Leaders sour on nuke power costs

RAY HENRY
Associated Press

ATLANTA — As the cost of building a new nuclear plant soars, there are signs of buyer's remorse.

The second-guessing from officials in Georgia and Florida is a sign maybe the nation is not quite ready for a nuclear renaissance. On top of construction costs running much higher than expected, the price of natural gas has plummeted, making it tough for nuclear plants to compete in the energy market.

In Georgia last week, Southern Co. told regulators it needed to raise its construction budget for Plant Vogtle in eastern Georgia by $737 million to $6.85 billion. At about the same time, a Georgia lawmaker sought to penalize the company for going over budget, announcing a proposal to cut into Southern Co.'s profits by trimming some of the money its subsidiary Georgia Power makes.

The legislation has a coalition of tea party, conservative and consumer advocacy groups behind it, but faces a tough sale in Republican-controlled General Assembly.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Contribute! Like us at facebook.com/citruscountychronicle and respond to our Question of the Week.

What do you think about Commissioner Adams' actions at commission meetings?

Ashley M. Barrett
What a surprise more small town corruption ... and they wonder why citrus never gets anywhere or will ever be anything more than a blip on the map!

Jill Jacoby
Good, Bad and ugly Adams' is getting people interested and to the meetings. He was elected just like the rest of them.

B. N B. Fluegel
Finally, someone holding them slugs accountable!

Theressa Foster
I think it is funny how voters cast their vote in November and then after that we bash the elected officials. Three commissioners were elected in November not just Scott Adams. The voters chose all of them.

E. Goodale-Yerain
I don't care for picking on county employees, but I do like that he asked Members of the BOCC to reduce their pay. ... At least he's trying hard to do something. Rebecca Bays' previous comment about looking like "buffoons" was an unfortunate and ridiculous statement — she should have never opened that can of worms. I also don't think The Port idea is a good thing in these times of trouble —stupid idea!

Upkeep letdown

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

Bonnie Patterson explains how the house across from her Citrus Hills home has been vacant for some six years and has become an eyesore. She says she and her husband chose a home in the deed-restricted community because they believed an issue like this couldn't happen.

Neighbors incensed by state of abandoned house

CHRIS VAN ORMER
Staff writer

The Pattersons are patient people. But their patience is being sorely tested.

Every morning, they look out on a blighted view across the street, a derelict house in Emerald Estates, Citrus Hills. While Jerome (Pat) and Bonnie Patterson keep up their home's curb appeal, the property opposite them on West Tacoma Street is taking on the image of a haunted house. The front yard is overgrown. Tree branches have fallen and block the driveway. Weeds have taken over the landscaping.

The place across the street has been an eyesore to the retired couple for six years.

"It's embarrassing," Bonnie said. "When I invite people for dinner, that's what they see from our dining room windows."

Special to the Chronicle

Pat and Bonnie Patterson took photos of the home across from them on West Tacoma Street to document the state of decay.

The neighboring property's abandoned-looking condition is especially troubling as the house is in a deed-restricted community.

Chasm claims home

Most of house over sinkhole demolished

Associated Press

SEFFNER — Crews on Sunday razed more than half of the Tampa-area home perched over a huge sinkhole that swallowed a man three days ago, managing to salvage some keepsakes for family members who lived there.

Jeremy Bush, 35, tried to save his brother, Jeff, when the earth opened up and swallowed him Thursday night. On Sunday morning, Bush and relatives prayed with a pastor as the home — where he lived with his girlfriend, Rachel Wicker; their daughter, Hannah, 2; and others — was demolished and waited for firefighters to salvage anything possible from inside.

Early Sunday morning, just before the demolition began, Bush and an unidentified woman knelt and prayed at the mailbox in front of the home, owned by Leland Wicker, Rachel's grandfather, since the 1970s.

After praying, Bush and the woman walked across the street to a neighbor's lawn to watch the demolition.

The operator of the heavy equipment worked gingerly, first taking off a front wall. Family belongings were scooped onto the lawn gently in hopes of salvaging parts of the family's 40-year history in the home.

CMHS receives status for chest-pain treatment

MIKE WRIGHT
Staff writer

INVERNESS — Someone experiencing chest pain may hope Citrus Memorial hospital is nearby.

CMHS has become the 62nd hospital in Florida to become a fully accredited chest pain center from the Society of Cardiovascular Patient Care, hospital officials announced recently.

Hospitals that receive SCPC accreditation show a higher level of expertise in dealing with patients who arrive at the hospital with symptoms of a heart attack, CMHS spokeswoman Katie Mehl said.

Only 12 percent of hospitals nationwide have the full chest pain accreditation, she said.

The accreditation notes the time between a patient arriving at the hospital and receiving treatment.

"Our data showed we were right up there with the top hospitals," said Lori Dennison, R.N., director of nursing operations.

Hospital officials praised the cooperative arrangement with Nature Coast EMS and emergency responders from area counties. Because of their assistance, the hospital is more fully prepared to treat chest-pain

NANCY KENNEDY/Chronicle

Bill Thompson, 75, has been teaching Cody Knippen, 22, about woodworking. The two became friends last year and have been helping each other overcome their disabilities. A stroke affected Thompson's right side and cerebral palsy has affected Knippen's right side.

THE RIGHT KIND OF FRIEND

NANCY KENNEDY
Staff writer

INVERNESS — They have an uncommon friendship, but who knows why friends become friends?

About seven years ago, a stroke left Bill Thompson, 75, with his right side paralyzed for quite some time. Last year, he met Cody Knippen, 22, who was born with cerebral palsy, which affects also his right side.

Thompson knew Knippen's parents when he owned Trail's End fish camp in Floral City in the mid-'80s, before Knippen was born. Thompson had not seen Knippen since he was a child. But last year at the pre-Strawberry Festival event in Floral City, Thompson ran into Knippen's parents and was re-introduced to the now-grown young man.

"His manners was the first thing I noticed," Thompson said. "His parents did a great job with him. Most people his age are smart aleck, big mouth, know-it-alls."

They struck up a conversation and discovered they have a lot in common, like hunting and fishing. They understand each other's challenges, what it is like to try to use a hand that will not cooperate.

"They've gone to bluegrass festivals together and Cody and his father took Bill hunting — he hasn't been able to do that since his stroke," said Thompson's wife, Karen Savela. "That was the highlight of the year for him."

Mostly, the two hang out in Thompson's workshop where the older man teaches his younger friend about woodworking — and life.

Bill Thompson, 75, and Cody Knippen, 22, make an odd friendship, but the two have become close friends. They hang out in Thompson's workshop nearly every day.

Recently, Bill Thompson, 75, helped Cody Knippen, 22, make a cedar chest for his mother. Here they are using a planer to plane boards. Their next project is a tree stand.

"We talk about hunting, fishing, girls," Knippen said, then laughed.

"Cody wants to be a kept man," Thompson said teasingly.

When Knippen was younger, his feet turned in and he wore leg braces. He would jump on a trampoline to help them straighten and get stronger.

"It turns out I had the same therapist as Mr. Bill did," he said.

Knippen goes to Thompson's house just about every day, when he is not volunteering in the kitchen at Withlacoochee Technical Institute. He recently graduated from the school's culinary program and volunteers to get work experience. His specialty is wild game — squirrel perlo and venison Marsala. Sometimes the men fire up the smoker out back and smoke fish or ribs.

Most recently, Thompson has been teaching Knippen woodworking.

"I told him if he wanted to build something I'd help him," Thompson said.

Knippen made his mother a cedar chest.

"I didn't know how to put it all together and Mr. Bill showed me how, and I enjoyed it," Knippen said.

As Thompson teaches Knippen about tools, safety, tricks of the trade and choosing the perfect boards — Thompson made almost all the furniture inside his house — Knippen teaches Thompson about patience.

"Normally, if I show somebody something one time and they don't do it, that's it," Thompson said. "But with Cody, if he has trouble doing something, I stay with him because he's in the same shape I'm in."

"Mr. Bill tells me don't worry about what other people think or say about you," Knippen said.

And in Thompson's garage, the "H-word" (handicapped) is forbidden. The two may move slowly sometimes and some of their movements are cumbersome and awkward because their right arms have limited movement and strength, but they do not allow themselves to say they are handicapped. They encourage each other not to let their limitations hinder them from living life.

"Me and Mr. Bill saved a golden eagle together," Knippen said.

It was wounded and stuck on a friend's fence. The friend wanted to call a wildlife rescue organization, but Knippen and Thompson said they would handle it.

Savela got them some gloves and a blanket and the two friends took off down the road.

"Mr. Bill showed me how to put a blanket over it and capture it by bear hugging it," Knippen said.

"I told him if you hold it tight, he can't hurt you," Thompson said.

Heritage Day arrives in Homosassa

View days of old Saturday at region's wildlife state park

Special to the Chronicle

Area residents or visitors interested in the history of Homosassa can step back in time during Homosassa's Heritage Day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 9, at Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park.

Displays of historic photos of the Homosassa area and Homosassa Springs attraction will be on display. Regular admission will apply for entrance into the wildlife park, but there is no charge to view the exhibits in the Florida Room or watch the programs.

Programs range from an archaeological presentation and re-enactment of Florida pioneers to local authors signing books and park employees discussing animals at Homosassa Springs Wildlife Park. Jason D. Moser, Ph.D., with the Florida Public Archaeology Network will make a special Florida Archaeological Month presentation, focusing on research into the people, places and lands of David Yulee's Margarita Plantation. Candace Boothe, Margaret Harris, Betty Berger and Gus Valderrama will don costumes and re-enact conversations among Florida pioneer woman Dessie Smith Prescott, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings and Ernest Hemingway. Retired park rangers Jack Kearns and Patrick Dillard will reminisce about the early days of Homosassa Springs Attraction at 2 p.m.

Local authors Barbara Cairns and Betty Berger will sign copies of their books in the Florida Room.

Park service specialist J.D. Mendenhall and park ranger Andrew Moody will discuss Ivan Tors Animal Actors and Gentle Ben, Clarence the cross-eyed lion, Flipper the dolphin and other famous animals that wintered at Homosassa Springs Attraction in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

For more information on Homosassa Heritage Day, call Susan Strawbridge at 352-628-5445, ext. 1002.

HOW YOUR LAWMAKERS VOTED

Key votes for the week ending March 1
By Voterama in Congress

- Violence Against Women: Members voted, 286-138, to renew the Violence Against Women Act through fiscal 2018. A yes vote was to send President Obama a bill (S 47) adding protections for battered illegal immigrants, gays and lesbians as well as victims of rape and domestic violence on Indian lands and college campuses. Rich Nugent, Yes.
- GOP Anti-Violence Bill: Members defeated, 166-257, a GOP version of the Violence Against Women Act (S 47, above) that differed by providing fewer protections for victims on Indian reservations and college campuses or for gays, lesbians and battered illegal immigrants. A yes vote backed the Republican plan. Nugent, Yes.

Rich Nugent

- Defense Secretary Hagel: Senators confirmed, 58-41, Chuck Hagel, a Vietnam combat veteran and former GOP senator from Nebraska, as secretary of defense. A yes vote was to confirm Hagel, 66, over opposition based, in part, on his views on U.S. policies for dealing with Israel, Iran and Iraq. Bill Nelson, Yes; Marco Rubio, No.

Bill Nelson

- Treasury Secretary Lew: Senators confirmed, 71-26, Jacob Lew, 57, as secretary of the Treasury. He had been President Obama's White House staff chief and budget director. Foes criticized Lew, in part, over his employment at Citibank at the start of the 2008 financial collapse. A yes vote was to confirm Lew. Nelson, Yes; Rubio, No.

Marco Rubio

- Democratic Sequester Plan: Senators failed, 51-49, to reach 60 votes for advancing a Democratic bill to reshape a $85 billion deficit reduction package due to start March 1. A yes vote backed a balanced approach in which half of the $85 billion in savings would be achieved through tax increases on corporations and the wealthy and the other half through targeted rather than across-the-board spending cuts. (S 388) Nelson, Yes; Rubio, No.
- Republican Sequester Plan: Senators rejected, 38-62, a GOP bill (S 16) to retain $85 billion in fiscal 2013 spending reductions but change them from blind, across-the-board cuts to ones determined by President Obama. A yes vote was to cede to Obama the power to decide how and where to make the cuts, with Congress retaining final say over his decisions. Nelson, No; Rubio, No.
- Key votes ahead: The House planned to debate a continuing resolution to fund the government from March 27 through Sept. 30.

— when demolition had stopped for the day and only a few walls of the home remained — a Bible, family photos, a jewelry box and a pink teddy bear for Hannah were among the items saved. Firefighters also were able to pick out the purse of one of the women in the home.

Cheers went up from family, friends and neighbors each time something valuable was salvaged.

Wanda Carter, the daughter of Leland Wicker, cradled the large family Bible in her arms. She said her mother and father had stored baptism certificates, cards and photos between the pages of that Bible through the years.

"It means that God is still in control, and He knew we needed this for closure," she said, crying.

Carter said she spent from age 11 to 20 in the home, and she had to close her eyes as the home was knocked down.

"Thank you for all of the memories and life it gave us," she said.

The Rev. John Martin Bell of Shoals Baptist Church said he had been with the family all day.

"We just prayed with them," he said.

He added all five who lived in the house — Bush, Wicker, Hannah and two others ages 50 and 45 — were in need of support and prayers from the community.

