Commissioners want fewer impact fees for businesses

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — County staff will be working on a new plan to present to county commissioners that lowers non-residential traffic impact fees, but first, it's going to be study time.

During the Oct. 23 meeting, Indian River County commissioners heard a report from Bob Keating, community development director, about ideas to keep non-residential transportation impact fees low and lower.

Commissioners made clear their desire to have a scope of service study, lowering fees for commercial industries, making changes to the fee for existing businesses that want to expand, all with the premise that whatever the staff brings back is legally defensible in court.

Commissioner Joe Flescher called the levels of some of the county's impact fees "draconian" and urged staff to find a way to remove a financial burden from existing businesses looking to grow and flourish in the community.

Some of the ideas staff has already presented include consolidating impact fee categories to reduce overall fees, using the studies to update the numeric

Fly-in marks Piper anniversary

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — All of 2012 has been a year of celebration for Piper Aircraft and Nov. 9-11, the 75th anniversary party, will finish it with an aviation extravaganza.

That weekend, more than 50 airplanes — the majority of them Piper models — will descend from the skies to the ground in Vero Beach as owners and other special invited guests come to visit.

The fly-in weekend celebration is not open to the public, however, the view of the planes landing or taking off from CJ Cannons restaurant will be excellent, said Jackie Carlon, Piper spokeswoman.

"About 22 are scheduled to fly in mass on Friday," she said.

River races to raise funds for nonprofit

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

SEBASTIAN — Kayaks, canoes, stand-up paddleboards and more will fill the St. Sebastian River on Nov. 17 for a day of racing.

Recreational and competitive paddlers will come together for "Up the River with a Paddle," a fundraiser for By the River, a nonprofit senior living community in Sebastian.

The event starts at 9 a.m. and the aquatic competitions will begin at 10 a.m. at Dale Wimbrow Park on Roseland Road in Sebastian, said Sita Gange Harrison, public relations coordinator for By the River.

Mike and Kristen Beck of Florida Outdoor Center have helped organize the event for the second consecutive year, and this year promises to be even bigger than last year, she said.

All human-powered craft will be allowed to compete, including canoes, kayaks, row boats and paddleboards, Mrs. Beck said.

The event is a sanctioned American Canoe Association event, she said.

Race lengths will vary based on age and skill level.

The entry fees begin at $5 for children younger than 14 and are $35 for individual adult racers. The entry fees for the different team races vary.

Early bird registration will continue through Nov. 10 and includes a free T-shirt and swag bag.

Watercrafts are available to rent.

"Right now we have 25 teams signed up," said Ms. Harrison.

Voters' guide to 12 proposed state amendments

By Samantha Joseph
sjoseph@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST— Twelve proposed amendments to the Florida Constitution will appear on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

They cover a broad range of issues, including allowing religious organizations to receive public funds, increasing homestead exemptions for new homebuyers, providing a tax break for disabled veterans and requiring Senate confirmation of the governor's nominees for the Florida Supreme Court.

The final installment features amendments nine through 12.

Here's a voters' guide based on information from The Collins Center for Public Policy, a think-tank that examines statewide issues, and analysis from The James Madison Institute, a non-partisan policy center based in Tallahassee. For additional analysis and the full text of the proposed amendments, visit www.FLAmendments.org.

Hometown News does not endorse any amendment, but instead, provides information about each proposal for voters to make educated decisions.

AMENDMENT 9

Title: Homestead property tax exemption for surviving spouse of military veteran or first responder

What it would do: Would grant a full property tax exemption to the surviving spouses of military veterans who die while on active duty and to the surviving spouses of first responders who die in the line of duty.

If you vote yes: It means you want the state to grant the full homestead exemption to the surviving spouses.

If you vote no: It means you do not want the state to grant the full homestead exemption.

Arguments for: It helps the families left behind when a veteran or first responder dies in service to his country or community.

Arguments against: It takes a bite out of the tax revenues schools and local governments need to provide services.

Piper

Various airshows open to the public have been a part of the celebration throughout the year, Vero Beach's Aviation Day included, Ms. Carlon said.

"So many people have wanted to be a part of this momentous occasion," she said.

Piper Aircraft is one of the few aviation companies that have managed to profitable in these difficult economic times by making strict and difficult financial decisions, Ms. Carlon said.

Last year the company was profitable and this year is on track to be so again, she said.

Overnight guests to the area for the celebration will be treated to a welcome reception, vendor exhibits, aircraft displays, tours and more.

There are an estimated 80,000 Piper planes still being used all over the world, so the Piper family is quite large, she said.

Health

ty and organizers hope it will be even better attended than last year.

