Snow slows much of the Deep South

By Jonathan Landrum Jr. The Associated Press

ATLANTA - An unusually heavy December snowfall across much of the Deep South tapered off Saturday, icy road conditions were still a threat and thousands remained without electricity throughout the region.

Forecasters warned that moisture on the roadways could freeze overnight and cause black ice to form. The National Weather Service said that even after snow flurries ended by midday, areas including metro Atlanta would still be cold enough for transparent layers of thin ice to form on bridges and other elevated roadways.

The frigid temperatures behind a cold front combined with moisture off the Gulf of Mexico to bring unusual wintry weather to parts of the South.

Preliminary reports to the weather service showed up to 10 inches of snowfall in northwest Georgia, with 7 inches of accumulation in parts of metro Atlanta. Another 10 inches of snow was reported in Anniston, Alabama, while up to 7 inches were reported in Mississippi. Rare flurries were even reported in New Orleans.

"It's very, very abnormal and rare that we would get totals like that this time of year," said Sid King, a meteorologist for the National Weather Service in the Atlanta area. "It's really not even winter yet. I would not be surprised if we broke a lot of records."

Hospital emergency rooms could be called a "pit of misery," to quote a TV beer commercial, with people hacking and coughing, holding their heads in their hands and thinking they have to die to get better.

The bad news is that the flu bug hasn't really started chomping on patients yet.

"There's not an increase in the flu in our ER." said Steve Jenkins with Florida Hospital Waterman. "It's influenzalike illness."

Leesburg Regional Medical Center also says it has not experienced unusual activity.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, however, notes that flu and flu-like activity is steadily increasing. In Florida, the number of cases have especially picked up in neighboring Volusia and Seminole counties.

"Activity among children aged under 18 years increased notably and was well above levels observed during the previous two flu seasons at this time."

PM: Iraq's war against IS is over

By Qassim Abdul-Zahra and Susannah George The Associated Press

BAGHDAD - After more than three years of combat operations, Iraq announced Saturday that the fight against the Islamic State group is over after the country's security forces drove the extremists from all of the territory they once held. Iraqi and American officials warned, however, that key challenges remain despite the military victory.

Prime Minister Haider al-Abadi formally announced the victory in an address to the nation aired on Iraqi state television Saturday evening. "Honorable Iragis, your land has been completely liberated," he said. "The liberation dream has become a reality. We achieved victory in difficult circumstances and with God's help, the steadfastness of our people and the bravery of our heroic forces we prevailed."

"The flag of Iraq is flying high today over all Iraqi territory and at the farthest point on the border," he added, standing before the most senior members of Iraq's security forces. Following al-Abadi's remarks, his office declared a public holiday Sunday in celebration of the victory, according to an official statement from the prime minister's office.

Iraqi forces mopped up the last pockets of IS fighters from Iraq's western deserts Saturday, securing the country's border with Syria, a step that marked the end of combat operations against the extremists.

Homeowners ordered to pay fine for Mount Dora mural

The owners of this Mount Dora house have been hit with a $3,100 fine for the "Starry Night" mural and the cost is rising every day. [SUBMITTED] By Roxanne Brown roxanne.brown

@dailycommercial.com

What many people have come to know as the "Starry Night Mural," an elaborate representation of the famous Van Gogh painting, still adorns a home in Mount Dora, but it comes at a price.

Mount Dora's code enforcement Magistrate David Tegeler slapped homeowner Nancy Nemhauser and her husband, Lubomir Jastrozebski, with a $3,100 fine on Friday during a second hearing on the matter.

"I think the city is making a big mistake. They call themselves an art town and they are doing this when everybody can see it's beautiful," said Richard Barrenechea, the mural's artist.

The purpose of Friday's hearing was to decide whether or not to impose a fine stemming from an Oct. 6 ruling in which Tegeler sided with the city on their claim that the work is considered a sign. The city abandoned a claim that it was graffiti.

Attorneys for the homeowners argued that the mural contains no wording like a sign and not does it advertise anything for the homeowner. The artist's signature is not displayed on the mural.

Irish border lives hinge on Brexit outcome

By Jill Lawless

The Associated Press

FLORENCECOURT, Northern Ireland – Farmer John Sheridan drives his mud-caked Land Rover up and down country lanes and roads, back and forth across the snaking border separating Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland. There's little sign he is crossing an international frontier.

But Sheridan remembers when this was a place of customs posts and troops. Since Britain voted to leave the European Union, he has feared Brexit could threaten the borderless life that he and his neighbors have built, putting up new barriers to trade and heightening political tensions in a region still moving on from decades of violence.

Looking out over a stretch of starkly beautiful grass and bogland where he raises sheep and cattle, 56-yearold Sheridan said that during Northern Ireland's violent "Troubles," traveling between farms meant being "stopped here, there and everywhere" by army and police patrols.

"For about a mile and a half you went through semipermanent checkpoints of British army in the north here, southern Irish army in the south," he said.

"You were always conscious that you were in a war zone and you tried to be careful. Sometimes it was all right, and for other poor devils it wasn't."

Britain and the EU agreed Friday that after Brexit there must be no return to a "hard border" between Northern Ireland, which is part of the U.K., and Ireland, which will remain a member of the EU.

How that will happen has yet to be negotiated, but Sheridan said the breakthrough gives him "a certain amount of comfort" that the border will remain open.

Outside Northern Ireland, few people in Britain were thinking about the border when the country voted in June 2016 to leave the European Union. But the 310-mile line will be the United Kingdom's only land border with

A truck drives past an "anti-Brexit" sign set up by local activists Thursday on a road on the outskirts of Middletown, Nothern Ireland, Britain, close to the border with Ireland. Britain and the bloc said Friday they had struck a deal ensuring that there will be no return to a "hard border" between Northern Ireland, which is part of the U.K., and EU member state Ireland after Brexit. [MSTYSLAV CHERNOV/THE ASSOCIATED PRESSI an EU country once Britain leaves the now 28-nation bloc in March 2019.

Concern has been mounting here since the referendum about whether Brexit will mean a return to customs duties, vehicle checks and other border apparatus.

There has only been an international border in Ireland since 1921, after a war that saw mostly Catholic Ireland break free of Britain apart from six counties in the Protestant-majority north, which remained in the U.K.

The border severed areas that had long been intertwined. In the northwest Ireland village of Pettigo, it cut the town in half: One side of a small bridge was in Ireland, the other in the North.

Resident Mona Flood, 80, can remember when a trip across town involved border checks, documents and customs officials hunting for smuggled goods.

She showed visitors the customs booklet that her mother had to get stamped each time she drove across the border, and recalled how local people commonly hid cigarettes, alcohol, and especially butter.

"(Butter was) 2 shillings and 11 pence in the North, and you'd smuggle it in your handbag — or other places," she said. "And they'd search you.

"I hope it doesn't go back to that."

The border began to blur after the EU's single market for goods, services and people was born in 1993, with both Britain and Ireland among its members. There was no longer a need for customs posts.

Northern Ireland's 1998 Good Friday peace accord brought a winding-down of the Troubles. The British army withdrew, its bases and watchtowers dismantled.

The very idea of the border began to fade. Today, almost the only sign a frontier has been crossed is a switch in road signs from miles on the U.K. side to kilometers on the Irish one.

"In this community there is a sense of Brexit being so unimaginable that it is unreal," said Pettigo's local priest, Father Laurence "La" Flynn, as he paused on the bridge where the two countries invisibly meet. "We don't believe that the border will come in as a hard reality. Our minds can't get to that."

The economies of north and south have become deeply intertwined. Thousands of people cross each day to work, shop or study, and 2 million vehicles a month traverse the border carrying goods of all kinds.

Ireland's famous Guinness beer is brewed in Dublin, then shipped to Belfast to be bottled. A third of Northern Ireland's milk is sent south to be processed into butter, cheese or baby formula.

Friday's agreement says the U.K. promises to keep that trade flowing by maintaining full regulatory alignment with the EU on issues affecting Ireland essentially a promise that Ireland and Northern Ireland will continue to follow roughly the same trade rules.

What that phrase means in practice will be fought over by politicians and negotiators in the months to come. The idea of "full alignment" is contentious among Brexitbackers in Britain, who worry it may tie the country's hands in trade talks with other countries.

TAVARES - The troubled wife of former Tavares Mayor Robert Wolfe died Friday of unknown causes.

Sharon Wolfe was taken by ambulance from her home to Florida Hospital Waterman on Friday morning, where she died, Tavares Police Cpl. Sarah Coursey confirmed. Coursey said the circumstances of Wolfe's death were not suspicious and that a medial examiner will do an autopsy. She was 47.

Wolfe had made headlines in recent years for a series of run-ins with the law.

She was arrested in early 2016 for reportedly hitting her twin sister, and shortly after was charged with making a false police report when she wrongly accused her husband of hitting her.

And in April, police reportedly found her passed out in her car behind a Leesburg bar and charged her with DUI. A search of the car reportedly turned up a bottle of Bacardi Dragon Berry rum, and officers reported finding two tablets of Clonazepam, used to treat seizure disorders, in her purse

Husband Robert Wolfe, the former mayor of Tavares, has had his own legal troubles.

He was charged in July 2016 with insurance fraud for filing a fraudulent claim for $9,300 with his insurance company contending he had to move from his uninhabitable house at 1308 Lakeshore Blvd. in Tavares due to water damage from two separate leaks.

He struck a deal with prosecutors in November 2016 and was sentenced to probation.

Outside work may pose conflict for aides

By Gary Fineout Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Dozensof employees with the Florida Legislature, including the spokesman for House Speaker Richard Corcoran, have been working at jobs outside their taxpayer-paid positions.

While some employees have worked afterhours and weekends as waitresses, tutors, photographers and flight instructors, other have taken the jobs that could raise questions about potential conflicts, according to a review of outside employment permission forms filed since November 2016.

Records requested by The Associated Press show that an aide to a Bradenton legislator was given permission to conduct "social media" work for a consulting company with ties to prominent Republicans such as Agriculture Commissioner Adam Putnam, the leading GOP candidate for governor.

Rep. Jim Boyd said that his aide, Albert Kaminsky, is working after hours for the Sarasota firm Political Insights, on social media aimed at boosting Boyd's

"He's boosting my reputation and presence in the social media sphere," said Boyd, a veteran House member who is leaving office next year but is expected to then run for the state Senate in 2020.

Campaign records show that Political Insights has been paid nearly $11,000 this year by a political committee linked to Boyd. That same firm has been paid $45,000 by either Putnam or his committee.

The permission forms show that legislative employees have taken positions with colleges and universities that seek money from the Florida Legislature. One employee in the House clerk's office works for a dog-grooming business owned by a lobbyist. Max Flugrath, who works in the House Democratic Office, got permission to do graphic design work, although in his application he stated that the clients would be "all non political."

Fred Piccolo, the communications director for Corcoran, had been working until recently for the company that owns Florida Politics, a media organization that extensively covers state politics and the Legislature.

Legislative rules require employees to get approval to do outside work but Piccolo, who is paid $110,000 a year, did not follow that rule.

Tears, extravagance as France mourns Hallyday

By Thomas Adamson and Angela Charlton The Associated Press

PARIS - France bid farewell to its biggest rock star Saturday, honoring Johnny Hallyday with an extravagant funeral procession down Paris' Champs-Elysees Avenue, a presidential speech and a televised church ceremony filled with the country's most famous faces.

Few figures in French history have earned a send-off with as much pomp as the man dubbed the "French Elvis," who notched more than 110 million in record sales since rising to fame in the 1960s.

Hallyday died Wednesday at 74 after fighting lung cancer.

In an honor usually reserved for heads of state or literary giants like 19th-century novelist Victor Hugo, Hallyday's funeral cortege rode past Napoleon's Arc de Triomphe monument and down the Champs-Elysees to the Place de la Concorde plaza on the Seine River.

Adding a rock touch to the event, hundreds of motorcyclists accompanied the procession. It was a nod to the lifelong passion that Hallyday, born Jean-Philippe Smet, had for motorcycles. His biker image included signature leather jackets and myriad tattoos.

French President Emmanuel Macron - a Hallyday fan himself, like three generations of others across the French-speaking world delivered an eulogy on the steps of Paris' Madeleine Church for the star known to the public affectionately by only one name.

"Johnny belonged to vou. Johnny belonged to his public. Johnny belonged to his country," said Macron, whose voice was broadcast via speakers to the many thousands of often tearful mourners in central Paris.

"He should have fallen a hundred times, but what held him up and lifted him was your fervor, the love," said Macron of the star's health troubles and famously excessive lifestyle.

Hallyday's death unleashed a wave of emotion across France, where he had been a symbol of national identity and stability for more than half a century – even though his private life had been far from stable.

Aside from the drinking, smoking and partying chronicled in juicy detail by the French press, Hallyday had been linked to a string of glamorous women and had married five times.

Chants of "Johnny! Johnny!" and thunderous applause rose up Saturday as fans broke out singing Hallyday classics including "Que je t'aime" ("How I love you").

About 1,500 police officers secured the area in Paris, a police helicopter flew overhead and emergency vehicles filled nearby streets as tens of thousands of fans lined the procession route. Many dressed to emulate Hallyday's flashy, rebellious style. Some climbed on fences or stoplights or even the roof of a luxury hotel to get a better view.

Catherine Frichot-Janin, 61, and her husband traveled from Switzerland to pay their respects saying that the only thing older than their 39-year marriage was their mutual love for Hallyday.

"He's the companion who's always there when you have a worry. There will always be his music playing in a bistro," she said.

Dubbed by some "the biggest rock star you've never heard of" - Hallyday's position as one of the greatest-selling musical artists of all time is unusual as he remained largely unknown outside the Francophone world. But in France, he influenced styles, music and even children's names.

Morabito took time to recognize each of Belsky's students, calling them up to shake hands and reward them with a $25 gift card to the bookstore as an audience of city leaders and district administrators sat to the side beaming at the young students' accomplishment.

Morabito noted how impressed he was with the students – some of whom wore dresses, suit coats and ties for the special occasion - and how moved Barnes & Noble staffers were at the "really great story" they had to share.

"The fact that it came from a group of third-graders was really compelling," he said.

In addition to taking home gift cards, students were each christened with "keys" to the city of Ormond Beach and the city of Daytona Beach in the form of pins they wore with pride. Their only disappointment? Finding out the "keys" wouldn't open places like Krispy Kreme, so they could enjoy donuts with their reading.

For Tomoka Elementary Principal Susan Tuten, the day provided a resounding example of the impact students can leave on their surroundings.

"I thought it was very empowering for our students to learn that their voice can make a significant change," Tuten said.

For students like Brooke Hoobler, who found both joy and relief in Barnes & Noble's decision to stay open, the visit from Morabito reinforced that her voice is one that matters.

"It means a lot to me," she said, "and it makes me feel like I'm an important part of the world."

Trump hails heroes; protesters pan record

By Darlene Superville The Associated Press

JACKSON, Miss. -President Donald Trump paid tribute Saturday to the leaders and foot soldiers of the civil rights movement whose sacrifices help make the United States a fairer and more just country, though protests surrounding his visit to Mississippi laid bare the stark divisions among Americans about his commitment to that legacy.

As Trump gazed at an exhibit on Freedom Riders at the new Museum of Mississippi History and the Mississippi Civil Rights Museum, demonstrators near the site held up signs that said "Make America Civil Again" and "Lock Him Up." Some shouted "No Trump, no hate, no KKK in the USA."

Trump spent about 30 minutes at the museums, gave a 10-minute speech to select guests inside and then flew back to his Florida estate, skipping the public schedule of the dedication ceremony held outside on a chilly day. He spent more time getting to Jackson than he did on the ground.

