Lighting the Way to a Cure

"What really struck me was that at night, when all of the lights were out and the luminaria's were burning, you could see the reflection of the 'V' on our shirts from the moon's light. And I knew. She's here. And I hope she would be proud."

When Kathy Irey took her first steps at the Relay For Life, held at Clewiston High School on April 5, she was not fighting against cancer for a loved one who is still here, but rather taking a stand for her loved ones who have already passed away.

"Vonita died in June," explained Kathy. "I just felt like I had to honor her somehow. She did so much for this community and taught so many people."

Kathy and Vonita taught together for 16 years, in which time they formed a bond that they knew would last forever.

"When you work that closely with someone, they become a part of you," said Kathy. "And then they're not there anymore…"

To honor Vonita's memory, Kathy put together fundraisers that were held in a variety of different ways throughout Clewiston: a spaghetti dinner at the First United Methodist Church, allowing teachers to wear jeans for a week for a $5 donation, hosting 'put a lid on cancer' day - which allowed student to wear a hat to school for one dollar - and much more. Pete Walker Leaves Glades Day for CHS

BY SAVANNAH ROUNDS
srounds@newszap.com

Long time head football coach for Glades Day school, Pete Walker, has officially accepted the position as head coach for Clewiston High School (CHS).

Walker, who grew up in Clewiston and played football at CHS, explained that he feels very welcome back in Clewiston and is happy to be in his hometown again.

"This is a great opportunity for me. I've always wanted to be back here," said Walker. "I love Clewiston and its people."

Walker was involved in football at an early age, though he did not realize his passion for coaching until he was out of high school.

"Once I went to college, I decided that I was going to get into coaching and teaching," said Walker. "It's a great opportunity to make a difference and mold young men."

Walker, who was head coach at Glades Day for 10 years, realizes the challenges of playing football, but is not worried about his transition to Clewiston. Having previously coached at CHS for a short period, he knows the in's-and-out's of the town and its people.

"I've always loved the game of football and know that it can truly make a difference. I realize that hard work, dedication, and team work can make a difference," said Walker.

When asked how he heard about the open position, Walker explained

Fatal Accident in Clewiston

BY JOSE JESUS ZARAGOZA
jzaragoza@newszap.com

One woman died in a tragic accident a few miles west of Clewiston yesterday.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the 37-year-old Clewiston woman died after being ejected from her vehicle moments after another vehicle struck it from behind.

A driver's failure to see the car ahead of its own is being faulted for causing the accident.

The accident happened shortly after noon on Thursday, April 3, on U.S. 27, west of County Road 720.

A family of four people occupied a 2004 Ford Explorer as it approached Clewiston. Inside were Clewiston residents Francisco Pardo Garcia, 42, who was driving, Martha Pardo, his passenger, and two boys, ages four and one.

Just behind the Explorer, heading in the same direction, was a 2009 Nissan Murano driven by Berta Alicia Villafuerte, 27, and passenger Melissa Kay Bryant, 27, both from Moore Haven.

According to FHP, Villafuerte failed to observe the Explorer in front of her and, when attempting to take evasive

Inland Birding Fun: Pine Warbler (PIWA)

BY MARGARET ENGLAND
Hendry-Glades Audubon

Pine warblers are a common wood warbler found in many eastern pine forests, but are rarely seen away from their pine habitat. They breed in southern Canada, the eastern half of the United States, and the Bahamas. These birds are found year-round in most of Florida with their numbers increasing in the winter due to the influx of migratory birds from their northern range.

Margaret England

Pine Warblers are yellowish birds with olive backs, whitish bellies, and pale sides of their neck. They have two prominent white wingbars on their gray wings. Adult males are brighter than the female and immature birds, which can appear to be gray-brown. These birds don't have the strong patterns of other warblers. Their face can have a pale eye ring connected to a pale strip in front of the eye. The oldest Pine Warbler in captivity lived to be six years old.

The Pine Warbler is one of few North American songbirds that sing year round. Males sing a fast trill of 10 to 30 simple whistled notes usually on one pitch. Males and females will make sharp, short call notes. A rattle call is made when they are defending their territory. They make sounds when they snap their stout bills at each other or other species.

Pine Warbler.

These birds are hard to spot as they move along high branches in pine or mixed pine forests where they forage for insects, spiders, berries, and seeds. They will also feed on the ground, catch insects in the air, or sometimes visit bird feeders.