John May, county health department HIV/AIDS coordinator, said the free event will include breakfast and lunch, health screenings, beauty vendors and presenters.

The presenters will address risky behaviors that affect some women and girls and what they can do to help themselves.

"If you're in it, how to get out of it, and if you're not in it, how to stay out of it," Mr. May said.

Dawn Jones, HIV/AIDS program director for District 15, said the event brings together different pieces of the equation of women's issues in today's world.

HIV/AIDS awareness and education is the driving force behind the event, but the other topics of discussion often are also important to hear about and bring to the front of discussion, Ms. Jones said.

Conversation points on teen pregnancy prevention, wellness and nutrition, parent involvement, gangs and bullying, dating, domestic and sexual violence, will be included in the summit.

"We find that in the HIV/AIDS world these other topics happen daily," Ms. Jones said.

Hazel Hoylman will bring an interactive and engaging presentation to women, 18 and older, about parenting, Ms. Jones said.

Other speakers will be from the Indian River County Sheriff's Office, the local medical community and the county health department.

"Domestic violence is a big issue nationally, a big issue everywhere," said Shirley Rosemond, victim assistance coordinator for the Indian River County Sheriff's Office.

"It's something that should not be taken lightly. It is something that people have a tendency to cover up, but we have to make sure it stays in the forefront," she said.

Females are the typical victims of domestic violence, but on occasion, there is a male victim and the female is the batterer, whether it's physical, verbal or emotional abuse.

"If anyone knows someone dealing with a domestic violence issue, it's important that you don't just turn their head, because it could easily be your mother, your sister, your grandmother," Ms. Rosemond said.

For more information, call Mr. May at (772) 794-7477.

Races

Many of the individual racers are older residents, which is something By the River is thrilled to see.

"Seniors are kayaking because it is low impact but good exercise and they are out in nature," Ms. Harrison said.

People who have never tried kayaking or canoeing as a sport are often surprised when they enjoy it, Ms. Beck said.

A team that entered last year in the elephant canoe race — a canoe that holds six or seven people — were surprised when they won their race.

"They weren't the most athletic group, but they were the best at teamwork. Sometimes people don't realize what they are capable of," Ms. Beck.

Ms. Beck said river races are something that have rarely or never been done before in Indian River County, but the beauty and accessibility of the river makes it a great choice.

Bhagavati Das, committee chairman for the event, is looking forward to his own race event.

Last year he was an enthusiastic spectator and thoroughly enjoyed the event, but this year he will be splashing in the water himself. While this is a fun fundraising event for the community, there is a bigger picture he's hoping to communicate.

"It's not just about donations, we'd like to increase public awareness," Mr. Das said.

By the River is a residential community for low-income seniors in Indian River County. It is available for seniors who want to live independently, but have a few things they need each day to help them.

In a recent poll, Hometown News readers voted By the River as the best nursing home in the area. While it is not a nursing home, it is a community designed to help keep seniors living as independently as possible, there was no other category for senior care, so they were placed there.

"We were surprised that out of all the senior care centers in the county the public knew so much about our good reputation and the need we fulfill for low-income seniors," Ms. Harrison said.

To pre-register or for more information about the fundraiser, visit www.floc-racing.com. For more information about By the River, visit www.bytheriver.org.

I'm voting for Bill Posey because:
• When Congress got raises, Bill Posey led by example and refused his raise every year. He also cosponsored legislation to block such raises in the future.
• He cut his own office budget and returned over $500,000 of tax payers hard earned money to the Treasury.
• Bill was able to help establish the 3 day rule so members of Congress and the public actually have time to read the bills.

Agriculture commissioner tours packing house

Jessica Martinez, center, refills the labels on the BRIX sensor machine during a visit of Riverfront Packing by Adam Putnam, Florida's commissioner of agriculture Wednesday, Oct. 24. Dan Richey, left, CEO of Riverfront Packing, led the tour for Commissioner Putnam. The BRIX sensor is new technology that grades the sweetness of the grapefruit by infrared light.

Yeny Huesca doesn't miss a beat as she packs grapefruit at Riverfront Packing Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Riverfront Packing packs and ships Florida fresh grapefruit to markets all over the world. Indian River grapefruit is considered the best. Markets such as Asia and Europe depend on the high quality of Indian River grapefruit. These grapefruit have been graded by the BRIX sensor and are traveling to top stations to be hand packed.

Amendment

AMENDMENT 10

Title: Tangible personal property tax exemption

What it would do: Would double the tangible personal property tax exemption and allow local governments to increase the exemption. According to the James Madison Institute, it would grant approximately 150,000 Florida businesses an increase in the tax exemption on "tangible personal property" for items such as machinery, office equipment and furniture. It would double the exemption to $50,000, up from $25,000.

