National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum celebrates 50th anniversary of SEALs

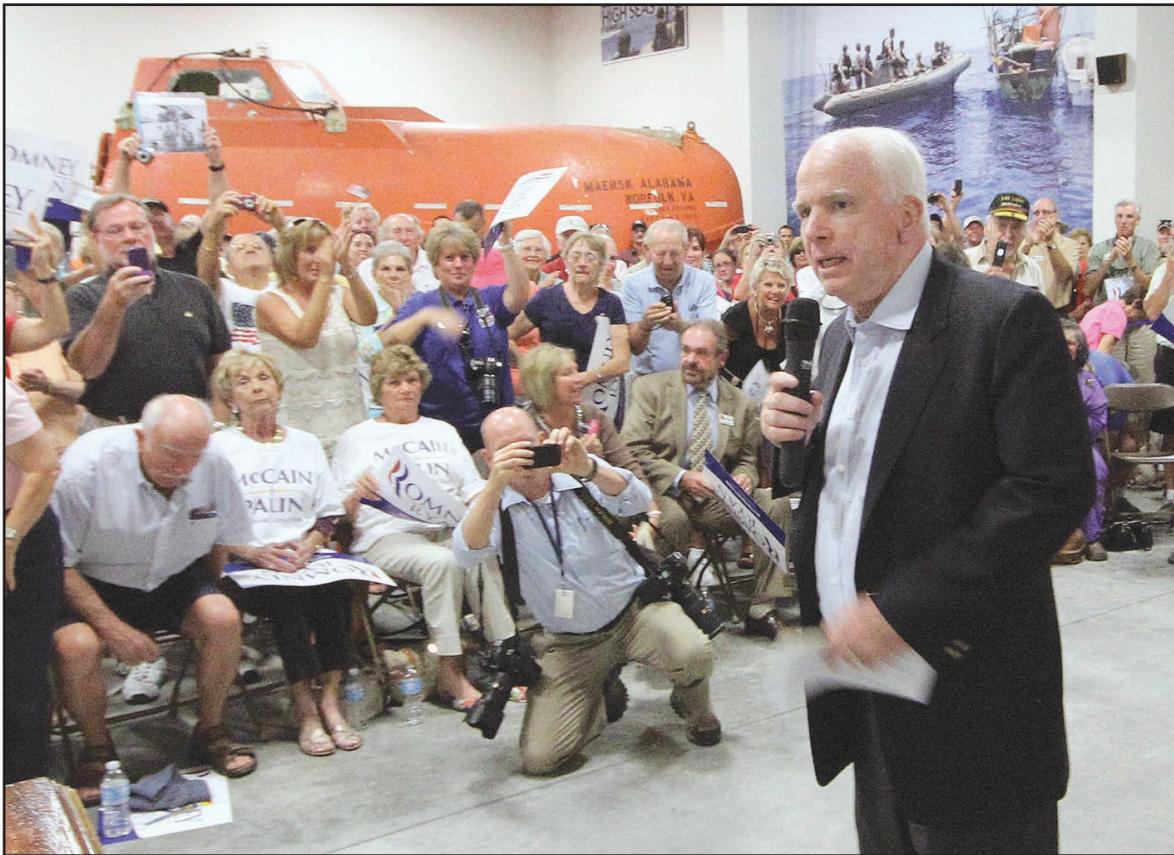

For Veteran Voice

Each year on Veterans Day weekend (this year, it is November 9-11), the National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum hosts its annual "Muster," which is free and open to the public. This year, the Golden Anniversary (50th Year) of the U.S. Navy SEALs, is extremely special, attracting thousands of people from all over the country. During this time, current and former SEALs convene at the Navy UDT-SEAL Museum to see friends and teammates, as well as provide the American public a unique glimpse into the world of Special Operations and Naval Special Warfare.

The activities start off at 6 p.m. Friday with an authentic luau on Friday evening (registration required), featuring Polynesian fire dancers, food, and drink.

Saturday morning at 7 a.m. is the 5K run/walk on the beach, where contestants will have the opportunity to test their ability and stamina against former and current SEALs.

After the race, there is a Veterans Day Ceremony which features the U.S. Navy Parachute Team, the "Leapfrogs," demonstrating their superior skills by parachuting directly onto the grounds. There is also a live demonstration featuring Navy SEAL commandos conducting a helicopter assault, hostage rescue and other demonstrations highlighting their capabilities and typical mission scenarios.

Because of the clandestine nature of their missions, these demonstrations provide a rare insight into the Navy SEALs and what they do.

This year's keynote speaker is ADM McRaven, Commander, U.S. Special Operations Command. Other speakers include U.S. Representative Allen West (FL-22).

