vodkas. And really, isn't that what Vegas is all about?

The movie is rated PG-13 on appeal for sexual content and language.

Magistrate rulings must be appealed to circuit court, not city council horses once before, back in 2004. The city council at that time confirmed there was a violation "but nothing happened…we have looked at the minutes and that was pretty much the end of the trail. No further action was taken," Brown said.

"You can have horses if the land is zoned agricultural and there are procedures in place to make a zoning request.

"An individual who receives a notice can go before the magistrate and state their case. If any party disagrees with the code enforcement ruling, then he or she can file an appeal, which will then go before the circuit court. The city council does not have the authority to overrule the magistrate's ruling (or decisions made by the former Code Enforcement Board)," Brown said.

Commission to host luncheon for veterans on Monday at 12:30 p.m.

VETERANS

Regardless of their age, one thing is very clear: their dedication to duty and love of country.

Taylor County residents are invited to join the JROTC's salute to these men and women—who are friends and neighbors to us all—during the 27th annual Veterans Day Ceremony planned Monday, Nov. 11, starting at 10:30 a.m. (Guests are asked to arrive by 10:15 a.m.)

Winners of this year's Voice of Democracy essay contest will share their winning entries: JROTC Cadet First Lt. Zachary Geyer, first place; Cole Folsom, second place; and Cadet Second Lt. Mitchell Davis.

Representatives from Taylor County's veteran organizations will then present the winners with awards: Dale Franklin, AMVETS; Al Grubbs, VFW; and Neil McCranie, American Legion.

Major Christopher McDaniel will also speak during the program.

JROTC cadets and their instructors invite all veterans, their families and the community at large to attend.

A flag-raising ceremony will be held at Veterans Memorial Park following the program, starting at noon.

Veterans and their families are then invited to a luncheon which will be held in their honor at Forest Capital Park (Heritage Pavilion).

The event, hosted by the Taylor County Board of Commissioners, has continued to grow each year and organizers expect a large crowd again this year.

Monday, Nov. 11

- JROTC Veterans Day Ceremony, TCHS, 10:30 a.m.
- Flag-raising Ceremony, Veterans Memorial Park, noon
- Veterans Day Luncheon, Forest Capital Park, 12:30 p.m.

Special guest speaker will be Capt. Nicklous J. Ross, a 30-year Navy veteran.

During his three decades of service, Ross has completed deployments aboard the USS America, US Eisenhower and USS Enterprise. He served as OIC of extended detachments aboard several ships in the Eastern Mediterranean.

He also served in a variety of shore billets including working on the staff of the chief of naval operations in Washington, D.C., and chief of naval personnel in Millington, Tenn.

He also served on the joint staff supporting arms control treaties and served as commander of inspection operations with the One Site Inspection Agency (OSIA).

After retiring in 2003, he accepted a position with the North Florida/South Georgia Veterans Health System in Gainesville.

As assistant director, his primary responsibility is the development and support of the group's 11 community based outpatient clinics and rural health outreach clinics.

The future Rural Health Outreach Clinic in Perry will be one of the 12 under his direction.

Ross earned a bachelor of science in management from Miami University, a master's degree in personnel management from Central Michigan University and is an MIT seminar XXI Fellow.

His personal awards include the Defense Superior Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Defense Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Service Medal and the Navy Achievement Medal. He has more than 4,200 helicopter flight hours.

Monday's luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m.

delayed it until 2015.

As for those who do not receive insurance through their employer, and do not qualify for Medicaid or Medicare, the law requires individuals to have insurance by March 31, 2014, or face penalties. There are some exceptions in certain hardship cases.

What did the law change about health insurance?

Under PPACA, beginning in 2014, insurance companies cannot deny coverage to individuals who have pre-existing medical conditions. Policies must also provide coverage for a number of treatments, including mental health, substance abuse services, contraceptives and some prescription drugs. Policies cannot include annual and lifetime coverage limits. The law also prohibits charging different prices to men and women, and limits the amount age can affect premiums. Families with children can retain their dependents on their insurance plan until age 26.

Do I have to purchase my health insurance through the exchange?

You do not have to purchase your policy through the exchange, but only plans purchased through the exchange are eligible for the federal tax credits.

What is available for Taylor County residents in the exchange?

Within the exchange, the companies and plans available depend on the county in which you reside. Although there are nine companies offering health insurance in Florida through the exchange, Taylor County is one of 21 counties which has only one provider: FloridaBlue. According to Healthcare.gov, FloridaBlue is offering 27 plans in Taylor County, broken down into five categories--catastrophic, bronze, silver, gold and platinum--based on the level of coverage included. By comparison, Miami-Dade County residents have 141 plans to choose from. The chart below contains Taylor County's plans, the coverage they provide and an estimated monthly premium.

Even among counties with the same plans, prices can vary. For example, the platinum level plan BlueOptions Everyday Health Premier 1418V, one of the most expensive policies available, has an estimated monthly premium (according to Healthcare.gov before tax credits) of $319.55 for an individual under 50 (with no spouse or child coverage) in Taylor County. Among the other 20 counties with FloridaBlue as their sole provider, the same plan ranges from $302.18 in Holmes County to $364.79 in Hardee County.

What are the coverage levels?

According to Healthcare.org, catastrophic plans cover less than 60 percent of the total average cost of care, bronze plans cover 60 percent, silver plans cover 70 percent, gold plans cover 80 percent and platinum plans cover 90 percent.

Will I qualify for tax credits?

Those whose household income places them between 100 percent and 400 percent of the federal poverty level qualify for reduced costs through tax credits which will be automatically applied to monthly premiums. According to Healthcare.gov, the credits can significantly lower the price estimates provided by the website.

