Some criminal cases are unusual, humorous or just outright odd. And there's no shortage of them on the Treasure Coast.

This column highlights cases that often leave observers shaking their heads.

Seeking another bite at the apple

In one Martin County case, it appears the victim may actually be the criminal.

Recently, deputies responded and took a report of a burglary of more than $10,000 worth of items, including a computer, money, art and various other things.

But as the investigation continued, the case grew more curious to investigators.

They discovered the supposed victim reported a similar burglary in 2009. It was so similar that he

Caregiver wins national contest

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — For the last 50 years, she has been a devoted wife. For the last nine years, she has also been a devoted caregiver.

But now a St. Lucie County woman, who spends her days taking care of her husband, has a few days to take care of herself.

Mary Lamalie, a retired teacher, was named the national winner of a contest for caregivers. She was awarded a six-day, five-night cruise.

Her story was chosen from more than 1,000 entries. She was nominated for the award by Dana For-

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — While growing up in Brooklyn, Geegee Betancourt encountered situations where she potentially needed to protect herself.

But at the time, she didn't know techniques that would help her against a potentially more powerful assailant.

Last week, Ms. Betancourt, now a Port St. Lucie resident, and her daughter, Maya, learned some of those defense techniques while attending a rape aggression defense class at the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office.

"I want to make sure make sure she's (Maya) is prepared for situations I wasn't," Ms. Betancourt said.

They were among 20 women who attended the four-hour course.

Sgt. Chris Cicio of the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office said the agency is the only one on the Treasure Coast to offer the rape aggression defense program, which is offered around the world.

The class gave women a taste of

Students to take part in smokeout

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — The one day recognized every year as national quit smoking day is coming, and St. Lucie County youth want smokers to pledge to put down their packs.

The Great American Smokeout, taking place on Nov. 17, encourages everyone to stop using tobacco products for 24 hours.

To recognize the day, area students who belong to Students Working Against Tobacco, or SWAT, are asking adults to sign pledge cards stating they will kick the habit for one day.

"We have been working with the students to create an activity for the smokeout," said. Marcella Bianco, tobacco prevention specialist for the St. Lucie County Health Department.

"This is just one of the things students will be doing, and they are very excited about it."

Currently, there are SWAT groups for students ages

Drive aims to collect 500,000 pounds of food for hungry

By Samantha Joseph

TREASURE COAST — The Treasure Coast Food Bank has an ambitious goal this holiday season.

The group is undertaking its Great Treasure Coast Holiday Food Drive, a bid to collect 500,000 pounds of food, including 5,000 turkeys, before the end of the year.

Its plan is to make sure every hungry family has food to make it through at least the holiday season.

"The people who were hungry at Thanksgiving are still hungry at Christmas and in January," said Judy Cruz, the food bank's chief executive officer.

"This is the first step to raising aware-man, a nurse at Alzheimer's Community Care, a day-care facility her husband attends. "Even when she attends the support group and it's her turn to speak, she doesn't discuss her own situation," said Ms. Foreman. "Instead, she offers suggestions to help other family caregivers."

Mrs. Lamalie's husband, Ken, is also a former teacher. He suffered the first of many strokes in 2002, and has been afflicted with advanced dementia.

But she still cares for him every day, and only leaves his side when he attends the day-care facility and when she attends caregiver support groups.

"He mostly sleeps and watches television," Ms. Lamalie said. "In the morning, I shower and dress him, and situate him in the wheelchair for the day. His right side is useless, so when I make him breakfast, I have to cut up the food into small pieces. He is able to eat on his own, it just takes him a long time."

Ms. Lamalie will also receive 40 hours of free respite care for her husband from the Home Instead Senior Care office while she is on the cruise.

"Mary's story illustrates the sacrifices so many families make each day caring for loved ones," said Jeff Huber, president of Home Instead.

"Family caregivers seldom have the opportunity to get away because they are devoted daily to those who depend on them. We're happy to provide her a much-needed break."

"I haven't had a vacation for so long," Ms. Lamalie said, "years, really."

But she added that all the support has helped her.

"It's so nice to have someone to talk with so I'm not sitting on my porch crying at night," she said.

"It's a long journey and it's hard, but there's lots of support out there when you search things out."

Muster

"This is going to be a special year," said Rolf Synder, marketing director for the museum. "Everybody knows the U.S. Navy SEAL teams through recent events. This is an opportunity to see them in action."

The museum is unique because while it's open all year, it's the only one in the country that is open to the public.

"The rest are on military bases and restricted to military personnel," Mr. Synder said.

The fun begins on Friday night with a crawfish boil for museum members.

"The crawfish will be flown in that day from the gulf," he said.

Saturday is the big day, and the ceremonies and demonstration kick off at 11 a.m. with a member of the museum giving the keynote address: Ross Perot.

The former presidential candidate, a Naval Academy graduate, is known for his support of the museum.

"We picked up the phone and called him," Mr. Snyder said. "He personally accepted the invitation."

Museum-goers will also witness a demonstration by a Navy SEAL team as they parachute in and stage a mock rescue.

Mr. Synder suggests arriving early, because of traffic concerns and the high security surrounding the event.

"People should get there around 9 a.m. because traffic can be crazy," he said.

During Saturday's ceremony, the museum will also dedicate its recent expansion, which doubled its square footage. The dedication ceremony will be held at 2 p.m.

Throughout the day, there will be refreshments and activities for the children. The event will have free admission.

On Sunday, the muster continues with a special Navy SEAL memorial at 10 a.m.

"We have the name of every SEAL that's been killed inscribed on the memorial," Mr. Synder said. "We will be honoring them at the memorial."

Muster organizers are expecting more than 15,000 people to attend.

The National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum is at 3300 N. A1A in Fort Pierce. For more information, call (772) 595-5845 or go online to navysealmuseum.com.

Group hopes to build artificial reef

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — While some might not be thrilled with a sinking ship, that’s exactly what a local group is looking for, to help the county’s artificial reef program.

The Sea-life Habitat Improvement Project, a nonprofit group, has a goal to sink a large Navy ship off the Treasure Coast and make it an artificial reef.

One of the founders of the group, Andy Brady, said community support for the project is key.

“We’re just barely a year old, but we want to help put something back to the environment,” he said. “We truly support all of the artificial reef and oyster reef restoration projects on the Treasure Coast. This project is designed to compliment those.”

The group is looking at obtaining the Benjamin Underwood, a 677-foot-long ship to sink.

Currently, there are two other locations in Florida that have sunk large vessels.

In Key Largo, a 519-foot vessel was deployed in 2005 and in Key West, a 520-foot vessel was deployed in 2009. Both of those ships now make up the Spiegel Grove and Vandenberg Reefs.

“There are approximately 30 artificial reefs on the Treasure Coast,” Mr. Brady said. “Some are made up of smaller boats, some are made from con-what they would learn if they enrolled later in a 15-hour course. Once they complete the 15-hour course, which costs $40 for the first family member and $20 for each additional member, they can attend classes for free in the future at any location, Sgt. Cicio said.

The sheriff’s office has 12 instructors certified to teach the classes.

The classes empower women to take control of dangerous situations and avoid becoming part of one, he said.

The first part teaches them such things as where to park in a parking lot, making sure they have a charged cell phone to make emergency calls and to have an effective deadbolt on their door.

They’re taught how to carry themselves in public, using their voices to possibly scare off potential attackers. They’re taught ways to punch the attacker that are effective.

“Our hope is they never have to use what we teach them,” Sgt. Cicio said in regard to physical skills.

“We teach them to trust their gut feelings,” he said. “If your gut tells them something is wrong, they learn to avoid it,” he said.

