Fulfilling her 'destiny'

Crestview woman seeks votes to provide footwear for poor children

CRESTVIEW — Yvonne Wood wants to give needy children abroad something many people take for granted: shoes on their feet.

The military spouse and mother of two seeks votes so she and others may provide footwear on behalf of TOMS Shoes, a charitable retailer.

The contest

The company, which donates a pair of shoes for each pair it sells, will send its top 50 "Ticket to Give" candidates to deliver new shoes to children abroad. The company — which has sent volunteers to Honduras, Argentina and Peru — reportedly has donated more than 2 million pairs of new shoes.

Wood hopes she's among this year's volunteers and humanitarian organizations aiding the effort.

"This is something I really want to be a part of," she said. "It would be an honor to work with them."

Voting is under way and will end at midnight April 11, Wood said. You can vote for Wood's entry at bit.ly/YmtpRu.

Gopher tortoises leave water plant amid $6 million project

CRESTVIEW — Six gopher tortoises have relocated from the city's waste water treatment plant on Arena Road to Nokuse Plantation in Freeport after a $6 million water system overhaul.

Three females, two males and one juvenile gopher tortoise were relocated to the 51,000-acre plantation to make room for an ongoing expansion at the plant.

"We are adding five rapid infiltration basins" to keep up with the city's growth, said Jayne Swift, the plant's project manager.

The basins will help the plant manage treated water as it is released back into the soil and into Florida's aquifer, which further purifies it.

Morgan Contracting in Baker is adding the basins as part of the renovations to the CH2MHILL-operated facility. Other additions include new pumps and a new chlorine basin that also treats the water. The project should be finished by summer 2014.

Library access comes to Baker residents

By MATTHEW BROWN
682-6524 | @cnbMatthew
matthewb@crestviewbulletin.com

BAKER — They say good things come to those who wait, but for Baker residents who value literature and other library materials, the wait is over.

The Library Spot, a lending machine that offers books and DVDs to Okaloosa County library members, made its Baker Block Museum location official on Friday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the service that opened Feb. 28.

The machine, the first of its kind in the county, offers a variety of books — from children's to young adult and adult bestsellers — and some of the latest family movies.

NEED A LIBRARY CARD?

Application forms are available at Baker Block Museum, which is open 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday. The museum is also open on the third Saturday of every month at the same time.

WANT TO GO?

The Library Spot is in front of Baker Block Museum on the corner of U.S 189 and State Road 4 in Baker. Contact the Okaloosa County Library Cooperative, 609-5101 or librarySpot@okaloosa.lib.fl.us, for more details.

Ultimately, it offers Baker residents a local library service.

"It can take you 25 minutes just to drive to Crestview from here," cooperative coordinator Vicky Stever said. "We wanted to find a way to serve people without them having to drive so many miles and spending so much time."

The machine looks similar to a snack vending machine, but there is no charge to use the contents inside. You just need a library card. Nearby is a drop-off box for returning items.

"It's a lot cheaper than buying books," Baker resident Christina Pilkington said.

Pilkington regularly takes her sons — Gabriel, 6, and Jacob, 5 — to the lending machine, which is on their way to school from where they live.

"I read every night with my mom," Gabriel said.

Word about the machine has been spreading, museum coordinator Ann Spann said.

"We have had a lot of curiosity and excitement by it, and the novelty of it is catching people's attention," she said.

"It has also been driving in traffic into the museum."

Book helps anyone understand the federal budget

MARIE GARCIA
Check It Out

The numbers that make up the federal budget and budget deficits are difficult to comprehend.

When hearing about trillions or billions of taxpayer dollars that are appropriated here or there, it is easy to lose track of the fiscal picture.

David Wessel's "Red Ink" is a call to action for Americans to be aware of where money from the federal budget goes and comes from.

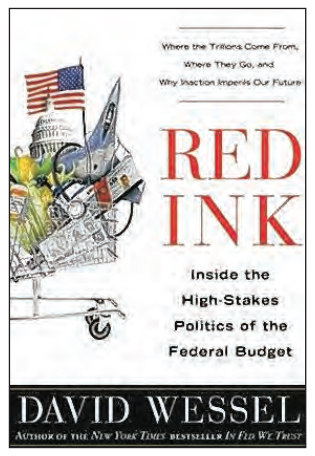
He explains — in plain language — our budget's current state, its history, and what measures are needed and not needed to have a more balanced budget.

Here's some interesting information I was not aware of: "About $1 of every $4 the federal government spends goes to health care today, and that share is rising inexorably."

Also, "nearly two-thirds of annual federal spending is on autopilot and doesn't require an annual vote by Congress."

Read this short but informative book and let knowledge be your guide when casting a vote.

Marie Garcia is the Crestview Public Library's assistant library director.



OBITUARY

Edwin Eugene Spears (1920-2013)

Gene Spears, 93, a 33-year resident of Crestview, went peacefully to be with his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on Thursday, March 14, 2013, with loving family by his side.

Formerly of Pensacola and Pompano Beach, Gene was born and raised in Scottsville, Ky. He was the eldest child of Roy W. and McCabe "Kay" Hargett Spears. He was preceded in death by his loving wife of 71 years, Marjorie Crowdus Spears, and by his brothers: Odie Spears (Mary Helen) and Roy Spears Jr. (Ingrid) and his sister, Lucille Delgado (Del). He is survived by his sisters: Thelma Simmons (Jimmy) of Murrells Inlet, S.C., and Barbara Smith of Scottsville, Ky., and by his sister-in-law, Ingrid, who has moved back to Sweden.