In Florida, Pine Warblers begin breeding in late March and raise two or more broods per season. The male often escorts the female as she gathers nesting materials, and he will occasionally help build the nest. The cup shaped nest is nearly always built in a pine tree among the needles and cones near the end of a high branch. The female usually lays about four whitish eggs with brown speckles which are incubated for 10 to 13 days. The young fledge in about 10 days.

Volunteers are needed to help document breeding birds for the Breeding Bird Atlas II surveys in Hendry and Glades County. Join birders during the summer trips to STA5 and BBA II survey locations. Go to the Hendry-Glades Audubon website for information about the Stormwater Treatment Area 5 driving trips.

There are openings for the April 27 trip and the monthly trips scheduled May through October. Reservations are required. Send an e-mail to Margaret England at sta5birding@embarqmail.com or call 863-674-0695 or 863-517-0202. Include your name and contact information, with an emergency cell number, the date you want attend the STA5 trip, and the number of participants in your party. Meet at the east end of Deer Fence Canal Road at 8:30 a.m. For a schedule of STA5 trips through Jan. 4, 2014 visit the HGAS website at www.hendrygladesaudubon.org.

Gas Price Update

Average retail gasoline prices in Florida have fallen 5.1 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.57 per gallon on Sunday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 8,237 gas outlets in Florida. This compares with the national average that has fallen 4.0 cents per gallon in the last week to $3.58 per gallon.

Including the change in gas prices in Florida during the past week, prices yesterday were 38.7 cents per gallon lower than the same day one year ago and are 19.2 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has decreased 9.3 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 32.8 cents per gallon lower than this day one year ago.

"Americans are spending $108 million less on gasoline every day than they were a year ago," said GasBuddy.com Senior Petroleum Analyst Patrick DeHaan. "Prices in nearly all Metropolitan Statistical Areas are lower today than a year ago. In all, 300 Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) saw cheaper first quarter prices for gasoline than in 2012, with two MSAs showing no statistically significant change. More expensive markets in 2013 included locations in Vermont, New York, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania. The most expensive market in the country was the Honolulu area, but the outright price of $4.157 gallons this year was just three cents per gallon above the 2012 number," DeHaan said.

Entomologist Leads American Mosquito Control Association

PHOTO / IFAS

To formally accept her new position as president of the American Mosquito Control Association, Roxanne Connelly, right, accepts the presidential gavel from outgoing President Tom Wilmot, at the AMCA annual meeting.

When questions arise about mosquito control, University of Florida entomologist Roxanne Connelly is one of the state's most sought-after experts. Now, that expertise has earned her the presidency of a national organization.

Connelly, an associate professor with UF's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, was inducted Feb. 27 as president of the American Mosquito Control Association at the association's annual meeting in Atlantic City, N.J. She'll serve a one-year term.

"I'm very pleased about it," Connelly said in a March interview. "Holding this position is really an honor for me because I was elected to it."

The election happened at the 2010 AMCA annual meeting, where members voted Connelly to a four-year leadership stint. In 2011 she began by serving a one-year term as vice president, then another year as president-elect, and now president. In 2014 she'll become immediate past president.

Each position involves different responsibilities, she said. As president, Connelly will appear at state mosquito control association meetings, give presentations, recruit members and preside over board meetings. Occasionally, she may speak to the media on mosquito-related topics such as West Nile virus. One more goal: As president, Connelly wants to encourage talented young scientists from every background to consider mosquito control as a career option.

"Right before I took over as president I formed a task force on recruiting the next generation of mosquito control professionals," she said. "My job is to come up with ideas for high school students, to introduce them to the profession."

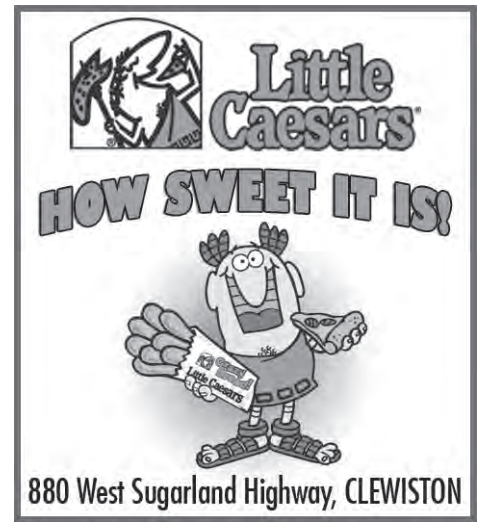
The task force will develop a set of guidelines on recruiting new members, Connelly said.

In 79 years of AMCA history, Connelly is the association's third female president.

"I hope that my accomplishment inspires young women who are interested in this vital public-health topic," she said.