In one session, instructors taught the women to use their voices to ward off attackers. One instructor told them to “not just say, ‘stay back,’ but to yell it.”

Donna Collins of Fort Pierce, who was among those practicing yelling stay back and other skills, said she decided to attend the class because her husband works some nights.

“I’m not really comfortable alone in the house,” she said.

Ms. Collins said she felt in view of that, it would be good to take the class.

Women interested in taking future classes can call (772) 871-5303 for more information.

Four of John Carroll High School's Seaside Soiree event planners, Jennifer Trefelner, Mary Anne Huck, Lauren Huck and Melanie Carr, look forward to hosting their exciting new event at the National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum.

New fundraiser planned for school

We are elated to announce that John Carroll High School is hosting an exciting new endeavor this year.

The school is joining forces with the National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum to host an amazing evening, using the impressive new museum facilities on North Hutchinson Island.

Recognizing the need to provide more financial assistance than ever for our students, we have modified our largest special event (formerly known as the 300 Club Gala) to better serve our community. In doing so, we have thoughtfully designed one of the most innovative events of the season.

The Seaside Soiree will be held on Friday, Feb. 3 beginning at 6 p.m. The evening will feature numerous gourmet food stations, cocktails, live music and an extensive silent auction.

This revolutionary event is an ideal platform to promote your business through sponsorship opportunities, which offer immense marketing perks.

We also encourage you to donate auction items for hundreds of guests to view. Tickets to the event are $75 per person and will be sold on a first come first served basis, so reserve your tickets today.

In addition to the party, we will be giving away up to $20,000 through a new drawing. In light of this special year, only 2,012 tickets will be sold for a donation of $50 each.You need not be present to win, but don't miss the excitement as the lucky ticket will be pulled at the party.

Our Seaside Soiree is an exciting new event and one which our alumni, parents, friends and community members will enjoy.

Thanks to you in advance for your support and especially to event sponsor Coastal Cyberknife Radiation Oncology for its generosity.

John Carroll High School, a nonprofit status school, serves students from St. Lucie, Martin, Indian River, Palm Beach, and Okeechobee counties.

For more information regarding the Seaside Soiree, please visit www.JohnCarrollHigh.com.

Jennifer Trefelner is accredited in public relations.

Blotter

reported some of the same exact items being taken as he claimed were stolen in the 2011 burglary.

Then a deputy searched the house and found some of the items reported stolen.

Apparently, investigators discounted the possibility that a repentant thief returned some of the loot.

The supposed victim admitted that he "may have padded" the insurance claim. He ended up being arrested and charged with insurance fraud.

It all goes to show that reruns may work for the television networks, but not in real life.

Apparently looking for free room and board

It isn't every day that police and passersby see someone with a sledgehammer hitting a light pole.

But in Fort Pierce recently, police confronted a man doing just that. He told them he no longer wanted to pay his bills. The man explained further that he decided to hit the light pole just after seeing a police officer coming down the street.

He was arrested on a criminal mischief charge and transported to jail where it might be harder for a debt collector to reach him.

Taking grocery bagging to a new level

Perhaps a Vero Beach woman thought she was actually trying to help a retailer and the environment by reusing used grocery bags.

She also saved them some labor by doing the bagging.

The only problem was that she did the bagging before reaching the cash register and left without paying for the items.

She ended up being arrested by the Indian River County Sheriff's Office on a shoplifting-related charge

What did I do?

Are there any attorneys out there who would like to represent a cat?

The cat seems to be an innocent victim in a deteriorating relationship between a man and his ex-wife in Port St. Lucie.

The man reported he attempted to return the cat to his ex-wife, but she refused it, which was in a container. The man put the container on the hood of the car driven by the ex-wife, who left without putting the container in her car.

When she stopped in a parking lot, the container fell, the door opened and the cat got out. The feline was retrieved and not seriously injured.

However, the ex-wife was arrested after being accused of punching her ex-husband.

Perhaps the cat should have run faster when the container door opened.

VIEWPOINT

Pop-up ads that promise better security

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

One of the pitfalls Web surfers are bound to encounter are the hideous advertisements that are created to look like official Windows messages.

If you've surfed the Web at all, then you've seen them; they look like regular Windows dialogue boxes complete with the red, round X that denotes a Windows error and an ominous message, such as, "your system is dangerously low on resources" or "your system is unprotected and is open to hackers."

Usually, these messages (after alarming you that something is wrong) will invite you to click what looks like a normal Windows button to resolve the problem. What happens when you click it? Nine out of 10 times, you are brought to a website selling some type of optimization or security software.

To make this tactic even more insidious, the messages usually will have the three standard buttons on the top, right-hand corner, the minimize, restore and close buttons. The deceptive part of including those three buttons within the ad is that they do not minimize, restore or close the ad. Usually, those buttons are a part of the advertisement and clicking "close" (or any of the other buttons) will give you the same result as if you had clicked the fake "OK" button.

Arghh! It's infuriating.

Another trend that seems to have taken the 'net by storm is sending pop-up messages that promise (of all the nerve) to stop pop-ups!

There ought to be a law, because that type of advertising is clearly intrusive and often deceptive.

Pop-ups can be controlled easily and for free by using a different Web browser than Internet Explorer (or using Explorer's pop up blocker) and by disabling the messenger service that Windows messenger pop-ups are using. Neither option has to cost money, nor does either option make you load yet another program to run in the background, like some of these pop-up blocker programs that are out there do.

I don't agree with the philosophy of selling a program to stop messenger pop-ups. It's like someone trying to sell you a special device to turn off your radio in the car; don't spend any money on it, just turn the knob.

Now remember, you can always see where you are going when you are about to click something online by looking at the status bar at the bottom of your browser window.

No status bar? That's OK; in your browser, click the "view" pull-down menu and click so a check mark appears next to "status bar." Now, you have one.

When you hold your mouse over a link in your Web browser, the URL or address where that link will take you is shown in the status bar before you click. If it is a genuine windows message, no address will appear in the status bar!

So, the next time you're online and you run across a "Windows message" telling you that you have a message waiting, or your system is not secure, take a look at the status bar as you hold your mouse button over the message's "close" button; does an address appear in the status bar?

If it does, you're looking at an ad, and feel free to click if you want to look at an ad. Or, you could do what I do and grit my teeth and ignore it.

Blood bowl mania?

Mitch Kloorfain/chief photographer

St. Lucie County Commissioners Chris Dzadovsky, Chris Craft and Port St. Lucie Mayor JoAnn Faiella got a taste of what it will be like to own the Blood Bowl trophy a special trophy made to drum up a little competition between St. Lucie County, the city of Port St. Lucie and the city of Fort Pierce. The largest blood drive in the state takes place Wednesday Nov 9 and Thursday Nov. 10. Several locations will be made available in St. Lucie County including the main location at Big Apple Pizza in Fort Pierce. The event is hosted by the Van Duzer Foundation and Florida's Blood Centers.

Letter

Occupy Port St. Lucie?

To the editor:

Attention! Calling all long-haired, maggot-infested, dope-smoking, bed-wetting, tree-hugging, union-thug liberals. Now is the time to come to the aid of your comrades, I mean party.

As you know, there have been numerous protests all across this great socialist land of ours, from New York to LA.

They're calling it Occupy Wall Street, never mind the fact that the generation before them was busy occupying Europe and killing Nazis when we were all still in Pampers and playing with our Barbie dolls. But so much for nostalgia. Protest, baby! And I, for one, don't want to be left (no pun intended) out.

