Town Council gets a jump on marijuana dispensaries

By Kelli Jo Hull
For Hometown News

The Ponce Inlet Town Council approved an ordinance July 17 establishing zoning requirements for marijuana dispensaries and related activities in advance of the state referendum in November.

The ordinance limits medical marijuana dispensaries to the B1 general retail district of the town. Non-medical marijuana sales and cannabis farms are prohibited entirely.

According to Town Manager Jeaneen Clauss Witt, the Town Council moved forward with the measure at the advice of Town Attorney Cliff Shepard, who brought the matter to their attention in February when a similar ordinance was considered in Maitland where he is also the city attorney, she said.

"With the referendum coming up in November, our council felt it was prudent to have regulations on the books."

During council discussions prior to the ordinance's approval, concerns were expressed about whether the state will preempt local laws. Mr. Shepard recommended putting an ordinance in place prior to state regulation, which would provide the town greater protection and a better chance regulations of their choosing would be enforceable.

In a telephone interview after the meeting, Vice Mayor Mary Hoss said, "Not knowing which way the state legislature is going, we don't want to be caught off guard."

In an effort to limit disruption to the town, strict conditions were included in the ordinance.

The council was proactively looking out for its residents, Vice Mayor Hoss said. "We are such a small community. We are a residential haven. Any way that we can protect our citizenry, we do so."

Loitering in and around the dispensaries "for any period of time longer than that reasonably

Amendments won't require much head scratching

State and federal candidates – A10

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

With 11 proposed amendments to sift through in 2012, is it any wonder voters nixed eight?

This year there are only three on the Nov. 4 ballot and they are fairly straightforward.

Voters will decide whether or not to allow the medical use of marijuana for individuals with debilitating diseases as determined by a licensed Florida physician.

If passed, caregivers would be allowed to assist patients with marijuana use. The state Department of Health would register and regulate centers authorized to produce and distribute the drug for medical purposes as well as issue identification cards to patients and caregivers. The amendment would apply only to Florida law and would not authorize violations of federal law or any non-medical use, possession or production of marijuana, according to the Florida Department of State, Division of Elections.

The second proposed amendment funds the Land Acquisition Trust Fund to acquire, restore, improve and manage conservation lands, including wetlands

Miracles do happen.

At least that's the way Mark Geallis and some of the others at Halifax Urban Ministries felt on a recent Thursday when a man "dressed in a Hawaiian shirt and flip flops" walked into their offices and produced a check for $80,000.

The donor (Mr. Geallis, HUM's director of development, said the donor is a local businessman who didn't want to be identified) was responding to pleas for help from the multi-faith group, which has been serving the homeless for decades.

HUM had learned it had lost an $80,000 grant for its Family Shelter in Daytona Beach — a crucial amount. Without the grant, Geallis had reported to local media and anybody who'd listen that the shelter, which accommodates more than70 members of homeless families at a time for two to six months, would have to close.

That wouldn't impact most of the families at the shelter — the grant money wasn't due to be distributed until October and the shelter was funded until then. But the need is ongoing and has grown since the economic downturn in 2008. Without the funds, the shelter would close and many homeless families would be left scrambling for shelter or living on the streets, according to Mr. Geallis.

He said the "gift is another amazing example of how God provides."

The one-time donation will make up the difference and keep the shelter operating at least for another year, he said. They had raised $15,000 from other individual donations already, which Mr. Geallis said would be allocated to supporting the shelter,

Free food provided for youth throughout Volusia County

By Susan L. Wright
swright@hometownnewsol.com

If you happen to be a member of one of the six area YMCAs — or a visitor at any of a number of other recreational centers, schools or other sites — you might have wondered about the sign hanging outside announcing free meals for children.

They're part of a national free summer meal program sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which is designed to take up the slack for the children who receive free or reduced price lunches or breakfasts during the school year. Those children have to qualify, which means their families have to apply and have their income verified.

The school year food assistance is only available to families who fit certain income criteria — generally under or within a certain percentage of the official poverty level.

The summer program is open to all children under 18 years old at any of the sites.

There are a total of more than 60 sites in Volusia County.

Liz Kammer, the district executive director for the Volusia County Ys, said the six Y family center sites in the area are all now part of the program.

The majority of the meals they serve through the program are served to children who are enrolled in the regular YMCA summer camp programs, many children of working parents who need a place to go during the long summer vacation. However, Ms. Kammer added, any child is welcome to come to one of the sites for a healthy, nutritious meal.

In June, she said a total of 5,873 breakfasts and 7,287 lunches were served to area children through the program. While the Y sites don't keep separate records to show how many meals were served to children who came in specifically for the meals without being part of a program, Ms. Kammer said on average those in charge of the sites report just about five children have shown up just for the meals so far.

At the Port Orange YMCA, Kern Cox, who is in charge of the children's summer program, including the free meals, estimated they've had about 15 children who weren't in the programs show up on any given day.

Ms. Kammer said the Volusia YMCAs have been participating in the program for five years and she'd seen an increase in the numbers of meals served every year since the beginning.

The meals are nutritious and healthy — they're prepared to conform to the USDA requirements, including 30 percent of the USDA recommended daily number of calories and other nutritional elements, she says.

The summer program does not provide hot meals — the breakfasts are based on cold cereals with a fruit side dish and milk or fruit juice. According to Pat James, Volusia County's manager for the program countywide, a typical lunch meal will include a grilled chicken sandwich with milk or juice and a fruit, which might be canned or fresh and condiments for the sandwich.