Gene is also survived by his sons: Bill Spears (Gayle) of Crestview and Terry Spears (Patty) of Molino. He was Grandaddy to seven grandchildren: Eric Spears (Valerie) of Crestview; Tim Spears (Kellie) of Destin; Amy Reed (Chuck) of Allentown, Pa.; John Spears (Angela) of Alpharetta, Ga.; Janette Howard (Jason) of Crestview; Josh Spears of Molino; and Rebecca Spears-Sliwinski (Tony) of Egg Harbor Township, N.J. He was "Pops" to 18 great-grandchildren. Numerous beloved nieces and nephews also survive him.

Gene grew up a country boy, enjoying fishing and hunting small game. He loved helping his grandpas in their blacksmith shops. He always enjoyed harvesting things, such as blueberries, from the woods. He joined the Marine Corps and served honorably during World War II in the South Pacific in the First Reconnaissance Company of the First Marine Division, becoming a sergeant. His farming background served him well and he received special recognition for his excellent marksmanship.

Throughout his life, Gene enjoyed his flowers, photography, golf and watching baseball and golf with Marge. They also enjoyed traveling and had many happy times on the road and on several special cruises.

Marge had been a hospital volunteer for most of her adult life, and in later years, he joined her and enjoyed serving his friends and neighbors.

Gene dearly loved and was loved by his family, and when all those children and grandchildren were growing up, he was the one popping up with his camera to record many of their activities and special milestones.

Gene was a car salesperson for most of his life, and always enjoyed his interactions with people and serving people in this way. He also enjoyed several other jobs after his first retirement, such as working at a gun shop; and he didn't completely stop working until he was into his 90s.

Gene became a Christian as an adult and began to seriously study the Bible. He loved teaching, and especially treasured his understanding of "rightly dividing the Word of God."

It is a great comfort to his family to know that our beloved Dad/Grandaddy/Pops/Gene is with the Lord and awaiting that glorious day when all Christians will meet the Lord in the air and receive our glorified bodies — and "so shall we ever be with the Lord."

In lieu of flowers, send memorial gifts to the Christian ministry or charity of your choice.

Gene resided at Crestview Rehabilitation Center for the last 5 ½ months of his life. His family wants to thank all who gave him such excellent, loving care.

Heritage Gardens Funeral Home in Niceville made arrangements.

A graveside service is 11 a.m. today, March 20 in Heritage Gardens Cemetery. You may offer the family condolences and sign a guest book at www.heritagegardens funeralhome.com.

HEALTH

5 park locations fail water quality testing

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The Florida Department of Health in Okaloosa County reported the latest water quality results.

Advisories have been issued for Liza Jackson Park and Garniers Park of Fort Walton Beach, Gulf Island National Seashore of Okaloosa Island, Lincoln Park of Valparaiso, and Rocky Bayou State Park of Niceville based on the EPA's recommended enterococci standards.

These locations should be considered to have a potential health risk to the bathing public.

EDUCATION

Bob Sikes parents, students gather for a night of science

By MATTHEW BROWN

matthewb@crestviewbulletin.com

CRESTVIEW — Bob Sikes Elementary School parents saw their students' education in action Thursday during Science Night in the school cafeteria.

Daisy Spencer, 8, showed her great-grandfather, Allen Shoaf, her project on poster board titled "The Colors of Density." She and her second-grade classmates mixed several household liquids — including dish soap, vegetable oil and rubbing alcohol — to see if they mixed or separated. The substances layered themselves based on their density, the poster board stated. The project required her to log results.

"We had to come up with a question and hypothesis," Daisy said.

Seeing the project was a treat, Shoal said.

"We try to encourage her in all of her school work," he said.

Staff from Fort Walton Beach's Emerald Coast Science Center performed experiments that included constructing flying contraptions using just paper strips and drinking straws.

Joy Stewart, who attended her first Science Night with her 6-year-old son, Calvin, said she was impressed.

"It was very informative," she said. "The presentations were interesting enough to keep the kids interested."

"This is just real neat that they can do this," said Bobby Feller, who attended with his 7-year-old daughter, Mayson.

The school annually presents four Parent Nights that involve reading, math, writing and science, Principal Vicky Hayden said.

Feller said Since Night, for him, was a trip down memory lane.

"You look through the (cafeteria) and you say, "Oh yeah, I remember that," he said.

Who would you want planning your funeral?

Make an appointment today, so the burden won't be on your children.

ELECTIONS SHOULD HAVE RUNOFFS

I believe the city should adopt the rule that a runoff be held when the third candidate held more than enough votes to give either of the top two candidates a considerable lead. Nothing against Betsy (Roy); just seems like common sense.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR GOT RESULTS

I thank the county man (don't remember his name) for contacting me personally by telephone one day after my letter appeared in the Crestview News Bulletin.

He was very nice and concerned about this problem and (said) he would most definitely look into it, and would readjust the time the green left arrow (to John King Road) stayed on.

He did just that, and I have noticed a big difference in the number of vehicles that are able to turn left onto John King Road.

I am very grateful to this person from the county and to the Crestview News Bulletin for publishing my letter.

