Search turns up more remains

A search for Michael Shaver is underway in Clermont

By Frank Stanfield
frankstanfield@daily-commercial.com

CLERMONT — Lake County sheriff's investigators unearthed clothing and more remains Saturday that may be that of Michael Shaver, who has been missing since 2015.

Detectives found a human arm bone late Friday afternoon beneath a concrete slab near a fire pit. With that discovery, deputies were able to get a search warrant to look inside the house at 9850 Sandy Pines Road that Shaver shared with his wife, Laurie, and their two children.

The remains were turned over to the Medical Examiner's Office in Leesburg for autopsy. Pathologists will try to determine the cause and manner of death. The decomposition of the body is consistent with the time he was missing, said Lt. John Herrell.

"A positive identification of the remains will be pending DNA testing and dental records," Herrell said.

Laurie Shaver, 35, has invoked her right to an attorney, so detectives have not interviewed her. In February, she allowed deputies to search her home, but when they wanted to look in the backyard, she said she wanted to call her attorney.

Friends and family say Shaver has not been seen since late summer or early fall of 2015. Family members said it was unlike him not to contact the two children he had with Laurie.

It was a friend of Shaver's

Study: Cholesterol drug lowers risk of death, heart attack

By Marilyn Marchione
The Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — A newer cholesterol drug, used with older statin medicines, modestly lowered heart risks and deaths in a big study of heart attack survivors that might persuade insurers to cover the pricey treatment more often.

Results on the drug, Praluent (PRALL-yoo-ent), were announced Saturday at an American College of Cardiology conference in Florida. It's the first time a cholesterol-lowering drug has reduced deaths since statins such as Lipitor and Crestor came out decades ago.

"It's the ultimate outcome; it's what matters to patients," said study leader Dr. Philippe Gabriel Steg of Hospital Bichat in Paris.

But the benefit was small — 167 people would need to use Praluent for nearly three years to prevent a single death.

"That's a high cost" that may still hinder its use, said

Tariffs may imperil delicate global economic rebound

By Paul Wiseman
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Things had been going along so nicely.

Over the past year, the major regions of the world finally shed the scars of a global financial crisis and grew in unison for the first time in a decade. Worldwide growth is expected to hit 3.9 percent this year — the best pace since 2011 — and the International Monetary Fund says most countries are sharing in the prosperity.

But President Donald Trump's announcement Thursday that the United States would impose heavy tariffs on imported steel and aluminum — with some countries potentially exempted — suddenly raised a fear that few had anticipated: That U.S. tariffs could trigger a chain of

MILWAUKEE Reward posted for Picasso print taken from art firm

A fine art appraisal firm is offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the recovery of stolen artwork by Pablo Picasso.

The original 1949 print was stolen last month from DeLind Fine Art Appraisals, LLC in downtown Milwaukee. DeLind Fine Art Appraisals co-owner Michael Goforth announced that the company is offering the reward for the print, which is worth up to an estimated $50,000.

Picasso did only 30 of the prints and signed each with a green pencil in the lower right corner.

Anyone with information about the theft or the etching and aquatint is asked to contact the Milwaukee Police Department or FBI.

BEIJING Chinese city orders traffic, factory curbs due to smog

One of China's biggest cities has imposed curbs on traffic and factories due to a spike in air pollution and told elderly people and children to stay indoors.

The government of Tianjin, a port city of 15.5 million people east of Beijing, said half its cars will be barred from the road each day starting Sunday based on whether their license plate numbers are odd or even.

Factories were ordered to reduce emissions by 50 percent. Kindergartens and primary schools were told to cancel outdoor activities.

Gun background check system riddled with flaws

By Martha Bellisle
The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Recent mass shootings have spurred Congress to try to improve the nation's gun background check system that has failed on numerous occasions to keep weapons out of the hands of dangerous people.

The problem with the legislation, experts say, is that it only works if federal agencies, the military, states, courts and local law enforcement do a better job of sharing information with the background check system — and they have a poor track record in doing so. Some of the nation's most horrific mass shootings have revealed major holes in the database reporting system, including massacres at Virginia Tech in 2007 and at a Texas church last year.

Despite the failures, many states still aren't meeting key benchmarks with their background check reporting that enable them to receive federal grants similar to what's being proposed in the current legislation.

"It's a completely haphazard system — sometimes it works; sometimes it doesn't," said Georgetown University law professor Larry Gostin. "When you're talking about school children's lives, rolling the dice isn't good enough."

In theory, the FBI's background check database, tapped by gun dealers during a sale, should have a definitive list of people who are prohibited from having guns — people who have been convicted of crimes, committed to mental institutions, received dishonorable discharges or are addicted to drugs.

But in practice, the database is incomplete.

It's up to local police, sheriff's offices, the military, federal and state courts, Indian tribes and in some places, hospitals and treatment providers, to send

In this Jan. 16, 2013, file photo, assault weapons and hand guns are seen for sale at Capitol City Arms Supply in Springfield, Ill. Recent mass shootings spurred Congress to try to improve the background check system used during gun purchases, but experts say the system is so fractured that federal legislation being considered in Washington D.C. will do little to help keep weapons out of the hands of dangerous people. (AP PHOTO/SETH PERLMAN, FILE) criminal or mental health records to the National Instant Criminal Background Check System, or NICS, but some don't always do so, or they may not send them in a timely fashion.

Some agencies don't know what to send; states often lack funds needed to ensure someone handles the data; no system of audits exists to find out who's not reporting; and some states lack the political will to set up a functioning and efficient reporting process, experts said.

"The system is riddled with opportunities for human error," said Kristin Brown, co-president of the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence.

A proposal in Congress seeks to establish a structured system for federal agencies to send records to the NICS database. Sen. John Cornyn of Texas says the legislation — often referred to as "Fix NICS" — will save lives.

"We should start with what's achievable and what will actually save lives, and that describes the 'Fix NICS' bill. It will help prevent dangerous individuals with criminal convictions and a history of mental illness from buying firearms," the Republican said.

Often left out of the debate in Washington is the fact that similar legislation passed after the 2007 Virginia Tech massacre, but many records are still not being sent to the database.

The Justice Department even set up a new grant program that offered states help with their reporting system, but many didn't even bother to apply. In 2016, only 19 states and one tribe received funds totaling $15 million. The number of states currently participating is 31.

Several states aren't eligible for the grant because they haven't set up a system that allows a person who was prohibited from having a gun due to mental health issues get their rights restored. The National Rifle Association has long-pushed for those types of restoration requirements, Brown said.

Important mental health records that would have kept Seung-Hui Cho from getting the guns he used to kill 32 people at Virginia Tech were never entered into NICS. The gunman who killed dozens at a Texas church in November was able to purchase weapons because the Air Force didn't send his domestic violence conviction to the database.

And the father of a teenager who killed himself and four classmates at a Washington state high school in 2014 was able to purchase several guns, including the one his son used, because the Tulalip Tribal Court had not shared his domestic violence protection order with Marysville, Washington, authorities, who would have sent it to the background check system.

Since then, the tribe received a $333,841 grant to help improve its criminal records reporting.

Aggressive otter attacks Florida kayakers

A Florida kayaker is recovering after being attacked by an aggressive otter.

Sue Spector was kayaking with her husband down Braden River when the animal leaped onto the kayak and lunged at her last weekend.

The Tampa Bay Times reports the kayak flipped as the 77-year-old, her husband and witnesses tried to help. She tried to fight him off with her paddle but he persisted. The couple climbed on their guide's kayak. The otter followed but didn't attack again.

But it did scratch through two layers of clothes on a witness who tried to fight the animal off Spector.

Officials say it's extremely rare for an otter to attack humans.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission said four kayakers were injured in separate attacks recently on the same river.

Witnesses say the creature may have been hunted by an alligator.

Man charged with killing chef

A Florida man is charged with killing a chef, using his credit cards and dumping his body into a canal.

Palm Beach County Sheriff's officials say Robert Thompson had drinks with 49-year-old Chef Stanley Parrales. Video footage shows them leaving a restaurant together.

Co-workers were alarmed when Parrales didn't show up to work at the restaurant where they say he'd never missed a day in nearly 20 years. Fishermen found his decomposed remains Wednesday.

The Palm Beach Post reports deputies found Thompson sitting in Parrales' car along with blood and evidence that someone had tried to clean it.

Thompson was charged Thursday with second-degree murder, fraudulent use of a credit card, and grand theft of motor vehicle.

An arrest report says the two knew each other but the extent of their relationship is unclear.

School leaders told Florida Today they put off telling parents because it was an open investigation.

An art teacher reported a student to school officials after being threatened. The school's investigation cleared the student. The teacher then mentioned the threat to her husband, who called police.

Following an investigation, the report said police concluded that "an attack was going to be carried out" and that one of the students had stockpiled weapons in his

DOT draws criticism over road

Former engineer says state manufactured rationale for not making road flood-proof

By Carlos E. Medina

SORRENTO — The state's road department will not raise a section of the Wekiva Parkway project near Mount Dora even though it was submerged after Hurricane Irma and falls below widely accepted FEMA flood levels.

George Marek, a retired Florida Department of Transportation district drainage engineer and current Sorrento resident, feels his former agency is playing a game of Russian roulette that could end up causing hazardous conditions during another major storm.

The Wekiva Parkway, a 25-mile project that would complete a beltway around Orlando, includes a six-lane feeder road from U.S. Highway 441 along part of State Road 46 to a new toll road dubbed State Road 453.

Sexual harassment bill dies in Legislature

By Brendan Farrington

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Sexual misconduct was one of the most talked about topics as Florida lawmakers began their annual session, and now that it's wrapping up, the women who tried to pass bills to protect government workers from harassment are angry that nothing got done.

And one, Democratic Sen. Lauren Book, pointed at comments by a male colleague the final week of session to show that a sexist attitude continues in the Capitol.

Despite Senate President Joe Negron and House Speaker Richard Corcoran's vows to tackle the issue, lawmakers wrapped up non-budget business without an agreement on legislation to prevent and punish harassment.

"It makes me very angry," said Republican Rep. Jennifer Sullivan, of Mount Dora, who sponsored the House bill. "It makes me angry not just because of me, but because of the women who have shared their stories. The women's voices who have been silenced ... by them not finishing this, they're basically just silencing them yet again by saying we're going to maintain the status quo."

The House passed a bill March 1 that included anti-sexual harassment language as part of a broader ethics bill. But the Senate didn't take up that bill, and Book's sexual harassment bill was blocked by a conservative senator who refused to hear it in a committee he chaired. On the final day to take up non-budget issues, the Senate revived the bill and

A cute baby, a guy named 'Lefty' and a fond farewell

cmolina@dailyccommercial.com

As the Lake County School Board deals with the weighty issues of school safety since a mass school shooting in South Florida, at least one board member figured out his coping device.

It helps that she is the "cutest." Marc Dodd and his wife, Kelly, welcomed a baby daughter recently, which grew their brood to five. Dodd spoke about the new baby at a recent School Board meeting.

"In the wake of all the somber conversation this week, to be able to just (say,) 'OK, I need a break, let me go hold her.' All the troubles escape in the world," he said.

Vested in Mount Dora

This week, Mount Dora resident

Jim "Lefty" Bruce donated four bullet-proof vests lined with steel plating to protect officers from high-velocity weapons. He also called for the community to donate funds for more vests so that every Mount Dora police officer and school resource officer can have one.

After the presentation, Mike Garcia, Mount Dora Middle School's resource officer, tried on one of the vests.

Lefty was thrilled to see it on him and pledged to match the first $1,600 in donations made to purchase other vests.

"Next, I'll get one (vest) for a cannon, maybe, and get someone out with a cannon someday," he said.

Barbara Joann Green

Barbara "Bobbie" Joann Green, age 78, passed away peacefully on Tuesday, March 6, 2018 surrounded by her family. Bobbie was born in Peoria, Illinois on October 8, 1939 to Harold and Velda (Cooper) Bruce. Rheumatic fever had an impact on her childhood, and she became an avid reader who was in the National Honor Society. Upon graduating high school, she married Burnell Green on September 21, 1957 at Bartonville Methodist Church. They settled in Monticello, Wisconsin, where they raised three sons and a daughter. Bobbie was active in her churches in Florida and Wisconsin, the Red Hat Society, Christian Women's Club, and volunteered as a docent at the Monticello Historical Society. Bobbie also enjoyed visiting other countries. With Bernie at her side, she traveled across America, Canada, and Europe. The snowbirds migrated annually to Leesburg, Florida. They joined the Coachwood Social Club, where Bobbie enjoyed regular gatherings with their Florida friends. She was known for a number of signature dishes. Her wilted lettuce salad would make you cry—literally. Her vinegar and bacon dressing was as good for the sinuses as it was for the soul. Bobbie's kind heart and generosity were the traits she was best known for. Hardly a birthday, anniversary, or Christmas went by without receiving a card in the mail from her. Those physical reminders of her unconditional love will be sorely missed. Of all the interests Bobbie had throughout her life, her greatest joy was her family. She was preceded in death by her parents, her two brothers Norman and Donald, and her little angel grandson, Alan Green. Those left to cherish Barbara's memory are her husband of 60 years, Bernie and their four children: Bob (Carla) Green, Brian (Debbie) Green, Brad (Sheila) Green, Brenda (Michael) Ahern; seven grandchildren: Nicholas Green, Andrea Green, Emigh (Scott) Cannaday, Matthew (Lindsey) Green, Sarah Jo Green, Chad Green, Jesica (Kevin) Jeremiason, Samantha Ahern and Allison Ahern; five great-grandchildren: Sullivan, Millie, Gage, Aria, and Bryson; two sisters: Judy (Jim) Sindt and Evelyn Wyatt. Memorial services will be held on Thursday, March 15, 2018 at 11 am at Berean Baptist Church, 5640 County Rd 48, Okahumpka, FL. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be given in Barbara's name to Cornerstone Hospice Foundation, 2445 Lane Park Road, Tavares, FL 32778. <https://web.cshospice.org/foundation/giving/> "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away." Swan Song

Local schools had plenty to celebrate this week after Wildwood Middle High School beat Blount-stown on Tuesday to win the Class 1A state championship and then Leesburg High School beat Tallahassee Rickards to win the Class 6A state championship.

After Leesburg second straight championship, Rickards' coach Eli Bryant gave the team credit.

"We did a lot of the things we felt we had to do to beat (Leesburg). They just did more things better. They're state champions — for the second time — for a good reason," Bryant said.

For Wildwood, however, the championship is bittersweet.

"I'm so proud of these guys and I can't thank them enough for taking this ol' coach along for the ride," Von Moreland, Wildwood's coach said.

He announced it was likely his last ride with them after 14 seasons with the Wildcats.

BARTOW Man gets 30 years for shaking baby

A Florida man has been sentenced to 30 years in prison for shaking his infant daughter so violently that it left her with permanent brain damage.

The Ledger reports that 30-year-old Delavon Dominique Johnson was sentenced Friday. A Polk County jury convicted him in January of aggravated child abuse with great bodily harm.

Authorities say Johnson had been left alone with the 3-month-old girl in December 2013 when she suffered hemorrhaging in her brain. Johnson told detectives that he became frustrated while feeding her and began to shake her.

Johnson said during sentencing that his daughter had accidentally fallen from

SEARCH

who initiated the search when he called the sheriff's office to say no one has heard from him. Laurie Shaver never reported the 35-year-old missing.

The couple had a history of violent domestic disturbances. In Sept. 2014, they pulled guns on each other, according to sheriff's records.

Twice, she filed for protective injunctions against him, then dropped the petitions.

In an interesting twist, court records show that a small claims case was opened against Michael Shaver in November 2016 for $3,088 owed on a credit card.

Records indicate that the card was issued on Aug. 1, 2016, and terminated on Aug. 22 of that year. However, the court paperwork also indicates that he had been a card holder since 2014, so it is not clear if the Aug. 1 date refers to efforts to collect on an earlier balance, or if there was a new card issued on that date.

The paperwork in the court file does not include a signature for Shaver.

The case was dropped when process servers could not find him.

Investigators said they have found no financial activity, or renewal of his pilot's or driver's license.

Friends told investigators Michael's Facebook page has been up and running, but there are no photos of him and suspected someone had been "managing" the social media account.

Laurie said the last time Michael was at the house was when he got out of jail in the domestic violence gun-pointing incident. She said he left with a friend in the friend's black SUV.

Laurie moved on. Travis

Filmer said he met Laurie in the summer of 2016 and they got married in December 2017.

Deputies noted in their reports, "Ms. Shaver and Mr. Filmer had an unofficial marriage ceremony due to her and Mr. Shaver still being married."

However, Filmer told investigators they should be able to find a copy of her divorce papers from Michael in the Clerk of Court's files. Detectives said there was no divorce file.

Neighbors reportedly said the ceremony was held in the back yard, in the area where the body was found.

Investigators may return to the home today to keep searching for clues.

Detectives are asking anyone with information to call the Sheriff's Office or Central Florida CRIMELINE at 1-800-423-TIPS, where they could be eligible for a cash reward.

BILL

passed a scaled down version of Book's legislation. The House sent it back to the Senate with changes.

Sullivan and Democratic Rep. Kristin Jacobs raced back and forth between the House and Senate chambers working with Book to try to salvage the legislation. Sullivan said a deal was reached, only to then watch the bill die in the Senate.

"It sends a message that they don't care," Sullivan said.

Sexual misconduct has long been a problem in the Capitol, an issue punctuated by three high-profile resignations leading up to the session.

Republican Sen. Jack Latvala stepped down after an investigation found evidence of sexual misconduct, Democratic Sen. Jeff Clemens resigned after admitting to an extramarital affair with a lobbyist and Public Service Commission appointee Ritch Workman stepped down after a senator accused him of touching her inappropriately.

And despite the call to change attitudes, Book said sexism is still a problem, pointing at comments Democratic Sen. Gary Farmer made in a discussion with other senators.

Book said Farmer questioned her ability to do her job because she's a young mother.

"I've never shied away from the fact that this is an old boys' club and the old boys' mentality continues to exist and we're going to continue to combat it," Book said.