Ms. Kammer said the program is very important in the county since more than 50 percent of the children countywide are eligible for free and reduced price breakfast and lunch programs when school is in session.

Parrot Heads to party in Ormond Beach

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

That's right all of you loyal followers of the island poet Mr. Jimmy Buffett, the Ormond Beach Historical Society is planning a big Key West-style bash that will feature his music.

It is the intention of the OBHS to turn the stately old Anderson-Price-Memorial Building into Margaritaville for one night.

From 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8, the fun will center around D. J. Mondo as he spins endless tunes from Jimmy and his Coral Reefer Band. There will be karaoke for those brave enough to try and croak out one of Buffet's many hits. Going in, the OBHS realizes there could be way too many renditions of "Come Monday" or "Cheeseburger In Paradise," so some of the songs will be let by lottery.

I do a pretty mean version of "A Pirate Looks At 40" and am not averse to coming off like a fool, so I will be bidding on that one. Of course, there will be "Fins To The Left and Fins To The Right," "Havana Daydreaming" and "Changes In Latitude" from the talented group of singers we expect to attend.

All of this will be accompanied by boat drinks, of course. There has to be margaritas, rum punch, beer and wine. As the evening draws to an end and the tequila has taken hold we may even get someone to try the ever popular "Why Don't We Get Drunk and ——." It could happen!

Old Jimmy has created a lot of fun for his fans over the years and I have been right with them. I bought my first Buffett album in 1975 and that title was A1A. How could I not buy music with a name like that? When the Ocean Center opened, one of the first acts booked was Jimmy and I had good tickets for Lana and me.

When the day arrived it was announced the Coral Reefer Band would not be with the island troubadour and that did not sit well with the crowd. It turned out to be mostly an acoustic set and, of the many times I have seen him perform, that one still remains one of the best.

Each year Lana and I would catch Jimmy (and the band) at the huge Milwaukee Summer fest. It was always a hoot to see the pale Wisconsin fans wearing their flowered shirts, flip-flops, and sure enough, parrots on their heads. They were always more enthusiastic than the crowds in the South and for a couple hours were transported to a warm Caribbean island by the sound of Jimmy's steel drums.

You know these days the pirate is looking at 70, but his music is still very young and lively. As he said so well, "if we couldn't laugh, we would all go insane."

The Historical Society is hoping this fun (fund) raiser will become an annual affair. The donation will be $35 per parrot head or $60 per couple. For that, aside from all the music and fun, you will receive cheeseburgers, shrimp cocktails and lots of other tasty island fare. Each entry will get a ticket for two drinks and the bar will only be expecting a $3 donation for the other libations you may require. Oh, this is going to be a great evening!

Anytime parrot heads get together it is always fun, but the OBHS is doing this right. Lots of decorations and a few surprises will await you. So make plans to join us at 48 N. Beach St. Tickets are limited and as soon as you see this, you had best call (386) 677-7005 if you hope to attend. I believe this to be the biggest Buffett party in these parts in many a day. So all us parrot heads, let's support it so we can do it each and every year. Hey, it's 5 o'clock somewhere.

Dan Smith is on the board of directors for the Ormond Beach Historical Society and The Motor Racing Heritage Association and is the author of two books, "The World's Greatest Beach" and "I Swear the Snook Drowned." Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net or call (386) 441-7793.

Police plan 'Night Out'

The Port Orange South Daytona police departments will host a "National Night Out Against Crime" event 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, at the Port Orange Lakeside Pavilion and the Kenneth W. Parker Amphitheater, both on City Center Boulevard.

The South Daytona Police Department will be in the parking lot at the south end of Sunshine Park Mall, 2400 S. Ridgewood Ave.

Citizens are asked to lock their doors, turn on their outside lights and join the police for a night of fun. National Night Out is designed to heighten citizens' awareness of crime prevention measures, strengthen neighborhood spirit and enhance police-community partnerships.

The Port Orange department's Traffic Unit, K-9 teams, Emergency Response Team and Marine Unit will be on hand to answer questions. There will be food and fun for all ages. The event is free.

In South Daytona, there will be refreshments and then everyone can too.

As soon as the news was announced, the mood at the shelter was festive.

Rich Fitzmaurice, shelter manager, said, "I felt like it was Christmas!"

He said he'd been trying to have faith that everything would work out, but was worried about what would happen to all the families that need the help year in and year out.

The shelter helps families in need by providing a room for two months — and longer if they are clearly working towards getting on their feet.

Families like the Langleys, Douglas, Andrea and their four children, who moved there in early June when they were forced out of their rental home because of unhealthy conditions the landlord refused to correct. The home was riddled with mold and Douglas and two of their sons suffer from asthma. Mr. Langley also is living on Disability Social Security since he was severely injured in a car accident a few years ago.

Their oldest child works at a discount store and walks home, often at night, which concerns her parents, and Mrs. Langley just got a job as a home health aide. They are the kind of family who will definitely be allowed to stay a few more months while they recover financially and find a new home, but, meanwhile, the shelter provides a roof over their heads and help applying for jobs and looking for a more permanent home.

Thanks to the shelter, Mr. Langley said, "We're OK. We've got a lot of gratitude — for the people here and for each other."

"The staff here is awesome. I guess if you work for yourself and you try to do something, they support you," he added.