CITY SHOULD HAVE FAIR GIVING PRACTICES

As long as they don't pick and choose what they do or do not support. If people have lost their jobs due to the economic situation, there should be no funds disbursed for charities.

It's truly unfortunate, as every organization is struggling to survive during these times.

Pam Fox Pannasch

Just pass the hat and ask people to donate. Taxpayer funds should not be used

SHOULD WE JUDGE OTHER DISEASES?

People who have not been personally touched by addiction are the ones that do not understand.

Do (we) also look down on, say, a diabetic who is overweight, smokes, does not follow the proper diet and instructions from her doctor to keep diabetes under control?

They continue to drink Cokes, eat cookies — and just say they have food stamps and spend it all on junk, or maybe get insulin and syringes using taxpayer's money, would you think bad of them?

Would you judge their disease?

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Let's move past apathy and celebrate change

Thomas Boni
Editor-in-Chief

Bill Robinson, the Okaloosa/Walton United Way president and CEO, is retiring after 25 years of service that certainly inspired numerous residents, over the years, to give back to their community.

In today's News Bulletin, you'll see some blistering remarks for the 89 1/2 percent of Crestview residents who didn't vote in last week's municipal elections.

The message is simple: If you don't vote, don't complain.

It's a catchy slogan worthy of a bumper sticker, but carries little weight. We Americans often like to have our cake and eat it, too, so the apathetic non-voter who wants to weigh in on the potential skateboard park or other public improvements can complain to his or her heart's content without consequence.

The secret ballot doesn't expose citizens, and they won't implicate themselves as non-voters, so it's a moot point.

The truth is, Crestview could present a ticker-tape parade encouraging people to vote, a grassroots organization could convince dozens of residents to wear "Vote" T-shirts; and students could have relentlessly pestered their parents, brothers, sisters and other 18-and-up relatives to visit the polls.

It wouldn't have made much difference.

Residents read about the election in the newspaper or on the Internet; they heard about it on the radio or television; friends talked about it; and even if they otherwise hadn't heard about it, motorists doubtless saw the campaign signs throughout the city.

They knew — they just didn't care. Because "Here Comes Honey Boo Boo," "Pawn Stars" or "Duck Dynasty" was more important.

That's the culture. We can deconstruct it, call attention to it and maybe even make non-voters temporarily regret silencing their own voice. But it probably wouldn't change much.

And even if it did, just for a moment, "NCIS" would return from commercial break and the thought would vanish.

We trust that our newly elected leaders in Crestview and Laurel Hill have their communities and residents' best interests at heart.

However, we remind the non-voting public that some movers and shakers in this country get into politics to run roughshod with their agenda, using the uninformed citizenry's apathy to win office.

Who's to say, at some point in the future, it couldn't happen here?

But enough of that unpleasantness.

In this week's Editor's Desk, let's shift to a more productive group: Okaloosa County change agents who are making a difference.

Bill Robinson, the Okaloosa/Walton United Way president and CEO, is retiring after 25 years of service that certainly inspired numerous residents, over the years, to give back to their community. Prior to his time at United Way, he served for the Boy Scouts of America.

Yvonne Wood, a Crestview military spouse and mother of two, has said her "destiny" is to help non-profit causes. Her latest effort is one of the most selfless things we have heard of: entering a contest to win a trip abroad — not to Paris, but rather to visit the poor and place canvas shoes on their feet. (See "Fulfilling her 'destiny,'" A1.)

Carson Caldwell, a Riverside Elementary student, was sick of bullying and decided to do something about it. He created a Bully Box for anonymous reporting of behavior that violates Okaloosa County School Codes. (See "Anti-bully Pulpit," March 13 News Bulletin, A1.)

But it doesn't take as much effort as these residents to create change.

Jimmy Wrye wrote a letter to the editor criticizing heavy traffic on the left turn lane to John King Road. The letter published two weeks ago in the News Bulletin and soon he received feedback from county authorities who could relieve the situation, he said.

We will keep monitoring the traffic situation and will let you know of improvements.

Additionally, we will keep reporting on north Okaloosa County residents who make a difference in their community.

MY VIEW

Election night's 9 out of 10 losers

By Brian Hughes
682-6524 | @cnbBrian
brianh@crestviewbulletin.com

Brian Hughes
Arts & Entertainment Editor

I enjoy the Supervisor of Elections office's excitement on Election Night. It's an awe-inspiring night and a grand place for an American to be.

Then, everything embodying America's democracy rests not in City Hall, Tallahassee or Washington, D.C., but in a simple former bank office on Wilson Street.

That's where our votes are officially tabulated.

That's where our voice in our political system is registered.

Every citizen should spend an election night there to see and understand just how this remarkable thing called democracy works.

Through floor-to-ceiling glass walls, we can watch this precious, miraculous system at work, ultimately knowing the results before anyone else in the county.

I spent March 12 with candidates, concerned citizens, former and current officials, political party representatives, and Taylor Smith, an 8-year-old Antioch Elementary School student who eagerly tracked results on her "kids vote" tally sheet.

Taylor's our future, and that she took such an interest in how our society governs itself is gratifying.

That day, Andrew Helt — who recently turned 18 — voted for the first time. I encountered him enthusiastically waving a sign alongside State Road 85 supporting his candidate.

