AMUSEMENTS

Buster Brown Last Night.

"Buster Brown" delighted one of the largest houses of the season at the Pensacola opera house last night, and was generally considered to be one of the best shows which has come to Pensacola this season.

The plot was good, and the acting high class; in fact, when the Buster Brown company got through with the two good acts as portrayed, it left very little indeed to be desired.

Master Reed, as Buster, is a real phenomenon. He is a really and truly boy himself, and not an undersized man as is the case in numerous road companies of the play. "Buster" is not only clever and captivating, but is evidently every inch a boy from the various antics which he goes through, and the situations which he meets with a naturalness which must have indeed come from previous training.

He plays his part with a dash which is appreciated by his audience, and supported by a fine class of actors, succeeds in building up a show which is remarkable in its popularity.

Thos Colton, as "Tige," developed wonderful canine qualities, appearing to be a doggoned good dog, and deserving much credit. His part was a difficult one.

The remainder of the cast was also exceptionally good, good music, good singing, and snappy acting serving to make the evening a pleasant one indeed for Pensacola play lovers.

Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

Speaking of the Royal Hungarian orchestra, which is to be the Lyceum attraction here on Feb. 9 the New York Herald says:

"To speak of the playing of the Royal Hungarian orchestra in such terms of praise as it deserves would be to use expressions that have the appearance of extravagance. If the general public knew how seldom musical performances merit unqualified praise, it would appreciate how great a pleasure is afforded the musical reviewer in listening to efforts that merit only approval."

The Orpheum.

The Orpheum continues to play to packed houses, which is an evident fact that it is putting on a good show, The Alarcon trio of Mexican street singers is making a big hit, as the act is out of the ordinary, and the voices likes those very seldom heard. Another feature is Sweeney and Rooney, the two boys who dance on step ladders. They are making a big hit, which can be readily seen from the fact that they take several encores at every show.

Miss Swartz, who is appearing in a high dramatic sketch and wearing very costly gowns, is also answering a number of curtain calls which she deserves.

Manager Vucovich promises his patrons a complete change in program today and assures them the change will be far better than the bill that has been put on.

For the week of February 15th, another big New York feature has been secured, which is creating as much talk as the famous Eva Ray.

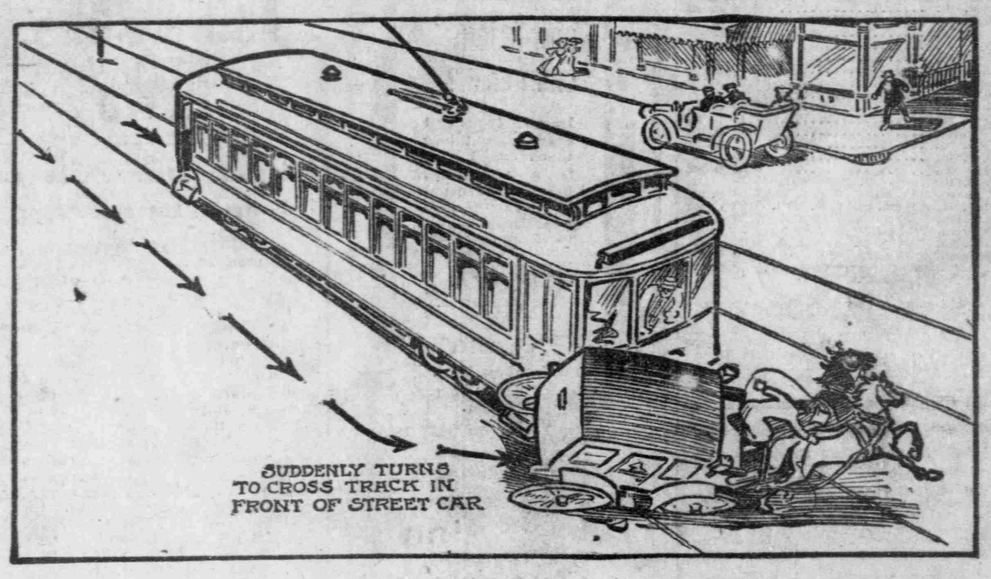
HOW IT MIGHT HAPPEN. III.



This accident happens often in this country.

If you are driving a vehicle do not forget that our cars are running on tracks. Our motormen cannot turn aside. Look behind you before you run your vehicle sharply across our rails. Otherwise it will be your own fault that you are broken and torn.

If you are not driving yourself, tell your employee this. Caution him to look back. Perhaps some day your coachman or your driver of truck or delivery wagon will turn his vehicle so quickly across our tracks that no motorman could stop in time. Crash!

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES COUNCIL

Typographical and Pressmen's Unions Will Combine.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon attended by representatives of Pensacola Typographical Union and Pensacola Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, it was decided to form an allied printing trades council, embodying the two crafts mentioned, and any other of the printing trades that may hereafter be organized in the city. Louis P. Head, of the typographical union, was elected president of the council, and R. E. L. Cresap, of the pressmen, secretary.

The organization of the council will be reported back to the unions concerned for ratification on Sunday afternoon next. The new council will make no change whatever in the relations now existing between the publishers and job printing firms employing union men and their employes, except that hereafter one union label, representing both trades, will be used on the products of union printers and pressmen, instead of two labels, as at present. It will in future further simplify trade relations by enabling the crafts to work in complete harmony.

Organizer James Leonard, of the American Federation of Labor, is still in the city, and hopes to organize two or three new local unions before leaving. He and District Organizer L. P. Head are endeavoring to solidify the trade unions of the city and to affiliate all of them with the state and national federations, to the end that all may work together for the common good.

It is expected that the typographical union will take some action at its meeting on Sunday in regard to the proposed tuberculosis evxhibit for this city. The union printers, whose international organization was the pioneer in the fight against consumption, are vitally interested in this movement, and individually the local members have expressed themselves as ready to assist in every way possible to get the exhibit here. It is expected also to request the other unions in the city to co-operate to this end.

The central trades council will hold its regular monthly meeting at Carpenters' Hall on Tuesday night next, at which meeting officers for the ensuing term are to be elected.

The Pensacola local of the International League of Bartenders will meet in regular session at S. B. A. hall on Sunday afternoon.

The local union of Printing Pressmen meet in regular session next Sunday afternoon.