Mr. Geallis noted the donation only bails them out for the coming fiscal year, from October through September 2015.

After that, they will need another $80,000.

But, by solving the problem facing them right away, it puts them in a good position to work on raising the money for the future, he said.

They're not counting on another miracle — Mr. Geallis is hard at work making the most of the time they've been given. "We are hopeful that this donor's generous and altruistic gift will be an example for others to donate to the shelter and HUM's other programs," he wrote in the statement released to announce the donation.

They are hoping to find donors who will sign on to give a regular amount on a monthly basis throughout the year.

The Family Shelter, just one of Halifax Urban Ministries programs that feed, house and support people in need, including the homeless, has a total budget of $260,000, most of which comes from business, church and individual donors. The non-profit was set up by a coalition of churches and other faith groups. HUM's largest established program is the Feed A Family Homeless Prevention Program, which distributes more than 500 tons of food a year to families and individuals living below the poverty line.

For information or to make a donation, call (386) 252-0156 or visit halifaxurbanministries.org.

West Nile Virus case reported

Volusia County Mosquito Control officials have reported a confirmed case of West Nile Virus in a horse within Volusia County.

They also expect at least two of their sentinel chickens will test positive and they are on opposite ends of Volusia County.

They have also had positive Eastern Equine Encephalitis cases in horses as well.

Mosquito Control will be ramping up its operation, but it treats for human health, not horses. Make sure vaccinations are up-to-date. Look for and eliminate anything that might hold water that would serve as a mosquito production area. Use insect repellent.

A team of independent assessors is coming to town next month to examine the Volusia County Sheriff's Office's policies, procedures, management and operations.

The public is invited to comment as part of a periodic, outside review designed to verify the department's compliance with law enforcement performance standards. The Sheriff's Office has been

Ormond Beach has a great recycling system

To the person writing about Ormond Beach recycling: I would advise you to check your facts. Ormond Beach does not follow the same recycling guidelines Volusia County does, as the recycling is collected by a different hauler — Waste Management and not Republic Services — and eventually delivered to the Waste Management recycling center in Orlando rather than GEL Recycling at the Volusia County landfill site.

The material is transferred from the curbside collection trucks into transfer trucks at the city's transfer station to make the trip. Single stream recycling, where all materials, including glass, go into the same bins and are sorted at the recycling center rather than by residents, has been wildly successful across the nation, and I for one am very thankful we use it here in Ormond.

Interestingly it is the same type of system in use where you used to live in Seattle.

I'm not sure where in Ormond Beach you live, but here in The Trails I see more than 90 percent of homes recycling every single week. Moreover, most people have multiple bins full of material as well as extra boxes and bags of recycling set out.

If we are talking about cutting pickups to save on the cost (I too am angry that our city leaders are handing us a 22 percent increase in solid waste fees), how about starting with the second garbage collection day each week. Our family of five rarely has more than a little bag on that day, and we often don't bother putting anything out. I would much rather not pay for a service I could so easily go without.

Ormond Beach has a great recycling program, and I sincerely hope that does not change when Waste Pro takes over Oct. 1. Single stream recycling has worked very well here, and I for one have no desire to go back to sorting bottles and cans from paper as is commonplace elsewhere in Volusia.

Give yard sale signs same rights as political ones

As a Port Orange homeowner I would like to comment on the quantity of political signs throughout the area.

While I don't dispute the right for candidates to advertise for office, I wonder why the same right is not allowed for people wishing to advertise garage or yard sales. These residents pay a fee to inform the public of their sale of merchandise and yet the signs are removed by city employees almost as quickly as they are displayed.

Both the political signs and the garage sale signs are often placed on public property and should each have the same rights of display.

More handicapped parking problems

Is anyone bothered by the following?

There are two VIP reserve parking spaces right by the front door of the Ormond Beach YMCA, taking up two disabled parking spaces.

Should handicapped members/patrons have to walk into a building from the regular parking areas and having to stop periodically to get their breath be allowed? Where is the ADA organization on these concerns?

CIRCULATION AUDIT BY CIRCULATION VERIFICATION COUNCIL

PORT ORANGE

This way

Randy Barber/staff photographer

Katie Horner, 6, of Port Orange learns about the phrase, "stubborn as a horse" as she tries to lead Ice around during summer camp at Marcody Ranch in Samsula on Thursday, July 17.

The abuse of handicapped parking and handicap stickers is out of control and totally wrong. It is amazing that drivers who are non-handicap, have no one in their car who is handicapped, but have a sticker, park in the handicap parking areas while observing true handicapped people walking in from a regular space. Especially when they are walking, unencumbered, into the Y and exercising for at least an hour or more.

The assumption is doctors are giving out these stickers to everyone who asks, regardless of legality. Again, is anyone else bothered by this inexcusable behavior?

Suggestion for elderly must make provisions for pets

Just a possible option to consider regarding the article on elderly must make provisions for pets.

As aging pet owners, my husband and I have discussed quite seriously and solemnly that after our two cats pass on, this will be the last time we would ever have pets and for the reason discussed in this article. We have no children, so there is no one who would be able to step in and just take over this responsibility. It is an important and selfless decision I think as responsible pet owners, you need to think about.

However, there are options. There will always be an older cat that will need a good home for whatever time it has left, or from an owner who passed away.

But also, doesn't the Humane Society have a program of fostering pets for which they don't have room that may need a temporary, loving and safe place while waiting to be adopted? I guess that is something to look into.