They were among a minority; 11,328, or 90 percent, of our registered voters couldn't be bothered to give their say in local governance.

That's nine out of 10 of our friends and neighbors who just didn't give a hoot about their duty as a citizen.

About their obligation to the community.

About their responsibility to uphold freedom and a basic human right so precious that people in other countries spill their blood to earn it.

We have it, yet an abysmal 90 percent of us squandered it.

It's not like they didn't have a chance. They had nine whole days in which they could have voted — even more if they exercised the convenient absentee voting option. Heck, Supervisor of Elections Paul Lux will even mail them a ballot.

How much easier can it get?

But they still didn't bother.

It's shameful.

It's embarrassing.

It's pitiful.

But on the other hand, as a newspaper writer, it makes things easier for us.

Since 90 percent of voters relinquished their duty, as far as I'm concerned, those 11,328 apathetic people also gave up any right to whine and complain when they don't like the direction their local government takes.

Wish we had more shops and restaurants? Sorry, you gave up your right to beg for more.

Think S.R. 85 traffic needs addressing? Too bad. You gave up any right to complain.

Want a bypass around the city? Alas, you gave up your say. You made it clear you don't care about the state of your community, so don't come whining later.

The other 1,323 people who fulfilled their duty as citizens, you're the people we want to hear from. Tell us — and tell your elected officials — how our community can be improved. You earned that right Tuesday.

Since the other 90 percent gave up their right to moan, your voices will come through loud and clear.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Cheers for candidates, but more residents should vote

I would like to commend all candidates in the municipal election this year. The Kiwanis Club of Crestview invited all of the candidates to attend a meeting for us to meet them. All but one candidate attended.

I also attended the forum at Warrior's Hall put on by the Chamber of Commerce. At both of these events, all candidates expressed their thoughts of the present and future of Crestview.

Never was one negative towards their opponents. All were courteous towards people asking questions.

As soon as the election was over, I saw all candidates on the road picking up signs. As of this writing, very few signs do I see along the road.

I believe Crestview is very fortunate to have people willing to spend the time and effort to run for positions in city government, keep their positions positive and not attack other candidates.

Now if we can get the residents to participate in the election process, the effort would be complete.

The Okaloosa Chamber Singers return to Crestview for a spring concert.

Chamber Singers' encore

Concert to feature a cappella selections

By BRIAN HUGHES
Arts and Entertainment Editor
brianh@crestviewbulletin.com

CRESTVIEW — The Okaloosa Chamber Singers are preparing for their annual spring concert.

Marilyn Overturf, the group's director, said she is excited her group will perform in two venues they haven't appeared at in several years. The Friday, March 22, concert is set for 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Niceville.

"It's lovely acoustically, but the Lutherans love to put their organs up there in the balcony, which makes some logistical problems," Overturf said with a chuckle.

The March 24 concert, at 4 p.m., represents a homecoming of sorts.

"The other venue is First United Methodist in Crestview, where we haven't been in years," Overturf said. "When we first started out, we performed all the time in Crestview. We're glad to be back, and I know some of the singers are, too."

Chamber Singers members suggested Overturf consider selections without musical accompaniment as they wrap up their 15th season of bringing professional choral music to area audiences.

"They wanted to do an a cappella program, which this primarily is," Overturf said. "We don't normally do a lot of a cappella music because it requires a particular type of rehearsal that we don't always have the time for."

"Now Let Us Sing," the spring concert, features Renaissance a cappella motets and madrigals "with a taste of Schubert, folk and spirituals," Overturf said.

Not all the selections are unaccompanied, she said. Davidson Middle School choral music teacher Keitha Bledsoe and organist Leon Curenton will accompany the Chamber Singers on some songs.

WANT TO GO?

The Okaloosa Chamber Singers perform a spring concert, "Now Let Us Sing," at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 22, at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 1407 E. John Sims Parkway, Niceville; and 4 p.m. Sunday, March 24, at First United Methodist Church, 599 Eighth Ave., Crestview. The concerts are free, with a suggested $15 or $25 donation per couple. Call director Marilyn Overturf, 682-9651, for details.

Dinner and a whodunit

REVIEW

BRIAN HUGHES | News Bulletin

When their director, Cynthia Bergquist, in the wheelchair, dies, actors Mary Ann Troiana, standing right, and Jim Downum, standing left, decide whether the show must go on in "On Stage for Murder."

BRIAN HUGHES
Arts & Entertainment Editor

We dined on a sumptuous meal at Maverick's — Crestview's hot new fusion cuisine restaurant — Saturday evening, where we'd hoped to enjoy Diedre's "A Plateful of Death," her newest murder mystery comedy dinner theater.

After several false starts — during which Phillipe Iglassius Gauntz, an actor of dubious talent, kept messing up his opening lines — and somewhere between the inch-thick prime rib and creamy cheesecake, the director sacked the entire cast and tried to recast the show using audience members.

OK, there's no such place as Maverick's in Crestview.

It was part of the fun show-within-a-show in Act4Murder's latest production, "On Stage for Murder," at Christopher's Uncorked Bistro, the troupe's occasional Crestview stage.

Act4Murder's six-member cast boasted over-the-top, delightfully outrageous characters with performances no less subtle. Cynthia Bergquist, as Diedre, was so wonderfully obnoxious that the 50-some audience members knew soon after the salad dishes were removed that she would be the likely murder victim.

