New planetarium opening at Museum of Arts and Sciences

By Susan Wright
swright@hometownnewsol.com

There might be nothing new under the sun, but there's a brand new way of looking at the sun, the stars and all the universes beyond our own at the Museum of Arts and Sciences planetarium opening this week.

The new planetarium has been moved from the back of the building in Daytona Beach to the front, and it's equipped with state of the art technology that's designed to take the viewers to other worlds, other planets and give them a sense of being transported to those distant places. And times. The new programs will put visitors into the world of the first phase of space exploration, watching the earliest satellites up close and placing them on the moon as Neil Armstrong prepares to take his first step.

No one is more excited about the opening of the new facility than the museum's executive director. Andrew Sandall said with the new facility, visitors to the museum will enjoy almost three times as many programs with a much wider variety of subjects.

And it's all new. Not bigger — but with much better visual effects.

Mr. Sandall said, "The big difference is the new projector. We've gone from the 40-year-old optical star projector and we now have a full HD, digital dome projector.

"We can explore constellations and go anywhere," he said.

With the new technology, visitors will feel they've been deposited on other planets,

Extending school tax would pay for tech and security

By Susan Wright
swright@hometownnewsol.com

Voters will be asked to vote on a referendum to extend the half-cent sales tax, one of the items that will appear on every ballot in the county.

If you haven't been paying attention or are new to the area, it may seem confusing. A half-cent tax? How can there be a half-cent tax?

And if it goes to schools, how much can half a cent tax help the county's schools?

Why does it need to be extended anyway?

Here's the simple explanation.

The voters of Volusia County first voted to approve increasing the local sales tax from 6 percent to 6.5 percent in 2002.

County Council, School Board candidates – Page A12

That tax was dedicated to fund a specific list of school-related capital projects designed to relieve overcrowding and replace aging buildings.

During the 12 years the tax has been in place, the Volusia County School Board used the funds to build 18 new schools, which meet hurricane shelter requirements. It funded essential renovations at 14 existing schools and provided new playground equipment for the county's

Pet pantry serves thousands, seeks another home

By Erika Webb
ewebb@hometownnewsol.com

A dog, scheduled to be euthanized, wound up being the one to help others survive.

The dog inspired Sophie's Circle, Volusia County's only pet food pantry. In an ongoing effort to keep animals in their homes, the organization is dedicated to providing pet food to financially challenged families. It also promotes the importance of spaying and neutering.

In East Volusia, the pantry serves 3,100 animals each month, according to founder Kathy Blackman.

Mrs. Blackman was not looking for another pet the day she met Sophie, a Siberian husky. The dog was spending what almost became her last day on earth at the Southeast Volusia Humane Society.

Found wandering by an animal control officer, Sophie was diagnosed with heartworm disease. No home and a serious health condition combine to create dismal odds for animals.

Mrs. Blackman almost didn't find the humane society, tucked away on Glencoe Road off of State Road 44 in New Smyrna Beach.

She employed her GPS, determined to drop off some "quality" pet food for the animals.

"The odds against me finding Sophie were seemingly insurmountable," Mrs. Blackman wrote in a blog on the organization's website, sophiescircle.com. "But, life has a funny way of guiding us straight to where we are supposed to be and how we handle it is up to us. I didn't even want a Siberian Husky when I asked one of the girls working there if they had any."

Sophie was in quarantine and Mrs. Blackman was discouraged by staff from seeing her since she was thought to be unsuitable for adoption.

Not one to take no for an answer, she persisted and ultimately was permitted to make her way through the "leaping, barking frenzy" to Sophie, "laying there calmly."

"We can all relate to Sophie's situation at one time in our lives," Mrs. Blackman wrote. "Things can be going great and suddenly everything changes, leaving us with doubt and fear."

But something in Sophie's demeanor spoke of faith.

"Her sweet and loving disposition was undaunted by the circumstances she found herself in and she waited patiently for things to swing around in her favor," Mrs. Blackman noted.

Phone calls to her then fiancé, who knew attempts at deterrence would be useless, and to Ravenwood Veterinary Clinic were made and Sophie turned away from the end and walked out the door to begin again.

Offering Sophie life was rewarding but …

"There were too many dogs just as sweet, just as wonderful and just as loyal who were left behind that day," Mrs. Blackman recalled. "Standing by and doing nothing was no longer an option for me. I had to make her life matter and do whatever I could to help this desperate situation."

So she founded the nonprofit organization dedicated to improving the lives of animals and the people who love them, and called it Sophie's Circle.

That was in 2008.

Today Sophie's reach is "staggering," Mrs. Blackman said.

For a time, the group had use of a bank-owned building on U.S. 17/92 in Orange City, but when the building was sold the pantry no longer had a home in West Volusia.

"We know our absence left a void," Mrs. Blackman said. "We're working on getting up again in West Volusia. We realize they need us over there in that part of the county."

Though nothing is concrete yet, she said her team is working with individuals in West Volusia to secure a location for the pantry.

"It will happen," Mrs. Blackman said.

The work is hard but gratifying.

"Sometimes I'm surprised that we're still standing," she said, "but something always happens that keeps us going."

Through a partnership with Florida-based pet food company, Life's Abundance, the group no longer has to rely solely on pet food donations. They are able to purchase food at wholesale prices, which stretches each hard-earned dollar.

Lower cost means twice as much food, and delivery costs are eliminated since the food is delivered directly to the food bank.

"Sophie's Circle receives a portion of every sale which enables us to buy more food," Mrs. Blackman explained.

She and Sophie blessed each other for four years until the gentle dog's passing in 2013.

"She will remain in our hearts forever," Mrs. Blackman proclaimed sadly in a website posting. "On April 21, 2013, she left us in tears, but we know she is in a better place and would want us to continue to help her animal friends in need. We will honor her by doing just that."

Since its founding, the organization has grown to include Director of Operations Larry Spencer, Corporate Attorney Christene Ertl as well as board members Kimberly Eastin and Mary Korp.

What Sophie inspired leaves little doubt that life, and hope, are eternal.

Sophie's Circle is at 107 Lewis St., New Smyrna Beach. Donations can be made at sophiescircle.com or by calling (386) 478-9023.