She said Farmer's remarks are "an example of a very old, sexist place."

Book gave birth to twins two weeks before the 2017 session, her first in the Senate.

"I came here two weeks after they were born. I breast fed the entire first session I was here. I didn't miss a vote, I didn't miss a day. The thought that I can't do my job because I have two young children is laughable and insulting."

Sullivan and Book said they were going to continue the push to pass an anti-sexual harassment bill when lawmakers return to session next year.

"We can't move on from this. This culture has been accepted for far too long," Sullivan said.

That road will connect to the Wekiva Parkway, also known as State Road 429.

Marek's concern is with a ¾-mile stretch nearest to U.S. 441, which at FEMA 100-year flood levels, would fall under several feet of water. The FEMA flood maps are used by governments and private companies when designing roads, developments and insurance tables.

"It will range between 2 to 3 feet below water, generally. In the whole stretch there, about the deepest anywhere the water is on the pavement is about 4 feet on the ramp," Marek said referring to the ramp from the U.S. 441 flyover that will connect to SR 46.

According to the 2012 revised FEMA flood map, a 100-year flood would bring water levels to 81.9 feet above sea level across much of the ¾-mile section of SR 46. The lowest portion of the road has an elevation of 78.9 feet above sea level and just above 80 feet at its highest point.

The section of road lies in the Wolf Branch Sink area, which is a drainage basin that feeds the Floridan aquifer system. During and after Irma, portions of the road were under water.

But state officials with the project, which is a joint venture between the FDOT and the Central Florida Expressway Authority, say they are not bound by the FEMA flood maps and choose to use their own 500-year flood levels as the baseline.

"Section 4.2 of the Drainage Manual does not require any FDOT facility to not overtop for a 100-year storm, nor does it require a roadway to be elevated above a FEMA mapped floodplain," according to an email from Steve Olson, the FDOT district five communications manager.

Instead of the FEMA maps, FDOT relied in part on anecdotal evidence of past flooding.

"There is no documented history of overtopping of existing SR 46; this was corroborated by long-time Leesburg maintenance staff, City of Mount Dora staff and (FDOT) district office drainage staff. Given that, the Department simply required the design consultant not to lower the existing roadway profile," Olson's email stated.

But Marek, who spent 25 years with the FDOT, said the conclusions come from flawed assumptions.

"Just because somebody says, 'I've never seen it go underwater,' that doesn't mean it never goes underwater. This person has not been around here for the last 200 years. They can't say this area never gets up to the flood level," he said. "They made an illogical leap and concluded that it never goes underwater because six people said it didn't."

But the FDOT went further and formulated its own flood levels that fell about four-feet below the FEMA levels. In other words, a 100-year flood would only reach 78.1 feet, according to the FDOT numbers. That's comfortably below the road's lowest point of 78.9 feet.

"They totally tossed (the FEMA flood maps) out," Marek said. "What they did is they went out looking for another flood elevation that they were going to be more comfortable with."

The FDOT used nearby historical rain events to come up with their flood levels. They looked at rain storms greater than 25, 50 and 100-year levels. In 2008, a storm greater than a 100-year event fell in Rock Springs several miles away from the section of SR 46. Since the storm did not cause the road to flood, FDOT deemed the FEMA maps were not accurate, according to a 2014 FDOT report addressing the section of road.

The FDOT used that standard to classify Irma as a 200 to 500-year rain event.

"The rainfall associated with Hurricane Irma approximated a 500-year storm for a sizeable portion of the storm and a 200-year storm for a 24-hour duration. Despite these significant rainfall amounts, SR 46 overtopped for the first time by just a few inches, not feet. SR 46 was passable, and will be even more passable after the additional lanes are added," Olson's email stated.

But Marek said that logic also falls short.

"One of the mistakes engineers make and they make it all the time: They treat 100-year storms and 100-year floods as almost synonymous. They are two different type of events. A 100-year storm does not necessarily produce a 100-year flood," he said.

Floods levels depend on the moisture already in the ground. A large rain event during a dry season would be different than a similar event during a wet season.

The department's decision also worried at least two Lake County commissioners. Lake County follows the FEMA maps when designing and building roads.

"Our folks looked at it and they also raised a concern and then passed this specific concern to FDOT. What we got back is that they had designed it to a 50-year-flood event as opposed to 100-year, which is really contrary to what we would do if we were building the road. We noted our concern but they basically said they are comfortable going forward," said Commissioner Leslie Campione, who represents the Mount Dora area.

Commission Chairman Tim Sullivan didn't understand the FDOT's rationale.

"That doesn't pass the common sense test. We have a 100-year floodplain that we adhere everything to and they are using a 50 year?" he wondered.

Campione asked the county manager to write a letter to the FDOT to have their concern noted in the public record. The commission will decide whether to approve the letter during their regular meeting on Tuesday.

Despite the concerns, FDOT stands behind the decision.

"In summary, the department is, and was, aware of the 2012 FEMA Flood Insurance Study, but considered multiple factors in arriving at its decision to not raise the road. The Department did not believe raising the roadway was warranted prior to Hurricane Irma. The Department believes the effects of Hurricane Irma in essence validate that decision," Olson's email stated.

tit-for-tat retaliation by America's trading partners that could erupt into a full-blown trade war and possibly threaten the global economy.

Given how far many countries have come since the painful years of debt crises and a crushing recession, the threat posed by the tariffs struck many as an ill-considered risk.

"Tariffs threaten to strangle the global golden goose," said Mark Zandi, chief economist at Moody's Analytics. "The global economy is on the same page for the first time in over a decade. This threatens to derail it."

It remains far from clear how, exactly, the Trump administration's tariffs will be applied, which countries will be subject to them or how economically damaging the retaliation from the affected nations might prove. The president announced 25 percent tariffs on foreign steel and 10 percent tariffs on foreign aluminum. But he gave Canada and Mexico a reprieve: He exempted them from the tax temporarily — provided that they agree to renegotiate the North American Free Trade Agreement to Trump's liking.

The president has also invited other countries to try to negotiate their way out of the tariffs, though his administration has yet to explain how the appeals process will work. The lack of details about when or how individual countries could apply for waivers has only compounded the uncertainty surrounding the economic impact of the tariffs.

On Saturday, Trump tweeted anew his position that the U.S. has been abused economically by the EU: "The European Union, wonderful countries who treat the U.S. very badly on trade, are complaining about the tariffs on Steel & Aluminum. If they drop their horrific barriers & tariffs on U.S. products going in, we will likewise drop ours. Big Deficit. If not, we Tax Cars etc. FAIR!"

European nations, though, are already threatening to retaliate with tariffs of their own against such iconic American products as motorcycles, blue jeans and bourbon, among others.

Across the world, China, the world's second-largest economy after the United States, is also sending ominous signals. Beijing said it was ready to counter-punch if the U.S. tariffs hurt Chinese companies, though in a statement Friday it made no specific retaliation threat.

China's Commerce Ministry criticized Trump for acting unilaterally rather than working through the World Trade Organization. In a statement, Wang Hejun, a ministry official, warned that the tariffs "will surely have a serious impact on the normal international order."

Any trade war would upset an international economic order that has achieved stability and relative health. From Brussels to Beijing to Buenos Aires, pockets of the world had long suffered from the aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis but have been recovering steadily. Europe and Japan, both laggards for years, are at last showing steady growth.

Developing countries, too, have mostly recovered from a 2014-2015 crash in commodities prices. And the United States is enjoying a job market boom, fueled in part by the stronger global economy, rising business and consumer confidence and the sweeping tax cuts that Trump pushed through Congress.

Globally, stock markets have also posted strong gains over the past year. And inflation has remained in check.

But economists at Barclays Bank warn that this "Goldilocks scenario — solid, steady economic expansion, but not so fast as to ignite inflation — could reverse in the aftermath of Trump's tariff announcement. The tariffs themselves aren't the main problem. S&P Global Ratings notes that the United States last year imported $29 billion worth of steel and $17 billion of aluminum — a trifle given that U.S. goods imports totaled $2.4 trillion last year.

Rather, the worry is that a widening trade war with layers of retaliatory tariffs would depress global trade, which grew 4.2 percent last year, the most since 2011, on the fuel of the global economy.

The United States has much to lose from any deterioration in the economic environment. The nation's unemployment rate has remained for months at a 17-year low 4.1 percent. And employers in February added a robust 313,000 jobs — the most in any month in a year and a half.

The tariffs, economists at Northern Trust say, mark "a break from the market-friendly actions taken by President Donald Trump in his first year in office." Trump has cut taxes and reduced some regulations on businesses — policies that tend to boost company profits and bolster business confidence.

Tariffs don't work that way. They will benefit steel and aluminum producers by raising metals prices. But they will hurt the far more numerous companies and consumers that buy steel and aluminum. The Trade Partnership, a consulting firm, estimates that the tariffs would increase employment in the U.S. steel and aluminum sector by about 33,000 jobs but cost 179,000 jobs in the rest of the economy.

"A wrench has been thrown into this smoothly operating U.S. economy," says Bernard Baumohl, chief global economist at the Economic Outlook Group. If a trade war erupts, "February's powerful jobs report could prove to be one of the last gasps of an economy that has been marked by healthy employment growth and remarkably little inflation."

one independent expert, Dr. Amit Khera, a preventive cardiologist at UT Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas and a spokesman for the American Heart Association.

The drug's makers, Sanofi and Regeneron Pharmaceuticals, sponsored the study and said they would work with insurers on pricing to get the medicine to those who need it the most.

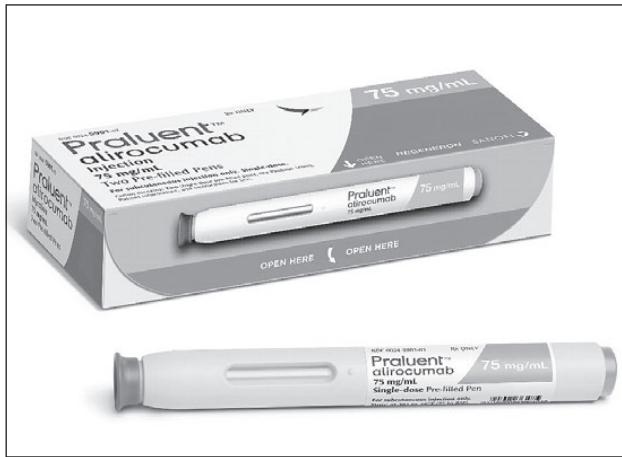

About the study

Doctors focus on lowering LDL, or bad cholesterol, to prevent heart problems. Statins are the main medicines for this, but some people can't tolerate or get enough help from them.

Praluent and a similar drug, Amgen's Repatha, work in a different way and lower cholesterol much more. Patients give themselves shots of the medicine once or twice a month. The drugs have been sold since 2015 but cost more than $14,000 a year, and insurers have balked at paying without proof that they reduce health problems, not just the cholesterol number.

Last year, a study showed Repatha cut heart problems but did not improve survival. The new study tested the rival drug, Praluent, for a longer time and in patients at higher risk — nearly 19,000 people who in the previous year had a heart attack or chest pain serious enough to put them in the hospital.

All had LDL over 70 despite maximum statin use. Half were given Praluent and the rest, dummy shots. Praluent was started at a lower dose and increased if LDL did

This undated product image provided by Sanofi shows Praluent 75 mg, a drug sold by Sanofi and Regeneron Pharmaceuticals. not drop below 50.

After nearly three years, 9.5 percent of those on Praluent and 11.1 percent of those on dummy medicine had suffered a heart attack, stroke, heart-related death or serious chest pain; 3.5 percent on Praluent and 4.1 percent on dummy medicine died.

That worked out to a 15 percent lower risk with Praluent. Benefits were greater for those whose LDL was 100 or more at the start of the study. The drug had no major safety issues.

What doctors say

"We need to reset our expectations" and realize that benefits for any new drug are going to be fairly small when added to already good treatments such as statins, said Dr. Jeffrey Kuvin, conference leader and cardiology chief at Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center. The new drugs clearly help people at high risk and are not aimed at people at low risk, such as those who have never had a heart attack, he said.

"I've been unconvinced" of the drugs' benefits but now may prescribe them for certain very high risk patients, said Duke University cardiologist Dr. Christopher Granger. But preventing fewer than one heart problem a year at the drug's current price is not cost-effective, he said.

OUR OPINION

Cheers and jeers

Cheer: The Leesburg boys basketball team, the Wildwood girls basketball team and the Wildwood boys basketball team — all of which won state titles in recent weeks.

What are the odds of three teams within miles of each other winning state titles in the same year? We don't know either, but it's an impressive feat by an impressive collection of players and coaches.

First up was the Wildwood girls team, which dominated the competition all year and turned in a no-doubt win over Port St. Joe in the title game on Feb. 27 to earn their second straight Class 1A championship. Wildwood's all-world star, Kari Niblack, performed the way you'd expect this decorated senior to perform, carrying her team from an early deficit in the final to a win with a gaudy 28 points.

But Wildwood was no single-star team. The girls got huge contributions on both the offensive and defensive ends of the court from multiple players en route to their repeat.

Next up were the Wildwood boys. They jumped out to an 8-0 lead against Blountstown in the final on Tuesday and never trailed.

Then the Leesburg boys, the reigning state title holders, took to the court last week and showed why they remain the best in the state in their class. The Yellow Jackets won by 9 in the final over Tallahassee Rickards, capping an impressive 30-1 season. In fact, dating back to last season, Leesburg has won an eye-popping 46 of 47 games.

These young men and women, and the coaches who guided them along the way, make us proud. Congratulations to you all.

Jeer: The Florida Legislature, for failing to pass a sexual harassment bill offered by Rep. Jennifer Sullivan of Mount Dora.

Sullivan, a Republican, sponsored a House bill that would have offered the toughest protections against sexual harassment in the nation. The bill would have protected anyone working for governmental agencies, including the House and the Senate, all state employees, legislative members, lobbyists and employees of third parties contracted by government agencies. It also required any supervisors who have direct knowledge of sexual harassment to take immediate action or risk consequences, it ensured the utmost confidentiality, required employee and public officer training, required that suspected criminal conduct is reported to law enforcement, prohibited retaliation or false reporting and assured that victims get access to help.

Sexual misconduct has long been a problem in the state Capitol, an issue punctuated by three high-profile resignations leading up to the session, according to the Associated Press.

Republican Sen. Jack Latvala stepped down after an investigation found evidence of sexual misconduct, Democratic Sen. Jeff Clemens resigned after admitting to an extramarital affair with a lobbyist and Public Service Commission appointee Ritch Workman stepped down after a senator accused him of touching her inappropriately.

But the Legislature, being the good old boy club that it is, refused to hold its members to a standard that the rest of society, and private workplaces statewide, are embracing. That standard: keep your hands and your perverse thoughts to yourself. Apparently, that's too much to ask of these guys. Shame on them.

Banning assault weapons just a Band-Aid

There is a cry to ban assault weapons. This is like putting a Band-Aid over a cancerous tumor. It makes you feel like you did something while ignoring the underlying disease.

Would a law be passed that by a certain date everyone must surrender any firearm that meets a certain description? How would this be enforced? I'm sure some folks would give up their guns, but others would resist. Would police or even soldiers go house to house searching for "assault weapons?" In civics class, I learned that in order to search someone's home there must be a warrant showing probable cause, but these are innocent people.

Meanwhile, nothing has been done about the government agencies that ignored the blatant warning signs about this individual, nor has anything been mentioned about the mindless video games where our children spend hours trying to kill people to earn the highest score. When I was a child no one ever thought we would be killed while in school.

Until our culture changes, the only way to protect our children is by having armed defenders in schools.

Other nations won't sit around and accept tariffs

If the United States

imposes tariffs, other nations aren't going to sit around and just accept it. They are going to impose retaliatory tariffs of their own. US exports aren't going to go up, they are going to go down and the trade deficit will get worse. While this is happening, prices will be going up for consumers and people will be losing their jobs in industries that are being hit with retaliatory tariffs, especially the steel and aluminum industries. Companies aren't going to buy American because of the tariffs. This can't be emphasized enough.

They will raise their prices and pass along that increase to consumers. A country simply can't just trade-war itself out of a trade deficit. Trump doesn't understand the economic implications of his own policy and continues to defend a policy that is destined to fail.

Now with Cohn leaving, this situation will only get worse.

PROMISE program needs to be terminated

The direct cause of the Stoneman Douglas High School tragedy was the failure and corruption of government at all levels: FBI, Broward County Sheriff and the Broward County School District.

It was all about the money. The sheriff and School District were complying with the PROMISE program by not reporting and acting on student criminal activity. This allowed the school district to receive more state and federal funds because they had such a stellar record of significant reductions in student crime statistics. Of course, student criminal activity was very low, because the crimes were not reported or recorded.

The police were called to the home of Nikolas Cruz 39 times since 2010. The many instances of lawless actions by Cruz, now a mass murderer, should have resulted in a jail sentence and certainly prevented access to a gun. But the behavior was ignored and there were no consequences. It was not sloppy police practices. It was not a communication issue. It was a standard policy.

Furthermore, the sheriff ignored the numerous tips about Cruz being a time bomb, because doing so would have affected the PROMISE metrics and reduced the money flow. Since Cruz did not have a criminal record he passed the NICS background check.

The PROMISE program is in Broward and Miami-Dade counties. Is it in any other counties in Florida? This program needs to be terminated. How many more time bombs like Nikolas Cruz are out there that can potentially create another tragedy? We don't know who they are, because the PROMISE program does not report student criminal behavior.

Hard to keep up with the dysfunction in the White House

Choice Edwards

Too much dysfunction, lies, scandal, corruption, obstruction, collusion and Stormy Daniels emanate from the Trump White House that it is impossible to keep up. It is like trying to contain liquid in a sieve. It is difficult to know where Trump stands on an issue for more than one news day because he is apt to contradict himself in the same sentence.

The president was taught early on by Roy Cohn to lie aggressively, rebuff criticism and to double down when caught. His penchant for lying will trip him up if he ever testifies under oath. If the way this part-time-full time-golfer-president orchestrates his administration is reflective of his business administration, no wonder he has been hauled into court and successfully sued so often.