Trump's remarks steered clear of addressing the anger that his participation had sparked leading up to the dedication. In a deliberate voice and rarely diverting from his prepared words, the president sought to honor the famous and the anonymous for their efforts on behalf of freedom for all.

community, the fight to bring down Jim Crow and end segregation, to gain the right to vote and to achieve the sacred birthright of equality. And it's big stuff. That's big stuff," he said.

"Those are very big phrases, very big words. Here we memorialize the brave men and women who struggled to sacrifice and sacrifice so much so that others might live in freedom," he said.

The national president of the NAACP and the mayor of Mississippi's capital city said they kept their distance from Trump because of his "pompous disregard" for the values embodied by the civil rights movement.

Derrick Johnson, head of the nation's oldest civil rights organization, and Mayor Chokwe Lumumba said at a news conference that they looked forward to a "grander opening" of the museum that they can

Johnson, a Mississippian, charged that Trump opposes labor rights, education, health care and voting rights for all Americans.

"We will never cede the stage to an individual who will fight against us," Johnson said. "We will not allow the history of those who sacrificed to be tarnished for political expediency."

Johnson and Lumumba spoke to about 100 supporters, including some who participated in the civil rights demonstrations of the 1960s, at Smith Robertson Museum and Cultural Center. Once the first public school built for African-Americans in Jackson, it's now a museum to black history and culture.

Lumumba called Trump to task for "his pompous disregard for all of those factors that will not enable us to stand with him today."

The state's attorney general, Jim Hood, criticized Republican Gov. Phil Bryant for inviting Trump. "It threw cold water in the face of people who fought the battles for civil rights," Hood said.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. -Renegade Republican Roy Moore may be plagued by scandal, but it will take more than that to convince the voters of 44th Place North to show up for Democrat Doug Jones on Tuesday.

In a state where Democrats are used to losing, the malaise is easy to find in this African-American neighborhood in suburban Birmingham, even on the final weekend before Alabama's high-profile Senate contest.

"A lot of people don't vote because they think their vote don't count," Ebonique Jiles, 27, said after promising a Jones volunteer she would support the Democrat in Tuesday's election. "I'll vote regardless of whether he wins or loses."

With history and math working against them in deep-red Alabama, Democrats are fighting to energize a winning coalition of African-Americans and moderate Republicans - a delicate balancing act on full display on Saturday as Jones and his network of volunteers canvassed the

Dems fighting math and history in Alabama

Nearly 100 miles south of Birmingham, during an appearance near the staging ground for Selma's landmark "Bloody Sunday" civil rights march in 1965, Jones declared that Alabama has an opportunity to go "forward and not backward."

"This campaign has the wind at its back because we are bringing people together from all across this state," Jones said after a meeting at Brown Chapel A.M.E. Church. "The other side is trying to divide us more than they bring people together."

New Jersey Sen. Cory Booker, one of only two African-Americans in the Senate, was scheduled to appear at Jones' side later in the day at Alabama State University. And Saturday evening, the Democrat organized two get-out-the-vote concerts expected to draw overwhelmingly white voters

- including some openminded Republicans - in a state that hasn't elected a Democrat to the Senate in more than a quarter century.

Moore had no public events on Saturday, an extraordinary silence three days before the election but in line with a final-weeks strategy that featured very few public events in which he could be forced to address allegations of sexual misconduct. The former state Supreme Court judge got a big boost the night before in nearby Pensacola, Florida, where President Donald Trump encouraged voters to "get out and vote for Roy Moore."

The 70-year-old Moore is facing multiple accusations of sexual misconduct, including allegations that he molested two teenage girls and pursued romantic relationships with several others while in his 30s. He has largely denied the allegations.

The explosive charges, which many Washington Republicans describe as credible, are giving Democrats a once-in-ageneration opportunity to pick up a Senate seat in the Deep South, where Republicans significantly outnumber Democrats. Even if Jones wins on Tuesday, many Democrats expect the GOP to re-claim the seat when the term expires at the end of 2020.

Could RICO be used in Weinstein prosecution?

Lawyers are arguing that Weinstein was a racketeer who used his assistants to silence victims

By Colleen Long The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The federal anti-racketeering law has been used since the late 1970s to bring down mob bosses. Could it be used to prosecute Harvey Weinstein?

Lawyers for six actresses who say they were sexually assaulted by the movie producer filed a lawsuit Wednesday in New York arguing that Weinstein was, essentially, a racketeer who used a legion of assistants, casting agents, security firms, gossip writers and others to supply himself with a steady stream of unwilling sexual partners and silence their complaints.

Their anti-racketeering suit was filed in a civil court, but it prompted discussions about whether prosecutors could make a similar criminal case.

Maybe, said G. Robert Blakey, a professor emeritus at the University of Notre Dame law school who helped write the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act. But it wouldn't be easy.

"It would take imagination and intestinal fortitude," he said. "Prosecutors have been singularly lacking in both when it comes to women making complaints of sexual assault against powerful men."

The law was drafted to bring down organized crime but it isn't limited to it, Blakey said. It has been used by prosecutors used to go after rule-breaking Wall Street firms and corrupt government contractors. Federal prosecutors are currently using it to battle alleged bribery in global soccer in a trial ongoing in Brooklyn. But a criminal antiracketeering case also has many hurdles, Blakey said. Federal prosecutors would have to prove that a criminal enterprise existed, it affected interstate commerce and the defendant was associated with and engaged in racketeering. It would also have to be brought within five years of the conspiracy ending, he said.

The racketeering statute is a federal law. though some states, like New York and California, have similar state laws.

The women suing Weinstein in civil court say the "Weinstein Sexual Enterprise" consisted of a long list of people who either enabled Weinstein's assaults or covered

Their claims were based partly on reporting by The New York Times and the New Yorker, both of which published exposes saying that Weinstein took extraordinary steps to conceal complaints, including hiring security firms to investigate reporters working on possible stories and working with other media to discredit women who might come forward.

"The goal of the (antiracketeering) claim is to ensure not only do we get the head of the enterprise, but also those around him who enabled his conduct, whether they tampered with witnesses or destroyed evidence after the fact, or even delivered the women to him," said Beth Fegan, the lead lawyer on the civil suit.

Weinstein's attorneys, Blair Berk and Ben Brafman, said in a statement that all the allegations of sexual assault against him are false.

"Mr. Weinstein has never at any time committed an act of sexual assault, and it is wrong and irresponsible to conflate claims of impolitic behavior or consensual sexual contact later regretted, with an untrue claim of criminal conduct. There is a wide canyon between mere allegation and truth, and we are confident that any sober calculation of the facts will prove no legal wrongdoing occurred. Nonetheless, to those offended by Mr. Weinstein's behavior, he remains deeply apologetic."

They said he never used company resources at Miramax or The Weinstein Company for personal expenses, including the payment of any legal settlements. Weinstein, though a spokesman, has also denied the allegations that he sought damaging information on the actresses.

US wants world to isolate North Korea

By Matthew Pennington

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - When President Donald Trump's U.N. ambassador recently urged the world to sever diplomatic ties with North Korea. she was sketchy on the details: Should all embassies close? How about those providing the U.S. intelligence from the largely inscrutable country? And what of Sweden, which helps with imprisoned Americans?

Nikki Haley's recent call to action underscores the challenge for the United States as it tries to advance a nonmilitary strategy for resolving the nuclear standoff with North Korea. Isolating the reclusive, totalitarian state has been a central component of the U.S. plan, even though Washington says it remains open to talks.

Like international economic penalties, the Trump administration believes the diplomatic isolation serves two purposes.

It's designed to punish North Korean leader Kim Jong Un for developing an atomic arsenal of bombs and intercontinental missiles that potentially could deliver nuclear warheads anywhere in the United States. U.S. officials also contend that freezing out North Korea could drive Kim's government to seek negotiations.

"We do know they care a lot about their international reputation," said Mark Tokola, a former No. 2 at the U.S.

Embassy in South Korea.

Trump's team has chalked up some successes in narrowing the North's diplomatic reach. Mexico, Peru, Italy, Spain, and Kuwait have expelled North Korean ambassadors from their countries. Haley said Portugal and the United Arab Emirates have suspended diplomatic relations. Others have cut trade and security ties.

But North Korea isn't and won't be completely isolated.

Last month, China, whose once-close relationship with North Korea has been strained by its adoption of tough U.N. sanctions, sent its highest level envoy to Pyongyang in two years. North Korea also recently welcomed a Russian parliamentary delegation, in a sign of increasing contacts between the former Cold War partners. And the North just hosted the most senior U.N.

official to visit in years: Jeffrey Feltman, the undersecretarygeneral for political affairs.

Even before he departed, experts played down expectations that Feltman, formerly a senior American diplomat, could offer a breakthrough as the standoff over the North's nuclear weapons threatens to spiral into war. Feltman carried no message from Washington, State Department spokesman Heather Nauert said.

Yet Feltman's visit, which included an audience with Kim's foreign minister, added to questions about how effectively the U.S. can isolate North Korea. Feltman left Pyongyang on Saturday after four days of talks with the North Korean Foreign Ministry. "I have to brief the secretary-general first," he said when asked for details of his trip.

Israeli strikes kill 2 Hamas men after Gaza rocket attack

By Fares Akram and Aron Heller

The Associated Press

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip – Israeli airstrikes killed two Hamas members early Saturday following a rocket attack on Israel, in the latest fallout from President Donald Trump's decision to recognize Jerusalem as Israel's capital – a development that has roiled the region and the larger Muslim world.

The Israeli military said it targeted four Hamas facilities in response to rockets fired the previous night, including one that landed in the town of Sderot without causing casualties or major damage. The military said it struck warehouses and weapons manufacturing sites, after which Hamas said it had recovered the bodies of two of its men.

Israel considers Hamas responsible for all rocket fire emanating from Gaza, which is home to other armed groups. Some residents of Sderot and other border towns spent the night in shelters, fearful of a resumption of rocket attacks from Gaza that have led to three Israel-Hamas wars over the past decade. Protests and demonstrations continued across the West Bank and Gaza on Saturday on the third and final so-called Palestinian "day of rage" following Trump's announcement. The military said there were clashes in some 20 locations. In Bethlehem, Palestinians hurled stones at Israeli troops, who responded with tear gas, rubber bullets and stun grenades. The Israeli military said some 600 Palestinians were throwing firebombs and rolling burning tires toward Israeli forces. It said it dispersed the crowds and arrested six rioters.

Along the border with the Gaza Strip, some 450 Palestinians clashed with Israeli troops at eight main locations. About 20 were lightly wounded. Some 4,000 demonstrators gathered in Gaza City and demonstrations resumed in Pakistan, Turkey and elsewhere across the Muslim world as well.

In Jerusalem, police forces - some on horseback scuffled with protesters near the Old City and arrested 13 people who were involved in what they called an illegal protest. Four policemen were slightly injured.

"President Trump cannot take what he doesn't have," said Zuheir Dana, one of the protesters from east Jerusalem.

In a first, violence spilled into Israel itself, with Arab protesters blocking a major highway in the northern part of the country and hurling rocks at a bus and motorcycle rider, injuring two slightly. Israel has mobilized troops in case further violence breaks out.

The CDC said the incidence of flu is increasing but remains below the national baseline. Four states reported widespread flu by the end of Nov. 25: Georgia, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Massachusetts.

"As in Florida, influenza A (H<sub>3</sub>) has been the most common influenza subtype reported to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention."

Health experts say flu vaccinations are safe and the best way to keep from getting sick. Strains of influenza keep changing, but even if you get sick after getting a flu shot the effect is lessened. Recent studies show children who die of influenza are likely the ones who were not vaccinated.

The state recently reported its first pediatric flu-related death. The child was not vaccinated. "We are saddened to lose even one life due to flu-related illnesses," said Florida Surgeon General and Secretary of Health Dr. Celeste Philip in a press release. "Although most people regard flu as a minimal threat, Floridians should take the flu infection seriously as it can cause severe illnesses, even death, in some cases. Flu season is already in full swing, but it is not too late to get your flu shot

The worst of the flu season runs from December through February.

The CDC Advisory

Committee on Immunization Practices recommends annual vaccination with either the inactivated influenza vaccine (IIV) or recombinant influenza vaccine (RIV) for everyone six months and older.

People should consult their doctor, the county health department or visit FluFreeFlorida.com for more information.

The state Health Department also recommends frequent and thorough handwashing, coughing or sneezing into a tissue or elbow, disinfecting surfaces at work and taking other steps to prevent illness, including avoiding touching your face.

If sick, antiviral treatment should be administered as soon as possible for those at higher risk for complications: children younger than 2, adults older than 65, pregnant women, and those with underlying medical conditions. Treatment should be administered within 48 hours, according to the CDC.

SNOW

But the snow wasn't expected to outlast the weekend. King said warming temperatures and sunny skies should melt most of it in time for shivering Southerners to return to work and school Monday.

At the Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport, which holds the world record for annual number of passengers, airport spokesman Reese McCranie said more than 400 flights were cancelled Saturday. That's after nearly 1,200 cancellations Friday.

Not everyone was anxious to flee. Members of a central Florida family found their way to Atlanta specifically to witness the white drifts.

"It's beautiful," said Tim Moss, while his two sons and wife threw snowballs at each other near a McDonald's parking lot early Saturday. He said the family - including his mother - made a spontaneous decision late Friday to leave 80-degree weather in Florida and drive seven hours to see snow for the first time.

"A lot of people who live here are staying in," said Moss. "They don't

The snowstorms knocked out electricity to thousands across the South. More than 334,000 homes and businesses were still without electricity Saturday afternoon in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. About 235,000 of those still in the dark were in Georgia.

Southern Pine Electric Co-operative had more than 10,500 customers without power Saturday in south Mississippi. The co-op had more than twice that many outages at the storm's peak, utility spokesman Brock Williamson said. He said getting everyone's electricity restored could take days.

"This may be the first time we've ever dealt with a winter storm that's created so many outages," he said.

In Atlanta, a fallen power line was blamed for electrocuting a man late Friday. Bystanders tried to warn the man before he walked into the dangling live wire, Atlanta police Sgt. John Chafee said Saturday. He said it was unclear if the wire was downed because of the icy weather.

A freeze warning was in effect Saturday for parts of northern Florida, southeast Alabama and southwest Georgia. The weather service said freezing temperatures can harm vulnerable plants and animals.

Snow had moved further east by Saturday, dumping up to 14 inches (35 centimeters) in parts of North Carolina before heading into the Mid-Atlantic. Virginia State police reported hundreds of crashes blamed on icy weather. Parts of the Northeast and New England are also expecting a share of the snowfall this

"All Iraqi lands are liberated from terrorist Daesh gangs and our forces completely control the international Iraqi-Svrian border," said Lt. Gen. Abdul-Amir Rasheed Yar Allah, a senior Iraqi military commander, in a statement Saturday afternoon.

The U.S. applauded the prime minister's announcement.

The U.S. offers "sincere congratulations to the Iraqi people and to the brave Iraqi Security Forces, many of whom lost their lives heroically fighting ISIS," State Department spokeswoman Heather Nauert said in a written statement, using an alternative acronym for IS.

"Our coalition will continue to stand with Iraq to support its security forces, economy and stabilization to help ensure that ISIS can never against threaten Iraq's people or use its territory as a haven," said Brett McGurk, U.S. special presidential envoy to the anti-IS coalition, in a statement posted to his official Twitter account.

nearly a third of Iraqi territory, including Mosul, the country's second largest city and Tikrit, the capital of Iraq's central Salahuddin province in the summer of 2014. The following year, IS fighters also overran Anbar's provincial capital of Ramadi.

