Tinkerbelle's killer gets probation

Englewood man pleads no contest to fatally stomping girlfriend's dog

By ANNE EASKER STAFF WRITER

An Englewood man was sentenced to 60 months probation, with adjudication withheld, after allegedly killing his girlfriend's dog, Tinkerbelle, in January of 2018. Chad Kolberg, died sometime after Kolberg's girlfriend left home following an argument around midnight on Jan. 23, according to court records. She was notified by Kolberg that Tinkerbelle wasn't feeling well around 2 a.m. At 2:30 a.m., he said the dog was fine, but at 4:30 a.m., she received a text saying Tinkerbelle was dead.

Kolberg told Animal Control he had no idea what happened, and he was home doing laundry and dishes all night after his girlfriend left, the report stated.

Tinkerbelle was found to have died from blunt force trauma to her head. Bruising covered the top of her head, and there was significant bleeding from her right ear, as well abrasions under her chin, left shoulder, and inside her upper lip, according to the report. A broken canine tooth was found in her stomach. Kolberg allegedly had blood on the bottom and edges of his shoes.

Citing privacy concerns, some lawmakers oppose AG's opioid bill

State is suing makers of Oxycontin, pharmacies, others

By LAWRENCE MOWER TAMPA BAY TIMES

TALLAHASSEE -Throughout the 2000s, Florida lawmakers tried repeatedly to create a database of drug prescriptions to fight the pill mill crisis as it bloomed into a full-blown epidemic.

But every year for nine years, it was shot down over concerns about patient privacy. It was only when the issue escalated into a national crisis did lawmakers finally establish a database that could be used to track problem doctors and keep addicts from granting her access to the getting pills.

Now, Florida senators are using the same excuse they used then — patient privacy - to reject a request by Florida's top law enforcement official. Attorney General Ashley Moody wants access to the database to bolster the state's lawsuit against the nation's largest drug makers, distributors and pharmacies, which could be worth billions in damages for Florida and its opioid victims.

On Monday, the Florida House passed their bill 111-0

Florida Department of Health's data.

But in the Senate, Moody's request remains in deep trouble, stranded in a committee with four days left before legislative session ends.

The extraordinary standoff, pitting Senate Republicans against their new attorney general, threatens to delay the state's lawsuit against companies like Purdue Pharma, the maker of Oxycontin, and pharmacy giants CVS and Walgreens.

Florida is one of many states suing the companies over their roles in the opioid epidemic. If the bill succeeds, some say it could serve as a model for other states.

"This is a very significant piece of legislation," said William Large, president of the tort reform advocacy group Florida Justice Reform Institute, and a critic of Moody's effort. "If this passes, it will be the template for the other states to try to get the data in a civil context."

Kolberg was charged with torturing an animal with intent to injure or kill, a third-degree felony. In addition to probation, he must pay outstanding fees totaling $2,741, including $2,000 to Animal Control's Animal Welfare Trust Fund and is barred from possessing any animals.

midnight in May 2017. He claimed to have a gun under his shirt and demanded the teller give him all the money in the cash drawer, according to a press release from the State Attorney's Office. He then made the clerk go into the bathroom, took his cell phone, and told him to stay there for 10 minutes. When the clerk came out, Dickman was gone.

According to the press release, he was identified by surveillance video from the store which showed a tattoo on his neck. There was also a sweatshirt recovered near the store that matched the one seen in the surveillance video being worn by the robber. Dickman's DNA was found on the sweatshirt, the press release stated.

Dickman's residence at the time of the crime was less than 1.5 miles from the Circle K. He pleaded to one count of robbery and one count of false imprisonment.

Aviation Unit will increase patrols on the waterline

Flights aim to deter boat thefts

By ANNE EASKER STAFF WRITER

Charlotte County residents near the water can expect to see more evening helicopter patrols as the Aviation Unit searches for boat and boat motor thieves.

"We're just adjusting our flights later in the night, so we can be out there when these thefts are occurring," said Chief Pilot Shane Engelauf.

The patrols are a response to the statewide trend of boat and boat motor thefts. According to the National Insurance Crime Bureau, Florida leads the nation in boat thefts. In 2016, the state had 1,291 thefts, more than twice the thefts as California, the state with the second highest number of thefts at 451. The top five cities for boat thefts are all in Florida, according to the NICB.

Katie Heck, spokesperson for the Charlotte County Sheriff's Office, said the county traditionally has lower amounts of thefts than the rest of the state, but it's still an issue.

The Charlotte County Sheriff's Office will be increasing patrols of boat yards, marinas, and the waterline in response to a statewide increase in boat and boat motor thefts. In addition to routine patrols, specialty units

BOAT SECURITY TIPS

The Charlotte County Sheriff's Office Marine Unit recommends the following practices to make vessels a hard target for criminals, whether stored at home or in a boat yard or marina:

Record all your boat's information, such as serial numbers, ID codes, and HIN. Take photos and mark your property with a unique code, such as your house number.

Install an alarm system designed for the marine environment. Criminals don't like to make noise or attract attention. Dock lights triggered by motion are an inexpensive means to deter theft.

Secure your vessel. Lock the boat and ignition system, and keep your key in your residence.

Don't forget to check your security measures to ensure they are working and double check your insurance policies to confirm you have coverage.

Residents are always encouraged to be vigilant and report any unusual activities. Examples of suspicious activity could be vessels running without lights, carrying multiple large containers on deck, or people loitering in the areas of residential docks and public marinas, especially in the late night and early morning hours.

like the aviation unit will be flying overhead more often, according to a press release.

Last year, there were 44 total thefts and attempted thefts of boat, motors, boat trailers, GPS's, and lower end units. This year, there have been five boat-related thefts, including one stolen GPS, two lower end units, and five motors.

Engelauf said the Aviation Unit uses the FLIR (Forward Looking Infrared), which is an infrared camera that sees heat signatures "We're able to look at that and identify if somebody's hiding in a tree or something," he said. "You'll see the outline of their body heat. Or if they jump in a trashcan, you'll see the outline inside the trashcan."

They also use a spotlight called the NightSun and night vision goggles. If he sees something suspicious, he'll alert the deputy assigned to the zone and give updates as the deputy arrives to the scene.

Heck encouraged residents to report anything suspicious when they see it happening not to wait until hours or days later.

"If it's a theft out on the water, and we don't get there in time, it's gone, she said. Suspicious activity can be reported on the Sheriff's Office mobile app or by calling the non-emergency number (941) 639-0013. Email: anne.easker@yoursun.com

Gas prices on a slow decline Statewide prices declined 18 days in a row, according to gas station data

By LIZ HARDAWAY STAFF WRITER

Gas prices statewide are on their 18th day of decline.

In those 18 days, prices for regular gas have dropped 9 cents per gallon for regular gas statewide.

Locally, we're saving a few more pennies with the Punta Gorda metropolitan statistical area (MSA) prices, which includes all of Charlotte County, declining 13 cents since April 12.

Why are they lowering?

Gas prices are moving in line with wholesale gasoline and oil futures "which all dropped last week," said Mark Jenkins, a spokesperson for the American Automobile Association (AAA).

Gasoline futures also declined 3 cents on the stock market, while wholesale gasoline slipped 4 cents per gallon in Florida.

The price of crude oil settled at $62.80 per barrel last Friday. A week before, the price of crude oil was almost $66 per barrel.

"The downward direction should help keep downward pressure on prices this week," Jenkins said.

However, stock prices have the ability to quickly change directions this time of year in response to international or domestic news that have negative implications on fuel supplies, he said.

How do we compare?

As of Tuesday, Florida

was the 13th cheapest state for gas nationally. The lowest gas prices

Our View Turtle time on beaches of SW Florida

OUR POSITION: Keep it dark. Keep it clean.

S outh Florida beaches enjoy a distinction that sets them apart from most others in the world: They are the home nesting sands of large numbers of loggerhead sea turtles. This is both a natural wonder, and a hassle.

Loggerheads are the most common type of sea turtle in the Atlantic. They had suffered population loss to such an extent by the 1970s they were classified as threatened or endangered species under the Endangered Species Act and thus granted special protections.

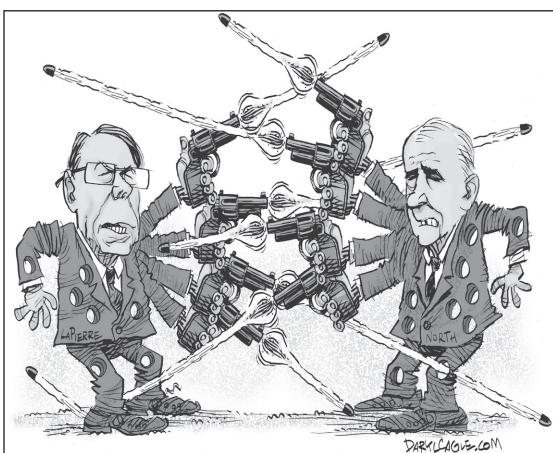

Now, groups of volunteers working with the Coastal Wildlife Club and Mote Marine Laboratory patrol beaches during turtle-nesting season — May 1 to Oct. 31. Out early every morning, turtle-patrollers chart and stake off new nests, watch over the nests and record activity.

Local ordinances require special outdoor lighting at beachfront homes and businesses. They require human visitors to clean up beach chairs and fill in holes that might hamper female turtles crawling from Gulf to nesting spot or turtle hatchlings headed from nest to Gulf. Humans are forbidden, by state law, from disturbing turtles or their nests, eggs or hatchlings.

"Making an effort to keep our beaches dark at night is one of the most important things you can do to help sea turtles," Robbin Trindell, the head of the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission's sea turtle management program, said in an email last week.

"Even small artificial lights from a house, a flashlight or cellphone camera can confuse female sea turtles and their hatchlings and cause them to wander off course."

So be advised: Keep the beaches as dark as possible. Shield lights. Remove beach chairs. Fill in holes. Don't let dogs run loose. These are sound rules. Backed by law and threat of possible enforcement. And, yes, a hassle. Add to the hassle policies restricting the hardening of the coastline. And restrictions that force public works projects like beach renourishment to occur outside the seven-month nesting season. The reason is that vibrant wildlife adds immeasurably to our quality of life. Have you been at the beach and watched the reaction when a squadron of pelicans swoops in overhead, or when dolphins leap nearby, or when hatchlings tunnel from the sand and wiggle toward shore? Those are the times you realize, it's their world and we're just visiting. It's a big reason we try our best to protect habitat and co-exist. South Florida is one of the two biggest loggerhead nesting regions in the world. Only Oman in the Middle East is visited by as many as 10,000 nesting females every year. Sea turtle hatchlings have an extremely low rate of survival. But survivors travel hundreds of miles in the Atlantic. When they mature, females mate and return to their "natal" shores — the areas of their home nest — to lay nests of their own. That may be the most remarkable aspect of this life cycle, the homing instinct: The sea turtle you encounter this year is one who began here, roughly, decades before. Note also that loggerheads can live for more than 70 years. Please do your part. On a good year, the beaches of Charlotte and Sarasota counties are home to approximately 6,000 nests. That's a lot of remarkable wildlife. Respect the rules so your grandchildren will be able appreciate this special natural wonder decades from now.

Extend health care to everyone

Editor:

I want to share my thoughts after reading a letter in Saturday's paper.

As a registered nurse I have practiced nursing in inpatient and outpatient settings and taught nursing since 1967. I have worked in ICUs and clinics, in very large and small hospitals, in both for profit and nonprofit facilities. It does matter where you receive care.

I can highly recommend Sarasota Memorial Hospital System. They are a magnet hospital receiving national awards. It made me proud to be a nurse to receive the care they have provided my husband and myself.

An ER is available on Toledo Blade Boulevard and a new Sarasota Memorial Hospital will be opening off the Laurel Road exit north of us off Interstate 75. We can begin to "vote" with our feet and use superior care that is near us. My second thought is for the 40 million to 45 million of our neighbors; men,women and ves, even babies and children who have no health insurance. It does not matter how wonderful the care is when we have a system that we pay big, big money for that does not provide care to all those who need it but makes some rich. It is wasteful and cruel to provide care in the ER setting that could have prevented by early treatment. Let's all join together and vote so that all our people can have health care. Ask any nurse you know about the state of health care in this country.

we must lower the scores for them. This is such an insult to those students that you profess to want to help.

There are other ways to get aid for students who cannot earn them through academic achievement. There are many students of color who can and will gain these scholarships, because they are intelligent enough.

Cartoon was not completely accurate

Editor:

Today's Mallard Fillmore cartoon berates those that screamed the tax cuts will blow up the deficit by stating that revenues have actually increased, and that is true, revenue for 2018 has increased 6.7 percent. What the cartoon doesn't tell you is that the deficit increased by 17 percent, for a net loss of We need to fight the urge to click on the "intriguing" photo or message at the bottom of our emails. Too much government is inefficient

Editor:

I read with dismay your opinion that Charlotte County should be divided into multiple incorporated cities. Punta Gorda notwithstanding, have you not seen what multiple layers of government have done to northern states? Now even those states are attempting to consolidate as a means of saving money, albeit not very successfully due to longentrenched special interests. I have first-hand experience in just how expensive decentralized government services can be and how difficult it is to change. I lived in a small school district in upstate New York that was sandwiched between two much larger districts. There really was no good reason for my school district to exist independently, other than the residents' parochial interests. A movement developed to try to merge with one of the adjoining districts, but when the other district realized how expensive we were, they pulled out of the process.

from the "Book of Urantis," without citing her source.

The gentleman from Charlotte Harbor was correct to say suicide was being encouraged, but this latest plagiarism is talking about suicide for others, not herself, because the book is a clearly eugenics-supporting tome. This "bible" says that subhumans should be culled from the human race, meaning the sick, mentally challenged, disabled, elderly infirm, anyone deemed unworthy by the superior race. Google it. It's amazingly transparent in its genocidal leanings.

My beef with the Sun editors is that they allow someone to quote word for word, but don't require the citation. Most everyone who quotes from the mainstream religious books, or any other written work, do cite chapter and verse, and rightly so.

Article was very misleading

Editor:

In the April 29 Sun, the front page article, "How far does your money stretch?," is seemingly uninformed and misleading.

The article be should be titled, "How much imagination does it take to think that Social Security benefits of $1,768.17 a month goes 'pretty far' in Charlotte County."

The statement in the article that folks have $1,197 "to spare" per year is utterly ridiculous. I know that folks attempting to live on this amount are not reading this article. The newspaper alone is expensive and they can't read it online because Internet costs are at least $600 a year. They likely can't afford a phone for someone to call them to tell them how well off they are since their dental and eye care, and the necessary over the counter medication costs would then exceed the yearly "left over" monies touted in the article. This article seems to be based on government statistics devoid of real-life costs and experiences faced by many retired people. This is not front page news; it doesn't even belong in the paper without a further understanding of the reality of life's challenges living only on Social Security income. There is no "spare" income in this scenario and I sincerely doubt it is an envious position for anyone living in "the sixth best place to live on Social Security in Florida." Students of color will achieve too

Editor:

I was just reading the article titled, "Bright Futures standards could rise, hurting students of color again" from April 24.

I don't usually write to the newspaper, but this article really has me irate. This article implies that students of color cannot compete academically and therefore 10.3 percent.

Reading that cartoon makes me wonder if the liar in chief is writing it, or perhaps it was Sarah Sanders.

Don't be a tool of the Russians

Editor:

The Mueller report is in. The facts are on the table and it is up to Congress to decide what the facts show us. We'll all have to see what happens and what the particular fallout may be.

However, one fact remains clear: The Russians did and continue to interfere in our elections.

I am dismayed that there has been no hue and cry, no public service messages, no word from our president or any of the contenders for the next election, and nary a word from our elected officials at any level.

The one issue that we should all agree upon is that we as a nation must be more diligent in how we treat our online accounts, whether email or Facebook, or any other medium. We have all been played and we need to put a stop to it. We need to look at what we read with a critical eye, not just accept everything as truth. New York is hamstrung by, among many other things, too much government, not too little. Let them keep their inefficiencies to themselves.

Improving county's water quality is a critical task

A s I mentioned in an earlier column, we created a water quality task force to enable us to address the Charlotte County Commission's strategic focus areas. The task force includes staff from multiple departments and divisions and one early job is to identify what we are already doing.

The scope of the undertaking is highlighted by breaking down all the categories of water, including surface, ground, well, storm, potable, waste and reclaimed. The relative quality of each type is determined by their designated uses and state or federal findings of impairment.

In an organization as large as county government, not everyone can be fully aware of all the work done by everyone else. This is why improving "line of sight" is so important. While not everyone will know exactly what their colleagues are doing, connecting their own work with strategic goals gives them an understanding of how their job contributes to the overall success of the county and the community.

That said, identifying all of the projects underway is necessary to give county administration and the board a broad awareness of our efforts, progress and potential future initiatives. Probably the most highprofile work underway is the sewer master plan, which kicked off with the East and West Spring Lake septic-to-sewer project. Design work is already being done on the next phase of the plan in El Jobean and the next area after that will be in the Ackerman-Countryman area of Port Charlotte, south of Edgewater Drive. The Utilities Department has also undertaken a wastewater line repair and replacement program to address the many older pipes installed by General Development Utilities several decades ago.

Other projects include testing water quality and monitoring and restoring water-filtering clam and oyster populations in Charlotte Harbor. We performed sediment removal from stormwater canals to improve their functionality and installed a floating treatment system in Sunshine Lake to prevent future algae buildup. Our fertilizer ordinance aims to reduce nutrient loads from residences and businesses. We'll soon be restocking the snook fishery to help it recover from last year's red tide outbreak. That's not all, but you get the sense of how much is going on.

The task force also is reviewing what other communities have done when faced with water quality challenges. One finding is that the economic impact of allowing water quality to degrade is a key driver behind convincing community leaders to act.

The County Commission is committed to restoring and protecting our water. Staff is actively working on many projects to meet the board's goals. The task force will bring additional information and proposals to the board in the coming weeks and months. We pledge to be diligent stewards of the natural bounty our county enjoys. I'll share more progress reports in future columns to let you know what we're doing and how it is working.

Stewardship award

Ralph Mitchell, Charlotte County's University of Florida-Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences extension agent, wrote to me about a distinguished honor received by one of our master gardener volunteers:

"I had the opportunity to attend a ceremony today where one of our master gardener volunteers, Becky Copenhaver, was awarded the Environmental Stewardship Award from the Florida Department Environmental Protection for (an) article she wrote about mangroves. DEP South District Office Director Jon Iglehart came up to present it. Mr. Iglehart said that their staff references the article when talking with new residents, snowbirds, or general customers as it is a perfect resource to talk about mangroves."

Congratulations to Becky on her recognition. We're fortunate to have so many people donate their time and expertise to help make Charlotte County a better place. Whether it's at the Extension Service, our libraries, Keep Charlotte Beautiful, the Community Emergency Response Team, advisory committees and more, volunteers are deeply appreciated by me and my colleagues. Softball tourney

Last month, the Punta Gorda/Englewood Beach Visitor & Convention Bureau partnered with Florida Half Century Softball to host one of their spring tournaments at Carmalita Field in Punta Gorda. The tournament, which Charlotte County has hosted the past several years, attracted 25 teams (23 of which came from outside Charlotte County). These teams generated approximately $116,000 in estimated direct expenditures, which translates into over $185,000 in total economic impact. In addition, more than 180 hotel room nights were tracked for the two-day event.