Save the 'piano'

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Glenn and Connie Ritchey have been watching Daytona Beach community's response to the Daytona Beach Symphony Society and Peabody Auditorium's campaign to "Save the Peabody Piano" and have issued a challenge match gift.

The piano has been on loan from the Yamaha Corp. of America for the past five years,.

The "Save the Peabody Piano" campaign is short of its goal, and the deadline is looming.

The Ritcheys have issued a $15,000 dollar-for-dollar challenge match starting immediately. The gift and pending match from the community will achieve the piano purchase goal of $60,000 and produce an additional amount used to create a permanent endowment designed to fund the piano's ongoing maintenance.

The Ritcheys have set a deadline of Oct. 30. Donations are tax deductible. To donate, visit PeabodyDaytona.com. For more information, call (386) 671-8252 or email rigerh@codb.us.

Wrapping up the news in paper

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

Some years ago when the computer age landed full bore into practically every household in America, there was an accepted prediction newsprint would soon disappear from the planet.

Thankfully that has not happened. Sure these days you can find the national and local news on your PC and even your phone, but that is a poor substitute for a newspaper. There is something so comfortable about holding the news in your hand. Being able to spend a few quiet minutes in your favorite chair with the paper is a pleasure of life. For just a while we are able to shut out the hectic world we live in and pore over stories that interest us.

The Internet and television are mediums of headlines. Both must grab your attention in short blurbs or sound bites in order to succeed. News that comes to you via a screen seldom delves into the depths we require.

Inevitably the hard news headlines are interspersed with tales of the Kardashians or, perhaps, Paris Hilton.

There is little room on the glowing eye for the small local stories that we all love. Local news gives us a feeling of community and of being a part of something. Big news has little time for that. I don't know about you, but news that hits me in a flash does not stick like the printed word. If I really want to retain something, I must read it on paper.

Now let's get down to the truly important functions of a newspaper. Trying to carry an iPad or Kindle into the bathroom is just out of step with nature. Newspapers provide the short articles that are perfect in assisting with personal relief. That is a valued function. My own work falls neatly into that column. I know that right now some of you are reading this while resting on the ceramic throne and I'm fine with that.

My column of 500 to 700 words is just about perfect for a bathroom visit. That is no accident and I am happy to be of service. I also know my picture lines many a birdcage across the county and is pressed into service to wrap fish. It's good to be needed. When you send a gift, you need newspaper to stuff the box. If you use my words for that, I'm good with it. Go ahead and line the floor with the Hometown News when you have painting to do. Let's see a computer do that.

I still have a copy of a newspaper telling of Dale Earnhardt's death at the track and of the 911 terrorist attacks. I know you can pull that up on the Net, but it is just not the same kind of keepsake.

I know the youth of today prefer to use the Internet for all forms of communication and clearly that trend will continue, but your local paper will not disappear. All of the things that TV and the Net leave out, you will still be able to find right here. I'm proud of that.

Some time back I appeared before the Ormond Beach chapter of AARP. When I asked if they read The Hometown News, the crowd broke out in applause and not just polite applause either. The group let me know they appreciate our efforts. Look, I know we are not perfect. I suppose the most common complaint is about circulation. Our editor Cecil Brumley would tell you that we are constantly working to improve that. In the meantime keep letting us know what your likes and dislikes are concerning your local paper. Oh by the way, just to let you know what a small community the newspaper business is — Cecil and I both once worked for the Daily Iberian in Louisiana. Me as an eighth grade delivery boy and he many years later in the newsroom. Small world.

So look, enjoy the paper and use it to line the table for your next crab boil or to protect from pet droppings. We will be here as long as you need us.

Dan Smith is on the board of directors for the Ormond Beach Historical Society and The Motor Racing Heritage Association and is the author of two books, "The World's Greatest Beach" and "I Swear the Snook Drowned." Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net or call (386) 441-7793.

looking back at the Earth, or go to the International Space Station and watch the world below or see the satellites around. Mr. Sandall said visitors will be able to feel they're already on the moon as Neil Armstrong climbs down from his lunar vehicle — coming down right onto them.

The planetarium now has improved wheelchair access.

While they haven't expanded the physical space of the planetarium, they have almost tripled the number of programs that will be offered each week — not to mention the variety of experiences the programs will offer.

"We are offering three times the number of programs during the week, and there's a lot more variety," Mr. Sandall said.

The new planetarium will officially open Saturday, Aug. 23, with a selection of shows running throughout the day. Members can get a special preview from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday, with a choice of three special times to view a preview show that will introduce all the new programs and features of the facility with a special demonstration of the Planetarium's projection and sound capabilities, presented by Seth Mayo, the MOAS curator of astronomy.

Members are asked to call ahead to reserve a place at one of the shows, which are scheduled for 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. The cost to attend the preview event is $20 and it is for MOAS members only. Non-members may join for the usual rates, starting at $20 for a student, $25 for a senior citizen or $35 for an individual.

Honoring our Veterans

For those who feel the newspaper is filled with nothing but bad news, here's something worth celebrating:

At the July 29th Ormond Beach City Commission meeting, Mayor Kelley and the City Commissioners gratefully took the opportunity to recognize Ormond Beach Korean War veterans for their service.

Although sometimes referred to as the "Forgotten War" because it has been overshadowed by the more immediate memories of Vietnam, Desert Storm and the 50th anniversary of World War II, there is no doubt that the fighting that took place between 1950 and 1953 in Korea was as vicious as any war.

At the urging of the City Commission, Leisure Services staff used the media and local veteran chapters to gather the names of living local Korean War veterans. Invitations were mailed to over 140 Ormond Beach residents who served in our Armed Forces during the Korean War. Over 70 veterans were in attendance. Mayor Kelley read a proclamation expressing appreciation, proclaiming July 29, 2014 as a day to celebrate our Korean War veterans. He urged all City residents to observe and support a patriotic and heartfelt remembrance of all those who served and died for our country during the Korean War.

Mayor Kelley then read the names of all the Ormond Beach Korean War veterans who responded. Photos were taken of the veterans with the Mayor and the City Commissioners (above). Each veteran was given a personalized proclamation honoring their efforts. Engraved plaques with the veterans' names will be on permanent display in City Hall. Final additions are currently being made to the plaque.

If you are, or know of, an Ormond Beach resident who served during the Korean War, please call the Leisure Services Office at (386) 676-3278.