The president's supporters love to point to his "successes." He got a Supreme Court justice and signed a tax bill that has to yet be proven beneficial for most Americans; I hope it does. As the president says, "We'll see what happens." Trump is riding the economic wave started under his predecessor, President Barack Obama, who had

The miracle of capitalism and the golden calf of socialism

Russ Sloan

One of the greatest stories in the Bible describes the gullibility of men and women. The story is found in Exodus and describes the miracles performed by God through Moses in gaining the release of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt under Pharaoh. It is a prime example of human gullibility that continues to this day.

As you read this, imagine that you are among the Israelites living in bondage under the rule of Pharaoh. Moses meets with Pharaoh seeking the release of his people. God has hardened the heart of Pharaoh and as a result the 10 plagues described in the Bible fall upon the people of Egypt. We know that when the 10th plague hit and the first born of every Egyptian, including the son of Pharaoh died, Pharaoh finally let the Israelites leave.

He soon changed his mind and seeking vengeance pursued them as they crossed the Red Sea, which God had parted, allowing their escape. Pharaoh's army tried to follow but the sea closed down upon his troops, destroying them and ending their pursuit. Now on

Best thing Trump can do is ignore April 4th

Leonard Pitts

I am not looking forward to April 4th. In fact, I've been dreading it for months. April 4th is, of course, the 50th anniversary of the day Martin Luther King was murdered in Memphis. As such, it is one of those days when a president is called upon for wise words of summation and honor. Unfortunately, the president to whom that task now falls is Donald Trump. The churning in my stomach at the remembrance of that fact is a visceral reminder of just how much President Obama spoiled us all. Particularly African Americans. For eight years, through black folks' milestones and tragedies, the one thing we could depend upon was that our joy and pain would be reflected back to us and communicated out from us with compassion, insight and eloquence. When we commemorated the 50th anniversary of Bloody Sunday, President Obama reminded us how the sacrifices of ordinary people on an ordinary bridge venerated freedom and inspired the unfree around the world. When we mourned Rev. Clementa Pinckney and eight other people massacred in a church for the crime of being black, he reminded us how amazing is grace. Nearly every time black people needed him to speak to our sorrows, history or aspirations, Barack Obama rose to the occasion. Now April 4th looms and it occurs to me there is literally nothing Donald Trump can say that will be equal to the moment. Maybe someone will write him some eloquent words and he'll read them with that stilted cadence and squinty glare he uses when trying to seem presidential. Or maybe he'll point out that there were "some very fine people on both sides" of the civil rights movement. It doesn't matter. One will be as meaningless as the other. He will fall short of the moment, not because he is white, _ either President Bill Clinton or President George W. Bush would certainly do a fine job _ but rather, because he is Trump. He has no credibility here. By contrast, President Obama seemed tailored for such moments, as if sent from some celestial Central Casting to testify to the possibilities and potential inherent in black lives _ as if built in some lab to remind African Americans to persevere and dream because ... look what can happen when we do. Sadly, the guy who replaced him is a reminder, too: America is still America. And in America, a thrice-married white guy can support an accused child molester, reportedly pay off porn stars, muse about being president for life and support confiscating guns without due process, yet remain, for many of us, morally preferable to a black guy who has been married to the same woman going on 26 years, never supported a child molester, never paid off a porn star, always respected the peaceful transfer of power and never spoke of confiscating guns, much less without due process. The same people who professed to find sinister tidings in the black guy's birth certificate, childhood and work as a community organizer cheer the white guy as he daily soils himself and the Oval Office. Martin Luther King would have known exactly what to make of such moral hypocrisy. So the best thing Trump can do for us on April 4th is to ignore it. Go golfing at Mar-a-Lago. Give Stormy Daniels a ring. Have some cake. Meantime, the rest of us will honor the radical prophet who died calling on America to vindicate its noble promises _ something America still struggles to do, 50 years later. Yes, by the simple fact of his existence, Barack Obama reminds us how far we've come toward that goal. But Trump reminds us how very far we have yet to go.

Only fools believe North Korea

Cal Thomas

To what shall North Korea's latest pronouncement to give up its nuclear weapons in exchange for certain "security" guarantees be compared? Choose from one of the following familiar promises: Of course I'll respect you in the morning; I promise to pay you back; I'm from the government and I'm here to help. There are more but you get the idea. It has always been this way with North Korea. It reaches an agreement and then breaks it when it suits, only to use the period when the agreement is in force to violate it and then create a false pretext to nullify it, all the while continuing to build a nuclear arsenal. North Korea then reaches another agreement, which, again, it violates and the cycle continues. If North Korea were applying for a loan, no bank would lend it a dime because of its deplorable credit rating, yet the West, which often appears to bank more on hope than reality, continues to dole out food and other aid hoping good intentions change Pyongyang's behavior. The Arms Control Association (ACA), "a national nonpartisan membership organization dedicated to promoting public understanding of and support for effective arms control policies," has compiled a list of North Korea's broken promises and behavior that includes selling missile and nuclear technology to Iran and other enemies of the United States. The list runs 37 pages. Here's just one of the items posted to ACA's website: "In 1994, faced with North Korea's announced intent to withdraw from the nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty (NPT), which requires non-nuclear weapon states to forswear the development and acquisition of nuclear weapons, the United States and North Korea signed the Agreed Framework. Under this agreement, Pyongyang committed to freezing its illicit plutonium weapons program in exchange for aid. "Following the collapse of this agreement in 2002, North Korea claimed that it had withdrawn from the NPT in January 2003 and once again began operating its nuclear facilities." The pattern repeated again in 2003, the ACA found, during the Six-Party Talks involving the U.S., North Korea, China, Russia, South Korea and Japan. After two years of stalemate and one crisis after another, North Korea pledged in 2005 to abandon "all nuclear weapons and existing weapons programs" and promised to return to the NPT agreement. By 2009, after what by then had become familiar disagreements over inspections leading to verification that North Korea was living up to its promises, Pyongyang violated the 2005 agreement by launching missiles and vowing never to return to talks, a pledge it repeated until this latest reported promise to hold new talks about abandoning its nuclear weapons. Last November, President Trump properly returned North Korea to the list of state sponsors of terrorism. Pyongyang had been there before, but was removed from the list in 2008. Not that it had stopped sponsoring terrorism, but the West does these sorts of things from time to time, falsely believing that what free people do affects the behavior of tyrants and dictators. Apparently, we have forgotten that communists lie as a matter of policy (and they aren't the only ones, as we have seen with Islamic fundamentalist regimes). Assuming North Korea is now serious about talks following Kim Jong-un's promise to never abandon his nukes (that promise is more credible), what is likely to come of it? If history proves anything — and it does — the answer is nothing that will benefit South Korea, the rest of Asia and most especially the United States. But it will make us feel good for "trying." Kim knows this. It's probably why he will lead us down this dark road again, only to get mugged at the end of it.

the responsibility to bring the United States and the world economy out of the great recession brought on by Wall Street, robbing Americans of life savings, in financial ruin and economic chaos. And now a trade war? This administration has rolled back safety regulations that will put Americans' physical and financial health and even lives in jeopardy, but, like insufficient health care and sexually assaulting females, it is apparently a Republican family value. The extreme weather denier is brain-dead to the rise in sea levels even though Antarctica and Greenland are shown by 25 years of satellite photos to be accelerating. We'll never see those patented tax returns that apparently the brightest minds and best software at the IRS cannot get a handle on. They are too damaging and incriminating. The office presents too much exposure. There will be more scandals at the White House or this administration; Trump's finances and taxes will cause him to resign the position of president of the United States. The president's character is best known by his past. He brags about abusing and assaulting women and finds no fault with other creditably-accused abusers even when faced with evidence compiled by the FBI in the example of Rob Porter. He has sycophants in the White House who do not have the required FBI clearance to have access to national security documents. Who knew working in government would be so demanding? These people need to lawyer up because so many clearance snafus indicate these people are dishonest and flawed. I have been through it, it doesn't take years. Trump is guilty of mishandling the nation's security. "Lock him up, lock him up, lock him up!" He promised to drain the swamp of Wall Streeters and lobbyist. He has drained them directly into the White House he calls a dump. His administration is rife with supposed fiscally conservative cabinet secretaries who "can't recall" when testifying, and love to live lavishly on the taxpayers' dollar with expensive and questionable travel. Their actions reflect those of the president because they too appear to enrich themselves by public "service." His please-be-my-friend, Vladimir Putin, according to the intelligence community both domestic and foreign, cyber attacked our election process but Trump has donenichego about it. Why is Trump compromised? If protecting America is job #1, shouldn't Trump be impeached? Where are the Republican patriots on Trump's refusal to punish Russia? The whole administration provides much laughter, but then when you hire a clown you expect a circus. And this one has more than the three-ring kind; you cannot wait to arise the next day to see what hilarity, criminality, ineptness and embarrassment they are up to. As he said, "You knew I was a snake before you took me in."

a barren desert, God fed and gave them water so that they could survive. Here is when the breakdown of faith rears its ugly head. Moses goes up on Mount Sinai to receive God's 10 Commandments. He is gone 40 days and 40 nights, but returns to his people praying before a golden calf. My question: If you had witnessed all of the miracles initiated by God through Moses that led to your release, been fed and given water in a barren desert, could you have not kept the faith for 40 days and nights? This story of the Exodus really hit home with me when I saw the British people vote Winston Churchill out of office in the first election after defeating Hitler in World War II. Churchill had been the Moses of his time in rallying his people against Hitler during the darkest times in their history. The British turned to the golden calf of socialism in electing Clement Attlee of the Labour Party (democratic socialists) as prime minister. That decision turned out to initiate the beginning of the socialistic welfare state in England. The United States was formed as a self-governing Republic with an economy founded on capitalism. Capitalism has brought Americans the highest living standard in the world, enabled us to prevail in two world wars and forced the Soviet Union to crumble. No nation in human history has provided more individual upward mobility and entrepreneurship has flourished under capitalism. So why, after seeing with our own eyes the tremendous miracles fostered by capitalism, would a segment of our population (primarily millennials) believe that socialism is preferable? This is the same population base that was attracted to socialist Bernie Sanders in the 2016 presidential campaign. Since the 2016 election, it appears that the leaders in the Democratic Party are veering further to the left towards democratic socialism. This form of socialism believes that government knows what is best for you and takes more of your tax dollars to spend as they see fit. Small nations such as Norway, Sweden and Denmark have opted for this kind of socialism but do so knowing that America is their military umbrella enabling them to be free. Americans bear the financial burden for protecting itself and the free world. Capitalism is not perfect and we've learned that we need anti-trust laws, prohibiting price fixing and passing laws that protect consumers against unscrupulous businesses. But capitalism, American style, has fostered entrepreneurship bringing to the world inventions of immense value to people's daily lives. Since our birth as a nation the vast majority of the most significant beneficial inventions for mankind have originated in America. The collective creativity of all socialistic countries combined cannot begin to measure up to the creative genius of American capitalism. Yet, we have about half of our millennials saying they would rather live in a socialist or communist country. Mirroring the gullibility of the Israelites, millennials have seen the miracles of capitalism but now want to pray before the golden calf of socialism. Where have we failed?

Live in Dallas design expert's world

Pops of color at a residence in the Ritz-Carlton in Dallas.

A design expert and longtime patron of the arts, Moll Anderson has an eye for style and a passion for color. Her most recent book illustrates the importance of color as it relates to a particular space, and how to incorporate it into the home. We spoke to the former TV personality, bestselling author and mother of four about Pantone's 2018 Color of the Year, Ultra Violet, and picked her brain on where to find the best showrooms, art galleries and restaurants in the city.

Moll Anderson's latest book, "Change Your Home, Change Your Life with Color," is a national bestseller. [COURTESY MOLL ANDERSON]

How are we seeing Ultra Violet in design? What differentiates this hue from the typical purple?

Violet embodies everything from spirituality, creativity and romance to wealth, pride and elegance. It's important to understand that we have emotional connections to colors (that are) defined by our childhood memories, both the good and the bad, right up until this very moment. If Ultra Violet speaks to your emotions in a positive manner, then you should definitely bring the color into your home and life.

How (and where) do you get your retail therapy fix?

Dallas has become quite the fashion mecca in the past few years. Highland Park Village is such a beautiful experience for shopping and eating. The Tot (children's store) has become a go-to since our family started growing. Forty Five Ten (boutique) is like art for our bodies and Neiman Marcus is my classic designer fix. Both are a deadly combination, being across the street from each other on Main Street (downtown). NorthPark Center has become an amazing place to shop. They really know how to cater to "family shopping" — when you have to get everything from a pair of Nike tennis shoes to a Hublot watch.

Last but not least, Mecox (home furnishings store) is my home away from home.

What are your top showrooms or galleries in the Dallas Design District? Why?

There's Christopher Martin — (my husband and I) love and own his work. Michelle Nussbaumer pours her heart and soul into Ceylon et Cie.

Springtime in Texas translates to "patio season." Which are your faves for lunch, happy hour or weekend brunch?

My go-to's are Bullion, Grange Hall, Mirador, Le Bilboquet and, soon, Park House.

American sounds

Discover new music in these traditional and unexpected cities

By Jasmyn Snipes
WhereTraveler.com

Music is an integral part of many of the world's cultures, and America is no exception. These cities all have music in common; there are tunes from every genre available among these top musical cities. Grab your headphones, pack a bag, and discover new sounds and performers across the country.

New Orleans

The birthplace of jazz continues its musical legacy. Preservation Hall opened in 1961 and has more than 100 local artists specializing in traditional New Orleans jazz. Looking for more modern tunes? Feel the funk at The Spotted Cat Music Club.

Experimental? Try Fritzel's European Jazz Club.

Athens, Georgia

Rock-n-roll, acoustic pop, jazz and country: Athens has it all. Get your feet moving to country music at 40 Watt's "Boot Scootin'" line dance party, or for those who prefer coffee or cocktails with their tunes, Hendershot's has you covered. To get a mix of local and national artists visit The Foundry, Athens' historic music venue.

Nashville, Tennessee

Calling Nashville one of the most musical cities in America is an understatement, as it's arguably one of the most musical cities in the world. The Music City holds the title "Songwriting Capital of the World," which it continues to deliver on. When in Nashville, a tour of Ryman Auditorium is a must, and Mercy Lounge is a lesser-known but equally captivating venue.

Richmond, Virginia

This historic city is known for its rich arts culture. Bigger and more well-known venues, like The National, feature local and national artists ranging from R&B and hip-hop to rock and country. For more intimate performances visit The Camel. The city also hosts an annual jazz festival in August.

Los Angeles

Catch the street performers on Venice Beach, or head into places like The Satellite, which hosts rising bands. To get the full L.A. nightlife experience, try The Mint nightclub.

Harlem, New York City

Harlem is home to the famous Apollo, where you can hear national performers or participate in amateur night. Experience legendary Harlem sounds at Minton's Playhouse and Ginny's Supper Club, and listen to music that'll move your soul at Paris Blues Jazz Club or Shrine Music Venue.

Portland, Oregon

To get a sense of Portland's eccentric personality and laid-back atmosphere, stop into Mississippi Studios. Enjoy electro-pop on a heated patio or view performances closer to the stage, near the bar. If you want an even more close-knit performance, jam out to the DJs at Valentines.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Take your turn at the mic at Dick's Tap and Shake-Room's karaoke night, or if you prefer leave it to the professionals. Dick's features various bands, and Thursday nights are vinyl nights. Cedar River Landings offers live entertainment every weekend, and in the summer and fall it has an outdoor stage.

Local educators travel to learning disabilities workshop in India

Staff Report

MUMBAI, India — Beacon College educators took the school's innovative learning model on the road to Mumbai in February for an inaugural workshop on learning disabilities for Indian educators.

Organized by The Next Genius Foundation, an Indian charitable trust that boosts inclusive access to higher education, the Learning Disabilities Workshop 2018 aimed to quench the thirst for tools and classroom strategies of Indian educators who serve LD students. About 80 participants attended the Feb. 3 event staged at the Oberoi International School in Mumbai.

"There is a dearth of professional training for educators working with LD students in India," Neeraj Mandhana, managing trustee of The Next Genius Foundation, observed in the workshop's brochure.

Such professional enrichment is increasingly critical in India. In 2013, a team of researchers from the University of Melbourne concluded that every classroom in the country likely contained two or three children with learning disabilities. In all, the team estimated 10 percent of all children there live with learning disabilities.

Co-sponsored by Beacon College, Bass Educational Services LLC., Curry College and the Gow School, the workshop featured five sessions. Beacon President George Hagerty, Dale Herold, the school's vice president of admissions and enrollment management, and Oksana Hagerty, a learning specialist, were featured speakers.

George Hagerty opened the seminar with his talk, "The Higher Education Pathway for Students Who Learn Differently." To serve LD students effectively, he said, educators must cling to "the expectation that an island of challenge will not define the landscape of one's life."

In Oksana Hagerty's presentation, "The Learning Specialist as a Facilitator of Learning: Implications for International Students with Learning and Attention Issues," she spelled out the roles and relationship of learning specialists to LD students.

Learning specialists, she said, provide individualized academic assistance through weekly hour-long one-on-one sessions and three hours of weekly community learning time. This affords students time for feedback and openings to receive assistance.

Participants then had the opportunity to pepper Beacon's contingent with practical questions.

According to India's 2011 Census, about 27 million people with disabilities live in India. That's 2.21 percent of the population. And while the movement to sensitize Indians to the realities of learning disabilities began in earnest 55 years ago, the plight of those with disabilities only received promising legislative remedies two years ago.

That came with the passage of the Right of Persons with Disabilities Bill. It mandated prison time and fines for discriminating against the differently-abled. The list of recognized disabilities also expanded from seven to 21.

Advocates hailed the progressive measure as succor for Indians suffering from an array of conditions or living with learning disabilities.

Plans for a second annual workshop are in the works. Herold said Beacon College plans to keep exporting its expertise in educating LD students to India and elsewhere around the globe.