Fast garbage

Once again I am standing here in awe watching the Volusia County garbage trucks flying down the road. Just hoping they don't hit a kid or somebody. I don't know who governs them.

They seem like they are trying to get done so quickly that they speed through. I wish someone would bring this attention to the Volusia County Council or whoever governs him or her before someone gets hurt.

Check drivers' licenses for handicapped notation

I have a simple solution to stop the disabled parking banter. Just have the gatekeepers at the beach check the drivers' license of the people in the front seats. Handicapped has to be on the Florida driver's license. If the handicapped person is not in the car, then the blue placard doesn't go on the beach.

My wife is an amputee. I know they do this at Daytona International Speedway. I have tried to use the placard at the Speedway and it did not work.

Parking lots – the ultimate road hazards

More accidents occur in parking lots than anywhere else. Why is this? Could it be there are no concrete rules, speed limits, right of way or simple courtesy?

Will a person driving through a lane have the right of way to someone backing up? There are common sense and courteous factors at play. A car should be backing up with a clear lane. If someone comes speeding along with the assumption they have the right of way they could nearly cause an unnecessary collision or actually cause a collision. Common sense should dictate when to activate 5 mph. I do know enforcing it would be a logistical problem.

Pedestrians, although they have the right of way, walk around oblivious. Not all cars are equipped with back up cameras. Let's wake up, use common sense, courtesy and share the parking lot.

No more fast food

I am a native. This country, including Edgewater, doesn't need more fast food restaurants. Obesity is out of control. We need more healthy places. We need to get away from fast. Let's sit down. Let's turn off the Wi-Fi. Let's reconnect without just driving through for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Doomed to repetition

What we need are politicians who can remember the past.

Police Hand better

I would like to plead to the Ormond Beach Police Department to take significant steps to control speeding on Hand Avenue. The construction and improvements made to the area are impressive, however, the speeding is a distraction and surely a safety concern.

It is truly a rarity to see anyone abiding by the 25 mph limits. No one seems to know what crosswalks mean. Please do more to make this a safer area. Thank you.

Stop food insanity

It is a time to celebrate our Independence, but not when our country is known for obese people. That's why the hot dog eating contests are ridiculous to promote more insanity of eating.

One person in South Dakota choked to death stuffing them down. This is not what Fourth of July should be known for.

In response to: 'Ormond full of garbage'

My love of Ormond Beach is healthy and pristine it is. I am proud to say I live here.

However, if your utility bill is a problem perhaps you can cut down on electric use and not criticize us for having clean streets. I want to say thank you to our waste management professional guys and I love living here, and if this guy has a problem with garbage perhaps he should pick it up himself.

Why the fireworks?

I don't know why the morons in South Daytona were allowed to use fireworks over the Fourth of July weekend and break the law, scare the animals half to death. Will someone tell me why?

Well said on bicycle tour

I hope many people applaud the Hometown News for the article that was written by someone intelligent about ban the bar and bike tour before it is too late.

I appreciate you publishing that. It is well written and well said by evidently an educated and intelligent person. The fact of the bikes, bars, underage drinking, this person said it all and there is really nothing left to say. Nobody can refute any of it. It is so true and so well written. Thank you to both you the paper and that person.

Flea market irritation

I am in New Smyrna Beach.

What irritates me is, right in front of city hall on Saturdays they have a farmers' and flea market. They shut down the street in front of city hall. No. 1 they allow the vendors to use the handicapped parking spaces to sell their products. No. 2 is they block off the street.

No. 3, the old fort, which is right across from city hall is blocked. The vendors and customers block the handicapped/wheelchair disabled people to unload to go into the park and load to leave the park. They allow customers to park in the loading zone. There is a sign posted and a yellow painted curb there that goes to the fire hydrant; by law you cannot park there. The curb is also marked white. Therefore the wheelchair people cannot go into the fort park. They also serve hot and cold food. They are not providing restrooms not even port-a-potties. I hope someone with the county and the American Disabilities Association will look into it.

Clean up after yourself

I would like to remind everyone, although we have people who work the beach, they are not here to clean up your garbage.

We were born and raised here and we met a family of 12 from St. Petersburg who came to stay at the beach and proceeded to leave all their garbage all over the place, and we had to clean it up. It wasn't a major problem. We love our beaches. Please clean up after you.

Get a Florida auto tag

I would like to know the answer to the person's question about how people live here and work here, but still have out of state license plates.

I just don't understand that. They're not paying taxes or anything. What can you do about that?

Need another beach walkway

The Volusia County Council approved a massive condo development in New Smyrna Beach known as Oceanwalk. It is 18 buildings, built on once considered wetlands. Now the problem is compounded by the fact the possible population on the beach of 2,000 must use one entry/exit walkway to the beach.

During the last quick moving thunderstorm many families were left waiting their turn to exit for safety. I believe the Oceanwalk project needs to secure another walkway for the residents. And New Smyrna Beach city officials need to push for this to happen.

Our house is a very, very, very fine house

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

With the recent report that sales of existing houses are at a five-year high, it's a good time to take a look at how the housing market is reverberating through the Volusia County economy.

Sales of single-family houses by Realtors soared in June to 900 in Volusia, up from 595 in June 2013. While not quite as dramatic, the number of permits issued for new single-family houses was at 122 in June, up from 109 in June 2013.