And so, my fellow hippies, hooligans, troublemakers and rabble-rousers, I'm calling for Occupy Port St. Lucie! Yeah, that's right. And it starts right here, right now, on the steps of City Hall, with the mayor, the city commissioners and all those greedy department heads with their six-figure salaries and cushy pension plans.

So grab your sleeping bags, bongs, bell-bottoms, and Grateful Dead albums (I think they call them CDs now) and don't forget your lava lamps.

It might also be a good idea to bring along some protection, for when the Port St. Lucie Police break out the tear gas and Billy-clubs. Maybe the new Black Panthers are available; if they're not too busy harassing voters at the polls. It'll be like Woodstock all over again, man, without the bad acid and the rain.

And what is it we want? Well, we don't really know. But hey! That doesn't matter. We'll think of something, just as soon as, well, as soon as George Soros, Jimmy Hoffa Jr. and the DNC come up with some talking points.

Until then, sit back, relax, have a hit! But whatever you do, just don't bogart that joint, my friend.

Dogs and rain

Just when you think you've seen it all, you're proven wrong again. Seeing people walking their dogs in blinding, heavy downpours, flooded streets and high wind gusts we've had lately, is the latest seen it all news.

Women wearing hooded rain jackets, struggling to hold onto their umbrellas, leashes and doggie pooh-pooh bags is painfully difficult to watch. Most of these dogs are small to very small, which puts them pretty close to the ground. This doggie walking has really gone too far. I wonder how difficult it must be in retrieving wet pooh pooh, although I can't attest they do because of so much water.

These people have no clue in the handling of leashes. Usually they are much too long, which keeps these small dogs walking in the middle of the road. Our street floods easily, but cars rush through the water at 50 mph(not kidding) making huge wakes.

Watching these stupid people with a small animal on a long leash need educating. During a really hard rain on Oct. 31, a woman wearing rain gear, walking her very small dog on a long leash came leisurely walking our way. She was actually pushing and leaning on a walker. My question is; when dogs must do their jobs, does it not make sense to let them do this in their own damnable yard? This would only take a few minutes, be easier (and much safer).These people look like complete idiots all bundled up, umbrellas turned inside out, insisting their dogs pee pee in a raging downpour, three blocks from home.

These same people are probably very nice people, but evidently, not the sharpest knives in the drawer.

Halloween's for kids

What is it today with the trick or treating for children? When I was growing up we stopped trick or treating around 12 or 13. Today, when you hear a knock on Halloween, one is not surprised to see a 6 foot teen with a bag looking for candy. I would figure that a person would realize that they were a little too old for the ritual of trick or treating that in the past was for children!

I see more and more homes with their lights off on Halloween that feel as I do, and that is, that trick or treating is for children. I also wonder about the parents of these post-adolescent teens who figure it is OK to go out and be children again. When will they grow up?

More liberal wrongdoings

Another example of how liberal politicians are wrong but will not change. They must be voted out of office. California is all but bankrupt. But the Los Angeles City Council has voted unanimously in favor of financing the construction of a $1.2 billion football stadium. The money won't come from Los Angeles. The money won't come from Sacramento. They expect to get the money from us, by way of other liberal politicians, located in Washington, D.C.

We need a gas war

I remember back in the late 1960s Americans staged a "gas war," only going to certain gas stations with the lowest gas price. We won this year with the credit card fees. Let's all take part in another gas war even if you have to drive a few miles out of your way. This may just lower prices.

There is no gas shortage. My grandfather was a driver for a big oil company and he showed me eight to 10 fuel tankers anchored outside of several Florida ports just waiting for permission to unload with the big oil companies hoping to raise the price. That didn't happen. We need another gas war.

Tax code is outrageous

This country's Byzantine tax code is outrageous.

If you believe your tax return is complicated, think about the paperwork required of businesses.

General Electric pays 975 lawyers and tax accountants to read, analyze, complete and file its tax forms.

An accounting guru at MIT has studied the tax code and concluded, "whether the test is fairness of efficiency, the U.S. system gets really low marks."

Stop using our tax money

It is bad enough that we pay high taxes. When we learn that $9 million from President Obama's stimulus program went to 1,300 prisoners, it really hurts. It hurts even worse that a $5.8 billion program to encourage energy-saving home improvements sent checks to infants, prisoners and people who do not own homes.

Too many people have learned to bilk the system with impunity and the Obama administration allows them to use our tax money as cash machines.

Happy with car dealer

Yes, a local car dealer is outstanding.

I had a problem and the owner took care of it as if it were his own. Not many dealers can say that.

It was a small money issue and I am a new customer.

The car is one of the best I ever owned, a 2011 Altima.

So, as you can see, there are car dealers that treat you like family not just another sale. I hope we all can learn something from this. It's not all about money.

PORT ST. LUCIE

Special event weekend to promote businesses

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE — With the holiday season right around the corner, the city has spearheaded a city-wide sale involving a variety of small businesses in Port St. Lucie.

The building department waived the special-event permit fees necessary for businesses in the city for the weekend of Nov. 11 and 12.

"It is not only an opportunity for all the businesses in Port St. Lucie to promote themselves that weekend for free," said Joel Dramis of the building department, "but for local residents to find out what the business is all about and see what they have to offer."

To be qualified, businesses must have a current city business tax receipt and be in an area zoned commercial.

The special events the businesses might have on that day range from coupons to giveaways.

According to Mr. Dramis, more than 100 businesses have signed up for the weekend.

"There will be appliance stores, insurance companies, clothing stores, restraints and more," he said. "A lot of businesses will be participating."

An informal poll by the city's business department earlier in the year indicated positive interest in the event.

Businesses that are registered with the city for the special event weekend will also have their information posted on the city's website.

"There will be a special link on the website for residents to see what business is participating," Mr. Dramis said.

The information will include a description of the business, along with details on its special event.

"It shows people that they can shop Port St. Lucie first, without leaving the city," he said.

The event will not cost the city any money. The businesses went online to register for the event and the business department emailed permits back to them.

"The feedback we're receiving from the businesses has been all positive," Mr. Dramis said. "I am looking to do this two times a year, maybe again in the spring."

He said not only will businesses benefit from the extra promotion, possibly residents will, too.

"If just one business comes up to me and tells me that they hired just one additional person because of this, that would make it all worth it," he said.

identity theft.

She was arrested after a St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office detective got information suspecting her of passing a fraudulent prescription at drug store in Port St. Lucie in 2008.

The investigation, which also involved the participation of a Palm Beach County detective, found other instances where she is suspected of doing the same in Port St. Lucie and other locations.

"We have found where Combs has passed fraudulent prescriptions from Miami to Orlando on the east coast and in Collier County on the west coast," the affidavit states. "Combs and her accomplices would dress in medical scrubs and pose as home health care nurses picking up medication for patients. They would use people's identities that had insurance so the cost of the medication was minimal."

Steve Sessoms, an investigator with the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office, said that because of the insurance Ms. Combs and others were able to buy drugs at reduced prices and make huge profits selling them on the street.

In the case that led to her arrest, Ms. Combs is accused of dressing up like a nurse and picking up a prescription for a Miami man, the arrest affidavit said.

The prescription was purported to be from a doctor at the Miller School of Medicine at the University of Miami, the affidavit said.

But the Miami man to whom the prescription was written told the detective he never got a prescription for the drug and had never been to the drug store in St. Lucie County.

The physician also told the detective he had never written a prescription for the man.

The victim said in an interview last week that he has no idea how the woman could have obtained his personal identification information.

Detective Sessmons said that Ms. Combs and others involved in the drug ring likely got their information about people from an employee at a drug store. They haven't been able to confirm that, though, he added.