Harsher sentences needed

As the mom of an only child killed by an alleged drunk driver and with Mothers Against Drunk Drivers at a standstill, I feel this county is making a killing off the sale of alcohol.

I feel the justice department is not delivering the maximum sentence for charges, such as leaving the scene of an accident involving death, which carries a sentence of 30 years. Although recently our governor has instituted a mandatory four-year sentence. Gov. Rick Scott should be concerned about our quality of life.

There is kindness out there

For the second time, I was walking in Oak Hill and a driver stopped to offer me a ride. She was concerned because of the heat.

I didn't know there were so many kind people left in the world.

I hope both ladies win the Lotto. They were very concerned, nice people.

People should be this way more often.

Have a heart

The auto tag issue seems to be pushing a lot of buttons. It is relevant, but also a good example of a larger issue in our society.

I am just so sad to hear how inhumanely ignorant people are when they tell others to pay it or they deserve to be fined. Where is your heart? Sure it is a law, but does that mean it is feasible or morally correct?

The real criminals here are the ones that made an unfair, unrealistic law and the fellow citizens that are cold enough to want to throw others in the frying pan just because they themselves are there.

Just because you can afford the $425 for tags doesn't mean everyone else can and I am more than willing to bet they don't want to go against the law but have no choice. Could you afford to pay the auto tag fee if it was a law you had to pay $10,000 for it? How would you feel and what would you do? That's the equivalent to someone who is "working poor" or on a fixed retiree income.

Let me remind you this country itself was founded in part as a protest against unfair taxes set by England! We would not be here if everyone in that time just said "Oh just pay it, it's the law."

So those of you who think that way ought to wake up and realize what it means to be a true American. And what it means to be a good person. We should all be considering the needs and abilities of each other and be trying to accommodate for everyone the best we can. If something is unfair for the fewest, it is still up to everyone, even those with the advantageous position, to stick together and make it right. Not turn against the weakest.

Sure in nature we see a lot of "survival of the fittest," but we are not animals. We have a mind and a heart, which gives us the ability to decipher what's morally right. Also, please keep in mind that any person residing in or visiting Florida is paying state tax any and every time they purchase products within the state.

ORMOND BEACH

Making a difference

Radio station 103.3 FM The Vibe partnered with the Children's Home Society of Florida to collect school supplies and backpacks for more than 250 children in Volusia, Flagler and Putnam counties at Office Depot in Daytona Beach on Saturday, Aug. 2. From left are Megan Oliver, 15, donating supplies; Barbara Carmichael of Office Depot; Geena, 14, and Trish Zatalava donating supplies; Bridget Toman of Office Depot; Drita Travis of The VIBE; Chip Harwick of Krispy Kreme Donuts; Kim and daughter Lauren Pleasants of Children's Home Society; and Kaylee Hatcher of The VIBE.

Don't besmirch the pond

I live in the Central Park section of Ormond Beach. Every day I watch three of my neighbors let their dogs out to relieve themselves on the grass next to the pond. They make no attempt whatsoever to pick it up.

There are constantly people over there feeding the ducks, children playing etc., and all have to step carefully to avoid dog feces. Why are some people so lazy, self-centered, and irresponsible? Too bad they couldn't catch and fine some of these people — they could raise a lot of money for the city.

In Response to: 'Push That Cart Back'

Next time you are pushing a cart past the person whose job it is to collect those carts, you might tell them you are working hard to put them out of work. It may be the only job they could get and perhaps if you can get enough people to "help" them, you could put the whole cart team out of work.

If you think the billion dollar company will lower some prices because they got rid of 10 part timers, you are mistaken. That's just more profit that goes directly to shareholders.

In response to: 'Don't trust pit bulls'

I read your rant and then I went online to see if any small part of your accusation was true. Now I wonder just where you get your information.

While Pit Bulls can attack, so can German Shepherds, Doberman Pinchers, Rottweilers and Chihuahuas (they can really bite) So your blanket statement is extremely false.

Granted there are stupid people everywhere who think training a Pit Bull to attack is cool. Any dog can be trained to be mean or to attack. You are completely wrong to group all Pit Bulls in your comment.

The shelters at Halifax, Southeast and Edgewater are full of Pit Bulls. They cannot be put up for adoption if they are aggressive. If the dog was brought in by animal control because it attacked someone, the dog now has a death sentence.

Saying don't trust Pit Bulls in general is the same as saying don't trust left handed people. Just as ignorant.

Manhole covers too high or too low

It amazes me that with all the modern technology and machinery, that manhole covers cannot be the same level as the street. This is a problem not only on existing roads, but on roads just recently redone.

If you are going to invest the time and money on improving roads, why not do it correctly the first time. This would eliminate additional time and expense later one trying to repair a job poorly done.

On main roads with high speed limits, this situation is even more problematic. Not only are these unlevel manhole covers creating extensive wheel alignment damage, they can become safety issues in weather-related hazardous conditions.

Even-level manhole covers can ensure a safe level road for vehicles. If you are going to improve roads, use your brains, modern technology and do it right.

Thanks to book angel

This is for the person who found my library books on the Votran bus and returned them to the library. Thank you. You deserve only the best. Thank you for saving me and returning those books. May God bless you.

No-parking just isn't right

I live in New Smyrna Beach. I was born and raised here. I live a half block off Riverside Drive on Sixth Street. From Sixth Street to downtown, there are sidewalks, there are beautiful homes, scenic tours, the Intracoastal Waterway, the Smyrna Yacht Club and yacht basin.

There is absolutely no place for anyone to park. Visitors from another county or town or city, the public, the citizens, the taxpayers have no place to park if they want to take a stroll from Sixth Street to City Hall down Riverside Drive on the sidewalk.

There's no place to park if they want to take a stroll with children or babies in strollers. If you park across the street, you have to jump the curb and park on the city right of way, then homeowners tell you that is their property and they have exclusive rights to it.

The one parking place I've seen on Fifth Street, across from the yacht club, the city has decided to install no parking there in the right of way, so there is absolutely no place for citizens or businesses to park and take a walk down Riverside Drive.

In response to: "Close greyhound track'

You need to write to the Florida Gaming Commission. They're the only ones that can stop it. Unfortunately in March, the Legislature voted to keep greyhound racing with the gambling.