Looking at the stuff that often goes along with people buying houses — paint, wallpaper and hardware dealers; home furniture, furnishings and equipment; household appliances and accessories; and decorating, painting, papering and drapery installation – you would expect a big increase, too. However, that hasn't been the case. In April, the latest month for which statistics are available, taxable sales of that stuff was at $21.4 million, up 14.7 percent from about $18.6 million in June 2013. Not a bad jump, but it doesn't quite match the jump in house sales. Maybe that will change once the June numbers come out, but there's another June number that shows the housing market isn't helping as much as it could.

The median price for sales of existing houses in June was at $135,000, the same as in June 2013. So, while new homebuyers are helping to add to the economy, the lack of price increases isn't helping existing homeowners. They aren't getting a lot more money for the houses they sell, so they're not moving up to a much bigger house, or they're not seeing any increase in their value of their home, so they can't think about getting a line of credit on the equity of their home to do any home improvements.

No doubt the housing market is helping the countywide economy, especially helping increase employment, but when we start seeing some home price escalation, we should really see something great.

Commercial real estate has been going great recently. The biggest sale was the Holiday Inn LPGA, which sold for $7.717 million to a Hanover, Mass., hotel operator. The CVS Pharmacy at 1350 Beville Road sold for $4.719 million to a South Florida investor. Then right next door, New Hampshire investors bought Melissa's Car Wash for $1.1 million at 1330 Beville Road.

Apparently Walmart has noticed that a lot of alcoholic beverages are consumed in Volusia County. Already planning to put a liquor store next to the Neighborhood Market in Holly Hill, the retailing behemoth is now planning one next to the Walmart Supercenter in DeLand.

A final note: Brown & Brown's continuing spree of acquisitions is fueling huge growth for the Daytona Beach-based insurance seller and employee benefits administrator. The company reported revenue of $397.8 million in the second quarter, up 22.1 percent from $325.7 million in the second quarter of 2013. Net income was at $61.8 million, up about 19 percent from $51.9 million last year.

Patriots among us

·Part Three·

The past two weeks we have learned of Palm Coast retiree Giles McCoy's experience aboard, and after the sinking of, the USS Indianapolis. Here are excerpts from his interview with Judith Kent for "Experiencing War—Stories from the Veterans History Project."

[After days afloat in shark-infested waters] "… one of the rescue vessels came on the fourth night. When the captain of the ship …got into the area he was afraid that he was going to run over some of the survivors and kill them. He decided to put his search lights into the water and to put one up into the sky [reflecting] off the clouds to give everybody hope.

JK: That was kind of a beacon of hope.

"It really was. We tried to tell these guys, 'Don't die! There's a light; they're going to pick us up out of the water tomorrow. They're going to give us water and there are going to be doctors to take care of us, so don't quit, stay alive!' It was a lot easier to die than stay alive. Some listened, some did not.

"The guys went out of their heads. I still had an old 45 on me from when I was on duty. It was all rusted shut but they didn't know that…I took it out and pointed it at each one of them and said, 'Take your knife and throw it away' (because they were starting to fight with one another and hallucinate). They were going to kill one another. In some groups they did. Poor Dr. Haynes, he had over 400 men and only 93 of them survived.

"Finally I said, 'All right, here goes the 45,' and I threw it away. Everybody just got down to arguing with one another and accusing one another of hoarding food and hoarding water and we had nothing but nobody would listen.

"Several other ships came into the area ...the APD Ringless picked up Captain McVey (he was one of the last ones) and my group was the very last one. From what we were able (all these authors and everybody else) to figure out I was the very last person taken on board ship.

JK: That was cutting it close!

"… All of us our chins were just sticking up out of the water because our life jackets were sinking. So I tied everybody together so that they couldn't drop their faces in the water and drown…. when the Ringless came by I …hollered at them, 'We don't have any knives, somebody will have to cut us apart.' Two sailors dove in right away and [laughs] they saw these five sharks that had been around us all day long; as soon as they saw the sharks they turned around and went right back to the ship. Then two more sailors came in and they swam out and cut us all loose. Three of the guys were unconscious. We had kept them alive by keeping their heads out of the water. We took them to the ship first and took them up in seats (painter seats) and got them aboard. Then those of us who thought we were real strong tried to climb up on the landing net... It was a big mistake, we didn't have the strength.

"They got us aboard and they put us in bunks and just doctored us, tried to take care of us. …. I wanted some water.... I thought I still had my 45 and I told the sailor that was there taking care of me, I said, 'I've got a 45 here and I am going to pull it out and I am going to get some water!' [laughter] He said, 'You'll get sick!' The doctor came in there and told me how I would get sick. I said, 'I'll take the sickness.' He gave me about that much water [gestures with fingers about two inches] in a coffee cup. Boy, I got sicker than a horse; my temperature went sky high. That was the wrong thing to do." (Concludes next week.)

School Tax Holiday starts Aug. 1

The 2014 School Sales Tax Holiday starts at 12:01 a.m. Friday, Aug. 1, and ends at midnight on Sunday, Aug. 3.

New this year, the sales tax exemption for clothing items has increased to $100 or less per item from $75 or less per item in 2013. The sales tax exemption for personal computers and certain computer-related accessories will be on the first $750 of the sales price rather than $750 or less per item in 2013.

During the holiday period, Florida law directs that no sales tax or local option tax will be collected on purchases of:

•Clothing, footwear, and certain accessories selling for $100 or less per item,

•Certain school supplies selling for $15 or less per item, and •Personal computers and certain computer-related accessories on the first $750 of the sales price, when purchased for non-commercial home or personal use.