It is anticipated that the project will take approximately six years to complete.

"The fish will start showing up as soon as the ship hits the bottom," Mr. Brady said. "The key is putting the habitat back."

To help raise funds for the project, the group is holding a "Sink Our Ship" party from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Pelican Yacht Club in Fort Pierce.

Tickets are $50 per person, and available at the Fort Pierce City Marina, St. Lucie Outboard Marine and Whiticar Marine Services at Harbortown Marina.

City officials work to give veterans honor flight

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE — The wish of some veterans to visit the World War II and other memorials in Washington, D.C., is on its way to becoming reality, thanks to the work of Mayor JoAnn Faiella and Councilman Jack Kelly.

The two have been working diligently over the past month to find a way to send the city's veterans on their own flight to Washington as part of the Honor Flight program.

The Honor Flight program is a national network where veterans are flown to Washington to visit the war memorials. Locally, the closest one to Port St. Lucie is the Honor Flight of Southeast Florida in Martin County. Veterans are flown from the West Palm Beach airport.

When Paul Bisaccia first heard about the flights, he brought the idea to the members at St. Bernadette's Catholic Church Our Lady of Fatima Assembly 3090.

"We asked the organizers of the Honor Flights to give a presentation, and invited the mayor," he said. "She was so excited and her and the rest of the council are behind us 110 percent."

But because the program is so popular, there is a long waiting list for veterans to fly. And those veterans are running out of time.

"So far, two vets in Port St. Lucie have passed away since we started looking into this," Mayor Faiella said.

She said area veterans asked her to help bring the flights to the city.

"It's to reach a common goal and to give closure to the veterans."

She said officials from the Martin County Honor Flight met with her and local veterans, and was told the city's vets would have their own flight if they could raise the cost of the trip, estimated at $80,000.

"Once we get the money, all the vets in Port St. Lucie will be on a flight," she said.

Now the effort turns to raising the money to get the veterans there, and she isn't the only one on the council working toward that goal.

"Commissioner (Jack) Kelly is helping a lot with the fundraising, and we already have $3,000 raised toward the cause," she said. "And more fundraisers are in the works."

According to the mayor, there have been talks with the St. Lucie County firefighters about a fundraiser, as well as a future fundraiser at Club Med.

"We even have local store owners putting canisters in their stores to help us raise money," Mr. Bisaccia said. "We're growing more and more."

"It really worked out to be a good partnership," Mayor Faiella said. "The veterans are so excited that we are working together, and it's to reach a common goal."

The group is looking at a possible date in April for the flight, and a fund has already been set up for the money collected.

"We need to do this," Mayor Faiella said, "because they've done so much for us."

Food

ness about hunger and giving hunger a voice."

The food drive launched Oct. 15 and includes campaigns in Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River counties.

"At the holidays and especially Thanksgiving, food is really at the top of everybody's mind. Everybody has fond memories of sitting around the table sitting around the table with their families and sharing a meal," Ms. Cruz said.

"This is a good time to focus on people within our community who don't have this. They might have a table to sit around, but they don't have a meal to put on it."

Less than a month since its launch, the effort has already touched the hearts of several business executives and leaders of local organization, who are sending donations from across the region, said Angie Francalancia.

"Several businesses and civic organizations have donated hundreds of pounds of food from local food drives," she said.

The food bank is helping companies, communities, groups and individuals organize food drives.

The group also welcomes cash donations. For $25, it can provide a Thanksgiving dinner for a family of four.

For more information, donation sites in your county or to make a donation, call (772) 489-5676 or visit www.stophunger.org.

11-18 in area schools such as Westgate K-8 and St. Lucie West Centennial High School in Port St. Lucie. There is also a group starting at Manatee Academy and a pilot program starting at C.A. Moore Elementary in Fort Pierce.

In addition, a student-based county group is also active.

"The goal of the groups, and of tobacco prevention, is to change policies and help businesses create tobacco-free norms in the county," Ms. Bianco said.

"Currently the group is working on tobacco-free policies within the schools."

Part of the reason for that is the recent addition of candy-flavored tobacco in stores.

Ms. Bianco said since 2008, smoking rates have gone down in middle and high schools.

"But even with the decline, we have also seen an increase in the use of the flavored tobacco," she said.

The students recently visited government meetings with examples of the tobacco to show officials how the tobacco companies entice youth to start using.

Students will be at Westfest in Tradition on Nov. 18 to ask adults to sign the pledge cards. They will also make posters highlighting the day and the pledges.

"Once we receive the pledge cards, the people will receive follow-up information on how to stop using tobacco products," she said.

But that won't be the only activity planned.

On Nov. 16, Rick Bender, a semi-professional baseball player, will speak at Westgate K-8 and Indian River State College about the dangers of tobacco use. Mr. Bender, a former pitcher, lost the mobility in his right arm, as well as his jaw, because of using spit tobacco.

In 2012, the group will complete a Florida youth substance survey, and compare those results to one taken in 2010.

"Hopefully, it will show results of all the work the students have done," Ms. Bianco said.

For information on stopping tobacco use, or to pick up pledge cards, contact Ms. Bianco at (772)785-6135.

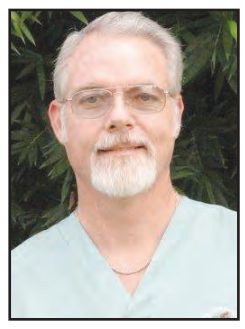
Pancreatitis
by Patrick Kelly, DVM



677584

As we approach the holiday season, we veterinarians prepare for an increase in the cases of pancreatitis. The pancreas is an organ attached to the small intestine.

It serves two basic functions:

• The endocrine side produces insulin which enables the body to process glucose. Glucose is the body's main energy source.

• The exocrine side produces enzymes to digest food. Food must be digested in order for the intestines to absorb the nutrients contained in the food consumed.

When a pet consumes food that is high in fat, the pancreas gets overworked, swells and actually leaks enzymes into the abdominal cavity. This causes autodigestion and is very painful and can even cause death. The most common cause of pancreatitis we see in veterinary practice is when pets are fed people food. We see the most cases of pancreatitis the days after Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. The clinical signs of pancreatitis include vomiting, diarrhea, fever, painful abdomen, and inappetance. Untreated cases can cause death.

Treatment is usually supportive with iv fluids, hospitalization, antibiotics, anti-emetics, and antidiarrheals. We often withhold food in dogs for several days to give the pancreas a chance to settle down. Feeding a dog with pancreatitis literally fuels the fire, stimulating the pancreas to produce more enzymes. A new treatment for severe cases of pancreatitis is hyperbaric chamber treatment. Some patients require surgery and drains. Management of dogs and cats with pancreatitis is done with a high fiber, low fat diet. Prevention is the key. We cannot say this loudly enough or more emphatically, DO NOT GIVE PETS PEOPLE FOOD!

Discussing pancreatitis with clients is a daily occurrence. Pancreatitis does not happen to every pet fed people food, but the risk is certainly much higher. The human analogy is not all smokers die of lung cancer, but your odds certainly go up if you do.

Pet owners often equate food with love. I am all for spoiling our pets, but this can be accomplished without endangering their health and lives. Have a safe holiday season!

New housing program to help veterans

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — A housing program recently developed by St. Lucie Habitat for Humanity will focus on helping local veterans with finding homes to call their own.

The program, called the Veterans Housing Program, came into being about two months ago.

"We developed it in-house, based on the need in our community," said Garrett Grabowski, executive director for St. Lucie Habitat for Humanity.

