LITTLE BAY MANAGING DIRECTOR TO RECONSIDER DECISION TO FIRE EM-PLOYEE, FOR ASKING TO BE CALLED BY HIS NAME.

In our last issue of October 21, we reported how an employee of the Little Bay Hotel was fired by Mr. Loonstra one of the Directors of this Hotel for asking to be called by his name.

Mr. Kollaard Managing Director of the Hotel has informed us that it was he, (Kollaard) and not Mr.
Loonstra who had given the orders to "fire" the employee in question.

... was also reported in the same were given one week's notice there is nothing I can do about it." He (Clem Labega) even didnot take the time to check with the Hotel Management.

The employee was paid off on Monday last and with no one else to turn to, he went to Mr. Jose Lake, Editor of this newspaper and explained the whole story. On Tuesday morning about 7:45 a.m.
Jose Lake went to Little Bay Hotel and had an interview with Mr.
Kollaard in an attempt to solve the problem. - Mr. Kollaard explained the Editor that he was the one who had fired Neville, and not Mr.
Loonstra, he also explained that Mr. Loonstra (the one to whom Neville) had spoken) did not even made a complaint, but that he (Kollaard) had been informed of what had happened by a guest who was with Mr. Loonstra at the time, he went on to explain in detail that a hotel "sells service" and in his opinion the guest are always right. He further said that Neville had done the same thing to two guests sometime before, and even mentioned the names of the guests. - The Editor pointed out that Mr. Loonstra was not a guest but one of the Directors of the Hotel, and if as he (Kollaard) claimed Mr. Loonstra did not make any complaint, then, he (The Editor) could not see Kollaard's motive for firing him. It was also pointed out by the Editor, that even though Mr. Kollaard claimed