The Museum is proud to host Navy SEAL Congressional Medal of Honor recipients Michael Thornton

VA's home loan program still leads industry

For Veteran Voice

WASHINGTON – Today the Department of Veterans Affairs announced it has guaranteed 20 million home loans since its home loan program was established in 1944 as part of the original GI Bill of Rights for returning World War II veterans. The 20 millionth loan was guaranteed for a home in Woodbridge, Va., purchased by the surviving spouse of an Iraq war veteran who died in 2010.

Given the current low interest rates, the program has grown significantly in the past five years, with 71 percent more purchases and 20 times as many refinances processed in fiscal year 2012 than in FY 2007. Currently, there are 1.7 million VA-guaranteed home loans in existence with a total value of $284 billion. VA has guaranteed 540,000 mortgages in 2012.

"The 20 millionth VA home loan is a major milestone and is a testament to VA's commitment to support and enhance the lives of veterans, service members, their families and survivors," said Allison A. Hickey, VA's undersecretary for benefits. "As a result of their service and sacrifice, as a group, they prove to be disciplined, reliable, and honorable — traits that are ideal for this kind of national investment."

The program makes home ownership more affordable for eligible veterans, service members and surviving spouses by providing access to lower cost financing. VA loans are also attractive within the mortgage industry because they protect lenders from loss if the borrower fails to repay the loan. Mortgages guaranteed by VA have had the lowest foreclosure rate for the last 17 quarters and the lowest delinquency rate for the last 14 quarters, compared to all other types of home loans in the nation, including prime loans, according to a report by the Mortgage Bankers Association.

Much of the strength of VA's home loan program stems from the efforts of VA employees and its industry partners nationwide to ensure veterans receive every possible opportunity to remain in their homes and avoid foreclosure. Since 2009, VA's efforts have resulted in more than $8 billion in savings to taxpayers in foreclosure avoidance.

Veterans may obtain a certificate of eligibility for a VA-guaranteed home loan through the joint Department of Defense — VA web portal eBenefits at www.ebenefits.va.gov. To obtain more information about the VA Home Loan Program, visit the program's home page at www.benefits.va.gov/homeloans.

and Thomas Norris. Following the demonstration is the "Chief's Muster Party" starting at 5 p.m. featuring barbecue and local band the "Baker Boys."

Military store a labor of love for vets

By Shelley Koppel
Staff writer

VERO BEACH – John Darling, a combat-wounded Vietnam vet, is looking for a few good men and women to help veterans in Indian River County.

Mr. Darling is one of the forces behind the Victory Center Military Store in the Indian River Mall. The store, which is celebrating its first anniversary, sells military merchandise and memorabilia, with all of the proceeds benefiting veterans in Indian River County.

Mr. Darling is looking for volunteers to ring up sales and visit with vets in the store's back room for coffee, conversation, and perhaps a game of checkers.

The store began with a desire to help area vets. Mr. Darling, who served in the Army, and retired Air Force Col. Martin Zickert, a financial planner and president of the Veterans Council of Indian River County, were looking for a way to raise money. They began talking to officials at Simon Malls about setting up a table during the holidays for donations.

"Then it became a storefront and then a store," Mr. Darling said. "Col. Zickert signed a lease and then said, 'Does anyone know anything running a store?'" Fortunately, Mr. Darling had been in the retail end of the grocery business for more than 50 years. He started when he was 15

Different job, common mission

“PFC Jennings! Get down and give me 20!”

The barking voice of my drill sergeant still rings in my ears today, as clearly as it did 30 years ago when he stood two inches from my face, shouting at me.

My infraction? I mistakenly answered “Yes, sir,” to a question.

“Sir? SIR?” he snarled. “I don’t see any officers in this vic-in-it-y, PFC Jennings. I WORK for a living, PFC! DO you UNDERSTAND, Private FIRST Class Jennings?”

His spit-polished boots were so shiny I could see my face in the toes as I stopped counting my push-ups long enough to answer “Yes, Sergeant,” between breaths.

Some things you never forget, especially during a life-changing experience. The Army changed my life at the tender age of 21 – and I was one of the older recruits in my platoon. Although my military career was short – 19 months – it left an impact on my perspective that has served to make me a better person and journalist over the years.

And here I am, 30 years later, given the honor of serving as managing editor of the new veterans publication you’re currently holding in your hands. But I’m here to tell you, my publisher picked the right soldier for the job. There are two other veterans on the staff of this newspaper company, but neither of them can spell worth a darn.

It is appropriate that we pushed the first publication date of Veteran Voice to Nov. 9, two days before Veterans Day. It will be, as the name implies, the local voice for you, my brothers and sisters, in Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Brevard counties. From the homework I’ve done, it seems the numerous veterans organizations on the Treasure and Space coasts do a good job of getting their information out through their own websites and newsletters, but no one publication seems to encompass it all in one place.