She was a member of the AMCA board of directors from 2007-2010, representing the South Atlantic region – Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. Connelly was also president of the Florida Mosquito Control Association in 2011. A native of Birmingham, Ala., Connelly earned three degrees from Louisiana State University – a bachelor of science in environmental science in 1992, master of science in entomology in 1995 and a doctorate in entomology with a minor in epidemiology and community health in 1998. Hired by UF in 1999, she has worked exclusively at the Florida Medical Entomology Laboratory in Vero Beach. There, she provides Extension education to mosquito control personnel and public-health officials. She also researches mosquito control topics, teaches graduate-level courses in medical entomology and mentors graduate students.

Created in 1935, the AMCA is an international, non-profit organization promoting research efforts to help manage mosquito populations that vector diseases or cause annoyance.



Religion Column

Proud to be Part of It

BY PASTOR JOHN HICKS
First United Methodist Church

I don't remember much from Kindergarten, but I do remember that we were graded on whether we worked and played well with others. How are you doing on that today? Do you work and play well with others?

A bright-eyed three-year-old girl listened intently as her pastor shared in a children's sermon that God wanted them all to get along and love each other. When the pastor stated, "God wants us all to be one," the little girl replied, "But I don't want to be one. I want to be four!"

Pastor John Hicks

I don't know what you want to be, but God wants us to be one. This is not to say that we can't disagree. Disagreements are a part of being a family. But how we disagree is very important.

When we demand our way over others; when we think our way is superior; when we try to be on the top, we hurt the community. When we are critical, rude, asserting our right; when we are aggressive; when we feel we can say whatever we want, we hurt the community.

The Scriptures urge us "to walk in a manner worthy of the calling to which you have been called, with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love, eager to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

We are called to walk and work together.

But this is harder for us than we might understand, because putting up with people who are obnoxious or different than us isn't easy. We grow tired of accommodating, we become weary of compromise.

Why are we always the ones who have to change? Why can't they give something up once in a while? When "we" and "they," "us" and "them" makes its way into our vocabulary, a storm is brewing on the horizon.

Our unity is in jeopardy.

God not only cares about how we conduct ourselves individually, but also really cares on how we do it in the context of the community. We are called on to lift each other up.

When we don't help each other as we are called to do, we end up being a hindrance.

We hinder another's journey when we put someone down or tell them off or ignore them. It hurts the community when we do that.

God cares about our relationships with each other. He cares about the application of the oneness He has given us. The Christian life is more than just believing, it also includes belonging, and that translates into the community in which we live.

> "God not only cares about how we conduct ourselves individually, but also really cares on how we do it in the context of the community. We are called on to lift each other up."
> - Pastor John Hicks

That's why I'm so excited about what we did in our community these past few weeks.

At the community Easter Sunrise service hosted at Greater Friendship Baptist Church, we came together as one body.

We came together for a common cause in our Relay for Life, walking in memory and honor of loved ones and special friends, and to help future friends and family members. And then we came together again to help clean up Clewiston.

Brothers and sisters. Young and old. Anglos and Hispanics. Blacks and whites. People of all colors and races, all joined together in one family.

We may come from different experiences, lifestyles, and cultures, but we are family. We are community, neighbors sharing and taking care of neighbors.

We still have our problems. I was not happy to see trash dumped in areas I had picked up earlier. I don't always agree with what our leaders have said or done. They may not agree with everything I've said and done. We have been here long enough to know the strengths and weaknesses of each other.

You know that I'm not perfect, but neither are you.

People are like pianos, they need regular tuning. This means that we practice the art of relationship. We exercise patience with each other. We take advantages of each other's strengths. We are patient with each other's weaknesses. And we work together for the common good and unity of our community.

My City: Clewiston, Florida. I'm part of it. I'm proud of it.

that previous head coach, Joe Roth, called him and asked if he would be interested in the position. However, Roth's presence will not be absent from the football team, as he is taking the position alongside Walker as defensive coordinator.

"I think it was just a decision that he wanted to make," explained Walker. "We've coached together before and have a great relationship. I feel that we will be a great team."

Though Walker and Roth have worked together before, this will be an entirely new experience for players in the upcoming season.

"There are going to be a lot of things that are similar, but there may be some differences," said Walker. "The foundation may be the same, but the bushes are just a little different."

King's Academy Students Spruce up Ball Fields

The King's Academy recently joined forces with the Clewiston Parks and Recreation Department for a clean-up project at the Clewiston ball fields. Students and faculty from the Christian school on Caribbean Avenue painted scorer's tables, dugouts, and light posts as a part of their work.

