

Asian Culture Night's events strive to educate, entertain

As part of Asian Kaleidoscope, Volunteers for International Student Affairs sponsored the Fourth Annual Asian Culture Night Tuesday in the University Auditorium.

To promote Asian awareness, the night's events included traditional cultural dancing and Kung Fu martial art performances.

Coordinators hoped the performances from different Asian cultures not only would entertain people, but also would educate them.

Angeka Tong, a Chinese-American student and one of the show's directors, said she hoped the performances would lead to Asian awareness.

"I think this is partial education and entertainment, also," Tong said. "Because if we talk about our history, it's too boring. But if we put it in dancing, it's more interesting."

Triccia Baña, a Filipino-American student, said she thinks the purpose of the performances is "to get rid of the stereotypes that some cultures are accompanied with."

But some Asian awareness month organizers said they don't know if their efforts to reach out to students are paying off.

Shadan Shamin, an Indian-American student and one of the coordinators, said she hasn't seen much student participation in Asian Kaleidoscope events.

"I just don't think the students are interested," Shamin said. "That's why we have something like this, because this is something interesting to watch."

Dear Friend,

Yes... it's absolutely amazing...but true! If you need cash for college and like to workout...

You Can Make Big Money And Become The Biggest Celebrity On Campus!

That's right! A nationwide talent search for college fitness buffs, sponsored by a leading supplement company is not looking for students who developed their physiques with massive amounts of drugs...then lie to their friends and say, "I just use 'XYZ' supplement."

Take Spiro Kandis, (the guy in the picture with the 'Vette and babes). Spiro is 5'10" tall and now weighs a rock-solid 193 pounds. He'll never be Mr. America, or for that matter, Mr. Anything. But he looks great. He's "athletically muscular." Decent size, and great "cuts"! He's got the kind of body women go crazy over!

But it wasn't that way ten weeks ago for Spiro. He looked OK, but nothing like he looks now! He gained an incredible 21 pounds of new muscular bodyweight using an amazing new training and supplement program distributed by a company called Physique Augmentation Systems (P.A.S.).

The marketing team behind P.A.S. was so impressed by Spiro's amazing transformation using this new, revolutionary program, they offered him a very handsome endorsement package. Cash, a Corvette, and fame!

And P.A.S. Is Looking For More College Spokespersons...

Why? Because P.A.S. is different. They know as well as you do, many college students, who like to workout, get their development from drugs...not supplement and training programs!

That's why P.A.S. is looking for college spokespersons who don't use drugs, and don't have perfect genetics. They're looking for average folks to test their new, scientifically-designed muscle and strength-building program!

According to Eric Wagner, President of P.A.S., his group is looking for real people to hire as spokespersons—people who can truthfully say their gains were a result of testing P.A.S. products and nothing else.

P.A.S. Representatives will select their next

Spokesperson on January 31, 1995, another on March 31, 1995, and another on June 30, 1995, based on who makes the most improvements in muscle size and strength using the new P.A.S. program.

Yes, you too can be a spokesperson for P.A.S. and receive a $50,000 endorsement contract, a new Corvette, become famous, and get to know the "behind the scenes" superstars who rule the bodybuilding and fitness industry.

It's The Most Exciting Opportunity Ever Offered To College Fitness Buffs!

But to take advantage of this amazing opportunity, you must ACT NOW!!

Here's all you do. Just pick up the phone and call 1-800-297-9776 (Dept. #891) and ask the operator to rush you more information on how you can become one of the next P.A.S. spokespersons!

Please hurry. As you can imagine, P.A.S. can only sign a limited number of spokespersons...why not you!? Call Right Now, TODAY!

9 1 1 REPORT

UF police issued a trespassing warning to an inmate after he left a work-release program at the Hub's Taco Bell Wednesday morning, said police spokeswoman Angie Tipton.

Anthony Edmonds, an inmate at Santa Fe Community Correctional Center, reported to work about 8:45 a.m., but was missing when officials at SFCCC called to check on him.

Police went to Taco Bell about 11 a.m. and discovered that Edmonds had returned from the Reitz Union, where he went to get a cup of coffee, Tipton said.

Edmonds was transferred from SFCCC to the high-security North Florida Reception Center in Lake Butler Wednesday.

Edmonds is currently serving a five-year sentence for a 1989 robbery with a deadly weapon in Broward County, said NFRC probation officer Evelyn Garst.

In 1993, Edmonds returned to the Department of Corrections for violation of probation.

Garst said further placement and punishment of Edmonds is pending.
