Remembering the Fighting 69th during St. Paddy's Day celebrations

By Patrick McCallister
For Veteran Voice

MARTIN COUNTY -- None said it so elegantly as Confederate General Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson: "Here comes those (expletive) green flags again."

'Tis time for a seisiún to brush up on the lyrics to "The Fighting 69th." The tune's easy enough, same as for "Star of the County Down." Grab shillelaghs, the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America is hosting its second annual Stuart St. Patrick's Day Parade and Festival.

"The Irish culture has tremendously contributed to America today," said Dennis McKenna, president of the Father Mychael Francis Judge chapter. "America is extremely proud of having Irish people here. It's important to secure the Irish culture for my daughter and grandchildren."

The family-friendly festival will be at the Roosevelt Bridge, Flagler Park, 201 S.W. Flagler Ave. Events kick off on Friday, March 15 at 4 p.m. and continue until 10 p.m. Admission that day is $3 or a non-perishable food item for local charity Building Bridges to Youth.

Fighting against hunger and poverty is deeply rooted in Irish-American culture. Thousands of Irish arrived in America during an Gorta Mór – the Great Hunger or Potato Famine – in the late 1840s and early 1850s. That was far from the end of the Irish Diaspora. By the turn of the 20th century, about 5 million Irish had headed to America to escape crushing poverty.

Henry Good is buried at the St. Augustine National Cemetery. He was born in Clara, King's County, Ireland. Today King's County is named County Offaly, and sits in the middle of the Emerald Isle. Good, who died in 1877 at age 33, was a member of Battalion K 5th Artillery. Good is among the uncounted number of Irish immigrants and their children who served in the U.S. Armed Forces through the years. His compatriots obviously thought highly of him, and respected his national origin. So much so, they erected this tombstone for him.

City gives vets chance of a lifetime

ST. LUCIE WEST — With the number of World War II veterans diminishing at an alarming rate, the city of Port St. Lucie is working just as swiftly to ensure the remaining heroes get to visit the Washington, D.C., monument erected in their honor.

As the Mets faced off against the Miami Marlins on March 2 — a game that ended in an 8-8 tie — city employees feverishly worked the third base concession stand, serving up fresh hotdogs, piping hot french fries, nachos and other condiments. Fifteen percent of the sales went to benefit Honor Flight, Mayor JoAnn Faiella said. In total, the city raised more than $1,000, a city staff member said.

According to honorflight.org, the latest statistics show WWII veterans are dying at a rate of approximately 800 per day. The organization, which has hubs across the country, aims to transport veterans free of charge to see

Community Blueprint plans rolling right along in Indian River County: volunteers needed

Having More Retirement Accounts Is Not The Same As Having More Money..

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

*Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss

To learn why consolidating your retirement accounts to Edward Jones makes sense, call your local financial advisor today.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

By Patrick McCallister
For Veteran Voice

Martin "Marty" Zickert, president of the Veterans Council of Indian River County, knows as much as anyone about how to come home from Vietnam. Of course, that's not where returning service members are coming back from these days.

Afghanistan is the new Vietnam.

Four letters in the English alphabet is about all the two have in common. The United States pulled military members out of Iraq by the end of 2011, and plans are to have most or many of them out of Afghanistan by the end of 2014.

"There is no organization set up for the (Operation Iraqi Freedom/ Operation Enduring Freedom) guys," Zickert said. "They come through our (post-traumatic stress disorder) classes, and don't even speak the same language we do. They have a totally different language than we do. Things we talk about, they don't talk about."

Folks from the Military Officers Association of America recently met with the council to help it start a Points of Light Institute's Community Blueprint. The council is working with the program to create local behavioral-health and reintegration assistance for younger, returning veterans.

"There are (behavioral-health) facilities available — it's a matter of coordinating them," Zickert said. "The problem is, who is going to pay for it?"

The institute's website, pointsof-light.org, explains, "The Community Blueprint is a set of tools and practices that provide a framework for communities to produce positive, measurable outcomes for veterans, military members and their families."

memorials dedicated to salute their service.

"It's the community coming together. It's important for them (veterans) to get their closure. There are so many on the list who cannot afford it," said Faiella, who worked with a team of 25 city staffers, including volunteers from the Port St. Lucie Police Department, City Hall and the utility department.

"I couldn't have done it without this Port St. Lucie team coming together. I started this when I got elected in 2010," Faiella said. "Former Councilman Jack Kelly helped me a lot last year. We raised almost $56,000 and we sent 80 of our veterans from Port St. Lucie. This year we plan on sending the remaining 30 or 35."