Ray Sandrock is the Charlotte County administrator. Readers may reach him at Raymond.Sandrock@ CharlotteCountyFL.gov.

Buckley's Pass, mural fencing to be considered

Prepayment notices were sent recently to benefitted properties at Buckley's Pass. To date, 66 payments have been received totaling $97,317. In addition, the bid for construction will be released and responses are due back in 30 days.

At its meeting today, the Punta Gorda City Council will consider an interlocal agreement with Charlotte County to place the benefitted properties into the Alligator Creek Waterway Unit, similar to properties within Burnt Store Isles. The current assessment for such properties in the Waterway Unit is $25 per year. The potential for the assessment has been brought up in previous public meetings and communicated in weekly reports.

City staff also addressed the Charlotte County Commission requesting $150,000 from boater improvement funds to support construction of the navigational channel. This was previously not recommended by the county's Marine Advisory Committee. The County Commission did not support the city's grant request.

FY 2020 budget

Last week's report highlighted tentative position additions to the General Fund in the areas of public safety, engineering and information technology. Even with these enhancements, the following comparisons can be made:

In Fiscal Year 2007 at the height of the economic upturn, the full time equivalent position count was 313 and the ratio of employees to population was 1.8. In FY 2014 at the lowest point of the economic downturn, the position count was 263, resulting in a ratio of 1.5. Using our population estimate of 19,957 in FY 2020 and comparing position count for the same departments/ divisions that existed in FY 2007, the position count will be 286 and the ratio of employees to population will be 1.4.

Fence request

The City Council will consider a request from the Punta Gorda Mural Society to consider installing a fence along the embankment areas of the Gilchrist Bridge (U.S. 41 SB) adjacent to the Harborwalk at today's council meeting. This request is due to the attractiveness of the area as the mural is nearing completion.

of Transportation.

Pickleball fencing

The fence contractor will be completing the work on the fencing toward the middle to end of May. The sound barrier material has been delivered and in storage. The consultant performing noise analysis will be able to complete his work thereafter.

Howard Kunik is the Punta Gorda city manager. His column appears Wednesdays. Readers may reach him at HKunik@ci.punta-gorda. fl.us.

TALLAHASSEE — A bill aimed at finding ways to control and alleviate toxic red tide blooms has won final approval by the Florida Legislature.

The House voted 112-1 for the measure providing $3 million a year for the next six years to research red tide. The bill now goes to Gov. Ron DeSantis.

The research would be a partnership between the state Fish and Wildlife

Florida recently experienced one of its largest red tide blooms in recorded history. The 15-month bloom caused respiratory irritations in people and killed sea turtles, manatees, dolphins and fish.

The main sponsor, Republican Sen. Joe Gruters of Sarasota, said the state has traditionally spent money on red tide research during a bloom, but the money dries up when the bloom ends.

more people from other states came to Florida for their pills.

Other states had a drug monitoring program that helped crack down on abuse. But Florida lawmakers continued to reject adopting a similar program. As the Sunshine State became a destination for addicts, governors in other states begged Florida to create a database.

It wasn't until 2009 that Florida did so, and it proved instrumental in shutting down pill mills. So instrumental, in fact, that the nation's opioid addicts that year turned to heroin, a chemically similar drug.

Today, current and former lawmakers see the same privacy argument, and some suspect it's just an excuse to give cover for big corporations.

"They used the word 'privacy,' which gets people's attention," said former Sen. Mike Fasano, who was instrumental in getting the drug database created in 2009 and is now the Pasco County tax collector. "What this comes down to is protecting the corporations that need to be held accountable for helping to create this epidemic we have.'

Sen. Gayle Harrell, R-Stuart, tried and failed six times to get the bill passed in the House in the 2000s. She supports Moody's effort.

"It's the same privacy argument," she said. "But we have learned a lot along the way. And it's even, I think, less germane at this point."

The database tracks all monitored drugs, from oxycodone to sleeping pills. But Moody can't use it for her civil lawsuit. By law, it's restricted to criminal cases and administrative actions against doctors.

It's not Moody's only way to get the data. She could get it from the companies themselves, through the discovery process. But the companies could drag the process out for years.

She's asking lawmakers to use parts of the state's own data in her civil case. She would not get patients' names, dates of birth, sex or addresses. Each patient would be assigned a random ID number.

And she would only be allowed to get philosophical reasons.

"I'm advocating against this bill because it's an expansion of civil liability and uses a state database to prove the civil liability parts of the AG's case," Large said.

He also has practical concerns about the bill. He fears that each person's "unique identifier number" will not really be unique, and that whoever gets the data will be able to decode it.

He also fears a potential data breach. While Virginia's drug database was hacked in 2009, however, Florida's has not been. And privacy concerns have largely centered around the fact that police were getting access to the database at an alarming rate. Lawmakers tightened the system a few years ago.

A spokeswoman for Moody dismissed Large's concerns.

"These issues are nothing more than conspiracy theories of a high paid lobbyist of a defendant in the State's lawsuit with no basis in reality," Lauren Schenone said in a statement. "Experts have concluded that you are more likely to be struck by a meteor than have your privacy compromised by this bill.'

Whether the Senate will take it up this week, in the final days of session, remains to be seen. Moody has been lobbying senators herself, and met with Senate President Bill Galvano, R-Bradenton, on Monday.

But on Friday, Galvano was skeptical his chamber would take it up. The bill has to pass the Rules Committee, but chair Lizbeth Benacquisto, R-Fort Myers, has refused to hear it, citing privacy concerns. Her brother-in-law is also a lobbyist for Walgreens.

"The concerns that were raised to me were regarding the privacy of certain information, and protecting certain information from an open analysis," Galvano said.

The bill sponsor, Sen. Tom Lee, R-Thonotosassa, thinks he has the numbers to get it passed — if it could get a hearing.

"I think there's clearly a privacy issue," Lee said. "And it is that there are certain pharmacies that want their information to remain private."

of the Village's southwest buildings facing Punta Gorda Isles.

Evans believes that his grandfather, F.M. "Don" Donelson, who originally developed Fishermen's Village nearly 50 years ago, would have been especially proud.

"Fishermen's Village struggled in a state of disrepair for many years of its existence, until the early 2000s, when it came into its own," Evans recalled. "Now, the Village's new owner has a spectacular five-year plan that will modernize my grandfather's original vision, but maintain that Old Florida, small town feel." According to Evans, the Village is undergoing a major culture change as its traffic increases. Village owner Jon Larmore, with the help of his local and national team including Jeremy Hamilton, plans dramatic new experiences for visitors and locals.

"From what I've seen working with them," said Evans, "Fishermen's Village will continue to be Punta Gorda's greatest asset well into the future. Its full potential has yet to be realized.

BBQ pulled pork sandwich in shape of small sliders with brioche buns.

And we feel especially fortunate that they've included local business people in their vision for the future."

The Pier will be a 6,000-square-foot, 300-seat, contemporary restaurant which will add a new dining genre to Fishermen's Village. Seating at The Pier will include a 20-foot sundeck boasting two banks of tables with views of Charlotte Harbor. The restaurant will be centered around a modern, Pacific-infused interior, draped with wall plantings. A 36-seat sushi and full-service bar will serve guests. There, they can watch sushi being created or choose from among stickyor fried-rice bowls with ingredients from ahi tuna to tempura shrimp, crab and fresh salmon.

Throughout the restaurant, tiers of booths and tables will give guests water views, whether they're seated inside, around the bar or on the waterfront deck. Local chef Todd Stolpe will orchestrate the kitchen. As executive chef, Stolpe brings 25 years' culinary experience to the job. Always seeking the perfect synergy of setting and cuisine, he's never written the same menu twice.

"We wanted to offer something unlike any other restaurant in town," said Stolpe. "This is the sort of fresh, new menu that you'd find in Tampa, St. Pete or Miami. We plan to work with seasonal, sustainable ingredients from land and sea, and focus on calorie-light, healthy cuisine."

A first in the local area, Chef Todd's menu marries Florida food with the traditional flavors and cooking methods of Hawaii, the Pacific Islands and the Pacific Rim, in dishes as diverse as kalua pulled pork, kona short ribs, Thai chili calamari, pot stickers, spring rolls and a full sushi menu. The basics are also there, including starters, salads, sliders, Stolpe's famous lobster mac and cheese, and such creative twists as hibachi diver U10 scallops with Yukon gold mash and jalapeño creamed corn.

Evans estimates The Pier will hire between 45 and 75 full- and part-time employees.

The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000 minimum, the Special Rate will not apply, and the interest rate will revert to the standard interest rate applicable to your Platinum Savings account. As of 02/15/2019, the standard interest rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in AR, CT, DC, FL, GA, MD, MS, NC, NJ, NY, SC, TX and VA with an account balance of $0.01 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12 month promotional period, standard interest rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. Offer not available to Private Banking or Wealth customers. 2. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 03/25/2019 to 05/31/2019. The 11-month New Dollar CD special requires a minimum of $25,000 brought to Wells Fargo from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank N.A., or its affiliates to earn the advertised APY. Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually. or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually. or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually. or annually. A fee for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the Special Rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. 1,2. Due to the new money requirement, accounts may only be opened at your local branch. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. Offer cannot be combined with any other consumer deposit offer, except the Portfolio by Wells Fargo $500 offer, available from March 25, 2019 until May 31, 2019. Offer cannot be reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waiters on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed. © 2019 Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. Douglas Peter Blake

Douglas Peter Blake, 89, died on Sunday, April 21, 2019 at Tidewell Hospice after a short battle with the son of Harold and Carmen Blake, brother of Martha. He graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1952 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration. While at UNH he lettered in lacrosse, was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Air Force ROTC.

In 1951 he married Nancy Carol Moore of Manchester, New Hampshire. They had two sons, Matthew, born in 1956 and Peter, in 1959. They were married 58 years until Nancy's death in 2009.

Previous residences include Durham, New Hampshire, Mount Holly, New Jersey; West Hampton, New York; Barrington, Rhode Island and Norwell, Massachusetts, Wellesley, Massachusetts; North Olmstead, Ohio; Rochester, New York; Jamestown, Providence and Warwick, Rhode Island; Bokeelia, Rotonda West and Port Charlotte, Florida.

He served two years in the Air Force as a 1st Lieutenant and the youngest full disbursement officer in the country at the time. After the service, he worked in sales for Addressograph Multigraph and then as a territory rep for Ritter Dental Equipment Mfg Company.

In 1966, he accepted the position of General Manager and Executive Vice President of Smith Holden, Inc of Providence Rhode Island, a dental equipment and supply firm with seven branches around New England. He continued his management duties there till his retirement in 1991. In his spare time, he loved serving on committees and organizations. During his life he served many years on the school board in Jamestown, Rhode Island, HOAs in Providence, Rhode Island and Port Charlotte, Florida. He was President of the American Dental Trade Association for two years and an active member of Connecticut Yacht Club in Jamestown, Rhode Island, where he served in various positions including race committee chairman and head of junior sailing program.

He and his beloved wife Nancy enjoyed many business and personal trips around the country and abroad including the Caribbean, Hawaii, Canada and the West Coast. In his earlier years, he enjoyed sailing with his family for pleasure and racing on Narragansett Bay and Newport, RI. In 2013, he married Mary Fullam of Port Charlotte, Florida. Together they spent six very happy years together watching golf and enjoying many great meals with family and friends. He loved visiting with his step children, Patrick, Mary Pat, her husband Peter, and their six children: Emma, Peter, Ethan, Coleman, Alice and Nathaniel.

He especially loved listening to them perform classical music pieces for him when they visited. Mary's annual family reunion was another favorite event he looked forward to every year. He was a tireless worker, a gourmet cook, loyal husband, father and friend who was always happy and willing to help others in need. He will be missed by all who knew him. No memorial services have been scheduled. In lieu of flowers memorial donations can be made to Tidewell Hospice, 1158 Veronica Street, Port Charlotte, FL. 33952.

John was an avid fisherman and baseball fan, including a lifelong devotion to the Baltimore Orioles. When he wasn't attending Rays games at Tropicana Field, he could often be found yelling at his television during college basketball games. John went by many names over his life. He was "Johnny B" to his friends and "Pops" to his sons. He was also known sometimes as "Coach B" or the "Fat Man's Son." He most valued, however, being called "Grandpa."

A celebration of life will be held at Harbor Heights Park on Sunday, May 5 at 11:30 a.m. In lieu of flowers, guests are asked to bring their best bad jokes, a fishing pole and a bucket of shrimp.

Online condolences can be made at pongerkaysgrady.com

Trump appointee has history of fighting National Weather Service

Watchdogs, others warn against former AccuWeather CEO leading NOAA

By STEVE CONTORNO

TAMPA BAY TIMES

President Donald Trump's pick to run the federal agency in charge of weather forecasting and water monitoring hit a snag this month. A federal report alleged widespread sexual harassment at AccuWeather, the former company of his nominee, Barry Myers.

It's the second time this year AccuWeather has faced accusations of a hostile work environment.

Few states have as intimate of a relationship with the agency Myers would lead, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, as weatherworried Florida. The agency's scientists study everything from sea level rise to coastal flooding and fisheries management. They predict hurricane activity. When storms arrive, its meteorologists forecast the rain and wind and surge.

Yet amid the controversy with Myers, Florida's two Republican senators, Marco Rubio and Rick Scott, wouldn't say if they support his nomination.

His former company's hostile work allegations aren't the only cloud to cast a shadow on Myers since Trump tapped him for the job in 2017. As the former CEO of the weather forecasting company AccuWeather, Myers made millions predicting the weather for clients. Meanwhile, he waged a decades-long war on the National Weather Service, often arguing that weather forecasts should mostly be left up to the private sector.

Myers would oversee the National Weather Service if confirmed.

Government watchdogs have questioned how Myers could oversee a federal agency that overlaps with a business he remains close to. The union representing federal meteorologists has questioned his credentials while environmentalists say a scientist should be in the job. The advocacy group Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility recently accused Myers of not telling the truth about his former company's appears on local news sites and in newspapers across the country, including in the Tampa Bay Times.

Barry Myers, the former CEO of AccuWeather, testifies in front of a Senate committee in 2016. Myers is now President Donald Trump's nominee to lead the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the agency that oversees the National Weather Service.

AccuWeather is perhaps best known for its 90-day forecasts that many in the industry have described as a gimmick. But the company also says it has delivered life-saving weather warnings to companies that pay for its customized notifications.

Myers' battles with the National Weather Service started in 1990 with the creation of the Commercial Weather Services Association. For the next two decades, the association's lobbyists tried to convince Congress that the federal government shouldn't be in the business of forecasting, except during extreme weather. The battle was recently chronicled by an extensive Bloomberg News report.

Their argument found a receptive ear in then-Sen. Rick Santorum, from AccuWeather's home state of Pennsylvania. In the mid-2000s, he introduced a bill that critics said would have hindered the National Weather Service. In the most extreme interpretation, no one could get a weather forecast for free.

The Trump administration wouldn't make Myers available for comment. AccuWeather declined to provide contact information for him.

AccuWeather declined to provide contact info for Myers and suggested trying to reach him through the White House. The White House deferred to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. A spokeswoman there said to contact AccuWeather. "Antagonistic," is how Phil Klotzbach described the relationship. He's a professor in Colorado State University's Department of Atmospheric Science and one of the country's foremost hurricane experts often cited in Florida. "I would definitely be very, very cautious," Klotzbach said. "We should be encouraging (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) to do more, not less. There's plenty of room for private sector, too." Others are less concerned. Craig Fugate, the former administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said the National Weather Service enjoys near universal support from Congress and is popular with most Americans. Unlike his predecessors, Myers isn't a scientist. But Fugate noted that Myers is more intimate with meteorology than many previous administrators, many of which come from other fields. In that sense, Fugate thinks Myers could help the agency modernize. "Some people are afraid they're going to sell off the weather service and privatize everything, but I don't see that happening. I'm not sure how much could be done before Congress steps in," said Fugate, who also once led Florida's Department of Emergency Management. "Then again, there are a lot of areas where the administration has done something that Congress has yet to deal with."

Nelson objected to what he said was an "immense cloud of conflict of interest" over Myers stake AccuWeather and his brother Joel's position heading it.

Joel Myers has also acknowledged founding a hedge fund that trades futures based on his weather predictions. What if Barry Myers — knowingly or otherwise — gave his brother advanced knowledge of a storm or a shifting weather pattern and Joel used that information to profit his fund?

In the face of such questions, Barry Myers stepped away from AccuWeather in January and sold his interest in the company.

But Walter Shaub, the former director of the U.S. Office of Government Ethics, said the arrangement could allow Myers to reclaim his stock after his tenure as NOAA administrator. He recently called Myers a "deeply concerning" appointee and said the deal to unload his stocks raises the possibility of a "sham transaction."

The latest news about AccuWeather's workplace environment only solidified Nelson's opposition, the Florida Democrat recently told the Tampa Bay Times.

It was learned in February that AccuWeather, which has a federal contract, agreed to pay $290,000 to women who said they were sexually harassed at the company. On April 12, the Washington Post reported that federal investigators found conditions for women there were "so severe and pervasive, that some female employees resigned." The investigation covered Myers' time as CEO. AccuWeather denies the allegations and it noted the company remains a qualified federal contractor. Myers in a recent op-ed said the company didn't fight the charges because it was being sensitive to female employees and didn't want to disrupt the workplace.

Scott recently voted for Myers in a committee but has been silent since.

During a recent stop in Tampa, Rubio said he had only "begun to look at the nomination" of Myers — an appointment first made 18 months ago — so he couldn't remark on him. But Rubio didn't seem concerned.

"I anticipate, given just the internal culture of (the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) and the way that agency operates that by and large it will continue to function professionally," Rubio said. "I'm pretty convinced that will be the case.'

Private weather forecasting is a growing, lucrative industry, led by the Weather Channel. Private forecasters, including AccuWeather, rely on the nearly infinite data collected by the federal government every day from satellites and radar. These companies take that data, analyze it, repackage it with slick graphics and distribute it to their customers.

Barry Myers once joked he wasn't made to predict the weather.

He enrolled in meteorology as an undergraduate, he told the Wall Street Journal in 2014, but dropped out.

"I was never interested in learning, which I look at now as sort of funny," he said.

His brother Joel Myers earned a doctorate in meteorology and in 1962 he founded AccuWeather in Pennsylvania.

Barry became a lawyer. He climbed the corporate ranks of his brother's company and ascended to CEO in 2007. Inc. magazine reported in 2016 the company brings in $100 million a year. Under Myers' watch, AccuWeather created one of the most downloaded mobile weather apps, and its forecasts

Last year, then-Sen. Bill Nelson helped blocked Myers' nomination.

Myers' nomination expired last year without a Senate vote. Trump re-nominated him earlier this year.

"For so many reasons, (the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) administrator is not the job for Barry Myers," Nelson told the Times last week. "We can do better and we must."

But Nelson's replacement is Rick Scott, a Republican. With a larger majority this year thanks partly to Scott's victory over Nelson — Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell is breaking Senate tradition to speed up Trump's appointments. Myers could be included in that fast track, though McConnell's office wouldn't confirm that.

Scott has not publicly spoken about Myers. "Senator Scott looks forward to discussing Mr. Myers' nomination" during his Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee confirmation hearing, Scott spokeswoman Sarah Schwirian said April 1.