The project was a part of the school's spring "RUSH" initiative, a bi-annual time of spiritual emphasis, with the spring event focusing on selfless service and civic responsibility. Students from the school are given the opportunity to volunteer for at least one service project each month and have completed countless hours of community service this year, including clean-up projects at Cane Field, visiting local nursing homes, working at food banks, and serving children with special needs.

United Way of Hendry and Glades Campaign Raises $215,045 for Local Agencies

The United Way of Hendry and Glades 2012-13 Campaign has surpassed its goal, raising more than $215,045 for the United Way Partner Agencies. Mary Beth Carroll, United Way of Hendry and Glades Campaign Chair and co-owner of Hilliard Brothers, made the announcement at a recent meeting of the campaign committee.

"A huge 'thank you' to all of the individuals and companies who gave to the United Way Campaign this year and helped us reach our goal! We are all affected by the difficult economy we are living in, but those who gave realized that many of their friends and neighbors are in even greater need. 34 local United Way Partner Agencies will be able to provide food, emergency assistance, counseling and many other services right here in our community because of your gifts."

Carroll went on to say, "United Way is reaching more individuals and families who are struggling because of our partnership efforts. The three United Way Neighborhood Houses in Hendry and Glades Counties provide office space for many agencies to meet with clients, making it much easier for those in need to get services. Your generosity has made this possible."

United Way Neighborhood Houses are located in LaBelle, Clewiston, and Moore Haven.

Many individuals and companies gave to the United Way of Hendry and Glades Campaign.

The top six company contributors were:

- Hilliard Brothers: $42,782
- Alico: $35,802
- Hendry County School District: $12,282
- Pavese Law Firm: $9,500
- Johnson-Prewitt: $6,440
- Southern Gardens: $6,034

All of the funds raised in Hendry and Glades Counties stays in Hendry and Glades to fund local agency programs. None of the funds are used for administration or fundraising costs.

"The good work of the United Way partner agencies has been phenomenal," said Cliff Smith, President of the United Way commented. "We are working together to feed the hungry and improve the quality of life in the community."

A local network of thirty-four agencies and programs will receive funds from the 2012-13 United Way of Hendry and Glades fundraising campaign. These agencies include: The Salvation Army, Goodwill, Visually Impaired Persons, Harry Chapin Food Bank, the Children's Advocacy Center, Healthy Start, and many others.

This network serves a diverse range of needs: nurturing children and youth, strengthening families, meeting critical needs, such as helping the elderly and disabled live independently, and empowering communities by bringing health and human services to neighborhoods. The network of United Way agencies helped over 21,000 people in Hendry and Glades Counties last year.

In addition to raising funds for human service organizations in our community, the United Way promotes partnerships and collaborations among agencies; helping them to work together by focusing on issues and solutions that continue to improve lives. For more information or to volunteer, please call United Way of Hendry and Glades Counties at 800-887-9234.

Man Arrested After Pointing Gun at Deputies

On Sunday, April 7, Hendry County deputies responded to the area of 902 N. Gratton Road, Clewiston. The Hendry County Sheriff's Office had received reports of a man standing outside naked with a shotgun.

Upon Deputies arrival they found 59-year-old Donald Mulligan standing on top of a truck overlooking privacy fence. When Mulligan saw Deputies he pointed a gun at Deputy Sheriff J. Brown. At that point a neighbor, James Vary, began talking to Mulligan reasoning with him to talk to deputies.

Mulligan walked toward his home and returned wearing clothes and carrying two beers. As deputies approached Mulligan he began to make suspicious movements and was taken into custody and transported to the Hendry County Jail.

Students raise funds for Relay for Life

On Wednesday, April 3, the Relay for Life team from Westside Elementary sponsored "Put A Lid On Cancer" day. Students brought in $1 and were allowed to wear a hat to school to support their teachers walking in the local relay on April 5 and 6. Thank you so much to all who participated. It was a huge success.

Relay

the American Cancer Society.

Kathy put together a team to walk the relay with her and had shirts designed with a big 'V' on them in order to honor Vonita.

But Kathy explained that this is not the first person that she has lost to cancer.

"My father died in 2010 of cancer," she said. "It was hard, and I did the Relay for a long time. But then life just gets really busy and you don't think that you have time to do it."

Kathy explained that losing Vonita changed that.

"It's easy to say that you 'don't have time' and 'it's a lot of work,' but it's 18 hours; a day and a half," said Kathy. "My friend was worth a day and a half of my time."

Kathy explains that there is nothing that can compare to walking with so many people to fight against a certain cause.

"When you're walking around the track with other people that you know, there's that camaraderie; that peace. And you take strength from that," she said.