The Florida Agricultural Commission couldn't find out where the bad meat came from. The owner couldn't find out. Everyone denies, we know nothing about this. The supplier of the meat is a mystery.

We're paying all these people in the state to do nothing.

Grey2KUSA, as soon as they saw the article, they filed a complaint with the FDA. They knew within hours it was a meat packing outfit out of the state of Iowa that provided the tainted meat to the track.

That's just another case. The cases go on and on. The Florida Legislature won't do anything about it.

Write to the gaming commission. That's how people can help.

Get the number

I'm a Brighthouse customer. Whenever a Brighthouse representative tells you they are changing your billing or equipment, be advised to make sure you get the work order number.

I had three representatives in one month tell me they were changing my billing for the better — a $20 reduction in my bill. Come to find out, they didn't change it. I finally got one honest representative who told me that when a Bright House representative says they are making changes, make sure you get the work order number to make sure they are making the adjustment or changes..

Folks are back again looking for jobs

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

While the latest overall report on the labor market in Volusia County wasn't that great, there was one development that stuck out.

The labor force grew to 257,970 in July from 256,747 in June and 255,446 in July 2013. Employment has been on the rise this year and was up about 5,100 from last year, according to state labor department's estimates. But while more people are reporting they're employed, the labor force has stayed about the same.

The increased labor force means more people are getting back into the labor market and looking for work, either local folks who had given up or people coming to Volusia looking for opportunities.

There was a disturbing development in the non-agricultural jobs report. Manufacturing and construction, while up 200 jobs from last year, were down 400 jobs from June. You always have seasonal changes from June to July, but they're usually in education and some other areas. Hopefully it's not a long-term trend, because higher-paying manufacturing and construction jobs really help to boost an economy.

By the end of September, the labor department should be releasing the Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages for the first quarter and we can get a better handle on what kind of start 2014 got off to. While the estimates are pretty close, it will be nice to have real numbers.

While Trader Joe's still won't come right out and say it is building a distribution center in Daytona Beach, the company has now bought the land for it. Consolidated-Tomoka Land Co. announced it sold the site for $7.8 million, but didn't name the buyer. Of course, all you have to do is look at the deed recording to see who bought it. Regardless, that big 400-job shot in the arm is looking more definite. On a side note, I've been wondering whether the CEO Business Alliance was ever going to do something big. Well, the alliance just gave Consolidated-Tomoka $400,000 to help pay for preparing the site for the distribution center. That's not government, but rather money put up by private businesses in the area.

I don't think they're going to follow my advice on how to take driving off the beach in front of their hotel, but the owners of the Desert Inn property, who are hoping to turn it into a Westin resort, have bought the adjacent vacant land for $2.2 million. I'd still think it would be a good swap to give the land to the county for an ocean-front parking area in exchange for extending the no drive area about three or four blocks.

The developers of the Popeye's Louisiana Kitchen have obtained the building permit for a location on Taylor Road in front of Kohl's in Port Orange.

Association recognizes health agency staffers

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

The Florida Environmental Health Association recently recognized Eric Maday and Paul Minshew of the Florida Department of Health in Volusia County.

Mr. Maday received the Outstanding Environmental Health Professional Award, which recognizes the accomplishments of environmental health professionals during the past year.

"I am grateful, proud and honored to have been chosen for this recognition," said Mr. Maday, environmental specialist with the Department of Health. "To be recognized by my peers in the Florida Environmental Health Association is especially meaningful. I enjoy what I do. Environmental Health is a great field to work in where you can make a difference."

Paul Minshew received the Charlie Rhodes Award, which recognizes the outstanding contributions, over a period of time (more than one year), of Registered Environmental Health Professionals. In the past, Mr. Minshew has also won the association's Billy Tenant Award.

"I have been a member of the Florida Environmental Health Association, the premier organization for environmental health professionals in Florida, for over 35 years," said Paul Minshew, environmental manager for the Department of Health. "As a long time member I feel extremely honored to have been selected to receive the Charlie Rhodes Award this year from FEHA knowing it is presented to an individual in recognition of exemplary behavior and contributions in an outstanding way to the field of environmental health."

"We are delighted that both Eric and Paul have received FEHA awards this year," said Dr. Bonnie J. Sorensen, director of the Department of Health. "This recognition is well deserved for their hard work in public health."

Both Mr. Minshew and Mr. Maday helped to form the Volusia County Drowning Prevention Task Force along with the YMCA, SAFEKIDS, Daytona Beach Fire Department, City of Daytona Beach Parks and Rec and other community partners to raise awareness of ways to prevent toddler drownings. Mr. Minshew is also a member of the Department of Health's Environmental Health Strike Team and was recently deployed for the dengue fever outbreak in Martin County and during Hurricane Katrina as well as other disasters.

The half-cent tax was voted on for a period of 15 years, so it will continue to fund projects under the original provisions.

According to information provided Volusia County Schools, 90 percent of the projects originally set as goals under the 2002 provisions have been completed.

The building program was scheduled to take place over 10 years, the tax was set to remain in effect for an additional five years, to pay off the building program.

The extension of the half-cent tax would not go into effect until 2017

A committee was set up to determine and prioritize the needs for the extended tax and the new goals focus on technology, security and transportation.

A citizens' oversight committee was established to monitor the school district's spending and use of the funds raised by the tax, with the committee making some changes to the spending plans as the economic conditions changed over the past 12 years, especially after the economic downturn of 2008.

A citizens' oversight committee also will monitor the extended tax, if approved.

The goal for the extended tax have changed so the extended half cent tax proceeds will go to improving and adding technology to the schools, including improvements for security, a need that has expanded significantly in recent years, and for transportation.

By state law, the money from the tax cannot be used for everyday operating expenses.

Because of cuts in the overall budget, the district hasn't bought any new school buses for several years. The tax can be used to add new buses to the district's fleet.

Adding up to date technology, including desktop computers, was established as a need in order for the schools to prepare their more than 60,000 students for life in the 21st century.

The half-cent sales tax is paid by visitors to the area as well as Volusia County residents. So far, about 40 percent of the total raised has come from visitors to the area, according to a school district report.

The tax has brought in close to $400 million since it was implemented.

In many ways, the half-cent sales tax has helped to offset cuts in funding from the state in recent years.