SINKHOLE FACTS

- The entire state of Florida sits on top of several thousand feet of limestone. The most significant factor in the development of sinkholes is the dissolution of the limestone underlying Florida by naturally acidic groundwater.
- Sinkholes are a natural and common feature of Florida's landscape. Thousands of naturally occurring sinkholes can be seen throughout the state including many that connect underground to springs, rivers and lakes.
- Sinkholes happen in three categories: solution sinkholes, cover-subsidence sinkholes or cover-collapse sinkholes. The first two types will show little topographical disturbance to the naked eye, while the third will feature an abrupt change in topography.

SINKHOLE QUESTIONS

Q.: My yard is settling ... Do I have a sinkhole?

A.: Maybe. But a number of other factors can cause holes, depressions or subsidence of the ground surface. If the settling is affecting a dwelling, further testing by a licensed engineer with a licensed geologist on staff or a licensed geology firm may be in order.

Q.: A sinkhole opened in my neighborhood ... should I be concerned?

A.: Although sinkholes in Florida sometimes occur in sets, most are isolated events. Unless the sinkhole is very large, and extends to your property, there's likely to be little reason for concern.

Q.: Is there a safe area of Florida where there is no chance of sinkholes?

A.: Technically, no. Since the entire state is underlain by carbonate rocks, sinkholes could theoretically form anywhere. However, sinkhole risk is considerably higher in areas where limestone is close to surface.

LETDOWN

"One of the reasons we were interested in moving to this area is because it was deed-restricted," Pat said.

"We looked around before we retired," Bonnie said. "We could have gone anywhere: Port Charlotte, Venice, Naples. But we liked the beauty of this area and the (deed-restriction) covenants."

Bonnie said the property owners' association has been strict with other neighbors who have violated such deed restrictions as leaving a boat parked in a driveway.

"But I do not know why they won't do anything with this," Bonnie said.

Three years ago, the Pattersons complained to the county's code department.

"They came and mowed the grass and cut down some bushes," said Bonnie. "They haven't touched it since."

Bonnie admitted she doesn't know who did the cleanup at that time because she and her husband were out of town when the work was done. The couple said they heard from neighbors that someone from the county took photographs and Mosquito Control treated the swimming pool and spa, both of which teem with green water.

The county has taken an active role in trying to get the owners of the property to restore it to code. A recent letter to the Pattersons from Vincent Cautero, director of the Department of Planning and Development, gives details of a number of complaints received and the county staff's response.

In one complaint about "excessive vegetation" filed by a representative of the homeowners' association, Cautero reported that compliance was not attained and the case was heard by the Special Master on Oct. 27, 2011.

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

Pat and Bonnie Patterson moved from the Midwest and looked all over the state before settling on Citrus County as their home.

"The current property owners — Nicholas, Thomas and William Souris — live in Boston, Mass.," Cautero wrote to the Pattersons. "They inherited the property from their parents. The property was found in violation and four liens have been recorded against the property. There are approximately $68,461.69 plus interest in liens at this time."

Because the property is not in foreclosure, when Cautero usually works with the banks that receive properties to regain compliance, the county and the property owners' association seem to have hit an impasse.

"The (property owners association) used to tell us they couldn't go in there now because the county couldn't collect their liens on it if they cleaned it up." Bonnie said. "Now, the county is not responsible for the property. It's in our covenants very plainly that everybody who owns property is to keep it mowed and looking decent or the property owners' association will do it."

The latest word the Pattersons have had from the property owners' association is that it has started the process to do a cleanup.

"They have to send two letters of notification to the owner," Pat said Sunday.

Just removing debris and mowing the front yard will bring visual relief, at least temporarily. As the Pattersons well know, without regular maintenance, the property will decline in appearance again.

"The only long-term solution is for the property to change hands," Pat said.

Mary Durden, 73
HOMOSASSA

Mary Frances Durden, 73, of Homosassa, Fla., passed away Friday, March 1, 2013, at her home. A native of Tampa, she was born Oct. 6, 1939, to Tommy and Geneva (Martin) Thompson, one of six children. Mrs. Durden moved here in 1995 from Port Richey, Fla. Her professional career included bank management, most recently with SunTrust. She also spent more than five years as secretary at her church, Grace Bible Church of Homosassa, Fla. Mary loved the outdoors; she loved hunting and fishing, but was especially fond of kayaking our local waters and working in her gardens at home.

Mary Durden

She is survived by her husband of nearly 58 years, Alan L. Durden, Homosassa; son Charles Durden (wife Telana), Homosassa; daughter Debra Mitchell (husband Richard Lawhorn), Deltona, Fla.; daughter Sherry Walker, Homosassa; brothers John Thompson and Murray Carver Jr., both of Tampa; sisters Elaine Carver, Roanoke, Va., and Lyn Carver, Tampa; 11 grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral Service of Remembrance will be at 11 a.m. Monday, March 4, 2013, at Grace Bible Church, West Green Acres Street, Homosassa, with Pastor Ray Herriman officiating. Interment will follow at Fountains Memorial Park, Homosassa. Friends will be received from 10 a.m. until time of service at the church. Wilder Funeral Home, Homosassa. www.wilderfuneral.com

Gerald Polter, 95
DUNNELLON

Gerald Alvin Polter, 95, of Dunnellon, Fla., passed away March 1, 2013, under the loving care of his family and Hospice.

He was born Oct. 24, 1917, in Mark Center, Ohio, and was married to Margaret Jane (Cooper) Polter for 72 years, who preceded him in death in May 2012. Gerald was one of seven children and is survived by one sister, Ruby Cline, Mark Center, Ohio. He is survived by her children, John and wife Charlene Polter of Ocala, Sue (Dobson) and husband Larry Kyle of Gillette, Wyo., and Linda and husband Curtis McKeown of Citrus Springs.

Gerald had six grandchildren, Gale and husband Orville Hill of Texas, Anne Marie (Dobson) and husband Steven Berry of Citrus Springs, Chris and wife Mary Polter of Ocala, Stephanie (McKeown) and husband Benton Gardner of Citrus Springs, Cori (McKeown) Boney of Crystal River and Gerald Scott and wife Tawnie Dobson of Sheridan, Wyo.

Gerald had 14 great-grandchildren, Ashley Hill; Steven Hill; Brady Berry; Brien Polter and John Christopher Polter; Amber Collins and James Collins; Ethan Gardner and Jack Gardner; Collin Boney and Caralyn Boney; and Mikel Dobson, Kole Dobson and Trace Dobson.

Gerald had two great-great-grandchildren, Eric Flores and Abriana Flores.

Gerald was preceded in death by his parents, George H. and Dora Apple Polter. Gerald, working with his wife, farmed in Ohio before moving to Florida in 1958. They owned a chicken farm in Longwood until 1971, when they moved to Crystal River and built a chicken farm in Homosassa. They moved to Dunnellon in 1978 and owned Dunnellon Ace Hardware until he retired. After his retirement, Gerald became an avid woodworker, building furniture for himself, his children and grandchildren. He and Margaret also loved to travel.

Gerald was a member of the Masonic Lodge for more than 65 years, in both Ohio and Florida. He was a member of the Dunnellon United Methodist Church and Dunnellon Kiwanis Club.

Visitation will be from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday, March 4, 2013, at Roberts Funeral Home of Dunnellon. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday, March 5, 2013, at the funeral home, with interment to follow at Dunnellon Memorial Gardens.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions can be made to Hospice of Citrus County, P.O. Box 641270, Beverly Hills, FL 34464.

Expressions of sympathy may be made online at www.robertsofdunnellon.com.

Bobby Rogers, 73
SINGER

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — Bobby Rogers, a founding member of Motown group The Miracles and a collaborator with Smokey Robinson, has died. He was 73.

Motown Museum board member Allen Rawls said Rogers died Sunday morning at his home.

Rogers had been ill for several years. He lived in the Detroit suburb of Southfield.

Rogers formed the group in 1956 with cousin Claudette Rogers, Pete Moore, Ronnie White and Robinson. Their hits included "I Second That Emotion" and "The Tears of a Clown."

Muslum Gurses, 59
TURKISH SINGER

ANKARA, Turkey — The popular Turkish singer Muslum Gurses, adored by many for his melancholic, Arabic-inspired songs, has died. He was 59.

Deniz Sener, a cardiologist at Istanbul's Memorial Hospital said the singer, nicknamed "Muslum Baba" or "Papa Muslum," died of heart failure Sunday. He had been hospitalized since bypass surgery in November.

He had acquired a cult following among the young with his interpretation of Turkish pop and rock sounds.

Gurses is survived by his wife. His funeral was scheduled for Monday in Istanbul.

Armando Trovajoli, 95
COMPOSER

ROME — Armando Trovajoli, an Italian who composed music for some 300 films and whose lush and playful serenade to Rome is a much-requested romantic standby for tourists, has died at age 95.

The city's mayor, Gianni Alemanno, mourned Trovajoli's passing, saying in a statement "the voice of Rome has been extinguished." Widow Maria Paola Trovajoli announced the death Saturday, saying her husband had died a few days before in Rome but declining to give the exact date.

"Roma nun fa' la stupida stasera," written for the 1962 stage musical "Rugantino," became Trovajoli's most famous song.

NUKE

GOP Rep. Jeff Chapman found just a single co-sponsor, Democratic Rep. Karla Drenner.

As a regulated monopoly, Georgia Power earns about 11 percent in profits when it invests its own money into power projects. Chapman's legislation would reduce those profits if the nuclear project is over budget, as is the current projection.

"Conservatives do not believe in incentivizing failure," Debbie Dooley, a co-founder of the Atlanta Tea Party, recently told Georgia lawmakers. "They should not profit from this mistake."

Southern Co. has said the nuclear plant is still a better economic deal than the alternatives over the long run.

In Florida, lawmakers want to end the practice of utilities collecting fees from customers before any electricity is produced.

"The price tag keeps going up. The timeframe they are going to build it has been extended year after year after year," said state Rep. Mike Fasano, a Republican and self-described nuclear power supporter.

Fasano's bill would eliminate advance collections; a Democratic lawmaker filed a similar proposal.

"A lot of people are paying for something that they'll never see any return on their money," Fasano said.

The fees have also been targeted in court, but the Florida Supreme Court has not yet ruled on whether to overturn them.

Southern Co. also benefits from advanced collections, though Georgia lawmakers have not focused on that money.

The Florida Public Service Commission voted in November to allow the state's two largest utilities to charge customers for $294 million this year for the costs of future nuclear facilities.

Progress Energy Florida, which has been purchased by North Carolina-based Duke Energy, has collected more than $819 million from its customers for two nuclear projects, according to the Florida Public Service Commission.

One was to expand the capacity of the now-crippled Crystal River plant, work that resulted in damage that shut down the facility.

Associated Press

Part of the containment vessel for a new nuclear reactor at the Plant Vogtle nuclear power plant is shown under construction Dec. 11, 2012, in Augusta, Ga. With the cost of nuclear plants rising, a handful of state officials are showing signs of buyer's regret. The reservations come as two of the three nuclear plants under construction have faced cost overruns just as electricity generated by natural gas has gotten cheaper.

The utility was also using the fee to pursue a new nuclear plant in Levy County.

Progress Energy Florida still needs a license for the plant from federal regulators and pushed back the opening of the first Levy County reactor to 2024. Some question whether it will be built at all.

Four GOP senators in Florida said recently they will seek to put limits on the collections. Lawmakers said their upcoming bill will set a deadline for utilities to start construction and make sure power companies cannot earn a profit off any prepayments if they do not build a nuclear facility.

"On the details, there is plenty of room for conversation," Sen. John Legg said at a Feb. 21 news conference. "But on these three principles there will be no room for compromise."

patients arriving by ambulance.

"This is not a hospital project, this is a community project," Dennison said.

Mehl said CMHS has processes to:

■ Reduce the time from onset of symptoms to diagnosis and treatment.

■ Treat patients quicker during the critical window of time when the integrity of the heart muscle can be preserved.

■ Monitor patients to ensure they are not sent home too quickly.

About 9 percent of the emergency room patients arrive complaining of chest pain, Dennison said.

On a related topic, the hospital also announced its Heart and Vascular Center received two three-star ratings from the Society of Thoracic Surgeons for excellence in surgical care.

The three-star ratings are the highest that can be achieved.

"We are very proud to know we have a very good heart program," said C.J. Hosea, manager of the Cardiac Catheterization Lab.

The three-star ratings were for overall quality in coronary artery bypass surgery and aortic valve replacement surgery.

ART JONES/Special to the Chronicle

A deep-reach lyngbya harvester is being prepared for launch at Pete's Pier.

Deep water lyngbya harvester hits King's Bay

Special to the Chronicle

CRYSTAL RIVER — Recovery Solutions LLC, based in Aripeka, launched a custom-built lyngbya harvester a few days ago to help remove thick mats of algae suffocating the bottom of King's Bay.

The machinery can reach down as far as 10.5 feet deep, which will help the Kings Bay Rotary's "One Rake at a Time" service project.

"Until now the deep layers of lyngbya have been out of reach of any mechanical lyngbya harvesters that generally can only reach depths of 5 to 6 feet," Project director Art Jones said.

With a few minor modifications the deep-reaching harvester should be ready soon to help volunteers who are hand-raking lyngbya from the shallow areas of King's Bay.

A transport barge also was launched and will help the efficiency of the harvesters as they can keep working and spend less time going back and forth to unload the noxious lyngbya at staging areas.

The goals of the "One Rake at a Time" project are to improve water quality, clarity and quantity so manatee, fish and human habitat can improve. By removing benthic mats of lyngbya, spring vents have been uncovered and are flowing again, Jones said. Increased flows of spring water from re-opened spring vents will help wash pollutants out of King's Bay.