Over the past 3 ½ half years, Iraqi ground forces closely backed by the U.S.-led coalition and mostly Shiite paramilitary forces backed by Iran have slowly retaken all of that territory. The pace of the anti-IS operation accelerated last year as coalition-backed Iraqi ground forces prepared for the assault on Mosul that was formally launched in October 2016. After more than nine months of mostly grueling urban combat, Al-Abadi declared victory over IS in Mosul in July. In the months that followed Iraqi forces retook a handful of other IS held towns including Tal Afar in August, Hawija in September and Qaim in October. In November, Iraqi forces retook the last Iraqi town held by IS - Rawah, near the border with Syria.

However, IS fighters remain capable of carrying out insurgent attacks in Iraq, and the group has recovered from past setbacks.

'Firefighting at Christmas' may become routine

By Elliot Spagat and Brian Melley

The Associated Press

FALLBROOK, Calif. A week of destructive fires in Southern California is ending but danger still looms.

Well into what's considered the wet season, there's been nary a drop of rain. That's good news for sun-seeking tourists, but could spell more disaster for a region that emerged this spring from a yearslong drought and now has firefighters on edge because of parched conditions and no end in sight to the typical fire season.

"This is the new normal," Gov. Jerry Brown warned Saturday after surveying damage from the deadly Ventura County fire that has caused the most destruction. "We're about ready to have firefighting at Christmas. This is very odd and unusual."

Even as firefighters made progress containing six major wildfires from Santa Barbara to San Diego County and most evacuees were allowed to return home. predicted gusts of up to 50 mph (80 kph) through Sunday posed a threat of flaring up existing blazes or spreading new ones. High fire risk is expected to last into January.

Overall, out-of-control fires have destroyed nearly 800 homes and other buildings, killed dozens of horses and forced more than 200,000 people to flee flames that have burned over 270 square miles (700 square kilometers) since Monday. One death, so far, a 70-yearold woman who crashed her car on an evacuation route, is attributed to the fire in Santa Paula, a small city next to Ventura where the fire began.

Firefighters were on high alert for dangerous fire potential even before the first blazes broke out. On Dec. 1, they began planning for extreme winds forecast in the week ahead.

Ken Pimlott, chief of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection, said authorities were prepared for destruction on the level of 2003 and 2007 firestorms in Southern California and possibly those in Northern California that killed 44 people and destroyed nearly 9,000 homes and buildings in October.

By Monday, they had moved fire crews from the northern part of the state as reinforcements and marshaled engines, bulldozers and aircraft.

On Tuesday they brought in more helicopters from the National Guard and "every last plane we could find in the nation," said Thom Porter, southern chief of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection.

The military provided C-130 planes for water drops, said Mark Ghilarducci, director of the California Office of Emergency Services. More than 290 fire engines came from Montana, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho, Arizona, Oregon and Nevada.

But once flames met ferocious winds, crews were largely powerless to stop them. Even fire-attacking aircraft were helpless while being grounded at times because of night, high winds or smoke.

As fires burned in Ventura and Los Angeles counties, firefighters from other states were already in place north of San Diego on Thursday when a major fire erupted and rapidly spread in the Fallbrook area, known for its avocado groves and horse stables in the roll-

"We had many resources in the area very quickly on this incident, but unfortunately within several minutes the fire had gotten out of control and well-established, and necessitated massive evacuations," said Steve Abbott, chief of the North County Fire Protection District.

The fire swept through the San Luis Rey Training Facility, where it killed an estimated 30 to 40 elite thoroughbreds and destroyed more than 100 homes — most of them in the Rancho Monserate Country Club retirement community. Three people were burned trying to escape.

Most of the fires this week were in places that suffered from major fires in the past, including one in the ritzy Los Angeles neighborhood of Bel-Air that burned 6 homes and another in the city's rugged foothills community of Sylmar and Santa Paula.

The fire in Fallbrook was no exception.

Ten years ago, during a deadly spate of Santa Ana wind-driven infernos, roaring flames wiped out a majority of the more than 200 homes in the Valley Oaks Mobile Home that businesses in town in violation of the city's sign codes are being given lenience pending an upcoming review of the city's ordinances.

In the first hearing the magistrate ordered that the mural must be removed by Nov. 6 or face the possibility of fines of up to $250 per day. Tegeler said the new color should be a solid one, so as not to attract attention to the home.

An attorney for the homeowners, having filed an appeal with the circuit court, asked that any fines be stayed until it can be heard.

On Friday, a new attorney for the homeowners argued that the mural falls under the homeowners' first amendment rights.

Barrenechea, who was at the hearing, said an attorney for the city, based on testimony from the city's code enforcement officer, claimed the mural is backing up traffic and putting pedestrians in danger as they stop to take pictures starting Nov. 6. Barrenechea said there was talk from the judge and city attorneys to place a lien on the house and start the process of foreclosure on it should the fines be ignored.

Tegeler imposed a fine of $100 per day, retroactively

The house is not in a neighborhood with a homeowner's association with rules about house colors.

"The homeowners are going to continue fighting this, but the city is trying to scare them," Barrenechea said. "I don't understand why the city of Mount Dora is being so hard and close-minded. This mural has become an attraction. Other cities would love

City officials have previously said it is nothing personal against the homeowner, the artist or the mural, explaining that the rules for signs in residential and business districts are different and that the matter would not have been pursued if it weren't for the complaint

they received about it. The mural was born when Nemhauser was approached by Barrenechea about trying his hand at it after hearing the homeowner was having a cracked and somewhat dilapidated white wall surrounding her home near downtown Mount Dora painted and beautified.

When a complaint was filed with the city's code enforcement department about the mural, an officer ruled it graffiti, partially because the wall did not match the color of the

That's when the mural's "Starry Night" theme was extended to the home.

At a code enforcement hearing at the end of September, the graffiti argument was abandoned and instead it was deemed a sign that was not allowed under the city's sign ordinance.

Since then, a controversy among supporters and naysayers has ensued.

A grassroots online petition in support of the mural on change.org has garnered nearly 6,000 signatures.

OUR OPINION

Where there is despair, sow hope

It is something that apparently is in short supply among our young people, who are taking their own lives in agonizingly large numbers all of a sudden.

Five teens in the south Lake County area have killed themselves in the past two months, including Seth Sutherland, who apparently wanted to make a public statement by shooting himself to death outside Lake Minneola High School last month.

The root cause of suicide is despair — the opposite of hope. Some kids begin to despair of a better life, a brighter future. They lose hope of being loved and valued. They despair of the troubles that plague them and begin to see no path back to happiness. They feel alone and perhaps feel that they lack the strength to carry on. They despair of life itself.

A group of citizens - clergy, educators, government officials, business leaders and ordinary moms and dads gathered last week at Lake Minneola City Hall to talk about this horrible trend. They were alarmed at the numbers and expressed frustration over the community's collective inability to see the warning signs and intervene in these precious young lives before it was too late.

One of the organizers of the meeting, April Torrey, said her son put the problem into awful perspective for her.

"He told me, 'I can tell you that not every kid going through what I'm going through right now can handle it.' That's when it hit me," Torrey said.

The group came up with no immediate answers. Yes, they will make sure area schools have resources that kids can take advantage of if they are quietly despair ing of life and contemplating suicide. But they know this problem demands more complex solutions than simply laying out helpful literature where kids can see it.

They know they will have to reach not just these kids' heads, but their hearts. And so they are dreaming up a campaign that will communicate to young people that we, the community their friends, neighbors, classmates, parents and others — are listening, if only they would open up about their troubles.

It is a concept that is brilliant in its simplicity because it rms us with the greatest weapon against despair: hope.

If we can make our young people feel loved, let them know their troubles are fleeting and that they are not alone, we can not only prevent senseless loss of life but perhaps ignite in these young people a flame of hope and worth that not only sustains life but makes it enjoyable.

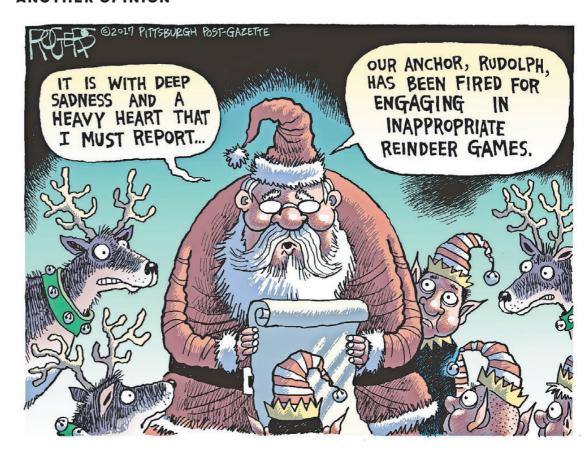

It starts by being available to them, by assuring them that WE ARE LISTENING.

Our fondest wish is that these young people did not die in vain. We should view these awful tragedies as a powerful call to action to intervene in the lives of our young people, to root out the sickness of despair that clearly torments so many youngsters and to help lift them up.

This should not be the job of a small group of concerned south Lake citizens, either. Yes, we should jump aboard their campaign because good, moral public awareness efforts can and do change behaviors for the better.

But let us also do what we can in our everyday lives to touch the minds and hearts of our precious young people and let them know they are loved. Hug your children and grandchildren. Be kind to their friends. Take time from your busy lives to call, text or visit a young person who is on your heart. And listen to them.

The individual mandate

The government has been in the insurance business for many years. This business should be actuarially sound.

An insurance company cannot stay in business if it only insures the sick, thus the need for the individual mandate.

Younger people object to the individual mandate and do not like the IRS enforcing it, but automobile insurance is mandatory, it is an individual mandate, and we do not seem to object to this.

Congress will not discuss the most important thing, the sustainable growth rate and how long Medicare and Social Security can last.

Warnings from Bernie Sanders

In case you missed this, ments from Bernie Sanders: "I believe that historians will look back at the early morning hours of Dec. 2, 2017 and conclude that it was one of the great acts of thievery in the history of the United States.

Let me be very clear about what is happening here. It is an extraordinarily cynical two-step process.

First, Republicans are looting the Treasury.

They are stealing trillions of dollars from the American people in order to give huge tax breaks to billionaires and large corporations. Second, as their tax breaks increase the deficit by $1.4 trillion, they will come back and, in the name of deficit reduction, propose major cuts to Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, education, nutrition, affordable housing and other programs desperately needed by the shrinking middle class."

Here is what the New York Times wrote this weekend: "As the tax cut legislation passed by the Senate early Saturday hurtles toward final approval, Republicans are preparing to use the swelling deficits made worse by the package as a rationale to pursue their long held vision of undoing the entitlements of the New Deal and Great Society, leaving government leaner and the safety net skimpier for millions of Americans. Remember, this legislation has nothing to do with what the American people want. Poll after poll shows that ordinary Americans are strongly opposed to this giveaway to the rich.

On the other hand, this tax reform has everything to do with what wealthy campaign contributors want. It has everything to do with a corrupt campaign finance system.

This bill is nothing more than payback time for those who finance the Republican Party."

You must research what the plan actually proposes rather than relying what you have been told.

Barry McAlister, Leesburg

Tax reform will rob poorest Americans

Looks like Congress is going to vote to initiate a class war in America.

They're going to vote on a bill that isn't a tax reform bill, but a reverse Robin Hood bill that will take money away from the poorest Americans and give money to the richest.

When this bill blows up the deficit, and it surely will, Republicans are going to come back and argue that we need to reform, or more accurately cut, Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid and other services.

They're just servants for their rich donors.

They don't care about ordinary Americans at all.

Tax reform bill not 'Making American Great Again'

Kathy Weaver

7 o this is what "Making American Great Again" looks like. "The rich get rich and the poor get poor" as go the lyrics of a popular song before the stock market crash of 1929.

The huge tax savings promised to individuals by President Donald Trump in the Senate Tax Reform and Jobs Act eliminate the personal exemptions ($4050) and dependent exemptions ($4050) and replace it with a larger standard deduction. As a result, Married Filing Joint under 65 years of age, with proposed

$24,000 standard deduction will see a tax saving of $320. MFJ over 65 years of age with $24,000 SD, will result in tax savings of $70. Filing Head of Household with one child, using $18,000 SD will save $55. Filing Single under 65 years of age, using $12,000 SD you will save $160. Filing Single over 65 years of age, with $12,000 SD you will owe $120 more in taxes. Many of the itemized deductions and tax credits for individuals have been eliminated. These individual tax cuts or increases will expire in 2025. According to Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, "By 2027 when many of its provision will have expired, those at the top will still get large tax cuts, but every income group below $75,000 will face tax increases, on average."

istory has consistently proven to us that power can be intoxicating, leading to politicians placing their own self-interests over those of their constituents. From Biblical times until now, the abuses of power, no matter the form of government, have often led to self-serving political decisions. The United States has been less subject to political power abuses over most other nations due to the division of power distributed equally to the executive, judicial and legislative branches of government by our Founding Fathers. But our own history has shown that the power represented in Washington D.C. has also demonstrated that the accumulation of power can still lead to abusive actions and behavior.

More recent examples of selfserving abuses within our Congress was brought to light in 1992 when it was revealed that members of the House of Representatives could write checks on the "House Bank" regardless if they had enough money in their account to cover the check. Although coined "Rubbergate," the checks of House members did not bounce for lack of sufficient funds as would have been the case for most all other Americans. Their worthless checks were honored and no fees charged for these abuses. But after an investigation 22 House

o ahead and laugh. It is funny, after all. Indeed, it recalls one of those old Warner Brothers cartoons where Wile E. Only this time, it's Iames O'Keefe and his so-called Project Veritas who wind up mutilated and powder burned, holding up a little placard that says, "Ouch." O'Keefe, you might recall, is the darling of Fox "News" and other outposts of right-wing, alt-reality who became famous for deceptivelyedited videos designed to embarrass Democrats, news media and other bete noires of conservative extremists. But he's never embarrassed any of his targets as badly as he habitually embarrasses himself. It happened again Monday when The Washington Post unmasked an apparent Project Veritas operative who had tried over the course of two weeks to induce the paper to bite on a false story. Jaime Phillips approached the Post with the sensational claim that Alabama senatorial candidate and accused child molester Roy Moore got her pregnant and induced her to have an abortion when she was 15.

The Post never ran that story. Phillips' scheme was foiled when routine background checks turned up multiple lies, inconsistencies and red flags. Afterward, Post reporters tailed her to the offices of Project Veritas.

The official slogan of The Washington Post is, "Democracy Dies in Darkness." But just for today, the paper should change that to: "Beep-Beep [really bad word]!"

Yet if this is funny - and it is - it's also revealing. These people actually project their scuzzy values and motivations onto the rest of us. Apparently and incredibly, these geniuses thought a responsible news organization would run that cockamamie story without checking the source or caring whether it was true. It likely made sense to them because it's something

Take it as superfluous proof: Journalism is under siege. Just days ago, Donald Trump rage-tweeted his latest assault on CNN, saying it represents America "poorly" to the world. The so-called president's attack on a free and independent press prompted this rebuke from former CIA chief Gen. Michael Hayden. "If this is who we are or who we are becoming," he tweeted, "I have wasted 40 years of my life."

they would have done.

That assessment is beyond sad, but these attempts to cripple news media are now an everyday thing. In mid-November, Alabama voters were robo-called by a "Bernie Bernstein," who claimed to be a Post reporter offering a cash reward for tips damaging to Moore. Bernie Bernstein, should it need saying, does not exist.

The thinking behind this campaign to delegitimize journalism could not be more transparent. As the far right has apparently concluded it cannot win elections without suppressing votes, it now seems to have decided it cannot win political debates without suppressing facts.