The nonprofit has been operating in St. Lucie County since 1996, and to date, has helped 48 families find housing.

This program is slightly different from the one currently in use.

While the model still incorporates applicants with lower incomes, it will also focus on veterans who have left military service.

"The regular program follows the single-family home ownership," he said. "This one opens up the choices not just for houses, but for condominiums and townhomes, as well."

Qualified applicants will apply directly to the organization, which, upon approval, will arrange the mortgage and payments.

"Everyone needs housing, but there seems to be an emphasis on veterans," he said. "With the unwinding of the wars, there will be more people returning, and they will need housing. Why can't we as an organization help people like this?"

If needed, the group will also remodel homes to help an applicants with any disabilities they might have.

"We thought we could fit a more specific need for a veteran, especially if they are disabled," he said. "As we get more into the program, we will adapt to the individual applicant's needs."

Volunteers will help the organization make the needed repairs, but Mr. Grabowski said community support is needed for the veterans program to be successful.

"There's not a lot of grants out there, so we need to raise the money from the community," he said.

"People can really rally behind this and help with the fundraising and the remodeling."

The organization just signed a contract on a home in Fort Pierce that it will be remodeling specifically for the veterans program.

"It's a two-bedroom house, so it's too small for a family, but is the right size for a veteran," he said.

The organization is currently accepting applications from area veterans for the program, and Mr. Grabowski is looking forward to not only response from the veterans, but from community volunteers, as well.

"We feel that the community can give back to those who gave so much to us," he said.

Mexican restaurant keeps it authentic

Ramon Rodriguez, owner and manager of Zapata's Mexican Grill in Port St. Lucie, is ready to serve you his award-winning food.

Staff photo by Dawn Krebs

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE — When I first entered Zapata's Mexican Grill, I knew I was in for some authentic Mexican cuisine.

The smell of peppers and tomatoes blended with the faint sounds of Mexican music.

I realized as soon as I entered the restaurant I had a choice to make: do I go into the busy bar area, where a crowd of people were gathered, or do I venture into the quieter, but still crowded, dining area of the restaurant?

In the end, my stomach won out, and I and my dining companion soon found ourselves nestled comfortably in a booth, with a bowl of warm tortilla chips and a side of homemade salsa in front of us.

The owner and manager of the store, Ramon Rodriguez, took over the restaurant about six years ago, and has worked hard to keep the atmosphere and the food as authentic as possible.

"It's Mexican food with a Southwestern flair," he said. "I wanted to make fresh food at an affordable price."

Mr. Rodriguez is definitely doing something right, since his establishment was recently voted the best Mexican restaurant in the county in a recent poll.

One of the things that makes the restaurant stand out from the rest is its attention to its customers. With every activity, it puts customers first.

For example, from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, there is a complimentary, all-you-can-eat taco bar set up in the bar area. Happy hour is all day in the bar, and spills over into the dining room from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. every day and includes margaritas.

On Monday nights, kids eat free for the families who come out, and there's even a smoking area.

In addition to the friendly atmosphere, the food will keep people coming back.

Looking over the menu, I quickly realized that everything is homemade.

I ordered the Acapulco chicken, a customer favorite, and my dining companion ordered the platillo de Zapata.

Drama concert supports AIDS

By Dawn Krebs

PORT ST. LUCIE — St. Lucie West Centennial High School is showcasing the best of its drama and musical theater classes in a fundraiser to benefit an organization that spreads awareness of AIDS.

Approximately 30 students will perform a variety of monologues, skits and musical numbers in "Broadway Cares!" taking place at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 16.

"The students have done this project every year," said Samantha LaCroix, drama specialist at Centennial. "They've been practicing since the beginning of the school year."

According to Ms. LaCroix, "Broadway Cares!" is an organiza-

It's time to have a little fun and get in the holiday spirit. If you allow other things to get in the way, don't blame the universe for any unhappiness. It's all up to you.

tion in New York that raises money and awareness of the AIDS virus. Schools all over the country take part in the fundraiser by doing their own performances.

At Centennial High School, half the money raised the night of the performance will go to the drama department, while the other half will be sent to New York to benefit the charity.

"Most of the acts will involve only one to two students so they're individual talents can be showcased," Ms. LaCroix said.

In addition to the acting students, students taking Dorothy Costello's musical theater classes will also perform.

Students auditioned for the 90-minute show and Ms. LaCroix said she is excited about what will be performed.

"They're all different scenes, and it's a beautiful smorgasbord of theater," she said.

"I love watching the students grow both as actors and as people."

"Broadway Cares!" will be performed at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at the St. Lucie West Centennial Auditorium. Cost is $5 for adults and $3 for students. For more information, call (772) 785-6660.

West and Vero Beach.

"We believe in helping our neighbors in need and we know that's important to our customers as well," said Randy Hicks, president and chief concept officer of Bob Evans restaurants.

"This effort gives back locally to the soup kitchens, shelters and other agencies that support the needy in our restaurants' communities."

The program started as a grassroots effort by restaurant teams last holiday season, when employees used funds donated by customers to buy local charities a Farmhouse Feast dinner.

After hearing about these local efforts, the corporation wanted to help in a larger way. Many restaurants will still be taking donations to purchase Farmhouse Feasts this year.

The Bob Evans Farmhouse Feast, is a complete holiday meal to go ready to heat at home, serve and enjoy.

The Farmhouse Feast serves up to eight, and comes complete with choice of a slow-roasted, whole boneless turkey breast or sliced boneless ham, bread and celery dressing, mashed potatoes with gravy, buttered sweet corn, green beans with ham, cranberry relish, rolls, a loaf of pumpkin bread and a pumpkin pie with whipped topping all for less than $10 per person.

The Farmhouse Feast allows families to enjoy a wholesome, delicious holiday feast without all the worry, time consuming preparation or heavy duty post-meal clean-up.

Guests can order their feast at any Bob Evans Restaurant or from their computer or mobile phone at www.bobevans.com and schedule a pick-up date.

Quantities are limited, so ordering early is highly recommended.

Bob Evans Restaurants are closed on Thanksgiving and Christmas Day and close early on Christmas Eve.

The Bob Evans Farmhouse Feast is $74.99 and serves six to eight people.

For larger families, additional servings of turkey or ham, bread, sides and desserts may be added a la carte.

The Farmhouse Feast is available throughout November and December for all holiday entertaining.

very healthy approach.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22

See, it works. Taking time for fun things has psyched you up and you are feeling better. Take action on your main plans while you are on this natural high. The odds of success are in your favor. Your power of communication is especially strong right now. When you speak, others listen. Why? Because you speak from your heart.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Recent changes are beginning to work in positive ways for you. You don't worry as much as you used to. You are more at peace with yourself and the world. You have a renewed sense of purpose. You are sensing things around you more. Keep up these new spiritual habits and life will show you positive gain for at least three months.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22

You are the eternal optimist. Your powerful heart always gives others the benefit of the doubt. Your mind is sharp. Your heart is open and your spirit is strong. You were born to create and inspire others ready to fly. All great motivators say that how you deal with downturns are the most important. You are the master motivator at doing this.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21

You have a magical soul. Keep on following your dreams and you will see a positive explosion of your greatest dreams coming true. Remain true to your own desires and you will earn the proper respect. You can do all this and more. Why? Because you work so hard. You are on the right track. You deserve the best because you give the best.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You function best when you are able to do what you love. You are a high hearted person. It will soon be your time as the zodiac leader. Venus in Sagittarius gives you an emotional edge and is preparing you to bring us safely into the holidays. Get a lot of the little things done so your spirit and mind can stay sharp on all the fun things to enjoy.