King's Bay is a challenging place to work because so much of the prime waterfront has beautiful homes with little access to the water for cleanup efforts.

This transport barge, launched at Pete's Pier recently, will enable weed harvesters to offload lyngbya at staging areas.

"Those who have allowed the use of their property for the 'One Rake at a Time' clean-up effort have earned a very big thank-you from the entire community," Jones said.

Lyngbya is a filamentous algae that has invaded King's Bay, crowding out beneficial submerged aquatic vegetation and in turn destroying manatee, fish and human habitat. Lyngbya robs oxygen out of the water creating dead zones along the bottom of parts of King's Bay, Jones said.

Lyngbya hordes nutrients and thrives on polluted dirty water. The more lyngbya removed the more pollution is removed, Jones explained. A cleaner water column and the removal of thick mats of lyngbya will allow native water plants the chance to return.

63 year old Ralph Burns enjoying a spicy-hot portion of Lobster Fra Diavolo. Just 15 minutes after taking AloeCure®

Here's My Story: I've Suffered With Acid Reflux for Almost 40 Years Now. Unless you experience it; you can't imagine how horrible it is. Every time I ate spicy foods I would get what I called "ROT GUT". Like something was rotting in my stomach. But now I can eat anything... No matter how spicy. Even if I never could before.

Let me explain…

For the better part of my life; I purposely avoided a lot of foods. Especially ones with even a tiny bit of seasoning. Because if I didn't, I'd experience a burning sensation through my esophagus— like somebody poured hot lead or battery acid down my throat. Add to that, those disgusting "mini-throw ups" and I was in "indigestion hell".

"I was beside myself. What was I gonna do? Keep taking the pills, or suffer with problems that could ultimately be my demise".

Doctors put me on all sorts of antacid remedies. But nothing worked. Or if they did, it would only be for a brief period. And then boom! My nightmare would return.

Sometimes, I felt like I was dying. The pain was unbearable and nothing could make it stop.

But then my wife, who occasionally suffered with the same problem; gave me one of her prescription acid blockers. It was a miracle. I felt like I could live again. Because before that, I was just miserable. I wanted to kill myself. But thankfully, it worked, and worked well.

I felt great, until about one year ago; when I read an FDA warning that scared the heck out of me. It went something like this…

FDA WARNING! Using proton pump inhibitors (PPIs) on a long term basis, increases your risk of hip, bone and spinal fractures.

That's a particular concern to me, since many acid blockers are PPI's. I've gone through two back surgeries and bilateral hip replacements. I had to ask myself, could PPI's have been responsible for my medical woes? After all...

"The Recommended Treatment for Prilosec®, Prevacid® and Other PPI's is Only 14-DAYS, I Took Them for 14 YEARS!"

I was "between a rock and a hard place". Stop using the PPIs and I'm a "dead man in the water". It would be unbearable. I wouldn't be able to eat anything. I'd have to go on a water diet.

But that FDA warning was scary. I knew I had to stop or else risk developing spinal stenosis. My mother had that.

"Every time I ate something that didn't agree with me… I'd get what I called 'Rot Gut' — like my stomach was rotting out!"

And I watched her die a horrible death. Her spine just fractured. It was the worst death. She didn't deserve that. And neither do I.

I had to quit. So I stopped taking PPI's for a day or so. But my indigestion was worse than ever. I would rather take the chance of a spinal fracture than to live like that again. I tried everything. Even started using home remedies like Apple cider vinegar. But it just felt like I was pouring even more acid down my throat.

Then one day at dinner, a friend of mine said "why don't you try an aloe drink?" I said "aloe drink"? Jeez. That doesn't sound good at all!" The next day he brought me a case of something called AloeCure®. I was skeptical, but I was desperate! So instead of being an ingrate I decided to try it.

And here's the best part. The next day we had Italian food — my worst enemy. But for the first time in 40 years I didn't get indigestion without relying on prescription or OTC pills and tablets. Finally, I just didn't need them anymore!

I was so thrilled; I wrote the AloeCure® company to tell them how amazing their product is. They thanked me, and asked me to tell my story... The story that changed my life. I said "Sure, but only if you send me a hefty supply of AloeCure®. I just can't live without it."

But don't believe me. You have to try this stuff for yourself. I recommend AloeCure® to anyone who suffers with the same problem I did. It gives you immediate relief. You'll be grateful you did. I sure am. It's the best thing that's happened to me in a long, long time.

TRY IT 100% RISK-FREE!

The makers of AloeCure® have agreed to send you up to 6 FREE bottles PLUS 2 free bonus gifts with every order— they're yours to keep no matter what.

That's enough AloeCure® for 30 days of powerful digestive relief, absolutely FREE! But hurry! This is a special introductory offer, reserved for our readers only.

DO NO HARM

Find fix to problematic intersection

State planners want to alleviate traffic jams in Floral City by redesigning the intersection at State Road 44 and Orange Avenue to include a turn lane.

The problem for Florida Department of Transportation, county planners and Floral City business owners is the tight spaces between existing businesses and the road once right-of-way is recaptured.

There's bringing traffic to your doorstep and then there's bringing traffic to your doorstep as pointed out by one business owner, Connie Jones of Connie's Kickstand. Her fear is her business will be even closer to the traffic that speeds by, making it even more dangerous for her clients to frequent her establishment.

The Floral City intersection improvement plan would be part of the state's U.S. 41 resurfacing project scheduled to start this summer. While the project would stay within the existing right of way and not impact the historic oaks along the road, it would impact businesses frontage and potentially remove valuable parking spots from the businesses.

THE ISSUE:
Floral City intersection.

OUR OPINION:
Retain community's charm; respect business' needs.

FDOT and county planners recently spoke to the community to hear from them their concerns. This is the right step.

We encourage the state and county to continue the dialogue with business owners most affected by change. We also encourage county leaders to act in a business-friendly way and seek to retain the community's charm while working out a solution that accomplishes the state's goals, but does not harm existing businesses.

Squabble elsewhere

Please keep the county commission meetings professional. Sort out your issues with each other behind closed doors.

Resolve today's problems

Scott Adams needs to redirect his work effort from rock throwing to developing plans to resolve today's problems. He should first develop his plan to eliminate $14 million from the budget to compensate for the closing of the nuclear plant.

Paul Ryan reveals hope

Cal Thomas
OTHER VOICES

House Budget Committee Chairman Paul Ryan, R-Wis., is looking beyond Friday and the beginning of the sequestration.

In an interview I conducted with him Tuesday on Capitol Hill, Ryan told me he believes a majority of Americans will come to understand how bad the debt is after the rhetoric gives way to reality.

"Mitt (Romney) and I shadowboxed against the theory of big government," he said, "while (President) Obama made all the great promises of what it delivered and used soaring rhetoric to sell it, but that will be different in a second term (when) the results start materializing."

As one example, Ryan mentioned the impact of the Affordable Care Act — Obamacare — on seniors. He believes when seniors begin to experience Obamacare's negative effects it will "put us in a much better position not just to say, 'I told you so,' but to show there's a far better way than 15 people on a board appointed by the president making all these decisions that will ration your health care on top of all these ... price controls to providers that will restrict your access."

By the end of next year, Ryan believed, "... you'll see a lot of anxiety in the health care provider community that will damage access to health care for seniors and I think the bloom will come off the Obamacare rose, such as it exists today (with) every additional year of implementation."

Ryan said health care providers are already telling some members of Congress about their "negative margins with Obamacare kicking in" and how the law will either force them to close, or "they're going to stop taking people, or overcharge the private payers who increasingly will dump their employees into the Obamacare program."

"The president said, 'if you like your plan you can keep it,'" Ryan said. "Not true. The president said this was going to improve Medicare. He said health care costs would go down. They've gone up."

Given all this, what will Ryan and the Republicans do when across-the-board spending cuts begin?

"Our job is to buy the country time," he told me. "That means we need a down payment on the debt and deficits. We need to buy time for the bond markets to push off a debt crisis outside of the four-year window. We then go to the country with a real agenda of specific alternatives to this progressive experiment that's unfolding to win 2016 so we can actually fix this thing before it's too late."

He said he's not worried about polls that show a majority of the country will blame Republicans for the sequester: "Getting actual accomplishments by getting debt and deficits under control, stabilizing our debt to buy the country time so we don't have a debt crisis" will allow Republicans to "go to the country with a crystal clear choice that more clearly juxtapose(s) against the reality of big government under Obama is what we have to shoot for."

Ryan said the House next week will give the president "... some reprogramming authority to be able to direct cuts to lower priority areas from higher priority areas."

What if the Senate doesn't go along?

"That's their choice," he said.

Ryan recalled how scare tactics failed in the 1996 debate over welfare reform when liberals lamented cuts to the welfare program they believed would surely lead to poor children starving in the streets of America. Instead, Clinton's welfare-to-work program made it possible for many low-income Americans to get jobs. Ryan called the current GOP plan "Welfare Reform 2.0" and expects similar positive results by focusing on "improving prosperity, opportunity and individual responsibility."

Democrats have "won a battle, but not the war," Ryan said.

Is he optimistic he will win the war?

"I wouldn't be here if I wasn't."

LETTERS to the Editor

Right to bear arms

The original intent of the Second Amendment has nothing to do with the kind of weapons we can possess. During colonial times people did not own AR-15, but then again, neither did government.

"A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

The militia, comprised of everyday people, and the free state represented an independent sovereign nation. The right of the people to keep and bear arms was intended to mean the people were the armed militia that would keep their sovereign state secure. The right to bear arms guaranteed citizens would not be at the mercy of any power, especially the government, if it wanted to encroach on their state sovereignty.

The Constitution and the Bill of Rights do not give us rights. We already have rights that cannot be taken away without our consent — rights that are inalienable, given to us by our Creator, who is a free being that created us in his own image. The Constitution created a federal government, and the people gave the servant-government certain delineated and enumerated limited powers. The people pushed for a Bill of Rights just to be certain this new servant-government would not threaten our sovereign rights. The Bill of Rights does not confer any rights either, it further defines the limited powers of the federal government. Our Constitution is not a law or a set of laws; it is a framework for the structure and the limited authority of government. And it is up to the people to remind government of these limitations.

Government gets its powers from the consent of the people, or what is also referred to as "popular sovereignty" — the consent by the governed. This defines the concept that political and legislative power resides with the citizens.

The Bill of Rights underscores some important rights that cannot be infringed by government: the right to bear arms, the right to free speech, the right to peacefully assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances, the right of the people to be secured in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, etc.

As our founders were delineating these uninfringeable rights, it concerned them some may come to believe the people were not entitled to certain other rights because they were not specifically mentioned, so they inserted the Ninth Amendment: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

Construe means to interpret, to analyze the structure of, to translate, an interpretation or translation, to analyze grammatical structure, etc.

The Ninth Amendment states no "interpretation, or any translation of those rights stated in the Constitution, can deny other rights, not implied, but that are still retained by the people." In order words, just because a right is not specifically enumerated as a right in the Constitution, this does not mean we do not have such right.

Shouts from communist China and other gangster governments such as Mexico, nor the gun ban agenda of the United Nations, and not even President Obama or Congresswoman Feinstein's gun-ban legislation, will infringe on our right to keep and bear arms, because it would be unconstitutional to do so.

If government can dictate our rights, then the right to marry, to procreate, the right to vote, even the right to exist becomes subjective.

This is not the proper role of government.

Silence is deadly

Yesterday (Feb. 26) I listened and watched in disbelief, some juvenile antics on the part of certain members of the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) during their regular-scheduled meeting.

A lethal silence occurred each time a contentious motion was attempted by Commissioner Scott Adams.

This prompted the chair to state, "The motion has died for lack of a second."

The use of this inane tactic effectively muzzled him.

This noticeable pernicious ploy also deprives county residents of a democratic debate. The BOCC should be ashamed because a seconded motion was designed for just that intended purpose. Having no debate is a disgraceful disservice to constituents.

Regardless if a motion incites a heated discussion or not, the public record of the meeting identifies each commissioner, their participation (or lack thereof) and their vote in the ensuing debate. Voters elect commissioners for a myriad of reasons. They most assuredly are entitled to learn how their candidates respond to difficult political issues

I wonder! Maybe that's the real reason for this unquestionably detrimental "silence scheme."

Supplies arrive at ISS

Dragon capsule delivers items to space station

MARCIA DUNN
AP aerospace writer

Associated Press

This frame grab made available by NASA TV shows a view of the SpaceX Dragon capsule on the end of the International Space Station's robotic arm Sunday. The spacecraft delivered more than 1 ton of supplies to the the International Space Station.

CAPE CANAVERAL — A private Earth-to-orbit delivery service made good on its latest shipment to the International Space Station on Sunday, overcoming mechanical difficulty and delivering a ton of supplies with high-flying finesse.

To NASA's relief, the SpaceX company's Dragon capsule pulled up to the orbiting lab with all of its systems in perfect order. Station astronauts used a hefty robot arm to snare the unmanned Dragon, and three hours later, it was bolted into place.

The Dragon's arrival couldn't have been sweeter — and not because of the fresh fruit on board for the six-man station crew. Coming a full day late, the 250-mile-high linkup above Ukraine culminated a two-day chase that got off to a shaky, almost dead-ending start.

Moments after the Dragon reached orbit Friday, a clogged pressure line or stuck valve prevented the timely release of the solar panels and the crucial firing of small maneuvering rockets. SpaceX flight controllers struggled for several hours before gaining control of the capsule and salvaging the mission.

"As they say, it's not where you start, but where you finish that counts," space station commander Kevin Ford said after capturing the Dragon, "and you guys really finished this one on the mark."