This is an attempted coup against reality itself. What Project Veritas and all the other merchants of mendacity seek is a world without memory, a world where all facts are always in controversy and nothing is ever truly knowable unless it serves their ideological ends. The people of such a world are manipulable. They believe what you tell them to. They are anchored by nothing. That's the world some of us already live in. If the rest of us are not mindful of our news sources and vigilant of our biases, if we forget to repeatedly ask ourselves how we know the things we know, it'll be our world too, soon enough.

For the record, "veritas" is a Latin word. It means "truth."

Cal Thomas

resident Trump's son-in-law and designated Middle East peace envoy, Jared Kushner, told the Brookings Institution's Saban Forum last weekend that a peace agreement between Israel and the Palestinians is key to solving larger goals, such as stopping Iranian aggression and Islamic extremism.

If he believes that, he has fallen into the trap numerous and more seasoned diplomats have experienced.

The most obvious impediment to peace in the region is a religious one. A visceral hatred of Jews is promoted in Palestinian media and many mosques and schools throughout the region. The destruction of Israel and elimination of Jews from land that has been historically and legitimately theirs for thousands of years is their goal. Radical Islamists believe Allah has ordered it. Why would they risk perdition by violating his command?

Duplicity and deception are the coin of the realm in the Middle East. It is why many Palestinian leaders say one thing to the West and another to their own people.

Here is one of many examples, which contradicts what Palestinian leaders say to Western ears. In a 2013 interview on Syrian TV, Abbas Zaki, a close associate of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas, said the Palestinian Authority would not enter into any peace agreement with Israel unless it includes Israel's withdrawal to indefensible 1967 borders. Zaki stated: "Even the most extreme among us, Hamas, or the fighting forces, want a state within the '67 borders. Afterward, we [will] have something to say, because the inspiring idea cannot be achieved all at once. [Rather] in stages."

In other words, incremental steps toward a shared goal: the elimination of the Jewish state, which Iranian mullahs have described as a "cancer" in the Middle East.

Does this sound like the language of people who wish to live in a peaceful state adjacent to Israel? A person not deceived by the mirage of a Middle East peace agreement should consider the numerous and unreciprocated concessions Israel has already made to advance the "peace process," which seems more like a war process from the Arab and Palestinian perspective.

This is all about increasing pressure on Israel to "do more," as if Israel were the one advocating genocide. Many Palestinian and Arab leaders hate Israel (and Jews) not for what they do or don't do, but because they exist. If Mr. Kushner believes he can be a peace broker without understanding and accepting this basic fact, he is bound to end up like all the others who have inserted themselves into the region.

if there is one?

Duplicity and deception are the coin of the realm in the Middle East. It is why many Palestinian leaders say one thing to the West and another to Writing in the Israeli publication, Al-Monitor, following President Trump's visit to Saudi Arabīa in May, columnist Akia Eldar says: "...(an) American president may be able to bring the sides to the table, if he is lucky, but they will only eat what is on it if they are dying of hunger. He would have realized that the hunger for peace only comes after the thirst for blood is quenched."

Isn't that what happened when Egyp tian President Anwar Sadat decided enough blood had been spilt and made peace with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin?

As unlikely as it might seem, perhaps the road to settlement and stability might go through Riyadh. While Saudi Arabia has been a principal exporter of an extremist view of Islam through its media, funding mosques in Western countries and textbooks for school children that promote anti-Semitism, Saudi Arabian Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, has said he wants a return to a more "moderate Islam" that allows for peaceful co-existence with other religions and the world. One eagerly awaits such a transforming message within Islam, but will other Islamic countries who also hate Jews and Israel accept this move toward peaceful co-existence when, and if, it comes?

Does Jared Kush ner fully understand what he has gotten himself into?

This bill will result in billions of dollars in tax cuts for Trump, his Wall Street friends and the donor class of campaign contributors to political parties. The bill eliminates the Alternative Minimum Tax (Trump paid $31 million AMT tax in 2005). The exemptions for the Estate Tax are doubled; $11.9 million (Single) and $23.8 million (MFJ) but the tax is retained. Carried-Interest (hedge fund or private equity fund managers, income) special tax rate was not revoked. Corporations and pass through income (Trump's) will be taxed at 20 percent. While setting an even lower rate on the U.S. taxes that multinationals would pay on their foreign profits, this provision would actually incentivize U.S. companies to move their operations overseas and to shift profits to tax havens. Corporate tax cuts are delayed for a year to meet the debt limit requirement to pass this bill with a simple majority vote, on a bill that wasn't available to read before the vote, with illegible notes written in the margins. But these tax cuts for corporations and high income individuals are permanent. This massive tax scam that benefits millionaires will cost $1.47 trillion according to the Congressional Budget Office, over the next decade. With the debt already higher as a share of Gross Domestic Product than at any time other than just after World War II, additional borrowing is likely to slow economic growth and hasten the country's financial problems.

By eliminating the responsibility for everyone to buy health care insurance this bill will result in 13 million more people uninsured, raise premiums for millions more and cause instability in the health insurance market.

There are no provisions in the bill for jobs or infrastructure, corporations are rolling in profits (check out the stock market), businesses have no plans or reasons to give pay raises and without more money Americans will not be buying goods. Therefore, businesses will not be expanding or producing more jobs.

Florida's Senator Marco Rubio explained that Republicans will handle the increase in our national debt by cutting Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security. The very programs seniors, veterans and low income Americans depend on to keep them out of poverty. These programs helped save our economy after the last recession (2008), which was caused by Republican's mismanagement.

So we have a "Tax Reform" bill that is set to raise taxes on low and middle income, end health care for millions, reduce Social Security, cut Medicaid and Medicare, send more companies overseas, increase the gap between the poor and the rich while giving the wealthiest millions of dollars in tax cuts.

How is this "Making America Great Again?"

members (18 Democrats and four Republicans) were singled out by the House Ethics Committee for being overdrawn for at least eight to 39 months. The repercussions were dramatic, as 77 representatives either resigned or were ousted in the 1994 elections, which enabled the Republicans to regain control of the House for the first time in 40 years. Since this banking scandal, two federal credit unions, one for the House and one for the Senate, now handle the banking needs of members of Congress in a manner similar to the rest of us.

Currently, members of Congress have a sweetheart retirement system. They have their own unique pension system dependent upon the member's age at retirement, length of service and salary. Their pension value can be up to 80 percent of the member's final salary. Congressional salary in 2016 was $174,000 per year, which, at a rate of 80 percent, generates

a lifelong pension of $139,200 annually. All benefits are taxpayer funded. There are other retirement goodies available to members of Congress that are perks above what most Americans enjoy. Members of Congress also have retirement programs insulated from the downturns of the stock market. Congressional pensions are not affected by the economy or the profitability of a company as is the case in the private sector. Congress appropriates its own monies regardless of the state of our nation's economy.

In 1983 the Congressional page sex scandal surfaced involving two members of the House of Representatives and Congressional pages. Congressional pages were chosen from the ranks of high school junior-age applicants acting as non-partisan federal employees under the office of the Clerk of the House. The page program was in effect for almost 180 years until 2011 when the end of the page program was announced due in large part to costs and technological advancements.

Very recently, we've learned that there has been a taxpayer slush fund that has paid hundreds of women $15.2 million in awards for sexual harassment by a member of Congress. All of this was being kept confidential and defies common sense and personal accountability. Some good may come from learning of past slush fund payoffs which may now prevent similar tax-funded settlements involving the current claims of sexual harassment now being made against two members of Congress. Members of Congress should lead by example. Their retirement programs and medical benefits should not be uniquely beneficial to themselves. Even their pay raises during the lean economic years under former President Barack Obama generally exceeded in percentage what were given within the private sector. I don't feel any raises should be given to a Congress that allows our national debt to grow by almost $10 trillion in eight years. All of the above are good reasons for term limits and further constraining the self-serving temptations that accompany many career politicians.

Westward Wine

By Mary Ann Anderson Tribune News Service (TNS)

The signs are everywhere, and their messages simple. "Thank you, firefighters," reads one, "God bless." "Thank you for saving our town," reads another.

And another, "Thank you, firefighters, police, EMTs, first responders, and volunteers." Then finally, one that is more prevalent than the others, "The love in the air is thicker than the smoke."

I'm in Healdsburg, in the heart of California's wine country, just six weeks after wildfires ravaged Sonoma and Napa Valley. Healdsburg, whose population is about 12,000, is about an hour's drive north of the Golden Gate Bridge, in Sonoma County along the fabled Highway 101. The signs, some with letters haphazardly spray-painted and others neatly blocked off, are freckled around Sonoma as expressions of gratitude for the firefighters and countless others who fought the inferno day and night to save this stunningly picturesque area and especially the lives of its citizens.

As I walk along the paths of the tree-shaded Healdsburg Plaza — think of it as an old-fashioned town square the air smells of autumn crispness, not of smoke. Not one bit, not even a puff. For a week or two after those fires that began Oct. 8, the news was filled with images of neighborhoods in flames and hilltops ablaze. One well-known news site even reported, "Rivers of wine boil as they leak out of scorched vineyards." With those perceptions, who would want to visit California wine country? Me, that's

And you. I don't have on blinders, certainly, and there is no diminishing the number of lives lost and property destroyed. As I drive through Sonoma, there are indeed vestiges of fire that transformed portions of Northern California's wine country into a fiery hell. Some areas look chillingly post-apocalyptic, with the bones of former grand homes and businesses now gray with ash.

But most of what I see is intact. The skies are still blue, the breezes cool, and the sun-dappled vineyards as rolling and beautiful as they were since my first visit nearly 30 years ago. Every turn of the road revealed vast wine estates and stunning vistas reminiscent of the old wine-growing regions of France, Italy and South Africa. It is not, as the news may have led us to believe, all gloom and doom.

Of the hundreds upon hundreds of wineries across the region, just a few burned completely, while others, numbering about a dozen, were heavily damaged or scorched by flames.

"Most of the wine regions were not affected," says Lisa Mattson, who is director of marketing at Healdsburg's Jordan Winery, where I visit for a wine tasting.

The fires struck just after grape harvest, a high traffic time for tourists who come to Healdsburg and Sonoma for, among other things, the extravaganza of dazzling fall color of the vineyards.

Vineyards, she says, can be a "natural firebreak" and help to protect the wineries. Jordan Winery, like hundreds of others, was not touched except by layers of smoke that permeated the

The fires struck just after grape harvest, a high traffic time for tourists who come to Healdsburg and Sonoma for, among other things, the extravaganza of dazzling fall color of the vineyards.

And therein lies one reason I am in Healdsburg. I love autumn and all that it brings, and I've always wanted to see Sonoma County's vineyards in their glory, having seen them before only in spring and summer.

Naturally I was also concerned that everything in Sonoma County burned - that was the picture painted by news reports, anyway – but a friend who often travels here for work convinced me otherwise, telling me that I have to see it to believe it. Together we visit, flying into San Francisco and then renting a car and driving for endless miles through the Sonoma countryside, with Healdsburg as our home base.

Our all-too-brief threenight stay in Healdsburg was at the Hotel Les Mars, one of those quintessential wine country inns complete with French furnishings including four-poster beds, bright colors and rich antiques. It's just a block from Healdsburg Plaza. It is here we meet Brian Sommer, its very much hands-on and friendly general manager. After several conversations, I also discover that he is chair of the Healdsburg Tourism Improvement District. It's a small town. Almost everyone is connected to tourism and wears many hats.

When I ask Sommer about those boiling "rivers of wine," he laughs and says he hadn't heard of such a thing.

"Ninety-eight percent of the 2017 vintage was already in," he points out, adding that tourism took a direct hit nonetheless because of the perception cast by news reports that Sonoma and Napa were pretty much wiped off the map.

He, along with everyone else even remotely connected to tourism, wants the visitors to come back. While the Hotel Les Mars has always offered personalized service for its guests, he's hoping it will be part of the lure to bring back tourists who might otherwise stay away after the wildfires. A hundred wineries are within a 10-minute drive of his inn. he says, and the hotel partners with Silver Service and Healdsburg Tours to offer tours of the wine country in luxury vehicles including Land Rover, Mercedes and Tesla, with personally crafted itineraries. The thing is, he says, while wine is the megastar of Sonoma, there is so much to do in addition to winetasting and tours, including canoeing or kayaking the Russian River, the softly flowing river that cuts a scenic swath through Sonoma; hot air ballooning; exploring art galleries; meandering the coast near Bodega Bay and Jenner; and dining out. It's all still here, he assures me.

That evening I dine at Valette, a Healdsburg restaurant recommended by Sommer, and partake of a wine-paired tasting menu with courses such as crispy-skin striped bass and an apple-glazed pork porterhouse that sent my taste buds into orbit. For a Sunday night, it's crowded. My waiter says it's mostly locals, but he is confident tourists will return when word gets out that Sonoma hasn't gone up in smoke.

RICK STEVES' EUROPE

Dublin's big-city sights and Irish charm

s the capital of the country that gets my vote for the friendliest in the European Union, Dublin is a sightseer's delight: It's safe, thriving and extremely accessible. Dubliners are energetic and helpful, and visitors enjoy a big-town cultural scene wrapped up in a small-town smile.

Part of the reason Ireland is one of my favorite destinations is that when visiting the Emerald Isle, I enjoy the sensation that I'm understanding a foreign language. This is the land of great craic (conversation), where people have that charming and uniquely Irish "gift of gab." They love to talk, and you're glad they do.

On a trip there last summer, I opted to take Uber from the airport. My driver Paul calls to confirm the pick-up spot, and says in a heavy Irish accent, "I'll meet you at the turd lane." I ask, "The what?" He says, more clearly, "The TURD lane." Before I ask him to repeat himself a turd time, I get it.

As we drive, I ask him about the economy. He says, "Grand" - pointing out the crane-filled skyline. Dublin seems to be one huge construction site. But Paul then explains how it hasn't always been this way. During his childhood with six siblings, he says, "it was 'first up, best dressed." He joked that "People were so poor back then, for shoes your mum would paint your feet black and tie on a ribbon."

Ireland's charming rough edge is being smoothed out by its new affluence. I notice the Irish don't say the f-word so much. And the air's cleaner too — even the pubs are smoke-free.

With Ireland's invigorated economy comes a heightened focus on tourism. On my recent visit I discovered intriguing new sights and experiences, had a great time at some iconic spots and each night enjoyed fun and affordable entertainment.

Grafton Street is the place to feel the new energy of Dublin. Once filled with noisy traffic, today this is a pedestrianized people zone lined with cafés, pubs and shopping temptations. Grafton Street leads to St. Stephen's Green, which used to host public whippings and hangings but has been transformed into a lush city park. On a sunny afternoon it's an inviting lunchtime escape.

The National Museum shows off Ireland's history, with treasures from the Stone Age to modern times. Its archaeology branch is itself a national treasure, displaying 4,000-year-old gold jewelry, 2,000-year-old bog mummies, 1,000-year-old Viking swords and the collection's superstar — the exquisitely wrought Tara Brooch. A visit here gives valuable context to the sights you see as you tour the rest of the city and the country. To see the fabled Book of Kells, arguably the most important and beautiful piece of European medieval art, head to Trinity College. This 1,200-year-old version of the four gospels is filled with illuminated manuscripts. With colorful pigments, braided letters and borders and animals crouching between sentences, it's a jungle of intricate designs and a reminder that Ireland was a bright spot during Europe's Dark Ages. A new sight in town is Epic: The Irish Emigration Museum. I had never fully appreciated the Irish diaspora until my visit to this hightech exhibit, which explains the forces that propelled so many Irish around the globe, including to the United States. With all the anxiety surrounding immigration in the USA today, it's thoughtprovoking to learn how many Americans were just as wigged out about Irish immigrants 160 years ago.