However, her favorite part of the night was when the luminaria, which are candles lit inside of personalized bags, were placed around the track as a glowing tribute to those who have been affected by cancer.

"For a few laps they turn off all of the lights and you walk around the track just staring at those bags," said Kathy. "Some of them make you smile. Some make you cry. But those bags represent, to me, what cancer is. Some, as soon as they were lit, went out. But some just burn. They don't mind the wind, or being blown over. They just keep burning."

Kathy explained that each bag has a personal touch, with her saying "To V, love K." She explained that, while most people do not understand the meaning behind this simple statement, she knows how powerful this is to her. When Vonita and Kathy taught together, they were constantly passing notes back and forth. They talked about their day and what they were teaching in their classroom.

"She would always sign her letters with a 'V,' I and I would sign mine with a 'K,'" said a nostalgic Kathy.

The sentiment behind the luminaria was simple, but held a lot of meaning for Kathy. But Kathy explained that this is not the end of honoring her friends memory.

"Some of the people who were walking were suffering from cancer. We're walking for them, and they're walking for somebody else," said Kathy. "We all know someone who has been affected by cancer. I wish that more people would see that and get involved."

Team V raised over $3,000 for the American Cancer Society. They walked the entire relay, lit their luminaria, and went home with a better understanding of what it means to really fight against cancer.

"The Relay begins when the sun is setting, and symbolizes the time that the survivor has been diagnosed with their cancer," explained a representative for The Relay. "Night falling representing the survivor's darkness as the day is ending and as the evening lingers, just as the survivor does. Around 1 a.m., the survivor's treatment kicks off and the survivor often becomes weary, some sick, having no desire to endure the poisonous infusion, losing strength and all persistence.

"The Relay participant is feeling the same as they have been walking steadfast and began with much purpose. Both have grown tired, sleepy, aggravated and even want to stop, but both must regenerate and pull all strength from within. As the morning nears, the survivor is ending their treatment and The Relay participants know they will push through as the sun begins to rise. Everyone sees light at the end of the tunnel. The morning light brings on a new day full of life and excitement for new beginnings for the cancer patient and the Relay participant."

Speak Out

Dear CCS/TKA Official Board of Directors,

I don't know if you are aware but your school's church is hurting your reputation in our community. I thought your school was supposed to be non-denominational, but it is very obvious who you support. Many of your teachers and students have been pulled out of their own churches to attend your church.

I am disappointed in the direction you have chosen to go, concerning church support. I begin to wonder if this has anything to do with who founded this church, one of our city "leaders."

It seems this is a conflict of interest. It is a shame that a Christian school is allowing disunity to take place among our city's churches as well as the city itself.

Public Service Commission Recognizes National Safe Digging Month

Every three minutes nationwide, an underground utility line is hit because of failure to call 8-1-1 before digging.

The Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) reminds Floridians to call 8-1-1 before putting a shovel in the ground this spring!

"We're spreading the word about safe digging for April's National Safe Digging Month," said PSC Chairman Ronald A. Brisé.

"We hope people will recognize the importance of 8-1-1, just as they do 9-1-1, since the leading cause of natural gas delivery system accidents is hitting underground facilities. For information on safe digging, I encourage consumers to view a helpful 8-1-1 video tip on the PSC's website."

Digging for any type of landscape and home improvement projects without knowing the approximate location of underground utilities can cause serious injuries, service disruptions, and repair costs if a line is damaged.

Homeowners often make risky assumptions about whether or not to get their utility lines marked, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation's Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration, which supports the 8-1-1 campaign.

The Federal Communications Commission has designated 8-1-1 as the national "Call Before You Dig" number. By calling 8-1-1, local Sunshine State One Call Center personnel notify affected utility companies to dispatch crews to mark your underground utility lines.

Utility markings show those who dig the approximate location of underground lines and help prevent undesired consequences.

This is a free service, so there is no reason to take a chance or make an assumption about the location of critical underground utility facilities.

Both professional contractors and homeowners should call 8-1-1 and follow the safe digging guidelines, not only during National Safe Digging Month, but every month. And, after your underground facilities are marked, dig with care!

For more information on the 8-1-1 campaign, visit www.call811.com, or access the PSC's brochure on Natural Gas Utility Regulation in Florida at www.floridapsc.com.

Prevent High Blood Pressure

The Florida Department of Health recognizes World Health Day on April 7. As part of the recognition, please see the information below about blood pressure.