He added: "We've got lots of science on there to bring aboard and get done. So congratulations to all of you."

Among the items on board: 640 seeds of a flowering weed used for research, mouse stem cells, food and clothes for the six men on board the space station, trash bags, computer equipment, air purifiers, spacewalking tools and batteries. The company also tucked away apples and other fresh treats from an employee's family orchard.

The Dragon will remain at the space station for most of March before returning to Earth with science samples, empty food containers and old equipment.

The California-based SpaceX run by billionaire Elon Musk has a $1.6 billion contract with NASA to keep the station well stocked. The contract calls for 12 supply runs; this was the second in that series.

This is the third time, however, a Dragon has visited the space station. The previous capsules had no trouble reaching their destination. Company officials promise a thorough investigation into what went wrong this time; if the maneuvering thrusters had not been activated, the capsule would have been lost.

Ford said everything about Sunday's rendezvous ended up being "fantastic."

Legislature could stop Medicaid from expanding

Issue may be top priority in 60-day session

KELLI KENNEDY
Associated Press

Will Weatherford
state Speaker of the House.

MIAMI — Republican Gov. Rick Scott may have gotten ahead of himself when he recently dropped the bombshell he now supports expanding Medicaid by an estimated 900,000 residents under President Barack Obama's health care overhaul.

Minutes after Scott's announcement, House Speaker Will Weatherford pointed out Medicaid expansion required legislative approval. That battle between the Republican governor and the GOP-dominated Legislature could dominate the annual 60-day legislative session, which begins Tuesday.

"I am personally skeptical that this inflexible law will improve the quality of health care in our state and ensure our long-term financial stability," Weatherford said.

Health committees in the House and Senate are still painstakingly making their way through presentations on the expansion and haven't made any decisions, but behind the scenes maneuverings have been telling.

Former Gov. Jeb Bush recently visited the state Capitol while Scott was out of town and privately encouraged House Republicans to create an alternative proposal instead of expanding Medicaid, though he apparently did not offer a specific plan.

Rep. Richard Corcoran, who chairs a House committee charged with implementing the Affordable Care Act, said "skeptical would be a nice way to describe where I stand." But he stressed the committee is still weighting options.

"There's a lot of skepticism about whether the federal government has the ability to do what they say they're going to do. I have a lot of skepticism about a one-size-fits-all program that is generally not quality health care," said Corcoran, R-Land O' Lakes.

Growing push to halt workplace bullying

Associated Press

Associated Press

Margaret Fiester is operations manager at the Society for Human Resource Management.

WASHINGTON — Margaret Fiester is no shrinking violet, but she said working for her former boss was a nightmare.

"One day I didn't do something right and she actually laid her hands on me and got up in my face and started yelling, 'Why did you do that?'" said Fiester, who worked as a legal assistant for an attorney.

Fiester doesn't have to worry about those tirades anymore, but she hears lots of similar stories in her current role as operations manager at the Society for Human Resource Management, where she often fields questions about the growing issue of workplace bullying.

On-the-job bullying can take many forms, from a supervisor's verbal abuse and threats to cruel comments or relentless teasing by a co-worker. And it could become the next major battleground in employment law as a growing number of states consider legislation that would let workers sue for harassment that causes physical or emotional harm.

"I believe this is the new claim that employers will deal with. This will replace sexual harassment," said Sharon Parella, a management-side employment lawyer in New York. "People who oppose it say these laws will force people to be polite at work. But you can no longer go to work and act like a beast and get away with it."

Many companies already recognize workplace bullying as a problem that can sap morale, lead to increased employee turnover and even affect the bottom line. Half the employers in a 2011 survey by the management association reported incidents of bullying in their workplace, and about a fourth of human resource professionals themselves said they had been bullied.

At St. Anthony North Hospital outside of Denver, human resources director Robert Archibold said most of the bullying incidents he sees are peer-to-peer. In a recent case, one worker got offended by a co-worker's remark and suggested they "take it out to the parking lot." The offending worker was suspended under the hospital's anti-bullying policy, which has been in place for more than a decade.

"Hostile work environments, threats, bullying can come from anywhere," he said. "You can't tell by looking at someone who it will be."

Parents die in NY crash; infant alive

NEW YORK — A pregnant young woman who was feeling ill was headed to the hospital with her husband early Sunday when the car they were riding in was hit, killing them both, but their baby boy was born prematurely and survived, authorities and a relative said.

The driver of a BMW slammed into the car carrying Nachman and Raizy Glauber, both 21, at an intersection in the Williamsburg neighborhood of Brooklyn, said Isaac Abraham, a neighbor of Raizy Glauber's parents who lives two blocks from the scene of the crash.

Raizy was thrown from the car and her body landed under a parked tractor-trailer, said witnesses who came to the scene after the crash. Nachman was pinned in the car, and emergency workers had to cut off the roof to get him out, witnesses said.

Both of the Glaubers were pronounced dead at hospitals, police said.

Their infant son was in serious condition, said Abraham. The hospital did not return calls about the child. The Glaubers' driver was in stable condition, police said. Both the driver of the BMW and a passenger fled and were being sought, police said.

No water due to power failure

NEW ORLEANS — Taps in New Orleans briefly went dry Sunday after a boiler's heating flame went out of control in the immense steam generator that powers pumps for the city's water treatment plant.

Marcia St. Martin, executive director of the city's Sewerage and Water Board, said the outage lasted less than 20 minutes Sunday.

Pickler's drummer hurt in Ky. crash

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The drummer for country music star Kellie Pickler was in serious condition Sunday as one of five people hospitalized in two crashes that happened within minutes at the same spot on Interstate 65 in central Kentucky and killed six.

Pickler's manager said 36-year-old Gregg Lohman of Goodlettsville, Tenn., suffered serious injuries in the wreck Saturday. He remained in serious condition Sunday.

Kentucky State Police Master Trooper Norm Chaffins said Lohman had head and neck injuries after a four-vehicle wreck in the southbound lanes. It happened about 15 minutes after a fiery crash involving a tractor-trailer and an SUV on the northbound side of the highway.

Six people from rural Wisconsin were killed when the tractor-trailer rear-ended their Ford Expedition at about 11:13 a.m. Saturday in the northbound lanes near Glendale, Ky.

Tax bills for rich higher

Top 20 percent paying more than 30 years ago

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The poor rich.

With Washington gridlocked again over whether to raise their taxes, it turns out wealthy families already are paying some of their biggest federal tax bills in decades even as the rest of the population continues to pay at historically low rates.

President Barack Obama and Democratic leaders in Congress say the wealthy must pay their fair share if the federal government is ever going to fix its finances and reduce the budget deficit to a manageable level.

A new analysis, however, shows that average tax bills for high-income families rarely have been higher since the Congressional Budget Office began tracking the data in 1979. Middle- and low-income families aren't paying as much as they used to.

For 2013, families with incomes in the top 20 percent of the nation will pay an average of 27.2 percent of their income in federal taxes, according to projections by the Tax Policy Center, a research organization based in Washington. The top 1 percent of households, those with incomes averaging $1.4 million, will pay an average of 35.5 percent.

Those tax rates, which include income, payroll, corporate and estate taxes, are among the highest since 1979.

The average family in the bottom 20 percent of households won't pay any federal taxes. Instead, many families in this group will get payments from the federal government by claiming more in credits than they owe in taxes, including payroll taxes. That will give them a negative tax rate.

"My sense is that high-income people feel abused by being targeted always for more taxes," Roberton Williams, a fellow at the Tax Policy Center, said. "You can understand why they feel that way."

Last week, Senate Democrats were unable to advance their proposal to raise taxes on some wealthy families for the second time this year as part of a package to avoid automatic spending cuts. The bill failed Thursday when Republicans blocked it. A competing Republican bill that included no tax increases also failed, and the automatic spending cuts began taking effect Friday.

Associated Press

Catholics pray during a Mass on Sunday at the Mother of God sanctuary in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Catholics around the world attended the first Masses since Benedict stepped down as pope. Many prayed for an energetic, new leader to reinvigorate what many said was an ailing institution.

Catholics pray for smooth succession

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Filipinos in Asia's largest predominantly Roman Catholic nation attended Mass on Sunday with their church having no pope because of Benedict XVI's resignation — the first in 600 years — and prayed for the smooth rise of a successor to lead an embattled institution.

Benedict stunned the world when he announced Feb. 11 he would resign, citing his age and frail health. His resignation, which took effect Thursday, ushered in a period known as "sede vacante," or "vacant see" — the transition period between papacies when a few Vatican officials take charge of running the church.

All cardinals worldwide have been summoned to the Vatican for a conclave to elect Benedict's successor. The new pope will inherit a church facing a tide of secularism in Europe, as well as clergy sex abuse and corruption scandals that have underscored the need to pick a formidable successor to lead the world's 1.2 billion Catholics.

Churchgoers and the clergy in the Philippines said they were not worried by the temporary absence of a pope, but nevertheless felt the vacuum.

"There is something missing more or less in spirit," said the Rev. Joel Sulse, who celebrated Mass at the Santuario de San Antonio parish in an upscale residential enclave in Manila's Makati business district. "It's also a challenge. It's like when there is no leader, you really have to stand for your convictions."

Many churchgoers said their faith would endure at all times, expressing confidence the Catholic church would soon have a new pontiff after a transition with its key doctrines intact.

"We know they will elect a pope, so there will still be a pope," said Ely Santos, who went to Mass with her husband and daughter at Christ the King church in a middle-class community in Manila's suburban Quezon city.

> "It's like when there is no leader, you really have to stand for your convictions."
> The Rev. Joel Sulse

Sulse's parish and other Catholic churches across the Southeast Asian nation offered prayers for a hassle-free Vatican conclave of cardinals to elect a new pope.

Although Sulse noted a new pontiff from the developing world may have a better grasp of problems afflicting many Catholics, he said Filipinos should pray for any pope who "can be strong yet loving."

"How we wish that, you know, there will be a pope coming from the third or fourth world," he said.

Such a pope, he said, would be familiar with the realities in impoverished Catholic nations.

Such yearning for a strong successor to St. Peter's throne echoed from people from all walks of life. At the chandelier-lit church where Sulse said Mass, many traveled in SUVs from nearby exclusive residential enclaves to the air-conditioned parish building with beautifully manicured lawns.

Churchgoer Miguel Guerrero said the next pontiff should be a dynamic leader who can lead the church in a modern era beset by long-pestering problems such as poverty. Technology could help the church accomplish its mission, he said.

"He must be able to use his efforts and achievements to bring the Christian world to a modern state of which we are now experiencing because of the advent of technology," Guerrero said.

Accused Scottish cardinal admits failings

Associated Press

LONDON — A Scottish cardinal on Sunday acknowledged having engaged in unspecified sexual misbehavior, apologized for his actions, and promised to stay out of the church's public life in a statement that comes at an awkward time for the Vatican.

Cardinal Keith O'Brien had been Britain's highest-ranking Catholic leader until he resigned Monday from his position as archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, a departure prompted by a newspaper report about unnamed priests' allegations he acted inappropriately toward them.

O'Brien initially rejected the claims, saying he was resigning because he did not want to distract from the upcoming conclave of cardinals due to pick a successor to Benedict XVI. O'Brien also became the first cardinal to recuse himself from the conclave because of personal scandal.

On Sunday, the Catholic church in Scotland issued a statement quoting O'Brien as saying there had been times "that my sexual conduct has fallen below the standards expected of me as a priest, archbishop and cardinal."

China earthquake destroys homes

BEIJING — A moderate earthquake struck southwest China on Sunday, causing hundreds of homes to collapse and injuring at least 30 people.

The earthquake bureau in Yunnan province, where the quake occurred, said three of the injured people were in serious condition.

The official Xinhua News Agency said the quake damaged 2,500 houses and caused 700 others to collapse.

About 55,000 people were affected by the quake, Xinhua said, citing Yunnan's Civil Affairs Department. Supplies were on their way to the area.

The magnitude-5.5 quake struck 32 miles from the city of Dali, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

Syrian opposition head visits rebels

BEIRUT — Following rebel gains, the leader of the Syrian opposition made his first visit Sunday to areas near the embattled northern city of Aleppo as fighters trying to oust President Bashar Assad captured a police academy and a border crossing along the frontier with Iraq.

Assad, meanwhile, lashed out at the West for helping his opponents in the civil war, delivering a blistering rebuke to Secretary of State John Kerry's announcement the U.S. will for the first time provide medical supplies and other non-lethal aid directly to the rebels in addition to $60 million in assistance to Syria's political opposition.

Aleppo, the nation's largest city, has been a major front in the nearly 2-year-old uprising.

Car bomb kills 37 in Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan — Police say a car bomb has killed at least 37 people and wounded another 141 in a neighborhood dominated by Shiite Muslims in the southern Pakistan city of Karachi.

No one has taken responsibility for the bombing, but Shiites Muslims have been increasingly targeted by Sunni militant groups.

The bomb exploded outside a Shiite mosque as people were leaving evening prayers.

Nigerian base attacked; 20 dead

MAIDUGURI, Nigeria — Fighters linked to the radical Islamic terrorist network Boko Haram attacked a military base in Nigeria's north on Sunday in an assault that left at least 20 people dead, as the network's leader denied any peace talks with Nigeria's government.

The attack in the village of Monguno punctuated the video statement by Abubakar Shekau that said Nigeria will remain under attack by the group until the multiethnic nation is ruled under Islamic law.