Since 2001, the School Board property tax rate, set by the board itself, has been reduced four times. The property tax rate is also set aside for capital expenses.

The extended tax will also be used to replace five aging schools with new, more secure and technologically up-to-date buildings.

The Volusia County Fall Home & Garden Show is coming to the Ocean Center in Daytona Beach Aug. 22-24.

Local home and garden experts and related businesses exhibit everything from front entrance décor to backyard landscapes.

The 2014 show will feature an "all-star" line-up of Wayde King and Brett Raymer, stars of the Animal Planet hit show "Tanked;" Tom MacCubbin, best known to Floridians as host of the syndicated radio program "Better Lawns & Gardens;" and Nathan Graboff aka "The Garden Guru" as featured on FOX Channel-35's Good Day Sunday program.

Mad Science, an interactive and educational program has joined the entertainment line-up at the show.

Its schedule is:

•Friday, Aug. 22: 3-3:30 p.m., Fire and Ice Show; 5-6 p.m., Free Slime Making

•Saturday, Aug. 23: Noon-12:30 p.m., Fire and Ice Show; 3-3:30 p.m., Free Slime Making; 5-5:30 p.m., Free Alginate Worm Making

•Sunday, Aug. 24: 1-1:30 p.m., Fire and Ice Show; 3-3:30 p.m., Free Slime Making.

Tickets for the Home and Garden Show are $7 for adults, seniors 65 and older are $5, $3 for children 13-16 and free for 12 and younger, e-tickets may be purchased for $6. Active military personnel are free with ID. Tickets are available at Home Depot, showtechnology.com and volusiacountyhomeandgardenshow.com.

Tribute band is 'Livin' On A Prayer'

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Livin' On A Prayer, a Bon Jovi Tribute Band, will perform at Daytona Beach's Historic Bandshell at 7:15 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 23 as part of the Friends of the Bandshell free Star Spangled Summer Concert Series.

Livin' On A Prayer delivers the '80s look and four-part harmony while performing all the hits complete with big hair and fringe. They plan "Runaway," "It's My Life, Bad Medicine," "Livin' On A Prayer," "I'll be There For You," "Wanted Dead or Alive," and "You Give Love a Bad Name."

Bandshell parking is available at the nearby Ocean Center garage and surface lots. Enter the Bandshell area through the Ocean Walk Shoppes or from the Boardwalk. Rental chairs are available.

The evening concludes with a fireworks display over the ocean at 9:45 p.m.

Week of 8-22-2014

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20

Aries, reexamine the important relationships in your life. Figure out what you learned from each friendship and acquaintance, and put those lessons to good use.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21

Taurus, with so many tasks to complete, you may be tempted to forget about everything and take a mental health day. But everything will still be there tomorrow.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21

Gemini, you're brimming with excitement about learning something new this week. You may finally be on the cusp of mastering a particularly challenging skill.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22

Cancer, it may be challenging to settle your thoughts this week. Work is weighing heavily on your mind, but go easy on yourself and you will still get everything done.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23

Leo, some people around you may be especially busy this week while you really don't have much to do. Think of it as a good omen of things to come.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Share your feelings for someone else with that person this week, Virgo. You may regret your actions if you don't take that emotional leap.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Libra, while you are usually the one who plays peacemaker, this week you are in a position to cause trouble. Don't worry what others think or say.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Remember that success comes in many shapes and sizes, Scorpio. Don't be so quick to consider something a failure. You may just need a new perspective to realize your success.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Sagittarius, there are many entertainment options this week, so it's difficult to choose how to spend your time. Whatever you choose, it is bound to be a memorable night.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Money matters could be taking up a considerable chunk of your time, Capricorn. Focus your concentration on finances and leave other responsibilities on the side for now.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Aquarius, don't worry if something proves confusing and a challenging nut to crack. Things will sort themselves out in due time, and you will be back on the right track.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20

A predicament in your personal life could have you feeling uncomfortable, Pisces. Wait for a clearer picture before taking action.

Art Notes

DSC invites musicians to join ensembles

The Mike Curb College of Music, Entertainment and Art at Daytona State College invites local musicians to join the Symphonic Band, Symphony Orchestra or Jazz Ensemble.

No fees are required for participation unless college credit is desired.

The DSC Community Symphonic Band, developed performs traditional and modern classics as well as marches, Broadway hits and movie selections.

The 28th season will commence with an open rehearsal, including new and returning members, at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 25,on the Davidson Theater stage at the college's News-Journal Center, 221 N. Beach St., Daytona Beach.

For information, call Dr. Douglas Peterson at (386) 506-3276 or Peter Waidelich at (386) 506-4690 or email PetersD@DaytonaState.edu.

Under the baton of Dr. Norton Christeson, senior professor, the DSC Symphony Orchestra is comprised of string, wind and percussion players from Volusia County.

The orchestra's first rehearsal of the season is at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 2, at the News-Journal Center. For more information, contact Dr. Christeson at (386) 506-3339 or ChristN@DaytonaState.edu.

The DSC Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Peter Waidelich, associate professor, is open to community members who play saxophone, trumpet, trombone, piano, bass, guitar, drums or assorted percussion instruments.

Rehearsals begin for another season from 7 to 9:50 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, at the News-Journal Center.

For more information, contact Mr. Waidelich at WaidelP@DaytonaState.edu or (386) 506-4690.

For more information about performances, visit DaytonaState.edu/TheArts.

Auditions slated

Bel Canto Singers will host open auditions for the 43rd season presenting choral masterworks.

Auditions will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 25, at Westminster-by-the-Sea Presbyterian Church, 3221 S. Peninsula Drive, Daytona Beach Shores.

The audition procedure will consist of learning an SATB Choral Selection in a group setting. Participants will then sing the selection in an SATB quartet followed by Sight-reading an SATB Selection in a quartet. Vocal range check will be conducted to determine vocal strength.

For more information email David Redman, Artistic Director, at belcantosingersflorida@gmail.com or visit belcantodaytona.org.

Hospital offers 'Art of Healing'

Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center's free Art of Healing program will be at the hospital's Cancer Institute conference room, 224 Memorial Medical Parkway, Daytona Beach, at 3 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 28.

At the monthly Art of Healing sessions, professional art facilitators from the Ormond Memorial Art Museum lead the group in topics ranging from painting and sketching to crafts and photography.