I'm less enthralled with one of Dublin's most popular (and congested) sights — the Guinness Storehouse, sort of a Disneyland for beer lovers in outer Dublin. Housed in the company's old fermentation plant, this place is a pilgrimage for many – but it's expensive and not a typical "brewery tour" with conveyor belts of beer bottles. Instead of historic artifacts, you'll find high-decibel music and a tall, pint-glass-shaped glass atrium – 14 million pints big – soaring past four floors of exhibitions and cafés to the skylight. A highlight for many here is the top-floor Gravity Bar, with a commanding 360degree view of Dublin, and vistas all the way to the sea.

No visit to Dublin is complete without some good traditional Irish music. Joining a trio of local musicians for a three-stop musical pub crawl, I get a real education in trad music (and a nice Guinness buzz). With much good humor, the players explain and demonstrate their instruments at each stop, clearly enjoying introducing rookies to their art.

No matter what you see or do in Dublin, it's an exciting time to visit. This dynamic city has a fine story to tell, and people with a natural knack for telling it.

Boxer wins award for sportsmanship

Staff Report

East Ridge High School student Aliyah Charbonier was honored recently with a national award for extraordinary sportsmanship.

Charbonier was honored at the Musial Awards in St. Louis on Nov. 18. Named for Stan Musial, the late St. Louis Cardinals Hall of Famer, the event celebrates the year's greatest moments of sportsmanship and the biggest names in sports who embody class and character.

Charbonier, 16, of Clermont, received the Musial Award for a gesture of self-lessness that occurred last fall. At the Sugar Bert Boxing National Championship in Kissimmee, she was set to box Amaiya Zafar, a 16-year-old opponent from Minnesota but prior to the match, officials called off the fight and disqualified Zafar.

As a devout Muslim, Zafar wears a hijab under her headgear as well as leggings and a shirt under her shorts and top — all of which were in violation of uniform rules set by the International Boxing Association for safety reasons. Although Charbonier was declared the winner, she believed the decision was unfair, so she told Zafar she was the true winner and gave her the championship belt.

"The kindness and empathy Aliyah showed epitomize the inspiring acts of sportsmanship we seek to celebrate at the Musial Awards," said Frank Viverito, president of the St. Louis Sports Commission and the National Sportsmanship Foundation, which produce the event. "Her actions are deserving of recognition, especially with an award that stands for selflessness and civility in sports."

Zafar presented the award to Charbonier during the show. The two boxers have developed a close friendship and have traveled to visit one another since first meeting.

In the spring, USA Boxing adopted a religious exemption on the apparel rule, and Zafar became the first athlete to fight while wearing a hijab in a sanctioned American boxing event.

IN BRIEF

Tavares Middle garden project wins grant

Updates to an irrigation system and design will be made at Tavares Middle School through the Florida Agriculture in the Classroom 2017-18 Teacher Grant program.

The non-profit organization selected the winning projects from 35 applications. It will spend nearly $19,000 total on all of the projects, which they estimate will reach more than 6,000 students in kindergarten through 12th grade across the state.

The winning grant project at Tavares Middle School will have students updating the irrigation system in and around their greenhouse and changing the direction of their four existing beds to allow them to add eight more. Using the garden, students will gain an understanding of produce from seed to table and learn to look at plants in different ways to better understand the importance of agriculture in their daily lives.

Florida Agriculture in the Classroom is based in Gainesville and is charged with educating Florida K-12 teachers and students about the importance of agriculture. It is funded by sales of the agriculture specialty license plate known as the Ag Tag.

Board to vote on 2018-19 student calendar

The Lake County School Board will choose the student calendar for the 2018-19 school year at its meeting on Monday.

A committee composed of employee representatives, parents, residents and administrators developed two options. Employees were given an opportunity to vote for the preferred option.

One option offered a shorter Thanksgiving break and a longer winter break. The other offered the opposite — a longer Thanksgiving break and a shorter winter break. Both options have a school start date of Monday, Aug. 13, 2018, with the last day of classes scheduled for Friday, May 24, 2019.

Nearly, 3,000 employees participated. A week later, the general public was given the same opportunity. More than 2,600 votes were tallied as of late Thursday afternoon. The board will consider the survey outcomes before taking a final vote.

Storm makeup days cancel early dismissal

Early release is canceled for Dec. 18, 19 and 20 to make up some of the instructional hours missed because of Hurricane Irma. Other instructional hours will be made up with the cancellation of early release on May 22, 23 and 24. Additionally, classes will be held on March 30, formerly a non-student day.

Lake County educators receive $2,500 to fund classroom projects

Staff Report

Adrienne Duncan was shocked last week when she was presented with a $2,500 grant from Farmers Insurance's Thank America's Teachers program.

"The money will be used to enrich the lives of my students, enhance student engagement and motivation, and inspire an overall love of learning in the classroom," said Duncan, a first-year a third-grade English language arts/social studies teacher at Eustis Heights Elementary School. "I will stock my classroom with the necessary supplies, tools and resources needed for my students to succeed."

Martha Preller, a thirdgrade teacher at Treadway Elementary School, also received the grant and plans to use the money to update technology in her classroom. Other Lake recipients include Kimberly Dier, a second-grade teacher at Sorrento Elementary School, and Dawn Mauldin, an art teacher at Astaula Elementary School.

One-hundred eighty teachers around the country received the grant to fund classroom projects.

"Everyone has a story to tell of their favorite teacher, the one that went above and beyond the call of duty," the company says on its website.

"For us, thanking America's teachers is more than about just showing our appreciation. It's also about giving them the ability to make a big impact in their classrooms and community."

To be eligible for the grants, teachers were officially thanked for being a teacher through the Thank America's Teachers website. They also had to enter a proposal. Proposals with the highest number of votes were selected to receive the grants.

Fishing Report: Sea trout biting in Yankeetown

By John Patton Correspondent

Tip of the week: According to www.fishingtipsdepot.com, when fishing for crappie keep your line tight. Crappie are known to have a soft lip, which means they can tear easily and shake your hook if the line isn't kept tight enough. Fortunately, crappie often do put up a good fight, so keeping a tight line isn't that difficult.

1. Yankeetown/Waccasassa: According to Jim Zaloga, the sea trout have been biting in Yankeetown. A lot of trout were caught this week with most anglers catching their limit. Most of the trout are in the 18-to-22-inch range. Live shrimp under a Cajun Thunder is still the most productive way to catch them. Grouper trolling also is doing especially well.

2. Crystal River/Homosassa: Capt. William Toney said that big changes are expected this weekend with a major cool down. The Nature Coast water temperatures are around 74 degrees, making inshore and offshore fishing very good. Offshore captains are catching big kingfish, gag grouper and catch release fly caught amber jack. Inshore the trout bite has been good, redfish so-so, and inshore rocks good with keeper gag grouper, Spanish mackerel and grunts. This may all change if the cool weather drops the Gulf water temperatures three to six degrees. With cooling water temperatures, look for the coastal reef/rock fishing to slow down. To catch gag grouper use live bait. To catch Spanish mackerel and grunts use live shrimp during warm midday sun and patience will pay off. Most inshore fish will move back to deeper water in passes, deep water creeks and coastal rivers that will hold the warm water that cold weather can't change in a couple days. Rivers will probably hold the best action. Try midway towards the springs and live shrimp will get the bite. Not to say fish would bite on the outside but with the tides faceing anglers this weekend the prediction is that every fish caught will be earned. Look for incoming high tide to be at daylight or dark this weekend.

3. Withlacoochee: Capt. Bob at Angler's Resort on the Withlacoochee River in Dunnellon reports that fishing is still on the slow side on both the river and Lake Rousseau. Fishing on Lake Rousseau continues to be tough though there are reports of some fishermen catching 3-4 small bass using artificial worms. There are reports that some fishermen have had luck catching a few bass using wild shiners; mainly on the Withlacoochee. There are some catching crappie on Missouri minnows also.

4. Orange Lake/Lochloosa: Lochloosa Harbor is reporting that specks are biting with regularity near the middle. The baits of choice primarily have been live minnows with a jig edge and a skirt. Some have caught specks near the edge, though the success rate there hasn't been as high. There hasn't been much bass fishing of late.

5. Ocklawaha River: Roger Robins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that the Ocklawaha River and Rodman Reservoir continue to produce a lot of fish, with some nice bass and specks. Fishing below the dam has been great with bass, warmouth and specks. Red wiggler worms have been working great. Jiffy Jigs in John Deere green and electric chicken have produced some nice specks along with Missouri minnows.

6. Salt Springs: Roger Robbins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that fishing on Lake George, Lake Kerr and Wildcat Lake have been producing some nice bass. The bait of choice has been wild shiners. Junebug red and watermelon red worms have work well also. Salt Springs Run has produced some bass and catfish, also. The St Johns River on the south side of Lake George and north of the Astor bridge has been good for bass and specks.

7. Forest Lakes: Fat Daddy's reports that specks have been biting a great deal because the water temperatures have cooled. Some bass also have been caught, but not nearly as many.

8. Lake Weir: Fat Daddy's reports that specks have been caught here in abundance. Most are using either small minnows with jigs or large minnows without jigs. Halfmoon Lake and Lake Bryant also have seen specks caught with regularity.

9. Harris Chain: According to BassOnline.com, bass often can be found here in the open water. The canals have them at times, too.

10. Panasoffkee/Tsala: No update.

11. Astor Park: Roger Robbins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that several bass weighing more than eight pounds have been caught here recently.

12. Ponce Inlet: According to www.floridasightfishing.com, the bite is still red hot in the Mosquito Lagoon and near New Smyrna Beach and Ponce Inlet. Redfish have been biting with regularity since Hurricane Irma. Tours are fishing schools of redfish every morning in Mosquito Lagoon and wrapping things up catching bunches of spotted sea trout. There are lots of snook and tarpon in the deeper waters around New Smyrna. Fishing is not going slow down for a while, then we'll start to see baitfish thinning out and the fall transition taking place. Fishing for Mosquito Lagoon redfish has been excellent the last couple of weeks. Lower water levels have the fish schooled up big time during the morning. Numerous groups of 75-150 grouped up fish ranging between five and 10 pounds. Giant bull reds have also been schooled up in both lagoons for their annual spawn with fish in the 20-40 pound range coming to the boat each day recently. Summer and early fall is prime time for catching these trophysized redfish. Live bait has been the ticket with mullet, pinfish, pigfish all catching plenty. Soft plastics, plugs and spoons have worked when throwing lures. The speckled trout bite in Mosquito Lagoon is still going strong. It's also picked up well in New Smyrna Beach around oysters, creek shorelines, and docks. Live bait is producing around 15-to-20 trout each day. Many are smaller keepersized fish with some big ones upwards of seven or eight pounds. Fishing for speckled trout will remain like this until the cold fronts start to roll through and baitfish supplies run out in late September. Fishing for snook in New Smyrna Beach and Ponce Inlet has been good around the docks, bridges and shorelines. However, it's going to get even better next month when cold fronts start to get going and baitfish begin their fall migration. Where snook are hanging out now makes for tougher fishing with heavy gear and lots of lost fish or break-offs but anglers are getting a fair number of bites each time

BOSTON — Outside the Boston College basketball office, on the way to the practice gym, the walls are decorated with giant pictures from the Eagles' biggest wins.

The Sweet 16 appearance in 2006. Upsets over No. 1 North Carolina and No. 6 Duke in 2009. A victory over top-ranked Syracuse four years ago.

Make room for an addition: Boston College 89, Duke 84, an upset that sent the No. 1 Blue Devils to their first loss.

Ky Bowman scored 30 points. Jordan Chatman scored 22, hitting four straight free throws in the final 16 seconds to ice it.

Gary Trent Jr. scored 25 and Marvin Bagley III had 15 points and 12 rebounds for Duke (11-1, 0-1 ACC).

Duke led 36-35 with four minutes left in the half before BC scored 13 of the next 16 points, getting back-to-back 3-pointers from Chatman and a fastbreak layup from Bowman to open a nine-point lead with 23 seconds before the break. Two free throws cut it to 48-41 before Bowman's 3 at the buzzer rimmed out.

Chatman hit another 3 to open the second half and give BC its biggest lead. It was 53-43 when Grayson Allen and Bagley hit backto-back 3-pointers during 15-5 run to tie it.

Lions, Bucs aim to salvage largely disappointing seasons

By Fred Goodall

Associated Press

TAMPA — The Detroit Lions and Tampa Bay Buccaneers aren't wasting time wondering what might have been had they played better at times this season.

The teams meet today, with the Lions (6-6)focused on trying to break a two-game losing streak that has dampened their playoff hopes, and the Bucs (4-8) also desperately needing a win to begin feeling better about themselves.

With four games remaining, neither team is looking to the future. It's all about salvaging what's left of mostly disappointing seasons undermined by inconsistency.

"You guys are talking as if it's all is lost and that kind of thing," Lions coach Jim Caldwell told the media early in the week.

"That's the great thing about our game, it's going to challenge you. It's going to be tough. It's not going to be an easy road," Caldwell added. "And it's either going to polish you up or grind you down, and it's our job to make certain that we get polished up. We've got a lot of work to do, but that's all part of what we do."

Detroit's chances of remaining in contention will depend heavily on whether Matthew Stafford's injured throwing hand heals enough to allow the quarterback to play and throw the ball effectively against the Bucs' porous secondary.

Stafford's right hand was stepped on during last week's 44-20 loss at Baltimore, and the ninth-year pro was limited in practice this week.

The Lions star has started 108 consecutive games over the past six-plus seasons, the third-longest active streak among NFL quarterbacks behind Matt Ryan (128) and Philip Rivers

"I would never question his toughness," Bucs coach Dirk Koetter said. "I'm sure if there's any way possible that he'll be out there."

The Lions, who'll face Chicago, Cincinnati and Green Bay after playing Tampa Bay, likely will have to win out to earn a playoff

The Bucs, who began the season with heightened expectations after going 9-7 a year ago, need four more wins to avoid finishing with a losing record.

It won't be easy concluding against Detroit, Atlanta, Carolina and New Orleans, which are all in playoff contention.

"Obviously, this year hasn't turned out how we wanted it to turn out, but we can definitely finish strong," Bucs quarterback Jameis Winston said.

"Everyone dislikes losing. But what can we do now about it? That's all we can do," the third-year pro added. "We've got to focus on this game. We've got to start with Detroit."

Some things to know about the Lions and Bucs:

INEXPERIENCED BACK-UPS: Stafford is second in the NFL with 3,302 yards passing - and he's been outstanding in his past three road games, averaging 312.3 yards per game with five touchdowns and one interception. His backups are second-year pro Jake Rudock and rookie Brad Kaaya, who is on the practice squad.

Rudock replaced Stafford last week against the Ravens, completing his first three throws before throwing an incomplete pass and an interception that was returned for a touchdown.

The Bucs expect to face

Stafford. "He is a tough dude. He has gotten rocked a few times this season and he just keeps getting up," Bucs defensive coordinator Mike Smith said. "That is why we are anticipating - I am not sure what his status is going to be, it's questionable - but we are preparing like he is going to go."

FAMOUS JAMEIS: Winston returned a week ago after missing three games with a sprained throwing shoulder. The No. 1 overall pick from the 2015 draft threw for 270 yards, two TDs and no interceptions but also had a fumble returned for a score in Tampa Bay's 26-20 overtime loss at Green Bay.

He said he's just happy to be back on the field, eager to help the team end the season on a positive note.