Dressing for success

Beacon College senior Matt Berger discusses job prospects with a recruiter from Manpower Inc. at the annual Beacon College job fair. [SUBMITTED]

Beacon College students look for opportunities at annual job fair

Staff Report

LEESBURG — Matt Berger knows the value of a good suit.

"One thing that I've learned over the years is that you dress for success," he says. "If you wear a good suit, they notice."

Dressed in his two-button gray business suit, Berger hoped the companies and organizations on hand Wednesday for Beacon College's annual job fair would take notice of his sartorial flair and his gussied-up resume.

"Organizations always need people who can adapt to diverse situations and circumstances," said Esteban Lopez, director of corporate and academic outreach at Beacon College in Leesburg. "Individuals who learn differently can possess such abilities because they regularly must think creatively about matters that people without such impairments take for granted, such as how to solve problems and accomplish even the simplest tasks."

The college hosted recruiters from 15 regional employers: Aflac, Barker Law Office, Blue Green Vacations, CareerSource Central Florida, Central Florida Disability Chamber of Commerce, Central Florida Health, Faneuil, Fry's Lyon Project, Leesburg Regional Medical Center, LifeStream, Manpower, Massey Services, Morrison Pre School, Orlando Utilities Commission and The Salvation Army.

Such an eclectic and expansive showing of companies affords students invaluable opportunities to "make good contacts with employers," noted Dinorah Ramos, director of the Career Development Center.

Berger, a senior business management major who is graduating in May, was eager to show recruiters he was the problem-solver their companies needed.

Aflac offered him the prospect of finding flexible opportunities in his field. Blue Green offered a path into the hotel industry, he said, while Manpower explained employment prospects were bright both locally and in New Jersey from where Berger hails.

Lopez said the large contingent of companies that came to recruit on Beacon's campus owes to greater awareness of the bleak employment prospects of Floridians with disabilities.

Two years ago, a Florida Chamber Foundation study found that 76.3 percent of Floridians with a cognitive disability were unemployed.

"Yet many of them desperately desire to earn a paycheck, become independent, and recompense society with their work, while enriching organization and its workforce in many ways," Lopez said.

These citizens, he said, could bring a passionate work ethic and an invaluable creativity to the workplace.

Montverde Academy robotics students donate drone

Staff Report

MONTVERDE — Sheriff Peyton Grinnell and members of the Lake County Sheriff's Office received the donation of a Phantom 3 drone from Montverde Academy's robotics team students.

As part of their Vex Robotics Stem Research Project, robotics students researched ways in which robots can help local law enforcement. Through their research, they determined that drones can help with securing an area, and when equipped with a camera, can collect data from a safe distance helping officers make better-informed decisions.

Student Ethan Kaufman demonstrates the Phantom 3 drone's capabilities while explaining to the officers how to control it. The Montverde Academy robotics team donated a drone to the Lake County Sheriff's Office as part of a research project and fundraising effort. [SUBMITTED]

Shaylan Ramlall, CJ Rosado, Shreyas Shakhmoori, Matthew Tollini and Christopher

Vitito, took their project a step further. They raised funds to provide the Lake County Sheriff's Office with the donation of a Phantom 3 drone.

Lake County officers met the students at the Lake County Sheriff Gun Range to have a wide open space to test drive the drone. Ethan Kaufman, an 8th grade student, walked Bomb Squad and Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) team members through the drone's capabilities. The officers and students discussed the variety of ways that the drone would be useful in crisis situations as the drone buzzed above, demonstrating its maneuverability. Lake County officers plan to use the technology in situations that occur locally as well as regionally, as the SWAT team is often called to assist in emergencies throughout Lake County.

"We are very proud of the MVA Robotics students for their accomplishments and are grateful for this contribution," said Lake County Sheriff Peyton Grinnell. "Technology is a major component of law enforcement and this drone will be very useful in a variety of situations."

The team hopes to continue gathering data from the department about the drone's effectiveness in order to share their findings about the use of drone technology with other first responders. Their research project won the Florida State Championship STEM Award, which earned them the opportunity to present this project in Kentucky at the World Championship competition in April.

Harvick chasing 3rd straight win

By John Nicholson
Associated Press

AVONDALE, Ariz. — Kevin Harvick left everyone else behind the last two weeks in Atlanta and Las Vegas. He figures to be even harder to beat today at ISM Raceway, the mile oval in the foothills outside Phoenix where he has a record eight victories.

Trying to become the first driver to win three straight NASCAR Cup races since Joey Logano in 2015, Harvick topped the speed charts for both practice sessions Saturday. Fittingly, the 2014 season champion's No. 4 Stewart-Haas Racing Ford has a Jimmy John's "Freaky Fast!" paint scheme.

"When things are going good, you need to hammer it home," Harvick said. "Let's just keep pushing things forward and try not to stumble along the way and screw up what's going on. To me, it feels a lot like 2014, except now you've got a team with five years of experience, and that's pretty scary."

Yes, it is.
"In Atlanta, we kind of chalked it up to Kevin being probably the best driver at Atlanta and we just thought it was Atlanta and he is typically fast there," said Logano, the 2016 Phoenix fall winner. "Vegas was one of those things where we all thought, 'Wow, maybe it wasn't just Atlanta.' Phoenix has always been a good track for him as well. It takes a few weeks to realize where you stand. I think we are in good shape so far, but I do think that he is a solid step in front of everybody right now."

Lake Minneola, Tavares win district lifting titles

Staff Report

Tavares and Lake Minneola scored district wins in boys weightlifting on Friday.

Tavares had seven first-place finishers while winning its Class 1A district at The Villages with 71 points and qualifying 15 lifters for regional competition.

Eustis and Belleview tied for second with 32 points and Mount Dora and The Villages tied for fourth with 21 points. Umatilla finished sixth with 18 points and Mount Dora Christian Academy was seventh with 14.

Leading the way for Tavares was Nikolas Gonzalez, who completed an impressive 295-pound clean and jerk on the way to winning the 183-pound weight class.

Other winners for Tavares were Christian Kilfoyle (119 pounds), Kaleb Leafers (129 pounds), Kamron Patterson (139 pounds), Zachary Money (154 pounds), Andrew Todtenhagen (169 pounds), and John Douglas (unlimited).

Tavares is now 8-0 this season.

Return of the roars

Woods closes to within 1 shot of Canadian rookie Connors

PALM HARBOR — Tiger Woods chipped in from behind the ninth green and the roar was unmistakable, the tree-rattling variety that belongs to only one player in golf. Moments later, Woods raised the putter in his left hand as another birdie putt dropped for a share of the lead at the Valspar Championship.

Corey Connors heard the whole round and it made him smile.

Never mind that Connors had six birdies in his round of 3-under 68 for a one-shot lead Saturday as he tries for his first PGA Tour victory. Even the players trying to beat Woods got swept up in the emotions of seeing him closer than ever to having a chance to win again.

"I can confirm he's back. The roars are back," said Brandt Snedeker, who was along for the ride with Woods and matched his 67. "It's fun to hear the crowd going crazy again and realize how excited we are in having him back out here and play the way he is. He's playing great."

Connors, the Canadian rookie in only his 17th start on the PGA Tour as a pro, saved par from the bunker on the par-3 17th and kept his cool when his ball moved slightly on the 18th green — no longer a penalty in those circumstances — before he tapped in for par.

He was at 9-under 204 and will play with Justin Rose (66), who joined Woods and Snedeker at one shot behind.

For the second straight day, Woods and his thousands upon thousands of fans will be ahead of him.

So he at least knows what to expect.

CLEVELAND IS MAKING SOME BIG CHANGES

Report: A's sign former Umatilla star Lucroy

By Martin Gallegos
Tribune News Service

MARYVALE, Ariz. — The A's dipped into free agency to grab All-Star catcher Jonathan Lucroy, who reportedly will sign a one-year deal with Oakland.

MLB.com's Jane Lee reported the A's are bringing in the 31-year-old former Umatilla High standout to help solve some of the team's catching issues the past couple of years.

Lucroy struggled with the Texas Rangers last season before getting dealt to the Colorado Rockies in July, where he hit .310 in 46 games. Normally one of the game's top offensive catchers, Lucroy combined to hit just .265/.345/.371 with six home runs and 40 RBIs in 423 at-bats.

No terms of the deal were immediately announced. A's general manager David Forst walked by a group of reporters during Friday's game as he was leaving for a flight back to Oakland, but chose not to give comment when asked about the deal.

The A's seemed ready to go with Bruce Maxwell as their starting catcher this season, with Josh Phegley serving in a semi-platoon role. Maxwell is batting .231 in six games this spring, while Phegley is at .333 through six.

Manager Bob Melvin chose not to comment specifically on the Lucroy deal after Friday's 2-0 win over the Brewers. But after referring to Maxwell and Phegley as a "good tandem," he did seem to intimate that the A's young starters could benefit from a veteran catcher. Lucroy, who will be entering his ninth year in the big leagues, certainly fits that bill.

"You're always looking to upgrade at any position," Melvin said. "We do have a

LSSC splits first two conference games

St. Johns river broke open a close game in the late innings to defeat Lake-Sumter State College 9-3 on Saturday at Lakehawk Field.

LSSC (9-17, 1-1) could only manage five hits in the game, two by Robbie Scott. St. Johns starter Elijah Gill went 7.2 innings and gave up only two hits and two unearned runs. Leading 4-2 through six innings, St. Johns put the game away with two runs in the seventh and three in the eighth. Jarrett Backus drove in two runs for LSSC.

The win was a measure of revenge for St. Johns after LSSC opened the conference season against them with a 10-9 win in 11 innings on Friday. Collin Teegarden led the way for LSSC with two hits, including a home run, and three RBIs. Scott added two hits and two RBIs.

Kyle Wiseman pitched 4.2 innings of shutout relief to earn the win. Wiseman gave up three hits and a walk while striking out six.

Keselowski overcomes penalty to win Xfinity race

By John Nicholson
 Associated Press

AVONDALE, Ariz. — Brad Keselowski overcame an early pit-road speeding penalty Saturday to win the rain-delayed NASCAR Xfinity Series at ISM Raceway.

Keselowski took the lead from Christopher Bell off a pit stop with 32 laps left and pulled away in the race that was delayed two hours because of light rain at the mile oval southwest of Phoenix.

Keselowski was caught speeding during the caution period following a rain delay of 1 hour, 35 minutes. The 200-lap race was delayed again for 25 minutes just before the end of the first 45-lap segment.

Keselowski has 37 Xfinity victories, also winning the 2014 fall race in Phoenix. The Cup driver has won his last two Xfinity starts, taking the Richmond event last year.

Justin Allgaier, the pole-winner and defending race champion, finished second — 0.530 seconds back. He won the first 45-lap stage.

Kucherov shootout goal leads Lightning past Canadiens

The Associated Press

TAMPA — Nikita Kucherov scored the deciding goal in the fourth round of the shootout Saturday to lift the Tampa Bay Lightning to a 3-2 victory against the Montreal Canadiens.

Tyler Johnson scored his 20th of the season. Kucherov tied it late in the third with his 34th goal of the season. Louis Domingue made 27 saves and stopped three of four shooters in the shootout.

Brayden Point also scored in the shootout for Tampa Bay, his 10th conversion in 15 career shootout attempts.

Artturi Lehkonen and Alex Galchenyuk scored for Montreal. Charles Hudon set a career high with two assists.

Antti Niemi finished with 32 saves, including all three in overtime.

Montreal opened the scoring on the power play when a shot by Hudon was blocked but the rebound went right to Lehkonen, who fired a one-timer past Domingue at 4:10 for his sixth goal of the season.

Vegas 2, Buffalo 1

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Erik Haula scored the decisive shootout goal and the Vegas Golden Knights set an NHL record for road victories by an expansion team following a 2-1 win over the Buffalo Sabres on Saturday.

Golden Knights defenseman Deryk Engelland forced overtime by scoring the tying goal from a bad angle with 4:14 left in regulation. Marc-Andre Fleury won his 399th career game by stopping 31 shots through overtime.

After both teams traded shootout goals, Haula scored in the fifth round by driving up the right side and beating goalie Robin Lehner on the short side.

Justin Bailey scored for Buffalo. Lehner finished with 31 saves in the loss.

The Pacific Division-leading Golden Knights improved their road record to 20-12-3, to beat the league record of 19 set by Anaheim in 1993-94, their inaugural season.

The Golden Knights, 44-19-5, have already set NHL expansion-team records for most overall wins, home wins, points and longest winning streak — an 8-0 run from Dec. 14 to Jan. 2.

The Golden Knights were in jeopardy of being shut out for the fourth time this season before Engelland tied the game.

Boston 7, Chicago 4

BOSTON — The Boston Bruins found different ways to win during their perfect homestand.

Brian Gionta and Rick Nash scored power-play goals just over a minute apart, and the Bruins beat the Chicago Blackhawks 7-4 on Saturday to finish their homestand at 6-0. The goals came during a double-minor penalty on Chicago's Patrick Kane.

Coming off a 3-2 victory against Philadelphia, the Bruins scored four power-play goals and one shorthanded. They also won games by scores of 2-1, 8-4 and 6-5 during the streak.

Jake DeBrusk set up two power-play goals by David Krejci. David Pastrnak scored, Noel Acciari had a shorthanded tally and Sean Kuraly added an empty-netter for Boston.

Tuukka Rask made 23 saves on his 31st birthday.

Philadelphia 2, Winnipeg 1

PHILADELPHIA — Claude Giroux and Andrew MacDonald scored in the second period and the Philadelphia Flyers overcame Patrik Laine's 40th goal of the season in a 2-1 victory over the Winnipeg Jets on Saturday that snapped a five-game losing streak.

Laine moved into a tie with Washington's Alex Ovechkin for the most goals in the league when he scored on a one-timer on the power play at 8:58 of the third period. The 19-year-old Finn has 15 goals and six assists during an 11-game point streak.

But Petr Mrazek stopped 27 shots for the Flyers, bouncing back from a stretch of 18 goals allowed in four games.

Connor Hellebuyck made 33 saves for the Jets, who saw their four-game winning streak end.

Mrazek robbed Laine with a glove save in the first period, then the Flyers took control in the second period, with their second goal coming in odd fashion.

IN BRIEF

SAN DIEGO Enberg remembered for long career, catchphrase

Screenwriter Bobby Herbeck was watching the Golf Channel recently when some highlights from some late 1990s broadcasts came on, including a few punctuated by the trademark catchphrase of his pal Dick Enberg — “Oh, my!”

“He’s not gone. He’s still here,” Herbeck told the crowd at a celebration of life service Saturday for Enberg, who died of a heart attack on Dec. 21 at 82. “That’s the beauty of this. Olympics, baseball, Super Bowls, you name it, he did it.”

Enberg was fondly remembered by former broadcasting partners, athletes and friends on a drizzly morning at Petco Park, the downtown home of the San Diego Padres. Enberg spent the last seven years of his long, decorated career as the TV voice of the Padres from 2010-16.

“He was a true sports icon,” Padres executive chairman Ron Fowler said from the stage near second base. “My view of Dick was he was truly a man for all seasons, figuratively and literally. He did all sports. Dick was known as a world-class sports broadcaster. He was in a class by himself. I followed him all the time. I didn’t care what he was doing.”

DENVER Ex-Colorado Gov., Boston activist back Olympic vote

The former Colorado governor behind Denver’s historic snubbing of the Olympics and the man who spearheaded the effort to stop Boston from hosting the Olympics think Colorado voters should be able to weigh in on whether Denver should host the Winter Games.

Speaking at a community forum on Denver’s consideration of a possible 2030 bid on Saturday, former Gov. Dick Lamm said democracies make up their minds by voting and said lawmakers should put a referendum on the ballot this fall.

“Let’s vote,” Lamm, part of a newly formed Olympic opposition group, told the crowd of about 200.

No Boston Olympics co-chair Chris Dempsey also said Colorado voters should have a referendum, adding the International Olympic Committee “hates them.”

COLUMBIA, MO. Missouri player arrested on suspicion of DWI

Missouri forward Jordan Barnett has been arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

The Missouri University Police Department says Barnett was arrested early Saturday. The report indicated Barnett failed to drive within a single lane.

School spokesman Patrick Crawford says the athletic department is aware of the arrest but has made no comment.

Missouri (20-12) is expected to be selected for the NCAA Tournament on Sunday.

‘Letting it sink in’

After Olympic win, Chloe Kim puts fame, fun in perspective

By Eddie Pells
The Associated Press

VAIL, Colo. — In between the dozens of media appearances that have suddenly become her new day job, Chloe Kim slipped away from the lunch table, disappeared into the restroom, pulled the gold medal out of her bag ... and just sat there and stared at it.

“My parents were like, ‘Why did it take you so long?’” Kim said. “I said, ‘Just looking at it.’ I was thinking about what this means to me and letting it sink in.”

Three weeks since the 17-year-old transformed herself from a mere snowboarding sensation into a full-fledged celebrity, Kim concedes she never realized what a big deal her victory would be.

She’s just as in touch with the idea that she’s not really sure what to make of it yet, either.

“I don’t think you’re supposed to know how to feel,” she said in the lead-up to the Burton U.S. Open, where, on Saturday, she’ll go for one of the most prestigious halfpipe titles this side of the Olympics. “It’s something I’d been working on for so long that when it happened, it was, ‘What do I do now? What am I supposed to do with my life now?’”

In that respect, she’s not unlike the 100-or-so champions who emerge from the Winter Olympics every four years — niche-sports stars who suddenly find themselves with mainstream cred.

But Kim’s backstory — her folks were born and raised in South Korea, which just happened to be hosting the Olympics — to say nothing of her once-in-a-generation talent and her made-for-Instagram personality, transcends beyond that of the typical gold medalist.

It’s why, since her gold-medal run in Pyeongchang, she has graced the cover of Sports Illustrated, been on set with Jimmy Fallon and James Corden, and had her face splashed on the front of a Corn Flakes box. It’s why, within the last six days, she’s received a shout-out from Frances McDormand during the best actress’ acceptance speech at the Oscars, and also had a Barbie doll fashioned after her as part of a line of “Inspiring Women” that also includes Amelia Earhart.