High Blood Pressure

Think about the last time you had your blood pressure checked. What were the numbers? Blood pressure is written as two numbers. The first number (systolic) represents the pressure in your blood vessels when your heart beats. The second number (diastolic) represents the pressure in your vessels when your heart rests between beats.

Blood Pressure Levels

Normal
-Systolic: less than 120
-Diastolic: less than 80
At Risk (Prehypertension)
-Systolic: 120-139
-Diastolic: 80-89
High
-Systolic: 140 or Higher
-Diastolic: 90 or Higher
Hypertensive Crisis
-Systolic: Grater than 180
-Diastolic: Greater than 110

Prevention

•Adopt a healthy lifestyle - maintain a healthy weight, be physically active, follow a healthy eating plan that emphasizes fruits, vegetables, and low-fat dairy foods, and choose and prepare foods with less salt.

•If you drink alcoholic beverages, drink in moderation.

•If you smoke, quit as soon as possible. Call 1-877-U-CAN-NOW or visit www.quitnow.net/florida.

April is Autism Awareness Month

BY PAT DOBBINS
Hendry/Glades Health Departments

The month of April is recognized as Autism Awareness Month. It gives special opportunity for communities to raise awareness and educate the public about autism.

There is no known single cause for autism, but many researchers believe that it is caused by abnormalities in brain structure or function. No "one" gene has been identified as causing autism. However, researchers have been searching for irregular segments of genetic codes that children with autism may have inherited.

Some of the characteristic behaviors of autism may or may not be clearly noticeable during the child's first 18 to 24 months, but they usually become more obvious during early childhood from ages 24 months to six years.

As part of a "well-baby" or "well-child" visit, the child's health care provider should complete a "developmental screening," where they may ask specific questions about the child's progress.

According to the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD) these five behaviors may give signals that further evaluation is warranted:

•If the child does not babble or coo by 12 months of age

•If the child does not make gestures by 12 months of age (point, wave, grasp)

•If the child does not say single words by 16 months of age

•If the child does not say two-word phrases on their own by 24 months of age

•If the child has any loss of any language or social skill at any age

Having any of these five "red flags" does not mean that your child has autism, but because the characteristics of the disorder can vary so much, a child showing these behaviors should have further evaluations completed by a healthcare specialist. This may include referrals to a neurologist, psychologist, developmental pediatrician, speech or language therapist, or other professionals knowledgeable about autism. Always talk with your healthcare provider if you are concerned about your child's development.

Finding out that your child has autism can be overwhelming. Parents always have a lot of questions about what they can do to help their child. With the appropriate services, support, training, and information, children with autism can grow, learn and flourish; even if they have a different developmental rate than others.

There is no known cure for autism. However, there are treatment and educational approaches that may reduce some of the challenges associated with the condition. There are ways to help lessen disruptive behaviors and education that can teach "self-help" skills which allow for greater independence. Take time to get educated about autism. Additional information about autism is available at www.cdc.gov/actearly or www.cdc.gov/autism.

Tables Turn in Craigslist Scam

BY SAVANNAH ROUNDS
srounds@newszap.com

When Marian Harris entered the First Bank of Clewiston with two checks totaling nearly the exact amount of what she owed, $5,850, bells went off in an employee's mind, who noticed when looking through her records that Harris had given them fraudulent checks before.

On April 5, officers with the Clewiston Police Department were dispatched to First Bank in reference to a possible fraud. What they found instead was a victim of a Craigslist scam, who claimed that she was trying to scam the scammer.

When Harris presented the bank with two checks, totaling $5,860, and stated that she wanted to pay off her balance, which was $5,850 owed due to using fraudulent checks in the past, the desk clerk was very weary.

Harris was told that it would be 10 days for the checks to clear, and asked Harris to contact the bank again after the allotted time was up.

Upon Harris leaving, the clerk confirmed that the checks were fraudulent. However, the bank refrained from contacting local law enforcement officials.

Nearly a month later, Harris contact the bank to see if the checks had cleared, where she was prompted to come in and pick them up. When she arrived on the following day, Harris was taken into the police department to undergo questioning regarding the fraudulent checks.

When questioned, Harris had an interesting story to tell, and in interesting perspective regarding the situation.

In January of 2013, Harris placed an ad on Craigslist - a free community moderated site with classified sections for selling, buying, job hunting, and much more – claiming that she was looking for a job in the area. Out of the responses that she received, two were very similar in what they wanted.

The first e-mail that she received notified her that a Palm Beach resident was looking for housekeeper. Upon showing interest, the other party told Harris that they were going to send her a check for $2,000, and that if she would cash the check, she could keep $300, given that she sent the remaining money back. Harris received the check shortly after via Fedex.