If you vote yes: It means you want to double the tangible personal property tax exemption and allow cities and counties to expand the exemptions beyond that.

If you vote no: It means you do not want to double the tangible personal property tax exemption and you do not want to allow cities and counties to expand the exemptions.

Arguments for: Supporters say this amendment will give tax relief to small businesses and help stimulate the economy. They say it provides a way for local governments to offer further reductions in the business tax.

Arguments against: Opponents say this amendment is part of a trickle-down economic theory that does not work. They say it will strip millions in tax revenue from local governments struggling to provide basic services.

AMENDMENT 11

Title: Additional homestead exemption; low-income seniors who maintain long-term residency on property; equal to assessed value

What it would do: This amendment would give an additional property tax exemption to low-income seniors who have lived in their home for more than 25 years. According to the James Madison Institute, it would affect low-income seniors — currently defined as those earning less than $27,030 a yea r— whose values have risen up to $250,000, thereby making their tax bills beyond their means.

If you vote yes: It means you think cities and counties should have the authority to grant a full property tax discount to eligible seniors.

If you vote no: It means you do not think that cities and counties should have the authority to grant a full property tax discount to eligible seniors.

Arguments for: Supporters say this amendment will benefit elderly residents on fixed incomes. They say the property tax discount can help with medical bills and may allow more elderly residents to stay in their homes as they age.

Arguments against: Opponents say state and local governments face mounting budget shortfalls in part because of diminished property tax returns. Schools and local governments need to maintain the tax base.

AMENDMENT 12

Title: Appointment of student body president to board of governors of the state university system

What it would do: Would change the way the state selects the student representative on the state university system's board of governors, which oversees the university system. According to the James Madison Institute, instead of designating the head of the Florida Student Association, a group that not all state universities join, the representative would be chosen by a council comprising the student body presidents.

If you vote yes: It means you want the state create a new council of university student presidents from which the student representative to the board of governors will be chosen.

If you vote no: It means you want to keep the current system of selecting the student representative to the board of governors.

Arguments for: Supporters say this amendment guarantees every university has a chance to have their student body president be named as a representative of the board of governors.

Arguments against: Opponents say this amendment is unnecessary.

Antique show hits fairgrounds

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

B. J. Pawlaczyk tinkers with one of his many antique boat motors during the Vero Beach extravaganza Saturday at the Indian River County Fairgrounds. The indoor event drew 70 or so vendors and a crowd of about 1,500 shoppers. The next event is Feb. 1-3, 2013.

Fees

variables used to determine a business' impact and its resulting impact fee.

The final suggestion, not recommended by staff, but that sounded appealing to several commissioners, was to flip the formula used for calculating impact fees upside down. The rates would then be calculated using a theory that retail businesses crop up after residential homes are built, meaning residential causes commercial development, not the other way around.

Also, after the initial construction, residential vehicles are the ones that occupy the roadways, not big construction trucks.

Following that theory, lower traffic impact fees should be applied to non-residential development, and a higher traffic impact fee should be applied to residential, because they use the roads more.

The theory, called "causation" is unproven, Mr. Keating said, although it has been implemented in Marion County recently.

Commissioners were quite interested in the theory, but held back from fully throwing their support behind it.

It has been three years since an impact fee study was conducted, and by ordinance, it is time to have a study once again, according to a staff report.

A study will cost between $100,000 and $150,000, and will be paid for using the impact fee administration line item in the budget, so no further taxpayer funds will be used for the research.

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Thanks to the efforts of the Christians Clothing Children, a ministry of Christ by the Sea United Methodist Church, back-to-school clothing and supplies were provided to the school-age children at the Homeless Family Center.

This is the fourth year the CCC team, led by Kathie Althoff and members Dave Althoff, Nancy Briggs, Barbara and Jim Brumbaugh, Don Combs, Kathy Dunlop, Marian Farabee, Wendy Fisher, Joan Glad, Carol Martin, Jessica Martin, Stephanie Moreland, Gail Rodgers, Jaoanie Schultz, Linda Scott, Betty Sorensen, Barbara Stewart, Cookie Thompson, Cynthia Wardwell and Ellen Williamson, shopped for individual children.

Each CCC member was given a list of specific sizes needed, the child's favorite color and a special toy request.

The supplies were delivered to the excited and enthusiastic children at the center on Aug. 9.

Each child, ranging in age from 4 to 17, received a large personalized bin full of back-to-school essentials such as school pants, polo shirts, play outfits, pajamas, socks and underwear.

In addition, the children were given basic toiletry items such as deodorant, shampoo, a toothbrush, toothpaste, tissues and other personal hygiene articles.