“Really rad,” Kim said, before revealing this awkward truth about herself and Barbie dolls. “I personally didn’t play with dolls much. I was more into doll animals. I had a giant (stuffed) horse in my room. But I always walked by them in the store and thought they were super cool.”

With that disarming blend of authenticity and charm, it’s no wonder the sponsors are as drawn to her as her fans.

Since she left South Korea, Kim’s following on Instagram — and, yes, she keeps track — has doubled once again, to 753,000 and counting. Meanwhile, going out on the street, or going out to eat, has become more of a challenge.

“I can still go to a restaurant, you just turn a lot more heads,” Kim says. “But I hate it when people watch me eat. I literally eat like a lizard.”

Kim got into snowboarding because she loved snowboarding. Becoming famous was not part of that plan, and she says there’s a downside to it, as well.

Over the past month, she has been hounded by paparazzi: “TMZ was outside my hotel. I wasn’t expecting it at all,” she said. And she has seen the less-than-inspiring messages from people who question her American-ness because of her Asian heritage.

“It hurt to hear that,” she said. “At the same time, it feels good to represent Asian Americans who deal with that and it’s good to see the true fans who defend me and say, ‘She won a medal for America. Would you rather she did it for Korea?’”

In the lead-up to the Olympics, Kim came off, at least publicly, as much more scripted than she is now — not all that unexpected given her age and the journey she was embarking on. Something changed, beginning with her engaging, hilarious news conference after the gold medal, in which she called out her dad for his seeming lack of emotion after her win: “My dad didn’t cry, which I don’t get at all. I’m like, ‘What are you doing?’” she said.

She claims to have done 600 interviews and become so deft at the craft that “I can definitely have a 17-year-old answer, and I can have a 35-year-old answer.”

One of the “35-year-old answers” had to do with the unexpected ups and downs of becoming more famous than she ever imagined.

It had to do with the first time she ever saw an avocado.

“I didn’t want to eat it, but I ate it and it was amazing,” she said. “That’s kind of how I felt with fame. Some of it does kind of suck. One person screams your name, people come running at you and you can’t go where you want. But at the same time, you get to make those people happy, listen to their stories. I think that’s important. You meet really rad people who love what you do and have the same passion as you.”

UConn fires Ollie with school under NCAA inquiry

By Pat Eaton-Robb
The Associated Press

The combination was too much for UConn: an NCAA investigation and a second straight losing season.

All of which left coach Kevin Ollie out of a job. He was fired Saturday four years after leading the Huskies to the NCAA title.

The university said in a statement it has “initiated disciplinary procedures” and is dismissing him for “just cause.” The school says it would have no further comment until its disciplinary process and the NCAA inquiry are complete. The scope of the investigation is not clear.

“Our goal, above all, is to ensure we have a program that UConn Nation can be proud of, including our students, alumni, fans and all our committed supporters,” said Susan Herbst, the university president.

Athletic director David Benedict said it was “unfortunate that this decision became necessary.” He added that the team must be held to the “highest standards” and a search for a new coach begins immediately.

Ollie was in the second year of a five-year deal valued at $17.9 million that was signed amid reports he was a candidate for several

NBA jobs. He is not owed the remainder of his contract if fired for just cause, which includes serious NCAA violations.

Ollie spent six seasons at UConn and was an assistant under Hall of Fame coach Jim Calhoun on the 2011 NCAA title team. The team went 14-18 this season, including 7-11 in the American Athletic Conference. Ollie’s career record at UConn is 127-79.

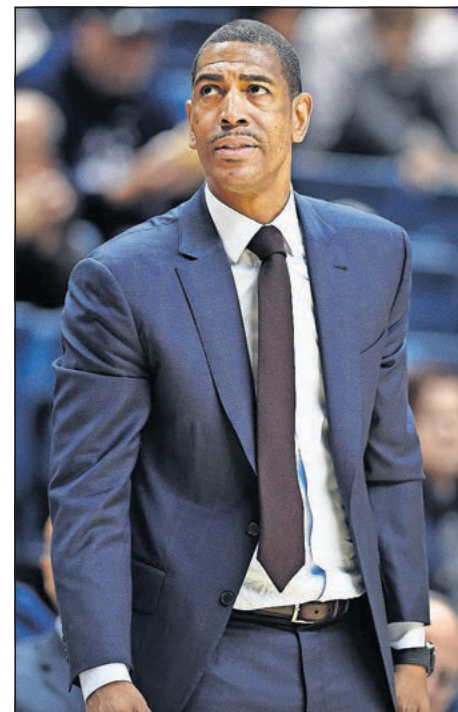

He played point guard for Calhoun from 1991-95 and played 13 seasons in the NBA before joining the UConn staff in 2010. He was his former coach’s hand-picked successor.

Ollie guided the team to a 20-win season in his first year as coach, even though the program had been declared academically ineligible for postseason play.

UConn was a seventh seed in the 2014 NCAA Tournament. It made an improbable six-game run, culminating with a 60-54 in over Kentucky in the national championship game.

The Huskies went 20-15 the following season, losing in the NIT and bounced back with a 25-11 season in 2015-16, losing in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

But UConn went 16-17 a year ago and followed that with another losing one.

Connecticut head coach Kevin Ollie was fired Saturday. He was in the second year of a five-year deal. Ollie was the hand-picked successor to Jim Calhoun. [JESSICA HILL/ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE PHOTO]

Browns agree to trades for QB Taylor, WR Landry

By Tom Withers
Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Maybe the losing and laughing will finally stop. The Browns aren't fooling around.

With three stunning trades on the eve of free agency, Cleveland landed a proven starting quarterback, a game-breaking, three-time Pro Bowl wide receiver and a shut-down cornerback.

After 16 straight losses on the field, victory.

Two months after a winless season mercifully ended, new general manager John Dorsey addressed major roster needs Friday by acquiring mobile quarterback Tyrod Taylor in a deal with Buffalo, wide receiver Jarvis Landry from Miami and cornerback Damarious Randall from Green Bay, a person with direct knowledge of the overhaul told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

Teams are not permitted to announce any trades until next week.

In exchange, the Browns shipped quarterback DeShone Kizer and swapped late-round picks with the Packers, gave the Dolphins a fourth-round pick this season and a seventh rounder in 2019 and sent the Bills the No. 65 overall pick in this year's draft.

All in a day's work for Dorsey, who brought in major talent without giving up any of the team's five picks in the first two rounds this year.

And the makeover came as the team awaits word from Pro Bowl left tackle Joe Thomas on his future. Thomas, who played more than 10,000 straight snaps

Not long after Dorsey's trifecta, Thomas tweeted: "@Browns are en fuego!! Here's to John Dorsey tonight!!"

The acquisition of Taylor would seem to change Cleveland's plans to pursue a veteran quarterback in free agency, which begins Monday when teams are permitted to contact agents. It was assumed the Browns would target Cincinnati's AJ McCarron, whom they tried to land in a trade last season before the deal was squelched when the teams failed to properly file paperwork to the league.

McCarron wants to start and it's unlikely he would want to compete with Taylor, who led the Bills to their first postseason appearance since 1999. The dynamic Taylor, who finished with a 23-21 record in three seasons with Buffalo, can affect the game as a passer or runner and he's the type of quarterback Browns coach Hue Jackson has sought since coming to Cleveland.

However, even with Taylor around, the Browns are still expected to select a quarterback with the No. 1 overall pick in this year's draft and Dorsey and his staff are in the process of deciding if that's Southern Cal's Sam Darnold, UCLA's Josh Rosen, Wyoming's Josh Allen or Oklahoma's Baker Mayfield, the Heisman Trophy winner who scares some Cleveland fans because of his Johnny Manziel-like showmanship.

Cleveland's next starting quarterback will be the team's 29th since 1999.

But unlike Kizer, who led the NFL with 22 interceptions, went 0-15 and went through numerous growing pains as a rookie starter, Taylor will have offensive weapons around him.

Landry is as good as they get.

The 25-year-old, who caught a league-best 112 passes last season, immediately upgrades a Cleveland offense that finished last in scoring and didn't have any player who threatened a defense until wide receiver Josh

Gordon made his late return from an indefinite NFL suspension. With Gordon on the outside, Landry in the slot and Taylor behind center, the Browns have the makings of a potent attack.

Landry signed a $16 million, one-year franchise tag Thursday with Miami, clearing the path for his trade. The Dolphins began shopping him when the parties were unable to reach an agreement on a long-term contract, which he's likely to get from the Browns.

A big contract could help calm the sometimes volatile Landry, whose 400 receptions are the most by any player in his first four seasons.

"Y'all better understand (stuff) about to get SERIOUS... ON MY MAMA," Landry posted on Twitter shortly after news that he was Cleveland bound broke.

The additions of Taylor and Landry certainly must have thrilled new Browns offensive coordinator Todd Haley, who was fired in Pittsburgh following the Steelers' divisional-round playoff loss. Haley spent the past six seasons working with Ben Roethlisberger, Antonio Brown and Le'Veon Bell. All Cleveland needs is a breakaway running back and the Browns could get one with the No. 4 overall pick if Penn State's Saquon Barkley is still around.

Dorsey also took care of defensive coordinator Gregg Williams by acquiring Randall, a former first-round pick who was inactive for the Packers' final two games last season with a knee injury.

IndyCar has a new champ, new hopes for 2018

By Jenna Fryer
Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — IndyCar heads into the season with a new American champion, a new car and the same hopes for a momentum-building year.

Josef Newgarden arrives for the season-opening race this weekend on the streets of St. Petersburg as the reigning champion. He won the title in his first season with Team Penske, a breakout year in which the 27-year-old won a career-best four races.

Penske drivers won 10 of 17 races last year and all four of its drivers finished in the top five of the final standings.

“Any driver that gets an opportunity like the one I got with Team Penske will tell you they expect to win right away,” Newgarden said. “I certainly did as well, but I think we were all surprised at how quickly we gelled together and made it happen. But that is last year. The drive for the 2018 championship starts at St. Pete, and it’s a track where I’ve never won before. That is our only thought this weekend — going to victory lane.”

Newgarden and the entire field will be in a redesigned and universal Dallara chassis.

The 2018 car was overhauled and completed with input from drivers and teams, who objected to the many pieces on the previous aerokits that created debris fields during crashes. Drivers wanted reduced downforce and got their wish. They also wanted faster tire degradation and what ultimately was developed could force drivers to change their racing style.

The car has a sleek and clean look, and IndyCar is hopeful tweaks have made it safer for drivers and cheaper for teams to field.

It also could help the small teams close the gap on Team Penske, Chip Ganassi Racing and Andretti Autosport, winner of three of the last four Indianapolis 500s.

“I do think it will equalize things,” said Graham Rahal, who this year at Rahal Letterman Lanigan Racing is joined by 2017 Indy 500 winner Takuma Sato.

“If you do your job and you

Josef Newgarden celebrates after winning the IndyCar championship on Sept. 17, 2017, in Sonoma, Calif. Newgarden brings IndyCar into the season-opening race through the temporary course on the streets of St. Petersburg as the series' reigning champion. [AP PHOTO / ERIC RISBERG, FILE] nailed the setup, you will be right there contending for wins,” he said. “Before, there were certain cases and tracks where that wasn’t the way it was for us, and it is nice now to feel like we can be rewarded for lots of hard work.”

IndyCar has been chipping away for years at rebuilding its fan base and stabilizing the series, and leadership feels good headed into the opener. The car count of 24 entries at St. Petersburg is the highest since 2015 and includes three new teams. Gabby Chaves will race for Harding Racing, Juncos Racing has a split lineup and Max Chilton and Charlie Kimball left Ganassi at the end of last season to form Carlin.

IndyCar’s television audience has continued to slowly grow, the series is returning to Portland International Raceway this year for the first time in more than a decade, and Danica Patrick is coming back for one last hurrah in the Indianapolis 500. She will retire after the May race, her first in an Indy car since 2011.

The series still has obstacles. American driver Conor Daly, a fan favorite who just completed a popular stint on the reality show “The Amazing Race,” can’t find sponsorship for anything more than an Indianapolis 500 ride right now. Daly was a full-time driver the last two years.

The field has seven rookies this season, four of whom — Rene Binder, Jordan King, Matt Leist and Robert Wickens — will be making their series debut at St. Pete. The leading candidate for top rookie right now might be Zach Veach, a six-time Indy Lights winner racing for Andretti. His teammates will be Indy 500 winners Ryan Hunter-Reay and Alexander Rossi, as well as veteran Marco Andretti.

One-bid leagues vary in protecting top seeds

By Noah Trister
Associated Press

DETROIT — March Madness has lived up to its name in the Horizon League in recent years. In four of the past five seasons, the top seed has been bounced from the conference tournament, falling short of an NCAA bid after weeks of success.

Out: teams such as Valparaiso in 2016, which won 26 games before losing its Horizon Tournament opener.

In: teams such as Milwaukee in 2014, which finished tied for fifth, then won the conference tourney and received a No. 15 seed in the Big Dance, losing by 20 to Villanova.

The trend continued last weekend when Northern Kentucky, the Horizon’s regular-season champion, lost to eighth-seeded Cleveland State in the quarterfinals. It was no surprise Monday when Commissioner Jon LeCrone was asked what his league could do to give the top teams more of an advantage in the postseason.

“We’ve tried every single bracket,” LeCrone said. “We’ve tried every format. We’ve tried giving byes into the semifinals.”

For leagues like the ACC and Big East, a conference tournament is simple. Invite the teams, sell lots of tickets and let the chips fall where they may. But at the mid-major level and below, the postseason can feel like a zero-sum game. At-large bids to the NCAA Tournament are scarce, so whoever wins the conference tourney is often the league’s only representative. The challenge for these conferences is figuring out which postseason format is best for them — how much, if at all, should they protect the top seeds?

Stephen F. Austin’s Thomas Walkup, center, celebrates with teammates after beating Texas A&M-Corpus Christi for the Southland Conference tournament title on March 12, 2016, in Katy, Texas. [AP PHOTO / DAVID J. PHILLIP, FILE]

Upset bids add drama to these league tournaments, but there are a couple reasons conferences might give their top seeds preferential treatment. There’s a sense that regular-season success should be rewarded. Plus, a league’s No. 1 seed is often the team best positioned to win in the NCAA Tournament.

“I think the tensions are trying to create a really good experience that brings fans and has that sort of cache around being this big-time event, while also trying to protect your top seeds,” said Amy Huchthausen, commissioner of the America East Conference. “The reality for the mid-major conferences is that we’re likely going to get one team into the NCAA Tournament, and obviously the seeding of that team is really important.”

The regular-season champ may not always be the best team in a conference — when Florida Gulf Coast went to the Sweet 16 in 2013, the Eagles had finished second in the Atlantic Sun. Still, when a particularly impressive

No. 1 seed loses in a conference tournament, it’s easy to wonder what might have been. That Valpo team in 2016 ended up in the NIT title game, while Green Bay, the Horizon’s NCAA Tournament representative, received a No. 14 seed and lost by 27.

In 2015-16, Monmouth earned national recognition by beating UCLA and Notre Dame, but the Hawks lost in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference Tournament. Contrast Monmouth with Stephen F. Austin, which dominated the Southland Conference that season and received a double bye in the league tournament. The Lumberjacks made the NAAs, beat West Virginia and nearly knocked off Notre Dame as well.

The top seed in the MAAC Tournament hasn’t won it since 2010. This year’s bracket was set up to give the top two seeds an extra day off between the quarterfinals and semifinals — but that didn’t do much good for top-seeded Rider and second-seeded Canisius, because they both lost in the quarters.

Conners still settled himself with a wedge he nearly holed on No. 9 for a birdie of his own.

Woods looked as though he might seize control after his birdie on No. 10 to reach 8 under, tied for the lead.

He hit wedge into 7 feet below the hole on the par-5 11th, and another roar erupted. Woods missed.

Approaching the 12th, four small grandstands covered by tents and a large grandstand to the right of the green were filled with fans who were looking for reasons to let loose. Anything on the green would have sufficed, and Woods played it beyond the pin and used the slope to get the ball rolling back to 8 feet.

At this point, the gallery was so delirious they couldn’t sync up their chants. Some were yelling, “Tiger! Tiger!” Others were yelling, “U-S-A!” Most were just screaming. And then Woods missed again.

He dropped his only shot on the next hole when his tee shot sailed over the green into matted, thin grass where the gallery had been standing. He laid open a lob wedge and swung hard on a tough flop shot, only to come up short and into the bunker. About the time he was dropping a shot, Conners was across the lake at No. 12 and rolled in a 20-foot birdie putt to stretch his lead to two shots over Rose, three shots over Woods.

Most of the fans in the bleachers had their backs turned to watch Woods.

“It was like that all day,” Rose said.

young staff, especially the starting staff. I’m a veteran catcher as well, and we’re not

Maxwell also still has legal issues to deal with, stemming from an incident last October in which he allegedly pulled out a gun on a food delivery driver at the front door of his home in Arizona. A trial date is set for Aug. 9.

at Leesburg High, scoring 43 points while Leesburg was second with 43. South Lake placed sixth with 16 points and East Ridge was seventh with 13 points.

Lake Minneola’s Fred Jackson had the school’s first first-place finish, winning the 169-pound class with a 255-pound bench press and 220-pound clean and jerk for a 475 total.

Leesburg’s Lucas Wolter

won the 133-pound weight class with a 180-pound bench press and a 220-pound clean and jerk for a 400-pound total.

East Ridge’s Josh Colston earned a win in the 238-pound weight class with a 335-pound bench press and a 285-pound clean and jerk for a 620-pound total.

Next up for the lifters are regionals, which will be held March 21-24 at various sites. Qualifiers from those meets advance to the state championships, which will be held at Arnold High School in Panama City April 6-7.

penalties in part fueled by social media photos of his buckled rear windshield. NASCAR said inspectors at its research and development center in North Carolina found the Ford violated a rule requiring rear window support braces holding the glass rigid and another requiring the right rocker panel extension to be aluminum.