"It's not really about me. Obviously, I've got to do my job and me taking care of the football is part of me doing my job, but it's really about just this whole locker room (and) everybody just coming together and finishing strong," Winston said. "I think that's huge ... coming back into next season with confidence, with fire. ... That's what we want to do."

SUSPECT DEFENSE: Detroit struggles to run the ball and protect the passer, though there's little to suggest that'll mean much against Tampa Bay's beleaguered defense, which has done a poor job of exploiting the shortcomings of opponents. The Lions are next-tolast in the league in rushing offense, averaging 78.3 yards per game. They've allowed 39 sacks, tied for 28th in the league. Tampa Bay's defense is last in sacks with 17 and 31st in total defense, yielding 118.3 yards per game on the ground and 267.3 yards through the air.

"It's a new Sunday and we haven't stopped the run," Bucs defensive tackle Gerald McCoy said. "They are going to try it. We just can't allow them to do it. How many times he's been sacked (doesn't) matter either because we don't have many sacks."

Jaguars refuse to view Seahawks as statement game

By Mark Long Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE -

The Jacksonville Jaguars haven't played a home game with this much at stake in nearly a decade.

An outside shot at clinching a postseason berth. A perennial playoff contender and recent Super Bowl champion in town. A chance to prove they belong among the NFL's elite.

Some might even call today's matchup against the Seattle Seahawks (8-4) a "statement game." Not the Jaguars (8-4).

Jacksonville refuses to acknowledge what a victory against the 2014 Super Bowl champions would mean, even if everyone else does.

"Y'all hype up who y'all want to hype up," said Jaguars cornerback Jalen Ramsey, chiding the media. "Y'all don't hype up who y'all don't. We were sorry last year, but we're not this year. We ain't talking about last year." Maybe not. But for a team that lost 74 of 96 games over the previous six seasons and hasn't been this close to the playoffs in December since 2010, putting itself in this position is a huge turnaround and should be part of the discussion.

"You all have to stop doing that," Ramsey said. "The media, y'all do that too much. Y'all been hyping people up; y'all hype teams. Stop doing that. Y'all got to stop doing that. It's a new year. It's a new league – everything.

"There are new big dogs around the NFL. Stop doing that. Stop hyping people up."

If the Jaguars are one of the "new big dogs," then facing Seattle late in the season should be the measuring stick.

Outboards

After all, the Seahawks are an NFL-best 20-5 in regular-season games in December and January. But the Jaguars aren't willing to go there.

"I don't know if you can quite say it's a statement game," Jaguars safety Tashaun Gipson said. "I think that we've proved that, if not the best, one of the best. It's just going out there and collectively doing what we know and what we can do.

"A statement game? We don't want to put that type of pressure on this game. We know it's a big-time game and has a lot of implications. They're trying to get their ninth win and set themselves up. We're trying to do the same thing."

Unlike Seattle, Jacksonville can clinch a playoff berth this week. Both are currently projected as the No. 5 seed in their respective conferences.

The Jaguars need a victory, combined with losses by Buffalo, Miami, the New York Jets and the Los Angeles Chargers to reach the postseason for the first time since 2007. They also need the Oakland-Kansas City game to not end up in a tie Seattle hasn't even mentioned the postseason this week, surely because they've been there five consecutive seasons and 11 times in the previous 14 years.

One thing that has been a topic on both coasts: Jacksonville copied Seattle's defensive scheme that carried it to consecutive Super Bowls, and the comparisons are an obvious story line. The Jaguars lead the NFL in scoring defense, total defense, passing defense and sacks.

Are the units comparable?

"Nah, there is only one Seattle Seahawks," Seattle linebacker Bobby Wagner said.

Here are some other things to know about the Seahawks and Jaguars:

ESCAPE ARTIST: Jaguars defensive end Calais Campbell will be facing Seahawks quarterback Russell Wilson for the 11th time. Campbell is 4-5-1 in the previous 10 meetings and knows all too well what Wilson can do.

"I call him Houdini because he can just create out of nowhere," Campbell said. "It's like magical. You think you've got him and then he just does something crazy, breaks free and throws a touchdown. We have our hands full."

GROUND ATTACK: The Seahawks flashed some semblance of a viable run game against Philadelphia. It took a mix of scrambles by Russell Wilson and a few flashy runs from Mike Davis for the Seahawks to rush for 101 yards against the NFL's top rush defense.

Davis' 64 yards rushing were the most by a Seattle running back since Chris Carson had 93 yards in Week 2 vs. San Francisco.

TOUCHDOWN ROLL: Jimmy Graham continues to be on a touchdown roll. The Seattle tight end is tied with Antonio Brown and DeAndre Hopkins for the NFL lead with nine TD receptions. He's caught TDs in four straight games, and all nine of his scoring grabs have come in the past eight games.

IN THE ZONE: Blake Bortles has been at his best in the red zone this season. Jacksonville's fourth-year quarterback has completed 22 of 41 passes for 140 yards, with 12 touchdowns and no interceptions inside the 20-yard line.

third-highest percentage in Heisman history.

Mayfield is the third player to win the Heisman heading to the College Football Playoff. The second-ranked Sooners meet No. 3 Georgia in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1. He is the first senior to win the award since Troy Smith of Ohio State in 2006.

Mayfield finished fourth in the Heisman voting two years ago and third last year. He entered this season as one of the favorites and jumped toward the front of the pack when he led the Sooners to an early victory at Ohio State that he celebrated by planting the OU flag in the Horseshoe turf.

He later apologized for that, but that has been Mayfield's career. Spectacular play fueled by grudges, slights and trying to prove doubters wrong. Moxie is the word that gets attached to Mayfield often, but at times poor judgment has gotten him in trouble on and off the field.

Those were really the only marks on Mayfield's Heisman resume because his play has been consistently stellar. He has thrown for 4,340 yards and 41 touchdowns this season for the Big 12 champion Sooners (12-1). For his career, Mayfield is eighth in FBS history in yards passing (14,320) and sixth in touchdown passes (129). He is likely to leave college with the two best singleseason passer ratings in major college football.

Pretty good for a scrawny kid who grew up in Austin, Texas, rooting for Oklahoma, but did not receive a scholarship offer out of high school from either the hometown Longhorns or his beloved Sooners.

At Lake Travis High School, Mayfield won a state championship at a school that regularly pumps out Division I quarterbacks. Mayfield was undersized at 6-1 and received just one offer from a Power Five program — Washington State.

Instead, he walked-on at Texas Tech and started eight games as a freshman. With a glut of quarterbacks in Lubbock, Mayfield left and had only one school in mind.

Mayfield joins Jason White and Sam Bradford as Oklahoma quarterbacks who won the award since 2003.

"Now they've won 17 games in the last two years. Really an incredible change."

After trailing most of the game, Ahmad Bradshaw pushed over the goal line on a quarterback sneak with 5:10 remaining and Blake Wilson kicked the extra point to put Army ahead. But Navy's spectacular Malcolm Perry wasn't finished.

The quarterback, who ran for 250 yards on 30 carries and a 68-yard score in the second quarter, led Navy to the Army 31 with 3 seconds left.

Navy elected to try a field goal, and after about 10 players used their feet to clear the steady snow during a timeout, Moehring's kick was long enough but drifted barely left.

"Came up a couple of feet short," Navy coach Ken Niumatalolo said. "This is a great rivalry. It was another classic game."

Army cut its deficit in the series to 60-51-7 in a matchup of bowl-bound teams. The Black Knights claimed the Commander-in-Chief's Trophy thanks to an earlier victory over Air Force.

"That trophy hadn't been in our possession for 21 years," said Monken, in his fourth season. "To be able to accomplish that with this team is a great source of pride."

In a game that included only three passes — Army completed its lone toss — the Black Knights produced a 13-play, 65-yard drive to take a late lead. John Trainor tiptoed the sideline for 8 yards one play before Bradshaw's 12th touchdown of the season.

Bradshaw also scored the goahead touchdown in last year's victory over Navy.

"I actually don't think I would've gotten in if not for my fullback and my offensive line," said Bradshaw, who rushed for 94 yards on 21 carries. "I kind of stopped, but I felt like (fullback) Andy (Davidson) picked me up and kind of walked me into the end zone."

Navy took advantage of the ensuing kickoff going out of bounds and moved down the field. Perry dropped a shotgun snap on fourth down at the Army 37, but picked up the ball and ran for a first down. But Navy committed two false start penalties, making the final field goal attempt more difficult.

Snow started falling in the late morning on the 29-degree day. Workers used blowers to uncover the lines and hashmarks during timeouts as a light snow fell throughout.

The teams, both of whom run the triple-option, combined to complete only 59 passes all season. The snow made both coaches want to throw it even less as Navy went ahead 7-0 on Darnell Woolfolk's 3-yard run on the opening possession.

The first pass came with under 9 minutes left in the second quarter. Army completed its only pass, a 20-yard wobbler from Bradshaw to Calen Holt, midway through the third quarter. The weather made one of sports' biggest rivalries an even more physical contest. Army's all-white uniforms — a nod to the 10th Mountain Division of World War II — served as almost camouflage in the snow.

Perry was the star through three quarters. Getting the start at quarterback ahead of Zach Abey, his long touchdown run in the second quarter was his third rushing TD of more than 65 yards this season.

Perry looked like he might have another long touchdown run, but he stumbled and fell at the Navy 11 early in the third quarter. Army senior John Voit chased him down.

"I'm not sure if I hit his foot or not," Voit said. "But I think I got enough where he slipped in the snow and thank God he went down."

Army then held Navy to Moehring's second field goal, from 24 yards, to make it 13-7 and allow for their fourth quarter comeback.

"There was never a moment our guys doubted we were going to win the game," Monken said. "When you love a group of people like I love them, I can tell when their emotions change. We never lost momentum."

THE TAKEAWAY

Army: Monken has Army on a major upswing. This victory will do wonders for a program that had suffered through the longest losing streak by either team in this rivalry.

Navy: Perry was the fastest and most dangerous player on the field, and Niumatalolo indicated the quarterback job will be his next season. Navy outgunned Army 296-241, but were again hurt by costly penalties.

They share their successes with teammates and are quick to step up when one is going through a tough time.

It reminded me of last year when I spoke with Kenedy Brooks about her health struggles and how Eustis coach Brittany Beall and some of her teammates when to Brooks' home last December and decorated her bedroom in an effort to cheer her up. Brooks, who suffers from ulcerative colitis, had learned she would need surgery and her team wanted to raise her spirits and remind her that she had support for the battle ahead.

Brooks will not play softball this season. In fact, she might never play again, choosing instead to concentrate on her health and her academics.

Still, she was on hand for Friday's ceremony. And she brought plenty of hugs for the signees and congratulatory tears to share.

"These girls are my sisters

"These girls are my sisters, even if I'm not playing this year," said Brooks as she walked out of the school.
"They will always be my sisters."

Such close-knit teams don't come along very often and when one does, something special usually comes out of it. A collective of players can be a team on paper, but they likely will not reap the rewards of a group of players that truly care about each other and will do whatever possible to help them succeed.

Make no mistake ... the Eustis softball team is supremely talented. In fact, many consider the Panthers to be an odds-on favorite to win the Class 5A state championship.

But it takes more than talent to win championships.

It takes a willingness to do whatever is necessary for the good of the team.

That's the definition of the Panthers.

And it goes much deeper than just the players.

Parents sit together at games and cheer the team's exploits, rather than second guessing in-game decisions made by Beall and her coaching staff. They support everyone, rather than questioning under their breath about one player getting more playing time than another.

Simply put, they understand some players are better than others and believe the coaching staff has the team's best interest at heart.

It might sound simple, but it's not something that is prevalent. There are countless instances of situations where parents pressure school administrators into making rash decisions about coaching staffs to benefit their children.

The team is often secondary in those situations.

Those teams aren't family. And it's doubtful they'll ever compete for a state championship.

They're a team in name only.
Eustis' softball team is more than a team.

They are family.

2020.

The St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants said Friday that Stanton had vetoed deals to them, but he has appeared willing to approve going to New York. As for the physical, injuries curtailed Stanton's season four of the past six years, but he played 159 games in 2017.

games in 2017.

If the Yankees complete the trade with a team run by their former captain, the new Marlins CEO, the Bronx Bombers would acquire a slugger who hit a major league-high 59 home runs last season and pair him with Aaron Judge, who led the AL with 52 in his rookie season. That would give them a one-two punch to rival Ruth-Gehrig or Mantle-Maris, making for must see betting practice.

must-see batting practice. Stanton and Judge hit all nine home runs this year that left the bat at 117 mph or faster, according to MLB Statcast. Stanton also led the majors with 132 RBIs last season.

The acquisition of the 28-year-old Stanton would be reminiscent of the Yankees' trade for Alex Rodriguez after his MVP season with Texas in 2003. Rodriguez signed a $275 million, 10-year contract after the 2007 season that ran through age 42; Stanton's deal runs through age 38.

An eight-year veteran with 267 home runs, Stanton has never played on a winning team, and might now go to a perennial title contender. The Yankees reached Game 7 of the AL Championship Series this season in the first full year of a youth movement.

New Yankees manager Aaron Boone, along with the front office, would have to sort where Stanton will play. He has played his whole big league career in right field, as has Judge. The Yankees also have the option of using one of them as a designated hitter whenever they want.

Stanton is owed $295 million over the final decade of his record $325 million, 13-year contract. The

All-Star right fielder led the majors in homers and RBIs, but his salary will rise to $25 million in 2018, which made him too pricey for the revenue-starved Marlins to keep.

Jeter is expected to reduce payroll by at least 20 percent to $90 million or less. The Marlins shed $38 million of salary through 2020 by trading two-time All-Star second baseman Dee Gordon to the Seattle Mariners on Thursday for three prospects.

Castro, who hit .300 with 16 home runs this year, could replace Gordon at second base — or might also be dealt by Miami because of his contract. He's due $10 million in 2018 and $11 million in 2019, with a club option of $16 million in the final year of his contract in 2020. Guzman went 5-3 this year with a 2.30 ERA for Single-A Staten Island. Devers batted .245 in 53 games for two teams in the low minors.

More Marlins deals are possible at the winter meetings beginning today in Orlando, with Castro and outfielders Christian Yelich and Marcell Ozuna possibly on the trading block.

The Yankees' payroll for purposes of baseball's luxury tax was about $209 million this year, and owner Hal Steinbrenner has vowed to reduce it below next year's $197 million threshold, which would reset the team's base tax rate from 50 percent to 20 percent in 2019. That would put the Yankees in better position for next offseason's free agent class, which includes Bryce Harper, Manny Machado and possibly Clayton Kershaw.

Stanton counts as $25.05 million for purposes of the luxury tax, but trading Castro cuts New York's tax payroll by $8,801,786. Rodriguez ($27.5 million) comes off the payroll after this season, and five high-priced Yankees have become free agents.

Stanton would take a cut in take-home pay for his games in the Bronx. While Florida has no state income tax, New York State has an 8.82 percent top rate on income and New York City a 3.876 percent top rate. But he might make up the difference in new endorsements.

Unwilling husband and father just wants a life to himself

DEAR ABBY: I joined the Navy after I learned I was becoming a father. I didn't want to be a husband or father, but I did both. In 2010, my wife died. My feelings about being a husband and father never changed.

Our two children are now grown and want me to move near -- or in with -- them. They say, "Won't it be great to be with your grandkids?" No, it won't!

I worked and supported my family. When I was in port, I went to baseball, softball and basketball games, had tea with my daughter and did everything I believe I should have done. I have served my time. I don't want to "be close." Honestly, I'd prefer they left me alone. I don't love them, and I didn't love their mother. I did my duty to the best of my abilities both in uniform and in family.