As the second act unfolded during the three-course dinner, the choice of likely murderers grew to include everyone in the cast, including restaurant owner "Maverick" himself, played with bravado by Chris Manson.

So who slipped the self-centered Diedre the shrimp ball, knowing her allergies to shellfish?

Was it the tempestuous actress Winnie Gambino-Wiener (Mary Ann Troiana)? Or was it Phillipe (Ken Olsen)? Or Evan S. Even (Jim Downdun), for whom Diedre has the hots — "I can't resist a man in a choo-choo hat," she declares — a feeling not at all reciprocated.

Or perhaps it was the bumbling Dunder Doody, Diedre's ex, from whom she stole the production company.

Audience members were invited to audition to replace the "fired" cast members. At the end, each table's occupants collaborated to analyze the clues, try to guess the whodunit and how.

If you missed it, the troupe returns to Crestview on Friday at Foxwood Country Club.

EXTENSION CONNECTION

Understand prepaid or reloadable cards

ELAINE COURTNEY
Extension Connection

Prepaid cards, though sometimes marketed as "prepaid credit cards," are not credit cards.

The card issuer offers no credit; the cardholder merely spends money he or she placed on a card. The card number uniquely identifies a record in a central database where the balance is recorded.

In many ways, a reloadable card is similar to a credit or debit card. Many reloadable cards carry a logo from one of the major electronic payment networks — Visa, American Express, Discover or MasterCard. Any business that accepts these logos likely accepts reloadable cards.

Prepaid cards are marketed to consumers with poor credit who don't qualify for a credit line that backs a mainstream credit card. Fees associated with these cards are often very high.

Though convenient, these cards can be an expensive way to spend your own money.

A major difference between prepaid cards and a credit or debit card is that the cards have to be "loaded" with money before you can use them. When the balance gets low, you can reload, or add more money, as the name implies. Depending on the card, you can reload online, in person or through a direct deposit from a workplace.

ADVANTAGES:

• They can be safer than cash. If the card is registered with an issuer and it's lost, you can recover your full balance.

• They are convenient like credit cards but don't allow users access to a credit line.

• Account activity does not affect your credit.

• Credit checks are not required to get one.

• Prepaid cards that allow direct deposit may save you money by allowing online and telephone payments for other debts.

• The FDIC, or laws requiring consumers to have access to those funds, protects money on the card.

• A prepaid card may teach young people how to use credit cards responsibly and how to stick to a budget.

• Prepaid cards can be used internationally.

DISADVANTAGES:

• Prepaid cards' fees make them more expensive to have and to use.

• Prepaid cards cannot help you establish or build a good credit history.

Choosing a card

• Will businesses you frequent accept the card?

• Is there a minimum requirement for the card to remain usable?

• Are there reload limits?

• Is there a daily cash withdrawal limit?

• Are there convenient ATMs where you can make withdrawals?

• What fees are charged?

Fees

Not all prepaid cards are equal. Read the small print on the card's website before "loading "it. Below are common charges.

• Activation fees: a one-time charge also called an opening fee — can cost $30 or more.

• Monthly maintenance fee: varies depending on the card, but can be upward of $10 a month.

• Reloading fee: applied when you add more money to the card; may include third-party charges.

• Purchase transaction fee: May be waived for some direct deposit cards.

• Overdraft fees: some cards will charge if you spend more than what is on the card.

• Cashier withdrawal: charged when you withdraw at a bank or an agent location.

• ATM fee: charged for withdrawing money from an ATM.

• Denied transaction fee: some cards charge a user if purchases are denied because of insufficient funds.

• Funds transfer fees: may be charged for transfers from one card to the other.

• Balance inquiry fee: charge for obtaining your balance statement.

• Inactivity fee: Charge applied if you don't use the card for a determined period, typically 60 to 90 days.

• Replacement fee: charged if your card is lost or stolen.

• Foreign currency conversion fee: You may be charged if you use the card outside the U.S.

More than just kicking & punching

Martial arts is more than just kicking and punching, it's also learning life skills such as: confidence, discipline, listening skills, and respect. The advantage of martial arts over most any other pastime activity is that martial arts can quickly turn from just a hobby into a way of life. What other activity does that while teaching such quality life skills?

At Gordon Martial Arts, we've gone through the latest training as we realize we must give children a head start in life. We do this by teaching life skills and social benefits while the children learn self-defense. During the children classes, not only will they learn to defend themselves, they will also:

- Stay active and avoid childhood obesity
- Will learn to focus and concentrate which will help with better school grades
- Build strength and coordination
- Teach goal setting, honesty, integrity, and leadership
- Instill mental discipline while incorporating responsibility.
- Assist with learning respect while gaining self-confidence, self-control, self-esteem, and social skills.

At Gordon Martial Arts, we are blessed with four black belt instructors offering classes 5-6 days a week in a 5200 sq ft standalone facility dedicated to the development of our students socially, cognitively, & physically. We are the only full time, fully staffed martial art program in North Okaloosa County. Featured in local newspapers, foreign publications, international magazines & publications for the personal development of our students and being recognized as one of the leaders in martial art community.

The beauty of it all is...martial arts is fun!

THE BULLETIN KID

Taylor Smith

As election night results were announced at the Supervisor of Elections office, among the citizens scribbling down the vote counts and making forecasts of their own was Taylor Smith, 8.