This holiday does not apply to:

•Books that are not otherwise exempt;

•Rentals or leases of any of these items;

•Repairs or alterations of any of these items; or

•Sales of clothing, school supplies, or computers and computer-related accessories in a theme park, entertainment complex, hotel or airport.

For more information, visit dor.myflorida.com.

McDonald's school supply drive returns

McDonald's of Central Florida will host the McDonald's School Supply Drive during Tax Free Weekend Friday, Aug. 1, through Sunday, Aug. 3.

The program benefits students most in need in Central Florida, relying on members of the local community to donate and drop off school supplies at local McDonald's restaurants across nine Central Florida counties, including Volusia.

The supplies are picked up by local Boy Scouts and distributed to public school organizations throughout Central Florida, including FUTURES Foundation for Volusia County Schools.

ERAU named one of the 'Great Colleges to Work For'

For the fourth consecutive year, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University has been selected as one of the Great Colleges to Work For by The Chronicle of Higher Education.

Only 71 four-year institutions from across the country won the designation this year and ERAU is one of only six schools chosen from Florida.

This past year, ERAU's Daytona Beach Campus received a number of accolades, including being named by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top universities in the South and the No. 1 school in the South for veterans.

Employee feedback is the primary factor for The Chronicle of Higher Education and consulting partner ModernThink LLC in choosing schools for the designation. A full report of the selections is published online at chronicle.com.

DSC Foundation receives donations for scholarships

The Florida College System Foundation has awarded the Daytona State College Foundation nearly $36,000 in scholarship funding aimed to help first-generation college students and those pursuing nursing or allied health careers.

Part of the award was matched, bringing the total to nearly $50,000.

FCSF board member Larry Stewart presented the checks at the Wednesday, July 23, DSC Foundation Board of Directors meeting in the Hosseini Center on the college's Daytona Beach campus.

The FCSF recruits gifts and donations from national and statewide groups for the benefit of Florida's 28 state colleges. The money donated came from three of the state foundation's funds:

Florida Blue Scholarship check amount was $13,815.

Florida Blue Scholarships are awarded to DSC nursing and health sciences students to help defray their college expenses.

The donation was matched by Florida Hospital.

Helios Education Foundation First-Generation Scholars Scholarship check amount was $17,779.

This scholarship is awarded to first-generation college students, with preference given to students who are preparing for careers in education.

and forests; fish and wildlife habitat; lands protecting water resources and drinking water sources. It would include the Everglades and apply to water quality of rivers, lakes and streams as well as beaches, shores, outdoor recreational lands working farms and ranches and historic or geologic sites.

Funding would be accomplished by dedicating 33 percent of net revenue from the existing tax on documents — the tax paid for 20 years, according to the division.

The third amendment, placed on the ballot by the Legislature, gives the governor power to fill vacancies in a judicial office to which election for retention applies resulting from the justice or judge reaching the mandatory retirement age or failure to qualify for a retention election, or if a justice or judge is not retained. Currently the governor may not fill an expected vacancy until the current justice's or judge's term expires.

Workers and patients at Halifax Health get fresh food choices

By Susan L. Wright
swright@hometownnewsol.com

A lot of workers get perks — a day out at a ballgame, a Christmas bonus, a discount at a gym or coupons for a grocery store at the holidays.

The employees at Halifax Health Medical Center have a different sort of perk.

Their employer organizes and sponsors a weekly farmers' market right on the premises. They can pop out from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. any Friday to pick up the freshest produce, including organic, heirloom tomatoes; North Carolina peaches (in season); natural honey; gluten-free baked goods; or freshly made pasta.

The weekly farmers' market, which goes by the name Re-New You Market, is part of an overall health and fitness program Halifax Health Center provides for its employees.

Ellen Boyd, one of two corporate health account coordinators who supervise the program, said, "Re-New You is our health and wellness initiative for Halifax Health employees."

"Halifax Health has been in the community for 87 years, we want to evolve as good members of this community," Ms. Boyd added.

Providing the onsite farmer's market is "part of giving people opportunities and allowing them to make their own choices,' she explained.

Halifax Health has more than 4,000 employees, she said, and the program is open to all of them.

They found a professional who'd managed several other farmers' markets and tapped him to launch the onsite Re-New You market in November.

Bill Graeber, the market manager, reported that since the market opened it has grown and now has more than a dozen regular vendors who provide healthy and appealing goods every week.

"At this point, I have 12-14 vendors every week," Mr. Graeber said. "The focus is on food. We don't do other farmers' market kinds of things, crafts and that kind of thing. I do have one or two people who do natural or chemical-free items, like soap."

In addition to being fresh, the produce is all pesticide free and a large percentage is organic. Most of it is local, though there is one vendor who goes to Ocala to pick up and re-sell fresh produce from other areas, such as the peaches from North Carolina.

While they do have vendors there with baked treats, he explained, "You won't find anything very gooey or sticky, nothing like a Cinnabon. The goodies we do have are sugar free or gluten free."

Mr. Graeber said among the most popular items are the organic eggs, brought in fresh from a local farm each week.

Most weeks the market is set up in a space behind the Herbert D. Kerman Center for Oncology , but once a month it moves indoors in to the France Tower. During those mornings, the market attracts quite a few patients' families, who wander by on their way to the wards.