The second e-mail that she received was very similar, as someone in Palm Beach needed somebody to look after their sick sister. They told Harris that they would allow her to keep $1,050 out of a $3,850 check that they wanted her to cash, which she received shortly after.

Harris explained to officers that she knew that the checks were scams, and was simply not going to send any of the money back to the subjects sending who sent her the checks.

Harris was arrested for fraud and larceny.

Tiger Tennis Champ Heads to State Tournament

BY TIMOTHY SAENZ
Special to The Clewiston News

Sophomore Anessa Leyva takes her A-game to the state's tennis championships in Sanford the week of April 15.

The Clewiston High School tennis team's number one position player captured the district championship of number one seeds last week with a 7-6, 6-0 victory over Catherine Katz of Suncoast.

The competition only thickens from here.

Unlike USTA tournaments, high school tennis features competitors of various strengths. That will not be the case in Sanford, where only team and individual district champions will congregate for the top prize in Class 2A play.

However, Leyva remains undaunted. She plans to bring her aggressive playing style, razor sharp focus, and USTA experience to bear on her opponents.

"I like to dictate the point and find out the opportunities to move forward. I prefer offense to defense," the otherwise humble and mature Leyva says. "I have a powerful serve – it's accurate and powerful – so I can start the point aggressively. It's first strike tennis."

That's 'first strike' as in 'nuke 'em before they nuke you.'

Leyva will use her forehand before her backhand. If she's in a crosscourt rally, she's usually the one to change the direction of the ball. She'll hit it down the line to make her opponent run, but the ball will bounce out of the opponent's reach.

Just ask her opponents how aggressive, accurate, and powerful she is. In two years, Leyva has won every high school match she's played. She's only lost one set. Leyva blistered archrival LaBelle's number one position player, Dusty Catala, twice this year: 6-1, 6-0 and 8-1 in a limited pro set.

Leyva does have an Achilles heel, though. Points that take too long to earn frustrate her. She doesn't want to take three or four shots to win.

"You feel like [the point] should be over so you can relax," she said.

She is working to overcome that weakness in her game with repetitive practices, some of which emphasize taking away the movement from players who like to drag out the contest.

Leyva says that movement is the strength of such players. They like to hit the ball on the run. Leyva will counteract that by giving them the ball back. Her counter halts or restricts the opponent's movement.

"If they keep moving, they're comfortable; if I make them stop, if I give them the ball back, I have to wait a bit longer to be aggressive," she explains. "Then I finish the point when I want to."

Leyva is adding more shots to her repertoire as well, working on finesse shots that require more touch and more control. And she wants to be more consistent.

As individualistic as tennis can be, a team approach has certainly helped Leyva become what she is today: a rising, standout player. She heaps credit on her mom and dad, who got her started playing tennis and nurtured her development. Mom has driven her everywhere.

She credits her academy coach for the development of her game.

And Leyva singles out her high school coach, Josh Groves, for keeping her encouraged and focused.

Leyva's mother, Lenette, has seen the difference and growth.

"I tell her to take it match by match. You have to win one before you can get to the next one," Lenette Leyva said. "She can compete with anybody there. She's had the technical skills, but now she's developing the strategies and the mental toughness it takes to win it all."

action, struck the SUV, the front left portion of the Murano striking the right rear portion of the Explorer.

With the Explorer traveling in a clockwise direction after the initial impact, the Murano hit it a second time, with its driver unable to maintain control of the vehicle.

The Explorer launched into the grassy median, overturning and ejecting the female passenger.

The Murano also overturned and came to a stop on the grassy median.

After being ejected from her vehicle, Martha Pardo was pronounced deceased at the scene. The two children in the Explorer suffered only minor injuries, while the driver was treated for more serious injuries. Martha was the only passenger in the vehicle who was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

Meanwhile, the driver of the Murano suffered serious injuries, while her passenger suffered only minor injuries.

Victims were transported to Hendry Regional Medical Center and Lee Memorial.

FHP reports that charges may be filed pending the completion of their investigation.

The live oak trees of Barron Park make a scenic backdrop for a South Central Florida Car Club show.

South Central Florida Car Club welcomes enthusiasts

The South Central Florida Car Club (SCFCC) was started in 2006. The idea of the club was a collaboration of Tom Corbitt and his son and a few others from the Hendry and Glades County area. The club has grown in leaps and bounds over the past few years. The group now has over 45 members, these members own over 200 classic and vintage cars and trucks. Members now come from LaBelle, Moore Haven, Lehigh, Alva, Ft. Myers, Clewiston and Cape Coral along with many part time residents.