When we aren't together, I'm happy. I read, I study and do what I like. I've earned that, haven't I? How do I get them out of my life so that at age 52 I have my own life? I don't want to hurt anyone, but I never wanted a family in the first place. -NEVER WANTED A FAMILY

DEAR NEVER WANTED A FAMILY: The one thing you should NOT do is express your feelings to your children as bluntly as you have to me. Because you don't want to hurt them, a way to phrase it might be to say that having done your job as a parent to the best of your ability, you need time to yourself now -- time to read, study, travel, reflect, etc. Be sure to make clear that it has nothing to do with them that you are proud of them and the way they are handling their lives -so they won't think they are somehow to blame.

DEAR ABBY: After reading your "timely" reminder about changing the batteries on smoke alarms and detectors when turning clocks back to standard time, something occurred to my wife and me. We have never seen another aspect of fire protection in our homes mentioned -- fire extinguishers.

Many homeowners have these devices, but may not realize extinguishers don't last forever and should be checked and periodically replaced. Almost all home fire extinguishers are non-rechargeable. Consequently, they come with the recommendation that they be replaced every 12 years.

Neither my wife nor I have any connection with the fire safety industry or profession. We are worried that in case of a fire in the home, many people may waste precious time trying to extinguish it only to find out the extinguisher they're using no longer works or is ineffective.

The way to check is to look at the gauge most extinguishers have. If the needle is in the green area, the extinguisher may still be usable. (If the extinguisher is more than 12 years old, that may not be the case.) If there is no date on the extinguisher and the date of purchase is unknown, the expiration date can be determined by calling the manufacturer or going online to the manufacturer's website.

Could you pass this information on to your readers? It may save lives. Thank you. -- PATRICK IN NEVADÁ

Opening lead — jack of hearts. Declarer can sometimes manufacture a trick that does not exist naturally by forcing the opponents to lead a particular suit. Dozens of card combinations lend themselves well to this type of trick development, and declarer should always be on the lookout for it. For example, examine the club holding in this deal. If declarer plays the suit first, regardless of whether he leads initially from dummy or his hand, he loses three club tricks against normal defense. Thus, if South plays a low club to dummy's jack, East wins with the king and returns the ten to garner three tricks for his side. If South leads the queen instead, West takes his ace and returns a club to produce the same result. The defenders likewise score three club tricks if declarer initiates the suit by playing from dummy first, whether he leads the jack or a low club to the queen.

But if the defenders initiate the suit, they can score only their A-K, and declarer winds up with a club trick. It does not matter whether East or West leads the suit first; declarer simply plays low from the next hand to achieve his goal.

Declarer can put this knowledge to good use on the present hand. South wins the opening heart lead with the king and sees that he has four potential losers — a diamond and three clubs. He then cashes the K-Q of trumps and Q-A of hearts.

Declarer next leads a diamond to the ace, deliberately rejecting the finesse, and exits with the queen. He does not care which defender actually wins the trick, since that player has to return a club or yield a ruffand-discard, and either way the contract comes home.

Note that if South attempts the diamond finesse at trick six and it loses, a diamond return will force him to initiate the club suit himself, and he will go down one.

ture by now that you are ready to sleep without bathroom preaks, fit in to your old clothes, and regain control of your own body functions. Lucky for you the hard part is over, or sit? If you haven't been in labor before, the first time can be a little scary. You don't know what to expect. You're enxious and a little scared. It is not as bad as most (if not all) of the stories you've heard.

So, what first? You will have to check in to the hospital once you have confirmed you are in labor. Most hospitals require you to either check in at the Emergency Room or vith General Admissions. Once that is completed, you wil be moved to Labor and Delivery where you will be asked to change into a hospital gown. Your Labor and Delivery urse will assess you and the baby to make sure that urse will assess you and the baby to make sure that verything is progressing normally. During this time an IV vill be started and a baby heartbeat monitor, a contraction nonitor – lots of equipment. Now – you just wait.

The first stage really consists of three phases

Early Phase: This phase typically lasts up to 12 hours although it is usually considerably shorter for second and subsequent babies. As labor progresses, the contractions get longer and stronger.

Active Phase: Often this phase lasts up to six hours, although it can be a lot shorter. You should be in the hospital or birth center by now or en route. Contractions are much more intense, last about 40 to 60 seconds, and snaced 3 to 5 minutes anart

Tribute to dogs

¬ he one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputations fall to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens."

This is a frontier story of how a watchdog protected his family, as told by a grandmother to her grandchildren. I found this story in an old children's book called "The Mammoth Story Book," published many years ago by Whitman, a famous children's book publisher. They were also the publishers of the "Big Little Books." I believe they are now under the auspices of Kent University.

I found this book, its pages yellow and crumbling with age, in an attic bedroom of the house where I grew up. I think it might have been mine when I was a child.

The following is the first chapter of this year's Christmas story given for you in four installments to read to your children and grandchildren this Christmas season.

Old Troll and the Wolves

When I was a little girl, said grandma, I lived in a frontier cabin. On the cold December Sunday of my story, Father and Mother were going to church 7 miles away. The horse was saddled and brought to the door. A pillion, a cushioned seat upon which Mother could sit, was placed behind the saddle. She kissed me and told me to take good care of baby Hulda. Then, Father told Uriah, my 9-year-old brother, to feed the cattle at noon and turn them out to drink, but do not allow them to wander off into the woods.

We were rather lonely after Father and Mother rode away. After a while, we ate our dinner of baked apples and milk. Then, to amuse baby Hulda, we had a frolic with old Troll, our watchdog.

Suddenly, Troll stopped playing and with a smothered growl sprang to the door. He put his nose all along the crack at the bottom and sniffed and growled. "Let him out!" I said,

Leaving a legacy

Larry Connell holds Smokey Junior after the bear cub was rescued from a fire on the edge of the Seminole State Forest. Connell, who worked for the Florida Forest Service for 29 years, retired on Nov. 30. [SUBMITTED]

Sumter man, a wildland firefighter, retires after 29 years with the Florida Forest Service

By Linda Florea Correspondent

EBSTER - Itwas nearly 29 years ago when Larry Connell applied for a job at the Florida Forest Service.

"I'm a Sumter County native and grew up in the woods and around the state forest," Connell said. "I had a couple of friends that worked for the Forest Service and admired what they did. I bounced around from job to job and decided to stop in.

"Wayne Jones hired me and I never looked back."

Connell, 60, of Webster, began his career as a ranger and wildland firefighter in Sumter County. Besides fighting wildfires on the ground, his duties included wildfire suppression, wildfire detection, wildfire prevention and mitigation, prescribed burns, cooperative forestry assistance, state forest management, reforestation, outdoor recreation and forest education.

"What a lot of people don't realize is that there is another brand of firefighter that fights wild and brush fires," he said. "You've got to have a good understanding of the weather and how it relates to the fire movement and spread."

In 2012, Connell was promoted to forest area supervisor, where he was able to share his knowledge with new recruits.

On Nov. 30, he retired from the Forest Service. "Working as a wildland firefighter is a physically demanding high-risk occupation."

Connell said he plans to stay active with the federal fire program on the Southern Area Type 1 Red Incident Command Team. "I will continue as long as physically able. We go through a rotation, but whether its a hurricane or fire, you've got to go," he said.

Over the years, Connell has responded to more than 75 major incidents in 21 different states.

His most memorable event was being the operations section chief on the Bugaboo Wildfire in North Florida. Started by lightning on May 5, 2007, the fire spread from Florida and into Georgia. More than 1,100 firefighters battled the blaze.

"The smoke hung so heavy on the area for three days it was like there was a lid on it," Connell said. "That gave us an opportunity to get ahead of it; it was a turning point."

He has also worked wildfires, hurricanes, tornadoes, citrus canker, med fly, mouse infestations, floods and space shuttle recovery efforts.

Connell, a fifth generation Sumter resident, is the owner of Hooligoo Farm, where he grows vegetables and works cattle.

LAKE COUNTY HISTORY DID YOU KNOW?

By Rick Reed Correspondent

John Butler and Mackey Dabney moved to Leesburg in 1857.

"Leesburg can be thankful the Dabneys toughed it out and survived, for the couple's 10 children provided Leesburg with a number of distinguished people who figured in the city's growth and progress," wrote the late Emmett Peter more than 17 years ago in the Daily Commercial.

The Dabneys eventually got their due - twofold. Two of Leesburg's institutes of learning received monikers that honored Dabneys, though one no longer exists.

Dabney Elementary School, which was closed, was named after John Morgan Dabney, and his son, Hubert O. Dabney, was memorialized when Leesburg High School's athletic complex was renamed to Leesburg Memorial Field at Hubert O. Dabney Stadium in 1989.

Both Dabneys left a legacy in education are were well deserving of the honors they received.

John Morgan was born Aug. 15, 1864. He was the only one of John Butler Dabney's 10 children - five boys and five girls - to remain in Leesburg after growing up there.

Though he had no college or university training, John Morgan was known as Professor Dabney.

Hubert was the first black man inducted into the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's Hall of Fame. He was also the first black to have two Leesburg sports facilities named after him, the high school football stadium and a community swimming pool.

Several editions of the Leesburger, a weekly newspaper run by J.C. Luning and A.P. Jordan, reported in 1891 that two pachyderms would soon be calling the city home.

Was it just an elephant tale?

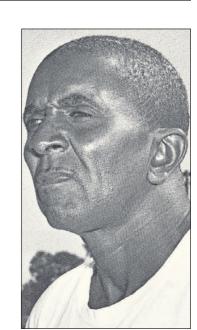

That's what the late Norma Hendricks wanted to know when she wrote a story in the 1957 Centennial Edition of the Daily Commercial.

The headline asked, "Fact or practical joke? Pioneer Mystery: What Happened to the Elephants?"

Hendricks explained that Jordan and Luning informed their readers that a pair of enterprising livery stable owners, misters F.S.A. Maude and Walter Neve, had ordered the elephants all the way from Calcutta, India.

"The ponderous beasts were to be put to work immediately on arrival, hauling material for an addition which General Tillson was going to build on the Lakeview Hotel," Hendricks wrote.

The general was Davis Tillson, who built Leesburg's first brick hotel, the Lakeview, sometime before 1890 along with Edward H. Mote. Mote was tasked with completing the project before the city would sell him the old courthouse square property on Main Street, between Fourth and Fifth streets.

as I caught up baby Hulda. Whatever was on the other side of the door, I was sure Troll could take care of it.

When Uriah opened the door, Troll shot out with great fierceness. We closed the door after him too frightened to look out, but we could hear him scurry along the path.

All was still for a moment. Then came a terrible howl from the direction of the barn. This was followed by another howl that seemed to come from the throat of some fierce animal. We heard the sound of scuffling in the snow and a long drawn out cry of pain from Troll. An instant later, he was at the door whining piteously.

Uriah and I looked at each other. We were afraid to open that door. But Troll was in danger and we could not let him stay outside to face it alone.

We quickly opened the door and let him in. His hair was standing up on end and his tail was between his legs. As he went slinking around the room, he kept growling to himself.

There were only three small windows in our cabin, and they were so high that only Father was tall enough to look through them. But Uriah dragged a chair over to each window in turn, climbed up and looked out. When he could see nothing outside, he got down and began to laugh.

"Oh, you coward, you!" He pointed his finger at Troll. "I know what ails you? You're afraid to be out alone."

We all laughed then, and our courage came back. Uriah began to bundle himself up, tying his comforter around his ears. "Father told me to feed the cattle at noon," he said.

"I'll wrap up the baby and go with you," I offered. "No, Sis," Said Uriah bravely, "you and the baby can wait outside, but stay near the door."

We watched him run down the path to the barnyard.

We watched him open the plank door. I could hear him inside talking to the cattle.

Then I heard him open the sheep pen.

First to come out were the oxen, then the cows. They acted queer, sniffing with their noses high in the air. I was so interested in watching them that I did not notice anything else. When Uriah came out after the sheep, he called, "Sis, did you hear that noise?"

Next week is Chapter 2, the Noise.

3D face mask, surgery aided severely injured dog

By Anthony Sorci Tribune News Service

Thanks to delicate surgery and a 3D print face mask, Loca, a 4-month-old female Staffordshire bull terrier, is recovering from a severe attack from another dog.

The attack fractured Loca's cheekbone and jawbone, extensively damaged her temporomandibular joint, a sliding hinge connecting her jawbone to her skull, according to a UC Davis Veterinary Medicine news release. There were also multiple puncture wounds on her face and neck.

The release provided details about how UCD caregivers planned Loca's delicate treatment:

Faculty members Drs. Frank Verstraete and Boaz Arzi and resident Dr. Colleen Geisbush of the UC Davis veterinary hospital's Dentistry and Oral Surgery Service knew Loca's surgery would be challenging, but there was hope. Loca was young, which meant there was a good chance that the damage to the temporomandibular joint could correct itself with natural bone regrowth. The case also offered them the opportunity to utilize a new face mask they developed with biomedical engineering students.

Designed to be used as a cast for a fractured skull while it heals, the mask was the result of a collaboration between the oral surgeons and the UC Davis College of Engineering.

The Dentistry and Oral Surgery Service has been working with UC Davis College of Engineering Biomedical Engineering students to design an apparatus that could help the healing process of maxillofacial fractures. The result was the Exo-K9 Exoskeleton - a custom, 3D printed exoskeleton for dogs with maxillomandibular injuries.

As soon as Loca arrived at the hospital, Arzi notified the BME students to be ready to print an Exo-K9 if a CT scan showed that she would be an ideal initial case. A cone-beam CT scan showed the extent of the injuries to her facial bones, jawbone, temporomandibular joint, and also a small fracture in the vertebrae of her neck. A salvage surgery was then performed to remove bone fragments from her right cheekbone and right jawbone.

While Loca was recovering from surgery, BME students worked in the Translating Engineering Advances to Medicine Laboratory. Based on Loca's specifications from her CT scan, the mask's dimensions would precisely fit her head, and could help optimize the healing process.

Loca did extremely well throughout her three-day hospitalization and began eating soft food. For the next month, Loca was not allowed to play with any toys, chew bones or anything else hard. Her mask and neck collar remained on at all times except to allow her to eat and drink. She was fed a soft diet until her injuries healed.

Loca had a one-month recheck that showed new bone was forming in the place of her former temporomandibular joint.

Almost three months later, Loca received her third conebeam CT scan which revealed that her previous surgery sites healed well and that the new temporomandibular joint formation was progressing.

Hallmark Movies & Mysteries gives Jill Wagner a 'Christmas Miracle'

By Jay Bobbin © Zap2it

With her third Christmas cable movie in as many years now under her belt, there's little doubt Jill Wagner enjoys such stories.

The former "Wipeout" co-host and "Teen Wolf" semi-regular also has a best-selling author's plot to work with this time, as she stars in "Karen Kingsbury's Maggie's Christmas Miracle" Sunday, Dec. 10, on Hallmark Movies & Mysteries. Wagner plays a New York lawyer whose son (Lauren Guci) reunites her at the holidays with the person (Luke Macfarlane, "The Night Shift") who was her summer love when they were in their teens — and if they can transfer that relationship to adulthood, it really will be her Christmas miracle.

"My grandmother really loves Hallmark's Christmas movies anyway," the lively Wagner reports, "and then she really gets a kick out of me being in one of them. In fact, she picked the first Hallmark movie I did ('Autumn Dreams') out of the scripts that I sent her. Because this one was a book first, I got her the book. She's an avid reader."