Interim city manager Jeff Bremer said his first experience raising funds for WWII veterans was a rewarding one.

"It's awesome. To see everybody from the city and Mayor Faiella out here is just a wonderful experience," Bremer said. "Volunteerism is something that may be falling from the wayside, but today you see it really strong."

Port St. Lucie Police Department Chief John Bolduc echoed the same sentiment

"It's a great way to spend a Saturday afternoon. We're enjoying ourselves," Bolduc said. "The community support for Honor Flight is great."

Faiella said the extra support from game attendees made the event a success.

"They're dropping $20 in tips and commending us for doing this for our veterans," Faiella said.

Mets fan and New York resident Annie Leavitt was ecstatic she was having fun and helping a good cause.

Leavitt said her donation was the perfect way to honor her late father, a retired U.S. Air Force captain, who died 33 years ago.

"I can't even say how important it is (to honor our WWII veterans)," Leavitt said. "It's terrific."

John Gifford, of New York, said his donation also had a special meaning.

"I love it. I think it's awesome," said Gifford, who added his 90-year-old father is a WWII veteran. "They've given up so much of their lives for us, for our freedom and for being able to come to a ballpark like this and enjoy this kind of thing. They're really heroes."

Mike Monroe is an operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm veteran, and vice president of Military Initiatives at the institute. He said the Community Blueprint was born in the Sunshine State and officially launched on Nov. 9 last year.

"About three years ago there was an off-site retreat (at the White Oak Plantation near Yulee) he said in a previous interview. "Fifty-five groups got together to discuss community needs and action plans. One of the findings out there is, anything to help communities help veterans would help the communities."

He said 12 of the participating organizations at the retreat decided to explore issues facing recently discharged military members, and to form plans communities could implement to help them.

The organizations identified eight areas that needed attention and crafted the Blueprint Toolbox — specific things communities could do to address them. Those eight areas are: employment, volunteerism, behavioral health, edu-

Today about 50 million Americans claim Irish as their primary heritage.

The festival continues on Saturday, March 16, at 10 a.m. The fun will continue to 10 p.m.

"We will start off with the Green Fiddlers from Jupiter," McKenna said.

Followed by acts such as MacTalla Mor, The Rowdy Micks, Tom Davis, and...

"We'll have Andy Murphy walking around solo with Irish tunes," McKenna said.

Music is another important feature of Irish-American culture. As many Irish arrived in New York in the 1860s, they were immediately signed into the Union Army. Other Irish found their ways into the Confederate Army. Many of the Irish musical instruments were easily portable and went with them, such as pennywhistles and makeshift bodhráns, an Irish drum.

The Irish songs played during long lulls between battles influenced American music ever since. Indeed, the American classic "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," by Patrick Gilmore, was an Irish rebel song, "Johnny I Hardly Knew Ye," with new lyrics.

On Sunday, March 17, the festival gets going again at 10 a.m.

with more music and fun. At 2 p.m., the St. Patrick Day Parade will crank up with Congressman Patrick Murphy as the grand marshal.

Politics is another important part of the Irish-American culture. Like other immigrants, the Irish immigrants and their children met much prejudice and often worked difficult and dangerous jobs to eke out a menial living. Groups such as the controversial Molly Maguires and often-corrupt Tammany Hall, the late-1700s New York City political machine, helped organize Irish voters who became important to gaining workers' rights and ending practices such as child labor.

To climb out of poverty, education became important to Irish-Americans, which will be on display at the parade.

"Our deputy grand marshal is Laurie Gaylord," McKenna said.

She's the superintendent of the Martin County Schools.

True to the strong influence of Catholicism on Irish-Americans: "At the end of the parade, we'll have a prayer on our grand stand to show our respect to St. Patrick," McKenna said.

Sunday's festivities will continue until 9 p.m.

In addition to music, there'll be traditional Irish dancing at the festival. The Tir Na Greine School of Irish Dance is in the entertainment lineup. There'll also be a children's area with a bounce house and games. Of course, there'll be traditional Irish foods, such as corned beef and cabbage. And for those 21 and older, perhaps a pint of Guinness, fondly referred to by some as "Mother's Milk."

Oh, and that Stonewall Jackson quote needs a bit of explanation.

The Confederate general met the New York 69th Infantry Regiment, commanded by Thomas Francis Meagher, a few times during the Civil War. According to military historians, the first time the famed general met the Irish regiment, the 69th was disorganized. But the 69th quickly gained its battle senses and became a potent fighting force in short order. Jackson's later meetings with the 69th didn't go as well for him.