Another Icebreaker title for Anderson family

Local drivers reassert dominance at Citrus County Speedway

SEAN ARNOLD
Correspondent

INVERNESS — Wayne Anderson won his second Florida United Promoters Late Model Series Icebreaker 100 while local drivers Richie Smith, Curtis Flanagan and Karlin Ray reasserted their dominance this season in their respective classes among a crowded lineup of races at the Citrus County Speedway on Saturday.

Anderson started in the second row and quickly moved into the second position behind his son, Randy Anderson, who finished third. The father got by the son on turns 3 and 4 of lap 10 and never relinquished the lead despite four yellow flags and a red flag — prompted by a leak on the track — occurring in the remaining 90 laps.

Wayne Anderson's father, Dick Anderson, won four Icebreakers — which serve as a season opener for the Florida United Promoters Series (FUPS) — including the inaugural edition in 1980. Wayne Anderson won his other Icebreaker in 2009.

Race results

See the entire list of results from Saturday night's action in Inverness on Page B4.

"This was a big one because my dad won the first one and this makes the second time I won it, and I'm awfully proud of that," the Wildwood driver said. "It was an awesome racecar. It was good from the time we unloaded last night. I want to thank my son (Randy Anderson). He's the one that does all the work on this racecar."

Brooksville's Daniel Webster slid into the second spot just before the red flag on lap 54 en route to a second-place finish.

"Our car really needed long runs, and the red flag killed it," Webster said. "Then it came on really, really strong and I actually caught Wayne (Anderson), but then he drove away again on the next green (flag)."

Lakeland's Steve Dorer was unable to defend his 2012 Icebreaker victory due to car problems prior to the race.

Two weeks after climbing 15 spots to finish second, Hernando's Smith captured his second feature win of the season in the Open Wheel Modified division by catapulting from 10th to first in the first 29 laps of the 45-lap event. Seffner's L.J. Grimm and Inverness' Herb Neumann Jr., a Late Model driver who edged out Smith on Feb. 16, each made late pushes to finish second and third, respectively, in what proved to be the nights most competitive and well-run race, with cars running side-by-side during multiple stretches.

Brooksville's Mike Bell and Lakeland's Aaron Williamson grabbed the top two spots in the Sportsman class for the second time in as many features. Bell, a second-place finisher on Feb. 16, eked out a hard-charging Williamson after making it to the front on the second turn of the fifth lap. The Brooksville driver looked unbeatable for much of the race, until Williamson caught fire and made a go of it in the final 10 laps of the 30-lap feature.

"We needed a caution," Williamson

Thompson wins Honda for first title

Associated Press

PALM BEACH GARDENS — On a long, hard day at the Honda Classic, Michael Thompson relied on a superb short game to win for the first time on the PGA Tour.

Thompson seized control early with a 50-foot eagle putt on the third hole, then kept his distance with clutch par saves and closed with a birdie from the bunker. It gave him a 1-under 69 — one of only five rounds under par at PGA National — and a two-shot win over Geoff Ogilvy.

"This week was magical," Thompson said. "Just had a groove and kept feeling it."

It was a big week for Ogilvy, too.

The former U.S. Open champion had plunged to No. 79 in the world ranking and already missed the Match Play Championship. He was prepared for another week off next week until putting together four solid rounds.

He chipped in from behind the 16th green for birdie and two-putted for birdie on the 18th for a 69. The runner-up finish moves him into the top 50 (No. 47) and gets him into the World Golf Championship at Doral.

Luke Guthrie, tied with Thompson for the 54-hole lead, fell behind with a bogey on the second hole and closed with a 73 to finish third.

Tiger Woods was never in the picture.

He started the final round eight shots behind, and whatever hopes he had of a rally ended on the sixth hole when he hit his drive so far to the right that the ball was never found.

Woods took double bogey, and only an eagle on the final hole kept the damage to a minimum. He closed with a 74 — his first time since the Masters last year that he failed to break par in any round of a 72-hole tournament — and tied for 37th.

It was the second straight year Woods closed with an eagle at PGA National — the difference was last year, it gave him a 62 and a tie for second.

"I think I passed 62 somewhere around 12," Woods said.

Despite a bogey on the final hole, Erik Compton had a 70 and was part of the five-way tie for fourth. Compton, who already has had two heart transplants, earned his first top-10 finish on the PGA Tour.

Thompson, who finished at 9-under 271, had made only one cut this year and finished at the bottom of the back. He was solid from the start Sunday on another windswept day in south Florida, one of only three players who shot par or better all four rounds.

Michael Thompson reacts Sunday to winning the Honda Classic in Palm Beach Gardens. Thompson closed with a 1-under 69, one of only five rounds under par on a punishing day at PGA National to finally become a PGA Tour winner.

"You don't have to do much wrong to be making a bogey out there, so it's pretty impressive," Ogilvy said of Thompson's final round. "It's a great effort, really. As you say by the rest of the scores, it's a very hard golf course and it seems to get progressively harder in some ways. There's a disaster waiting everywhere.

"There's a lot of golf courses on tour that it might be easy to close out a golf tournament — or easier — but this is not one of them."

Thompson dropped only one shot on the back nine, a three-putt on the 16th when he missed from just inside 3 feet. He rattled another short par putt in on the 17th, and then played away from the water on his second shot at the par-5 18th, into a bunker. Once his ball stopped rolling 4 feet from the cup, the tournament was over.

The win moves Thompson to No. 45 in the world and gets him into his first World Golf Championship next week.

"This is everything," Thompson said. "This is a childhood dream come true. I've dreamed of playing out here since I was 7 years old and to win, it's just unbelievable. I just can't put it into words. The whole day was awesome."

It was a mess for Woods.

He lost two balls in a span of eight holes (the other one in the third round Saturday) for what he believes is the first time in his career. He hit into the water on the 11th for another double bogey, and drove into the water on the 16th.

"I just made too many penalties this week," Woods said. "Today is a perfect example. I didn't play that poorly. I had two water balls and a lost ball. Take those away, and I missed two short birdie putts, and it was actually a decent score. So just

Augusta green jacket sale subject of lawsuit

ATLANTA — One of the most distinctive symbols in sports, the iconic green jacket awarded to the winner of the Masters golf tournament, is at the center of a lawsuit over whether one of them can be sold at auction.

Dr. Steven Pyles, a Tampa collector of golf memorabilia, bought a green jacket he believes was worn by Art Wall, Jr. when he won the tournament in 1959. After paying $62,000 for it, he wants to sell it through Heritage Auctions of Dallas for a profit.

Five days before the auction was scheduled to begin, Augusta National Incorporated moved to halt the sale. A hearing in the case is scheduled for Monday in Dallas.

Augusta National Incorporated claims in its lawsuit all green jackets are the property of Augusta National and this particular jacket was stolen from its clubhouse.

Mark Senter, the attorney for Pyles and Heritage Auctions said there is no police report to back up a claim of theft.

Drought ends for Edwards

Snaps 70-race winless streak

Associated Press

AVONDALE, Ariz. — Carl Edwards climbed from his car, stood on the door and landed a backflip near the finish line. He then hopped up on the wall in front of the grandstand, grabbed the checkered flag and waded into the crowd, trading high-fives with fans.

Carl Edwards

After a miserable week at Daytona, Edwards had plenty to celebrate.

That it came at Phoenix International Raceway only seemed fitting.

Coming through on his promise to dominate after his Daytona disaster, Edwards pulled away on a late restart and snapped a 70-race winless streak on Sunday, the second long drought he's ended at Phoenix.

"This win feels as good or better as any win I've ever had," Edwards said.

Edwards had a rough 2012 season, missing the Chase for the championship. His downward spiral continued at Daytona, where he wrecked five cars. On his way out of Florida, Edwards said he was ready to dominate and win at Phoenix.

He did just that, leading the final 78 laps on the 312-lap race around PIR's odd-shaped oval in the first non-restrictor-plate race with NASCAR's new Gen-6 car.

Edwards got a good push from defending Sprint Cup champion Brad Keselowski on the restart with two laps left and pulled away from there, winning for the first time since Las Vegas in 2011.

After parking his car at the finish line, Edwards landed his first backflip in nearly two years and celebrated with the fans — just like he did at PIR after ending another 70-race winless streak in 2010.

"I'm sure it's a relief for someone like Carl," said Denny Hamlin, who finished third and had a long winless streak end at

Heat extend win streak to 14

Miami rallies past Knicks

Associated Press

NEW YORK — LeBron James had 29 points, 11 rebounds and seven assists, and the Miami Heat tied a franchise record with their 14th straight victory, rallying to beat the New York Knicks 99-93 on Sunday.

Dwyane Wade added 20 points for the Heat, who had to overcome a 16-point deficit to beat the Knicks for the first time in three tries this season. Chris Bosh bounced back from a dismal first half to finish with 16 points.

The defending NBA champions won their sixth straight on the road by controlling the final minutes against a team that had a pair of 20-point victories over them this season and looked ready to run them out of the building again.

But James shook off a third-quarter leg injury and was back in top form by the finish, putting it away by coming up with a steal and throwing down a dunk with 23 seconds left.

Carmelo Anthony scored 32 points for the Knicks, who had their three-game winning streak snapped.

Jason Kidd emerged from a lengthy slump to finish with 14 points, eight rebounds and six assists for the Knicks. J.R. Smith had 13 points and 12 rebounds but shot 5 of 18 from the field.

The Heat matched their 14 straight wins during the 2004-05 season and finally beat one of their closest pursuers in the Eastern Conference after dropping their first four against the Knicks and Indiana Pacers.

Magic mauled

Memphis coasts past Orlando

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Tayshaun Prince had 14 points and Marc Gasol added 12 points and 11 assists as the Memphis Grizzlies cruised to a 108-82 victory over the Orlando Magic on Sunday night.

The Grizzlies, who have won nine of their last 10 games, led by as many as 32 points and had six players in double figures.

Memphis played without forward Zach Randolph, who rested the left ankle he sprained in last Friday's loss to Miami.

Arron Afflalo and E'Twaun Moore each had 12 points to lead a Magic team that has lost 17 of 19 on its home floor.

Orlando is now just 4-31 since Dec. 20, and begins a two-game road trip Monday at New Orleans.

Thunder 108, Clippers 104

LOS ANGELES — Kevin Durant scored 35 points, Russell Westbrook had 29 points and 10 assists, and Oklahoma City held off a late rally by the Los Angeles Clippers to win 108-104 in a matchup of two of the West's best teams.

The Thunder ended a three-game road skid. They also completed a season sweep of Los Angeles.

Chris Paul scored 26 points and Blake Griffin and Jamal Crawford added 20 points apiece for the Clippers, whose four-game winning streak ended.

Wizards 90, 76ers 87

WASHINGTON — John Wall scored the game's final six points after teammate Bradley Beal left the court with an apparent injury, leading the Washington Wizards to a 90-87 win over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Beal went down with a sprained ankle with 2:08 left in the fourth quarter. After being attended to by a trainer, Beal was carried off the court and through the tunnel by two teammates, keeping weight completely off both his legs.

Wall scored the next four points to give the Wizards an 88-87 lead, blocked Evan Turner's shot with 53 seconds left and added a jumper with 4.4 seconds left.

Wall finished with 16 points and six assists.

Dorell Wright scored 15 points to lead the 76ers.

Kings 119, Bobcats 83

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — John Salmons scored 22 points and Jason Thompson had 18 points and 14 rebounds to lead the Sacramento Kings in a 119-83 victory over the slumping Charlotte Bobcats.

Marcus Thornton also scored 18 points for the Kings, who made 13 3-pointers.

Byron Mullens and Gerald Henderson each scored 12 points for the Bobcats.

Rockets 136, Mavericks 103

HOUSTON — Chandler Parsons scored a career-high 32 points on 12-for-13 shooting and the Houston Rockets snapped a nine-game losing streak to Dallas with an easy 136-103 win.

Jeremy Lin and James Harden added 21 points apiece and Lin had nine assists for the Rockets.

O.J. Mayo scored 18 points and Shawn Marion had 14 to lead the Mavericks.

Spurs 114, Pistons 75

SAN ANTONIO — Manu Ginobili scored 17 points, Tim Duncan had 16 points and 11 rebounds, and the San Antonio Spurs routed the Detroit Pistons 114-75 despite playing without All-Star point guard Tony Parker.

Danny Green added 16 points and Kawhi Leonard had 14 for the Spurs (47-14), who rolled to their most lopsided victory of the season.

Greg Monroe scored 16 points and Jose Calderon 14 for Detroit, which has lost five of six.

Pacers 97, Bulls 92

INDIANAPOLIS — David West scored 31 points and George Hill added 20, leading the Indiana Pacers past the Chicago Bulls 97-92 in a Central Division showdownt.

Indiana (38-22) has won seven of its last eight games, going 6-1 since the All-Star break, and holds a four-game lead over second-place Chicago.

The Bulls were led by Marco Belinelli and Jimmy Butler, who each had 20 points for a team that was missing four important players with injuries.

USC women defeat Florida

Associated Press

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Ashley Bruner scored 16 points and Aleighsa Welch and Ieasia Walker added 14 apiece as No. 14 South Carolina defeated Florida 67-56 Sunday.

The Gamecocks (23-6, 11-5) set a school record for Southeastern Conference victories in a season and tied their program record for regular-season wins.

Sydney Moss scored 16 points and 10 rebounds to pace the Gators (17-13, 6-10).

No. 5 Duke 65, No. 15 UNC 58

DURHAM, N.C. — Freshman Alexis Jones scored a season-high 22 points and fifth-ranked Duke beat No. 15 North Carolina 65-58 for its Atlantic Coast Conference-record 17th regular-season league victory.