On Wednesday, Harvick was penalized the seven playoff points he earned for winning the race and the first two stages. He was docked 20 regular points and the team lost 20 owners’ points. Crew chief Rodney Childers was fined $50,000, and car chief Robert Smith suspended two races.

“I can’t wait to win another race and jump up and down in victory lane on the back of my car,” Harvick said Friday.

Defending series champion Martin Truex Jr. will start from the pole in the No. 78 Toyota. Hendrick Motorsports has the next three spots, with Kyle Larson second, Chase Elliott third and Tucson driver Alex Bowman fourth. Logano will start fifth, and Harvick 10th.

SOCIAL MEDIA HELP

Matt DiBenedetto added Zynga Poker as the primary sponsor of Go Fas Racing’s No. 32 Ford for the weekend through a social media posting — and Denny Hamlin’s retweet.

“We hate doing this, but we are UNSPONSORED as of right now for @ISMRaceway this weekend!” DiBenedetto posted along with a video. “If you or anyone you know has the ability to help us connect with a business interested in coming on board this weekend please contact the @GoFasRacing32 page ASAP!”

Enlisted Nine Fight Company and Pit Stops for Hope also signed on.

“The power of social media can be crazy, and sure enough, it actually blew our minds,” DiBenedetto said. “Getting the support of Denny Hamlin starting the wave of tremendous support and that led into it just spreading like wildfire.”

Hamlin, Kevin Harvick and Hall of Famer Darrell Waltrip each donated $5,000.

“Those are some of the folks that I go to for any advice, because — Denny, Kevin, Darrell — those are guys that are going to tell you the way it is,” DiBenedetto said.

DiBenedetto qualified 30th. He finished 27th at Daytona, 31st at Atlanta and 22nd at Las Vegas.

SHORT RACE

Kyle Larson noted there’s little margin error in the 312-lap race.

“It’s a fairly short race for a Cup race, so you have to take advantage of your restarts,” Larson said. “It’s somewhat tough to pass here. You can’t make any mistakes on pit road or anything like that to set you back. All of our races are long, but relative to the rest of them, this is a short one. You’ve just got to be 100 percent every lap and not make any mistakes, and have a good balance on your car throughout a fuel run.”

GOLF

“I kind of knew what was going on without even having to see it,” Conners said. “But it will be cool. It’s fun seeing him out there today, and I’m sure he’ll be battling hard tomorrow. But hopefully, I can play my game and have a good day.”

Conners smiled when he heard the cheer for Woods when he chipped in at No. 9.

For so many years, such a roar caused far more consternation than celebration among the rest of the field. Conners grew up idolizing Woods for his 14 majors and 79 victories on the PGA Tour, and it was hard not to get caught up in so

FISHING REPORT

Source: maps4news.com/©HERE

GATEHOUSE MEDIA

Tip of the week: According to www.fishingtipsdepot.com, when fishing for catfish, cater to their strong sense of smell. Chicken livers often bring catfish to anglers from a pretty good distance away.

1. Yankeetown/Waccasassa: According to Jim Zaloga, the final couple weeks of sheepshead fishing are here. The islands by the intake canal are producing many of these striped fish. Sheepshead love live shrimp. Cobia have been spotted off of the intake canal area and should be in larger numbers soon.

2. Crystal River/Homosassa: Capt. William Toney said that a very cool fish that has become a standard and talk around the dock is the Nature Coast snook. A colder-than-normal January took a toll on the snook population but from the reports of local anglers and guides snook fishing is good. Snook have always been around, but there are more of them now than ever. We can blame it on warmer winters but he said he believes it's the warm freshwater springs that protect them from cold winters, salt water intrusion and conservation. He believes keeping one for dinner every now and again is not a big deal if you are lucky enough to catch one in the slot. At this time most snook have come from sandy holes on the outside keys, rocky/oyster points near deep drops along channels and the edges of a hole in the back country. Live shrimp, pinfish or D.O.A. Glow 5.5 jerk baits will get the bite. The trout bite has moved out to deeper water near the Foul Area and a few Spanish mackerel are mixed in. Incoming high tide will be early morning and very late evening this weekend.

3. Withlacoochee: Capt. Bob of Angler's Resort on the Withlacoochee River in Dunnellon reports fishing on the Withlacoochee and Lake Rousseau is improving slightly. Fishing on the river has produced some bass on wild shiners. When fishing on the lake, artificial worms and top water plugs have had the most success. Some bluegills have been caught around the docks using crickets and worms. Some crappie are still being caught in the phosphate pits using Missouri minnows.

4. Orange Lake/Lochloosa: Lochloosa Harbor is reporting that specks are all over the weed areas and are being caught with regularity. Minnows have been the best baits.

5. Ocklawaha River: Roger Robins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that Rodman Reservoir has been good for a few large bass, but not a great number of them.

6. Salt Springs: no update

7. Forest Lakes: Roger Robins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that fishing has been good for bass on Lake Kerr. He had several fishermen catch and release a 13-pounder, two that were more than 10 pounds and several between seven and eight pounds. The Forest Lakes north of Highway 40 are producing bass. The fish are spawning and wild shiners have been the best bait but they have been in limited supply. Lake George continues to have a lot of dark water and any sight fishing has been slow.

8. Lake Weir: Liz at Fat Daddy's reports that specks are being caught with regularity here. Minnows have proven to be the most effective baits.

9. Harris Chain: According to BassOnline.com, bass often can be found here in the open water. The canals have them at times, too.

10. Panasofkee/Tsala: Specks have been biting here with minnows and jigs the baits of choice.

11. Astor Park: Roger Robbins at Buck 'N Bass Sports Center reports that specks and catfish have been biting below the dam. Minnows and Jiffy Jigs are working the best on the specks. Large nightcrawlers and livers have been effective with the catfish. Warmouth and shellcrackers also are being caught on red wiggler worms.

12. Ponce Inlet: According to www.floridasightfishing.com, the bite is still red hot in the Mosquito Lagoon and near New Smyrna Beach and Ponce Inlet. Redfish have been biting with regularity since Hurricane Irma. Tours are fishing schools of redfish every morning in Mosquito Lagoon and wrapping things up catching bunches of spotted sea trout. There are lots of snook and tarpon in the deeper waters around New Smyrna. Fishing for Mosquito Lagoon redfish has been excellent the last couple of weeks. Lower water levels have the fish schooled up big time during the morning. Numerous groups of 75-150 grouped-up fish range between five and 10 pounds. Giant bull reds have also schooled up in both lagoons for their annual spawn, with fish in the 20-40 pound range coming to the boat each day recently. Summer and early fall is prime time for catching these trophy-sized redfish. Live bait has been the ticket with mullet, pinfish, pigfish all catching plenty. Soft plastics, plugs and spoons have worked when throwing lures. The speckled trout bite in Mosquito Lagoon is still going strong.

Oklahoma to seek Mayfield replacement in spring practice

By Cliff Brunt
Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. — Oklahoma began figuring out who will replace Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Baker Mayfield when spring practice opened Saturday.

Mayfield left as one of the most productive quarterbacks in college football history. He led the Sooners to the College Football Playoff twice and is the only quarterback to finish in the top four of the Heisman race three times.

The top two contenders will be last year's backup, redshirt junior Kyler Murray, and redshirt sophomore Austin Kendall. Redshirt sophomore Tanner Schaefer will get a look, too.

Coach Lincoln Riley is looking for a variety of things from his new signal caller as he heads into his first season at the school as an assistant or head coach without Mayfield. One of his best opportunities to draw conclusions will come at the spring game on April 14.

"I think there's always, of course, an element of performance," Riley said. "The guy's got to be able to perform and do his job, and then I think there's the element of intangibles, the leadership, the toughness, the mentality that he brings to your group. Do the other 10 guys play better when he's in there? We've told them all, look, it's not going to be a sprint, it's going to be a marathon."

Murray completed 18 of 21 passes for 359 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions last season. The 5-foot-10, 190-pound speedster also ran 14 times for 142 yards, including a 66-yarder scamper against West Virginia that ended just short of the end zone. He has an edge in experience — he started three games for Texas A&M in 2015 and started against West Virginia last season because Mayfield was being disciplined.

Guilt weighs down daughter of independent elderly mother

DEAR ABBY: My 92-year-old mother lives alone, still drives and manages by herself with a feral cat she took in. She's dealing with heart failure, but doing well on her meds. I am 70, an only child, married, retired and live six hours away.

We go to see her four times a year and stay for a week in our RV. We talk on the phone once a week and email a couple times in between phone calls.

Mom says she's staying in her house as long as she is able. She has nice neighbors who will do anything for her, plus a lawn/snow service. We have told her she's welcome to come live with us, but she loves her independence and has the cat to take care of.

She goes to her church group, senior citizens group and gets her nails done every three weeks. She's busier than I am socially. But I feel consumed by guilt that she's so far away and afraid that each visit may be our last.

JEANNE PHILLIPS

DEAR ABBY

My husband says he isn't moving, and he has his own activities and health issues. He doesn't want to stay with Mom more than a week because we end up watching QVC with her all afternoon. When we left last week, she said, "My friends told me I hardly ever see you, and I hope you can come more often."

I don't know what to do. Am I doing enough? We pay her taxes and phone/cable/internet and any big bills (car repairs). But I'm not there to drop in the way most of her friends' children do, who never moved away after high school. -- GUILT-RIDDEN IN

MARYLAND

DEAR GUILT-RIDDEN: You are doing as much as you can for your mother. Her friends should not judge because their family situations are not the same as yours. You stated that you email her in between phone calls. Ask your mother if she would be open to video chatting (Skype, FaceTime, etc.) in between those phone calls. That way you could see each other's faces, and it might help her feel less distant from you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have only recently recovered financially from the economy crashing. We lost our car, our home and filed bankruptcy. Thankfully, we now have some savings and no debt other than our new home.

It has been 10 years since we had a real vacation, so we are planning a cruise. My problem is I mentioned it to some friends and family members. Four of them have now asked us to bring back souvenirs for them. I feel it's presumptuous. I don't want to spend my vacation running around buying other people stuff.

Am I being overly sensitive or are they being impolite? And how can I politely refuse? -- FRUSTRATED IN THE USA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You are not overly sensitive. Tell those folks that your excursion schedule will be tight and you won't have time to do much shopping -- even for yourselves. It's the truth, I'll bet.

P.S. And when you return, be discreet about flashing any souvenirs you pick up for yourselves along the way!

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

An anti-percentage play

♣ 10 7 3		♣ A J 9 8

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♠	2♦	Pass	4♦
Pass	5♦

Opening lead — three of spades.

Assume that in a given case you have three low clubs in dummy and A-J-9-8 in your hand, and that your aim is to lose only one trick in the suit. When you lead a club from dummy and the next player follows low, is it better in the long run to play the eight or the jack?

The answer is very clear. The eight is a far better play than the jack because your right-hand opponent will be dealt Q-10-x or K-10-x twice as often as K-Q-x.

However, in a particular case — such as the present one — it may be better to play the jack than the eight. All rules have exceptions, and today's hand provides an illustration.

West leads a spade against five diamonds, and South can tell from the bidding that East is highly likely to have the ace of hearts. Consequently, after taking the spade with the ace, drawing a round of trumps and leading a club from dummy, on which East follows low, South should play the jack.

As it happens, the jack wins the trick, and when declarer then plays the ace and another club, he winds up making the contract because he can later discard one of dummy's hearts on his fourth club. All he loses is a club and a heart.

The reason declarer abandons the usual percentage play is that he cannot afford to lose a club trick to West, which would then subject him to a killing heart return through the king.

Given the circumstances, South's best chance to avoid two heart losers is to assume that East has the K-Q of clubs, and he shapes his play to cater to that assumption.

Tomorrow: Famous Hand.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 11, 2018:

This year you feel unusually inspired. Use this quality to manifest more of what you want and desire. You will witness the results quickly. You also will see life from a different perspective and be more content than you have been in the past. If you are single, you will meet someone who intrigues you. This person will teach you to be more open to travel and different cultures. If you are attached, relating to your sweetie becomes more of a pleasure for you. Your mutual goals also change. CAPRICORN is serious-minded.

ARIES (MARCH 21-APRIL 19) Use today for reviewing your professional and community commitments. Your intuitive side emerges, and it helps you to recognize what is no longer possible. Take care of yourself as well. Discussions could be intense with a partner.

TAURUS (APRIL 20-MAY 20) You might want to take the day off and get some extra R and R. You will need to distance yourself from many of your friends in order to take a much-needed ed timeout. Be more in tune with what is possible. If you can, make your Sunday calls.

GEMINI (MAY 21-JUNE 20) The Moon in your sign energizes you. Unexpected events encourage you to head in a certain direction. A discussion with a partner might help your relationship become more bonded, which promises a special day and mood.

CANCER (JUNE 21-JULY 22) Defer to others, and listen to what they share. The unexpected energizes you. You are likely to find that a loved one or close friend has changed and approaches situations differently. Detach and look at the long-term implications of this attitude.

LEO (JULY 23-AUG. 22) You might be eyeing a project that needs to be completed. For many people, this could involve your taxes. For others, it could be a half-done project at home. You'll be delighted when you finally are finished. Those closest to you will want to celebrate!

VIRGO (AUG. 23-SEPT. 22) Respond to a loved one's request without judgment. You are full of get-up-and-go. Presently, you are more willing than usual to go along with what is happening. Your flexibility delights those who are around you.

JACQUELINE BIGAR

BIGAR'S STARS

LIBRA (SEPT. 23-OCT. 22) Stay centered. You will not encounter a hassle if you remain alert and know what you desire. A loved one delights you with his or her plans. Others can run the show, perhaps not as you would, but they will get the job done.

SCORPIO (OCT. 23-NOV. 21) Listen to what a neighbor shares. In your mind, you know that this person's "information" is laden with hearsay and gossip, yet there is still some truth to what you have heard. Internalize the conversation, and you will know what to do.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 22-DEC. 21) Be aware of the costs of proceeding as you have been. You might not like the outcome. An ounce of prevention works well and does not force your hand. Remain responsive to an older family member. CAPRICORN (DEC. 22-JAN. 19) Know what you want, but understand that a surprising event or call could point to changing your plans. Perhaps you will have to postpone a specific goal, but not for long. You sense what someone is going to do before he or she acts.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 20-FEB. 18) You see a situation differently from how the majority of people do. You might not be able to convince someone that you are right, at least not initially. Know that it will take a while for you to convince this person. Remember, results will count here.

PISCES (FEB. 19-MARCH 20) Your thoughts seem to bring you what you desire. A friend reaches out to you, and the conversation you have reminds you of how much this person has changed over the past few months. You see the possibility of a project forming.

» TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY IS SUNDAY, MARCH 11, the 70th day of 2018. There are 295 days left in the year.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On March 11, 1918, what are believed to be the first confirmed U.S. cases of a deadly global flu pandemic were reported among U.S. Army soldiers stationed at Fort

Riley, Kansas; 46 would die. (The worldwide outbreak of influenza claimed an estimated 20 to 40 million lives.)

ON THIS DATE:

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Lend-Lease Bill, providing war supplies to countries fighting the Axis.

In 1957, Charles Van Doren's 14-week run on the rigged NBC game show "Twenty-One" ended as he was "defeated" by attorney Vivienne Nearing; Van Doren's take was $129,000. American explorer Richard E. Byrd died in Boston at age 68.

In 1965, the Rev. James J. Reeb, a white minister from Boston, died two days after being beaten by whites during civil rights disturbances in Selma, Alabama.

In 1977, more than 130 hostages held in Washington, D.C. by Hanafi Muslims were freed after ambassadors from three Islamic nations joined the negotiations.

In 1993, Janet Reno was unanimously confirmed by the Senate to be U.S. attorney general.

Lake County Animal Shelter volunteer Sue Richter was the county's top volunteer in 2017. She is pictured with Lake County Commissioner Tim Sullivan. [SUBMITTED]

Volunteers honored for 19K hours of combined service

Staff Report

TAVARES — During an annual recognition ceremony at a recent meeting, Lake County Commissioners honored nearly 50 volunteers who served the county by contributing more than 19,000 hours of combined time in 2017.

The volunteers made contributions to the Animal Shelter, public libraries, parks and other offices, significantly assisting the county in offering customer service and facilitating important programs to Lake County residents. Their service amounted to the equivalent of nine full-time employee positions, and if paid minimum wage for these hours, would be valued at more than $154,000.

The board thanked the volunteers in attendance for their dedication, and those in attendance received certificates for their service. They were as follows:

- Susan Richter, 1,076 hours with the Office of Animal Services
- Christine Cruz, 1,034 hours with the Office of Animal Services
- Jay Boehme, 706 hours with the Office of Emergency Management/Amateur Radio Emergency Services
- Connie Gibb, 657.25 hours with the Office of Library Services/Literacy
- Howard Youngmeyer, 641 hours with the Office of Library Services/Literacy
- Francis Anders, 444 hours with the Office of Emergency Management/Amateur Radio Emergency Services
- Elizabeth Robuck, 434 hours with the Office of Animal Services
- Rosely Piraino, 425.25 hours with the Office of Library Services/Literacy
- John Walton, 385 hours with the Office of Emergency Management/Amateur Radio Emergency Services

Sumter County names Skipper as School Related Employee of the Year

By Lisa Whitman
Sumter County Schools

BUSHNELL — The Sumter County School Board recently recognized Tammy Skipper of South Sumter Middle School as School Related Employee of the Year.

"We are so honored to have such quality staff within our school district. They don't just do their jobs well, they also perform their duties with great care and compassion for our students," said Superintendent Richard A. Shirley.

The nominees were: Nicole Butzer-Collins of Sumter P.R.E.P Academy, Marcus Douglas of Wildwood Middle High School, On Doyle of Bushnell Elementary School, Casey Martin of South Sumter High School, Cheryl Moffitt of Wildwood Elementary School, Kelly Navarro of Lake Panasoffkee

Elementary School, Kathy Neal of Webster Elementary School, Anna Hill from the Transportation Department, Ashley Vaughan from District Office/SPC/Facilities and Skipper.