Admitting she hasn't read the novel herself, Wagner explains, "The only reason I don't read is that I always fall asleep within the first two pages. It has nothing to do with what I'm reading. I like to listen to them in my car, have them read to me. I know that's lazy, but that's what helps me get trough them." Wagner adds that she met author Kingsbury, "and she is lovely! Actually, her daughter plays my assistant in the film, and it was really nice to get to work with her."

SUNDAY'S BEST BETS

Caitriona Balfe

8 p.m. on 20 23 Movie: Frozen

The Disney studio added another animated smash to its inventory with this 2013 fantasy, adapted from Hans Christian Andersen's "The Snow Queen" and sparked by a woman (voice of Idina Menzel) with the gift — and curse — of turning anything, or anyone, to ice. She runs away to prevent hurting those she loves, but her sister (voice of Kristen Bell) goes in pursuit. Jonathan Groff and Josh Gad also are heard, the latter as a snowman named Olaf.

8 p.m. on (STARZ) Outlander

In a new episode called "Eye of the Storm," Claire (Caitriona Balfe) is forced to play a maddening game of cat and mouse with an old yet formidable adversary as she continues her frustrating search for Young Ian (John Bell). Elsewhere, the Frasers engage in a breathless, desperate race through the jungles of Jamaica in an attempt to prevent the absolutely unthinkable from materializing. Sam Heughan also stars.

9 p.m. on (AMC) The Walking Dead

Fans generally have responded favorably to the new course Season 8 is taking, with Rick Grimes (Andrew Lincoln) and his allies reclaiming control of their destinies as they rebel against the evil Negan (Jeffrey Dean Morgan). The show goes on hiatus for a few weeks after tonight's mid-season finale, "How It's Gotta Be," in which multiple story lines intersect, violently in some cases.

celebrityq&a Alex Hogh Andersen of "VIKINGS" ON HISTORY

You played Jack Dalton on the original "MacGyver," but since George Eads now plays him. you have a new character in the reboot's Dec. 15 episode. What's he

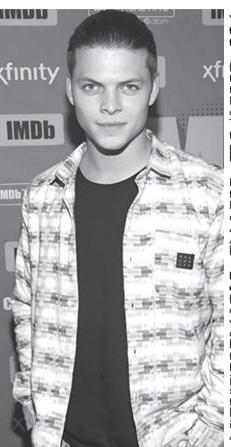

He's a pretty good, pretty honest procedural cop, and thought the best thing I could do was to build a real world that the "MacGyver" world could bump into. I thought, "Let's make this as real as any real cop show I've ever done."

There's a very good scene where my character believes MacGyver (played by Lucas Till) is a serial bomber, and I'm trying to get him to spill the beans. He won't tell me who he is, and he can't, because he works for the double-secret-probation Phoenix Foundation. I just pound away (with the interrogation), but I'm genuinely concerned for this highly intelligent kid who has an abnormal obsession with explosives.

How did you become involved in "MacGyver" originally?

I wasn't doing any TV to speak of, and when they called me to do it, I said, 'I don't think so." But Charlie Correll - who was the director of photography on "National Lampoon's Animal House" (in which McGill played musical-throat-playing motorcyclist D-Day) – was directing it, and he called and said, "What are you doing? Get on a plane and get out here! It doesn't matter; you die at the end of the episode, so you don't have to worry about making a commitment." That was interesting, so I did it. And then I went back to my theater and movie life, and my agent called and said, "'They'd like you to do another 'MacGyver."' I said, "What part?" And he said, "Oh, same part." And I said, "But that character died." Well, he didn't die on camera; he heroically saved MacGyver by flying his airplane over the horizon, and then there was one of those poor-man's (largely unseen) explosions. And my agent said, "If Bobby Ewing can come back in the shower ....

Your character Ivar the Boneless has a frighteningly evil glare. How do you conjure (Laughs) I don't find it hard at all. Of course, there's challenging moments where I have to crawl through rain and mud in January in Ireland and I'm freezing to death ... and I have to remember all these sort of things. That's what's challenging. The whole thing of finding the anchor in all that, that's what I do for a living. I've always been pretending for a living since youth. I've always been playing characters in my head.

 $I^\prime m$  going to sound like the biggest weirdo but I think a lot of actors can relate to that. So really I think it's all about trying to understand the character. Never, ever judge your character. Always try to defend him and what he's doing. Also if you do that, you prevent him from becoming one-dimensional ....

Do you have to decompress from Ivar at the end of the day?

(Laughs) No, I'm not too Method in that regard and if I was I wouldn't tell you. But I have to work out to ... be able to do the stuff that he is able to do. I wasn't able to do that at all at the beginning but when I got here two years ago they put a personal trainer on all the four sons of Ragnar, the brothers, and the personal trainer just destroyed us six days a week. So he taught us some stuff and we're trying to hold onto that. And the Guinness, even though we need a beer after a long day of work sometimes, it's all good fun, so it's the best f... job in the world. It's truly amazing, Amazing.

OF "SNOWED-INN CHRISTMA" ON LIFETIME

"Snowed-Inn Christmas" isn't the first holiday movie you've made, but how was this one to do?

This was my favorite project I've ever worked on - and I've worked a lot! Just in terms of what was going on behind the scenes, we captured lightning in a bottle. We had an amazing crew and an awesome director (Gary Yates), and Andrew (costar Walker) and I got on famously. We just had such a great

There was so much flexibility with the material, and to be able to be free to explore our personalities while we were interacting, it wasn't one of those things where we had to stick to every letter on the page. That's so nice, to have a director who says, "Hey, we're doing a comedy. Let's just let go and roll the camera and see what happens." I think it really created a magic that's hard to replicate on the screen.

The saving-a-threatened-inn story has a vibe of "You've Got Mail" and "The Shop Around the Corner," being about co-workers who don't get along at first ... and then do, and very much so. Did you sense that?

As we got going, I thought, "This really does feel like an old movie" ... something that might have come from the Doris Day era. I grew up loving old movies, so the idea of doing a romantic comedy that has an old-fashioned vibe to it is in the wheelhouse for me.

You'll be starting a guest-starring arc on ABC's "Grey's Anatomy" when it returns in mid-January. What's your anticipation for that?

It's a wonderful set to work on, and it's a storyline that I think is important and valuable right now. I'm really, really grateful and excited to be a part of it. I've always really enjoyed that show.

'The Librarians' question their institution and themselves in Season 4 of TNT fantasy series

"The Librarians" begins its fourth season Wednesday on TNT.

By George Dickie © Zap2it

There are more adventures ahead for "The Librarians" as Season 4 of the TNT fantasy series opens this week. But the biggest challenge may come from the library itself.

Last season, the library became untethered and thus no longer grounded to humanity, and so in an elaborate ceremony in the Wednesday, Dec. 13, season opener, Baird and Flynn (Rebecca Romijn, Noah Wyle) step up to make the sacrifice that will tether them to the library forever and make them immortal.

Or so it would appear.

"It's a beautiful wedding. It's quite scintillating," reports John Harlan Kim, who plays one of the librarians, master thief and tech expert Ezekiel. "It's sort of this idea — or at least that's what it looks like — that the four corners of the map all have something to do with the upcoming season. Obviously, it all centers around the tethering ceremony and what that means, not just for Flynn and Baird, but for the rest of the librarians.

"And you sort of start to see the effect and the pressure of being a librarian," the Australian actor continues, "and you end up sort of seeing the disagreement between the team about where they stand on certain issues and it kind of almost reflects a regular family where not all members of the family are going to have the same viewpoints on things and whether they're going to agree all the time. But at the end of the day, they are a family and you're going to see them sort of work
through it together."

The new season sees Ezekiel, Baird, Cassandra (Lindy Booth) and Stone (Christian Kane) embarking on more adventures protecting the world from the magical reality hidden all around. They'll be facing off against Santa's brother the Patron Saint of Thieves, saving a town haunted by ghosts from the Civil War, taking on a casino that steals luck and undoing a body-switching fiasco involving one of the librarians.

That last storyline, a stand-alone episode that will air later in the season, marks Booth's directorial debut. For this, the Canadian actress took lots of notes at the side of co-star Wyle, an experienced director and one of the series' executive producers, who she praises for his generosity and for making it "an incredible experience."

"KINGSMAN: THE GOLDEN CIRCLE"

An attack on the Kingsman spy organization's British headquarters clues its members — including relative newcomer Eggsy (Taron Egerton) — into a villainess' (Julianne Moore, gleefully chewing scenery) plot to taint the world's recreational drugs, quite lethally, in director and co-writer Matthew Vaughn's sequel. There's a big surprise for fans of the first film that involves Colin Firth's character, with Halle Berry, Jeff Bridges and Channing Tatum playing American agents who get in on the action ... literally. Again this time, the violence may be a bit much for those expecting a lark, but that's Yaughn's modus operandi as a filmmaker ("Kick-Ass," "Layer Cake"). Mark Strong, Bruce Greenwood and music icon Elton John (playing himself) also are featured. *** (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"GAME OF THRONES: THE COMPLETE SEVENTH SEASON"

Jon Snow and Cersei Lannister (Kit Harington, Lena Headey) both face challenges as leaders as the hugely popular HBO series continues here with its next-to-last season, a shorter one that has seven episodes (three less than the usual). Alliances shift dramatically, but that's not all the involved factions have to worry about, since an army made up of the deceased is approaching the Seven Kingdoms. Peter Dinklage, Emilia Clarke, Nikolaj Coster-Waldau, Aidan Gillen, Sophie Turner, Maisie Williams and Diana Rigg also continue their roles – and very notable (and noticeable) in the opening episode is music star Ed Sheeran, whose appearance generated mixed reactions from the "Thrones" faithful. DVD extras: three "making-of" documentaries; audio commentaries by cast and crew members. *** (Not rated: AS, N, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

Typically gritty director Kathryn Bigelow's urban drama – teaming her again with screenwriter Mark Boal ("The Hurt Locker," "Zero Dark Thirty") – gives a very down-to-earth role to John Boyega, who's now part of the "Star Wars" family, as a security guard who becomes caught up in the rioting that occurred in the title city in 1967. Assigned to keep a grocery store safe from looting, he eventually becomes an accomplice to a police plan to identify the person who started the turmoil by firing blanks. That turns out to be only the start of trouble for the guard. The cast also includes Will Poulter, John Krasinski, Anthony Mackie and Kaitlyn Dever ("Last Man Standing"). Co-star Algee Smith also performs on the film's music score. *** (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"DETROIT"

"HOME AGAIN"

Hallie Meyers-Shyer, the daughter of filmmakers Nancy Meyers ("The Holiday") and Charles Shyer ("Father of the Bride"), gets fully into the family business as writer and director of this light romantic comedy casting Reese Witherspoon as a mom of two who has a surprising new romance with one of the moviemakers staying in her guest house (Pico Alexander). The relationship is threatened, though, by the unexpected return of her estranged husband (Michael Sheen). *** (PG-13: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"ALL SAINTS"

John Corbett ("Northern Exposure,"
"Sex and the City") has the central role in this inspirational, true drama about a salesman turned clergyman who resisted his assignment to close a church with a small but loyal congregation. He saw a chance to save it when refugees from Southeast Asia became his parishioners, not only building the membership but potentially helping to turn the site into a working farm and cover its expenses.
*** (PG: AS) (Also on Blu-ray)

"ZOO: THE THIRD SEASON"

What turned out to be the final season of the CBS suspense series – inspired by a novel by James Patterson and Michael Ledwidge – jumps the saga forward a decade, with the team battling a new form of deadly animal known as a hybrid, giving them yet another challenge in trying to find the creatures' source and destroy it. First, though, the heroes have to reunite ... and Mitch (Billy Burke) is particularly changed, based on what happened to him after he disappeared. His daughter (Gracie Dzienny) figures into the action in a major way here.

SATURDAY FOOTBALL, NFL STYLE

Nothing says late season football like a couple of Saturday NFL games, which we'll get early in Week 15 on Dec. 16. The NFL Network will carry both games, which feature Matt Stafford and the Detroit Lions hosting the Chicago Bears late in the afternoon, followed by an evening shootout in Kansas City between the hometown Chiefs and the Los Angeles Chargers. A pair of Saturday games will also be played next weekend.

Saturday NFL action is undertaken after the regular college football season is over, and before the biggest bowl games are played. The NFL is not allowed to schedule games during the regular college football season on Fridays or Saturdays. The late season, however, is open season.

Traditionally, Saturday games were played during the day, but eventually one was moved to prime time and remains there now. In 2008, when the NFL Network stepped up it's Thursday night schedule, all that was left for Saturday was the Saturday evening game, at least for those on the East Coast. Eventually they got back to two Saturday games.

Although the ratings may not show it, serious football fans love Saturday NFL action, including those addicted to college football. Yes, we'll have the start of the bowl season that same day, but we'll also have some serious pro action as well. Consider it a tuneup for the postseason in January when the wild card and divisional rounds feature both Saturday and Sunday games.

When we talk Saturday football, at least in terms of the NFL, the topic always comes around to holding the Super Bowl on a Saturday. How cool would it be to go out on a Saturday night to a club, a party or just stay up late and watch the biggest football game of the year? True football fans drool over it.

However, it will never happen because the Super Bowl, and often the NFL, are not solely about their hardiest fans, but about making new ones and, of course, making money. You'll just never see the Super Bowl pried away from a time slot that lends itself to so many millions of people who might not otherwise watch the game. Sunday night, after all, is television's biggest night in terms of the number of viewers.

Still, big-time Saturday night games are holding their own. College football continuously holds some of their more prominent games during prime time. November was full of major conference rivalry games and conference leaders squaring off in prime-time on Saturday night. But, that's about as far as it goes. Even college football's championship game is held on a Monday night.

For the time being, fans are left to enjoy the Saturday football that is available to them.

PBS' 'Inspiring Woman' shares stories of success and perseverance

With stories of sexual harassment in the worlds of politics, entertainment and sports front and center in the news these days, a web series about female empowerment is well-timed. And that's where "American Masters" comes in.

In "Inspiring Woman," which recently began streaming on the PBS series' online platform, six innovators share their stories of success and explain how they've disrupted and changed their respective industries.

The six-episode series is a part of "American Masters" yearlong campaign Inspiring-WomanPBS, based on themes central to the lives of poet and civil rights activist Maya Angelou and playwright Lorraine Hansberry, both of whom have been profiled by the broadcast series (Hansberry's story airs next month), and it comes courtesy of a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

"We decided in conjunction with CPB," explains "Masters" executive producer Michael Kanter, "that it was really important that we expand our web presence. And we were already doing that but we came up with, among other things, podcasts and I guess it could be called crowd source but where we ask our audience to submit their own stories about inspiring women. And the webisodes ... were a sort of premiere part of that."

"But of course in anything we do in public television, finding diversity is key," adds supervising producer Kait Hoehne, "not just racial diversity per se but also diversity of talent and diversity geographically and what have you."

In the 5-6 minute webisodes, viewers are introduced to Tracy Clayton, a writer and cohost of the BuzzFeed podcast "Another Round"; Angie Mar, owner and executive chef at New York's The Beatrice Inn; Sara Chipps, JavaScript developer and co-founder of Girl Develop It, which teaches women to be web and software developers; Molly Soda, a web-cam performance artist; Rakia Reynolds, founder of the multimedia agency Skai Blue Media; and Tatyana Fazlalizadeh, visual artist and creator of a street-art series that addresses gender-based street harassment.

The stories of Clayton, Mar and Chipps are currently streaming with ensuing webisodes dropping every two weeks into early January.

"You can talk to someone who is an entrepreneur and started their own company in PR and you can talk to a chef and they've all jumped over a lot of the same hurdles," Hoehne says, "and they all kind of have this same attitude of positivity and resilience that I found really encouraging and amazing. ..."