Participants will create an original contemporary tapestry by entwining fabric, yarns and trims with organic embellishments.

Supplies are provided. All levels are welcome.

Overcoming difficulties explored at Lifetree Café

Strategies for coping with difficult times will be shared at Lifetree Café at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 24, and 6:15 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, 142 Fairview Ave., Daytona Beach.

"Bouncing Back: Turning Disasters Into Opportunities" features a screening of the award-winning short film "Dancing Outside the Box." The film features Ray Leight, whose near-fatal motorcycle accident left him permanently in a wheelchair.

Mr. Leight's months of depression turned toward hope when a friend invited him to attend a ballroom dancing class.

Participants in the Lifetree program will explore how to overcome the challenges in their lives by applying the principles learned by Mr. Leight.

Admission to the 60-minute event is free. Snacks and beverages are available.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation on life and faith in a casual coffee-house-type setting.

For more information, call Sylvia Meincke at (386) 451-5223 or email fmeincke@cfl.rr.com.

Bible study offered

A ladies nondenominational Bible study group will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. each Wednesday at the Ormond Beach Presbyterian Church, 105 Amsden Road.

The group will study the book of Ephesians.

Sometimes you have to 'cane pole' a Tomoka Basin redfish

INSHORE FISHING
DAN SMITH

As some of you know my favorite way to fish in the summertime is wading.

I love being so close to nature and am happy for the low impact it has on the environment. Not long ago I was at it once more up around Tomoka State Park. It was a rare morning for as dawn broke over the east; I could see that the day would begin under cloudy skies. Unless we have a storm in the area most August mornings begin clear and sunny.

As the sun peeked over the peninsula, I had to pause to admire the view. The big dark clouds on the horizon were rimmed with electric gold by the shielded sun. I smiled at the thought that if an artist tried to re-create that scene on canvas, no one would believe it to be authentic.

I was just off the shore and flipping the brown and green shrimp tail that Grandslam Baits calls "Irish Beer." After about a dozen casts without a hit, I moved out onto the bank to prepare for my next try. Just then my eye noticed a movement off to my left. Working south and moving right toward me was a 20-inch red drum holding very tight to the shore.

In water only seven or eight inches deep, the entire dorsal fin of the fish was clearly visible. I froze in place so as not to spook it, but it was obvious the fat red was concentrating on the bottom. The under slung mouth and nose was rooting in the mud for crab and shrimp.

As I said I was just out on the shoreline and the fish was moving quickly in my direction. I had to make a decision as to my own next move. If I cast toward it, the splash might scare my quarry away. With the fish right up against the beach, it would have been a difficult throw. Taking a chance, I took two big steps backwards while holding my breath.

It was a gamble that paid off. The red was completely oblivious to my movement. Now only 15 feet away, I decided to just open the bail and let the bait fall right in front of me. When I gently lowered the jig it wound up only partially in the water. Now I'm standing on the bank with the bait straight under the tip of my seven-foot rod as you might with an old-fashioned cane pole.

With no time to think about it, I flicked the shrimp tail ever so gently when the fish was a foot from it. With an almost imperceptible sucking motion the red vacuumed my bait into its mouth.

Now as a lot of you well know, hooking a decent fish on such a short line is asking for a break off. With that in mind I set the hook with a sharp jerk and in the same motion opened the bail on the reel. Even with the drag set very lightly, I had no confidence. As soon as the fish realized it was hooked, it went nuts. It flipped a u-turn and streaked back north. Along the way, it spooked a shower of baitfish into the air.

Right after that it headed for open water and I knew I had it. Now I could allow the reel to do its work. The drag squealed for a good five minutes until the red finally tired. In the clear water I could see the hook that once was completely swallowed had worked itself out and was in the lip of the fish. It was easy to reach down and remove the jig. The red was spent and just laid there for a while until I gave it a nudge with my flip-flop.

As it left, I said a silent "thanks" for that red fish had made my morning. I am pretty sure I won't soon forget the strange way it was caught.

Don't forget the importance of sunglasses while golfing

GOLF
JAMES STAMMER

There are two things often overlooked in our game. The importance of custom fit and the need to be able to judge the lay of the land.

Having clubs, shoes and even golf balls that "fit" your game is necessary if you want to play your best. Being able to judge distances, increase depth perception and the ability to notice even the slightest contours on the course, and most importantly, on the greens, is all too often overlooked.

Now, thanks to Oakley (oakley.com), golfers have the opportunity to put these two important things together.

Nearly all of us use sunglasses on a daily basis. We use them when driving, or walking, or just outside, but have you considered the benefits of wearing them while playing golf?

Today's sunglasses perform two tasks. First they protect our delicate eyes from the sun's damaging rays. Second, with golf-specific lenses, they will accentuate the contours and shapes on the fairways and greens, as well as assist you in following the ball while it's in flight.

One miss-conception that many people have is that sunglasses are pretty much all the same. Some ask, "Why pay a lot for sunglasses. Don't they all just block out sunlight?"

Unfortunately, this is not the case. Inexpensive sunglasses actually do more harm than good when it comes to your eyes. Cheap sunglasses are usually nothing more than dark lenses on cheap frames. These dark lenses cause your pupils to open further allowing harmful UV light in to damage your lens, retina and cornea. They also aren't coated to prevent those rays from getting through and may damage your eyes when you think they are protecting them. Better glasses feature better optics, meaning less distortion so your eyes can focus sharply on what you are seeing.

A few weeks ago I was invited to experience a custom fitting at the Oakley Store in Town Center at Boca Raton. The store's manager, Kat Centeno, greeted me as I arrived after work one evening.

The Oakley Store features a huge selection of eyewear, apparel, shoes and backpacks. I had no idea of the company's diversity.

After a tour of the store, Kat went to work on fitting me with just the right pair of sunglasses. Not only must the glasses perform well, but also they must look good on me, fit my face shape and have lenses that do not interfere with me seeing the golf ball as I address it. To top it off, I had a ton of colors and other options to choose from.

After trying on several pairs, I settled on the new Radar Lock frame. Besides looking really good on me, there are two features on these I have been looking for. First, the lenses come down far enough that there isn't a line just below my eye that interferes with me seeing the golf ball when I'm going to hit it. Second, this frame allows me to easily switch lenses, going from an everyday lens to Oakley's G30 golf lens in a matter or seconds.