The team also prepared and served dinner, all cooked with tender loving care for all the families at HFC.

The Rev. Cliff V. Melvin, pastor of Christ by the Sea and June Traylor, director of ministries, were on hand to help with presenting the bins to each child and serving dinner.

The Homeless Family Center is a nonprofit organization committed to changing lives one family at a time. The center, which is located at 720 Fourth St. in Vero Beach, is a partner agency of United Way, Treasure Coast Homeless Services Council and the Indian River County Children's Services Advisory Committee.

Raising homelessness, hunger awareness

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — The Homeless Family Center will make the public aware of the problems of hunger and homelessness during national Hunger and Homelessness Awareness week which will take place from Nov. 10-17.

The awareness schedule of activities kicks-off at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Nov.10, with the grand opening of the Homeless Family Center's A Second Chance Thrift Store & Training Center, 490 Old Dixie Highway, Vero Beach.

A Second Chance Thrift Store and Training Center is where shopping creates retail sales training, job training and entrepreneur opportunities for families residing at the Homeless Family Center. Everyone is welcome to this opening celebration.

On Wednesday, Nov. 14, the center invites the public to take a "Wednesday walk" tour at 4 p.m. This is a great opportunity to experience the daily happenings and learn about the center's operation and programs, meet the staff and families, go behind-the-scenes, and interact with parents and children residing at the center.

From Nov. 10-17, donation boxes will be visible in school classrooms and local businesses, which are participating in the "72 cents meal appeal" for 72 hours. Why 72 cents? This is what it costs to feed one person a meal at the Homeless Family Center.

Adventure Training of Vero Beach will close the week with fitness training, "workout for homeless families," on Nov. 17 to benefit the center. Adult and children's sessions will be available.

The Homeless Family Center is a nonprofit organization committed to changing lives one family at a time. The center, which is located at 720 4th St. in Vero Beach, is a partner agency of United Way, Treasure Coast Homeless Services Council and the Indian River County Children's Services Advisory Committee.

For training registration, call Beth Ratliff at (772) 538-2181 to reserve a spot. Space is limited.

For more information, contact Connie at (772) 567-5537, Ext. 326 or visit www.HomelessFamilyCenter.com to support ending hunger and homelessness on the Treasure Coast.

positive impact of that partnership across the state of Florida," said Eric Silagy, FPL president.

FPL and its employees in the last 10 years have contributed more than $224,000 to the annual campaign in Indian River County and the company's partnership with United Way dates much further back.

This gift to the foundation is a way for FP&L to help build a permanent endowment that will grow over time and serve as a continuous stream of resources for years to come.

Each year, the annual campaign generates much- needed funding that's immediately deployed in support of 42 programs at United Way's 32 partner agencies in the county.

It also helps support United Way initiatives such as FamilyWize prescription assistance and the voluntary income tax assistance programs.

United Way manages an emergency/crisis and special projects fund and a disaster relief fund, poised as the county's emergency support function and designed to play a significant role when a hurricane strikes the community.

United Way is engaged in a number of different collaborative partnerships all designed to address priority issues in Indian River County, such as mental health and third- grade literacy.

Working with corporate partners and individual donors, the United Way Foundation of Indian River County, led by a separate board of directors with highly specialized skill sets and organized as a supporting organization to the United Way of Indian River County, seeks to build the endowment by $10M in the next five years through a combination of outright and planned gifts.

Planned gifts include testamentary gifts, such as including the foundation in one's will and gifts of life insurance. The foundation currently has $2.6M in assets and almost $800,000 in deferred commitments made to date.

VIEWPOINT

It's time for some routine computer maintenance

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

Well, it's that time of the year again. It's the end of Daylight Saving Time. This year it began on Sunday, March 11 at 2 a.m. and ends on Sunday, Nov. 4 at 2 a.m.

We adjust the clocks ahead one hour in March and move them back one hour in November according to the instructions "spring forward, fall back."

But it's not all about getting an extra hour sleep in the morning, there's more to it than that.

Some time ago the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission decided the day everyone changes their clocks forward (or backward) would also be a great time for everyone to check the batteries in their smoke detectors.

Apparently there were a lot of deaths that could have been avoided had the smoke detectors been working, so they started using the clock change days as a reminder to everyone to check the batteries. And it turns out the plan apparently saves lives.

I don't know what the statistics are, but I'm sure a patient Google search will tell you just how effective the whole thing is, but what it won't tell you is what all that has to do with computers.

Leave that to me!

As a computer fixer, I see all types of preventable issues in my day-to-day travels. Many issues (such as checking the batteries in the smoke detector) that could have been avoided had the computer owner just checked the system a couple times a year and performed a few basic maintenance steps.