The Antioch Elementary School student came to the elections office with her grandparents, Gary and Cindi Smith, and kept up with the votes on a Kids Vote ballot provided by Paul Lux's staff.

"We tease her about being the youngest Republican in the club," said Cindi Smith, a member of the North Okaloosa Republican Club.

Asked if she might get involved in politics someday, Taylor grinned shyly and said, "I don't know. Maybe."

"We signed a contract with the city in February (of this year)," said Mike Tucker, the contractor's project manager. "Part of that contract was bringing on a biologist for the relocation of the tortoises."

"They originally thought there was only three nesting burrows, but there were 10," Tucker said.

Morgan Contracting contacted the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, which suggested Nokuse Plantation in Freeport.

The plantation specializes in preserving, restoring and conserving Florida's ecosystem by maintaining natural woodlands.

A team from the plantation found the tortoise burrows while surveying the land. Members brought a backhoe loader and shovels to retrieve the reptiles.

"We are going to keep them in an enclosed space for about a year," plantation director Matt Aresco said.

Later, the enclosure will be removed, allowing the gophers to roam freely within the plantation.

In Florida, gopher tortoises are "threatened" on the state's endangered species list.

State law protects gopher tortoises and their burrows, according to the FWC website, myfwc.com.

Property owners must receive the FWC's permission to capture and relocate the fragile reptiles.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS BULLETIN

A gopher tortoise inside a tub at the Crestview wastewater treatment plant awaits transportation to his new home. This gopher tortoise and six others were removed to make room for a $6 million expansion at the facility. All six reptiles will live at Nokuse Plantation in Freeport.

'DESTINY' from page A1

So far, 298 voters have supported Wood's entry, and the top candidate has 2,348 votes, as of press deadline.

"Right now, I am not in the top 50, but there is still time left," she said.

This will be no vacation getaway, according to the contest's website, toms.com/ticket-to-give. Winners will take long bus rides on curvy roads and must kneel on concrete surfaces while placing shoes on needy children's feet.

The trips will take place between July and December. Five groups of 10 will visit one of the countries for a week. An official announcement regarding winners and locations will be made in late April, according to the company's website.

A giving habit

Regardless of the election's outcome, Wood wants to continue spreading the word about the charitable shoe company, which has stores in Fort Walton Beach, Destin and at toms.com.

"They don't advertise; they really go by word of mouth," she said.

Supporting charitable causes is nothing new for Wood.

"I have been involved with fundraising from the American Cancer Society; I have also worked for the Fisher House (Foundation)," Wood said. The foundation provides housing so families can be near a military member receiving hospital care.

While working with the organization, Wood recognized her calling to work with nonprofit organizations.

"It has opened my eyes," she said. "In the future, I want to continue to work with nonprofit organizations."

"I know, without a doubt, that nonprofit work is my destiny," her "Ticket to Win" profile reads. "I have never had the opportunity to participate in something so amazing.

"Please help make it my first!"

Lady Gators shut down Dolphins

Ashley Black connects for a leadoff double in the third inning of Baker School's win over Gulf Breeze on Monday.

RANDY DICKSON | News Bulletin

By RANDY DICKSON
682-6524 | @BigRandle
randyd@crestviewbulletin.com

BAKER — Five hits and two runs were more than enough for the Baker School softball team Monday as the Gators beat Gulf Breeze 2-0.

Senior pitcher Macie Wilde did it in the circle and at the plate in helping lead the Gators (12-5) to victory.

Wilde limited the Dolphins to two hits while striking out seven Gulf Breeze batters and walking three.

She also had what became the game-winning hit in the third inning when she doubled in Ashley Black with the game's first score. Black had reached on a double of her own to start the Baker third.

Wilde also scored the other Gator run when Holly Stanley doubled with two outs in the third.

Wilde started out slowly, walking two batters in the first inning. She also had a rare wild pitch. But once she settled down, the Dolphins struggled to reach base.

Wilde retired 11 straight Gulf Breeze batters from the first inning until giving up a one-out walk in the fifth.

The Dolphins finally got a hit with two outs in the sixth inning and added one more in the seventh.

Hatten starts with good first impression

NORTH END ZONE
Randy Dickson

It's been said that you never have a second chance to make a first impression.

If my first impression of new Crestview High School athletic director and head football coach Tim Hatten is on target, the next 10 or 15 years should be eventful for the Bulldogs.

I can only imagine what Hatten's first impression of me was. When I met him at the Okaloosa County School Board meeting March 11, I couldn't immediately find my recorder for a brief interview.

Compounding matters, I misspelled his name in the story's headline.

March 11 and 12 weren't my best days.

To Hatten's credit, he was patient as I dug the recorder from deep within my pocket.

When I called to apologize for the headline's busted spelling — which we caught right after the papers went to press — he laughed it off and told me not to worry about it. So my first impressions of Hatten is he's a gracious man who doesn't sweat the small stuff.

When football season arrives and Hatten makes a questionable or bad call, I hope I will remember his graciousness to me as I stumbled this week.

I also was impressed with Hatten as we briefly discussed his football philosophies. Make no mistake; Tim Hatten is an offensive-minded head coach who will install the kind of high-octane attack many top college and pro teams use.