At their last meeting, Jackson reportedly groaned upon seeing the distinctive banner carried by the Fighting 69th, turned to his lieutenants and said, "Here comes those (expletive) green flags again."

Is the gun the real problem?

It was 4 o'clock in the morning. There was a tremendous noise coming from our front door. I jumped out of bed and saw a dark shadowed figure smashing my stained glass front door with the 2-by-4 wooden post from my neighbor's mailbox.

I immediately told my wife to call 911, and I took a flashlight and my legally owned pistol and cautiously approached this wild individual. I shined the flashlight in his face and shouted, "You better get out of here or I'll kill you." Upon having that and seeing my pistol, he dropped the 2-by-4 and ran away.

I am 84 years old and I believe if I was not armed, my wife and I would have been seriously injured or most likely be killed. The pistol saving us is the positive part of the story.

The tragic part of this story is the criminal justice and mental-system breakdown.

The police, upon arriving at my house, had this wild individual in the back of their police cruiser. They had picked up this barefoot and bare-chested individual running through our gated community. I identified this individual and pressed charges.

The front stained glass door was destroyed. My wife was so devastated, it took over a year of special counseling to return to what may be called normal. The story does not end here.

Domenick Scarlato

We waited for five months to be notified as to the disposition or trial of this individual. We contacted the assistant district attorney and, to spare you the details of what transpired, we were told this individual was bi-polar schizophrenic who, at the time of this horrendous crime, was off his medication. Criminal charges were changed to a mental problem and he was assigned to a special court and a special judge who handles individuals with mental problems. This takes the jurisdiction out of the hands of the assistant district attorney. We also found the individual was now walking the streets free. He was out free and on probation as long as he took his medication.

We were shocked at this an-

swer. We then wrote directly to the district attorney complaining we were completely out of the loop. We, the victims, never had our day in court. We received the same answer as was given to us by the assistant district attorney.

Out of frustration, we wrote to the state attorney and the reply received was that the state doesn't get involved with local issues. As a last resort, we wrote to then-Governor Crist with a detailed report, and his reply was for us to contact the state attorney. As it would appear, we were given the run-around.

How many other deranged individuals are free as long as they take their medication? What if they don't take their medication?

What would happen if one attacks an unarmed person, a woman or the elderly? I dread to think of the outcome. It appears that both the criminal justice and mental health systems are broken.

This brings up the issue of the guns being the culprit.

Instead of simply attaching the gun and yell for more gun control laws, we should put everything on the table. The mental health system, the criminal justice system, entertainment media and the guns.

Vice President Biden with his "Gun Control Committee" told the president that in a month he will give him a report. How can such a complex issue be given only a month's consideration?

This is an extremely complex issue of not only gun control, but more important, it is an issue of individual control. There are over 1,100 gun control laws, state and federal, throughout the United States, but the individual control is very limited. The mental health system, the criminal justice system and the entertainment media, along with guns, should be our primary concern and needs a thorough reviewing. This takes time, which I believe Vice President Biden is not addressing thoroughly. The vice president is putting together a report, which I believe will reflect his own biased agenda on gun control. To think that this will be an unbiased report when the committee is called "Gun Control Committee" is naive.

The issue is a very complex problem in our society and should not be rushed into simply putting more gun laws on the books without addressing and hopefully correcting our mental health, entertainment and crimi-cation, housing, family strength, financial and legal help, along with reintegration.

"These are eight different areas — you can't do them all at one time," Zickert said. "You pick the areas where there's the least support."

Zickert said the local veterans council selected behavioral health and reintegration because those were the two areas least addressed by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and others in Indian River County. For example, the VA has about 300 Vet Centers with resources to help returning service members with reintegration problems, but the closest to Indian River County are in Jupiter and Melbourne.

"We don't have to go out and invent how to handle homeless people," Zickert said. "There are several organizations that do a great job with that in Indian River County."

To become Blueprint Community, one or more organizations have to complete a needs assessment to the institute, complete a survey and submit an agreement to implement solutions to at least two of the eight items within a year. When done, the institute can provide help from the Veterans Leaders Corps, which operates through AmeriCorps, a network of national service organizations.

Zickert said he's getting local younger veterans involved with the local Community Blueprint is the only way it'll be successful.

"One of our jobs is to put together an organization that they can run," he said. "We're trying to create a program for us to mentor them, and for them to run it."

Additionally, he said the council is seeking volunteer help.

To learn more, call Zickert at (772) 569-9533.