With that thought in mind, I thought it would be a good idea to follow the CPSC's lead and advise everyone to use the clock changing ritual that we go through twice a year as a reminder (not only check the batteries in your smoke detectors) to go over your computer and perform some basic checks and maintenance. Lots of issues can be avoided if people would do a few simple things just twice a year.

I'm sure at this point you are probably thinking maybe that is a good idea but what should we check? I mean the smoke detector thing is easy; just swap the battery with a new one and you're done, but aren't computers a little more complicated than that?

Well, yes. But don't let the fact that your average PC has quite a few more things to check cause you to procrastinate the chore. I'll go over a few of the basics that really should be looked at and you'll see just how easy and painless it can be.

First and foremost you need to have a backup system in place. You really should be backing up on a daily basis but if you just can't bring yourself to do that then at least do it twice a year when we change the clocks. When your hard drive does die, recovering something is better than nothing.

Next, check for dust. I'm not talking about dusting the keyboard and monitor I'm talking about the air intake grills that are all over your machine. These things need to breathe and over time these intakes get clogged with a blanket of dust that can quite literally choke the life out of your system.

Check all the intake grills and remove any layers of dust that you find.

Check your power strip and battery backup and remove any old power cords that are no longer in use. Often old devices that are no longer in use have power transformers that still use power even if the device itself isn't plugged in.

Power up your computer and check the start-up routine. If you have a whole row of icons that show up next to the clock and the system takes forever to boot

Red flags close beaches

Just about all of Indian River County beaches were closed last Saturday due to Hurricane Sandy causing high waves and dangerous rip currents. Beachgoers at Wabasso Beach found a no swimming flag, as well. That didn't stop treasure seekers from using metal detectors to find what the erosion may have uncovered.

Absentee ballot scam

My daughter received an absentee ballot, which she didn't request. She called about it and was told she had asked for it on an e-poll (which she had not done). She was then told someone must have put her name down by accident.

I think this could be some sort of scam. My daughter has no party affiliation. She was told to throw it away and go to the polls on voting day. If she does that she may be turned away with the explanation that she had requested and probably used an absentee ballot. She is upset and confused. Has anyone else had this happen to them?

Slow down

I've been putting off writing this "rant" for months now, but after what I saw yesterday I had to do it.

Let me start out by saying that the speed limit all through North River Shores in Stuart is 25 mph.

Someone forgot to tell the people who live here. I moved into the area four to five years ago and can't believe the speeds in which people drive up and down NW Fork Road. There are a lot of people out walking dogs, riding bikes, kids playing everywhere and groups of joggers. I happen to be a dog walker and cover a lot of ground in the neighborhood. Not a bad place to live, a few friendly people (mostly snobs) and most take care of their properties.

Yesterday, I spotted one of those flashing signs that show your speed upon approaching North River Road. Approximately 100 yards before this speed sign there are two stop signs approximately 50 yards apart. Really? From the bottom of NW Fork Road to U.S. 1 is approximately a 1/2-mile with no stop signs. Spruce Ridge is also a long, winding road without stop signs.

I've seen radar twice since I've lived here, once on a Saturday afternoon when no one is on the road. Did someone really get paid to make the decision as to where to put that useless sign? This county has plenty of money to tear up roads and put in new medians with their trees and flowers to keep the rich happy. Do you think they can spend a few bucks for a couple of cops to run radar or a speed trap once in a while?

It's really gotten out of hand around here and these people won't care until someone gets hurt. I could go on and on about other issues in the area, but I'll leave that for another time.

Likes Veterans Park, museum

Saturday morning, I enjoyed a visit to Veterans Park and visited the Road to Victory Military Museum located inside the park next to the tennis courts. I know the museum is actively involved in the Stuart Air Show which benefits the museum, its Venture Scouting program and a number of local non-profits.

I was quite impressed to see a number of changes made to the museum, i.e., added displays and a library research room. A number of Boy Scouts were in attendance, and it was thrilling to see the youngsters interested in our past history.

The museum showcases the sacrifices of men and women from all conflicts. I encourage area residents and their guests to consider a visit to the Road to Victory Military Museum.

It's open Saturdays 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by special appointment.

See you at the museum and the air show. Enjoy the fall and the large variety of fun events here in Stuart, Port St. Lucie and sunny Florida.

Local elections

I am so excited about the upcoming election for our County Commission District 1 seat.

I want to let people in St. Lucie County know how wonderful the spay and neuter program is doing. It has saved public taxpayers thousands and has allowed our best friends (dogs and cats) to live better lives than they were subject to prior to its inception.

Our Mayor Bob Benton was instrumental in supporting this very program.