Hatten said he wants to stretch the field and give the opposing defense match-up problems, but he's willing to run the ball as well. He told Bulldog players they can expect to work hard on the field and in the classroom, and that he will keep the game fun.

Perhaps the most impressive thing about Hatten — at least from my perspective — is his emphasis on education.

Hatten, who was at Pearl River Community College the last 12 years and was head coach at Haines City nine years before that, said he was drawn to Crestview and Okaloosa County because the schools are top notch.

CRESTVIEW — Traditions will mix with new elements for the 24th annual Old Spanish Trail Rodeo on April 12 and 13 at Baker Area Recreation Association's Barnhill Arena.

Ticket prices are $12 in advance at bakerarena.com for adults and $15 at the gate. Children's tickets are $7 in advance and $10 at the gate. Events begin at 7:30 p.m.

CHANGES PRECEDE SILVER ANNIVERSARY

"This is our 24th annual rodeo so that's important to us. We are one step away from the big 25," Mark Todd, president of the Baker Area Recreation Association, said. "We've made a number of changes this year and some of them were hard to make ... but this year, we are changing it.

"We are going to (Professional Cowboy Association) ... they are actually the largest rodeo circuit in the Southeast and east of the Mississippi (River). They have over a thousand members in their organization as far as participants."

Todd expects 200 cowboys and cowgirls nightly and said the rodeo will pay close to $35,000 in prize money, with first-place winners in each event earning between $1,000 and 1,500.

Bulldogs fall to Vikings in extra innings

FORT WALTON BEACH — Pinch runner Cole Dudley scored from second on a Cody Kilpatrick ninth-inning double to give the Fort Walton Beach High School baseball team a 7-6 District 2-6A win over Crestview on Friday.

The win was the first of the season in district play for the Vikings and only their second win of the year.

A proud Fort Walton Beach coach Jeremiah Mayville praised his team's winning effort.

"We've got a bunch of good kids," he said. "I hate to keep saying it, but we are young. Our senior that starts (Kilpatrick) got the winning hit right there. (Nick) Boswell — once again — he has pitched awesome every time he's played.

"All I can say is thank the good Lord for shining down on the Fort. That's a good team and they played a very good ball game."

After Viking starting pitcher Frazier Shoults worked out of a bases loaded jam, his team seemed to rally behind him.

Fort Walton Beach scored two runs in the first inning on three hits; two were the infield variety.

Chase Outzen reached on an infield single with one out. And then Kevin Jones was safe at first when the Bulldogs were late getting to first on what would have been a sacrifice bunt.

Casey Wehrhan finally got the ball out of the infield with a line shot down the third-base line to score Outzen and Wehrhan.

The Vikings added two more runs in the third, going up 4-0 on the Bulldogs and starting pitcher Corey Armstrong, a freshman.

PILIALOHA WINS PANAMA CITY TOURNAMENT

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS BULLETIN

Pilialoha 15's travel volleyball team won the Panama City Spring Fling March 11. The team played Emerald Coast Volleyball Club of Fort Walton Beach in the semifinals and moved on to Niceville 15's Prostyle for the championship. Pilialoha won with scores of 25-23, and 25-18. This is the team's third win of the season.

Baker coach John Carlisle was pleased with the way Wilde shook off the rough start.

"Macie didn't start out very well," he said. "She kind of got into a groove in the middle innings. She pitched five-and-two-thirds of no-hit ball, which is good.

"When she gets in a groove, she's got no-hit stuff. She got some ground ball pitches when she needed to and she's been making some good pitches and not necessarily had to strike out everybody."

The Gators didn't exactly light up Gulf Breeze pitcher Sydney Ezelle, but they made most of their hits count.

Kaitlan Godwin had a one-out single in the Baker second for the game's first hit. The Gators then put together the doubles by Black, Wilde and Stanley to score the only runs.

Stanley had the other Baker hit, a single to lead off the Gator sixth inning.

"Offensively, we had an off night," Carlisle said. "We put a lot of balls up in the air, but our last five or six games we've been tearing the cover off the ball and people have been stroking it.

"To still come out with a win tonight, I'm happy with that."

Baker School's Macie Wilde delivers for the Gators in the first inning of their win over Gulf Breeze on Monday.

The Bulldogs (8-4, 4-4) came alive in the fifth inning, sending 10 batters to the plate and scoring six runs.

Dakota Dean had a two-run single and Austin Armstrong had a three-run double to spark the Bulldog attack.

Crestview chased Shoults in the big inning and he was replaced by Kilpatrick, who worked into the sixth before being lifted for Boswell.

But the Vikings wouldn't be denied as they scored a run in the fifth, pulling to within one run of the Bulldogs.

Fort Walton Beach tied the game in the bottom of the sixth when Kilpatrick scored with two out on a wild pitch by Bulldog reliever Roman Donofro.

Neither team scored in the eighth, but Boswell held Crestview scoreless in the top of the ninth, setting up Kilpatrick's heroics.

Nick Rathke led off the Viking ninth with an infield hit and was replaced by Dudley. A Boswell sacrifice moved Dudley to second base and Kilpatrick turned on a 1-2 pitch from Donofro, delivering the game winner.

"You have to give them credit," Bulldog coach Tim Gillis said. They played a lot harder than us and that's on the coach.

"We didn't execute when we had to execute, and again, that's on me. That's my fault."

