

Disaster Study Scheduled Here By Red Cross

Four outstanding leaders in disaster relief work from southeastern area and national Red Cross headquarters are scheduled to lead discussions at Dade county's disaster preparedness institute to be held in Miami July 23, 24, 25, E. G. "Don" Graham, Dade Red Cross disaster chairman, said Wednesday. They are Maurice R. Reddy, Washington; Karl Reiser, Dr. Burton F. Austin and Miss Helen M. Flanagan, Atlanta.

Reddy, assistant administrator, disaster relief, American National Red Cross, will come to Miami direct from Texas City, Texas, where he has been directing relief operations following the explosions there April 16.

Reiser, assistant director, disaster service, southeastern area, saw more than four years of Red Cross duty with the armed forces during the war and entered upon his present duties in April, 1946.

Administrator of medical and health service in southeastern area, Dr. Austin joined the organization in January of this year. His experience includes more than 20 years of public health work, and service in the medical corps in World War I.

Miss Flanagan became a member of the Red Cross nursing staff in 1942, left to serve 33 months in the Army, and returned to Red Cross as a consultant in disaster nursing in the Atlanta office.

"Purpose of the disaster institute is to mobilize and organize all community resources in Dade county to plan for hurricane or any other type of disaster which may strike this area," Disaster Chairman Don Graham said.

Hebrew College To Offer Course To Lay Students

A new series of courses, designed for undergraduates interested in Jewish studies but not intending to prepare for rabbinical careers, will be offered by the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, Ohio, according to an announcement by Rabbi Alvin I. Fine, director of field activities.

The program, to be instituted for the first time during the fall semester, will combine regular undergraduate studies at the University of Cincinnati with courses in Hebrew, Jewish history, literature and religion, at the college. A maximum of 12 credits will be allowed by the university for these courses.

In addition to the program offered to lay students, the college will continue its courses in pre-rabbinical studies, for candidates to the rabbinate. These courses, offered at the university under the supervision of the college, prepare undergraduates for post-graduate rabbinical work at the college.

Further information may be obtained by writing the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati 20, O.

Holy Day Services May Be Performed By Hebrew Academy

The newly organized Greater Miami Hebrew academy may hold services for the High Holy Days if plans to complete alterations on its new building are successful, it was reliably learned this week.

Work is being rushed on the decoration and rebuilding of the school's edifice, located at 918 Sixth st., Miami Beach, in order to have the yeshiva ready for enrollment of students for the fall semester.

If the work is completed by Sept. 1, there are good chances that the board of directors of the academy may decide to hold services in the building for Slichos, Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur.

The New York offices of the United Jewish Appeal have announced the receipt of a check for $150,000 from the Miami UJA in payment toward the local agency's allotment of $900,000. The sum represented the June collections of pledges made for the Appeal during the recent drive.