Once I decided on the frame, Kat showed me all the color choices I had. I wasn't stuck with just black or tortoise! This is where the truly "custom" aspect comes into play. I had 15 frame colors to select from. Then I picked the side band color from a dozen choices. The ear socks were next and even the Oakley logo. In all, there are about 10,000 combinations.

Lastly were the lenses. Obviously, I took the G30 Iridium Polarized golf lens. My second lens was the Red Iridium Polarized driving lens.

Of course, all this is moot if the glasses do not perform. I've spent the past month or so putting my Oakleys through the paces on the course and on the road.

My Radar Locks are a true piece of equipment. They are as important to my golf game now as my putter or sand wedge. The G30 lens does everything it advertises. I am better able to read

NSF awards B-CU $400,000 grant for biology studies

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

The National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $400,000 to Bethune-Cookman University for support of "Targeted Infusion Project: Developing Quantitative Expertise in the Undergraduate Biology Curriculum (QEUBiC)."

Dr. Raphael D. Isokpehi, Dr. Elizabeth R. Congdon and Dr. Katharina C. Wollenberg Valero will direct the project. The grant starts Aug. 15 and ends July 31, 2017.

"This grant aligns with our vision to make B-CU a great institution that offers an outstanding education," B-CU President Dr. Edison O. Jackson said. "We strive to offer our students a relevant, dynamic education that prepares them for a globalized marketplace."

The project will develop a curriculum that focuses on quantitative expertise, Dr. Isokpehi explained. Students will be taught how to work with large data sets to understand biological systems and to solve problems in biology.

"Assessment metrics that integrate quantitative literacy, scientific literacy and strategic learning will be developed as part of the overall evaluation of the project," he said.

Three new biology courses will be created through the project: bioinstrumentation, cloud computing and computational genetics. Also, the project will include concepts of data flow, data analytics and data curation in a series of five research-oriented biology core courses.

"Biology is now a data driven science and we especially want to make sure that our students are prepared with the latest skills sets to be able to compete for lucrative jobs," Dr. Isokpehi said.

Controlling snakes and hurricane tips

GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

I think one of the most feared and least known animals in our gardens and yards is a slinky creature known as a snake.

Most common garden snakes are not poisonous and are actually beneficial to your yard or garden. Some people actually find them as welcome visitors as they help control bugs and rodents.

However, most people have a natural fear of snakes and would prefer they set up house elsewhere. There is no actual repellent I know of that really works, but there are steps you can take to make your garden less inviting to them.

One thing snakes love to do is to sun themselves. Since they are cold-blooded reptiles, you will often see them curled up on stones in your garden trying to catch a few rays. Removing the stones, especially if they are in a sunny place, may help to discourage them from hanging around.

Snakes also love to hide in cool damp places like cinder blocks and stonewalls. This type of scenario may be an attractant to your garden. They also are attracted by saucers or pots that are not being used, especially if they have water in them. I have also heard of snakes hiding in gopher tunnels, so removing them from your yard may help deter them. Remember, most snakes are your friends and they usually will try to stay as far away from you as possible. Sometimes, however, an unexpected encounter can be inevitable.

With the tropics reaching the peak season, please remember to check your yard for hidden dangers and to be sure to review your plans on how to best hurricane proof your yard.

One point to consider when checking your property is to look for areas that are known flood plains in your yard. If you have such an area and a large tree happens to reside in the middle of the flood plain, it has a risk of toppling. When the ground around a tree becomes saturated with moisture, the area around the tree will become very unstable. This instability coupled with the high winds of a tropical system can cause even a normally stable tree to topple.

This inspection is especially important if the tree resides next to a structure. In this case, properly pruning your tree may not only save your tree, but it might also save your home from the damage of a downed tree. Also be aware of any diseased or decaying trees as these can also cause a hazard.

The next step you should the greens, noticing subtle contours and even the grain of the grass, helping me sink more putts. I am also able to better follow my ball in the air and judge distance more accurately. The ear socks and nosepiece grip my skin and prevent them from slipping no matter how much I sweat.

In all, having a pair of custom sunglasses, designed to help your golf game and protect your eyes, is something everyone should consider. Now if they'd only make a lens that finds a ball in a thick patch of palmettos or deep in the woods.

Don't let 'Clouds" cloud your judgment on storage

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

Once upon a time there was this guy who was so enamored with "cloud" computing he stuck all of his digital eggs in one basket and in the blink of an eye lost it all.

The end.

All right, OK, I'm sure there are enough of you reading this wondering what in the world I'm going on about, so I suppose I ought to take a few words to explain. You see I recently read an article online (an "open letter" to Google actually) written by a very distraught fellow who wanted Google to know just how badly they messed up when they locked him out of all of his data.

The poor guy goes on to explain he spent months switching all of his email over to gmail, all of his photos over to Google's photo service (Picasa), all of his docs to Google Docs etc., etc., etc. After painstakingly moving all of his data to Google's servers (wherever the hell they are) he woke up one day to find out his account had been closed due to a "terms of service violation," which he swears up and down he didn't commit.

The bottom line is he spent a considerable amount of time moving his entire digital inventory up to Google's "cloud," didn't make any provisions to back any of it up and then (just as Murphy's law demands) found himself completely locked out.

Now, this column isn't about whether Google had a right to lock him out of his account or not nor is it some type of cry out to the powers that be to change the way our data is safeguarded when we hand it over to "the cloud." It's more of a cautionary tale to remind us of what we already know — back up everything! Even when entrusting your data to the cloud, back it to a local drive as well! To not do so is just asking for it.

OK, let's look at this a little closer shall we? First the decision to use a "cloud" service may be a decision many are not even aware they are making. Let me try to clarify a couple things. Take email, for example. If you are accessing your email through your web browser by going to gmail.com, yahoo.com, aol.com or any of the other email services that offer "web-based" mail service, then guess what? Your email is being stored and managed "in the cloud" and if you should find yourself in violation of the "terms of service," you too could find yourself locked out. (Just how well did you read those "terms" when you signed up? You know, the terms you have to click the "Accept" button for in order to set up your account?)