He is a wonderful advocate for our four-legged friends without taxing our citizens for an important need that this county could not have afforded.

Two of his dearest friends started the program as volunteers and continue to run the program today. I am very excited to see what Bob will be able to do for our county since he has done so much for our city in all of the years he has faithfully served.

Thank you Hometown News for printing my article, I do appreciate it.

Inconsistent speed limits

If you're going to Fellesmere from Sebastian on IRC 512, the speed limit through the I-95 interchange is 50 mph.

If you're coming from Fellesmere to Sebastian on IRC 512 the speed limit is 45 mph through the I-95 interchange. Why the inconsistency?It should be 45 mph going both ways.

Mock voting in elementary schools?

I can't believe what I just read in the paper. Sixteen schools in Palm Beach County took part recently in a "mock vote" for president. This included an elementary school from K-5, the article said.

How ridiculous is this? What does a 5 to 10 year old know about voting? It is unfair to all candidates running and causes false truths. Perhaps high school would be OK because these kids would vote soon, but, 6 year olds? Give me a break!

Is that where my tax dollars are going this year in the school systems?

Changing the economy overnight

With an annual federal budget of $3.5 trillion and a GDP of about 14.6 trillion, the U.S. economy is a colossal, ever-complex piece of machinery moving at its own set pace that no force however strong can accelerate.

The best one can hope for, in a perfect world, is to maximize its momentum to keep it going steady. But we are not in a perfect world. The average intelligent American understands this.

So, it is extremely premature to determine, at this point, the final results of the current administration economic policies. Sure, there are small indicators as to the efficacy of the economic stimulus programs. But the full impact, positive or negative, is yet to be attained, providing of course, that no drastic changes are introduced.

Steering the U.S. economy under the current political climate is like driving a maximum capacity, loaded 18-wheeler at 70 mph, on a single-lane, under repair road and realizing that you must make a u-turn. Add to that a traffic cop (the opposition party) putting restrictions on your maneuvers and the low-fuel red light (budget deficit) has been on for awhile.

So, if we think that a new administration advocating radical change (u-turn) to the current economic policies is going to quickly deliver jobs and prosperity for all, we are poised for a rude awakening. It's just simple logic, without contemplating the effectiveness of the new policies.

Granted, the work will not be as grueling, but it will still be arduous because the road has improved, but it is still under repair. And the opposition party will be there to restrict maneuvering and the low-fuel light just got fire red.

The best we can hope for is that the current administration policies deliver positive results. We get the benefits of

Chamber promotes county at international event

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Indian River County Chamber of Commerce was an invited exhibitor at the 2012 Link-Up international trade event in West Palm Beach.

Link-Up provided an opportunity for businesses in the South Florida region to meet trade consulates from 17 countries, while learning from state and federal officials the basics of selling to overseas markets.

The event was organized by the Orbis Strategy Group in West Palm Beach and sponsored by FP&L. Economic development representatives from throughout the region were invited guests of FP&L.

"This was a tremendous opportunity for us to promote Indian River County to these trade representatives," said Helene Caseltine, the chamber's economic development director.

"Ours was the only economic development exhibitor from outside the Palm Beach area. We found the trade consulates very interested in what our county offers from a trade and visitor industry perspective."

As part of the day's event, economic development and visitor industry officials provided summaries of their programs to the consulates.

"After discussing the great programs and visitor venues available in Indian River County, and mentioning who our key industry partners are, several trade representatives asked about visiting Indian River County," said Ms. Caseltine

The consulates all have offices in the Miami area.

Each consulate was provided a package of county information including business information, visitor materials and brochures and the county economic development promotional thumb drive.

Ms. Caseltine will follow-up with each of the consulates, working with tourism and economic development partners, to begin planning familiarization tours of our county.

The chamber's economic development office encouraged participation from local businesses to expand their export potential.

Representatives from Indian River Medical Center, Florida Pallet, Coastmark International and FL Organic Aquaculture also attended the event.

College seeks local business collaboration

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — The health science division of Indian River State College is looking for local businesses and organizations in health-care related fields to collaborate with IRSC bachelor's-level college students on capstone projects.

The partnership takes place at the culmination of the bachelor's degree program in health care management when students complete special projects to demonstrate proficiency in their field of study. This provides a unique opportunity, at no cost for businesses and organizations, to have qualified, bachelor's-level students work on projects the agency might not otherwise have the opportunity to complete.

A capstone project is the final project Indian River State College bachelor's-level students complete, requiring them to work as "consultants" with an assigned business or agency to address a specific issue or problem defined by the agency.