There was no discussion during that hearing. Without any debate, Myers was recommended by the committee for confirmation on a 14-12 party-line vote. He awaits the approval of the full Senate.

Scott voted for Myers. His office has not responded to a request for comment since.

North Port releases flood rating results Some residents could see discounts on flood insurance

By TOM HARMENING

NORTH PORT — The city of North Port is currently rated a Class 6 community in the national Community

Rating System. What does this mean? It means discounts on flood insurance rates for many residents in the city. "We have improved our rating over time," said

Elizabeth Wong, Storm Water manager for the city of North Port. "This year we have gone up a number, which is good." Areas are rated on a

1-10 scale. Municipalities receiving a 1 rating earn no discounts on flood insurance premiums, while those rated a 10 receive a 45 percent rate discount. With the 6 rating, North

Sarasota County gets on board with composting

STAFF REPORT

SARASOTA — Sarasota County officials are hoping residents will get involved in composting to cut down on food waste.

It has scheduled a series of workshops for its residents.

The "Let's Make Some Black Gold" workshops "will provide participants education on the basics and benefits of composting, including reducing the amount of waste generated while creating landscape-friendly mulch and other composting byproducts," the county said in a news release.

UF IFAS Extension Sarasota County Agent Randy Penn will lead the home composting workshop, the news release states.

It will also keep continue its popular rain barrel workshop. It "teaches residents how to collect rain water and sells barrels for what the county pays." That teams with "the composting workshops will offer attendees the option to purchase a GEOBIN-brand composting bin for the $25 cost to the county. Bin purchase is not required to attend, however.'

"The composting workshops are a great introduction for anyone looking to get started with home composting," said Penn. "They're also a great way to help reduce the amount of food and yard waste we dispose of in landfills."

Officials said that Sarasota County residents put more than 275,000 tons of waste to landfills, according to data in the news release. It states about a quarter of it is "food waste, yard clippings, paper scraps and other organic material that could be composted."

Sarasota County leaders have encouraged residents to reduce water use through rain barrels since 2009.

"Since then, residents have bought more 3,200 rain barrels, with the potential to capture more than 176,000 gallons of stormwater after each rain," the county said. "That captured water then is used instead of potable water for irrigation needs."

Are you guilty of these five top sunscreen mistakes?

By LESLIE BAUMANN Bradenton Herald

May is National Skin Cancer Awareness Month, and according to data from the Skin Cancer Foundation, the number of new melanoma cases is expected to rise by nearly 8 percent in 2019.

So this is a fitting time to discuss some of the most common mistakes that people make when applying sunscreen and how to fix those bad habits to lower your risk of skin cancer and signs of aging.

MISTAKE #1: NOT WEARING SUNSCREEN EVERY DAY

If you do not wear sunscreen every day, it can't protect your skin from the sun's UV rays. A little bit of sun exposure every day adds up.

There are a variety of SPF options available that are safe and effective for even sensitive skin types, so there is no reason not to wear sunscreen. Many of my female patients now use a daily tinted SPF instead of facial foundation. For daily use, choose at least an SPF of 15. Do not rely on SPF in your makeup. It is better to use a tinted sunscreen.

MISTAKE #2: USING THE WRONG TYPE OF SUNSCREEN

You have probably heard of the recent legislation aimed at banning certain chemical sunscreen ingredients that have been shown to damage coral reefs. The Florida Keys recently passed such a ban.

When possible, choose sunscreens that do not contain oxybenzone and octinoxate, the two ingredients in question in the ban.

The CDE 15 that show a

Maybe you wear sunscreen, but are you doing it the right way?

the label. While you can still use these products to boost your SPF protection, always pair them with a standalone sunscreen.

Lip balms that contain SPF are a great choice for the lips. These can help to lower your risk of developing skin cancer on your lips, since the skin in this area is thin and does not produce its own natural antioxidants.

MISTAKE #4: NOT APPLYING ENOUGH SUNSCREEN

If you do not apply enough sunscreen, you won't be getting the maximum SPF protected listed on the bottle. Always apply ½ teaspoon of sunscreen to your face, and one ounce (think a full shot glass) to your body. If you are outside all day, I recommend that you reapply sunscreen at least every hour, or after swimming or sweating.

The SPF 15 that you use every day is not strong enough for prolonged exposure. If you are going to be in direct sun for more than 20 minutes, choose an SPF of 40+ and reapply every hour. You should choose water-resistant SPF if you'll be swimming, boating, or sweating a lot.

MISTAKE #3: RELYING ON SPF IN MAKEUP

Unfortunately, makeup foundations and facial powders that contain SPF do not provide adequate sun protection on their own. This is because the amount used in studies is much higher than the amount an average person applies.

You would need to apply 14 times the normal amount of powder and seven times the normal amount of foundation to achieve the SPF on

MISTAKE #5: MISSING COMMON AREAS

Don't forget to apply sunscreen to commonly missed areas, like the tips of your ears, the back of neck, your hairline, the part of your hair on your scalp, the back of your hands, and tops of your feet.

BOTTOM LINE

Wearing sunscreen on a daily basis is one of the most effective ways to reduce your risk of skin cancer and accelerated skin aging. Keep these tips in mind when applying SPF this beach season! Note: The proposed Ordinance 2019-10, (Adoption of Amendments to the City of North Port Unified Land Development Code) applies to the areas depicted on this affected zoning on this map.

All interested parties are invited to appear and be heard in respect to this Ordinance at the public hearings in the City Hall Commission Chambers. Written comments filed with the City Commission will be heard and considered and will be made a matter of public record at the meeting. These public hearings may be continued from time to time as announced at the hearings, as may be found necessary. The file peliinent to Ordinance 2019-10, TXT-18-128, may be inspected by the public at the Neighborhood Development Services Department, Planning Division, and in the City of North Port City Clerk's Office, 4970 City Hall Boulevard, North Port, Florida 34286, during regular business hours.

FGCU entrepreneurship students report earning $2.5M in gross revenue

www.yoursun.com

By THYRIE BLAND

FORT MYERS NEWS-PRESS

When college student Jade Gibson posted an advertisement on Craigslist in 2017 offering to play her violin at events, it was just a way for her to make some pocket cash.

"My parents got mad and said, 'You need to take that down because you are going to get kidnapped or something,'" said Gibson, 21, a Florida Gulf Coast University student.

Gibson said she ignored her parents and continued to try to drum up clients.

What started out as Gibson just trying to make some extra cash has turned into a business she calls Jade Strings. Gibson and a group of other women — all of whom play string instruments perform at weddings and other events. Gibson said the business grossed about $80,000 between 2018 and February 2019.

Gibson is a student in FGCU's two-year-old entrepreneurship degree program, and she credits her success to it. The program keeps a log of how many businesses its students start and how much the businesses gross. Students reported $2 million in gross revenue in fall 2018 compared to $2.5 million in spring 2019, the program's number show.

The program's 2018 numbers show 87 students reported having 122 businesses. In 2019, 119 students reported having 181 businesses.

Sandra Kauanui, director of the Institute of Entrepreneurship, said it has been surprising to see some of her students have some early success. She said she believes the students' accomplishments are tied to them being innovative and self-starters.

"They are not saying, 'OK, what do I do next?" she said. "They are just going out and getting it done.'

When Corey Umstott, 24, a junior, began taking classes at FGCU in 2018, he was a business major, and his dream was to open an automotive repair shop.

He said when he learned about the entrepreneurship program, he decided to switch his major and join FGCU's Runway Program, a startup incubator for student entrepreneurs.

Umstott, a longtime mechanic, said the program helped him launch a different idea - a mobile auto repair service called Eagle Auto Repair. Umstott said he goes to people's homes and places of work to perform everything from oil changes to repairs.

He started the business last month and has made about $1,800. Umstott said he thinks his idea has lots of potential because he has created a unique service for Fort Myers.

"If people text me at two in the morning, they have got something going on with their car, I am able to respond to them," he said. "They feel like they have that personal mechanic on their side instead of just going to a shop and being another number."

a violinist is we care about the theme. We care about the story."

Gibson said she tried various ways - not just Craigslist — to land gigs when she was mostly playing as a lone performer. She followed wedding vendors on Instagram. She also used to visit venues that held weddings and other events and offer to play.

Gibson said she had 50 events booked at one point. Gibson's sister helped out during some of the performances.

Gibson said it wasn't until late 2017 that she realized her ability to play the violin could lead to a lucrative business. She said she filed the paperwork creating her business in 2018, but she struggled with what to name it before settling on Jade Strings.

"People think that's my name now," she said. "I go into meetings, and people are like, "Oh, Miss Strings,

"I love music, but I realized I didn't really like studying music," she said.

Gibson said it was Kauanui who convinced her to change her major to entrepreneurship and join the Runway Program. Gibson said she is glad she did.

"I had the creative aspect of my business down," Gibson said. "I had website for a clothing the marketing side down, but I did not have the financial side down."

She said one of her first events after she posted the Craigslist ad was a wedding in Miami.

"I think I charged my first bride $80 because I didn't know what to charge," Gibson said.

Rough start leads to success

For senior Sofia Blanno,

said he didn't beat around the bush about what she should do.

"He basically said, 'Listen to me," Blanno said. "'You are going to fail at this idea. You are going to spend all your money. You either need to pivot, or you need to find someone who knows what they are doing in regards to technology on your team."

Blanno decided to pursue a new idea.

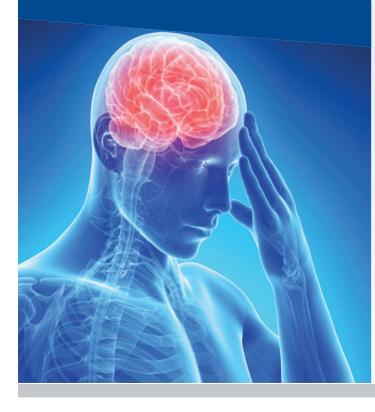

She has launched a subscription company. It's called Best Dressed. Blanno's customers fill out a style survey, and she sends them a box of clothes to rent with an option to buy.

Blanno, 22, said she started sending out clothes in October, and so far, she has made about $20,000 in gross revenue.

Biggest ever Block Party, just maybe

Drifters' concert.

It had been a couple years since I made my way to the Block Party. Other obligations got in the way, and I was somewhat hesitant to deal with the heat and the crowds. I couldn't resist the Drifters, however.

Neither could the other party-goers who donated about $18,000 for charitable organizations as they joined me Saturday on the blocked-off streets of Punta Gorda.

What used to be a beerfest has turned into a family event with special attention to kids' activities. A dozen directors and hundreds of volunteers navigate all sorts of challenges to pull off this free event each vear.

The main stage had a musical lineup guaranteed to draw a crowd. American Made, a popular local band that puts on a good Blues Brothers act, had the people fired up for the Drifters. And then, the BoogieMen closed out the night. If those three acts don't draw a crowd you better just give it up.

Tiny Hope will be queen of Derby Day 'Bourbon and Big Hats' fundraiser raises money for Englewood Beach Waterfest ENGLEWOOD — Kathy Genth envisions her trained riders leading a parade of horses in beautiful bridles.

Onlookers in vibrant red, green, yellow and purple derby hats will cheer. The community will have a great time celebrating the most famous horse race in the world and raise some money for a good cause at Genth's Branded Hearts Stables in Englewood.

And the special guest will be Genth's beloved miniature horse, Hope.

It will be a big day for a town that isn't considered to be in "horse country."

"It's hard to believe that we are three miles from the Gulf of Mexico," Genth said pointing to a large area at her stables on Morningside Drive. The area is designated for the parade, which will be part of Englewood's first-ever Derby Day event, set for 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Guests can mingle to an open bar with featured bourbon tastings, mint Juleps and lily drinks. "Horseplay" games of chance with Bryan Domian will be underway in tents. Guests will stroll among the giant oak trees planted 32 years ago by Genth's late father Richard.

Those sporting their finest spring derby headpieces can enter a "hattitude" competition. Additional festivities include games of skill like

The scramble was a handicapped event, open to men and women of all golfing ability levels. Event proceeds help the all-volunteer conference provide assistance to needy families and individuals in Charlotte County.

The greatest challenge for any Block Party is probably finding a parking spot. at 4:30 p.m. there were few to be found. The parking garage was full, as always. Parking lots at downtown businesses were equally jammed. I got lucky and found someone leaving — they'd had their share of partying and music I guess.

Food trucks were doing a decent business, but there were no lines that early. Phil Wilson was busy shucking corn for his corn on the cob booth to benefit Wilson's Warriors' Relay for Life team.

My son-in-law, Brandon Anceume, decided to try Bob's Wings. He gave them a thumbs up.

Finding a seat, or even a spot to stand, close to the main stage was almost impossible. Some people said they'd been there since 11 a.m. staking out a place for their chair. One guy offered me a seat for $7, but I have a real good idea it wasn't his seat to sell. So I passed.

The Drifters had the crowd singing along, dancing and screaming for more. The tuxedo-clad quartet, backed by a talented band, sang all their hits, including "Up on the Roof," "Under the Boardwalk" and "Broadway."

the Sandy Hook relatives flew in therapy horses to work with the grieving children after the massacre. She also wanted to help local disabled children, the elderly, battered women and others in crisis situations. She and her nephew Leland, now, 9, brought Hope, who stands 28 inches tall, to hospitals, nursing homes, Hospice, and other places. They've met blind patients and children with severe special needs.

"Hope comes into their room and puts her head on the patient's bed or lets the person pet her from their wheelchair," Genth said. "People are so surprised that this teeny, tiny horse came to visit them. Their eyes light up. It's so soothing and calming for them both."

Understanding Genth's passion for horse therapy and longtime connection to the boating world, the Derby Day committee thought she was the perfect person to do a joint fundraiser at the stables.

DECADENT DESSERT CAKES ARE HANDCRAFTED IN OUR BAKERY EVERY DAY FOR A DELICIOUS OCCASION ANY DAY.

There's pride in it. -

Our native grape, the muscadine Good for small fruit growers, they boast intense flavor

The first time that I tasted a muscadine grape was in Georgia. It was a pleasant difference from what I was used to, namely northern bunch-type grapes.

The thick skin and extra-large berry contained an intense grape flavor that made you want to eat more! Better yet, muscadines are just about pest-free and are in fact Florida natives. Available for home gardens in black, purple, pink or bronze varieties, these southern grapes make a great addition for any small fruit grower.

As mentioned above, muscadines are available in a multitude of cultivars. Several that may be available from local garden centers or on-line plant sources are recommended for Florida. Now while some muscadines have female flowers and must have a pollinizer to set fruit, these bronze cultivars — 'Carlos', 'Granny Val', 'Pineapple', and 'Tara' - for example, are self-fertile with perfect flowers that will produce fruit without cross-pollination.

These black-fruited varieties — 'Noble', 'Polyanna', and 'Southern muscadines is fifteen Home'- are also self-fertile.

Muscadines are adapted to a wide range of soils. Locally, these grapes most often come well-rooted in containers and you can plant them most anytime. Make sure to provide establishment and during droughty conditions. Once established, fertilize each plant with one-quarter pound of 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 (or its equivalent with micronutrients) in April after growth begins. Put the fertilizer down in bands about one foot to either side of the vine. During the second year, apply one pound of fertilizer per vine in March. From then on you can apply three pounds of fertilizer per vine during March.

Angels coming on strong in Port Charlotte Little League

By GARY BROWN SUN CORRESPONDENT

Port Charlotte Little League's major division teams are in the final week of their regular season with the playoffs awaiting them next week.

And right now it looks like a two-team race for the championship. The Brewers are still in first place in the regular-season standings, but the second-place Angels are right behind them. The Angels blanked the Brewers, 2-0, Friday night and came back Monday evening at the Harold Avenue Complex to rout the Red Sox, 9-0, in five innings to raise their record to 8-4. The Red Sox are in fourth place with a 2-9 record.

A.J. Mullins was the starting pitcher for the Angels and went three innings, keeping control of the game and forcing the Red Sox players to hit the ball on the ground most of the time. Darren Pyle Jr. pitched the last two innings for the Angels.

Brock Budreau belted two hits and four other Angels each had one hit. The winners took advantage of good base running, clutch hits and Red Sox errors in gaining the victory.

"I think we did a really good job," said Angels manager Brian Budreau. "The teams has improved a lot since the beginning of the season in hitting, pitching and defense.

"I think we have a good chance of winning (the playoff) if we can keep playing this.'

The Angels have not allowed a run in the past two games and have scored 11.

"We can be competitive," said Red Sox manager Cesar Herrera. "They just hit the ball better than we did. We can do well."

prelude of a possible playoff championship game. The Yankees are in third place and the Red Sox fourth in the regular-season standings

Besides the major division, Port Charlotte Little League also has the junior, minor, grapefruit and T-ball divisions. The Grapefruit Division is basically the same as the rookie divisions that the North Port and Englewood leagues have.

The league playoffs are double-elimination. After the playoffs, the all-star teams will be picked for the District 9 tournaments which begin in early and mid-June. District 9 includes teams from Port Charlotte, Fort Myers and the Cape Coral area. Teams from Fort Myers and Cape Coral have traditionally dominated the tournaments, but Port Charlotte has been competitive in most of them.

Why is Punta Gorda "The City of Hibiscus"?

Annual Hibiscus Festival is coming up this weekend

ood day to all! Did you know the 15th Annual Hibiscus Festival is coming up this weekend, May 3-5, downtown at City Market Place? I sure will be glad when the city is done with Gilchrist Park construction! Since Punta Gorda has not only been proclaimed the hibiscus city twice, but is also the birthplace of a worldrenowned hibiscus hybridizer, I believe it appropriate to rerun this column.

In 1926, the city council first passed an ordinance proclaiming Punta Gorda as "The City of Hibiscus." In conjunction with the proclamation, 2,200 red hibiscuses were ordered and planted throughout the city, which apparently made quite an impression on native son Harry Goulding, known as "Pete" to everyone in town.

Pete's dad, Joseph, had moved to Punta Gorda from North Carolina in 1895, intent on harvesting egret plumes in the Everglades. At the time a sought-after complement to ladies' hats, they were literally "worth their weight in gold." Soon after his arrival though, the market dissolved when their use became illegal. Joseph however, fortunately for us, decided to stay, becoming a fisherman.

Not too long afterward, in 1908, Harry was born.

Brought up in the business, Pete began as a "footer," whose job was moving a large gill net's loose end ("foot") to shore once fish were driven into the open net. The net's other end already being anchored to shore. Soon he began keeping the records for Captain Joe's fishing operation, going on to become a bookkeeper, and eventually vicepresident and secretary of the Punta Gorda Fish Company, one of five located on the railroad dock at the foot of King Street (U.S. 41 north) in the 1920's. Pete loved the fishing industry, but his passion became hibiscus hybridization.

He and his wife Reba, who grew up in Charlotte Harbor, resided in a small "board and batten" cottage, still standing albeit with subsequent additions, on West Retta Esplanade. The story goes that in the early 1930s, Pete travelled throughout the state, gathering samples of the 12 hibiscus varieties growing in Florida. From that stock, in his backyard, he developed many of those seen today, with almost 500 registered varieties to his credit.