Elizabeth Williams added 13 points for the Blue Devils (27-2, 17-1).

Tierra Ruffin-Pratt led North Carolina (26-5, 14-4) with 16 points on 5-of-23 shooting.

No. 7 Penn St. 82, No. 20 Nebraska 67

LINCOLN, Neb. — Maggie Lucas scored 34 points to lead seventh-ranked Penn State to an 82-67 victory over No. 20 Nebraska, clinching the Lady Lions' second straight outright Big Ten championship and ending the Cornhuskers' 10-game win streak.

Penn State (24-4, 14-2) improved to 6-1 against ranked opponents and secured its best conference record since going 15-1 in 2003-04.

The Huskers (22-7, 12-4) were playing their last game at the Devaney Center.

No. 10 Kentucky 78, No. 8 Tennessee 65

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A'dia Mathies scored 13 second-half points, including back-to-back 3-pointers during Kentucky's 19-6 run, to help the No. 10 Wildcats pull away from No. 8 Tennessee for a 78-65 victory.

Mathies, Kentucky's No. 2 career scorer, finished with 16 points. Jennifer O'Neill added four 3-pointers for 16 points for Kentucky (25-4, 13-3).

Regular-season champion Tennessee (23-6, 14-2) played without center Isabelle Harrison, who sustained a right knee injury Thursday.

No. 9 Maryland 88, Wake Forest 61

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Tianna Hawkins scored 18 points, Alyssa Thomas added 16, and No. 9 Maryland defeated Wake Forest 88-61 to snap its first losing streak of the season.

Coming off losses to Top 25 foes Duke and Florida State, the Terrapins (23-6, 14-4 Atlantic Coast Conference) led 38-22 at halftime and coasted to their 14th straight victory over the Demon Deacons (12-18, 5-13).

No. 11 Georgia 55, Vanderbilt 50

ATHENS, Ga. — Jasmine Hassell scored 16 points and No. 11 Georgia rebounded from a disappointing Southeastern Conference loss to beat Vanderbilt 55-50 in each team's regular-season finale.

Erika Ford put Georgia (24-5, 12-4) up 15-13 with two free throws midway through the first half, and the Bulldogs never relinquished the lead.

Jasmine Lister paced Vanderbilt (19-10, 9-7) with 17 points.

No. 12 Dayton 73, Saint Joseph's 66

DAYTON, Ohio — Andrea Hoover scored 19 points and Samantha MacKay added 18 points and seven assists as No. 12 Dayton wrapped up its first Atlantic 10 Conference regular-season title by beating Saint Joseph's 73-66.

The Flyers (26-1, 14-0) set a record for victories since moving to Division I in the 1985-86 season.

LSU 67, No. 13 T A&M 52

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — Theresa Plaisance scored 16 points and Danielle Ballard had 15 points and 11 rebounds to lead LSU to a 67-52 victory over No. 13 Texas A&M in the regular-season finale for both teams.

Ballard, a freshman, posted her second consecutive double-double for the Tigers (19-10, 10-6 SEC), who have won six in a row.

No. 17 UCLA 68, Arizona 57

TUCSON, Ariz. — Alyssia Brewer scored 22 points on 11-for-14 shooting and No. 17 UCLA finished the Pac-12 regular season with a 68-57 victory over Arizona.

Nirra Fields scored 21 and tied Brewer and Jasmine Dixon with a team-high eight rebounds for the Bruins (23-6, 14-4).

Davellyn White had 16 points, nine rebounds and seven assists for Arizona (12-17, 4-14).

No. 18 D'ware 62, Drexel 57

NEWARK, Del. — Elena Delle Donne posted a double-double and Lauren Carra scored a season-high 21 points to help No. 18 Delaware beat Drexel 62-57 and tie a school record with 21 straight wins.

Delle Donne finished with 28 points and 10 rebounds, her eighth double-double this season.

No. 19 Colo. 66, OSU 63, OT

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Chucky Jeffery scored 25 points and No. 19 Colorado rallied to beat Oregon State 66-63 in overtime for the Buffaloes' ninth win in a row.

The Buffaloes (24-5, 13-5 Pac-12) trailed by 16 points in the first half, and by 10 with 11:46 to play. But Jeffery's 3-pointer began a 15-2 run that saw Colorado take the lead for the first time.

Ali Gibson scored 15 points for the Beavers (10-20, 4-14).

Virginia 72, No. 24 FSU 60

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — Faith Randolph scored a career-high 19 points and Simone Egwu had 17 points and 11 rebounds as Virginia ended a five-game losing streak by defeating No. 24 Florida State 72-60.

The Cavaliers (16-13, 8-10 Atlantic Coast Conference) overcame a 22-point performance by Florida State's Alexa Deluzio, whose six 3-pointers tied her career high.

Natasha Howard's three-point play gave the Seminoles (21-8, 11-7) their final lead, 55-53 with 5:42 left, but the Cavaliers ran off the next seven points.

No. 25 Purdue 76, Illinois 65

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Courtney Moses scored 21 points, leading four Purdue players in double figures, and the 25th-ranked Boilermakers defeated Illinois 76-65.

South Florida snaps long skid

Associated Press

TAMPA — Toarlyn Fitzpatrick scored 19 points, Anthony Collins and Victor Rudd both added 16 and South Florida stopped a 10-game losing streak by beating DePaul 83-73 Sunday.

Collins had eight consecutive points, including two layups, to put the Bulls ahead 70-62 with 4 1/2 minutes to play. The point guard's in-close basket made it 75-64 2 minutes later.

South Florida (11-17, 2-14 Big East) also got 13 points from Martino Brock.

Cleveland Melvin and Brandon Young both scored 18 points for DePaul (11-18, 2-14). Melvin became the 13th player in school history to reach 1,400 career points.

The teams are tied for last place in the Big East.

No. 4 Michigan 58, No. 9 MSU 57

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Trey Burke stole the ball from Keith Appling near midcourt and went in alone for a dunk with 22 seconds remaining, then made another steal in the final seconds to give No. 4 Michigan a pulsating 58-57 win over No. 9 Michigan State.

The Spartans (22-7, 11-5 Big Ten) had the ball with the shot clock off at 56-all, but Burke's first big defensive play enabled Michigan (24-5, 11-5) to take the lead. After Derrick Nix made one of two free throws and Mitch McGary missed the front end of a 1-and-1 for Michigan, Burke stole a pass by Gary Harris to end it.

Purdue 69, No. 17 Wisc. 56

MADISON, Wis. — D.J. Byrd scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half and Purdue upset No. 17 Wisconsin 69-56.

Terone Johnson added 16 points for the Boilermakers (14-15, 7-9 Big Ten)l. Purdue took control with a 21-3 run in the second half.

Jared Berggren scored 13 points and Ryan Evans and Sam Dekker had 10 apiece for the Badgers (20-9, 11-5).

No. 23 Pitt 73, Villanova 64 OT

PITTSBURGH — Talib Zanna scored nine of his 14 points in overtime and No. 23 Pittsburgh rallied past Villanova 73-64.

Zanna added a career-high 19 rebounds for the Panthers (23-7, 11-6 Big East). James Robinson also had 14 points for Pitt, including a game-tying 3-pointer with 33 seconds left in regulation.

Ryan Arcidiacono led Villanova with 23 points but the Wildcats (18-12, 9-8) let an opportunity to pad their NCAA tournament resume slip away.

Price whiffs five in sharp outing, Rays top Twins

Luke Scott leaves game with injury

Associated Press

PORT CHARLOTTE — David Price struck out five in three shutout innings and the Tampa Bay Rays beat the Minnesota Twins 7-2 on Sunday.

Rays designated hitter Luke Scott exited the game after one at-bat because of tightness in his left hamstring. He is day to day.

Kelly Johnson doubled in two runs and Chris Gimenez hit a two-run homer for Tampa Bay. Price, last year's AL Cy Young Award winner, allowed one hit.

Twins newcomer Mike Pelfrey also made an effective start, tossing three shutout innings. Coming off Tommy John surgery and competing for a spot in the rotation, the former Mets right-hander yielded one hit and walked one to rebound from a shaky outing in his spring debut.

Trevor Plouffe had two hits and an RBI for Minnesota.

Marlins 6, Mets 4

JUPITER — Dillon Gee threw three scoreless innings for the Mets in his first start since having a blood clot removed from an artery in his pitching shoulder, but New York was beaten by the Miami Marlins 6-4.

Gee gave up three hits, a walk and struck out one in his first start since July 7.

Mets catcher John Buck hit a three-run homer against his former team.

Miami starter Nathan Eovaldi was charged with three runs and two hits in 2 2/3 innings. He struck out four and retired his first seven batters before giving up a home run to Brandon Hicks.

Yankees 5, Red Sox 2

FORT MYERS — With Brett Gardner the only regular in the Yankees' starting lineup, New York beat the Boston Red Sox 5-2 in a game likely to be very different from the teams' opening-day matchup on April 1.

Boston's Mike Napoli, in just his second spring training game after being diagnosed with avascular necrosis during the offseason, homered off Adam Warren leading off the second.

Red Sox starter Ryan Dempster threw 25 of 28 pitches for strikes, allowing his only hit in three scoreless innings when Gardner reached on a single to shortstop starting the game.

Associated Press

Boston's Dustin Pedroia dives Sunday for a single hit by Yankee Eduardo Nunez, to score Corban Joseph, in the sixth inning in Fort Myers.

Warren gave up one run and three hits in three innings.

New York took a 3-1 lead in the sixth off new Boston closer Joel Hanrahan, who allowed Eduardo Nunez's run-scoring single and Jayson Nix's RBI grounder. Another run scored on a fielding error by third baseman Drew Sutton.

Winner Jose Ramirez allowed three hits in three scoreless innings.

Braves 6, Tigers 1

KISSIMMEE — B.J. Upton hit his first home run in an Atlanta Braves' uniform, a two-run drive off Doug Fister in the fourth inning of a 6-1 win over the Detroit Tigers.

Tyler Pastornicky and Dan Uggla also homered for Atlanta.

Braves starter Mike Minor allowed one hit in three scoreless innings, combining with six relievers on a three-hitter.

Tigers starter Max Scherzer, slowed by a sore right shoulder at the end of last season, breezed through two hitless innings in 14 pitches and retired six straight batters.

Nationals 7, Cardinals 6

VIERA — Ryan Zimmerman went 1 for 3 with an RBI single in his first spring training game following shoulder surgery, helping the Washington Nationals defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6.

Washington starter Ross Detwiler gave up one run and four hits in two scoreless innings and struck out four.

Chad Tracy hit a two-run homer and a double for Washington.

Orioles 12, Phillies (ss) 3

SARASOTA — Matt Wieters homered and drove in five runs, Conor Jackson connected twice and the Baltimore Orioles beat a Philadelphia Phillies split squad 12-3.

Wieters hit a three-run shot and Jackson followed with his first homer off Phillies starter Kyle Kendrick in the first inning.

Baltimore scored seven runs in the fifth on a two-run double by Wieters, a three-run homer by Jackson and a two-run drive by non-roster outfielder Jason Pridie.

Kendrick allowed four runs and four hits in two innings.

Phillies (ss) 13, Blue Jays 5

CLEARWATER — Ryan Howard hit a go-ahead, three-run homer off Brett Cecil that cleared the back fence and went out of Bright House Field, helping a Philadelphia Phillies' split squad beat the Toronto Blue Jays 13-5.

Howard's fifth-inning drive put the Phillies ahead 6-4.

Pirates 8, Astros 6

BRADENTON — Jose Tabata made strides toward regaining his starting right fielder's job, keying a five-run second inning with a two-run double and helping the Pittsburgh Pirates build a big lead before holding on for an 8-6 victory over Houston.

John Ely started for Houston and was tagged for five runs in 1 2/3 innings.

Brett Wallace hit a three-run double for Houston.

Blackhawks top Red Wings

Extend record point streak to 22 games

Associated Press

DETROIT — The Chicago Blackhawks have extended their NHL-record, season-opening points streak to 22 games.

Patrick Kane scored the tying goal on a power play with 2:02 left in regulation and had the only goal in a shootout, lifting Chicago to a 2-1 win over the Detroit Red Wings on Sunday.

Corey Crawford was perfect in the shootout and finished with 32 saves.

The Blackhawks have earned at least a point in 28 straight games — dating to a March 25, 2012 loss in regulation to Nashville — to tie the second-longest streak in league history.

Detroit's Tomas Tatar broke a scoreless tie early in the third period, but the Red Wings couldn't hold on for a win in regulation.

Islanders 3, Senators 2, SO

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — John Tavares and Frans Nielsen scored in the shootout, lifting the New York Islanders to a 3-2 victory over the slumping Ottawa Senators.

Evgeni Nabokov made 29 saves as the Islanders earned their third win in 12 home games this season.

Nielsen scored to open the shootout against backup Robin Lehner. Tavares' goal came after Nabokov made his two stops.

Blue Jackets 2, Avalanche 1, OT

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Artem Anisimov scored on a hard wrist shot on an overtime power play, and Sergei Bobrovsky made 18 saves to lead the Columbus Blue Jackets to a 2-1 victory over the Colorado Avalanche.

Hurricanes 3, Panthers 2

SUNRISE — Jordan Staal, Alexander Semin, and Justin Faulk scored in Carolina's 3-2 win over Florida, giving the Hurricanes their second victory over the Panthers in as many nights.

Dan Ellis made 19 saves for Carolina after replacing Cam Ward with 11:04 left in the second. Ward stopped all 15 shots he faced before leaving the game with what appeared to be a leg injury.