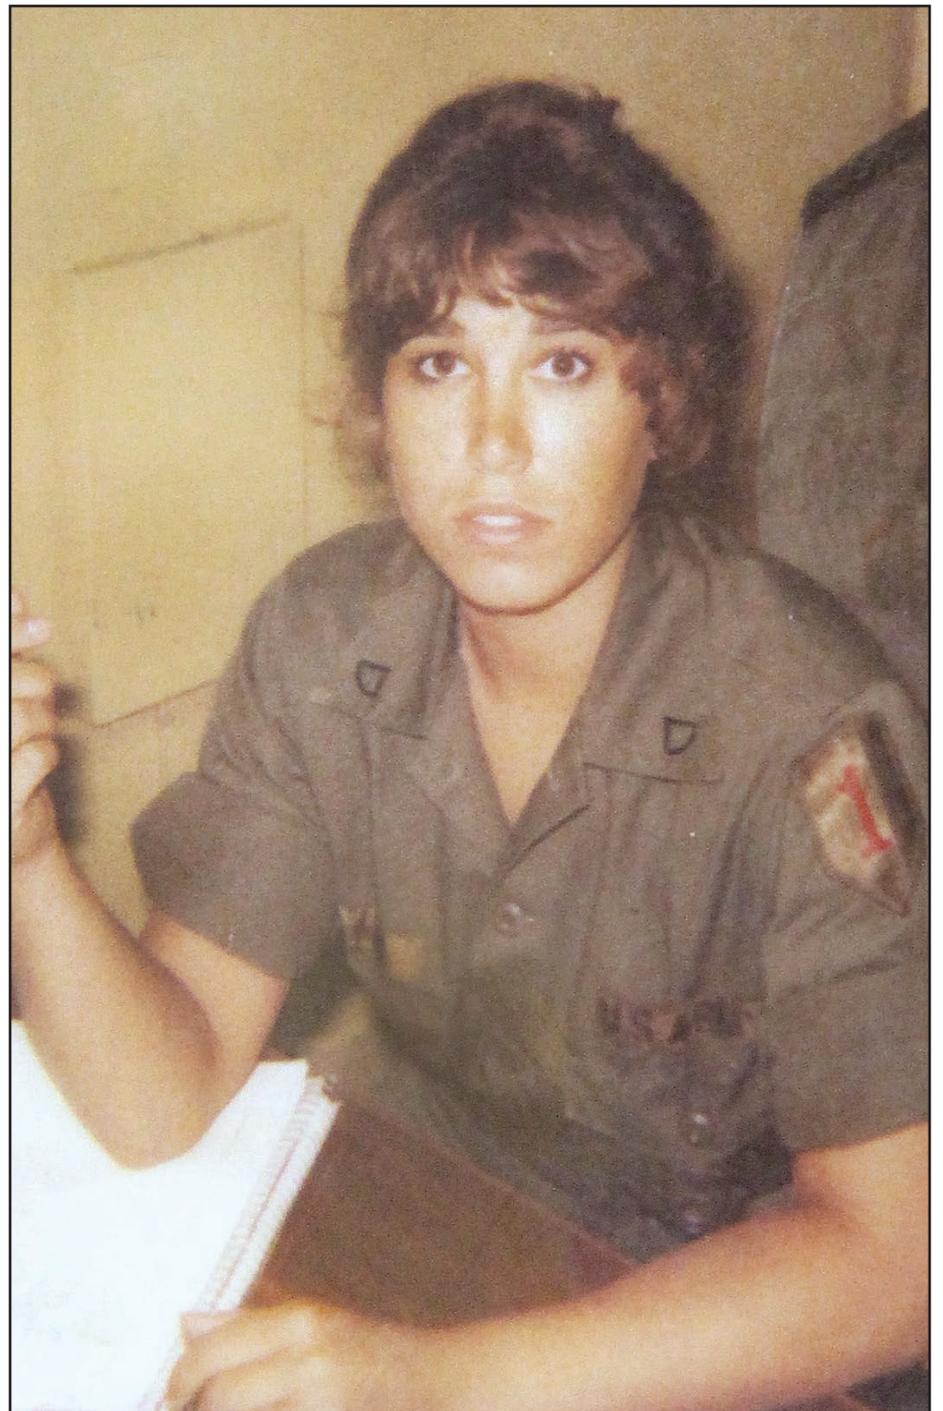

That is our mission. It differs somewhat from the usual focus we have as community journalists – the traditional belief of hyper-local news reporting is that people in Stuart don’t care about what people in Cape Canaveral are doing, and vice-versa.

With this publication we are combining the best of both worlds:

and returned to it when he got out of the service. While he had experience in merchandising and creating displays, setting up a 3,200-square-foot store was a daunting process.