This is a very diverse group of car enthusiasts. Members certainly run the gamut. Owners have rat rods, vintage, muscle car, foreign, classic, concept cars, trucks and new, modern, showroom fresh cars. Both men and women enjoy being involved in this club.

There are no age limits for the group—all you have to do is like cars. A big welcome is extended to all auto enthusiasts. Why, heck, you don't even need to own a car—you just have to like them!

SCFCC meets the third Tuesday of each month from September through June, in Barron Park on State Road 29 N. in LaBelle. The park is tucked in alongside the Caloosahatchee River, near the base of the draw bridge. It is filled with many grand old live oaks. The club hosts what it calls Hot Rides & Hot Dogs in the Park from 5-8 p.m. They grill up some pretty great hot dogs, served with all kinds of fixings, along with drinks, chips and usually some kind of sweets. Everyone is welcome to come out and join them under the covered pavilion. Bring your ride, bring a friend and enjoy a night of great food and conversation.

One of the biggest things the SCFCC is known for is the Annual Legends of the Road Super Cruise and Show. This event is held annually in conjunction with the world renowned Swamp Cabbage Festival. The car show is held in the old historical district of LaBelle, adjacent to Barron Park, just steps away from the banks of the Caloosahatchee River. This event has grown over the years into a first class event.

Show goers not only are able to attend a great show, but they are within a holler of the "infamous" Armadillo Races held in Barron Park. While there they can partake in consuming the heart of the state tree of Florida, the Sable Palm, also known as Swamp Cabbage. It is served up fried into fritters, boiled and stewed and even made into relish.

There are numerous handicraft vendors under the majestic live oaks for guests to visit. The bandstand has continuous live acts during the day, ranging from old fashion cloggers to top-name music stars playing for your entertainment. The event is held the last full weekend of February annually.

The Legends of the Road Super Cruise and Show is a major fundraiser for the club. Annually, the club selects a different civic group to support by their fundraising efforts. In the past they have donated to the Humane Society and the Hendry-Glades Woman's Crisis Center. The past few years their main focus has been the Veterans Memorial Park in LaBelle. SCFCC was one of the first groups to step up and donate some of the seed money to get this park started and has proudly donated funds to help with the maintenance of the park over the past few years.

For 2013, they have chosen once again the Veterans Memorial Park, as well as LaBelle Little League, Olivia Luckey and her Church Mission Project as benefactors of the 7th Annual Legends of the Road Show and Super Cruise.

The SCFCC also has two other pet projects. In November and December of each year, members collect canned goods and toys for the Salvation Army to help the needy. At the November Cruise-In they collected over 100 food items to donate. At the Christmas holiday Cruise-In they collected numerous toys and food items for area families. There is such a need, they are glad to be able to help out even more families this past year, than they have in the past.

The South Central Florida Car Club welcomes you to come out, pull up a bench, sit a spell, and join in the conversation. They will feed ya well, at one of their monthly Cruise-Ins. Families are always welcome—lots of room for the kids to play in the park safely. Bike riders are welcome too—they love to see everyone swing in and join them.

If you need information or directions, call one of the officers, Ellen Beers at 863-634-9875 or Dave Gipson at 239-728-6596.

Car clubs growing in popularity in Florida

Americans love their cars. For most Floridians, a car is a necessity for daily transportation. For some, a car represents the freedom of the open road and the adventure of travel. For others, a car is a status symbol. Young people may see their first car as proof they are entering the adult world.

The American automobile culture includes car clubs—groups of individuals who gather to share their love of the automobile with other enthusiasts and host car shows. Some clubs specialize in particular models, such as Ford Mustangs or Corvettes. Others concentrate on classic cars manufactured during a particular time period. There are clubs for owners of Lowrider vehicles and clubs for people who build their own "kit cars." Some clubs are open to anyone and everyone who loves cars—even if you don't currently own one.

The clubs host "drive in" gatherings—often at restaurants—as well as cruise nights and car shows. They also proudly show off their vehicles in local parades. Many car club events are fundraisers for local charities.

Members often post photos and discuss their cars on facebook pages and blogs.

The poll found that 41 percent of young drivers (18-29) name their cars. Women (47 percent) and Democrats (45 percent) are more likely to talk to their cars. Of those polled, 72 percent believe others judge you by the kind of car you drive.

Each section brings to life iconic tap moments of the past and creates brand new moments that amaze audiences. Included in this extravaganza are recreations of some of your favorite Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly numbers, Broadway showstoppers, smooth and sultry soft shoe, flamenco, tribal, Irish step and more.