Stars 4, Blues 1

DALLAS — Derek Roy had a goal and two assists and Kari Lehtonen made 25 saves to help lead the Dallas Stars to a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Blues.

Loui Eriksson, Jaromir Jagr and Erik Cole also scored for Dallas.

David Perron scored for St. Louis and Brian Elliott made 23 saves for the Blues.

Rangers 3, Sabres 2, SO

NEW YORK — Rick Nash had a goal and assist and also scored in the shootout to lead the New York Rangers to a 3-2 win over the Buffalo Sabres.

Ryan Callahan also scored for New York in the shootout. Derek Stepan added a goal, and Henrik Lundqvist made 28 saves. New York has won two in a row.

Drew Stafford and Nathan Gerbe scored for Buffalo. Ryan Miller stopped 26 of 28 shots. The Sabres' season-high three-game winning streak was ended.

Canadiens 4, Bruins 3

BOSTON — David Desharnais scored the winner with his second goal of the game less than four minutes after Max Pacioretty tied it earlier in the third period, lifting the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-3 comeback win over the Boston Bruins in a matchup of the Eastern Conference's top teams.

Tomas Plekanec also scored for the Canadiens, who jumped two points ahead of Boston for first overall in the conference.

Wild 4, Oilers 2

MINNEAPOLIS — Mikko Koivu made up for a frustrating stretch without a goal by Minnesota, scoring 9 seconds into the third period to snap a tie and spark the Wild to a 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers.

Minnesota outshot Edmonton 43-21 for the night, and goalie Niklas Backstrom raised his career record at home against the Oilers to 17-0.

Jared Spurgeon and Charlie Coyle each had a goal and an assist for the Wild.

Flames 4, Canucks 2

CALGARY, Alberta — Jarome Iginla continued to have a hot hand, scoring the winning goal at 12:36 of the third period to lead the Calgary Flames to a 4-2 victory over the Vancouver Canucks.

Iginla has five goals in the past four games after scoring just once in his first 16 games of the season.

Mike Cammalleri scored a pair of goals for the Flames, who snapped a two-game losing streak. Lee Stempniak finished with a goal and an assist.

Jannik Hansen had a goal and an assist for the Canucks, who have lost three of their last four. Danny Taylor stopped 29 shots to earn his first win in his second NHL start.

Dodgers' Puig homers, Beckett overpowering

Associated Press

GLENDALE, Ariz. — Cuban defector Yasiel Puig hit his first home run, Josh Beckett threw three more scoreless innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1 Sunday.

Puig signed by the Dodgers to a seven-year, $42 million in June, connected for a three-run shot in the seventh.

Beckett has allowed one hit in each of his two starts. He struck out three Sunday to run his total to six.

In a second appearance as the Dodgers designated hitter, Matt Kemp went 0 for 3. Kemp, who is coming off shoulder surgery, is 0 for 5 this spring.

Cubs (ss) 4, Angels 2

TEMPE, Ariz. — Joe Blanton allowed a first-inning solo homer to Brian Bogusevic in his first game in a Los Angeles Angels' uniform, a 4-2 loss to a Chicago Cubs' split squad.

Blanton, who agreed to a $15 million, two-year deal with the Angels during the offseason, allowed just the one hit in two innings, struck out two and walked none. Blanton was 10-13 with a 4.71 ERA for Philadelphia and the Los Angeles Dodgers last year.

Nick Struck, the Chicago Cubs' minor league pitcher of the year, made his second exhibition appearance and gave up two hits in three scoreless innings.

Brad Nelson hit a solo homer for the Cubs.

Padres 4, White Sox 0

PEORIA, Ariz. — Jake Peavy gave up an RBI double to Chase Headley and three runs overall in his first start of spring training, and the Chicago White Sox lost to the San Diego Padres 4-0.

Peavy gave up five hits in three innings. Cameron Maybin and Nick Hundley each had RBI doubles off the former Padres star.

Padres starter Clayton Richard made his first spring start, too. He walked two in two hitless innings.

Outfielder Jaff Decker homered for the Padres.

Royals 8, Reds 1

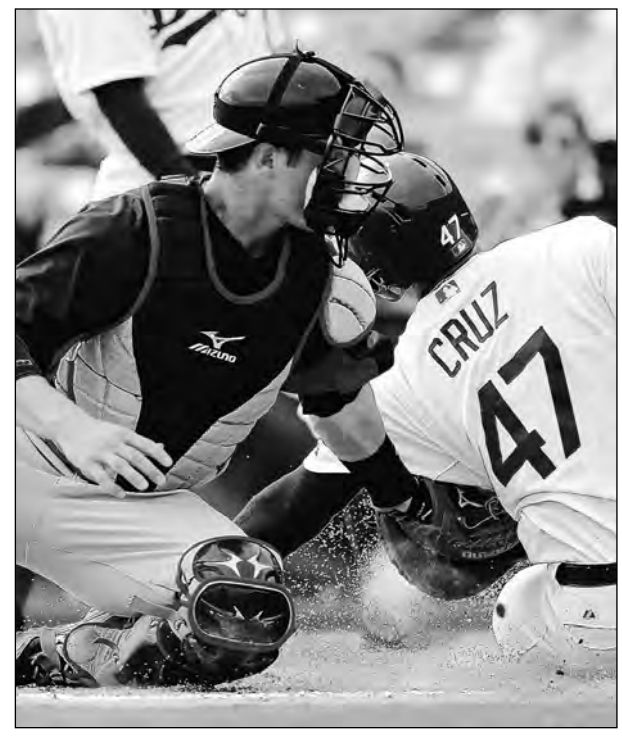
GOODYEAR, Ariz. — Alex Gordon homered, Mike Moustakas stroked two doubles to raise his average to .579 and the Kansas City Royals (9-0-1) beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-1 to remain undefeated in 10 games.



Associated Press

Cleveland Indians catcher Yan Gomes tags out Los Angeles Dodger Luis Cruz Sunday at the plate in the second inning in Glendale, Ariz.

Wade Davis pitched three scoreless innings to run his string to five in two starts. He allowed two hits and struck out three in his second start.

Reds right-hander Homer Bailey struck out five and allowed one single in two innings, but the bullpen allowed 12 hits and eight runs.

Giants 5, Diamondbacks 3

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Barry Zito pitched three shutout innings, Brandon Crawford had three hits and the San Francisco Giants beat the Arizona Diamondbacks 5-3.

John McDonald and Cliff Pennington each had two hits for the Diamondbacks, who have lost two in a row for the first time this spring. Adam Eaton, Willie Bloomquist and Jon Griffin drove in runs for Arizona.

Buster Posey drove in a run for the Giants. Francisco Peguero had two hits, including a double, and three RBIs.

Arizona starter Josh Collmenter gave up two runs and three hits in two innings.

Zito gave up two hits and struck out two — former teammates Cody Ross and Eric Chavez.

Brewers 4, Cubs (ss) 3

MESA, Ariz. — Carlos Gomez homered and Taylor Green had two hits to help the Milwaukee Brewers beat a Chicago Cubs split squad 4-3.

Marco Estrada pitched four scoreless innings. He allowed one hit, walked two and struck out three.

Green singled home the second run of a two-run rally in the first inning against Cubs starter Edwin Jackson.

Athletics 7, Rockies 2

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Jorge De La Rosa and Tyler Chatwood were so wild that the Oakland Athletics barely had to swing to beat the Colorado Rockies 7-2.

Oakland scored its first four runs without putting the ball in play. De La Rosa and Chatwood combined to issue five walks and hit three batters with pitches in the first three innings.

Todd Helton went 0 for 2 in his first game since hip surgery on Aug. 9.

Mariners 7, Rangers 6

SURPRISE, Ariz. (AP) — Rangers pitching prospect Martin Perez was hit on the left forearm by a line drive and Texas gave up homers to Kendrys Morales and Jesus Montero in a 7-6 loss to the Seattle Mariners.

The 21-year-old left-hander Perez was struck by a liner off Brad Miller's bat. Perez dropped to the ground as the ball deflected off his arm, just above his wrist for an infield single.

said. "We needed one at about lap 15. We caught traffic and ran out of time."

Floral City's Travis Sharrone (third place) led the first 30 laps of a 50-lap Mini Stock feature before Spring Hill's Jeff Eberly took command. But Eberly had to surrender his position on a lap 46 caution, leaving Lakeland's Shawn Jenkins and Dade City's Kevin Stone battling for the win. Jenkins prevailed despite fierce pressure from Stone.

"He's one of the best blockers I've ran across in my life," Stone said of Jenkins. "There's no way he's got any paint left on that back bumper."

Flanagan easily won his second Street Stock feature of the season after finishing second a week ago. He and Winter Garden's James Peters secured the top two places by lap 5, while Inverness' John Chance snuck into third on the final lap of the eight-car, 25-lap event.

Ray, of Floral City, got past Inverness' Mike Autenrieth (second place) on lap 11 to win his third Pure Stock feature this season, while fellow Inverness driver Jason Waller rounded out the top with a third-place finish in 25 laps.

Apopka's Kory Abbot (first place), Winter Spring's Jordan Black (second place) and Lakeland's Dakoto Baggett held their positions at the front throughout the 30-lap FUPS Legends division, which features miniature versions of 1950s-style NASCAR models.

Ruskin's Trey Lively cruised to a victory in a Bandoleros race — also part of the FUPS — that kicked off the night with a low-key 10-lapper between four go-kart-sized vehicles.

got to clean up my rounds."

The final round was never going to be easy with the wind whipping on PGA National, and it showed. Of those who finished before the leaders even teed off, only two players managed to break par. Scoring was so difficult that Lucas Glover played the weekend in 2-over par and still tied for fourth.

"You don't move up very often — on tour — over par on the weekend, except for a place like this," Glover said.

Thompson seized control early because of some big putts, and mostly because so many others faded.

It was a wild front nine for Thompson, with only three pars, which ordinarily would spell disaster on a day like this except for his putting.

He made a 50-foot eagle putt on the third hole, made a 12-foot birdie putt behind the hole at the par-3 fifth hole and hit an approach into 4 feet for birdie on the eighth. Just as big was the tough sixth hole, where Thompson hit a bunker shot 18 feet over the flag and made the par putt coming back.

Guthrie, who fell behind for good with a bogey on the second hole, did his best to stay in range until hitting his tee shot out of bounds on the 14th for a double bogey. From there, it was only a battle for second place.

Everyone else was long gone.

Westwood failed to save par on consecutive holes on the front nine and could never catch up. Charles Howell III, who started the day three shots behind and needed a win to get to the Masters in his hometown, fell apart on the back nine with a 41 and closed with a 78.

Rickie Fowler made three bogeys on the first six holes and was never a factor.

DROUGHT

Phoenix last year. "He's now relevant again, he really is and it's a good sign for their race team for things to come."

The big duel came behind Edwards.

Despite struggling with his car most of the day, Hamlin made a bold move on the last lap with a pass on the apron below the dogleg. He popped up alongside Daytona 500 winner Jimmie Johnson and the two drag-raced to the finish, where Johnson edged him by a few inches.

Keselowski, who was outside Johnson during Hamlin's move, finished fourth and Dale Earnhardt Jr. ended up fifth.

"As far down as I was, I was committed, there was nothing that I was going to do where I would back out," Hamlin said. "I just hoped I would have just slid in front of the 48, then you risk getting punted and spun, and your whole day you've worked everything for is taken away in a corner. I held my line and thought I really did the right thing and gave those guys room to pass me back — and one of them did."

The 54-year-old became the second-oldest driver to start on the pole in a Sprint Cup car, a few months short of Harry Gant's mark. Martin led the first 49 laps and 26 more later on, but couldn't sustain it in his bid to become the oldest Sprint Cup winner, finishing 21st.

"Obviously, it's a disappointing result for a great effort on the weekend," Martin said. "The car was pretty fast, but we had multiple problems today."

So did Danica Patrick, who had a rough follow-up to her breakthrough week at the Daytona 500.

Familiar, new faces head to 'Downton'

Series announces next season's cast of characters

NEW YORK — Shirley MacLaine will return to "Downton Abbey" next season, and opera star Kiri Te Kanawa is joining the cast.

MacLaine will reprise her role as Martha Levinson, Lord Robert Crawley's freewheeling American mother-in-law, Carnival Films and "Masterpiece" on PBS said Saturday. MacLaine appeared in episodes early last season.

New Zealand-born soprano Te Kanawa will play a house guest. She will sing during her visit.

Other new cast members and characters include:

■ Tom Cullen as Lord Gillingham, described as an old family friend of the Crawleys who visits the family as a guest for a house party (and who might be the one to mend Lady Mary Crawley's broken heart).

■ Nigel Harman will play a valet named Green.

■ Harriet Walter plays Lady Shackleton, an old friend of the Dowager Countess.

■ Joanna David will play a guest role as the Duchess of Yeovil.

■ Julian Ovenden is cast as aristocrat Charles Blake.

"The addition of these characters can only mean more delicious drama, which is what 'Downton Abbey' is all about," said "Masterpiece" executive producer Rebecca Eaton.

Meanwhile, the producers have confirmed villainous housemaid Sarah O'Brien won't be back. Siobhan Finneran, who played her, is leaving the show.

These announcements come shortly after the third season's airing in the United States. It concluded with the heartbreaking death of popular Matthew Crawley in a car crash, leaving behind his newborn child and loving wife, Lady Mary Crawley.

Matthew's untimely demise was the result of the departure from the series by actor Dan Stevens, who starred in the role.

