important items could pass, something had to be done, and fast.

The Prosecutor therefore acting as Acting attorney General, after making the necessary contacts immediately started working on a petition in which he requested the Judge to call a Court session in short period to have Mr. Johnson remove the roadblock. At midnight he filed his petition which he had made on the behalf of the government of the Netherlands Antilles - Mr. Lambert Johnson one of heirs represented the interest of the owners in Court - At 12:45 a.m. the history making session was started.

The defendant, Mr. Lambert Johnson stated that he had closed the road, because it had been a long time since he should have been paid by the government for the land, but up to that time no payment had been made. He explained that there was an agreement between the owners of the land and the Government, that the government would have bought the land. But a few years have past and the government had made no efforts to pay for the land he further explained that instead of paying for the land he had knowledge that the government was planning to have the land expropriated.

The Acting Attorney General explained that it was of the utmost important to the people of Saba, that the road leading from the airport to the residential areas be open immediately, since the only regular connection with Saba at the present is by plane - The mails, sick people, medicine, and other items must all pass over this road before reaching destination. He pointed out that to allow Mr. Johnson and the other owners of the land to block the road, would be placing the "individual interest" above the "public interest", and said he: "It should never happen that the "individual interest" is