"Col. Zickert said, 'What are we going to do?' Mr. Darling said. 'I said, 'Hell, I don't know.'"

The store received a donation of start-up money from county resident Doris Jorgenson, and that enabled the men to get things going. While the store was going to sell merchandise like bumper stickers, patches, camouflage and other items of military interest, Mr. Darling knew they needed something more to draw people in.

He set up a "Wall of Honor," with

Jetson TV & Appliance holding annual Veterans Celebration

For Veteran Voice

Jetson TV & Appliance presents its annual Veterans Celebration from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday, Nov. 12, at its Fort Pierce location, 4145 South U.S. Highway 1, Fort Pierce. Visitors and customers will be treated to food and drink by local vendors and music from the 1960s to today by Dr. Pappchubby.

Attorney Hugh Eighmie will be on hand offering free will and insurance reviews and to answer general legal questions. An appraiser from Treasure Coast Road Show will offer free appraisals of memorabilia.

one side honoring veterans from Desert Storm on and the other from Vietnam back. He asked Indian River County residents to bring in photos of county residents who are or were in the military. He also set up a display called "Pour Heroes" for several Indian River County residents who were killed in recent years.

"We knew we'd sell patches and T-shirts and hats," he said. "I thought if they'd see the wall, maybe they'd make donations."

Col. Zickert also wanted to give veterans a place to sit and visit. A room at the back of the store became the "R and R Bunker."

"Vets can sit, relax, have coffee and cookies, Skype, use WiFi, watch TV, read or play chess and checkers," Mr. Darling said. "It's a place to sit and relax and let the wife go spend money. It's kind of like a USO store."

The space has become a meeting place for veterans groups. A social worker comes on Tuesday nights at 7 for a support group for veterans suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder. They hope to offer classes in everything from yoga to financial planning to how to use a smart phone. There are also service officers who can help veterans file for benefits.

Money raised at the store has already helped purchase a bus to take vets to the VA hospital in West Palm Beach. Organizers also want to raise money for an Honor Flight out of Vero Beach so that elderly veterans won't have to travel far to catch a plane.

While Mr. Darling has ambitious plans, he depends on volunteers to make them a reality.

"We need volunteers for two-hour shifts," he said. "There's no physical work and you don't have to be a vet. I'm from Publix and I tell people to meet and greet every customer, make eye contact and tell them about the store, about how 100 percent of the money stays in this county to help our vets."

Mr. Darling said that people from Simon Malls were so impressed with the store that they are looking into starting similar operations at other outlets.

Even with the success of the store, Mr. Darling is not resting on his laurels. He is concerned that younger vets are not joining veteran's groups and hopes they will find a home-away-from home in the store. His mission is to make certain that all vets understand that their service is valued and that help or just a friendly chat is available.

The Victory Center Military Store is located at 6200 21st St. in the Indian River Mall, near Macy's. Hours of operation, beginning Nov. 1, are Monday-Saturday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday from noon-6 p.m. For more information, call (772) 226-5316.

Visiting hero

Arizona Sen. John McCain greeted supporters and veterans on a campaign stop for Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney Wednesday, Oct. 24 at the Navy UDT/SEAL Museum in Fort Pierce.

McCain, a naval aviator, was shot down over Hanoi in 1967 and spent five and a half years as a prisoner of war. He retired with the rank of captain in 1981 and is seen as a hero by many veterans.

The British invasion sensation The Towers (of London) and their American competition Lovechild & the Rock Force (of Memphis) are ready for a musical duel of legendary proportions. But then, someone turned the battle into a war by murdering a member of each band! Come join the concert's attendees and help the hard-nosed stage manager Rex Renshod solve the case. As you enjoy a multi-course gourmet meal you will meet and question the members of both bands. From the Towers: lead vocalist Cullen Nary, guitarist Paul Danzer, and drummer Berry Lively. From the all-female Lovechild & the Rock Force: singer Jennifer Lovechild, guitarist Regina Rockababy, and drummer Mary-Anne Diforce. Do you have what it takes to go back to the 60s and figure out who killed Mike O'Knight and Lea Darling? $40 Contact (772) 807-4488.

Your Oral Health Tip Of the Week

What makes someone beautiful? Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, and uniqueness is something to be cherished and admired. However, beauty isn't just what we project; it's also how we feel about ourselves. Do you think you're beautiful, inside and out? You can work on your intelligence, compassion, and integrity — inner beauty. You can also work on your body shape, skin tone, and smile — outer beauty. On this blog, Dr. Michael A. Sohl will share tips to help make you beautiful and healthy, inside and out. Subscribe to our RSS feed and Facebook page, and you'll receive alerts when we post new articles you may find interesting. And feel free to share anything on our blog with your friends and family! Have a happy, healthy day...
