SAGE LEAVES.

Special to The Journal.

Brent, Feb. 5.—The predicted freeze for last Sabbath failed to materialize; although the temperature fell close to the congealing point for water on Monday morning.

By Wednesday the weather warmed up, and a gentle rain came on in the evening, continuing throughout the night, in the face of the observer's forecast: "Fair Wednesday and Thursday."

The schedule for Friday's rain was ignored also by the weather engineer.

The Standard Oil Company sent workmen to stop the leap of oil from their national pipe line, at Signal, Ohio, who accidentally broke the threads which increased the flow beyond control.

They rushed the work of building dams, with the intention of consuming it in flames, to save the damaging overflow of valleys on its way to the Ohio river—and on to the Gulf of Mexico.

But they soon had to let all the dammed up stuff escape through a deep ravine to the valley of "Rich Run."

As it passed down the valley every available vessel was filled with the black lubricator from far off Texas.

An ingenious device was arranged by a slanting board with one edge in the current above an eighteen inch waterfall, to carry the surface oil over the fall in a separate stream from the water, where three gallens per minutes could be caught in pails of the pure grease.

How many sleepless nights this burst is occasioning the great Oil King we have not learned.

Our farming industry is running smoothly under the new dispensation with the exception that unruly cattle have discovered that our "green goods" are far superior to the outside woods pasture, and that our unlawful fences have no right to deprive them of a "free country."

Since that visitation of the most destructive storm in the past century there are but few farms in the county surrounded by the standard for lawful fencing.

Rail splitters are almost extinct since the assasination of "Old Abe. Lincoln."

After scouring the country over we have at last almost raised one from the dead, in the back woods near the historic ruins of the old Spanish railway grade, who has long since lost his hearing, but saved his famous mauly; and is now slashing our last timber into the same grade of fencing which characterized our immortal President Lincoln in his palmiest days.
