MAY LOSE HIS ARM FROM SNAKE BITE

WHILE FISHING THE LAD PLACES HAND ON MOCCASIN.

Snake Clung to Finger Until Taken Off by Older Parties Who Were Present.

Herman Moody, the young son of Wm. Moody of Lacrosse, may lose his arm as a result of being bitten by a moccasin while out with a crowd on a fishing trip near that place.

The young lad had placed his hand under a log, supposedly for the purpose of releasing his hook, when it was quickly nabbed by a large moccasin, which clung to his fingers until he was released by other parties present.

The snake was of the stump-tail variety and said to be among the most poisonous of the moccasin variety. At first it was not thought that the child had been seriously injured, but the physician who has been summoned states that it is a bad finger and may cause him to lose his arm.

It was several hours afterwards before medical attention was secured and on Thursday afternoon the swelling was reported to have gone up the arm as high as the shoulder which shows that the poison has spread in his blood.

The snake, which was about three feet in length, after being released was quickly killed. It is a mystery how the reptile could have injected the poison into the boy's finger while it was under the water, as it was while in this position that the first attack was made and remained clung to the finger for several moments afterward.

Poor Milk

Is often thought to be responsible for an infant's loss in weight or general poor health. The cause usually is that the child has worms. They get the nourishment of the food and the baby starves, actually starves. White's Cream Vermifuge expels the worms and nourishes the child, sure and safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

SHE KNOWS EVERYTHING.

The Telephone Girl Could Cause Us Lots of Trouble.

The telephone girl sits in her chair and listens to voices from everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news, she knows who is happy and who has the blues, she knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys. She knows every girl who is chasing the boys; she knows of our troubles, she knows of our strife, she knows every man who is mean to his wife; she knows every time we are out with the boys; she hears the excuses each fellow employs; she knows every woman who has a dark past, she knows every man who's inclined to be fast. In fact there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl of that quiet demure-looking telephone girl. If the telephone girl would tell all she knows it would turn half our friends into bitterest foes; she would sow a small wind that would soon be a gale, engulf us in trouble and land us in jail; she could let go a story (which gaining its force) would cause half of our wives to sue for a divorce; she could get all the churches mixed up in a fight and turn all our days into sorrowing nights. In fact, she could keep the whole town in a stew if she'd tell a tenth part of the things she knew. Now doesn't it make your head whirl, when you think what you owe the telephone girl?—Exchange.

Thrower and the Tarpon.

Mr. Ben K. Thrower of Gainesville, the popular traveling man for the Baird Hardware Company, was numbered among the traveling men stopping at the Ocala House last night. He is just up from Sarasota, where he spent two days fishing in its beautiful waters. After fishing nearly all night, catching many varieties of the smaller kind of fish, about 9 o'clock in the morning he hooked a tarpon and says that he had the sport of his life. He was game, and struggled fiercely to release himself from the cruel lines that had crossed his path way. Sometimes he would leap out of the water fully fifteen feet in the air and shake himself with the strength of a giant, but the more he struggled the deeper he implanted the cruel hooks into his throat and the loss became his tenure of life, and after an hour's battle he surrendered and was lifted into the boat. He weighed one hundred and twenty pounds and was a very handsome fish. Mr. Thrower says that Sarasota is just now wearing the palm for good fishing and the hotel proprietors know how to entertain.—Ocala Banner, 10th.

Men Past Fifty in Danger.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." ALACHUA WILL HAVE NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM

ACETYLENE GAS LIGHTS WILL BE PLACED OVER CITY.

Progressive, Hustling Town is Fast Moving to the Front—Other Improvements Contemplated.

Alachua, the hustling little city in the northern part of the county, is fast coming to the front in enterprises. The latest to be installed is a new lighting system.

Arrangements are about completed whereby the city is to be lighted with a new acetylene gas system, furnishing lights not only to the streets but to the business houses and residences of the place.

The matter has been placed before the city council and they will very probably buy the machine and install it to be run for the city, or private individuals will place it in commission if a franchise can be secured from the city.

Besides this great improvement other and more extensive improvements are contemplated for the place by the coming fall, which is their busy season, as it has long been known as one of the leading cotton markets of Florida.