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Setting priorities is a major key to your future success. Put your faith and trust in the universe, not so much in others. Take life one day at a time and you will feel the forward movement. Life continues to bless you. Your nurturing of others is paying off. Your natural vision and rhythm will continue to bless and move you forward.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Your greatest gift is your strong spirit. Your natural passion for life is contagious for those around you. It rubs off. You always have a kind word. Your feelings run deep. Sometimes you try to do too much. No reason to burn out now. When you tire, take a break, get a second wind and then move forward and on to victory.

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20

Your energy is stronger this week. The moon in Pisces gives you an edge in heart energy. A healing is taking place. Your natural open heartedness will let the healing continue. This positive flow of energy will give you plenty of pep and will keep you going through the holidays. Your capacity to do what you love is legendary you know.

Recipes for homemade, yummy apple, pecan pies

Hello, smart shoppers. Hope you had a good week. Check out all of my holiday recipes on my website or at myhometownnews.net.

This week we will make apple pies. If you don't like apple pie you've never had one homemade.

The biggest job in making apple pie is the peeling and the slicing. When we first came to Florida in 1974, I couldn't seem to find any good apples at a price I wanted to pay. Certain apples, such as McIntosh, are not suitable for pies. They turn into applesauce.

What always bothered me about apple pie is that unless you first poach the apples, which is more work, once the pie was baked there was a large space between the filling and the top crust.

I tried something that was so successful I make my apple pies no other way. Canned pie-sliced apples are wonderful. I don't mean pie filling that is seasoned, I mean just apples in water. They are made by many companies and are sold in most supermarkets.

APPLE PIE
One 9-inch pie

If you choose to use fresh apples you must use a tart, firm apple. Varieties such as Golden Delicious, Cortland, Brae burn, Spartan and Granny Smith are your best choices.

1-1/2 20-ounce cans sliced apples, drained, or five to seven tart apples, peeled, cored, and thinly sliced
3/4-cup sugar OR half sugar and half Splenda sugar substitute
1/4-cup dark brown sugar (packed)
1 tablespoon flour
1/2-teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
Dash salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or butter substitute

Roll out dough to fit a 9-inch pie pan. Trim even with rim of pan. Mix all ingredients except butter together and add to apples. Place in prepared pan, dot with butter.

Roll top crust and place on top of apples. Trim with scissors so crust extends 1/2-inch beyond rim. Carefully lift top crust around edges and moisten bottom crust with water. Fold top crust over bottom crust and press together. Flute edges to create a ripple effect with your fingers or press all around with the tines of a fork.

Using scissors, cut slits or curved slits to resemble a tree branch with leaves in the top crust. Brush crust with milk and sprinkle generously with sugar. Do not put milk or sugar on the edges.

Bake on a cookie sheet in the lower third of a preheated 425-degree oven for 10 minutes. Lower temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking for 30 minutes, until crust is golden and filling is bubbly.

To save pie for future use, prepare but do not slit crust or brush with milk. Freeze unbaked. To use, thaw for three to five hours on countertop or overnight in the refrigerator. Bake as directed. If pie is still frozen simply bake a little longer until bubbly.

To make many pies, triple the shaker pie crust recipe. The following will make approximately one large, four medium and one small apple pies, along with enough dough for at least two pumpkin pies and some pie crust cookies.

Seven 20-ounce cans sliced apples, drained
4 cups sugar OR half sugar and half Splenda sugar substitute
3/4-cups dark brown sugar, packed
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1/2-teaspoon nutmeg
Juice of 1-1/2 lemons
2 tablespoons butter or butter substitute for each pie

Follow above instructions. Do not mix ingredients with apples until crusts are prepared — the sugars and salt will produce too much liquid.

PECAN PIE

High fat, high cholesterol, this must be a "special occasion" dessert.

3 large eggs
1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter or butter substitute
2-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Dash of salt
1 cup pecan halves or pieces (pieces make it easier to cut the pie)
1 unbaked deep-dish 9-inch pie shell

Using a whisk, beat eggs slightly. Add next five ingredients, then pecans. Pour into pie shell.

Bake on a cookie sheet in a preheated 400-degree oven 15 minutes. Lower temperature to 350 and continue baking 30 to 35 minutes. Filling should be slightly less set in center than around edges.

Cool, chill and serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

NOTE: Remember, check store brands for corn syrup; better price.

DINING & ENTERTAINMENT

Mexican

Our dinners soon arrived on plates that were almost as big as the table where we were seated.

My Acapulco chicken was topped with Monterrey jack cheese and sat on a bed of Spanish rice and black beans. Pico de gallo and plantains rounded out the dish.

The chicken was delicious, and had a nice spicy flavor that was not too hot. The pico de gallo gave me that extra little kick with the addition of jalapenos. My black beans were amazing, full of flavor, and the plantains were perfectly fried and crispy to bite into, while staying moist inside.

The platillo de Zapata was a combination of Chile relleno, chicken flauta and a seasoned ground beef enchilada, with the sides of refried beans and Spanish rice. The Chile relleno came with a choice of ranchero or raspberry sauce.

The raspberry sauce was a delightful surprise and its slightly spicy taste complimented the chicken perfectly. A sprinkling of raisins and almonds over the sour cream on the plate was a nice touch, and added extra sweetness.

If you aren't in a chicken mood, there's also a large variety of steak and seafood dishes to choose from.

In addition to the dinners, there's also an entire page devoted to lunches.

One of the things I like about this restaurant is that if your can't make up your mind about what you want to try, there are dishes available that allow you to combine two or even three different choices into one meal.

For those who still have room, Zapata's also has many choices of desserts from the tres leche cake to fried ice cream.

If you love Mexican food, bring your appetite, relax and enjoy.

Zapata's Mexican Grill is located at 6700 S. U.S. 1 in Port St. Lucie. It is open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., and on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Gift certificates are available. For more information, call (772) 464-7288 or go online to www.zapatas.food.officelive.com

Shop Smart at Nutrition S'Mart

By Tony DeAngelis

NUTRITION S'MART
ORGANIC FOOD & VITAMIN CENTER

35 years ago I was a young engineer possibly on his death bed with a mystery disease. I survived with an interest in treating health issues beyond the medical model. I studied and took courses in almost all areas of alternative medicine started a small part-time healthcare business in New York. Finally, I received a Masters degree in Nutrition and became a Registered Dietitian.

Retiring early from Engineering, I moved to Florida, and bought the Center for Natural Healthcare in Deerfield Beach. There we were medically supervised by a staff MD and had a Chiropractor available on site. We also had three massage therapists and three hypno-therapists on staff. Not knowledgeable in management of such a complex practice, the business failed and I purchased Healthy Heart Health Center (HHHC) in the Jupiter/Juno Beach area.

At HHHC, which started as a health food store, we gradually built a clinical practice on the premises. This business stayed open for eight years until it no longer was profitable and I lost interest in retail merchandising.

In semi-retirement I maintain a private practice specializing in complementary medicine, basing my nutritional protocols on the routine blood tests done by most physicians. Physicians use these tests for diagnosis and treatment of medical problems. My system uses these tests to recommend nutritional programs to optimize blood parameters using natural remedies.

I have many friends at many health food stores but a couple of years ago I became acquainted with the owners of Nutrition S'Mart and we have made arrangements for my becoming a consultant to their firm.

Their successful business model has allowed them to open new stores at an unprecedented rate for a privately held corporation. They now operate six stores in Florida. This success is based on a simple business model where less money is spent on advertising and more is spent on attracting and retaining the individual customer through community outreach and education. Let's explore what is in store for you at Nutrition S'Mart.