The process for selecting the School Related Employee of the Year begins at the school or site level where nominees are selected by their peers. The school or site winners are then asked to submit a portfolio that includes a history of training, recognition, contributions to their school and community and letters of recommendation. The portfolios are reviewed by a committee of district administrators and three finalists are chosen. This year Hill, Vaughan and Skipper were the finalists.

Several weeks later, the trio was interviewed by a committee consisting of business and community leaders, not employed by the Sumter

County School District. From these interview sessions, a district winner is chosen.

The Florida School-Related Employee of the Year Program recognizes outstanding education support personnel for their contributions to their schools and communities. The program honors one state representative and four finalists who have demonstrated exceptional skill and dedication in the performance of their jobs, thereby earning them the respect and admiration of students, teachers, administrators and parents.

"Sumter District Schools are proud to recognize these individuals because they have made it a priority to positively impact the lives of students in Sumter County and they have achieved the respect and admiration of their peers and co-workers. Congratulations to each honoree," a press release states.

"I think that's a good idea. I can't see any reason not to because it's the kids who are getting in and doing what they are doing."

Frank Siebel

"I feel that that could help somewhat, but there are other changes they need to make happen."

Jason Morris

"For me, personally, 21 years old is not mature enough to handle that force."

Marlene Chicoye

"I don't have a problem with raising the age, but nine times out of 10, it's people who have mental issues that are causing these tragedies."

PET ADOPTIONS • HUMANE SOCIETY OF LAKE COUNTY

Sandy is an adorable 1-year-old female Lab mix. She weighs around 40 pounds fully grown and is super sweet. Sandy is dog friendly and does great with kids (possibly cats too, we can test). She is available to pre-adopt at our shelter and will be able to go to her new home after she is spayed. Visit sweet Sandy at our shelter, she'll wiggle her way into your heart.

Petey is a great cat who has all four paws declawed. He is very friendly and has a calm, laid back personality. He's 5 years old and can't wait to find his forever home. Meet Petey at our shelter, you won't regret it!

Dixie is an adorable 7-month-old Hound mix. She is very playful and would love a home where she can run around and have canine friends. Dixie has a sweet personality and will need a patient home to help her grow into a well-mannered adult dog. Dixie is available to adopt at our shelter, meet her today.

Meet Mr. Meowgi. This handsome boy is ready to find a new family to spend his life with. He loves attention and laying around on soft blankets. He's cat, dog and kid friendly and would make a great companion to a lucky family. Meet him today at our shelter.

LAKE COUNTY HISTORY DID YOU KNOW?

By Rick Reed
Correspondent

People used to migrate to Lake County for a variety of reasons. Elizabeth M. Hathaway told why her and her family settled in Lake County in an advertisement that ran in the Lake County Citizen on May 5, 1923.

"Because it was the best place we found after making a comprehensive survey of Florida," she began. "We traveled far and wide, East Coast, West Coast and Central Florida, and all things considered there were no better groves, trees, vegetation or climate than in Lake."

The Hathaways passed through Lake County, thinking they would find it warmer on the coast. They were wrong. "We had to build a big bonfire or we might have frozen as did the water in the water pail and the fields of garden stuff for miles around."

Next they tried the Everglades. "But as we had passed the pioneering stage of our life we turned that proposition down," she wrote.

They found a very agreeable tract elsewhere with wonderful groves and soil.

"But, oh! The mosquitoes," she added.

On their return trip they found fields of frozen pineapples and groves with no leafage remaining. And they imagined that the interior of the state had been hit even harder by the frost.

"Imagine our surprise in nearing Lake County to see that things looked better and on passing Sorrento not a trace of frost was to be seen," Hathaway wrote.

Then we said, "This is the best place in the state."

Bloomfield was a "thriving village" of 200 people on the south shore of Lake Harris east of what is now the Hawthorne retirement community, according to Wanton S. Webb when his Webb's Historical, Industrial and Biographical Florida was published in 1885.

It was four miles from the closest railway, apparently in Sumterville because Webb stated that Bloomfield was accessible from Jacksonville by steamer or by rail to Sumterville and then by the mail stage. William D. Mendenhall, the postmaster in 1885, was the first to settle there. In addition to being postmaster, he was very interested in real estate and "the most prominent man in the village."

The village also had a "good school conducted by Prof. Davis." After Lake County was formed in 1887, Bloomfield was named the temporary county seat and the first County Commission meeting was held there. Later, Mendenhall, who had a vested interest, fought unsuccessfully so Bloomfield would retain the county seat.

"The town is replete with natural advantages and rapidly filling up," Webb closed about Bloomfield.

Waterman, Tavares Library launch program for newborns

Staff Report

TAVARES — Florida Hospital Waterman recently launched the Welcome Baby Program in partnership with the Tavares Public Library and Friends of the Tavares Library to give newborns the gift of a lifetime.

The Welcome Baby early literacy program is designed to open a world of possibilities with daily reading, writing, talking, singing and playing time with baby.

The program starts from the first day, by giving each newborn delivered at Florida Hospital Waterman their very first cloth book in a special tote designed to carry books, diapers or anything else. Once settled in with the newest member of the family, the program invites recipients to the Tavares Public Library where baby will receive a second free book, "Eric Carle's The Very Hungry Caterpillar," and have access to other library programs, such as weekly infant story time, which includes songs, stories, learning and new friends.

"We are excited to partner with the Tavares Public Library and Friends of the Tavares Library to promote early literacy in our community," said Lynn Kirman, vice president and chief nursing officer at Florida Hospital Waterman. "As part of our mission to extend the healing ministry of Christ this program fits perfectly into our vision of providing whole person care, starting at birth."

With 530 babies born last year in their Center for Women and Children, Waterman offers expert, individualized care to women and children of all ages. A current expansion project will more than double the size of the Emergency Department and include the addition of a four-story patient tower dedicated to women's services, pediatrics and future growth.

This early literacy gift is made possible through Niagara Water Bottling Company, which provides funding for the program.

Tionna took a leap of faith when cancer kept her from the gym.

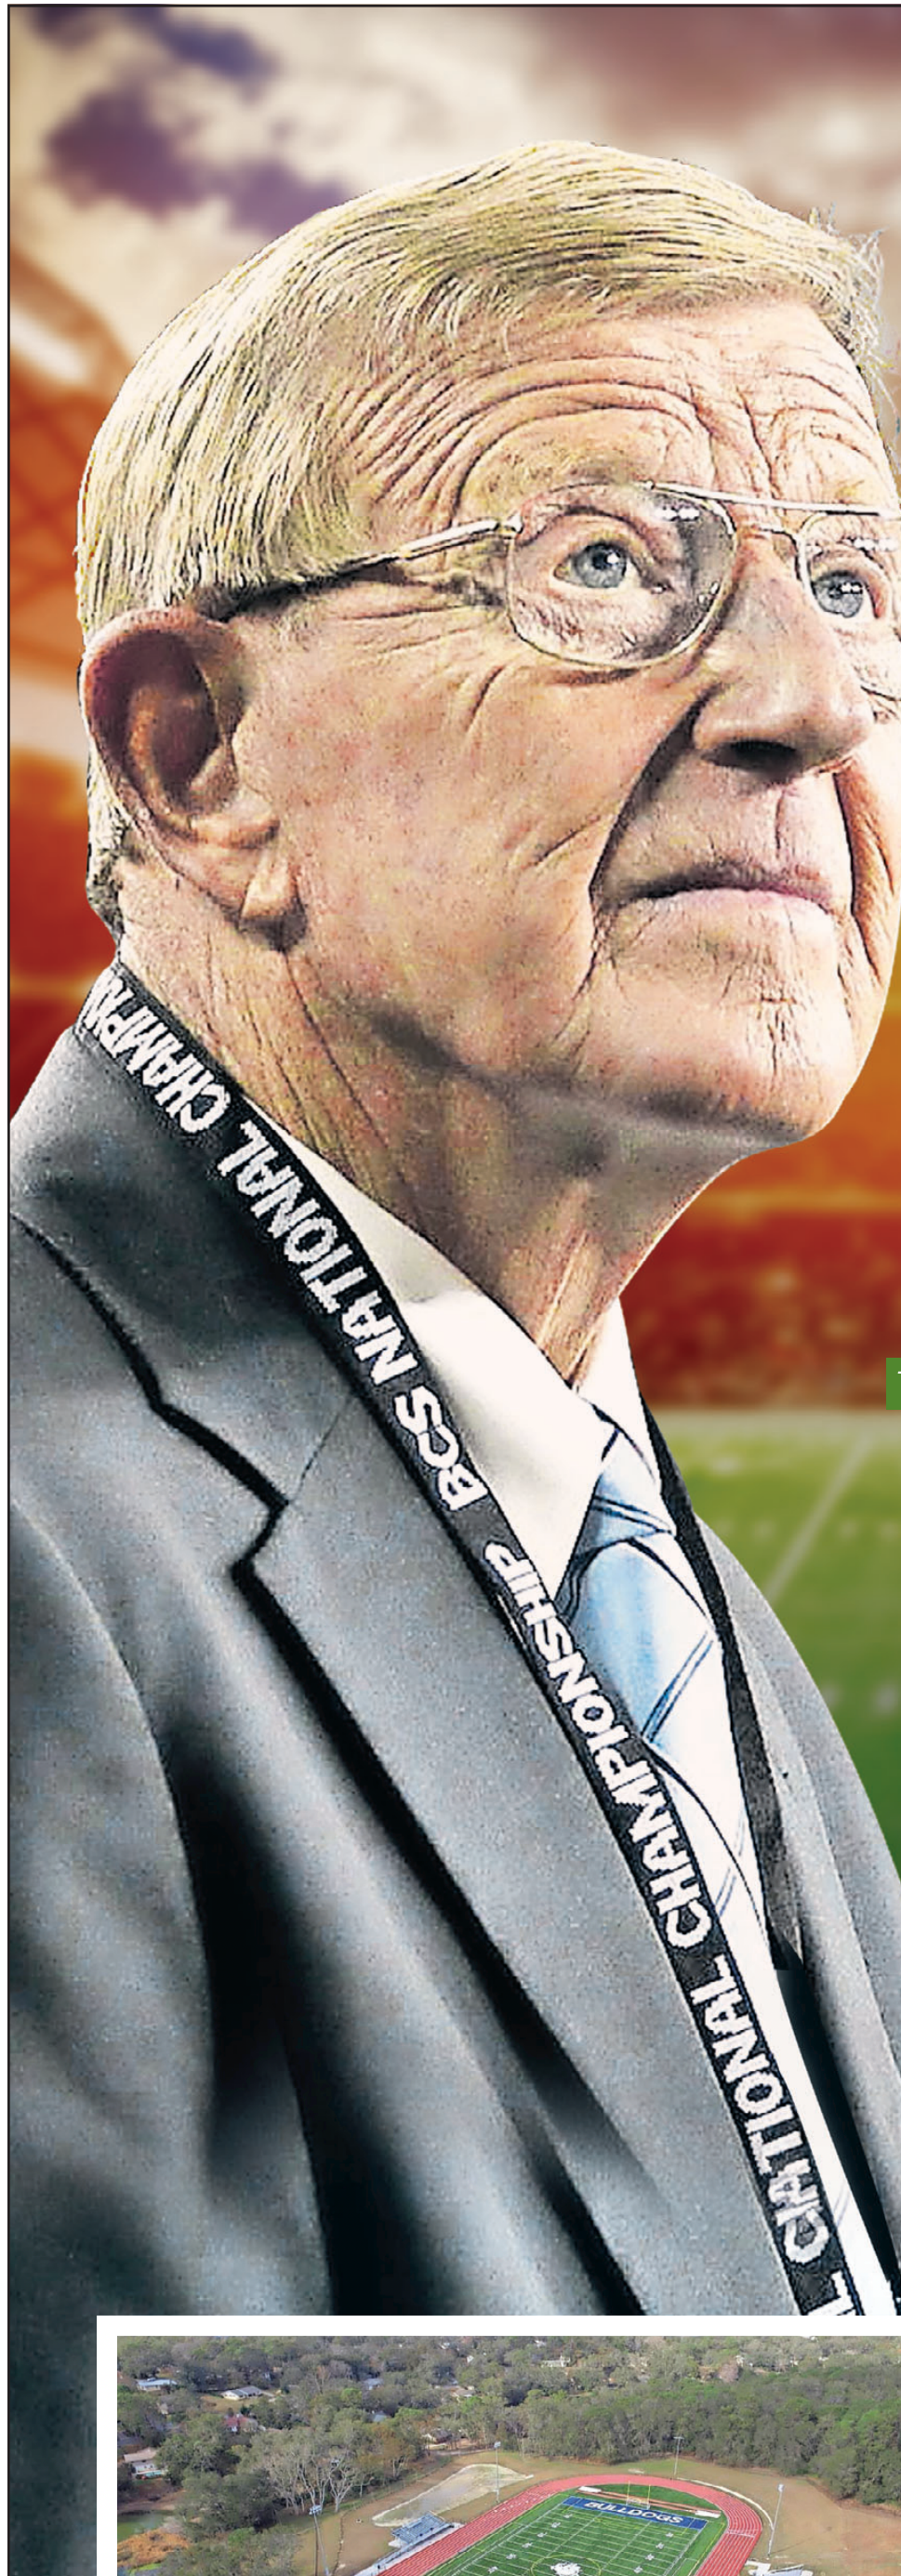

At UF Health, she found a problem-solver who never gave up.

Dr. William Slayton and his team are expanding treatment options for children facing leukemia. He was able to give Tionna a bone marrow transplant from her sister, despite the girls only being a partial match. After 378 days in the hospital, Tionna is back where she belongs — doing cartwheels. And Dr. Slayton is back to searching for new solutions that move medicine forward.

FEATURE STORY

Jay Ryan is still on hand as 'Mary Kills People'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

For Jay Ryan, "Mary Kills People" is a far cry from "Beauty and the Beast," but it's yielding its own rewards for him.

Among those are big changes for his character in Season 2 of the Canadian-made Lifetime series, which begins Monday, March 12. Caroline Dhavernas returns as the title character, a doctor who secretly deals in assisted suicide, with Ryan as a police detective who caught on to her and her once-and-again partner in death dealing (Richard Short). Rachelle Lefevre ("Under the Dome") joins the show for its sophomore round of six episodes.

Ryan's Ben Wesley ended Season 1 by meting out death himself, and Lefevre plays the sister of his victim Grady, who supplied drugs to Mary and Des (Short). Reflecting that the series "raises all these different questions," the friendly Ryan notes that it still encompasses "many pillars of what makes great drama ... lots of conflict, unrequited love, et cetera.

"This is a really nail-biting kind of show that the creators (including literal series creator Tara Armstrong and executive producer Tassie Cameron) have made. I have this bad habit of actually biting my nails, but that's how thrilling it is that those who surround Mary all have such power struggles. They're living in danger, with a lot on the line. I think these are characters that viewers can identify with."

SUNDAY'S BEST BETS

Jack Cutmore-Scott

7 p.m. on (ESPN) College GameNight: Bracketology

With the NCAA Tournament officially getting under way on Tuesday, March 13, and full force on Thursday, March 15, the prognosticators are here to help millions of college basketball fans fill out their brackets. In this two-hour special, ESPN's experts will break down the teams in each region, try to pick the upsets and do their best to figure out who is headed to the Final Four and will eventually be crowned NCAA champion.

8 p.m. on (TNT) 2018 iHeartRadio Music Awards

DJ Khaled and Hailey Baldwin host this annual ceremony honoring fan favorites from the past year in music from The Forum in Inglewood, Calif. Performers during the special, which also is simulcast on TBS and TruTV, include Camila Cabello, Ed Sheeran, Cardi B, Charlie Puth, Maroon 5 and Backstreet Boys.

10:01 p.m. on (20) (28) Deception

Magic is very much on the menu in this new drama series, as Jack Cutmore-Scott ("Cooper Barrett's Guide to Surviving Life") plays a superstar illusionist who has a major fall from grace. He then uses his skills to help FBI agents (Amaury Nolasco, Laila Robins) capture particularly evasive criminals. Vinnie Jones and Lenora Cichlow also star in the show, created by Chris Fedak ("Chuck") and also including Greg Berlanti and Martin Gero ("Blindspot") among its executive producers.

Margo Martindale

OF 'SNEAKY PETE' ON AMAZON

As Season 2 of "Sneaky Pete" opens, is Audrey still unaware of Pete's real identity?

Now, do you think she is from the very beginning? I don't but I'm just saying I think Audrey is suspicious of where Pete Murphy has been. Now, do I think he is Pete Murphy? Probably. But I don't know who Pete Murphy has turned into. ... He could be anybody now, which is who he is (laughs). He's somebody else.

How much fun is it playing the character?

Oh, it's a great character. I absolutely love the people I work with. I don't think you can get a better group of actors, and I love having a husband that is powerful and old and fabulous and still out there causing trouble. Peter Gerety, I don't think you get any better than him. And my grandkids are just all screwed up and fabulous actors and I love them. Honestly, that's what's so great about it. The troupe of actors is just top notch.

Did you meet with any bail bondsmen when you were researching Audrey?

No. I did look into it. I looked at pictures and I talked to people who had done that, and I tried to see how sketchy these people were. But no, I didn't spend any time with them.

What common impressions about these people did you come away with?

I would say that ... there is some trouble in their past and that they're kind of scrappy. Scrappy people.

Mae Whitman

producer Jenna Bans is) able to build a world that is so full and deep while also having it be this crazy, action-packed situation.

To me, it felt almost like a family show that you have already watched for years and you know all the people and you've seen them grow, and then it takes this crazy action turn. Just the layers that Jenna is able to achieve, and the way that she puts words in our mouths, literally ... I feel (she knows) my voice better than anybody.