The scope of the project is agreed on between the agency and the supervising Indian River State College faculty member. Faculty provide guidance to the students throughout the project, and the business or agency provides a staff member as the capstone coordinator for the organization to work with the students.

Students spend time researching and interviewing key stakeholders, attending meetings, shadowing and working toward successful completion of the project.

At the end of the course, the students present their projects to professors and organization representatives. Capstone projects are approximately 270 hours over a 12- to 16- week semester.

The goals of the capstone project are to:

- Identify an organizational management issue/problem.
- Examine the history of issues related to the problem and its impact on stakeholders.
- Develop a strategic plan and strategy implementation process for a solution issue/problem.
- Evaluate the project plan using principles from organizational management theory.
- Integrate concepts from other courses/experiences to the successful completion of this project.

For more information on how to participate with Indian River State College health science student capstone projects, contact Roscoe Dandy, health care management faculty, at (772) 462-7297 or email rdandy@irsc.edu.

Center offers new business incentives

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Environmental Learning Center recently announced a new business partner program that offers businesses excellent brand exposure while supporting the area's premier environmental organization.

"Businesses are vital partners in the ELC's endeavors to instill an understanding of the natural world, enrich people's lives and inspire participants to be active stewards of the surrounding environment," said Camille Yates, ELC development director.

"For close to 25 years, numerous businesses in the area have continuously supported us. But now, our new business partnership membership allows a business to reach out to several thousand people each year through outstanding marketing opportunities."

Basic benefits of the program include recognition in the ELC annual report and on the website, free admission to the ELC, a 10 percent discount in the Nature Nook gift shop and an employee family day at the ELC.

There are six different levels of partnership with increasing marketing opportunities. Businesses interested in learning more about this opportunity to expand their advertising coverage, while supporting environmental education for both children and adults, can go to the ELC website, www.DiscoverELC.org or call (772)589-5050

The Environmental Learning Center is located north of Vero Beach off County Road 510 at the western end of the Wabasso Bridge.

Remember, the United States economy cannot be changed overnight, especially when the changes are as radical as a 180-degree turn. SEBASTIAN — While the seaside breezes blow and the dolphins chatter, residents and guests can enjoy live music in a natural setting in the most popular park in Indian River County.

The environment at Sebastian Inlet State Park offers an idyllic background for Night Sounds at Sebastian Inlet, a monthly concert series with rotating artists.

The next concert is scheduled for Nov. 24 at 7 p.m. and will feature The Country Classics Band at the pavilion on Coconut Point on the south side of the inlet.

With a guitar, mandolin, drums, keyboard, bass and voices, Country Classics recreate Nashville charm right here on the Treasure Coast.

Gene Kimbro, lead guitar for the Melbourne-based band, said the group's repertoire reflects their favorites from the old country music genre with a little bit of rock 'n roll and bluegrass for good measure. Songs by Waylon Jennings, Johnny Cash, Jimmy Buffett, George Strait and Elvis Presley are just a taste of the lineup concert goers can expect.

"It's the real country we grew up with and we mix it up a little, that's what we do," Mr. Kimbro said.

Playing outdoors is very pleasurable and enhances the concert in various ways. There's freedom to relax and get into the music, even dance if the mood strikes that way, which some people do, he said.

Last year when they played at Sebastian Inlet, Mr. Kimbro estimates there were 200 people in attendance.

He said the park ranger listened to them last time and gave them an interesting, but wonderful compliment.

"He said, 'You're one of the few that start early and end late.' Whenever we get kicking, we just keep going with it and we have a lot of fun," Mr. Kimbro said.

His son, Kevin Kimbro, plays mandolin, Jerry Biggs is on drums, Craig Mercer, a Sebastian resident, is the vocalist, Art Edwards plays bass and Al Urrizeo accompanies on the keyboard.

Country Classics has been a group for about three years, but it's not the first band for Mr. Kimbro. He began playing when he was 12 and will continue to do so for as long as possible.

"It's the pleasure I see in other people when they're enjoying it, that's the No. 1 reason why I do it," Mr. Kimbro said.

In December, the concert series will feature Atlantic Bluegrass; in January, Tammerlin and in February, Friction Farm.

For more information about the concert series, call (321) 984-4852 or visit www.floridastateparks.org/sebastianinlet.

Week of 11-2-2012

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Aries, you will know how to smooth over an embarrassing situation this week. You come across assertive and dominant, and others naturally listen to you.

TAURUS - April 21-May 21

Taurus, your plan to modify a project this week will meet with great results. You may become interested in an organization that showcases your skills.

GEMINI - May 22-June 21

Gemini, the time has come to reevaluate a certain situation, but you are up for the challenge. It may be hard to communicate your goals to others, but your persistence will pay off.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Cancer, things you say have a greater impact on others than you may realize. Therefore, think through what you say to make sure your words come across as intended.

