The Twice-a-Week Sun is an eight page, forty column paper, published every Monday and Thursday, and contains all the news of the week, local, State and general, and will be mailed, postage free, to any part of the United States or Canada, for $1.00 a year—in advance.

All advertising bills become due after first appearance of advertisement, unless otherwise stipulated in contract. Parties not known to us will be required to pay for advertising in advance. Address, THE DAILY SUN, GAINESVILLE, FLA.

During a meeting held at Bradentown by the Culpeppers over one hundred men were added to the churches of the town.

The Star says it is conceded that the Orlando baseball twisters are too much for the Ocala batters. Send 'em up this way a couple of weeks hence, brother.

The Second Brigade of Confederate veterans will meet at Gainesville next year, date to be fixed by the Stonewall Camp. They will be gladly welcomed.

The Fort Meade Observer remarks: "A good opportunity is awaiting a young and progressive lawyer to establish an office here to ply his profession at Fort Meade." Bidding for trouble.

If President Taft does nothing else of moment during his administration than place the affairs of this government on a business basis and check the extravagance of recent years, he will have rendered a service to his country of incalculable value.

According to recent Washington dispatches the administration is much worried over the conditions existing in Cuba. Nothing has occurred, so far, which would require interference by the the United States, but evidently there exists great anxiety in administration circles.

The market for Sea Island cotton in Savannah was dull last week. Holders were asking outside prices, but while there was some inquiry, buyers were not prepared to pay the advance. Crop accounts in the main are favorable. Needed rains have fallen in some sections and temperatures have been higher. Sales for the week were 10 bales. Fancy Georgias and Floridas are quoted at 21 to 22 cents, with extra choice at 19 to 20.

Hastings is said to have a bumper crop of potatoes this season, yet the general complaint is that it has cost more per barrel to harvest this crop than it did last year, when the crop was short. The Hastings potato grower hires a man to dig his potatoes at $1.25 per day. No matter how good a man he is or how poor in working qualities, good, bad or indifferent, all get the same wages. The most practical growers there strongly advocate piece work for next season.

Representative Glenn Terrell, who was a member of the legislative committee appointed to visit the University of Florida, in writing to The Sumter County Times of his visit to Gainesville, pays the city this compliment: "Besides the six hundred acres of land mentioned above, the city has built a broad rock road with concrete pavements on each side from the business part of town out to the University, they also furnish free water and electricity, take a great pride in the institution and contribute liberally to every cause that looks to its prosperity and upbuilding. * * * A more beautiful and attractive spot in all Florida could not have been selected for its location."

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER.

Mother's Day was observed several weeks ago but its influence will be felt as long as Florida is a State, says The Manatee River Journal. The yearly observance of that day will be a means of keeping sweet memories aglow, and many a mother's boy will live that day, at least, an honest man—as his mother would have him live. The following beautiful tribute from the pen of Editor Hetherington of The Lakeland Sun has been published throughout the State and is well worth publishing a thousand times more. We reproduce for two reasons: First because of its worth, and second, because of the worth of the man who penned it. Back in the hills of "old Kentucky" we knew and loved him. He must have had a good mother for he is a good man, and today, though the years have gone, her influence through him is being felt by the "mothers boys" of Florida, who will be touched by the following tribute to "mother:"

"He never knew her. His coming into the world was the signal for her going forth. A few brief days she clasped him to her heart—the heart whose last beats were most for him; then, ere the baby eyes had learned to look with recognition upon her, she kissed them closed—and closed her own forever.

"Vaguely through life he missed her. Times, as a boy, when the night wind moaned outside, and within fantastic figures and shapes of fear formed in the darkness, he cowered beneath the covers of his cot and wept passionately for something that he wanted but could not name—though afterward he knew that the thing he craved was sheltering mother love. His playmates had ever a source of unfailing love and sympathy from which he saw them copiously and continually draw; and he felt that the Fates had left something out of the scheme of his life, and in the midst of the buoyancy of youth his eyes would grow wistful and his heart be sad.

"Then a man—and sometimes, after the struggle of the day, when came the quiet hour—musing o'er flood and field, or gazing far out into the sad and solemn sea—he would dream of the land beyond the setting sun—of the mystic glories which eye hath not seen—and of her, who loved him first! Aye, others came and crept into his heart, and filled it with a love that was almost pain; but in its innermost holy of holies he kept ever a chamber inviolate for the mother he never knew.

"And it pleased him to believe that though he saw her not, she walked through life beside him, and many times made her presence felt in sweet suggestion or kindly need, in silent stirrings of the heart that turned him from temptation's way. And whatever of good or gentleness or generous impulse ever blossomed in his life, to her he gave the credit.

"Therefore, on Mother's Day, when thousands have the blessed privilege of laying the votive offering of their love at living mothers' feet, and other thousands live over tender memories of days when mothers walked by their side—he wears the white flower for her to whom he believes his nature owes its best.

"So in the dust of this dear day while the flower is fading, though its fragrance lingers still, he writes these lines for the sake of those who, like to him, knew mother only in the land of dreams."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials. Address,

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

Tampa Tribune: "Editor L'Engle says he can't afford to take that Atlanta editorial job at $5,000 a year, because that sum wouldn't keep him in a clean shirt every day. The strenuous life into which Claude would be plunged in Atlanta would require several changes of linen daily."

Brooksville Southern Argus: "The recommendation of Governor Gilchrist to make Abraham Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday does not strike a responsive chord in many hearts in Florida. Until the State has a Jeff Davis day, it is outside of the proprieties to have a Lincoln day in Jeff Davis' country. It is nice to be liberal, but not to 'slopover.'"

Starke Telegraph: "Hon. James Alexander of Volusia county announced on the floor of the House a few days ago that he would retire from political life after the adjournment of the present session of the Legislature. It is also announced that Hon. R. Hudson Burr will retire at the conclusion of his present term as Railroad Commissioner."

To engage the piper and listen to his playing is one thing, to pay the piper is another thing. The landowners in England are indignant at the government taxing the unearned increment and at the increased income tax, and the none too refined billingsgate they use in denouncing the government and its budget is amusing. But the landowners have brought the trouble upon themselves. They have so created one war scare after another and have so insistently demanded a large number of dreadnaughts that the ministry was compelled to build or provide for building many more than it intended. As one single battleship of that class costs somewhere about $10,000,000 it is easy to see that not many can be built without greatly increasing the taxation. Very rightly the government decided that, so far as possible, the class that can best afford it and which is mainly responsible for the higher taxation, should pay the cost, and parliament by an enormous majority supports the government's view. If the bitter experience this is giving the landowners will put a stop to scare-mongering it will be a good thing for more than one nation.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
