OF ALL THE THINGS THAT CONGRESS BUYS EVERY YEAR.

EVERYTHING FROM COLOGNE TO SNUFF AMONG THE LUXURIES OF SENATORS, WHICH THE GOVERNMENT PAYS FOR.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—Purchases made in the course of a year for the use of the senators directly and indirectly, make up a list almost infinite in its variety.

They are set forth in detail in the annual report of the secretary of the Senate and in strict accordance with the law that requires the publication of the record of every expenditure, he allows no item to escape. There are articles for business and for comfort, for the medicine chest and for the toilet.

Regard for his manly charms still endures in the Senate, tempestuous questions of State to the contrary notwithstanding. In the Secretary's report, just issued, it appears that four dozen bottles of popular grades of cologne and a gallon of another brand of cologne were a part of the stores laid in last year, a fragrant reminder of olden times when gallant beaux were wont to meander about in an invisable zone of incense-laden atmosphere. Thus romance lives on and on and anybody not liking colonge can lump it.

Another reminder of the good old days is the habit of taking snuff. It still lives, and a single invoice of two pounds of Copenhagen snuff indicates that even in the council fouse of the nation there exists a demand for this solace of old age. Falling hair, too, appears to be an issue. There is an item of one dozen bottles of a celebrated brand af hair tonic, $27.75, and two bottles of another brand, $1.50, not quite so celebrated. A little further along are other items reminding the reader again of the age of perfume. A dram of oil of rose at $1.00, three ounces of rose extract, at $1.26 and three ounces of heliotrope extract, also at $1.26, have all been drawn upon to enhance the salubrious senatorial presence.

Ills come to senators as to common mortals and natural enough it is that the chamber be fortified against the dread invasion of germs and bacilli. Stovaine has not been adopted but the Senate batteries bristle with three bottles of bromo seltzer, three bottles of bromo caffeine, three bottles of Abbeys' salts, one dozen bottles each of Jamaica ginger, vaseline, listerine, (large size); one dozen packages of laxative bromo-quinine, one dozen packages of court plaster, one dozen seidlitz powders, one pound of soda mint tablets, 200 rhinitis tablets, 500 lithia tablets, one pound of bicardonate soda tablets six ounces of aromatic spirits of amonia, one case of Hunyadi water, one quart of olive oil, two quarts of amonia, and so on through a long list.

Two kips of chamoise skins at $43.20, two ounces of quince seed and six ounces of bergamot were also among the things laid in stock.

Soap? Yes, there was a half gross of imported French soap, perfumed, $44.65. Four gross of another fancy soap cost $121.40 and there was a lot of three other less expensive brands.

In the supplies of last year the Senate bought one bottle each of mustang liniment, garsling oil and North Carolina tar. It took in large amounts of Timothy hay, oats, meal and bran. The old joke about the Senator's breakfast food is outlawed by the statute of limitations however. The cereals and such are not for the Senators but for the Senate stables. Other entries show the purchase of one gallon of Neat's foot oil, $1.00; one quart of foot dressing, 75 cents; two mane brushes, 75 cents, and three pairs of iron holdback hoops, $1.00.

Some of the magical maneuvers in the Senate may possibly be explained by the fact that fifty gallons of Alladin oil were bought for senatorial use. Some other liquids were: four gallons of alcohol, 25 barrels of strained West Virginia oil, one barrel of formaldine, and five gallons of witch hazel.

In the first two months of 1909 the senators consumed 159 cases of apollinaris water, valued at $1,398 and 99 cases of lithia water valued at $422.00. Quinine pills were bought by the thousand and frequently.

Seventy-five pages of the report are devoted to a record of telegrams received or sent at government expense. The statesmen have the right to charge to Uncle Sam the cost of telegraphing about official business, but they must acquaint the secretary with the name of the person to whom a telegram is sent, the town and the price.

In the payrolls there appear many employees whose names are similar to those of the senators. If this similarity indicates kinship it appears that at least one-third of the senators have provided for relatives on the payroll. One of the senators has three members of his family at the trough.

A year of the senate, counting salaries and all expenses, cost the government $1,826,452.88.

ATTENDED INAUGURATION; SOON FOUND DEAD.

NEGROES MURDER ARTIST AND TERRIBLY MUTILATE HIS BODY —ON TRIAL TODAY.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 6— Henry Smith, the negro who turned State's evidence in the Schultz murder case, was placed on trial today in the corporation court. It is expected that not more than two days will be required to dispose of the case. In the event that Smith is found guilty of murder in the first degree is is expected that the State will ask that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment in view of the part Smith played in bringing about the conviction of Richard Pines, Calvin Johnson and Eugene Dorsey.

Walter F. Schultz, the victim of the murder, was a Chicago artist. In March, 1909, he came to Washington to attend the presidential inauguration. Four days later his mutilated body was found on the outskirts of Alexandria. His pockets had been rifled giving evidence that robbery had been the motive for murder. A few days after the discovery of the body the four negroes, Pines, Johnson, Dorsey and Smith, were arrested on suspicion. On cross-examination Smith confessed to his participation in the crime. According to his statement Schultz was found by three of the negroes in an intoxicated condition on the street. One of them had thrown his overcoat over the artist's head to stifle his cries and he was led to a field nearby and beaten to death. Smith has always maintained that he come upon the trio while they were beating Schultz and upon inquiring the cause of the disturbance had been forced at the point of a pistol to join in the crime. Upon the evidence of Smith his three companions were convicted and are now awaiting death in the electric chair in the State prison at Richmond.