Pete was also what some might call a "character" and a great storyteller with sharp wit, evidenced by some of the names bestowed on his creations; Hokey Pokee, Peeping Tom, Mini Skirt, Sleeping Single, and Honey Do. He especially enjoyed messing with "outof-towners" visiting him when they would inquire about his name, Harry or Pete? He'd respond, "My full name is Pedro Pathiro Patholo Guatemala Gouchinhimier Diaz Goulding," and then grin mischievously as they tried to write it all down.

Known internationally as "Mr. Hibiscus" and "King Harry," Pete was visited by hibiscus aficionados from around the world hoping to learn his techniques. His "hobby" garnered him hundreds of awards at flower shows and the American Hibiscus Society proclaimed his blooms "Best in the World" five times. The Society's local entity, the Harry Goulding Chapter, is named in his honor. On July 6, 1988, the city council, recognizing the accomplishments of Punta Gorda's native son, proclaimed Harry Goulding Day and in 2000, the council reaffirmed Punta Gorda's status as 'The City of Hibiscus."

Pete passed away in 1993 leaving the city, state, and world a more beautiful place.

Fortunately, there are several practitioners in southwest Florida continuing his legacy. You can see some of Harry's creations at the History Park in Punta Gorda on Shreve Street, look on the right side of the Cigar Cottage, and view photographs of Harry "Pete" Goulding at Charlotte County History Collections on line.

You can also purchase this year's signature bloom, "Mandarin Wind", some of King Harry's creations, and new hybridizations at the Hibiscus Festival coming up this weekend, May 3-5, downtown this year at City Market Place. Join us for great music, plants, and food, just $2 to get in.

"Did You Know" appears every other Wednesday, courtesy of this newspaper and the Charlotte County Historical Center Society. The Society's mission is to help promote and preserve Charlotte County's rich history. A family membership is only $35 and provides complimentary access to over 300 museums and technical centers nationwide. We are also always looking for volunteers and interested individuals to serve as board members. If you believe our area's history is as important as we do, please visit www. charlottecountyfl.com/ Historical/, or call 941-613-3228 for more information.

There comes a time

'am usually a reflective person, one that takes the time to take an analytical look at my life. The older I get, the more I realize there comes a time when it's healthy to access where I am and where I want to be.

To put it succinctly, there comes a time when vou are more aware of simple changes you need to make.

A while ago, I made a vow to stop buying more "stuff." There comes a time when you realize you don't even need the stuff you already have.

When I decided to give away things that no longer fit my lifestyle, I found new homes for the few antique pieces I've been hording and for the sterling silver serving pieces and good crystal I once loved.

But there are some treasures I could never part with, such as the wooden napkin holder with lopsided "jewels" pasted on it. I remember the grin on my granddaughter's face when she said, "Here Nona, I made this for you."

There comes a time when "precious treasures" get redefined from silver and crystal to popsicle-stick creations made by little hands and given with loving hearts.

There comes a time when you know what your father meant years ago when he told you he didn't need another shirt. There comes a time when you understand what he meant when he said as long as you gave him your love, it's the only gift he ever needed.

There comes a time when you know you can have too much of a material thing but you can never have too much love.

MIHALIK

There comes a time when you wish you could talk with your mother and father one more time.

There comes a times when you ask yourself what you would tell your departed loved ones if you could be with them one more time.

I've thought about that a lot and I've decided it all boils down to this: I would tell them I miss them more than words can say and always will love them with every fiber of my being.

I told them that many times, of course, when they were still here with me. But there comes a time when you know you can never say those words enough to those you love.

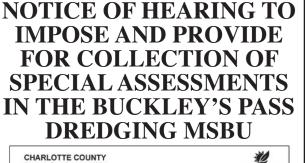

There comes a time when you wish you wouldn't have taken so many gifts for granted like having your husband come home at the end of a work day — or having the telephone ring and it's your mother wanting to know how was your day.

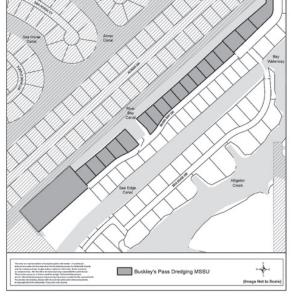

There comes a time when you want to hear from your own busy children and you know they will feel this same longing with their own children some day. There comes a time when you realize a routine telephone conversation with your mother is a gift that won't always be yours.

There comes a time when you wish you would've had more wisdom much earlier in life.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Charlotte County, Florida, will conduct a public hearing to consider creation of the Buckley's Pass Dredging Municipal Service Benefit Unit (MSBU), as shown above, and imposition of special assessments to fund the Buckley's Pass Dredging Project to improve water access to Alligator Creek and Charlotte Harbor. The hearing will be held at 10:00 A.M., or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, on May 28, 2019, in the Commission Chambers, Room 119, 18500 Murdock Circle, Port Charlotte, Florida, for the purpose of receiving public comment on the proposed Buckley's Pass Dredging MSBU, the imposition of assessments, and collection of the assessments on the ad valorem tax bill.

All affected real property owners have a right to appear at the hearing and to file written objections with the Board of County Commissioners any time prior to the public hearing. If a person decides to appeal any decision made by the Board of County Commissioners with respect to any matter considered at the hearing. such person will need a record of the proceedings and may need to ensure that a verbatim record is made, including the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be made.

The assessment for each parcel of real property will be based upon the total number of water access units (docks, ramps, slips, lifts, etc.) assigned on the date the assessment is imposed. A more specific description of the Dredging Project and the method of computing the assessment for each parcel of real property are set forth in the Initial Assessment Resolution adopted by the Board on March 12, 2019. Copies of the Initial Assessment Resolution and the preliminary Assessment Roll are available for inspection at the MSBU Division located at Room 229, Charlotte County Administration Center, 18500 Murdock Circle, Port Charlotte, Florida.

The proposed maximum annual assessment is $399.95 per Water Access Unit. The assessments will be collected on the ad valorem tax bill, as authorized by Section 197.3632, Florida Statutes. The County Commission intends to collect the assessments in three (3) annual installments, the first of which will be included on the ad valorem tax bill to be mailed in November 2019. Failure to pay the assessments will cause a tax certificate to be issued against the real property which may result in a loss of title.

If you have any questions, please contact the MSBU Division at (941) 743-1914.

WASHINGTON - Asylum seekers waiting to get into the U.S. sleep in small tents set up by the border, depending on volunteers and churches to bring them food and clothing. Some scrape together 25 cents to pay a toll to get on an international bridge where they can use a bathroom.

They've fled violence-ridden homelands, often arriving at the U.S. border deep in debt, paying $7,000 or more to smugglers. Under President Donald Trump's latest immigration proposal, they could face another demand on their meager resources: a fee to process their asylum applications. It's not known how much the fee might be, but any amount would likely be a burden.

"If we came from our country, it's because we didn't have the opportunity to work. We don't have money," said Suanny Gomez, a 24-year-old woman from Honduras who waited in a tent with her 5-year-old son, William.

The proposed application fee and other changes are the latest in a series of proposals from an administration struggling to cope with a surge of migrant families arriving at the southern border. The migrants have overwhelmed federal resources and complicated Trump's efforts to claim victory at the border as he runs for re-election next year.

The fee proposal was part of a memo Trump signed Monday directing his attorney general and acting homeland security secretary to take additional measures to overhaul the asylum system, which he insists is plagued by "rampant abuse." It said the application fee would not exceed the cost of processing applications, but officials did not immediately provide an estimate for what that might be.

Campus shooting leaves 2 dead, 4 injured

Suspect in custody in shooting at North Carolina university

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — A shooting on a North Carolina university campus left two people dead and four wounded Tuesday, prompting a lockdown and chaotic scene in the state's largest city.

UNC Charlotte issued a campus lockdown late Tuesday afternoon, saying shots had been fired. Later in the evening, the campus was declared secure after a suspect was taken into custody.

"Shots reported near kennedy. Run, Hide, Fight. Secure yourself immediately," the university said in an alert, referring to the school's Kennedy building on campus.

Mecklenburg Emergency Medical Services Agency said on Twitter that two people were killed, two others had life-threatening injuries and another two people were treated for less serious injuries. They said the numbers could change.

Aerial shots from local television news outlets showed police officers running toward a building, while another view showed students running on a campus sidewalk.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department later said that the campus had been secured and that officers were going through buildings to let people who had sheltered in place know that it was safe. Police said that one suspect was in custody, and it didn't appear that others were involved.

It was not immediately clear whether the victims were students.

The university has more than 26,500 students and 3,000 faculty and staff. The campus is located northeast of the city center and is surrounded by residential areas.

Dems vow to enforce subpoenas as Trump resistance grows By LISA MASCARO and MARY CLARE JALONICK

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Democrats are steeling for a no-holds-barred fight with President Donald Trump as the White House ignores subpoenas, denies access to witnesses and otherwise stonewalls congressional oversight in the aftermath of special counsel Robert Mueller's investigation.

In the latest case, Trump, his family and the Trump Organization have filed a lawsuit against Deutsche Bank and Capital One attempting to thwart congressional subpoenas into his financial and business dealings, asserting the requests are out of bounds. That comes as Trump's Treasury Secretary is declining to produce the president's tax returns, Attorney General William Barr is threatening to back out of his agreement to appear this week before the Judiciary Committee and former White House Counsel Don McGahn and other officials are being told not to testify before Congress. The standoff pits the legislative and executive branches in a constitutional showdown not seen since the Watergate era. Neither side is expected to back down. Trump says since Mueller finished his report of Russian interference into the election, there's no further need to investigate. And while Democrats say it's their duty to conduct oversight and are adamant that they will win in the end, they are also confronting the limits of their own enforcement powers. "He's prepared to fight us tooth and nail. And we're prepared to fight him back," said Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Ca., the chairwoman of the Financial Services Committee. "He obviously has something to hide."

Guaidó urges opposition uprising in Venezuela

Opposition leader calls for military to oust socialist leader Maduro

By SCOTT SMITH and CHRISTOPHER TORCHIA

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARACAS, Venezuela — Opposition leader Juan Guaidó took a bold step to revive his movement to seize power in Venezuela, taking to the streets Tuesday to call for a military uprising that drew quick support from the Trump administration and fierce resistance from forces loyal to socialist Nicolas Maduro.

The violent street battles that erupted in parts of Caracas were the most serious challenge yet to Maduro's rule. And while the rebellion seemed to have garnered only limited military support, at least one high-ranking official announced he was breaking with Maduro, in a setback for the embattled president.

In a Tuesday night appearance on national television, Maduro declared that the opposition had attempted to impose an "illegitimate government" with the support of the United States and neighboring Colombia. He said Venezuela had been a victim of "aggression of all kinds."

Meanwhile, Guaidó sought to keep the momentum going at the end of the day by releasing his own video message in which he pressed Venezuelans to take to the streets again on Wednesday.

Florida lawmakers approve new private school voucher bill

By CURT ANDERSON Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE— Florida lawmakers sent Gov. Ron DeSantis a Republican-crafted bill Tuesday to create a new voucher program for students to attend private and religious schools using taxpayer dollars traditionally spent on public schools.

The GOP-led House voted 76-39 largely along party lines to authorize the $130 million Family Empowerment Scholarship program after hours of debate over two days. It would be available to as many as 18,000 students in its first year, limited to families of four with annual incomes of $77,250 or below.

DeSantis is a strong supporter of what the GOP calls school choice efforts and is expected to sign the bill into law. Former Gov. Jeb Bush, who pushed for similar school voucher bills during his tenure, was in the House chamber for the vote.

"We're making history today," said Republican Rep. Jennifer Sullivan of Eustis, who chairs the House Education Committee. "It is not about public vs. private. It is about our students. We are giving parents real choice in this bill."

Democrats contend the program would strip away money from cash-strapped public schools. They note that the Florida Supreme Court found a similar law unconstitutional in 2006 and claim this proposal would meet the same fate, although DeSantis has appointed three new justices with a far more conservative outlook than the previous court. "The proponents of this legislation won't be satisfied until our entire education system has been privatized," said Rep. Loranne Ausley, a Tallahassee Democrat. "These (vouchers) are slowly killing our traditional public schools." Sullivan said she expected the measure would survive a court challenge. "I don't think it's unconstitutional. That will ultimately be for the Supreme Court to decide," she said.

Florida already has other voucher programs, including a tax break for businesses that provide private school scholarships for low-income students. Other programs provide vouchers for students with special needs, those who are disabled and those who are bullied. Thousands of students attend private schools through these programs, some of which have lengthy waiting lists.

The new voucher program would place priority on the students from the lowest-income families. All students in the program would be eligible until they graduate high school or turn 21, whichever comes first. In addition to the vouchers, the bill modifies the "Best and Brightest" program that awards bonuses to the most effective classroom teachers and to principals based on a school's academic improvement. It eliminates use of a teacher's SAT or ACT scores as a factor in getting a bonus, according to a Senate staff analysis.

But it was the voucher part of the bill that attracted the most attention and debate, and there were a few Democrats who supported it. One was Rep. Kimberly Daniels of Jacksonville, who said she realized she was a "sore thumb that sticks out" in her party but noted that constituents in her urban district were in favor because many public schools are sub-standard.

"I believe there's room for all types of schools and all types of education," Daniels said.

Police say man threatened pet store after puppies got sick

PEMBROKE PINES (AP) — A Florida man is accused of calling a pet store and threatening to "shoot all the employees" because his newly purchased puppies got sick.

Police in Pembroke Pines arrested Jamie A. Militana on Monday and he's charged with making a false report of an explosive weapon. A judge set a $15,000 bond and he remained in jail Tuesday.

The SunSentinel reports that Militana is accused of calling Puppies and Rescues on April 5 to complain about his puppies getting sick. A police report says Militana told the employee who answered the phone that he has a shotgun and would come to the store.

Teen detained following social media threats against school

VERO BEACH (AP) — Authorities say a Florida teen has been detained after posting threats against a school on social media.

Treasure Coast Newspapers reports that the Vero Beach High School student was detained off-campus Monday. An Indian River County school district spokeswoman says the student had been seen on campus but was later detained by sheriff's deputies off school grounds. The sheriff's office says no weapons were involved or recovered.

Officials say the high school and a nearby learning center were briefly placed on a precautionary status where classes proceeded normally but not a full lockdown.

Another federal judge also withdrew from the case because he's friends with the 71-year-old lawyer.

Negotiators reach deal on Florida state budget

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida legislative negotiators struck a deal Tuesday night on a multibillion-dollar state budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1, including a significant increase in spending on public schools. The House and Senate cannot cast final votes on the spending plan at the earliest until late Friday, the scheduled final day of the 60-day legislative session. State law requires a 72-hour "cooling off" period before a final vote so the document can be reviewed.

Public schools, which make up a large chunk of the spending, would see an overall increase of more than $782 million or about 3.7% in the main account compared with last year, according to budget documents. That translates to a little over $242 additionally per student for the coming school year.

The agreement also calls for a nearly 2% increase in discretionary money that Florida's 67 school districts can use for a variety of purposes, including raises for teachers and school staff.

The budget includes about $682 million for environmental needs such as Everglades restoration and protection of Florida's many freshwater springs. It would spend more than $280 million on education construction and maintenance work and tens of millions of dollars on a variety of programs to help the Florida Panhandle recover from Hurricane Michael.

Instagram story aims to engage new generation with Holocaust

Sri Lanka lifts social media ban

By ISAAC SCHARF and AUDREY HOROWITZ Associated Press

JERUSALEM — For seven decades, survivor testimony has been the centerpiece of Holocaust commemoration.

But with the world's community of aging survivors rapidly shrinking and global understanding of the genocide that killed 6 million Jews declining, advocates of Holocaust remembrance are seeking new and creative ways to share witnesses' stories with younger generations.

Much as Anne Frank's diary gripped the older generations, an Instagram account based on a true 13-year-old Jewish victim's journal, called Eva.Stories, is generating buzz among the young.

"If we want to bring the memory of the Holocaust to the young generation, we have to bring it to where they are," said the project co-producer, Mati Kochavi, an Israeli high-tech billionaire who hails from a family of Holocaust victims, survivors and educators. "And they're on Instagram."

Kochavi and his daughter, Maya, have created a series of 70 Instagram stories that chronicle the downward spiral of Eva Heyman's life in the fateful spring of 1944 when the Nazis conquered Hungary.

Heyman was one of approximately 430,000 Hungarian Jews who were deported to Nazi concentration camps between May 15 and July 9, 1944. Of the estimated 6 million Jews killed in the Holocaust, around 568,000 were Hungarian, according to Israel's Yad Vashem Holocaust memorial.

Heyman's tale, produced as a Hollywood-style movie with a cast of foreign actors and multi-million dollar budget, will stream throughout Israel's Holocaust Remembrance Day, which begins at sundown Wednesday. The installments appear as if Heyman had owned a smartphone during World War II and was using Instagram to broadcast her life updates.

The story goes live Wednesday afternoon, opening with Heyman's happier adolescent experiences then darkening as night falls. The Nazis tighten their hold on Hungary's Jews, confiscating her family's business, belongings and home, deporting Heyman to the ghetto and ultimately to the Auschwitz death camp. The story's climactic event is timed to follow Israel's two-minute siren that wails nationwide on Thursday, bringing the country to a standstill at 10 a.m., in annual commemoration of Jewish Holocaust victims.

Even days before the series' release, the account had amassed over 180,000 followers.

One of them was Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who posted a video to Instagram on Monday urging Israelis to follow the account and spread stories of survivors via social media in order to "remind ourselves what we lost in the Holocaust and what was returned to us by the creation of the state of Israel."

"What if a girl in the Holocaust had Instagram?" asked the trailer, released on Sunday. The brief film shows simulated cellphone footage of Heyman's fictionalized life, from dancing with friends and a birthday with her grandparents, to Nazi troops marching through the streets of Budapest.

Dozens of Holocaust victims kept diaries of their experiences, with the best known work written by Anne Frank.

The Kochavis pored over scores of the diaries before deciding on Heyman, who, Maya Kochavi said, is the kind of girl "a modern kid in 2019 could connect to," with an unrequited middle school crush, family drama and grand ambitions to become a news photographer.

They hope Heyman's firsthand account will engage otherwise disinterested or uninformed youth.

imposed after Easter blasts

By BHARATHA MALLAWARACHI and KRISHAN FRANCIS

Associated Press

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — Sri Lanka on Tuesday lifted a social media ban that was imposed after the Islamic State-claimed Easter bombings, a sign of security easing even as a Cabinet minister said he and others had received intelligence that they could be targeted by the same group in possible new attacks.

President Maithripala Sirisena ended the blocking of Facebook, WhatsApp, YouTube and other popular sites, but asked the public to "act in a responsible manner" on social media, according to a government statement.

The government had said it was seeking to curb the spread of misinformation when it blocked social media in the wake of the April 21 bombings at churches and luxury hotels that killed 253 people.

Sri Lankan officials have warned that suspects linked to the bombings are still at large, and on Tuesday, Sri Lanka's health minister, Rajitha Senarathna, said he and seven other government ministers had been identified by intelligence officials as targets of possible additional suicide attacks this week, by the same Islamic State-linked group of Sri Lankan militants.

Senarathna said he stayed at home Sunday and Monday upon the officials' request. He declined to provide additional information about the source or type of intelligence.

At the same time, some of Sri Lanka's South Asian neighbors investigated possible activities in their countries inspired by the Easter attack.