Marcus Droker, Halifax Health's other corporate health account coordinator, said the market is popular with the staff — and with the patients and their families.

Even though it is part of the company's on-going health and wellness program, the market is not subsidized and is completely self-sufficient, the coordinators report.

Mr. Droker said it's also well publicized with company emails, notices in the newsletter, posters and announcements over the loudspeaker.

Even though it has been set up specifically to benefit the employees at Halifax Health and is designed for their convenience, if someone unconnected to the hospital shows up looking for organic eggs or fresh, pesticide-free produce, freshly made pasta or sugar free pastries, they'd be welcome.

Randy Barber/staff photographer

Employees and visitors shop on Friday, July 25, at the farmers' market set up by Halifax Health Medical Center with healthy, organic and gluten-free products, produce and baked goods.

required to arrive and depart" was expressly prohibited. No drive through services will be allowed and consumption of medical marijuana and alcoholic beverages on dispensary premises are forbidden.

Also, dispensaries cannot be located within 2,500 feet of schools, churches, day care centers, public parks and beaches, or another dispensary.

Vice Mayor Hoss said imposing strict guidelines creates a very small area of availability in which the dispensaries will be allowed, thereby creating an additional "control factor." The volume of restrictions would have the additional benefit of limiting the interest of proprietors in establishing a dispensary in the community, she said.

Many local communities are also considering their options. Flagler Beach and Cocoa Beach have already passed ordinances, while Mount Dora and Maitland are in the process of creating ordinances.

Gourmet dining and tasty view

No shirt, no shoes, no problem is a popular saying at Crabby Joe's Deck & Grill on the Sun Glow Pier in South Daytona and just what most diners might expect from a restaurant built on a pier stretching out 900 feet into the Atlantic Ocean.

Basket food would also be expected at a restaurant where fishermen with poles resting on their shoulders have to pass through is to get to the fishing area of the pier.

"Our lunch is served until 4 p.m. and it is served in baskets," said General Manager Luke Zona.

Lunch fare includes a variety of fish sandwiches, fish tacos, burgers and soup and salad, but at 4 o'clock the menu changes, the sandwiches disappear and Chef Hector Rodriguez's dinner entrees are presented.

"He became our chef during February race week and he made some changes for us," Mr. Zona said

My husband and I took his recommendations, for the Rose Petal Shrimp and Crab Cake and for me the Mahi Mahi & Jumbo Shrimp in Alfredo Crab Sauce. I am not a big fan of crab cakes so what to order wasn't difficult.

I was assured by my other half the crab cakes were exceptional, not like most crab cakes that are more filling than crab.

Perhaps Chef Rodriguez's crab cakes would have changed my mind about them, but the two generous pieces of blackened Mahi Mahi smothered in Alfredo sauce with huge shrimp on top were so luscious I never gave my choice a second thought. As a side I selected the Key West vegetable medley and I'll admit it I expected overcooked veggies but that was not the case. It was cooked to perfection and I could have made a meal out of those vegetables.

Location is everything and this restaurant has the best view in town, or as Mr. Zona told us, "the best tasting view."

Mr. Zona said the restaurant had tried winterizing the wooden floor slats during cooler months but it didn't feel the same.

"Our customers said they missed looking down through the floor boards to see the waves," Mr. Zona said. "Sometimes you can see fish."

Crabby Joe's appeals to a wide variety of diners, from families with children to locals and race car legends, specifically Richard Petty.

"Richard has been coming here for years in February and July," Mr. Zona said. "The Pettys came in for Richard's birthday in July."

The Pettys aren't the only drivers that make Crabby Joe's a stop when they are in Daytona. Inside the entrance, on a wall of fame, Sterling Martin, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Ward Burton are just a few whose pictures greet

The Friends of the Bandshell will double up with Fleetwood Dreams, a Fleetwood Mac Tribute Band, and Fire & Rain, a James Taylor Tribute Band, performing at 7:15 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, as part of the free Star Spangled Summer Concert Series.

Fleetwood Dreams is made up of some of the top tribute performers in the Southeast and bring the looks and sounds of the real thing. Expect all of the many classic Fleetwood Mac and Stevie Nicks solo career smash hits, too.

Fire & Rain, the James Taylor Tribute Experience, will have you believing it's 1975 and you're at a theater watching James Taylor himself. It's not just the mellow stuff, Fire & Rain perform great upbeat numbers to dance and sing along to like "Your Smiling Face" and "How Sweet It Is" (To be loved by you). Plus hits like "You've Got a Friend," "Up on the Roof," "Carolina in My Mind" and "Her Town, Too."

Bandshell parking is available at the nearby Ocean Center garage and surface lots. Enter the Bandshell area through the Ocean Walk Shoppes or the Boardwalk. Rental chairs are available. The evening will conclude with a fabulous fireworks display over the ocean at 9:45 p.m.

Week of 8-1-2014

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, ask for further clarification if there is something you don't understand. Do not make important decisions until you understand all of the pertinent details.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, now is a good time to plan an outing with family members. It's been a while since you've made some memories together, and your schedule affords you this opportunity.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
How do you know how others will react to your requests if you never drum up the courage to ask, Cancer? Let your feelings be known this week and take a risk.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
Leo, enjoy an upcoming reunion with a friend you haven't seen in some time. Make the most of this opportunity to catch up and recall old times.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, you have much-needed rest and relaxation coming your way. Let loose this week and enjoy the freedom. Enlist others to join in the fun.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, an opportunity to jump on the career path you always had in mind for yourself is about to present itself. Do everything in your power to make the job yours.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, distractions are all around you and you find it difficult to stay focused on one thing at a time. Try separating yourself from all external stimulation for a few days.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Something inspires you to give a relationship another chance, Sagittarius. Maybe it was the lyrics to a song or a segment on a television show, but you are moved to action.

guests.