Outside spectators miss a good show

Dear Editor,

The Valiant Air Command Warbird Museum is preparing for its 36th Annual "Tico Warbird Airshow," to be held March 22, 23 and 24 — this year with the USAF Thunderbirds! This involves many months of complex, complicated planning with literally hundreds of volunteers, vendors and pilots; drawing tens of thousands of visitors to Brevard County each year. The Airshow not only allows us to continue to provide great family entertainment, but also enables us, at the warbird museum, to "preserve the legacy of these great vintage warbirds and the pilots who flew them."

We are very grateful for all those that come out to support our annual fundraiser, but it is frustrating to see the hundreds of people who take up positions outside the Space Coast Regional Airport on Highway 405, U.S. 1 and other locations, to watch the airplanes fly briefly overhead to and from the airport. These folks miss out on 95 percent of what's happening. They don't get to hear the narration and understand what's happening and why. They don't get to see the 60-plus vintage warbirds that are on static display and talk to the pilots or aircraft historians. They don't get to see the WWII re-enactment battles, the antique cars, or the many other exhibits.

Finally, by not buying an advance ticket of only $15 for adults, they are not contributing to our support. Each year the airshow gets more expensive and without this support, our neighbors and visitors may one day no longer be able to watch what is truly a world class, vintage warbird airshow — right here in Brevard County. So this year, consider buying a ticket, supporting our cause and coming in to see and hear the whole show. Doing this will help ensure the Valiant Air Command's Tico Warbird Airshow will be here for everyone to enjoy for many more years.

For Veteran Voice

Some of you may already be aware that the U.S. Army Field Band and Soldier's Chorus concert scheduled for April 15 at the King Center in Melbourne is canceled. The government "sequester" which impacted the U.S. military budget has unfortunately meant that travel by the Army Band and Soldier's Chorus has been curtailed.

nal justice system.

First a committee should be formed with a non-biased title and have within its members psychiatrists, medical doctors, entertainment producers and directors, business leaders, gun groups and the law enforcement community. All should carefully and hopefully, without emotion, give their objective opinions toward producing a carefully laid-out report. This takes time to be effective.

Let us not allow our emotions to rapidly rush into an ill-conceived plan. We should all write to our legislative representatives and voice our opinions to have a fair and balanced plan which could control this heinous behavior.

Tico Warbird AirShow announces Mrs. Robert Morgan to attend the 36th Annual Airshow March 22-24

For Veteran Voice

Linda Morgan, the widow of Robert Morgan, who was the pilot of the famous B-17 Flying Fortress "Memphis Belle," will be in attendance at the Tico Warbird AirShow. She will be our available in our PX tent with autographed copies of her husband's book regarding his life.

"The Belle" flew for 10 months from Nov. 7, 1942 to May 17, 1943. The command had set 25 missions as an incentive for aircrews to go home. Morale was extremely low because 80 percent of the bombers were shot down during the first three months of America's combat flights over Europe. Early experience showed that the average life expectancy of a bomber crew in late 1942 was eight to 12 missions. A bomber crewman at that time only had a 30-50 percent chance of completing his tour of duty.

The "Memphis Belle" and Robert Morgan represent all those that flew and crewed the B-17 Flying Fortress. The Valiant Air Command is proud and honored to help preserve the memory of these heroic pilots and crews who made the B-17 Flying Fortress such a great warbird machine of World War II.

Gates open at 8:30 each day. Advance tickets are available through Ticket Derby online at our website or through ticketderby.com. Come and see all the vintage warbirds, great flying, vendors and family activities —AND help us honor Robert Morgan and the great B-17 Flying Fortress.

THE TICO WARBIRD AIRSHOW PROUDLY PRESENTS
THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE THUNDERBIRDS

U.S. Highway 1 traffic to be detoured for brief a period during Tico Warbird AirShow

For Veteran Voice

The 36th annual Tico Warbird Air Show is proud to have the famous USAF Thunderbirds performing for the first time in our 36th years of holding AirShows in our community.

Unfortunately, because of the extended aerobatic box required for their high-speed performance and maneuvers, we will be required to detour traffic around a section U.S. Highway 1, for about a 40-minute period, during the Thunderbird performance. This detour will be from approximately 3:25 p.m. until about 4:05 p.m. each day of the AirShow. All traffic will be diverted, near the Space Coast Regional Airport, southbound at Highway 405 and northbound at Kings Highway. Access to other road networks can be made from these detours.