In India, the country's National Investigative Agency said it had arrested a 29-year-old Indian man who identified himself as a follower of Mohammed Zahran, the Sri Lankan militant who officials say led the Easter attacks.

Investigators said in a statement late Monday that Riyas A., also known as Riyas Aboobacker, was plotting a similar suicide attack in the southern Indian state of Kerala. Three other people were brought in for questioning about suspected links to IS, according to the statement.

During a search of their homes, digital devices including mobile phones, SIM cards, memory cards, pen drives, diaries with handwritten notes in Arabic and Malayalam and untitled DVDs and CDs with religious speeches were seized, the statement said. The digital material was being forensically examined.

Dems say Trump agrees to $2 trillion infrastructure tab

By KEVIN FREKING and LISA MASCARO ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON - President Donald Trump and Democratic congressional leaders agreed Tuesday to work together on a $2 trillion infrastructure package but put off for later the difficult question of how to pay for it.

Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer said there was "good will in the meeting" — a marked departure from the last meeting between Trump, Schumer and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, which ended with Trump walking out in a huff. Schumer said the two sides agreed that infrastructure investments create jobs and make the United States more competitive economically with the rest of the world. Most importantly,

Schumer said, "we agreed on a number."

"Originally, we had started a little lower. Even the president was eager to push it up to $2 trillion, and that is a very good thing," Schumer said.

Added Pelosi: "We did come to one agreement:

that the agreement would be big and bold."

Pelosi and congressional Democrats had asked for the meeting electrical grid. with Trump to discuss launching an ambitious building program that's a top priority for the party and has been a rare area of potential bipartisan accord with Republicans. Trump, too, has long promised a big infrastructure plan.

The dozen Democratic lawmakers in the meeting with the president called it a constructive start. They said Trump agreed that infrastructure investments should go beyond roads and bridges and include broadband, water systems, and enhancements to the Democrats also put the onus on Trump to come up with a funding source, and said they would meet again in three weeks, when the president will present his ideas. The nation's top business groups and labor unions support increasing the federal gasoline tax, currently 18.3 cents a gallon. It was last raised in 1993.

Asked whether Trump supports raising the gas tax, White House adviser Kellyanne Conway said before the meeting: "This president is the guy who lowers taxes."

Attorney General William Barr speaks about the release of a redacted version of special counsel Robert Mueller's report during a news conference on April 18.

Barr to face Mueller report questions at Senate hearing

By ERIC TUCKER and MARY CLARE JALONICK ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William Barr on Wednesday will face lawmakers' questions for the first time since releasing special counsel Robert Mueller's Russia report, in what promises to be a dramatic showdown as he defends his actions before Democrats who accuse him of spinning the investigation's findings in President Donald Trump's favor.

Barr's appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to highlight the partisan schism around Mueller's report and the Justice Department's handling of it. It will give the attorney general his most extensive opportunity to explain the department's actions, including a press conference held before the report's release, and for him to repair a reputation bruised by allegations that he's the president's protector. Barr is also invited to appear Thursday before the Democratic-led House Judiciary panel, but the Justice Department said he would not testify if the committee insisted on having its lawyers question the attorney general. His appearance Wednesday will be before a Republican-led committee chaired by a close ally of the president, Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina, who is expected to focus on concerns that the early days of the FBI's Russia investigation were tainted by law enforcement bias against Trump. Democrats are likely to focus on Barr's statements and actions in the last six weeks that have unnerved them. The tense relations are notable given how Barr breezed through his confirmation process, picking up support from a few Democrats and offering reassuring words about the Justice Department's independence and the importance of protecting the special counsel's investigation.

'Hadestown' leads Tony Award nominations with 14 nods

By MARK KENNEDY

AP ENTERTAINMENT WRITER

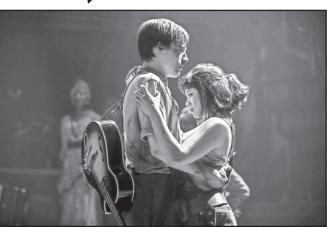

NEW YORK -

"Hadestown," singersongwriter Anaïs Mitchell's Broadway debut, earned a leading 14 Tony Award nominations Tuesday, followed by the jukebox musical "Ain't Too Proud," built around songs by the Temptations, which received a dozen nominations.

The musical "Hadestown," which intertwines the myths of Orpheus and Eurydice and Hades and Persephone, bested more familiar names, including stage adaptations of the hit movies "Tootsie" and "Beetlejuice," which both also got best musical nods. The giddy, heartwarming "The Prom" rounds out the best new musical category.

"Hadestown" also was the only new musical on Broadway directed by a woman, Tony Award nominee Rachel Chavkin, who earned another one Tuesday.

"I'm trying not to swear, but I am so proud of the 14 nominations. There is just not a weak spot on the team. There is no place where we haven't all been working our asses off to make this show feel as ancient and as 'now' as possible, simultaneously,' she said by phone.

The best-play nominees are the Northern Irish drama "The Ferryman," from Jez Butterworth; James Graham's "Ink," about Rupert Murdoch; Taylor Mac's Broadway debut, "Gary: A Sequel to Titus Andronicus"; Tarell Alvin McCraney's "Choir Boy"; and Heidi Schreck's "What the Constitution Means to Me," a personal tour of the landmark document at the heart of so many American divisions.

Des McAnuff, who directed "Ain't Too Proud," pointed to the timeliness of his musical, which charts the rise, sacrifices and challenges facing the 1950s group that sang "Baby Love" and "My Girl."

"I think when people come to the Imperial Theatre, they'll find that the story is as pertinent now as it was when they lived it," he said. "It applies to Black Lives Matter and what's going on in this country in terms of the tensions today."

"Tootsie" director Scott Ellis was also recognized for being able to modernize the problematic 1982 film source, about a struggling actor who impersonated a woman to improve his chances of getting a job. The show on Broadway embraces #MeToo and the push for equality.

'We made the decision that we couldn't and didn't want to put the film onstage," Ellis said after his show got 11 nods. "The core of it is still, 'How far will someone go to do what they love?' So that freed us up to explore relationships and how times have shifted and how women are demanding equality."

Theater veterans were surprised to see Aaron Sorkin's adaptation of "To Kill a Mockingbird"; "Hillary and Clinton," about Hillary Clinton's 2008 presidential campaign; and the stage adaptation of the media satire film "Network" not getting best play nods, though they did earn recognition in other categories. Many also expected the celebrated actress Glenda Jackson to be nominated for playing "King Lear" but it was not to be.

US stocks post meager gains; S&P 500 index hits new high

By ALEX VEIGA

AP BUSINESS WRITER

Wall Street capped a day of mostly wobbly trading with meager gains Tuesday, enough to nudge the S&P 500 to an all-time high for the third straight day.

The benchmark index spent much of the day hovering below its previous high, but edged up in the last few minutes of trading.

Household goods makers, health care stocks, utilities and other sectors helped lift the market, narrowly offsetting a steep decline in communications companies.

Google's parent company, Alphabet, led the slide after the search giant reported a slowdown in revenue growth. Retailers and hospitality industry companies also fell.

The market's latest gyrations came as investors weighed the latest batch of corporate earnings reports.

The S&P 500 rose 2.80 points, or 0.1 percent, to 2,945.83, a record. The Dow Jones Industrial Average added 38.52, or 0.1 percent, to 26,592.91. The Nasdaq fell 66.47 points, or 0.8 percent, to 8,095.39.

designating Muslim Brotherhood a terrorist group

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Donald Trump and his national security team are weighing whether to designate the Muslim Brotherhood a foreign terrorist organization, the White House said Tuesday.

White House press secretary Sarah Sanders said Trump was consulting with his advisers and leaders in the region who share his concern about the Islamist movement with followers across the Middle East. "This designation is working its way through the internal process," she said.

The New York Times first reported on Tuesday that the administration was pushing to designate the group, but the idea is not new. Some people think the Muslim Brotherhood does not meet the legal criteria required for the designation.

The group was founded in Egypt in the late 1920s and now operates in many countries. Egypt's President Abdel-Fattah el-Sissi came to power in 2014 after removing his predecessor, Mohammed Morsi, who came from the Muslim Brotherhood. Egypt has since outlawed the group and has encouraged the U.S. to follow suit.

To meet the legal criteria for the designation, a group must engage in terrorist activity that threatens the security of Americans or the defense, foreign relations or economic interests of the United States.

His attorneys want to be able to view the full report as they prepare for trial. Material relating to Stone's case was blacked out in the report. Jonathan Kravis, an assistant U.S. attorney, says the government has no obligation to provide the information Stone seeks. He says prosecutors have already given Stone significant information, including grand jury testimony and material that may be favorable to his defense.

Georgia Democrat Abrams won't run for Senate in 2020

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Democrat Stacey Abrams says she will not run for a U.S. Senate seat in 2020, dimming her party's hopes of a Senate majority and renewing speculation about her political future after last year's unsuccessful run for governor catapulted her to national acclaim.

Abrams, 45, came within 60,000 votes of being the first black woman elected governor in U.S. history. She idential bid, though she's in no rush to join a Democratic field that already includes 20 candidates.

"I'm going to continue to watch how the national conversation around the presidency unfolds," Abrams said in an interview after she told Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer, her chief Senate advocate, of her plans.

West Virginia hospitals sue opioid companies seeking damages

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) - Hospitals in West Virginia have banded together to sue some of the country's largest opioid companies, saying they flooded Appalachia with powerful painkillers and forced medical centers to deal with the financial repercussions.

Nearly 30 West Virginia hospitals and 10 affiliates in Kentucky have signed on to the suit filed Monday in Marshall County, West Virginia. The hospitals' lawyer said the case is the first time a large group of hospitals in a state has teamed up to take legal action against opioid firms. The hospitals are seeking monetary damages to cover the costs of treating people with opioid addictions.

The suit is just the latest legal action against opioid companies. There are about 2,000 such suits across the country filed by state and local governments, American Indian tribes, unions, hospitals and others seeking to hold the drug industry responsible for the opioid crisis.

Chewy.com hopes to overcome gnawing Wall Street memories

NEW YORK (AP) -PetSmart's online pet store Chewy is selling its stock in an initial public offering that may revive memories of the days when its breed of internet retailing seemed like a lost cause.

The Dania Beach, Florida, company is setting out to raise $100 million, but that figure listed in documents filed Monday is likely to change in the weeks ahead as Chewy's bankers gauge investor demand for the IPO. If all goes according to plan, Chewy's share will trade under the ticker symbol "CHWY."

It marks the latest IPO in a parade of unprofitable technology companies led by ride-hailing services Uber and Lyft trying to persuade investors that they are mining markets that eventually will turn into money makers.

Chewy, which hasn't been profitable since it was founded in 2011, stands out from the rest of the crowd because of its involvement in online pet sales — a niche that turned into a financial wasteland as hundreds of internet companies imploded after raising billions of dollars during the late 1990s. Assessing effectiveness of SAM-e for post-menopause mood

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am

a 52-year-old woman coming out the other side of menopause. I've had a smooth ride through it, with the exception of occasional mood swings. I've been taking SAM-e since I found out about it on the internet. I did not want to take a prescription medicine, nor did l feel my mood swings were strong enough to warrant doing so. I just wanted to be a little more upbeat, positive and energetic. I have found it to be very helpful. Recently, I have had a few people tell me that SAM-e can cause various issues, most notably thyroid malfunctions and cancers. Can you please speak to both the efficacy and potential harm of SAM-e for women in my situation? — J.A.

ANSWER: S-adenosyl methionine is a naturally occurring substance commonly used as a supplement in the U.S. for arthritis and depression. The evidence on SAM-e is mixed, but there are small studies that show SAM-e to be effective for depression, about as effective as some prescription drugs, but with fewer side effects. However, larger studies were not as hopeful, and my opinion is that while it is a lot better than nothing, SAM-e is not as effective as the better-studied prescription drugs for depression. This may not be applicable to mood swings. Since it does seem to be working for you, I can reassure you on one point: There is no reliable evidence that SAM-e increases risk of cancers or thyroid disease. The major side effects, which are rare, are upset stomach and dizziness. SAM-e may interact with other medications, so if you do start taking any, please discuss with your doctor or pharmacist.

DEAR DR. ROACH: MV husband is 72 and suffers from heart disease, kidney disease and diabetes. Almost daily, he chokes, with extreme coughing and loss of breath, when eating or drinking. This is getting worse as time goes on. Is there a relationship between this constant choking and heart disease? Heart surgery is not possible because of his kidney disease. Is there anything we can do to keep him from choking? — S.T.

ANSWER: The word "choking" is nonspecific. I can't be sure what you mean exactly. However, in a 72-year-old person with medical issues, the most common problem that is described as choking while eating or drinking is a swallowing issue, the medical term for which is dysphagia, from the Greek roots meaning "bad eating." This is separate from painful swallowing (odynophagia).

The underlying defects are generally broken down into two categories: problems in the mouth to pharynx and problems in the esophagus. When I hear "choking," I tend to think more of problems in the mouth and pharynx.

There are many concerns for frequent choking, gagging and coughing, but the one that is most concerning to me is aspiration, when food or liquids go into the trachea and lungs instead of into the esophagus and stomach. This can lead to infection and damage to the lungs. Because of this, it's very important to get him evaluated.

Evaluation of suspected aspiration is complicated and may require multiple professionals, including a radiologist, speechlanguage pathologist, ENT doctor and gastroenterologist.

I don't have enough room to discuss all the possible reasons for your husband's symptoms. Treatment will depend on the findings of the workup, but it often includes swallowing rehabilitation and changes in food consistency.

MARMADUKE By Brad Anderson

Wife in love with girlfriend resolves to end marriage

DEAR ABBY: My

boyfriend, "Mason," and I have been dating for eight months, and it has been going well. However, there is one thing standing in our way — his mom and sisters.

Mason is the only boy. His parents divorced when he was young. His mom never remarried, but his father did. His two sisters (one older, one younger) don't have boyfriends. The three of them constantly make comments whenever Mason and I go out and do things — that he's spending too much money or isn't at home enough.

They critique everything Mason does, from what he wears to how much money he earned in his last paycheck. It's like they're obsessed with him.

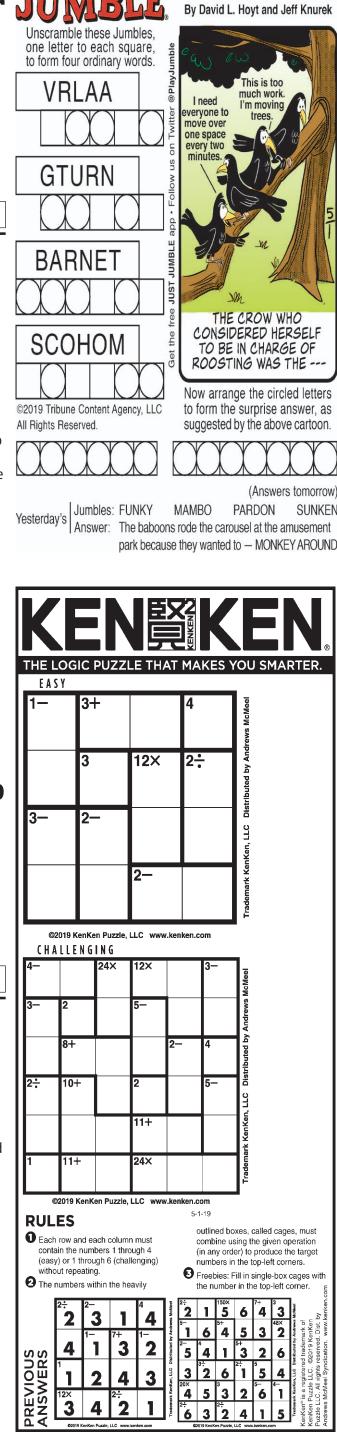

They plan vacations while I'm around and don't invite me. I haven't been invited over for any holidays or family functions. I love Mason and want a future with him, but I can't continue dealing with the nonsense from his jealous mom and sisters. It's causing a huge strain. Mason knows how upset I am. He says he has talked to them, but their behavior hasn't changed. If he won't take matters into his own hands, should I? --- Competing In New Jersey

DEAR COMPET-ING: No! Until Mason is mature enough to put his foot down, his mother and sisters will continue to decide for him who he dates, how much time he spends with her and whether he is earning "enough" money to be seeing anyone. You cannot and should not compete with his family because it isn't healthy for you or your relationship. Remember, Mason will likely always be a package deal, and if you can't accept it, you should end things. READER ALERT! If you know a student who would like to enter the $5,000 Dear Abby College Columnist Scholarship Contest, see the information at DearAbby.com/scholarship and learn more. Make mashed potato soup

Dear Heloise: I have a better use for MASHED POTATOES than potato cakes. If you like soup, they make very good potato soup. Put the mashed potatoes in a pan, add milk and whip until they get the thickness you like for your soup. Then add either butter or margarine, according to taste and the number of potatoes used. Flavor your soup with your favorite seasonings. I use onion salt and powdered garlic. Cook over medium heat, stirring until it boils. This soup is easy, quick to make and tasty. — Mary Anne in Waynesboro, Pa.

One such item is ice cream, so I use it in my cereal.

I substitute a couple of scoops of vanilla ice cream instead of milk. It melts quickly, then I add fruit, and I'm good to go. — Olga S., Baton Rouge, La.

South used a combination of cue bidding and Key-Card Blackwood to reach this excellent slam. The opening lead was an obvious singleton, but even with a club loser, the contract was cold if the missing trumps split 3-2. South gave some thought as to what he might do should West have four trumps.

Declarer's first good play was to play dummy's nine of clubs while winning the first trick with his ace. A trump to the king and a trump back to the ace confirmed the 4-1 split. South led a low heart to dummy's king and a heart back to his ace, then led a low club toward the dummy. West correctly discarded a diamond, as ruffing would have made the hand a breeze for declarer. Dummy's king won the trick, and South continued with dummy's eight of clubs.

East won this trick and led a low heart, but South ruffed with his queen of spades. He now led a low spade to dummy's nine, taking the marked finesse against West's 10. South drew the last trump and claimed 12 tricks after a very well-played hand.

Note that unblocking the club spots was crucial to declarer's success. Failing to do so would have resulted in defeat. Also, it was essential to cash two high hearts before leading a second club, or West could have defeated the contract by discarding a heart.

Jupiter day spa had 'early-bird special' for men

By JORGE MILIAN

E/N/C

THE PALM BEACH POST

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. - A Jupiter police detective testified Friday that he decided Orchids of Asia Day Spa was an "illegitimate" business after he watched last year as eight men got off a golf cart and went inside. One of the men came back outside, did a "Touchdown Jesus" celebration with his arms raised to the heavens then went back inside.

Later, Detective Andrew Sharp interviewed some of 25 men charged with soliciting prostitution at the Jupiter spa and found out the business had an "early-bird special" that provided a discount on sex acts for men who showed up before 1 p.m.

Those were among the details revealed Friday as attorneys for New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft argued that a judge should throw out covert surveillance videos that allegedly show their client paying for sex on Jan. 19 and 20 at the spa. The search warrant that led to the cameras being installed at the business was not properly obtained, they claim.

Kraft, 77, is facing two counts of soliciting, a second-degree misdemeanor. He was caught up in a sting at the storefront business connected to a monthslong, multicounty investigation. Authorities initially said the case involved an international human trafficking operation, but no human trafficking charges have been filed.