LEO - July 23-Aug. 23

Leo, now is the time to focus so that your dreams and plans can become a reality. Put all of your efforts into realizing your goals, and you won't be sorry for having done so.

VIRGO - Aug 24-Sept 22

Virgo, pay particular attention to your financial records. Otherwise, you may find yourself struggling to reconcile all of your accounts at year's end.

LIBRA – Sept. 23-Oct. 23

This is the ideal time to move forward in your career, Libra. Be assertive and things will fall into place. Embrace a new opportunity and make the most of it.

SCORPIO – Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Scorpio, you have enough drive and enthusiasm to get through a challenging time. There may be a few opportunities to go above and beyond in your business ventures.

Author to watch school's rendition of play

For Hometown News

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — On Halloween weekend, Oct. 31-Nov. 4, Indian River Charter High School will perform the suspenseful psychodrama/murder-mystery "Blood Relations" based on the iconic story of Lizzie Borden.

Students will not only have the opportunity to perform a uniquely challenging piece, but will also perform for a special guest. The writer of "Blood Relations," popular Canadian playwright Sharon Pollock, will be traveling to Vero Beach to watch the production.

"Blood Relations," Ms. Pollock's most popular play, re-tells this classic murder-mystery with chilling insight into responsibility, truth and lies.

This psychodrama blends Lizzie's memories with actual accounts of the murders and takes the audience through a suspenseful story that questions the difference between truth and lies, memory and reality.

Due to the suspenseful nature of this piece, children under age 13 will not be admitted.

"Blood Relations" will be performed at 8 p.m.

Tickets cost $10 and can be purchased at www.irchsonline.org by clicking on the "tickets" tab.

Extravaganza antique show

The Vero Beach extravaganza antique show and sale at the Indian River County Fairgrounds got off to a slow start thanks to Hurricane Sandy, but made a comeback Saturday afternoon. The indoor show last weekend had about 70 vendors. Alberta Bourn stopped to look at a small hatchet. The next show is an indoor/outdoor Feb. 1-3.

Rough sailing good time

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

For most people, fighting the high winds and rough water in the Indian River Lagoon due to last week's Hurricane Sandy wouldn't be much fun. But for 64-year-old Thomas Embro, that's just what the doctor ordered.

Thanks to the high winds left behind by Hurricane Sandy, 64-year-old Thomas Embro gets to do what he loves. In fact, Mr. Embro seemed a bit disappointed when the 25- to 35 mile-per-hour winds began to calm, as clouds built up around the Wabasso Causeway Saturday afternoon.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov. 23-Dec. 21

Self-discipline is something you will need in excess this week, Sagittarius. Use this to your advantage when you work with others to plan recreational activities.

CAPRICORN – Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Capricorn, you have enough enthusiasm to get things done, but getting things off the ground is more difficult. It's time to buckle down and work through tasks.

AQUARIUS – Jan. 21-Feb. 18

You prefer to be in control of a situation, Aquarius. However, sometimes you have to relinquish control to someone else. Do so with grace and humility.

PISCES – Feb. 19-March 20

Now is the time to make progress in something that has been on your mind for quite some time, Pisces. Take action before it's too late.

VERO BEACH — Bowlers and fans filled 29 lanes at Vero Bowl on Oct. 14 for Indian River Habitat for Humanity's annual "Bowl to Build," which this year raised close to $10,000.

The popular fundraiser supports Habitat's scholarship educational program, which provides Habitat homeowner students with scholarships and other education-based programs.

Again this year, the unbeatable Heritage Bowlers, Don Shield, Bill Shield, Gene Griffin, Bob Twomey and Lonnie Simms, continued their best team streak.

The MMRT Inc. team won the most high fives award; Girard's G Gals took home the most team spirit award and 9-year-old Nicholas Garlini was recognized as youngest player.

Habitat's FY 2013 Community Hero Partner, Girard Equipment, was the event presenting (and goody bag) sponsor.

T-shirt sponsor was The Crockett Insurance Group. Lane sponsors included: Girard Equipment, PD-go! Web Solutions, Frank E. Alexander Jr. & Associates, The Rosato Plastic Surgery Center, Barker Electric, Air Conditioning & Heating, Elite Tile of the Treasure Coast, Sebastian River Exterminating, Float-On Corporation, Other Side Services, CATHCO, Collins, Brown, Caldwell, Barkett, Garavaglia & Lawn, Kmetz, Nuttall, Elwell, Graham, Schacht Groves, Stewart Evans Stewart & Emmons, MBV Engineering, Gregory R.