The third season also saw the shocking death of Lady Sybil Branson, who died during childbirth. She was played by the departing Jessica Brown Findlay.

Last season the wildly popular melodrama, set in early 20th century Britain, was the most-watched series on PBS since Ken Burns' epic "The Civil War," which first aired in 1990.

'Switched at Birth' goes silent to make a point

LYNN ELBER
AP television writer

LOS ANGELES — "Until hearing people walk a day in our shoes, they will never understand," said a guidance counselor at a high school for deaf students in "Switched at Birth."

Such insights are a staple of the ABC Family drama, a TV rarity that puts deaf characters, played by deaf or hard-of-hearing actors, at the center of the action.

But Monday's episode takes it a bold step further: Save for a few spoken words at the beginning and the end, it is silent. The actors' hands do the talking with American Sign Language, even rapping together in one gleeful sequence.

Subtitles, which are typically sprinkled throughout "Switched at Birth" episodes, keep the viewer clued in. But when a deaf character is confused because she can't hear something vital, the audience is too. It's powerfully disconcerting.

The cast, including Oscar-winner Marlee Matlin as the school counselor, are excited about what they see as a grand experiment and eager for viewer reaction.

"This is an opportunity for the hearing person to watch at home and try to experience it," said Katie Leclerc, who stars as deaf teenager Daphne Vasquez. "It's not exactly the same, but maybe you can try to imagine what your everyday life would be like."

"It's a risk," added Leclerc, who has an inner ear disorder, Meniere's disease, that can cause hearing loss and vertigo.

"A big risk," Matlin said through a sign language-interpreter. "But it's going to be an eye-opener. I'm very proud to be part of this risk-taking, history-making episode."

Matlin knows about making history. She was the first — and remains the only — deaf person to receive an Academy Award acting trophy, honored as best actress for 1986's "Children of a Lesser God."

The "Switched at Birth" episode pivots on another key moment for the deaf community: A 1988 student protest at Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C., that ended the unbroken succession of hearing presidents at the school for the deaf.

For fictional Carlton High School (inspired by real-life LA school, Marlton), more is at stake: The school faces closure because of funding cuts, which means its students will be "mainstreamed" with hearing teens.

Sean Berdy portrays Emmett, who is protesting the closing of fictional Carlton School for the Deaf, in "Switched at Birth."

(It mirrors a real-life trend caused by budget constraints, Leclerc said. There's also an increasing number of children being given cochlear implants to counter hearing loss, itself a controversial issue, according to series creator and executive producer Lizzy Weiss.)

The prospect is dreaded by the Carlton students, either because they've felt the sting of being an outsider or because they treasure being part of a deaf-oriented school.

"Deaf people feel that moving into the mainstream chips away at their community, which is about language and culture," said Jack Jason, Matlin's longtime interpreter and the series' on-set arbiter for correct sign-language use.

With Daphne as the driving force and invoking Gallaudet, students mobilize to take over the administration building and demand Carlton's survival. The conflict's ending will wait for the March 11 season finale.

The uprising panics parents and puts relationships at risk, including that of Daphne and Bay Kennish (Vanessa Marano), the switched-at-birth characters of the title who have come together as teenagers from two very different households.

"We started in the pilot with just one scene that was pure ASL," involving Daphne and Emmett (Sean Berdy), said Weiss. As the series developed, she and her writing team began pondering the "what-if" of an all-sign language episode for the second season.

Then ABC Family approached her with the same idea, and the challenge was on to find a logical and engaging way to realize the ASL-only goal and a big enough story to make the most of it.

Last year, a "CSI: NY" episode took a stab at a nearly silent episode, using music by Green Day for most of its storytelling before reverting to dialogue in the final act.

The solution for "Switched at Birth" was to make sure every scene included a deaf character: "The truth is, when you're around people who are deaf, it's considered rude not to sign if you know how," Weiss said.

To avoid overloading viewers with subtitles the story was designed to be highly visual, including scenes of the student protest complete with picket signs and a defiant "Take Back Carlton" banner unfurled from the occupied school building.

Today's HOROSCOPE

Birthday — There's a strong possibility you will be offered numerous opportunities in the coming months. If you don't take time to evaluate each one, they could all elude you.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — Trying to be all things to all people won't get you the kind of approval you're seeking. If you want people to like you, just be yourself.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Help isn't likely to be forthcoming, so don't depend on others to do things for you. The more you take on yourself, the more you'll get done.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Even if you're usually good at handling money, this is not likely to be the case at present. You may be too tightfisted for your own good.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — Try to avoid discussing topics that could cause a fight, especially with another whose views differ radically from yours. You won't have much patience for argument.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — Upon occasion, you can deprive yourself of some useful information, all because you don't like the person who knows it. Don't allow something petty to make your life harder than necessary.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take with a grain of salt any proposal offering you something for nothing. Somebody might end up ahead, but you can bet your bottom dollar it won't be you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Unless you're extremely careful, you could easily add fuel to an already smoldering domestic issue. The slightest thing you say could set off a conflagration.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — The one thing you can never afford to be is gullible about your commercial dealings. Before making any disclosures whatsoever, insist upon verification of what is promised.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Under no condition should you run your financial affairs predicated upon anticipated returns. The only cash you can count on is what you have in hand.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — There is nothing wrong with having a good opinion of yourself, but allow the praise for your achievements to come from the lips of others, not from yours.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — In conversations with friends or associates, they're likely to learn more from you than you will from them. Listen hard, and try not to give away too much.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — New complications could arise if you poke your nose into places where you're not invited. This will only alienate you from others.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Monday, March 4, the 63rd day of 2013. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On March 4, 1913, Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated as the 28th president of the United States, succeeding President William Howard Taft.

On this date:

In 1789, the Constitution of the United States went into effect as the first Federal Congress met in New York. (The lawmakers then adjourned for lack of a quorum.)

In 1791, Vermont became the 14th state.

In 1813, President James Madison was inaugurated for a second term of office.

In 1861, Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated as the 16th president of the United States.

In 1863, the Idaho Territory was created.

In 1913, The "Buffalo nickel" officially went into circulation.

In 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt took office as America's 32nd president.

In 1943, "Mrs. Miniver" won six Academy Awards, including best picture and best actress for Greer Garson (whose 5½-minute acceptance speech became the butt of industry jokes).

In 1987, President Ronald Reagan addressed the nation on the Iran-Contra affair, acknowledging his overtures to Iran had "deteriorated" into an arms-for-hostages deal.

Ten years ago: The Army's oldest armored division, "Old Ironsides," got orders to head for the Persian Gulf as the total of U.S. land, sea and air forces arrayed against Iraq or preparing to go neared 300,000.

Five years ago: Green Bay Packers quarterback Brett Favre retired after 17 years, saying he was "tired." (Favre later made a comeback with the New York Jets, then the Minnesota Vikings, before retiring again.)

One year ago: President Barack Obama said he didn't want war but insisted he would attack Iran if that were the only option left to stop that nation from getting a nuclear weapon.

Today's Birthdays: Actress Paula Prentiss is 75. Singer Shakin' Stevens is 65. Author James Ellroy is 65. Texas Gov. Rick Perry is 63. Actress Kay Lenz is 60. Actress Catherine O'Hara is 59. Actress Patricia Heaton is 55. Actor Steven Weber is 52. Jazz musician Jason Marsalis is 36.

Thought for Today: "It is almost impossible to state what one in fact believes, because it is almost impossible to hold a belief and to define it at the same time." — William Carlos Williams (1883-1963).

Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, the Hungarian discoverer of vitamin C who won the Nobel Prize in physiology/medicine in 1937, said, "Discovery consists of seeing what everybody has seen, and thinking what nobody has thought."

At the bridge table, doing well consists of seeing what everybody has seen, and thinking of the right play at the right moment. The hard part, of course, is having the winning idea pass into your consciousness.

In this deal, how should East plan the defense against four spades after West leads the heart nine?

When South rebid two no-trump to show a minimum balanced hand, North jumped to what he thought would be the best game contract. Note that three no-trump can be defeated after a club lead. When three aces are missing, the defenders have several entries, so they can usually get their long suit established and cashed.

South thought he had only three losers, the missing aces. And that was all he lost when East took the first trick with his ace and played back a heart. Declarer won on the board and drove out the spade ace. As the cards lay, he could not go down.

East hoped West had led a singleton, but that was impossible, because then South would have had four hearts and would have rebid two hearts, not two no-trump. East should have encouraged with his heart 10 at trick one. Then, when West got in with his spade ace, he would have led his second heart, received a heart ruff, and cashed his club ace for down one.

When drawing a conclusion, ask yourself if it is consistent with what has happened.

ANNIE'S MAILBOX

Dear Annie: I'm 18, and my parents recently went through a messy divorce. First, my mom moved out. Then, my dad moved out a month later because Mom did not want him living in our house. She wanted to move back in.

I have an older sister and a younger brother. Mom tried to convince us she missed being with us. But since she moved back in, she is always on the phone or computer or out with her friends. She says it's her time to have fun and we're always criticizing her. She also badmouths my father and tells me things about him no parent should say. I've asked her to stop multiple times, but she won't.

I work long hours in order to contribute to our rent and utilities. My sister and I are essentially raising our younger brother, who has been struggling in school and acting out. Mom is oblivious. I recently got into a huge argument with her about how I spend my money. We didn't speak for two weeks because she ignored all of my attempts to talk about it. After a while, I stopped trying.

Now Mom always favors my sister in any disagreement. We used to be close, but I've lost all respect for her. What should I do? I seriously need some advice. — Lost Child

Dear Lost: The divorce has sent your mother over the edge. All of you are under a great deal of stress, and your brother's problems are undoubtedly intensified by all the chaos in the home. Please talk to your father. Being divorced does not mean he has given up his obligations and responsibilities as a parent. Do not place blame. Simply start by telling Dad your brother is having problems in school that aren't being addressed. If you have grandparents, aunts and uncles, lean on them for emotional support when you need to. Your job may offer an employee assistance program that could help, or if you are attending school, talk to your school counselor.

Dear Annie: I am home in bed with the flu. In fact, this is the fourth time in the past four months I've missed work due to a virus. I've used up my sick leave, so I'm not earning any money, and a lot of my work isn't getting done by the part-time volunteer who fills in for me.

Why am I sick so much? Because business associates come in, lean over my shoulder and say things like, "I ought to be at home. I'm so sick." I've even had clients come in saying they left work feeling ill, but thought they'd stop to see me before they went home. If you are too sick to be in your office, you are too sick to be in mine.

When I ask folks to steer clear if they are ill, I'm told I am unsympathetic and rude. If I miss any more work, I won't be able to pay my bills. How can I convince people illness belongs at home? — Sick of Being Sick

Dear Sick: People mistakenly believe it shows loyalty to come to work sick, and unfortunately, many bosses idiotically encourage this attitude. But the end result is more employees contaminating the work environment and getting sick. We can only recommend you get your daily dose of vitamins and wash your hands frequently.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Grandma," with the sloppy granddaughter. A co-worker told me what she did. After repeated arguments with her sloppy daughter, she got a big garbage bag and tossed in everything her daughter neglected to put away, including shoes, purses, dresses, cosmetics and electronics.

One day her daughter asked, "Have you seen my red shoe?" Mom said she'd have to pay a "finder's fee" to get anything out of the bag. That was the end of her sloppy ways. — Enlightened

Pets

BUD

Striking! This is how we describe Bud, a very beautiful, sweet, 2-y.o. black & white American Bulldog/Terrier mix. Has beautiful eyes, one blue & one brown. Loves people & other dogs, has medium energy level, settles down nicely after exercise. Walks well on a leash & sits for treats. Weighs 55 lbs. Heartworm-negative. This funloving boy would make a good family pet. I D #: 17461796. Visit or call Citrus County Animal Shelter @ 352-746-8400.

DOG Australian Shepherd/Terrier Mix. Great watch dog. Needs either a farm or fenced yard. 352 419 7428

DOGS two S/f Jack Russell's don,t need to go together Must be only dogs. Fenced yard a must. Free to Good Home only 352-746-0100

Fish Tanks, and stands, 352-447-1244

Goofy & Midget, These playful Pekinese cuddlers get along famously, can be adopted separtely or as father/son pair. Both are neutered, mirco-chipped, UTD on shots. They are fostered in a cage free home, are house trained & they have been socialized with other dogs and cats. We do home & vet checks. Call 352-419-0223 or visit savingangelspetrescue.com to see more pets looking for their forever homes.

Sparkle, Hemingway (polydactyl) (extra toes) This young female kitten sparkles with playfulness & affection. INDOOR ONLY. Spayed, UTD, litter trained. We do home & vet checks. Call 352-419-0223www.savingangelspetrescue.com to see more pets looking for homes

Services

Attention Consumers! Please make sure you are using a licensed and insured service professional. Many service advertisers are required by state law to include their state license number in all advertisements. If you don't see a license number in the ad, you should inquire about it and be suspicious that you may be contacting an unlicensed business. The Citrus County Chronicle wants to ensure that our ads meet the requirements of the law. Beware of any service advertiser that can not provide proof that they are licensed to do business. For questions about business licensing, please call your city or county government offices.

1. Aries animal paddled in a pool (1)
2. Secretly stash astronaut Sally (1)
3. A few play a snare instrument (1)
4. Actor Charlie's headmasters (1)
5. Less hairy-headed mobile creator (2)
6. Coach Lombardi's pear look-alikes (2)
7. Lauding applying a pottery finish (2)

Every answer is a rhyming pair of words (like FAT CAT and DOUBLE TROUBLE), and they will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word.
