Of late she has visited her daughter. Mrs. R. B. LaRoche, in Cocoa. The interment was in the Courtenay cemetery. The family have the sympathy of all.

Master Bob Travis had a narrow escape Monday. He was in an umbrella tree cutting off limbs with a hatchet. The limb he was in broke and he fell about 15 feet striking the fence on his back and then the cement sidewalk, being unconscious for some time; the only injury they could ascertain was the cut on his lower lip. He is still in bed. Dr. Hughlett thinks he will be allright as soon as the soreness leaves. Bob has lots of friends and they will be glad to see Cocoa's heavy weight out again.

It kills germs, and colds and la grippe vanish. It heals cough-racked membranes and coughing stops; sore, inflamed bronchial tubes and lungs are cured and hemorrhages cease. Dr. Geo. More, Black Jack, N. C., writes "it cured me of lung trouble, pronounced hopeless by all doctors." 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Banner Drug Store.

To A. A. Chisholm, of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion and torpid liver, constipatien, nervousness and general debility, he writes. Fort Dallas Bank Affairs

The Miami Metropolis of Monday says: Another echo of the suspension of the Fort Dallas National bank was heard in this city today, when Deputy United States Marshal A. P. Gore served a summons on William M. Brown, Frank T. Budge, John Sewell, E. L. Brady, Harry E. Tuttle and James Gilman to make their appearance before the United States circuit court in Jacksonville on the 7th of June.

Their appearance there, which will be by attorney, is for the purpose of answering a bill of complaint exhibited before the court by John K. McDonald, receiver of the Fort Dallas National bank, the same government official whose examination of the bank's affairs in July, 1907, caused the comptroller of currency to close the doors of the institution.

The persons named above were, at the time the bank closed, members of the board of directors of the institution and the bill declares these directors to be responsible for the loss to the depositors in the sum of $400,000.

The manner in which the directors are held liable for the losses is said to be their approval of certain loans of the bank, that are classed as doubtful and worthless. Whether or not the directors passed upon the loans, it appears they are to be held responsible for the amount of money involved in bad loans.

During the two trials of Mr. Brown, president of the Fort Dallas National bank, and its founder, the directors herein named, testified that they seldom passed upon loans at a meeting of the directors, and that seldom a meeting of the directors was held.

However, the outcome of this civil process, wherein the directors are being held liable for the losses, will be watched with interest.

Mr. E. L. Brady informs THE STAR that the Metropolis is in error in the statement made that he was a member of the board of directors when the bank was closed in July, 1907. Mr. Brady's connection with the bank as a director ceased over two years prior to the closing of the bank and Mr. Sewell's connection as director terminated 18 months before the bank was closed.