They have a reasonable amount of fresh, organic fruits and vegetables with only a few occasional exotics. They can, therefore, deliver high quality produce at attractive prices.

They have a well- maintained bulk food department where nuts, grains, seeds and snack foods may be purchased at a fraction of the price of prepackaged products.

Nutrition S'Mart have a large selection of refrigerated products, breads, frozen foods, gluten-free foods, prepackaged convenience foods, snacks and cereals, and health and beauty aids.

They have a well-stocked supplement and sports nutrient depart-ment all sold at reduced prices. This department is staffed with a knowledgeable employee at all times to help guide your product purchase decisions.

Nutrition S'Mart have a full-time employee who is involved in community outreach and consumer education. There are frequent seminars held in the store and at other community gatherings.

Lastly, they have arranged for me to provide scheduled appointments, free of charge to you. These appointments, valued at up to $75, guarantee you at least 30 minutes to discuss your health issues.

MINI IMPLANTS

Many denture wearers are dissatisfied or even upset because they can't eat many of the foods they crave. Pastes, pads and worry about embarrassing slips and slides are a way of life.

Dr. James Strawn has been practicing general dentistry on the Treasure Coast for over twenty years. Many of his patients wear dentures with varying degrees of success.
"Even a perfect fit may not provide the ability and comfort most people wish for," he said recently, "and lets face it, we're using a treatment method that hasn't changed much over the last hundred years. That is until now!"

About two years ago, Dr. Strawn began offering a new way to stabilize dentures with mini implants. "This has opened a whole new world of ability and comfort, and is life-changing in most cases," he stated. One patient exclaimed that to him it is the biggest human advance since the discovery of water, he is so happy to have teeth that feel solid when he talks and enjoys a meal. "I don't feel so much like an old man anymore."

And it is surprisingly simple and affordable, according to Dr. Strawn. "If a person's current denture is in good working condition, we can usually match it up to the new mini implants. That is a big savings right there," he said. The mini implants themselves are much less expensive than conventional implants. Minis are about one third as wide, so there is usually no need for extensive bone removal or gum surgery or months of healing. In most cases, the implants are immediately solid enough to connect to the denture and the patient walks out the first day with a stabilized denture. Each patient is shown how to snap the denture in over the implants and unsnap it too.

Also, because the mini implants are so small, they can be used in situations where there would not be enough bone for conventional implants. "Every person is different" said Dr. Strawn, "but we have found very few people who could not benefit from this treatment."

A question we are often asked is, how long will they last, and how much maintenance is involved?" said Dr. Strawn, He continued, "My goal for each case is ten years or more. Mini implants have an excellent long term track record and have been classified by the FDA as such. Success can be affected by a person's overall health and the condition of the bone to be implanted, but we are very pleased with the results we are getting, and the patients are delighted".

According to Dr. Strawn, a regular check-up and cleaning schedule is important for maintaining the function and health of the implants. While decay is no longer an issue, tartar and plaque can accumulate to cause gum inflammation and create a problem. The flexible o-rings that provide the denture grip on the implants also need to be changed about once a year. Check ups also allow for the denture itself to be checked and adjusted as needed.

Dr. James Strawn

When its time for a new denture, can the same implants be used to hold it in? "Yes, answers Dr. Strawn, as long as they are solid in place and the tissues are in good shape. We design the new denture to snap into them and continue the benefits of comfort and the solid feel.

Another frequently asked question is how much discomfort and down time do patients experience after implant placement. "I often compare this to having a tooth extracted" said Dr. Strawn. "The amount of discomfort can vary for each person, but we tailor every approach to control it so that the post operative period is as smooth and easy as possible.

Dr. Strawn offers a free consultation for all who wish to consider mini implants.

County extension program provides unique community outreach

By Ryan Lacher
Special to Hometown News

ST. LUICE COUNTY — Explorers at Adams Ranch in western St. Lucie County trudged into the dark forest one Friday night in late October with bat detectors, night vision goggles and flashlights. The interactive program, "Creatures of the Night", allowed participantsto discover life after dark as they ventured into the habitats of nocturnal animals.

The "Creatures" excursion is just one of many interactive programs that the University of Florida's St. Lucie County Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Extension hosts every month. Programs and events are available to get the community involved and provide educational experiences for all ages.

Lesley Vincent-Ryder, an education coordinator for the Manatee Observation and Education Center in Fort Pierce, along with Ken Gioeli and Anita Neal, UF's St. Lucie County IFAS Extension agents, hosted the event at Adams Ranch. As one of the largest cattle ranching operations in the U.S., it is home to an array of native wildlife and plants.

Ms. Neal, a horticultural agent and director of the St. Lucie County Extension, and Mr. Gioeli, a natural resource agent with St. Lucie County Extension,spoke about various insects and bats that are native to Florida and the ranch.The agents set up insect collectors to teach participants about moths, spiders and more. They led the group into the forest with night-style equipment to listen to bats and discover nocturnal wildlife. Spaces were limited to 25 registrants. The event lasted about three hours. But the St. Lucie County IFAS Extension branches beyond scientific research and development and "Creatures" is just one example of what they offer the community. They also work with the IFAS Research and Education Center to provide outreach programs that assist local citizens with their daily needs.

"One of the unique things that we have access to is all of UF's research," Gioeli said. "It's a nice way for us to be able to deliver the inventions that are being discovered by researchers and put them to good use in the community."

Each agent at the Extension has an advisory committee made up of community leaders and members of the general public who are interested in particular topics,Gioeli said.They meet a minimum of twice a year to determine community needs and brainstorm issues.

One department is the Family and Consumer Sciences, which involves a cluster of categories such asfood, nutrition and health, housing and home environment and family economic stability.These programs seek to help families function on their own strength and to assist individuals and families to feel confident in coping with the complexities of change. The agents provide advice, resources, daily assistance and programs that are available to help you live a healthy and safe lifestyle.

The department also provides outreach by having agents teach in four elementary schools and about 80 classrooms to provide nutrition education for kindergarten through second grade students, said Karla Lenfesty, a Family and Consumer Sciences agent.

"We've seen a lot of feedback on that which has been very successful," Lenfesty said. "The kids are the best teachers obviously."

The Windstorm Damage Mitigation Training and Demonstration Center, also known as the Hurricane House, makes a huge contribution to the department by providing extensive hurricane preparedness and household safety tips.

The Hurricane House is one of four in the state and centrally located for the sake of convenient public access, said Ms. Lenfesty.Located at the St. Lucie County Cooperative Extension facility on Picos Road in Ft. Pierce, it is a demonstration center for public and building trades to learn about wind-resistant construction. Tours are available.

Hurricane preparedness classes also provide training that teaches individuals how to properly install shutters and check for home for health hazards. It is a full, hands-on experience that covers all angles, Ms. Lenfesty said.

Another department is environmental horticulture. The program for homeowners involves master gardeners, who are trained volunteers through UF's Extension office, and other plant pathologists who work in the community.

Plant clinics and farmer's markets are common and provide advice for plant owners, Ms. Neal said. Other outreach programs are the edible landscape, with stations filled with master gardeners and agents giving advice on landscapes, plant fashion shows, festivals promoting tropical awareness and free tree giveaways.

Youth outreach is available through summer camps ranging from insect outlook to nutritional and fitness values.

"When you can put children into environments that are healthy it gives them the sense of working with a group that can be productive instead of destructive," Ms. Neal said.

Treasure Coast falls short of postseason

By Patrick Bernadeau
For Hometown News

ST LUCIE COUNTY — For three quarters, it was a back-and-forth affair between two teams fighting for the final playoff spot in their district.