Most email services allow the downloading of email to a local email client, which is present on each and every machine out there — Windows, Mac or Linux. You can set up your computer's email program (Windows Live Mail, Outlook, Outlook Express for Windows, "Mail" on Macs) by configuring the "POP" or "IMAP" settings. Look it up in your email service's help settings and if your email service doesn't provide for it, then you may want to consider an alternative.

Next let's look at the folly of uploading all of your digital pictures to a service like Google's Picasa Web Albums and then deleting the local copies after you upload all your pictures. Why on earth would anyone do that? "Well Sean, we don't want all these "duplicates" now do we?" Well, actually, you do.

Sure uploading all of your photos to a web-based service is great, but for God's sake, don't get rid of the originals! Did you know you can get 8 gigabyte thumb drives from just about any drugstore nowadays for about 10 bucks. Do you know how many "duplicate" photos you can store on 8 gigs? Then if anything happens to your "web albums," you luckily will have all of those pesky duplicates to fall back on.

The list goes on … Google Docs — Sure save all of your Docs to "cloud" storage, but how about synchronizing them with a local folder on your own machine, you know, just in case Google goes belly up it will be nice to have a backup.

As the concept of "cloud computing" becomes all encompassing, it's important to remember it's your data. Don't just assume that "they" will protect it for you.

School News

Father Lopez expected record enrollment

School is back in session at Father Lopez Catholic High School and school officials expect a record-setting year. This year's unofficial opening day count of 488 students tops the previous mark of 438 that was set last year.

According to the school's president, Dr. Michael Coury, the 10 percent increase in enrollment was chiefly the result of enrolling 142 freshmen, the largest class in the 56-year history of the Daytona Beach school. The school's enrollment has now mushroomed some 80 percent since the school moved in 2008 to LPGA Boulevard.

"There is no doubt that our attractive campus and state-of-the-art facilities has played a significant role in our growth," Dr. Coury stated. "However, bricks and mortar alone do not make any school outstanding. Rather, the successes that students experience once they get here are what really drives family decisions to make Father Lopez their school-of-choice."

Embry-Riddle adds Ph.D. in human factors

In a landmark moment in its history, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University has won approval of its new Ph.D. in human factors degree program as well as an accompanying advancement to the highest level of accreditation — Institutions that Offer Four or More Doctorates — in a decision by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges.

ERAU's other doctoral programs are in aviation, aerospace engineering, engineering physics and mechanical engineering.

"The awarding of Level VI accreditation by SACSCOC reflects a significant achievement in the life of Embry-Riddle," ERAU President Dr. John P. Johnson said. "With our new accreditation status comes increased responsibility to enhance scholarly activity and research productivity. This is a path we have been following for many years."

The Ph.D. in human factors program has enrolled its first class of 11 students. The program is open to those who have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in human factors, psychology or closely related fields.

For more information about human factors, visit daytonabeach.erau.edu/college-arts-sciences/human-factors/index.

Volusia County Schools names Principals of the Year

Volusia County Schools and FUTURES Foundation has announced Principals of the Year.

Dr. Janet Garzia, principal of Sugar Mill Elementary School, is the 2014 Elementary Principal of the Year and Mr. John Atkinson, principal of Pine Ridge High School, is the 2014 Secondary Principal of the Year.

Dr. Janet Garzia

The purpose of the award is to honor outstanding leadership and service by school level administrators.

Superintendent recognizes outstanding achievement

Volusia County Schools and FUTURES Foundation named Troy Bradley, a campus advisor at Southwestern Middle School, as the 2014 Superintendent's Outstanding Achievement Recognition winner.

Mr. Bradley has been a campus advisor for more than 19 years. He is not only visible on the campus both before and during school hours, but also in the community. Last year, he organized a Boyz to Men Breakfast Club Program, inviting guest speakers, mentors and former students to speak with Southwestern Middle males about the importance of education.

Other nominees for the recognition were:

•Debora Harnett, Atlantic High School

•Lois Ridout, DeLand High School

•Kathy Holman, DeLand Middle School

•Marian Ryder, Deltona High School

•Toni Slabodnik, Deltona Lakes Elementary School

•Linda Sikes, Edgewater Public School

•David McCarty, Facilities-Daytona Beach

•Jeri "Dee Dee" Marquart, Federal Programs

•Isabel Salvia,Heritage Middle School

•Diane M. LuQuis, Hinson Middle School

•Terri Baer, Horizon Elementary School

•Edna Rodriguez, Human Resources

•Teresa M. Lee, Indian River Elementary School

•Patricia Floria, Manatee Cove Elementary School

•Karl Spletzer, New Smyrna Beach High School

•Tracy Alexander, Orange City Elementary School

•Sherwood "Woody" Keck, Osceola Elementary School

•Sandra Cicero, South Daytona Elementary School

•Manuela "Nella" Ferreira, Spruce Creek Elementary School

•Heather Flores, Sunrise Elementary School

•Mary Chapman, Sweetwater Elementary School

•Mary Temarantz, Volusia Online Learning

After school suppers available to Volusia students

Beginning Monday, Sept. 15, Volusia County Schools will sponsor the Afterschool Nutrition Program, a subcomponent.

This program is designed primarily to provide nutritious suppers to children in afterschool programs. Suppers will be available at no charge to the children enrolled in an afterschool program, including extended day, at the sites listed below:

•Campbell Middle, 625 S. Keech St., Daytona Beach

•Indian River Elementary, 650 Roberts Road, Edgewater

• Westside Elementary, 1210 Jimmy Ann Drive, Daytona Beach

Garden

take is to tour your yard and make a list of items that would be dangerous to leave lying around. This list should include patio furniture, loose garden ornaments, small potted plants, yard torches, arbors and even your gas grill. If you have a shed or gazebo, you might want to add extra tie downs to be sure they stay put and don't wind up in Kansas. You can start early by limiting what you keep out in your yard during the peak months of August and September.

If you own a swimming pool, you can throw all your patio furniture into the pool to help keep it from traveling across the state.

If you are a nature lover, most likely you have a bird feeder hanging in your yard. Now is the time to do some housekeeping so your feathered friends have a safe and clean place to eat. Clean your bird feeder with a mixture of 1 part bleach to 9 parts water. Be sure to remove all droppings from the perches and throw away any old food that might be moldy and refill it with fresh treats. Be sure to rinse the feeder well after treating it with the bleach solution. This will ensure your birds will have a disease free environment in which to dine.