Alex Spiro, Kraft's New Yorkbased lawyer, grilled Sharp for nearly six hours Friday. Sharp, who requested the search warrant that allowed installation of the surveillance cameras, is one of 30 witnesses subpoenaed by the defense, a highly unusual number in a suppression hearing involving a misdemeanor case.

"You don't see 30 witnesses subpoenaed in a homicide trial," said assistant state attorney Greg Kridos.

Prosecutors have countered in court documents that the motion to suppress should be tossed. They say Kraft, a part-time Palm Beach County resident, did not have a lawful expectation of privacy as a customer of the spa because he was there "engaging in criminal conduct.'

Hanser ruled that Kraft's right to a fair trial trumps the media's request for the surveillance videos to be released immediately. A coalition of media organizations filed with the court to have the videos released because they are public records.

That ruling does not impact Kraft's attempt to get the videos tossed out of a possible trial. Hanser could decide the videos cannot be admitted into evidence, but still release the footage to the public at a later time. Hanser said he will privately watch both videos before he decides on the motion to suppress.

Court observers say it's unlikely prosecutors will move forward with their cases against Kraft and the other "johns" if video evidence is tossed.

Sharp testified that his investigation's goal was to close down Orchids of Asia because the business was a "criminal enterprise."

Sharp said tactics other than surveillance cameras were considered to gain evidence from inside the spa, but it was decided that cameras "were the only option."

Five cameras were installed inside the spa, one in the lobby and four in private massage rooms, Sharp said.

"This was not a run-of-themill prostitution business," Sharp said. "It was a criminal enterprise."

In a surprise, Leopoldo Lopez, Guaido's political mentor and the nation's most-prominent opposition activist, stood alongside him. Detained in 2014 for leading a previous round of anti-government unrest, Lopez said he had been released from house arrest by security forces adhering to an order from Guaidó.

"I want to tell the Venezuelan people: This is the moment to take to the streets and accompany these patriotic soldiers," Lopez declared.

swelled to a few thousand scurried for cover, reappearing later with Guaidó at a plaza a few blocks from the disturbances. A smaller group of masked youths stayed behind on the highway, lobbing rocks and Molotov cocktails toward the air base and setting a government bus on fire.

Amid the mayhem, several armored utility vehicles careened over a berm and drove at full speed into the crowd. Two demonstrators, lying on the ground with their heads and legs bloodied, were rushed away on a motorcycle as the vehicles sped away dodging fireballs thrown by the demonstrators.

The head of a medical center near the site of the street battles said doctors were treating 50 people, about half of them with House Speaker Nancy Pelosi is urging the committee chairmen to push forward with their oversight agendas, shelving for now calls from the left flank to launch impeachment hearings against Trump.

Congress has a range of tools available to try to force compliance from the White House, either through civil lawsuits compelling administration officials to testify or produce documents, or by holding others in contempt of Congress with fines or even, in rare cases, jail time.

On Tuesday, the chairman of the House intelligence committee, Adam chief at Tahirih Justice Center.

Democratic House Majority leader Steny Hoyer said Trump was undermining American ideals.

Schiff, made a criminal referral to the Justice Department about Erik Prince, the founder of the security firm Blackwater, alleging he lied to the committee in 2017.

Schiff said Tuesday there is strong evidence that Prince, a prominent supporter of Trump, "willingly misled" the intelligence committee as it probed connections between Trump's campaign and Russia.

"The evidence is so weighty that the Justice Department needs to consider this," Schiff said.

Congress is buckling in for several actions in the aftermath of Mueller's report, which did not find that Trump or his campaign knowingly conspired with Russia in the 2016 election. But the report pointedly did not clear the president of obstruction of justice and, in fact, recounted 10 instances where Trump tried to interfere with the investigation.

For lawmakers, their ability to conduct oversight of the White House is a core responsibility that extends beyond investigating the president into agency actions that can touch the lives of Americans.

"If the executive branch can deny the legislative branch the ability to bring witnesses to testify under oath and for the production of documents, the executive branch will have essentially eliminated the oversight function of Congress, said Rep. David Cicilline, D-R.I., a member of the process or properly care for them.

'Simply put, the system is full and we are well beyond our capacity," he said. "The status quo is not acceptable."

Judiciary Committee.

Yet while Democrats have vowed to go to court, those proceedings could last years, possibly past Trump's tenure. And if they chose to hold officials in criminal contempt, which would take a vote of the full House, it would be referred to Department of Justice officials unlikely to side with the Democrats.

Some Democrats have thrown out other options: daily fines for not showing up, for example, or cutting appropriations for an official's agency. But those ideas might not be politically popular.

There's also an option that would be even more contentious and hasn't been used in decades trial and even imprisonment by Congress. Called U.S. under federal and international law. About 20 percent of those who claim asylum in the U.S. are granted it, but the rates vary by country of origin.

"inherent contempt," this process was often used in the country's early years but hasn't been employed in almost a century. While Democrats have vowed to use all of the available legal tools, they have shown no interest in going that far.

Despite drawbacks, Democrats say they will have to fight on multiple fronts to get the witnesses and documents they need.

"If you let them get away with this, then what do you have?" said House Oversight and Reform Committee Chairman Elijah Cummings on Monday. "If the president can get away with blocking any information and anybody from testifying before the Congress, what road are we going down?"

SOFTBALL: Venice vs. Charlotte

Charlotte fends off late Venice surge

Tarpons move on to play Fort Myers for the District crown

> By JACOB HOAG SPORTS WRITER

PUNTA GORDA — Venice made Charlotte sweat for the final two outs in the top of the seventh, but the Lady Tarpons closed out the game on a pop-fly to center field, sending them to the District final against Fort Myers.

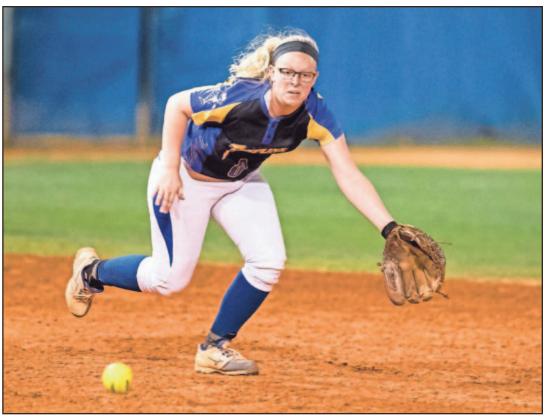

"We couldy'e got a lot more hits but we hit it, hard," Charlotte coach Greg Higgins said. "Everything was hard. I think we had maybe one flyout the whole game. We moved some speed up to the top, which worked. That was a good ballgame right there."

The game plan entering the game was to get the ball hit hard on the ground and make the infielders make the play. The Lady Tarpons did just that.

Though it didn't work the majority of the time, it led to three infield errors by Venice (12-13) and three runs for Charlotte (18-6) that gave them the lead.

SOFTBALL: Lemon Bay vs. DeSoto Lady Mantas reach finals with win over DeSoto

By BRUCE ROBINS SUN CORRESPONDENT

ENGLEWOOD — It wasn't their finest effort, but Lemon Bay had more than enough to coast by DeSoto County, 12-2, in a Class 5A-District 12 softball semifinal Tuesday night.

The Manta Rays took advantage of several miscues by an inexperienced and injury-riddled Bulldog team. DeSoto committed six errors and had seven wild pitches, while

Lemon Bay base runners stole nine bases. "Not our sharpest outing, but we live to play again and move on to regionals," Mantas coach Kim Pinkham said. "You could definitely see some nerves tonight and the glimmers of playing not to lose as opposed to playing to win. Some of them responded really well to us getting on them a bit, which is what we needed to see. So we'll have a good practice tomorrow and go for that of Fame trainers is turning AP PHOTO workable starting spots into victory - and a long-sought celebration for Mandella.

> Omaha Beach is the 4-1 early favorite for Saturday's 145th Run for the Roses after drawing the No. 12 post position on Tuesday. That could be a good sign for the colt and Mandella, considering that the horse favored to win the Derby has taken the past six.

"I hope it comes out that way," Mandell said.

Baffert-trained Game Winner is the 5-1 second choice from the No. 16 post in the 20-horse field for the first leg of the Triple Crown.

Game Winner will start inside stablemate Roadster, the 6-1 co-third choice with Improbable, a Baffert colt who will go off from the No. 5 hole in the 1¼-mile race at Churchill Downs.

Omaha Beach enters the $3 million showcase on a three-race winning streak. The dark brown colt is coming off a one-length victory in the slop over Improbable in the Arkansas Derby, a race that demonstrated his recent knack for getting up front quickly and staying there. Mandella believes Omaha

Beach and Hall of Fame jockey Mike Smith, who won last year's Derby for Baffert aboard Justify, will make the most of his spot.

"It's really important if you get luck with it," Mandella said. "If you get a bad luck, a good post position doesn't work.

"His last couple of races he kind of sits back and bides his time a little bit, then decides when to just cruise along.

Tuukka Rask had 32 saves for Boston. The Bruins' only goal was a flukey one in the last minute of the second period, the only chink in an otherwise brilliant game by Bobrovsky, who is having the best postseason of his career thus far.

Bobrovsky withstood a flurry by Boston earlier in the second period, including an acrobatic save that saw him sweep away a puck from in front of the goal line. The Bruins pulled Rask with 2:11 left but couldn't beat Bobrovsky with the 6-on-5 advantage.

Columbus overcame deficits twice to win Game 2 in overtime at Boston on Saturday but never trailed in Game 3. There were some big hits but the game was less testy than the previous two meetings between the two teams in the postseason.

With Zdeno Chara in the penalty box for high-sticking Jenner in the face, the Blue Jackets swarmed for an extended time in front of the Boston net before Duchene tapped in another goal with 7:18 left in the second.

Boston made it a one-goal game with 40 seconds left in the middle period when in a knot of players in front the Columbus net, the puck trickled behind Bobrovsky and over the line. The goal initially was waved off by an official, but a video review determined that play hadn't stopped

BASKETBALL: Nuggets Enes Kanter goes for 26 in Game 1 even with sore shoulder

Portland center has dominant performance in opening contest despite injury

By PAT GRAHAM AP Sports Writer

DENVER — Enes Kanter didn't even think about his sore left shoulder as he soared in for a firstquarter dunk and hung from the rim with his left hand.

Then, the Portland center grimaced and briefly grabbed the shoulder.

On the bench soon after, Kanter pointed to his head as if to say he needed to be more cautious with his injury.

Sore shoulder and all, Kanter finished with 26 points in a 121-113 loss to the Denver Nuggets on Monday night in Game 1 of the Western Conference semifinals. All things considered he held up just fine.

"I don't have another choice," Kanter said. "I don't even try to think about my shoulder. It's the playoffs. Just got to go out there and points in the first quarter. That dunk, though, got everyone's attention, especially the look on his face after. Then again, it was so instinctual — clear path, dunk it, just like usual. "I told him to just dunk it with his right hand, rather than put two on it," Meyers Leonard said. Sound advice.

Now more treatment awaits as he and the Blazers try to rebound in Game 2 on Wednesday.

"Just keep playing through it," Kanter said. "Pain killers, injections, anything I can do to help my teammates. Doesn't matter. One arm, two arm, I'm going to go out there and help my teammates win."

Kanter hit 11 of 14 shots and all four free throws. He also grabbed seven rebounds.

"Enes was terrific," Blazers coach Terry Stotts said. "He was very efficient, finished around the basket, playing through the shoulder injury. I couldn't have asked for anymore from him."

The Blazers struggled to stop Nuggets big man Nikola Jokic, who scored 37 points and grabbed nine rebounds. Kanter tried to slow him down, but simply couldn't. No one could for the Blazers. The player nicknamed The Joker was unstoppable.

"He kind of got what he wanted all night," said forward Maurice Harkless, who fouled out with just over three minutes remaining. "We've just got to do a good job of making it tough on him, whether it's being physical or whatever it is. We've got to make it harder for him."

Kanter was waived by the New York Knicks following the trade deadline and signed by the Blazers just before the All-Star break as a backup to starter Jusuf Nurkic. But Kanter became an even more valuable asset for Portland when Nurkic broke his leg in an overtime victory at home over the Brooklyn Nets on March 25.

Forward-thinking: Avs defenseman Barrie chips in on offense

Colorado Avalanche defenseman Tyson Barrie is constantly thinking as a forward. His goal and two assists in Game 2 at San Jose helped Colorado tie the second-round series at one apiece.

By PAT GRAHAM AP Sports Writer

DENVER — Colorado Avalanche defenseman Tyson Barrie has developed a reputation as forward thinking.

Easy to understand why: He's constantly thinking as a forward.

His father was an NHL forward. As a kid, he was a forward. And now he's chipping in on offense much like a forward.

Barrie has a goal and seven assists so far in the postseason. His first career playoff tally arrived Sunday in Game 2 at San Jose, helping the Avalanche send the second-round series back to Denver tied at a game apiece. Game 3 is Tuesday at Pepsi Center.

"I feel really confident in my all-around game right now," the 27-year-old Barrie said. "I like playing against other team's top lines. I enjoy the challenge. The offensive part, I've got to keep trying to bring it."

His first postseason goal Sunday showed off his offensive instincts: After Gabriel Landeskog's shot bounced off Sharks goaltender Martin Jones, Barrie jumped down low and sent a rolling puck into the corner of the net.

That's Barrie being Barrie . He's coming off a regular season in which had a career-high 59 points (14 goals, 45 assists), which was the most by an Avalanche defenseman since Ray Bourque had 59 in 2000-01.

"Tyson's worked on his game over the last handful of years and gotten really good at creating offense, jumping up in the rush and making plays when he gets it in the O-zone," Landeskog said. "He's also defending real well right now because first and foremost, that's what a 'D' has got to do. No doubt, he's got the skill of a forward and can make the plays."

Pressing forward just runs in the family. Barrie's father, Len, was a forward who played in 184 NHL games with Philadelphia, Florida, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Kings. Len Barrie wound up his career with 19 goals and 45 assists.

Tyson Barrie actually was a forward until his teen years, which he credits for his moves now.

"If you grow up a defenseman your whole life, you're not working on the toe drag or beating guys on offense," said Barrie, who's a native of Victoria, British Columbia. "I always did that. I always made sure to really try to enjoy that part when I was playing hockey. I think it shows in the way I play. I like scoring and trying to beat guys one-on-one and stuff."

Even with his switch to the blue line, his offensive skills remain firmly entrenched. He was the scoring leader among defensemen in each of his four full junior seasons with Kelowna of the Western Hockey League. The Avalanche selected the 5-foot-10, 190-pound Barrie in the third round of the 2009 draft.

He's been assisting with the scoring load ever since. He became the highest-scoring defenseman in franchise history earlier in the season, passing John-Michael Liles. Barrie has 75 goals in the regular season along with 232 assists.

"He's developed a skill-set to be an offensive threat on the ice," Landeskog said. "He's getting rewarded for it."

To be clear: Barrie doesn't shirk his defensive responsibilities for the sake of sneaking into the offensive play. He's developed a knack to know just when to rush into a play.

"Some of the plays he makes, they're not highrisk plays, but he's up the ice and making an impact offensively," coach Jared Bednar said. "Just good decisions on when to shoot, when to hang on. He's getting pucks through

"You can tell it matters to him — winning matters. He's playing his hardest every night to make an impact in the game."

Barrie had five assists against Calgary, including three in the series clincher. He also helped shut down Flames standout Johnny Gaudreau.

In Game 2 against San Jose, he had two assists to go with his goal.

"He's been really good," Bednar said. "He's certainly been a guy down the stretch that's getting better and better. In the playoffs, he's taken it to a whole new level."

BASKETBALL: Cavaliers Cavs interview J.B. Bickertstaff for coaching job

Person familiar with plans tells AP the Cavaliers are interviewing former Memphis coach J.B. Bickerstaff

By TOM WITHERS

AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND — The Cavaliers are interviewing a coaching candidate with a very familiar name.

Former Memphis coach J.B. Bickerstaff is meeting Tuesday with the Cavaliers about their job, a person familiar with the team's coaching search told The Associated Press, speaking on condition of anonymity because the team is not revealing its plans. Bickerstaff's father, Bernie, was a longtime NBA coach and currently is a senior adviser with the Cavaliers.

The 40-year-old Bickerstaff was fired earlier this month by the Memphis Grizzlies, who made a coaching change and demoted general manager Chris Wallace to their scouting department in the wake of a disappointing 33-49 season. The Grizzlies had numerous injuries and crumbled after a 12-5 start.

Bickerstaff was named the Grizzlies' interim coach in November 2017 to replace David Fizdale.

Memphis Grizzlies coach J.B. Bickerstaff calls to players during the second half of the team's NBA basketball game against the Portland Trail Blazers, in Memphis, Tenn. A person familiar with the Cavaliers' coaching search tells The Associated Press the team is interviewing former Memphis coach J.B. Bickerstaff. Bickerstaff is meeting with Cleveland officials Tuesday, said the person who spoke on condition of anonymity because the Cavs are not revealing their plans.

Bickerstaff has previous experience as an assistant with Charlotte, Minnesota and Houston, and he has been praised for his ability to help develop young players.

Bickerstaff is the third known candidate to meet with the Cavaliers, along with Dallas assistant Jamahl Mosley and Miami assistant Juwan Howard. The team also is expected to interview Utah assistant Alex Jensen and has received permission to speak with Portland assistants David Vanterpool and Nate Tibbetts, who are still involved in the playoffs.

The Cavaliers are looking for their sixth coach since 2013 after parting ways with Larry Drew following a 19-63 season. Drew took over in October when Cleveland fired Tyronn Lue following a 0-6 start.

Earlier this month, GM Koby Altman said there was no timetable to find a coach. He promised to be respectful in talking to coaches on teams in the postseason.

Mike will have to figure that out."

Baffert, meanwhile, aims to match Ben Jones' record with his sixth Kentucky Derby win and second straight. He won last year with Justify, culminating in the Triple Crown. That came three years after he took the Triple Crown with American Pharoah.

It remains to be seen how the Derby will unfold hitting the first turn with so many horses vying for the same spot, but Improbable is in a relatively good spot.

Game Winner, who won the Breeders' Cup Juvenile here last fall, and Roadster will have their work cut out for them, starting from post positions that are a combined 4 for 87 in the Derby. When it was noted that Roadster's No. 17 post is 0 for 40, nervous laughter grew in a crowded room of horsemen including Baffert, his connections and the media.

Baffert later took all of his horses' slots in stride, if only because none was on the rail. War of Will drew that unenviable spot and was given 20-1 odds as a result.

"I like the 16 hole, it's a good spot," he said of Game Winner's position. "Roadster, he's out there. I don't know. I always get two horses together. A lot of times in California the Twins.

"It's undeniably the Rays," Miller writes. "But the Minnesota Twins deserve maybe an April Champions visor, or maybe a pair of novelty April Champions socks. Other than the Rays, no team has increased its playoff odds more than the Twins, who entered Sunday with the third-best record in baseball, the third-best run differential and the secondor third-best offense in baseball."

The biggest loser? The Rays' AL East rival Red Sox. "They were supposed to they draw so ... I'll be watching those two leaving there."

War of Will's trainer, Mark Casse, chose to be encouraged about his horse's post.

"It could be worse, I think," he said of the horse who had a three-race winning streak halted in the Louisiana Derby. "Our horse is really on his game, so he'll come away from there running.