On weekends it is not uncommon to see Mike the Balloon Mman visit tables with children creating elaborate fishing poles with fish on the line, princess crowns and pirate hats out of balloons.

Plans are underway to enlarge the Calypso bar and widen the dining area. In the meantime the current area is being covered in marine themed murals by artist Craig McMahon. Mr. McMahon has created a three-dimensional octopus and has something in common with Michelangelo, he's painted part of the ceiling. Unlike Michelangelo, Mr. McMahon painted from step ladders, not lying down.

"You fall asleep," he explained.

The fishermen are part of the entertainment.

"They are part of the atmosphere. They walk through, sometimes with large fish," Mr. Zona said. "We will cook the fish they catch for $3. We do ask they buy the sides and a drink. Tourists may not have kitchens. We will cook their fish even if they didn't catch them on the pier."

Are the shrimp running right now in the Halifax River?

FISHING WITH DAN

DAN SMITH

Actually I have never seen a shrimp "run." The ones I find are always swimming, but right now they are swimming down the center of the boat channel in great numbers.

Anyone who owns a boat and a cast net should be after them. It is a fairly simple thing to do and the payoff is delicious. At this writing the best action is holding halfway between the Orange Avenue and Dunlawton bridges with a second choice being up at High Bridge.

It's not difficult to find the best spots for you will see a tight concentration of boats. If you go, don't be intimidated. If the boats are bunched, that is where the shrimp are. Wait for an opening and push in to give it a try.

Remember it is illegal to anchor in the boat channel and you should be able to give way quickly if a yacht comes down the river. Law enforcement is always on hand for the shrimp run and why not? Seldom can they find 30 boats on one acre of water.

They will check for safety equipment and watch for anyone speeding in the no wake or manatee protection zones.

Be ready to show a valid fishing license and your catch. The limit for shrimp is one five-gallon bucket per vessel per day. A five-gallon bucket of shrimp is a lot even with the heads on. On average, that will weigh around 22 pounds.

One of the questions often asked of me is how big are the shrimp we take out of the Halifax? There is no exact answer for that. Usually they will come up in an average that you might call mediums, but with that there will be lots of small ones. I am happy to get those and keep them for bait. As you shrimp, you will occasionally bring up some that are about the size of a 75-cent carrot. When I get enough of those I begin to think shrimp on the "barbie." Those jumbos, with fresh pineapple, mango and veggies on a skewer, makes for some fine eating.

Another question I am asked is how long will they run. No one knows for sure, but if you know they are there, you had best drop what you are doing and go. At times they will linger for months, but they could also leave today. Don't waste time thinking about it. Go shrimping, pronto!

Now, I have to say all of this fun and good eating does come at a price. On an average trip you will drop your heavy net 15 feet down into the river and retrieve it at least 50 times. That is tough work for old arms and shoulders, but when you sit down to a big pot of spiced boiled shrimp and a couple cold beers, the pain will recede.

The shrimp runs we experience in Volusia County are famous all over the state.

A couple years ago I met two commercial fishermen at the boat ramp who had come up from Fort Pierce. They planned to work our waters for enough shrimp to pay for their trip and a nice profit. That year the shrimp were plentiful so I bet they made out. The jury is still out for this year. The shrimping was off in 2013, but 2011 and 2012 were banner years for the netters.

So grab your cast net, gas up the boat and meet me out there.

You might bring along sunscreen and drinking water for it will be hot and bright. If you do see any shrimp "running," please let me know.

Snap-Um-Up tourney brings in the Snapper

Bobby Mason won the Halifax Sport Fishing Club's "Snap-Um-Up" Red Snapper Tournament with a 25.5-pound fish.

A club spokesman said the tourney was a great success. The weather cooperated all three weekends of Red Snapper season and resulted in 118 Red Snapper totaling 1,941 pounds and averaging 15.6 pounds. Many non-tournament species, including a 37-pound Grouper, 34-pound Cobia, 36-pound Tuna, 35-pound King Mackerel, Sea Bass, Dolphin, Vermillion Snapper, Mangrove Snapper and Spanish Mackerel were also weighed in.

The total payout in cash and prizes was over $2000 with Mr. Mason getting $565. Second place went to Nick Metakes for his 25 pounder; third place went to Steven Taft for his 23.5-pound snapper; Kemp Littlefield took fourth place with a 23.4-pound fish; fifth place went to John Baller Jr. with his 22.7-pound snapper and 12 year old Coleman Beardsley took sixth place with his 22.6-pound Red Snapper.

Many people fished hard all eight days of the season. Among those were Craig Olsen and Kevin Robinson who fished on Captain Fun, a 25-foot Grady White out of Ponce Inlet. They exclusively fished the Volusia County Artificial Reefs and limited every day. Their largest fish was slightly over 19 pounds and their smallest was right at 13 pounds. Their results were typical for the fishermen who fished the tournament.

The club expressed thanks to the 58 entrants, the club volunteers and the sponsors, especially Down the Hatch, The Fishin' Shack and Topless Hooker Gear.