The Valiant Air Command and Tico Warbird AirShow apologizes for any inconvenience that this may cause. If you have any additional questions please contact the museum (321) 268-1941 or email us at vacwards@bellsouth.net. Visit our website at www.vacwarbirds.org to purchase advance tickets online and for more AirShow information.

The Navy SEAL Museum, Moorings Club present first Navy SEAL Golf Tournament April 21

Event to benefit the Navy SEAL Museum and Trident House (Rain date: April 28)

For Veteran Voice

To our friends, colleagues and sponsors:

The National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum in conjunction with The Moorings Club will host the first-ever Navy SEAL golf fundraiser.

This event is to commemorate and honor the sacrifices of the Navy SEAL community. The funds raised by the event will benefit the National Navy UDT-SEAL Museum and the families of our fallen SEALs. The National Navy Seal Museum Trident House is a waterfront residence located along the Indian River in Sebastian. This home is dedicated to those families of U.S. Navy SEALs who have sacrificed their lives in the line of duty. It also serves those U.S. Navy SEALs and their families who are injured and battle-fatigued. The Trident House provides a peaceful and a restful setting for families during their stay.

The National Navy SEAL Museum is the only museum in the world dedicated exclusively to the U.S. Navy SEALs and the elite warriors of Navy Special Warfare. Our continuing mission is to preserve the history of the U.S. Navy SEALs and their predecessors, including the Underwater Demolition Teams, the Naval Combat Demolition Units and Amphibious Scouts and Raiders.

Located in Fort Pierce, the birthplace of the Navy Frogmen, the museum promotes public education by providing the opportunity to explore the history of the U.S. Navy SEALs while honoring our fallen at the SEAL Memorial and caring for those warrior families through the Trident House.

We have a dynamic new wing of world class exhibits at the museum that will tell the story of our U.S. Navy SEALs in the global war on terror. The exhibits will fully open in 2013 with the help of fundraisers such as this one.

The golf tournament, luncheon and auction:

The Moorings Club is uniquely tucked away on Vero Beach's barrier island and offers a truly remarkable golfing experience. The course meanders along the Indian River unveiling beautiful scenery, abundant wildlife and dramatic waterfront panorama. The day begins with a continental breakfast, registration and a viewing of Navy SEAL vehicles, boats and other artifacts. Former Navy SEALs will mingle, play golf with the participants and prove that most of our elite warriors spend little time on the Golf course. The conclusion of the day includes a lunch banquet, awarding of prizes, and bidding on silent and one-of-a-kind live auction items. There will be plenty of time to meet and talk with former U.S. SEALs and other special guests.

Most important of all, we will be supporting our Navy Special Warfare community at a time when they need our support the most.

Breakfast and registration will be from 7:45 a.m. to 8:45 a.m. Scramble (best ball) format and shotgun start at 9 a.m.; luncheon starts at 1 p.m. with prizes and an auction to follow.

The point of contact for the tournament regarding Entry Registration is Tom Juliano. He can be reached by email at tjuli@bell-south.net or by phone at (772) 696-2009.

The point of contact for the tournament regarding sponsorship inquiries is Mike Bell. He can be reached by email at michaelybell@aol.com or by phone at (772) 231-3522.

OUR MISSION STATEMENT AND OUR OBJECTIVE

Veteran Voice is a weekly publication designed to provide information to and about veterans to veterans and to the broader community. Veterans are an integral part of their Florida communities, which currently have individual organizations of their own, such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the Vietnam Veterans of America and many other groups with a narrow focus, but no convenient way to connect to a wider population of veterans and to the community in general within a limited geographic area, their community.

The mission of Veteran Voice is to publish a weekly source of information that will provide, in one place, a listing of resources available to veterans, articles about changes in policies or organizations affecting veterans and events of interest to veterans as well as articles about veterans of interest to the general public.

Veteran Voice LLC is organized as a partnership of experienced newspaper executives with an interest in veterans and in the communities of Florida veterans and friends. VV is a start-up intended to address a perceived lack of information readily available to veterans on programs and policies affecting them and objective reporting of veteran affairs to the public.

To our knowledge, and based on comments from leaders of local veterans organizations, there was no media or website currently meeting this need until the launch of VeteranVoice.

We hope you agree, and will support this publication with your subscription. Without subscriptions there will be a limited number of people we can help, without which this mission will not be realized. As part of our commitment to supporting local veteran communities, we will donate 10 percent of our profits each quarter to qualified veteran charities recommended by you, our readers and subscribers. Please let us know what you think by emailing editor@veteranvoiceweekly.com or mailing your comments to us at 1919 S.W.