"I think we'll probably be on the lead and play catch me if you can. And you know, if we come away from there like he normally does, we're going to come away from there running. ... I've thought I had great draws before and gotten wiped out, so maybe this is the change."

Points leader Tacitus will start from the No. 8 post with 10-1 odds as he tries to give trainer Bill Mott his first Derby victory. The son of Tapit and Close Hatches by First Defence has Grade 2 wins in the Wood Memorial and Tampa Bay Derby during a three-race surge.

Another 10-1 choice is unbeaten Maximum Security, who starts from the No. 7 hole and will try to follow up his victory in the Grade 1 Florida Derby.

Todd Pletcher entries Spinoff and Cutting Humor face 30-1 odds after drawing the Nos. 19 and 10 post positions.

Also eligible is 30-1 Bodexpress, who can get into the field with a defection.

Sox "the biggest disappointment so far."

"Certainly the Red Sox, not just because of their record, but because of some putrid all-around baseball," Schoenfield writes. "Heading into Monday, only the Baltimore Orioles and Miami Marlins had a worse run differential, and Boston is somehow 0-6 in games Chris Sale has started."

Writes Matz, "Of the three teams that rank at the bottom of the majors in run differential, two were expected to be awful (O's, Marlins) and the other is ... the defending champs??? The Red Sox earn this dubious distinction, and it's not even close."

Nationals 3B Anthony Rendon to IL after missing 7 of 8 games

WASHINGTON (AP) -Nationals third baseman Anthony Rendon is finally heading to the injured list with a bruised left elbow after sitting out seven of Washington's past eight games.

Rendon joins two other members of the team's starting infield on the IL: first baseman Ryan Zimmerman and shortstop Trea Turner.

Lefty reliever Dan Jennings' contract was selected from Double-A Harrisburg on Tuesday so he could replace Rendon on the roster before Washington's game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Nationals also designated right-hander Austin Adams for assignment.

Rendon was hit by a pitch on his elbow during an April 20 game against Miami, ending a 17-game hitting streak.

He missed the next four games, went 0 for 3 in one appearance, then skipped three more games for the Nationals, who entered Tuesday with a 12-15 record.

Rendon is batting .356 with six homers and 18 RBIs this season.

Putting the 23-year-old outfielder in position to make his major league debut against the Giants

NEW YORK (AP) - The Cincinnati Reds could bring up top prospect Nick Senzel before Friday's homestand opener against San Francisco, putting the 23-year-old outfielder in position to make his major league debut against the Giants.

Reds manager David Bell says the decision has not been made vet and he has not determined whether Senzel will start Friday.

"He has what I would call like an edge to his game that would allow him to compete at this level," Bell said Tuesday. "He's talented. He's always hit and when he does play, reach the major leagues, there's going to be adjustments, just like there is for any player, but because of his makeup we believe it will happen for him quick." Senzel was the second overall pick in the 2016 amateur draft from Tennessee and signed for a $6.2 million bonus. He sprained his right ankle during a minor league spring training on March 25 and did not make his season debut at Triple-A Louisville until April 23. He entered Tuesday hitting .296 with one double, one homer

Porcello pitches 8 shutout innings, Red Sox beat A's 5-1

BOSTON (AP) — Rick Porcello pitched eight shutout innings and struck out a season-high eight as the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland Athletics 5-1 on Tuesday night.

Porcello (2-3) allowed only two hits and walked two while winning his second straight start. He also became the first starter to go past the seventh inning for the World Series champion Red Sox in a rough opening month of the season.

Mookie Betts and Mitch Moreland homered for Boston and the Red Sox won for the fourth time in six games.

Tyler Thornburg pitched the ninth and lost the shutout when Robbie Grossman hit a leadoff homer Aaron Brooks (2-3) pitched 4 1-3 innings for Oakland, allowing five runs on six hits and three walks.

Betts put Boston up 1-0 with a homer in the first, his sixth of the season. Sandy Leon added an RBI single in the second and Moreland added a two-run homer in the fourth to make it 4-0.

Brooks, who pitched six scoreless innings and struck out six against the Red Sox on April 1 in Oakland, had just two strikeouts this time. He left the game after Rafael Devers doubled in J.D. Martinez, who reached on an error by center fielder Ramon Laureano, to put Boston up 5-0.

Before Grossman's homer off Thornburg, Oakland's only hits were Laureano's leadoff single in the third and a two-out double by Nick Hundley in the fifth.

GOOD BETTS

Betts scored his 500th career run when he touched the plate on his home run. The only other Red Sox players to score 500 runs within their first 700 games were Nomar Garciaparra, Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams.

Yankees' Sabathia becomes 17th pitcher with 3,000 strikeouts

Yankees pitcher CC Sabathia reached 3,000 career strikeouts Tuesday night, becoming the 17th major leaguer and third left-hander to achieve the milestone.

Sabathia entered the game against Arizona with 2,997 strikeouts and hit the mark by fanning three batters in the second inning.

The Yankees poured out of the dugout to congratulate Sabathia and the crowd, full of New York fans, roared after the big left-hander struck out John Ryan Murphy on a down-and-in breaking ball. Murphy was one of Sabathia's former catchers with the Yankees.

Sabathia tipped his hat to the crowd and hugged his kids in the front row before heading to the on-deck circle to lead off the next inning.

PHOENIX (AP) — New York The 38-year-old has already announced this will be his final season.

Sabathia joined Randy Johnson and Steve Carlton as the only lefties to reach 3,000 strikeouts.

"We've been waiting for this all week," Sabathia's wife, Amber, said in an interview with the Yankees' YES Network after it happened. She added the lofty total was "part of his legacy."

Amber Sabathia estimated there were 40 family members and friends at the Diamondbacks' ballpark for the big event.

"Big C! What an accomplishment! One of the best to ever do it," tweeted former Yankees teammate Phil Hughes.

Now in his 19th big league season, Sabathia was the first pitcher to hit the 3,000 mark since Atlanta's John Smoltz in 2008. Sabathia began his career in 2001 with Cleveland and also pitched for Milwaukee before moving to the Yankees in 2009, helping them win the World Series that season.

from Megan Hanley, Charlotte eventually got their chance in the third. An error allowed Malerie Busha to reach, pushing Kassidy Hopper to second. Then another error allowed Alyssa Opshal to drive in Hopper for the gametying run.

"I want to give a lot of credit to coach Higgins' kids for executing what you need to do on a windy night," Venice coach Steve Constantino said. "Hit the ball on the ground, give yourselves a chance."

In the bottom of the fifth, it was more of the same. Another error at second off a hit by Sydney Thomas allowed Savannah Jacobs to score from third. Two at bats later, Erica Barnes singled on a line drive to second base, scoring Paige Thompson to push the lead to 3-1.

Charlotte added a much-needed insurance run in the sixth on an RBI single from Jacobs.

After an injury delay, Venice made their charge and fought until the final out.

Down three in the top of the seventh, Kay Holland cut that to one, with some help from a Lady Tarpon error. A walk and an error put runners at first and second for Holland, who drove a ball deep to center.

The ball landed short and hopped away from Busha in the outfield, allowing both baserunners to score.

But Venice wasn't able to get the final run needed to force extras.

"What you saw at the end, that's the true character of these kids," Constantino said. "That's the true character of my team. We've been in these situations all year long. We played a hard schedule. We weren't gonna get down because of three runs."

Charlotte's Thomas pitched a complete game, allowing no earned runs on five hits. The Tarpons now turn to their third meeting with Fort Myers, this time for the district crown. Charlotte will travel on Thursday with first pitch at 7 p.m. "Look at our lineup, we're as good there is out there," Higgins said. "All we have to do is execute. It's a process and I like where we're at right now. We're loosey goosey, we know we're going to the playoffs and we'll give Fort Myers everything we got."

Venice pitcher struck with line drive

In the sixth inning of Tuesday's game, Venice senior Haley Adrian was struck in the forehead by a line drive.

She was not wearing a mask and dropped immediately to the ground. Play was stopped and she was transported to a nearby Punta Gorda Hospital.

"She definitely has at least a concussion, she was pretty out of it," Constantino said. "She knew her name and stuff, but her eyes were pretty dilated. I think she'll be alright. Tough night as a senior, pitching her (butt) off." Further details are not available at this time.

By STONE CRABS

TAMPA, Fla. (April 30, 2019) – Carl Chester homered and the Stone Crabs scored three in the first Tuesday, but their five-game winning streak was snapped in a 6-4 loss to the Tampa Tarpons at Steinbrenner Field.

The Stone Crabs (11-14) jumped on the Tarpons (11-14) early. The furious start began with a Vidal Brujan single to center on the first pitch of the game. After he stole second and moved to third on a groundout, Tarpons starter Clarke Schmidt (1-1) issued a wild pitch, allowing Brujan to score and make it 1-0. Moises Gomez then pulled a double to left before Jim Haley reached on an infield single. The next batter was Garrett two-run triple to center to extend the Charlotte lead to 3-0.

The Tarpons didn't waste any time responding in the bottom of the first against Stone Crabs starter Paul Campbell (2-3). After an Oswaldo Cabrera single, Troy Tulowitzki clocked a tworun home run to left to make it 3-2 Charlotte.

With Tampa still down one in the bottom of the third, Cabrera lined a one-out single before Tulowitzki was hit with a pitch. With two on and one out, Steven Sensley drove in Cabrera with an infield single to tie the game at three. Two batters later, Pablo Olivares cranked a tworun double to left to give the Tarpons a 5-3 lead.

Tampa added a run in the sixth on a Donny Sands RBI single make it 6-3.

Stone Crabs reliever Matt Seelinger went three innings in relief, allowing just one run on two hits. Jhonleider Salinas and Jack Labosky each turned in scoreless work in shorter stints.

With Charlotte down three in the top of the seventh, Chester slammed his second homer of the season to left to bring the count to 6-4. However, the Stone Crabs couldn't manage a hit in the eighth or ninth.

Charlotte will look to level the series at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday. Riley O'Brien (1-0, 1.93) will be on the mound for the Stone Crabs, against Shawn Semple (High-A debut) of the Tarpons.

Lamar Odom talks Big3 comeback attempt: 'I'm going to give you life, but take your basketball skills'

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

The doctors told Lamar Odom's loved ones to say their final goodbyes. Now the former New York high school phenom is not only breathing, he's back playing basketball.

So Odom can't complain. But there remain problems stemming from his stroke, heart attack and coma from four years ago.

Odom is among 132 players entering the Big3 draft on Wednesday in Las Vegas, joining, among other entries with comeback stories, Eddy Curry and Greg Oden.

Only 31 will be picked from the pool for Ice Cube's 3-on-3 league, making Odom

The Rays have had a lot of high-fiving to do during the first month of the season.

BASEBALL: Rays

How have Rays posted majors' best record through April? Here's 10 reasons why, and how they can maintain

It starts with the pitching, which has been phenomenal. But also hitting hard, scoring first, having fun.

By MARC TOPKIN

TAMPA BAY TIMES

KANSAS CITY, Mo. -There's plenty of people around who are surprised by all the good things the Rays have done in finishing April with a majors-best 19-9 record. Just not the man roaming centerfield for the local nine.

"We've played just the way I thought we could, to be quite honest," Kevin Kiermaier said. "And it feels good to sit here and say right now in this moment we have the best record in baseball.'

That record, completed for the month with Tuesday night's game rained out and rescheduled as part of a moved-up afternoon doubleheader (1:15 EDT), doesn't really get the Rays anything more than some increased national TV chatter.

But it's a good first step - 17 percent actually toward where they want to games, a majors-most 15 of 28, plus one or none 10 times. Counting the eight scoreless outings by openers, their starters have been the majors' best, with a 2.04 ERA, .189 average and 10-plus strikeouts per nine innings. Five relievers have saves in what's been a deep bullpen bolstered by callups. "Coming out of spring we've said and been consistent that our pitching is going to carry a big load," Cash said. "And after one month if you're going to review, they've certainly done that. A lot of guys have thrown the ball well." While they aren't likely to sustain that level of dominance, the depth of the staff has been impressive and encouraging. "All of 'em," Cash said. "You can't find a negative in there. And that's probably a reason we've had the success, the record where it is."

2. Plus/minus rating

29-4 in first innings. That's the most runs scored for any team in the first and fewest allowed, and the largest margin of any team for any frame. They've scored in the first in 18 games, including 10 of 12 road games.

6. Cash's kids

A prevalent part of the narrative since spring has been how well they all get along, how unselfish they are, how much fun they have together. Obviously winning is at the root of some of that, but they're confident it's real deal, and here to stay. "Just a true joy to be a part of," Kiermaier said.

7. For openers

No, not that kind of opener. Series openers. The key to success over a full season can boil down to winning series, which usually means two out of three, with an occasional sweep mixed in. Thus far they're 8-1. Their first step has been big, winning the opening game eight times, and all five on the road.

be after all six months and 162 games.

"You've got to be happy with the way this team has come out of the gate strong," manager Kevin Cash said., "A lot more to do obviously, but really thrilled with just the way everything's come together. "The offense, pitching, defense. It seems in all of our wins, you can point to those three areas as to why they helped get the wins individually that night. We felt like we were balanced. And if you're doing a one month review, you've got to like what you see."

There obviously has been plenty good, to go along with a dash of notso-much, such as injuries that have sidelined Matt Duffy, Austin Meadows and Joey Wendle; a 1-4 record in one-run games; occasionally shaky bullpen work.

But, really, it's been a heck of an opening month, and combined with the plague of injuries on the Yankees and the apparently hellacious World Series hangover staggering the Red Sox, has the Rays sitting atop the AL East.

Here are 10 key elements in their success thus far, and reasons if they can sustain anything close for optimism going forward:

1. Making their pitch

The Rays have the best ERA in the majors (2.95), the most strikeouts (280) and the third lowest opponents average (.215) through Monday. They've allowed two or fewer runs in more than half their

A good predicator of season success is usually run differential, premised on the basic concept of scoring more than you allowed, although skewed by blowouts. When the Rays have made the playoffs they've been good at it. Thus far, they've been the best, their plus-47 10 better than the next-in-line Yankees, and 78 up on the Red Sox.

3. Different driver every day

The Rays are a true sumof-their-parts squad, with no established superstar position players, but plenty of pretty good ones, who've all done their share of great things. "It's been a new hero each game," Kiermaier said.

4. Taking their hacks

Hitting the ball hard doesn't mean you're going to get on base, but it helps. The Rays, through Monday's StatCast readings, put a majors-most 213 balls in play with an exit velocity of at least 100 mph. Their average exit velo of 90.3 mph ranked second best to the Yankees, and up notably from last year's 87 mph, which was 26th. Tommy Pham is leading charge with 34 balls in triple digits.

5. First things first

The combination of stellar pitching and an aggressive offense has repeatedly gotten the Rays off to good starts, as they've outscored teams

8. Going deep

Accruing depth to provide quality coverage at every position was a priority, and that's paid off so far as they've weathered the loss of Duffy, Meadows, Blake Snell and Wendle.

9. And the winner is ...

Voting is months away, but Rays have done well enough to emerge among the way-tooearly favorites for major awards: Tyler Glasnow, at 5-0, 1.75, for the Cy Young; Brandon Lowe, hitting .289 with six homers, 17 RBIs, a .917 OPS for Rookie of the Year; Yandy Diaz (.298-7-18-.990) and Meadows (.351-6-19-1.097) for MVP.

10. Ya gotta believe

Rays execs and staff felt they had a pretty good team, but sometimes the players have to see it to believe it. And this first month has done a lot to build confidence in the clubhouse, which helps keep good times going and bad from lingering. "We control our own destiny, and that's a beautiful thing," Kiermaier said. "It's up to us to sit here and keep writing this story of a season."

Odom said in an interview Tuesday with the Daily News. "I can't remember s---."

Odom, 39, was referencing his shortterm memory loss, like his tendency to forget the location of an item he just placed down. He said doctors recommended mental exercises to combat the problem. More pressing to his latest endeavor, however, is a sudden difficulty in dribbling a basketball.

He figures that will come back.

"From the stroke, some of my balance is not the same, my equilibrium is not the same, but I'm working on it to get it better," Odom said. "Handling the basketball

BASEBALL BRIEFS Kerkering dominant in win against Sarasota

By VINNIE PORTELL SPORTS WRITER

Less than a week remains until the playoffs begin for the Venice baseball team, and Orion Kerkering couldn't be heating up at a better time.

The Indians ace twirled a complete-game shutout against Sarasota on Tuesday, permitting just two baserunners on singles — and striking out 10 Sailors in a 2-0 win at Venice High School. "That's the kind of pitcher he is," Venice coach Craig Faulkner said. "He's done a lot of that this year, but it's nice for him to really get it in sync here at the end. To throw a complete game without throwing too many pitches is great."

Kerkering allowed just one hit to leave the infield — a single down the first base line to lead off the second inning — which prompted a mound visit from Faulkner.

The senior righthander responded by retiring the next three batters in order. Though he allowed another single in the third inning, he then went on to retire the final 13 batters of the game in order.

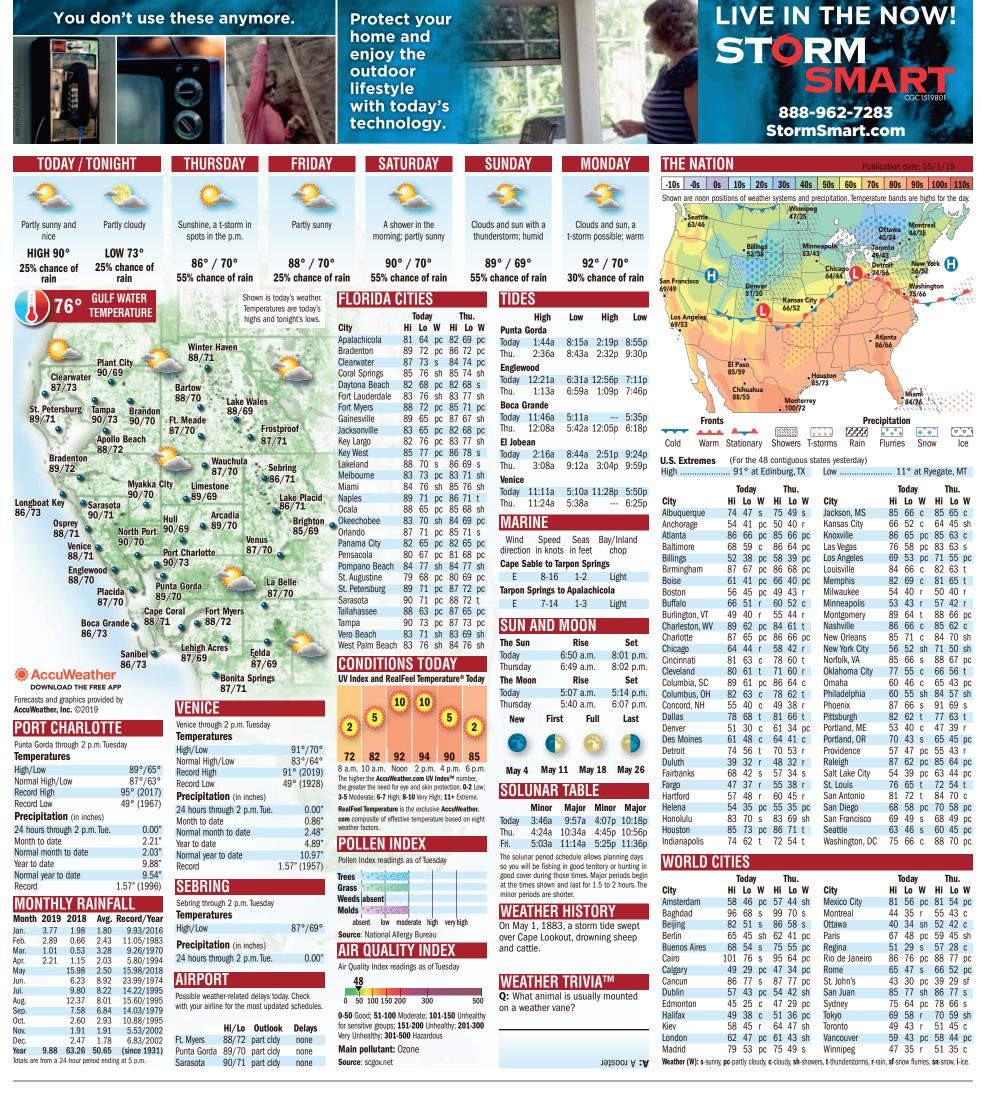

With flawless defense in the field and an ace in the zone, Venice (19-5, 6-0) cruised quickly through much of the game on Tuesday night.