Announcements publish according to available space.

He knows his 14- and 9-year-old sons can get an education here that will prepare them for college and their adult lives.

Hatten wants to ensure his sons, and the players he coaches, will have every opportunity to succeed in life with the foundation being a good education.

Hatten said he would be the coach for all the Crestview football players — including the junior varsity and freshman players. He wants to invest in the lives of all the young men who put on pads for the Bulldogs.

Spring practice starts six weeks from today, and Hatten has already started teaching his assistant coaches and players the way he runs things. He plans to have things in place so when spring drills start May 1, the team will know where to go and what to do.

With a career record of 155-59 — which comes to a .724 winning percentage — and a national championship in the junior college ranks to his credit, there's no doubt the guy can coach and knows how to win.

Crestview should prepare for an exciting run.

The new stock contractor is Poplarville, Miss.-based Herbert Theriot/5T Rodeo Company.

In addition, the rodeo will have a new starting time.

In the past, the rodeo has started at 8 p.m., but this year's event gets underway at 7:30 p.m.; gates open at 5:30 p.m. each day.

The association has added 380 seats to the arena above the bull chutes, providing prime seats for fans who want to pay a few dollars extra. Seats overlooking the bull chutes cost $20.

RETURNING ATTRACTIONS

Rodeo clown Rudy Burns and announcer Jim Poole will return for another run in Baker. Last year's featured act, the All American Cowgirl Chicks, will join them.

"We've never had anybody that I can recall that made such an impact on the crowd as the Cowgirl Chicks," Todd said. "They touched their audience. They were involved with the audience.

"They worked the area prior to the rodeo for us. They went out and did a meet-and-greet for us at Ace Hardware. We are working with Ace Hardware to do another meet-and-greet."

The rodeo will recognize a Wounded Warrior each night and present him or her with an American flag used in the Cowgirl Chicks' show.

Classic rodeo events — ranging from women's barrel racing to men's bull riding — will be featured at this year's event.

Quickly becoming a staple is the Reading for the Rodeo program, which gives tickets to elementary school children from Baker School, Laurel Hill School, Northwood Elementary and Bob Sikes Elementary who read a specific number of books.

Todd expects the rodeo will provide 700 tickets to young readers; sponsors will help offset the costs.

Sponsorships are still available for the rodeo, Todd said. See bakerarena.com for more details.

Rodeo proceeds will fund the Baker Area Recreation Association complex's operations.

"We don't realize it, but when you sit back and look at it, it's a big event for our area," Todd said. "It goes to a good cause for anybody that has any interest in the equine or that type of event.

"It's a great cause and it's a good event for the area."

Velma Conyers celebrates milestone birthday

By BRIAN HUGHES

brianh@crestviewbulletin.com

CRESTVIEW — Velma Conyers' bum leg makes it tough to stand for long periods in her church choir, but it doesn't stop her from getting out and mingling with her family, church members and sisters in the Order of the Eastern Star.

"I used to be going all the time for the Eastern Star and the church," she said. "I used to bake all the bread for communion and dress the church for communion for the pastor. I was a working lady, but times change and I can sit down and rest now."

On Thursday, "Ma Conyers," as folks in the community affectionately call her, became Crestview's newest centenarian. Her kitchen was a beehive of activity as friends and family helped prepare what her daughter, Velma Mary Haynes, called a "simple country supper."

BEGINNINGS

The daughter of Charlie and Hattie G. Jones, Conyers was 3 months old when her family moved from Bonifay to Deerland, just east of Crestview. She moved to Crestview when she was 8. On March 31, 1929, she married James Robert Lee Conyers, for whom the Masonic Lodge next the Mt. Zion church is named.

"There's been a lot of changes in Crestview," Conyers said. "There wasn't anything here but sand. You didn't think there would ever be sidewalks or paved streets. And there weren't many stores.

"We had a theater but it was out in the open, like a tent. The sides were open, but it was nice."

Conyers remembers the era of segregation.

"People have changed quite a bit, and it's a blessing," she said. "We do more mixing than we used to. If I had to go to the courthouse and I wanted a drink of water, I had to get my water out of a different sink over here, and you got your water out of sink over there. I had to go in a different door."

PRESERVING HISTORIC CRESTVIEW

But most of Conyers' memories are happy, filled with the blessings of friends and family, children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren.

Swimming in the L&N Railroad watering pond — now one of the ponds in Twin Hills Park — was a fun pastime, as was fishing. In winter, when water would slosh out of the railroad water tank and freeze, Conyers and her friends would break off icicles and eat them.

Conyers is glad to see some of the old Crestview that she remembers preserved for future generations. Main Street may no longer have hitching posts, but students attend classes in the Alatex Building that is now a Florida A&M University pharmacy school. Conyers had a hand in preserving the one-time sewing factory.

"Mayor (George) Whitehurst came to my house one day and we sat on the porch and got to talking and he said, 'Velma, I got to thinking, maybe we should tear that old building down,'" Conyers said.

"I said, 'Why do you want to tear things down and be like Fort Walton? Why don't you do something with that old building?' So people came together and now we have a new school for Crestview. I said, 'Leave something for the children to remember how it was.'"

"I feel pretty good," Conyers said. "It's just a blessing to be 100. It is a blessing. I have so much to thank God for."

Then she started softly singing one of her favorite hymns.
