THURSDAY'S BEST BETS

Taraji P. Henson

8 p.m. on (2) (5) (1) Taraji's White Hot Holidays

"Empire" star Taraji P. Henson returns with another edition of the seasonal special that has turned into an annual event, with her series' Jussie Smollett among the musical guests putting their own spins on seasonal favorites. Also performing are Chaka Khan, Ciara, Faith Evans, Fergie, "Hamilton" Tony Award winner Leslie Odom Jr., Salt-N-Pepa and the Ying Yang Twins. DJ Khaled, Taye Diggs, Jay Pharoah, Method Man, Tituss Burgess and Niecy Nash are featured as well.

FRIDAY'S BEST BETS

Kim Zolciak-Biermann

8 p.m. on (LIFEMOV) Movie: Stalked by My Ex

Terrified by the news that her abusive ex-husband, Sam (Yves Bright, "Animal Kingdom"), is being released from prison, Chloe (Tamara Braun, "Days of Our Lives") flees with teenage daughter Olivia (Brytnee Ratledge) to her hometown, where she very quickly is reminded of the problems that drove her to leave there in the first place. Sam, meanwhile, is determined to find the pair so he can implement a plan Chloe definitely is not going to like.

9 p.m. on (BRAVO) Don't Be Tardy ...

In the new episode "I Do Take Two," the Biermanns appear to be all set to renew their vows in Turks and Caicos, seven years to the day that Kim first caught a look at Kroy's formidable backside. The occasion is threatened on two fronts, though, when a vital dress goes missing and Brielle's mood swings throw a damper on her mother's high spirits.

10 p.m. on Lidia Celebrates America

In the new offering "Homegrown Heroes," celebrated chef Lidia Bastianich visits military veterans across the country to share their personal stories as well as some of their recipes. Among them: married former Marines who work their ranch near Buffalo, N.Y.; an ex-air Force officer who raises alpacas in Kentucky; an agriculturally trained U.S. Army veteran from Anaheim, Calif.; and an Iraq War veteran in Leon, W. Va.., who prepares his own jams, jellies and sauces.

Gwen Stefani makes her first TV special 'Feel Like Christmas' on NBC

By George Dickie © Zap2it

Whether it's making a record or designing clothing, Gwen Stefani has an implicit trust in the creative process. And it's what guided her through the at-time daunting challenge of making of her first solo special for NBC. "Gwen Stefani's You Make It Feel Like Christmas.'

"You have to start at the bottom of the mountain," she explains, "and just (take) little baby steps, and it started just coming together. And it was really just coming down to 'Who am I and what am I trying to say?' And it just was like developing over time and it was like meeting after meeting of what I don't want to do and what I do want to do. And 'What is the message I'm trying to make?' And those kinds of things.

"And then it just turns into a budget issue just like everything else," she adds with a laugh, "so that kind of edits things out. And then you try to get really creative within a budget problem, which is what I do with designing as well, which is part of the creative process. And you start to get really creative then."

The hourlong program, which airs Tuesday, Dec. 12, sees the Grammy-winning singer/songwriter and former coach on the Peacock Network's "The Voice," performing selections from her new album "You Make It Feel Like Christmas" as well as classic holiday fare. There are also holiday-themed sketches and guest appearances by Ken Jeong ("Dr. Ken"), talk-show host Chelsea Handler, actor/ comedian Seth MacFarlane and recording artist Ne-Yo.

Stefani also performs a duet with Blake Shelton, the country artist to whom recent reports have linked her romantically, and it's a song he wrote for her Christmas album.

"I guess when he started hearing about the kind of record I was going to make," Stefani explains, "he was so excited about it. And he was on his tour bus and he came up with this idea. And he was funny because he sent me a voice message and it was like, 'OK, I was thinking about your record and I was just sitting around. I kind of came up with this. I don't know if there's anything here.' But it was basically like, 'I wanna thank ...' ... 'You make me feel ...' I was like, 'Oh my gosh! What a jerk!' Like he's so talented. He just sends me a hit like right when I'm trying to write this record. So I knew automatically that it was so good ... ."

Stefani also gets to perform in comedy skits, something at which she has limited experience. Though she's happy with her performance, she'd just as soon stick to recording, touring and designing and leave the acting to the professionals.

"It was really unexpected, something I never thought I would do in my lifetime," she says of the Christmas special, "but really up my alley, like everything I love. So it was really fun to sit down and be creative and figure out a way to do it where it works for me point of view and things that I love. So it was a really fun project."

per is the son of designer and railroad heiress Gloria Vanderbilt and writer Wyatt Emory Cooper, and he is a descendant of Cornelius Vanderbilt.

He grew up in New York City, attending the Dalton School and later Yale University before pursuing a journalism career. He became a correspondent for ABC News in 1995, moving to anchor positions on CNN a few years later and hosting his own news program, "Anderson Cooper 360%deg;," beginning in 2003. In addition, he is a major correspondent for "60 Minutes."

From an early age, Cooper was exposed to his mother's glamorous lifestyle and social circle, meeting the likes of Truman Capote, among others. As a baby he was photographed for the cover of Harper's Bazaar, and later he enjoyed a brief career as a child model, appearing in ad campaigns for companies such as Macy's and Ralph Lauren.