"I was a bum," Odom said. "It was good just to go out there and compete, get my feet wet. But I was a bum."

At this point, Odom understands that the gifts he was given as a player — the playmaking as a 6-10 forward, the dribbling touch of an elite point guard – are just gravy on top of a beating heart.

"For me it's just a blessing to be able to play. I'm just refining all my skills," Odom said. "I think God made a deal with me. He said, 'I'm going to give you life, but I'm going to take your basketball skills.' But I don't mind working to get it back. It's going to be a tedious process, but it'll come back."

Self cleared to race in NASCAR after failed drug test

Austin Wayne Self has been reinstated by NASCAR following a violation of the substance abuse policy

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Austin Wayne Self has been reinstated by NASCAR following a violation of the substance abuse policy. The Truck Series driver completed a mandatory recovery program before he was approved Tuesday to race again.

Self can compete as early as Friday at Dover International Speedway.

NASCAR also on Tuesday penalized the teams of Austin Dillon and Ryan Blaney for infractions last weekend at Talladega Superspeedway.

The decklid on Dillon's car was confiscated in inspection, which led to a $25,000 fine for crew chief Danny Stockman Jr. and the loss of 10 championship points. Car chief Gregory Ebert has been suspended one race.

Blaney crew chief Jeremy Bullins has been fined $10,000 for loose lug nuts found on Blaney's car after Sunday's race.

The Tampa Firefighters Museum is housed in a downtown Tampa building that was actually a firehouse from 1911 to 1974. It's directly across the street from, and stands in sharp contrast to, the much newer and shinier Tampa Fire Rescue Station One.

The museum's stated mission is to preserve the heritage of the Tampa Fire Department, as well as promoting life safety education and fire prevention within the community. But the building itself is a wonderful source of fire education, too.

During its active service years, the building presided over the 63-year transformation from horse-drawn apparatus to diesel-powered rescue and firefighting vehicles. Today, the museum stands as a tribute to the city's firefighters, past, present and future, and the rich legacy they have left.

On the day I visited the free museum, I was fortunate enough to be greeted by Joy Bunch, who said she just ran the gift shop, but was obviously much more important to the operations of the museum than she let on. There was a big Tampa Firefighters Museum fundraiser coming up, and she was in charge of registering participants. When I was up at the front, a young firefighter came in to register and she spoke with him for a few minutes.

After he left, she told me that the fundraiser was an annual one that honored a young Tampa Fire Rescue driver/engineer who had passed away a few years ago. Joy is Matthew Bunch's mother. Now she devotes her time and resources to the 5,000 square-foot museum that holds mementoes from Tampa's storied firefighting history, from 1895 to present.

fire trucks, as well as numerous hose carts. There's a large children's section, with a wooden fire truck they can climb upon, a big floor map where they can find their own neighborhood fire station and a wall covered with some old and newer firefighting tools. All are labeled with names and descriptions of what they do.

Upstairs is a beautiful 2,500 square-foot room and kitchen with the building's original dark wood flooring. People can now rent out this space where firefighters used to sleep and eat for their own special events.

One of the last, and most touching, things I did before I left the museum was to visit the Memorial Room. That's where those Tampa firefighters who lost their lives on the job are honored, with their badges displayed. There is also a video playing on a loop in the

GOV DINING OUT Music drives the vibe of Englewood's on Dearborn

By DEBBIE FLESSNER

LET'S GO CORRESPONDENT

When Merrill and Tony Hodge first bought the Dearborn Street building that housed a mini-mall back in 2004, they thought they would just continue to lease it out and relaxingly spend Tony's retirement in Englewood. They had moved to the area from Marco Island, after falling in love with the area and the people who lived here.

But by 2009, the minimall tenants had begun to flame out and the huge property, which also included a courtyard, had fallen into disarray. The couple decided to take action and use the space to open something of their own.

"My husband is Austrian, and he's always wanted to have himself a little bar," Merrill said. "And he's been in the restaurant business since he was born, practically. Of course, this isn't exactly a little bar.'

She's right — it's not little and it's certainly not just a bar. Englewood's on Dearborn is a music event spot, where live music is played every evening they are open. The musicians are primarily blues-related, with some classic rock and dance bands sprinkled in, and they play at venues up and down the Suncoast, though Merrill also books some Grammy Award winners, too.

Music drives the vibe of Englewood's on Dearborn. It originates from a stage back in the spacious courtyard and is piped into the main dining room, if diners choose to eat inside. If the weather is bad, the musicians set up on an inside stage in that dining room.

The bars are also plentiful, with one out front by the street, another in the main dining room and a third in the courtyard. But music and alcohol are not all the Hodge's place has going for it.

"We also have great food, and we have a very eclectic menu," Merrill said. "Because of where Tony is from, we have the Schnitzels and Hungarian Goulash, and we sell out of that all the time, but my Chef (Chris Coyne) worked in New Orleans for 10 years, so we also have things like Etouffee and Shrimp and Grits."

Merrill and Tony have a distinct division of duties at their business, and they're both there almost all the time. Merrill helps Chris expedite food orders back in the kitchen and Tony works in the front of the house, acting effectively as the face of Englewood's on Dearborn and greeting everyone who comes in the door.

All the regular customers are familiar with his fedora and colorful euphemisms, both of which have ended up on t-shirts sold at the bar. Though the couple has completed several renovations and updates to the property in the last few years, the next one will include a gift shop, where people can buy restaurant/bar branded merchandise and even fedoras similar to the one Tony wears.

As much as the Englewood community appears to love and support the Hodges and their establishment, it's obvious that the couple loves them right back. Merrill said she and Tony feel very fortunate to be both living and operating their business in Englewood.

"I just love this town," she said. "We live about a mile from the downtown area and I can walk my dog here in the morning and get a cup of coffee. This place just has a relaxed feeling."

Enjoy diverse seafood, meat, and vegetarian dishes cooked fresh onsite at the 3rd Annual Venice Seafood/Music Festival taking place at Centennial Park from May 3-5.

Organizers Paragon Festivals. Venice MainStreet, and special guest, the Humane Society of Sarasota County, are inviting all to join in the fun for a weekend of food, drinks, music and shopping in recently enhanced and beautiful downtown Venice. "The 2nd Annual Venice Seafood/Music Festival was so successful that we decided to extend this year's festival to three days and feature more regional musical groups. The Humane Society will have their 'Big Mac' mobile adoption center on site again this year, and folks are invited to greet the dedicated staff and meet their extended family of animal friends awaiting adoption," said Nick Sperry, Events & Partnership Coordinator for Venice MainStreet, Inc.

After strolling along a small marketplace of arts and crafts, gourmet food items and specialty products, festival attendees will enjoy listening to live musical performances on stage.

Play explores 'race and the lies we tell each other on the subject'

By LAURIE COLTON VENICE THEATRE

Venice Theatre's Stage 2 Series will present the provocative David Mamet drama, "Race," through May 12. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Mamet tackles America's most controversial topic in a tale of sex, guilt, and bold accusations. Two lawyers (Chris Caswell and Kristofer Geddie) find themselves defending a wealthy white executive (Chris Hines) charged with raping a black woman. When the firm's new legal assistant (DaNiesha Carr) offers her own insights and perspective on the case, opinions that boil beneath explode to the surface.

Venice Theatre's Producing Executive Director Murray Chase is no stranger to producing Mamet's challenging work. In past seasons Venice Theatre has presented several plays by the multiple award-winning playwright and director: November, Romance and Oleanna as part of the contemporary Stage 2

Thought-reader

Mentalist Bill Gladwell will 'pull thoughts directly from your mind, predict what you'll say before it comes out of your mouth and read you like an open book'

By DAN MEARNS

Audiences are in for a treat when mentalist Bill Gladwell presents three shows at the Charlotte Players' Langdon Playhouse in Port Charlotte May 3-5.

Trip Advisor calls Gladwell's performance "a mind-blowing show with lots of big laughs."

Gladwell is not a mind-reader, psychic or magician. He calls himself a "thought-reader," having mastered the unique art of reading and influencing people, and he demonstrates what Liam Neeson might call his "very particular set of skills" in thought-provoking performances at corporate events, resorts, theaters and performing arts centers across the country.

Aristotle Zenobia Sunshine's Museum of Natural, Technological and Sociological Wonders concludes tour in Punta Gorda

Provided by STEVEN HUTCHINS

This only happens once a year in Punta Gorda.

Aristotle Zenobia Sunshine's Museum of Natural, Technological and Sociological Wonders is concluding its 2018-2019 world tour right here. The show is comprised of the most amazing infotainment, educational and humorous exhibits/art work that you have ever seen or even heard about.

The last previous viewing in this area was at the Punta Gorda Visual Arts Center in January 2018. The current expanded exhibit includes 20 new shadow

Experience unique holiday entertainment at Universal Orlando

PROVIDED BY Universal ORLANDO

TRAVEL

Guests can take their holiday traditions to the next level and experience the merry, mischief and thrills of Universal Orlando Resort's Holidays celebration, beginning Nov. 16 and running through Jan. 5.

Guests will find a winter "fun"-derland that the entire family will enjoy with incredible holiday experiences across the entire destination that put a twist on the traditional. There's nowhere else that they can witness a spectacular transformation of Hogwarts castle during "The Magic of Christmas at Hogwarts Castle" in The Wizarding World of Harry Potter; meet the maven of mischief himself, The Grinch, during Grinchmas; experience merry — and mayhem - with the Minions from Illumination's Despicable Me and other beloved characters during Universal's Holiday Parade featuring Macy's and so much more.

Access to Holidays festivities are included with admission to the theme parks or with an Annual Pass (blockout dates apply). See below for more details about the experiences guests can enjoy during Universal Orlando's Holidays celebration.

Christmas in The Wizarding World of Harry Potter at Universal Studios Florida and Universal's Islands of Adventure

Experience the wonder of The Wizarding World of Harry Potter, one of the most immersive theme park experiences ever created, as it transforms for the Holidays into a wizarding wonderland. The streets of Hogsmeade and Diagon Alley become adorned in themed decorations, garlands and lights with the sounds of special holiday-themed performances filling the air. Guests can hear both magical and Muggle Christmas carols from the Frog Choir - comprised of Hogwarts students and their giant croaking frogs — and the unique holiday hits of one of the wizarding world's most popular singing sensations, Celestina Warbeck and the Banshees. There will also be seasonal food and beverages — including hot Butterbeer.

And, as night falls, guests will revel in a stunning projection of holiday spirit as Christmas moments inspired by J.K. Rowling's stories come to life on Hogwarts castle for "The Magic of Christmas at Hogwarts Castle."

Universal's Holiday Parade featuring Macy's at Universal Studios Florida

Merry and mayhem take to the streets of Universal Studios for Universal's Holiday Parade featuring Macy's. Featuring the fun of the Minions and other beloved characters from Illumination's Despicable Me, the family of Shrek and the friendship of Madagascar, this parade includes more than 30 larger-than-life balloons and floats, hundreds of performers and more.

Grinchmas at Universal's Islands of Adventure

See the maven of mischief himself during Grinchmas at Universal Orlando. Guests can enjoy the "Grinchmas Wholiday Spectacular" — a live retelling of Dr. Seuss's holiday classic starring The Grinch — and special appearances by the merry Whos from Who-ville as they prepare for their favorite holiday throughout Seuss Landing. Guests may also enjoy a separately-ticketed breakfast on select dates that includes meet and greets with the mean, green one and his friends at Circus McGurkus Cafe Stoo-pendous.

Mannheim Steamroller at Universal Studios Florida

The best-selling holiday artist of all time, Mannheim Steamroller, returns to Universal Studios Florida to fill the air with the traditional sounds of the season. Guests can take in live concerts on select nights.

Holidays at Universal's Hotels

The merriment continues when guests stay at Universal's hotels, which feature seasonal décor, holiday activities including festive meals and more.

Historical Center Society, which helps fund events such as Florida Frontier Days and the Live Maine Lobster Bake.

The festival is aided by and promotes Chakulla and the Hunger Bus, Singing out for Food. Please bring to help fill local food pantries.

The fun begins at 6 p.m. on May 3, with a full slate of music scheduled to go on until 10:30 p.m.

On May 4, the event will open at 9 a.m. with hibiscus, exotics, trees, organics and other plants for sale. Ten hibiscus growers are scheduled to display. In addition, nonperishable food items crafts and other types of goods will be available.

Music will continue on two stages from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The growers offer "unique plants that you wouldn't be able to find around town, Desguin said. "They're very interesting plants."

The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. May 5, with plenty of music, food and plants. The Hibiscus Festival traces its roots to 2004, when local resident Dawn MacGibbon and a small band of colorful, fun-loving locals held the first Hibiscus Festival, according to the festival's website. The Hibiscus Festival is the only event in town to honor the Punta Gorda city flower, and it annually pays homage to renowned hibiscus hybridizer Harry R. Goulding.

'Goulding was known for his world-class hybrid hibiscus plants. He would start 2,000 seedlings a year, growing some 60,000 varieties of hibiscus over 60 years. He won the American Hibiscus Society show's Best in the World category five times.

"Of all the events I do," Desguin said, "the Hibiscus Festival is my favorite. I love it."

Key Chorale's 'Tomorrow's Voices Today' to perform

By TRISH IVEY GUEST WRITER

Key Chorale's 34th season closes with the sixth annual presentation of "Tomorrow's Voices Today," a unique collaborative choral festival featuring Key Chorale and Sarasota County high school choir students at 7:30 p.m. May 3 at the Venice Performing Arts Center, 1 Indian Ave., Venice.

Each year, Maestro Caulkins inspires music making at the highest levels, planting seeds that will ripen throughout these students' lives with an eclectic program from classics to contemporary. This year, the choirs from Pine View, Venice, and Booker high schools will join the voices of Key Chorale to create a festival chorus of over 200 voices

Each high school choir will perform on its own, then join with Key Chorale to perform "Jubilate Deo" by Wolfgang Mozart; "Let Music Fill the Air" by Gwyneth Walker; "Please Stay" by Jake Runestad; and "Nda wana," a traditional South African folksong. "Please Stay" is an anthem for hope – an attempt to destigmatize mental illness and challenge us to support those who are battling depression and thoughts of suicide.

You are not alone. We can make a difference. We can be the support system that saves a life. It was inspired by the 2016 campaign for World Suicide Prevention Day by the nonprofit organization "To Write Love on Her Arms," a campaign which encouraged individuals battling depression to share their stories on Twitter using the hashtag #IKeptLiving. Runestad collected hundreds of these messages, which then inspired the text for "Please Stay."

Led by directors Brittany Smith, Seth Gardner and Alexander Zickafoose, the choirs of Venice, Pine View and Booker high schools will perform some of Artistic Director Joseph Caulkins said, "When I visit these schools I am consistently inspired by the quality of instructions and music-making in our schools. What I hope to impart is the great joy and reward that comes when we strive for great artistry."

"Key Chorale's support of our high schools' choral programs and their students and teachers is wonderful and goes far beyond this one event," said Angela Hartvigsen, Fine Arts Program Specialist, K-12, Manager, EdExploreSRQ. com, Sarasota County Schools. through the Tomorrow's Voices Today concert, they continue to be supported by Maestro Caulkins' visits to their classroom and, in some cases, additional performance opportunities within the community. We are so appreciative of this partnership."

In order to make this concert collaboration accessible to all, Key Chorale has reduced the ticket price to $10 to allow the entire community to celebrate choral music together. "We want our community to be able to have a front row seat to experience first-hand why we think this outreach is so important to Key Chorale's mission," said Caulkins.

Military Heritage Museum hosts witness to war interviews

Provided by LYNNE MATTHÉWS MARKETING CHAIR

The Military Heritage Museum in Punta Gorda welcomes back our friends from the Witness to War organization, a nonprofit group dedicated to preserving the oral histories of combat veterans. Former combat are never forgotten. veterans are invited to come and tell their stories in a one-on- one interview. The purpose of these interviews is to increase public understanding and share the stories of their years of service, contributions and sacrifices made in the name of freedom, and to insure that those who never made it home

IF YOU GO

The museum will host special "interview days" from May 6 to 10 between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Register online at www. freedomisntfree.org and go to the Events page, or call 941-575-9002 before May 1 to schedule your desired time.

The museum will host special "interview days" from May 6 to 10 between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for local and visiting veterans to participate in a recorded conversation with an experienced Witness to War interviewer in our state-ofthe-art video studio.

The raw footage will then be professionally edited into a two- to five-minute-long war story designed to provide the next generation with a "foxhole" or "windshield" view of what it was like to fight and survive on land, sea and air.

Connect, discover and engage with these unique stories — along with thousands of others which will be viewable on individual kiosks at the museum or online at www.WitnessToWar. org.

Contact the Military Heritage Museum to schedule vour interview if you are a former combat veteran and would like to share your story. Register online at www. freedomisntfree.org and call 941-575-9002 before

'Second Chances: The Thrift Shop Musical'

By MELISSA VOGT Broadway Palm Dinner Theatre

Broadway Palm is thrilled to present "Second Chances: The Thrift Shop Musical" playing now through May 12.

This funny, yet inspirational, musical comedy is written by Broadway Palm's founder Tom Ross Prather.

The production made its debut in the Off Broadway Palm in 2015 and has played to rave reviews at other theatres across the country.

Based on his true experiences at a local thrift shop, Tom Prather's "Second Chances" will take you on a journey through a poignant and amusing year of operation at a church thrift shop.

You'll meet the hilarious lead clerk who always brings sunshine to the day with humor, the couple who work in the collection area who discover that you can find love later in life, the young mother and new shop manager trying to start over, and more.

As the seasons change, so does the loveable, yet quirky, group. And when the thrift shop is threatened to be sold by the greedy landlord, the team won't stand for it. See how they save the shop and in the process discover it's not just old treasures that are getting "Second Chances!"

"Second Chances: The Thrift Shop Musical" is playing now through May 12 at Broadway Palm. Performances are Wednesday through Sunday evenings with selected matinees. Tickets are $45 to $70 with group prices available. Tickets can