Eligibility is based on household size and income: one person, $11,490 to $45,960; two people, $15,510 to $62,040; three people, $19,530 to $78,120; four people, $23,550 to $94,200; five people, $27,570 to $110,280; six people; $31,590 to $126,360; seven people, $35,610 to $142,440; and eight people, $39,630 to $158,520.

To determine your eligibility and the amount of your potential subsidy, you can visit the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation's website, which has an online subsidy calculator: kff.org/interactive/subsidy-calculator/.

It should be noted that several ongoing lawsuits have been filed challenging the federal government's authority to offer subsidies through exchanges not established by a state itself, such as the federal exchange serving Florida.

ACV features wellness center, medical plaza, assisted living facility

SECRET

"I honestly thought ACV was a really nice nursing home but it is so much more. It is a complete, vibrant 55+ senior living community. You may have seen our vehicle in the recent Florida Forest Festival parade carrying just some of the prior residents of Taylor County. You can buy a home, build a home or rent an apartment. There is an entire little town, wrapped around the Suwannee River, with a lodge and retreat, a medical plaza, a community and wellness center with a heated pool, a camp, an assisted living facility and a skilled nursing home with nearly 500 employees. It is truly quality and affordable housing, because those that aren't able to afford the housing, based on income, can apply for HUD assistance for the mid-rise apartments and there are apartments available at this time waiting for residents to apply."

Newman lives in Perry with her husband Randy, the area manager of FairPoint Communications, where they raised their children.

Individual Insurance Plans Available in the Federal Exchange for Taylor County

Coverage Levels: BRONZE (B) = 60% of total average cost of care SILVER (S) = 70% GOLD (G) = 80% PLATINUM (P) = 90%

This chart contains information on 26 of the 27 insurance plans currently available to Taylor County residents through the federal exchange serving the State of Florida. In addition to these, Healthcare.gov lists one "catastrophic" plan, which is described as a policy which covers less than 60 percent of the total average cost of care. The information provided below includes annual deductibles, maximum out-of-pocket expenses, copays for visits to your primary care physician, emergency rooms and hospitals, as well as generic prescription drug coverage. Hopefully, this chart will allow you to compare available plans with your current coverage, or allow you to find a plan which will meet your specific needs.

Fla. hunters with deer permit can take bucks having at least one antler 5 inches or longer

HUNTING SEASON

brochures at the tax collector's offices in close proximity to the WMA, or you can download them from MyFWC.com/ Hunting.

You can buy your license and permits by calling 888-HUNT-FLORIDA or going online at License. MyFWC.com. Have your credit card ready. You also can purchase them from a tax collector's office and most retail outlets that sell hunting and fishing supplies.

The general gun season runs Nov. 2 – Jan. 19 in Zone C; Dec. 7 – Feb. 23 in Zone B; and in Zone A, the second phase of general gun season runs Nov. 23 – Jan. 5. In Zone D, it starts Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 28) and lasts four days until Dec. 1. Two weeks later, the season reopens Dec. 14 and runs through Feb. 23.

Hunters can take bucks having at least one antler 5 inches or longer, but anyone hunting deer in Florida must have the $5 deer permit. On private lands, the daily bag limit for deer is two, but during some quota hunts on WMAs, the bag limit is only one deer, and in some cases, there are antler restrictions, so read the particular WMA brochure before you hunt.

On private lands, hunters can take wild hogs year-round with no bag or size limits. On most – but not all – WMAs, there's also no bag or size limit on wild hogs, and hunters can take them during any hunting season except spring turkey. Again, check the WMA brochure to be certain.

On private lands only, the highly anticipated antlerless deer season, often called "doe week," is Nov. 23-29 (Thanksgiving week) in zones A and C, and it always runs Dec. 26 – Jan. 1 (Christmas week) in zones B and D.

During doe week, the daily bag limit is one buck and one doe, or two bucks. You may not take two does in one day like you can during archery season, and spotted fawns are never legal game. By the way, WMAs do not have an antlerless deer season.

Fall turkey season in Zone A is Nov. 23 – Jan. 5. In zones B and C, it runs Dec. 7 – Feb. 2 and Nov. 2 – Dec. 29, respectively. And in Zone D, fall turkey season is Nov. 28 – Dec. 1 and Dec. 14 – Jan. 19, except for Holmes County, where there is no fall turkey season.

Only bearded turkeys and gobblers are legal game; you must have a turkey permit ($10 for residents; $125 for nonresidents) to hunt them. The bag limit is one bird per day, and a total of two during the archery, crossbow, muzzleloading gun and fall turkey seasons combined.

Quail season runs statewide Nov. 9 – March 2, and the daily bag limit is 12.

Shooting hours for deer, turkey and quail are a half-hour before sunrise to a half-hour after sunset. All legal rifles, shotguns, muzzleloaders, bows, crossbows and pistols are legal for taking these resident game animals during the general gun, antlerless deer, fall turkey and quail seasons.

Snipe hunting in Florida ranks second in the nation in number of birds harvested each year, and the season always runs Nov. 1 – Feb. 15 statewide. The second phase of the mourning and white-winged dove season also comes in this month and runs Nov. 16 – Dec. 1. Shooting hours for migratory game birds are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The bag limit for snipe is eight; for doves, the bag limit is 15.

You must get a no-cost migratory bird permit if you plan to hunt snipe, doves or any other migratory game birds.

The FWC even provides an online "Dove Hunters' Hotline," which gives up-to-date information on Florida's public dove fields. The address is MyFWC.com/Dove, and it is updated every Thursday throughout dove season. Information includes dove densities, previous week's harvests and field conditions.

Whether small-game hunting with friends and family or hunting solo, going after that monster buck, boar hog or big tom, November brings loads of great hunting opportunities.

Here's wishing you a happy Thanksgiving and a successful hunting season.