In 1978, Cooper's father died during open-heart surgery, a tragedy that would influence the way Cooper lived his life. Tragedy struck his family again a decade later, when his brother, Carter, committed suicide by jumping to his death from the 14th-floor window of their mother's New York City apartment. As his father's death had, Carter's suicide fueled Cooper's drive, and he would

Cooper's journalistic output has earned him countless honors over the years, including countless Emmy Award nominations and eight wins. In 2005, he won both Peabody and National Headliner Awards for his coverage of the Indian Ocean tsunami: in 2006 he won an Edward R. Murrow Award for his coral reef report; and in 2013 he received a GLAAD Media Award, to name iust a few of his accolades. Finding similar success as a writer, his 2006 memoir, Dispatches from the Edge - about his experiences covering war and tragedy – became a New York Times best seller

In 2014, Cooper's personal life made the headlines after he revealed during a candid interview on Howard Štern's radio show that he would not inherit any of his mother's sizable fortune after her passing. However, Cooper – who is a millionaire in his own right – went on to clarify that it was not an issue for him, saying, "I don't believe in inheriting money. I think it's an initiative sucker. I think it's a curse." He further praised his mother and credited her with giving him his drive to work hard and succeed.

8 p.m. on 20 23 I Want a Dog for Christmas, Charlie Brown!

Nothing can replace the classic "A Charlie Brown Christmas," but this animated special — first shown in 2003 — reunites the updated Peanuts gang with the yuletide season. Linus and Lucy's little brother, ReRun, needs stress relief. He goes to Snoopy for attention and fun, but the canine has plans that don't include the boy. Voice talents include Jimmy Bennett, Adam Taylor Gordon and Bill Melendez.

8 p.m. on (AMC) Movie: Miracle on 34th Street

In this seasonal classic, marking its 70th anniversary this year, Oscar winner Edmund Gwenn stars as a Macy's Santa who gets into trouble when he claims he's the real Kris Kringle. In a city full of imposters, he finds no one — not even a little girl (Natalie Wood) — willing to believe in him. With skeptics ridiculing him at every turn, Kringle has no choice but to take his case to court. Only one young lawyer has enough faith to defend him. Maureen O'Hara and John Payne also star.

9 p.m. on (BBCA) Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective Agency

In the Season 2 finale, "Nice Jacket," Dirk (Samuel Barnett) risks his freedom in order to fulfill the prophecy and restore order by returning to the corridors of Blackwing, where all the insanity began.

TCM remembers Debbie Reynolds with a triple feature

A new year is on the horizon, but 2016 ended with one of the saddest stories in recent entertainment history.

A day after the death of her fellow-actress daughter Carrie Fisher, Hollywood legend Debbie Reynolds also succumbed. She's seen frequently on Turner Classic Movies in many of the films she made while a contract player at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and just short of 12 months after her passing, the channel remembers Reynolds with three of her films Saturday, Dec. 16.

First up is an encore of an episode of "The Essentials" first shown in August, as Alec Baldwin and co-host Tina Fey introduce what's generally acknowledged as one of the greatest musicals of all time: "Singin' in the Rain" (1952), also starring Gene Kelly and Donald O'Connor. Then, Reynolds appears opposite then-husband Eddie Fisher in the comedy "Bundle of Joy" (1956). The triple bill then wraps up with "Susan Slept Here" (1954), a Christmas Eve tale that pairs Reynolds with Dick Powell in what turned out to be his final movie role.

Making her a TCM natural, Reynolds also was noted in her later years for her preservation of movie memorabilia, which began for all intents and purposes at MGM's auction of its possessions in 1970. She displayed them for the public, first at the Las Vegas hotel and casino that she owned, then at a Los Angeles museum.

Ownership of many of MGM's movies themselves also was sold off, "when they didn't know what to do with all these films," Reynolds told this writer upon her receipt of the Screen Actors Guild Life Achievement Award in 2015. "They were all in the archives in the basement, and that was before (TCM founder Ted) Turner stepped in to take over the purchase. We were very fortunate that he saw an opportunity and a necessity. They were exciting pictures, and they've held up all these years."

movie review BY JAY BOBBIN

Any version of "Murder in the Orient Express" has a big challenge in matching, much less topping, the superb 1974 version directed by Sidney Lumet.

Kenneth Branagh is a notable filmmaker in his own right, and he's taken that challenge as both director and star of the latest retelling of Agatha Christie's mystery about the killing of a businessman aboard the legendary luxury train. If you know the story, you know the solution – so it's really about the style of any given version.

The new "Murder on the Orient Express" does have style, and its visual beauty really is something to see. By its nature, the story is claustrophobic as detective Hercule Poirot – played by Branagh, who sports a trademark of the character, a great mustache – questioning various passengers and staff members about the murder victim (Johnny Depp here) while the train is trapped by weather.

As past versions have done, this one gives us an all-star cast portraying those who may know nothing or everything about the murder. Penelope Cruz, Judi Dench, Josh Gad, Michelle Pfeiffer, Derek Jacobi and Daisy Ridley (in what effectively is a warm-up for her "Star Wars" return this holiday season) are among the others on board this time, and while it's fine to do some star-seeing as they show up, the parts ultimately don't jell the way they did when Albert Finney was Poirot in the mid-1970s.

Various performers have played the Belgian sleuth, from Tony Randall to Alfred Molina, but really only two have made it their own: Finney, who rightfully earned an Oscar nomination for getting every quirk of Belgian sleuth Poirot down pat (look at many of his other roles, and you see just how much work he did on his "Perrot," as co-star Richard Widmark called him in the film); and the masterful David Suchet, who had the part numerous times in capers shown on PBS, including his own "Murder on the Orient Express."

It's understandable that Branagh would want to try to put his own stamp on the character, but do too much of that and you move away from the essence that Christie devised. Branagh's natural brio yields a take on Poirot that doesn't have a lot to do with Christie's creation, but he deserves credit for making a run at it while clearly having so much else to do on the production.

Thanks largely to its look, you may not be sorry that the newest "Murder on the Orient Express" is on the tracks, but the story has taken better rides – and one in particular.