But once the final whistle blew 12 minutes later, Vero Beach would prove to be too much for the Treasure Coast Titans.

On a perfect night to play football, with temperatures dipping into the 50s, the Titans found themselves on the short end of a 35-24 result against the visiting Vero Beach Indians Friday night at South County Regional Stadium in Port St. Lucie.

After winning the district championship last year in his first year as head coach, the loss, coupled with an early season loss to district champion Centennial on Oct. 10, eliminated Treasure Coast (4-4, 0-2) and head coach Irvin Jones from postseason contention.

"It was a heavyweight bout, blows going back and forth" Jones said. "You hate to lose, but my hat goes off to them. Our boys played their hearts out as well, but unfortunately for us, they (Vero) came out on top."

The victory makes Vero Beach (8-1, 4-4) the District 8-8A runner-up.

"I don't think it was a secret, everyone knew what was riding on this game," Vero Beach head coach Lenny Jankowski said.

"We were both in the same boat. I'm just very pleased with our effort, it's a great feeling and I'm very proud of our kids."

With so much on the line, this matchup pitted two of area's best quarterbacks against one another: Vero Beach's Nick Madden and Treasure Coast's Travares Copeland.

Copeland and the Titans jumped out of ahead by a score of 17-7 midway through the second quarter after Shadrach Alexander scored on a 9-yard touchdown run, Alexander's second touchdown on the night.

A pivotal Vero Beach response doubled as the most crucial drive of the game late in the second quarter.

Pinned down on their 5-yard line and with momentum in favor of the Titans for much of the first half, the Indians, led by Madden, drove 95 yards down the field, culminating with a scrambling Madden finding Nate Pryor at the pylon to complete the 10-play march and cut the deficit to 17-14 just before halftime.

Putting points on the board heading into the second half was big according to Jankowski.

"We talk about that on a pretty regular basis, about the last 5 minutes of the first half and the first 5 minutes in the second half." Jankowski said.

"We had a big momentum swing and to be able to take the ball 95 yards, get in and score there to give us a chance going into halftime was huge."

Vero Beach would gain the lead on their first possession of the third period when Madden, after getting a Titan safety to bite on a beautiful play action fake, found a wide open Rakeem Marcelle in the back of the end zone, 21-17.

Copeland answered immediately on the following Titan possession scoring on a 5-yard touchdown run, but that's last time Copeland and Titans would light up the scoreboard. Copeland completed just 11 of his 30 passing attempts but threw 174 yards and one touchdown. He added another 69 yards and one touchdown on the ground.

His counterpart however, wasn't finished.

Madden was able to find Pryor once again, this time from 20 yards out, for the game's fourth and final lead change. Madden added a QB sneak to put the game on ice. Vero Beach's junior quarterback finished 12 for 23 for 226 yards and four touchdowns (three passing, one rushing).

"It feels great," Madden commented after the game on making the playoffs. "There was some pressure but we had to come out with a big win."

The Indians will play their final regular season game at home against Santaluces, while Treasure Coast will end their season on the road at Palm Bay. Both games will be played this Friday at 7 p.m.

You can fit in a quick round even while traveling with non-golfers

STAMMER

Traveling with your family can be great fun. Trying to satisfy your desire to play golf when your other half is interested in other ways of relaxing can be a daunting task. Sometimes it's best to compromise.

I did just that a few weeks back when I found a nice executive course and played in fewer than three hours.

While in Tampa and Clearwater, my family wanted to spend time at the beach and at the ballgame. I wanted to play more golf. My family likes to sleep in, so I did some searching and discovered Clearwater Executive Golf Course.

Designed by my friend Ron Garl, this sweet track opened in 1972. The course features three sets of tees and plays to a par of 63 from as long as 4,350 yards.

The course is one of three owned and operated by the City of Clearwater and is adjacent to the air park, which means not too many trees or scenery. A couple of the par-4s run along the air park or a highway, which makes for a somewhat stressful tee shot. When the wind picks up, some holes can be quite challenging.

The course has nine par-4s and nine par-3s. Several of the par-4s play to nearly 400 yards from the back tees. The par-3s come in many shapes and sizes, with the longest playing to 217 yards, which means you will likely hit every club in your bag during your round.

You begin your round on a par-3 and play to 170 yards from the tips. From there, it's on to the longest par-4 on the course. The front nine has five par-3s, each playing to a different yardage. You likely won't hit the same club from the tee on more than two of them. The front side finishes up with a couple of short par-4s that will tempt the long hitter.

The back side features the longest and the shortest of the par-3, as well as the shortest par-4 on the property. The 11th may be the most difficult hole on the course. This 374-yard par-4 runs alongside Keene Road. If you play your tee shot too far right to avoid the road, you will likely find yourself with a blind second shot over one of the few strands of trees on the course.

Your round ends with the 251-yard, par-4 18th. The elevated green is well guarded by bunkers and trees, but it's a great risk/reward hole where one can make up a couple of strokes.

Many locals play here after work or early on the weekends to get a quick golf fix. Families also enjoy the course as it doesn't put pressure on beginners to hit the ball great distances.

For more information, call (727) 447-5272.

After golf, a nice meal is always welcome. Being a fan of both football and food, I had to try out Lee Roy Selmon's (www.leeroy-selmons.com, 727-216-6566) in Palm Harbor. Selmon's offers southern cooking and barbeque at its very best.

The restaurant was founded by NFL Hall of Famer and Tampa Bay Buccaneer Lee Roy Selmon. This great and humble man passed away this past summer, but his legacy and the seeds he planted carry on at his restaurants.

Selmon was one of nine children of Jessie and Lucious Selmon. Growing up farmers, they learned to harvest the land, and Jessie's succulent southern cooking is what you enjoy at Selmon's.

We enjoyed Mama's meatloaf, fried green tomatoes, brisket, tender ribs, the best smoked chicken I have ever tasted and platters of fresh vegetables, including a fantastic corn casserole. All of the food is fresh and prepared on-site. The smokers in the back fill the air in the parking lot, which adds to the anticipation.

We even found room for dessert. The bread pudding and pecan pie hit the spot.

If you're looking for great, fresh southern cooking, Selmon's is the place in the Tampa area.

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — The Treasure Coast Food Bank, a nonprofit organization made of volunteers, and Saint Lucie Lanes, a family entertainment center, have agreed to partner to meet the needs of the community during Thanksgiving.

The Food Bank distributes more than 5 million pounds of food a year. This year the need is greater and shelves are empty. The Food Bank and Saint Lucie Lanes must break last year's record to feed everyone in need.

Saint Lucie Lanes has agreed to serve as a drop-off point for canned goods, house supplies and personal hygiene products culminating with the inaugural Turkey Bowl on Nov. 19 from noon- 5p.m.

The event will feature two games of bowling and bowling shoes for $25 per family sporting the theme "Feed a Family With Your Family."

A family, in this case, means two adults and kids bowl free.

Local businesses have been generous in donating prizes to be raffled including a Motorola Xoom Tablet with a 32-gig hard drive.

Raffle tickets will be available at www.stophunger.org and at Saint Lucie Lanes

To add to the fun, there will be an actual "Turkey Bowl," where participants of the bowl-a-thon can bowl a real turkey down the lane for only an additional $1 per person.

The winner of this mini - competition will receive the coveted turkey trophy.

This is a food drive, and anyone who chooses to bring a frozen turkey to donate will get a free Turkey Bowl roll and a free raffle ticket.

The Treasure Coast Food Bank pantry truck will be on hand all day to collect turkeys and other food donations.