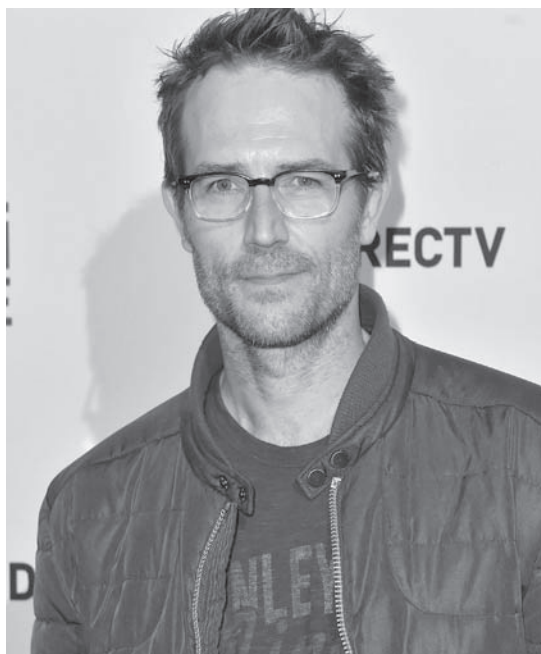

You had a long run on "Parenthood," so did it take a lot of thought for you to sign up for another series?

Absolutely. You're essentially signing yourself into a new family, possibly, when you sign on to do a show. And especially on a show like "Parenthood," I went from a petulant teenager to a petulant adult. It was a full life lived in a very sensitive and delicate way.

I wanted to go on, and it was a personal promise to myself that I when I did move on to another show, I would want to be somewhere that was that honest and that complex - and where I could tell a genuine story that would help people and that people could relate to, and that it would communicate a message that was important and empowering. Over the years with "Parenthood," we were given so much love and understanding and freedom to tell stories honestly, so I was so happy to come back home to NBC.

What was your first thought after reading the pilot script for "Good Girls"?

I was amazed at how much was packed into that pilot episode, but I really felt like I knew all the people. I understood the people. I felt like I understood their histories together. The chemistry was there. I didn't need all this extra setting-up or babying. (Creator and executive

OF 'THE ARRANGEMENT' ON E! ENTERTAINMENT TELEVISION

What is ahead for calculating, manipulative cult leader Terence Anderson in Season 2 of "The Arrangement"?

To me, the most interesting thing about the show is these twisted relationships and in Season 2, it's more that that. I mean, things get really dark, and all of the main characters at some point in Season 2 have moments where they really have to take a good look at themselves and what they're all about and what they stand for and what they're willing to do and how far they're willing to push certain things to achieve what they want. So a lot of soul-searching.

Good old Terence, his soul is so far removed from his grasp, I think he's doing the best he can, but he in the end goes to some pretty dark places. So as an actor, that's always fun to play.

So all in all, this is a fun character to climb into every day?

Yeah, absolutely. I love our cast. I love all the executive producers. This is probably the most down-to-earth group of people as a unit that I've ever worked with. You know, we all understand that we're not curing cancer, we all understand that we're just lucky to be working and we actually have a good show.

And I wish more people knew that our show was not a reality show, because my friends who don't watch that kind of stuff, they're like, "How's your reality show going?" "Dude, it's not a reality show. How many times do I have to tell you?" And they're like, "But it's on E!" "Never mind, I give up." People who know where it is will watch and if they don't, that's fine.

Hopes 'Rise' on a school's theater department in NBC series

Josh Radnor stars in "Rise," premiering Tuesday on

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Though "Rise" tells its own story, and largely a fact-based one, NBC wouldn't mind a "Glee" level of success with its similarly themed new series.

Getting a "preview" premiere Tuesday, March 13, after the season finale of "This Is Us" (whose slot it will move into), the drama-with-music casts "How I Met Your Mother" alum Josh Radnor as a teacher who assumes responsibility for his school's theater department ... changing many lives, particularly those of students, in the process. Jason Katims ("Friday Night Lights," "Parenthood") and Jeffrey Seller (Broadway's "Hamilton") are among the executive producers.

"Shows that are very character-driven and have a deep sort of emotional core to them, those are definitely the shows that not only appeal to me as a viewer, but also the kinds of stories I like to tell," Katims reasons. "I think that having shows like 'This Is Us' has helped that. To be able to be on the network with 'This Is Us' and to have our first episode air after their finale is an incredible opportunity for us."

Noting that "Rise" depicts "the world I grew up in," Radnor says he felt he received an early sign of approval of his doing the show. He reflects, "I had a teacher, Harlene Marley, who was my advisor at Kenyon College. She was just this wonderful, wonderful woman, and she died about two weeks before we started filming this pilot.

"There was a prop cart that had all of these plays on it on my very first day of filming, and there was 'Rumors' by Neil Simon, which I did at Kenyon. I hadn't seen a copy of it since I did it in college, and I was leafing through it and I realized that Harlene had directed me in this play. And it was such a weird, mystical moment. I felt like she had just kissed me on the forehead and told me that this was great."

NBC literally is putting its money where its mouth is with "Rise" through an initiative called "Rise America," which is making financial contributions to high-school theater programs across America, not unlike the Pennsylvania one that inspired the series.

"JUSTICE LEAGUE"

In the absence of Superman (Henry Cavill, whose naming here may indicate that he's not completely absent), Batman and Wonder Woman (Ben Affleck, Gal Gadot) lead other superheroes in battling evil and protecting Earth from power-craving villain Steppenwolf (computer-generated, with the voice of Ciaran Hinds) in this merging of many DC Comics characters. The other principal crusaders for justice in the saga – handled largely by director Zack Snyder, and incorporating welcome touches of humor that were missing from many of its forerunners – are The Flash (Ezra Miller), Aquaman (Jason Momoa) and Cyborg (Ray Fisher). DVD extras: 10 "making-of" documentaries. ★★★ (PG-13: V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

Ben Affleck and Gal Gadot

"THE SHAPE OF WATER"

Able to boast the rare achievement of scoring 13 Oscar nominations including best picture, director Guillermo del Toro's striking-looking (thanks to cinematographer Dan Laustsen) fantasy-drama casts Sally Hawkins as a worker in a top-secret Baltimore government laboratory during the Cold War. Her isolated existence changes radically when she discovers a captured, amphibious creature (Doug Jones) and forms a relationship with it, planning to help it escape. DVD extras: theatrical trailers; four "making-of" documentaries; "Guillermo del Toro's Master Class." ★★★ (R: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"I, TONYA"

The Tonya in question is disgraced figure skater Tonya Harding, superbly played by Oscar nominee Margot Robbie, in director Craig Gillespie's docudrama tracing her life throughout the years with her colorful mother ... a decidedly different kind of "Mom" as evoked in another sterling, Academy Award-nominated performance by Allison Janney. The story takes a major turn with the attack on skating rival Nancy Kerrigan. Of note is that Robbie performed some of the skating herself. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"CALL ME BY YOUR NAME"

An Oscar nominee for best picture and actor (Timothée Chalamet), director Luca Guadagnino's drama examines a life-changing relationship. Adapted for the screen from Andre Aciman's novel by veteran filmmaker James Ivory – who also was an Academy Award contender for the film – the story casts Chalamet and Armie Hammer – as two men who meet in mid-1980s Italy and proceed to become very involved with each other. DVD extras: two "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Chalamet and Stuhlbarg; music video ("Mystery of Love" by Sufjan Stevens). ★★★ (R: AS, N, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"THE HANDMAID'S TALE: SEASON ONE"

One of the series that have put streaming services in the map, through wide acclaim and many award wins, this Hulu adaptation of Margaret Atwood's novel stars Emmy recipient Elisabeth Moss ("Mad Men") as an oppressed member of a future society. The atmosphere is so highly charged among different factions with their own agendas, any individual must tread carefully to survive. Alexis Bledel, Joseph Fiennes, Yvonne Strahovski, fellow Emmy winner Ann Dowd and Samira Wiley also are in the cast of the intense drama, which is about to yield a second season. DVD extras: two "making-of" documentaries. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"THE DISASTER ARTIST"

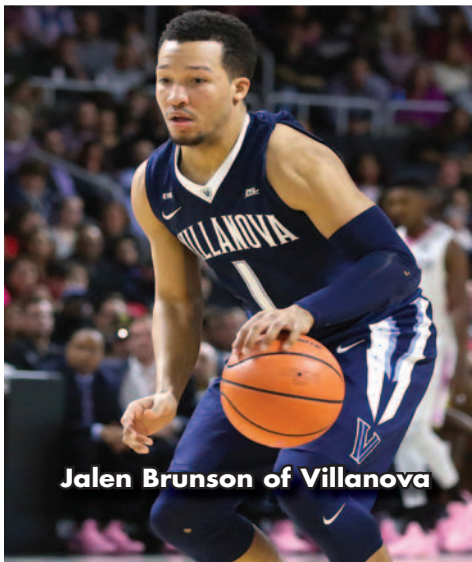

James Franco directed and also stars in this fact-inspired comedy, for which he earned a Golden Globe Award by playing Tommy Wiseau, the driving force behind what became a disaster of a movie titled "The Room." He gets an acting-class acquaintance (Dave Franco, James' brother) to participate in the project with him, but neither sees just how much trouble lies ahead for them. The cast is loaded with Hollywood notables. Scott Neustadter and Michael H. Weber were Oscar-nominated for their screenplay. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; three "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Franco, Wiseau and others; outtakes. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

THE INCALCULABLE SCIENCE OF BRACKETOLOGY

Brackets, brackets, brackets. Everybody's a college basketball fan in March, and we all love our brackets. Some of us fill out one sheet, others do two, three or more. These days, many do them online and let the computer take the place of the pool leader and the copy machine. The NCAA Men's Division I College Basketball Tournament, which begins this week, was made for friendly wagers. Maybe it wasn't planned that way, but it sure has worked out as such.

When filling out our brackets, we strategize on how to pick teams we've never heard of. We struggle with picking top teams and trying to pick upsets. Every year, they say, a No. 12 seed will take out a No. 5 in the first round. But which one will it be? How many No. 1 seeds will make the Final Four? It's tough to make up one's mind. Like most years, there are many questions. What happens in early March during the final week of the regular season, as well as into the conference tournaments, will shed some light. From there, it's anyone's guess.

The playing field has been pretty level this year, with a number of teams bouncing in and out of the top ten. Villanova, Virginia and Michigan State have been consistently near the top of the rankings throughout much of the season, including the more competitive second half. When Selection Sunday goes down March 11 on CBS, they all will likely be No. 1 seeds in three of the four brackets. The fourth top seed is up for grabs, with teams like Purdue, Xavier or even Texas Tech getting a shot, unless one of those programs takes a tumble in early March. Beyond that, Duke's stock could rise or fall, along with that of Gonzaga, Auburn, Ohio State and Cincinnati.

The second tier of top teams is even more confusing, because we've seen both good and bad from them throughout the season. St. Mary's looked great in the WCC, even beating Gonzaga during a hot stretch in January and February. Then they got smoked in a rematch with the Zags and continued to slide afterwards. North Carolina's stock began rising after they knocked off Duke in early February, and the defending NCAA champs will be a tough out even if they are not a top seed. The same could be said for Clemson, who joins UNC, Duke and Villanova out of the ACC.

So, who will be the bracket-busters this year? And will the top seeds live up to their billing? The science of bracketology is not an easy one, but it's one NCAA fans, new and old, try to master every March.

A FATHER'S GRIEF TURNS TO MENACE IN BRITBOX'S 'TRAUMA'

BY GEORGE DICKIE
@ZAP2IT.COM

After going through the worst day of his life, Dan Bowker is looking for someone to blame.

As played by John Simm ("Doctor Who," "The Catch") in the taut three-part psychological thriller "Trauma," which begins streaming Wednesday, March 14, on Britbox, he's a mid-level manager at a suburban London plant who learns he's about to be downsized. With a wife and three kids to raise, that kind of news is always tough to take, and it's enough to send Dan out to drown his shock and anger. But things go from bad to worse when he returns home to wife Susie (Lyndsey Marshal, "Rome," "The Hours") and they learn their 15-year-old son Alex (Albie Marber, "Outlander") is at the emergency room after being stabbed.

At first, it appears the boy's injuries are minor, and the surgeon on duty, Dr. Jon Allerton (Adrian Lester, "Hustle," "Primary Colors"), confidently assures the frightened parents the boy will be OK. But that was before he opened him up and discovered the knife had nicked the heart. Despite what appears to be the doctor's best efforts, the teen bleeds to death on the table.

Devastated, Dan looks for a target at which to channel his rage and grief, and with no suspect yet in custody, he chooses Jon. Fairly or unfairly, he's convinced the doc screwed up – and for that the unhinged dad will ruin his life.

"It was quite difficult emotionally to truthfully convey what he's going through, this character, Dan," Simm says, "and you'd have to go to places that are not particularly pleasant in your head, I guess, to, sort of, get there – I mean, I've got kids. While we were filming it, my son was 15, actually. So, yeah, it was a draining experience, but ultimately, as an actor, that's what you want to be able to do. You want to portray these characters because conflict is drama, and with a script as good as this ... you just want to do it justice, really."

As crazy and unreasonable as Dan is at times, it's impossible to not feel his pain, and Simm, a two-time BAFTA nominee in his native England, does an excellent job of bringing to life a father out of his mind with grief. His co-star Lester was impressed.

MONDAY'S BEST BETS

Tom Ellis

8 p.m. on 18 35 51
Lucifer

Lucifer (Tom Ellis) and company get to experience what it's like to be at the center of superstardom in the new episode "Let Pinhead Sing!". Protecting a hugely popular, threatened music star means dealing with all sorts of personalities — and obsessive fans, one or more of whom could prove lethal. Charlotte (Tricia Helfer) attempts to bring Linda and Maze (Rachael Harris, Lesley-Anne Brandt) back together. Jacqueline Obradors continues her guest role.

8 p.m. on (NGEO)
Movie: Jane

Filmmaker Brett Morgan drew from more than 100 hours of previously unseen archival footage for this extraordinary 2017 documentary profile of Jane Goodall, which captures this trailblazing conservationist in 1962, as she makes her first foray into the world of chimpanzees. Her work would revolutionize our understanding of the natural world. Morgan says he wanted the film to play "like a cinematic opera," an impression that's enhanced by Philip Glass's rich orchestral score.

8:30 p.m. on 6 10
Man With a Plan

Adam (Matt LeBlanc) becomes "The Party Planner" in a new episode by that title, but that isn't to say he'll be successful as he tries to surprise Andi (Liza Snyder) for her birthday. Getting all the guests in place for the event turns out to be quite problematic. Swosie Kurtz, Jenna Dewan Tatum, Tim Meadows and Sheri Shepherd reprise their earlier guest roles.

TUESDAY'S BEST BETS

Josh Radnor

8 p.m. on 18 44 The Flash

Iris (Candice Patton) gets a lot faster — try to guess the reason — in the new episode “Run, Iris, Run,” as a DNA-exchanging enemy known as Melting Pot (guest star Leonardo Nam) inadvertently transfers Barry’s (Grant Gustin) speed to the latter’s wife. She uses her newly acquired ability, with plenty of advice and worry from Barry, to try to protect the city from the nemesis.

9 p.m. on 13 35 51 LA to Vegas

Suddenly with nowhere else to turn for shelter, Ronnie (Kim Matula) stays with Captain Dave (Dylan McDermott) — and gets an inside look at how airline employees fraternize — in the new episode “Parking Lot B.” Nichole and Bernard (Olivia Macklin, Nathan Lee Graham) try to offer Colin (Ed Weeks) tips on improving his classroom manner. Artem (Peter Stormare) wants Dave to pay him an overdue debt.

10:01 p.m. on 2 8 Rise

Comparisons to “Glee” are inevitable, but it should be noted that this grittier drama is based on a true story. Josh Radnor (“How I Met Your Mother”) has the central role as a teacher who becomes the supervisor of his school’s theater department in the series’ premiere, portending big changes for the facility — and also for many people in the surrounding community. Developed by producer Jason Katims (“Parenthood,” “Friday Night Lights”), the show also features Auli’i Cravalho (“Moana”), Rosie Perez and Marley Shelton in its “Pilot.”

WEDNESDAY'S BEST BETS

Connie Britton

8 p.m. on 20 23
Speechless

About to appear in the revival of "Roseanne," Sarah Chalke reprises her guest role in this show in a new episode that makes Maya (Minnie Driver) less than thrilled to see her when both report for jury duty. JJ (Micah Fowler) decides not to reveal everything about himself as he tries online dating. Ray (Mason Cook) is impacted by Jimmy and Dylan's (John Ross Bowie, Kyla Kenedy) closeness. Another episode follows.

9 p.m. on 13 35 51
9-1-1

Hoarding goes too far for some people in the tellingly titled new episode "Trapped," as their extreme collecting leaves them unable to get out of their house, requiring the first responders' assistance. Other cases revolve around a homeless man injured inside a garbage truck, and a mother and son hurt in a faulty elevator. Abby's (Connie Britton) mother (guest star Mariette Hartley) may impact her relationship with Buck (Oliver Stark). Angela Bassett also stars.

11 p.m. on (COM)
Corporate

Struggling to deal with a family trauma, Matt (Matt Ingebreton) tries to throw himself wholeheartedly into his office's holiday party as a coping mechanism in the new episode "Remember Day."

Little 'Scandal' involved in show's imminent end

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Kerry
Washington

Q: I know the end of "Scandal" is coming up. Who made the decision to end the show, ABC or Shonda Rhimes? — Cathy Lang, via e-mail

A: From most reports, it was by mutual agreement, with Rhimes apparently deciding to end the series while it still was performing well with viewers and in the ratings. The final "Scandal" episode for star Kerry Washington and company is set to air April 19, and it will come on the heels of a couple of new Rhimes-produced dramas being introduced by ABC, the "Grey's Anatomy" firefighter spinoff "Station 19" and the law drama "For the People."

Q: What happened to the actress who played the original boss on the new version of "MacGyver"? — Paul Lake, Youngstown, Ohio

("A.P.B.") — of "The Crossing," an ABC sci-fi drama that's slated to premiere April 2.

Q: How many episodes are now the norm for a TV series? Every one of my favorite shows is in reruns now. — Trevor Kelly, Victoria, B.C.

A: We should specify that this letter was received during the Winter Olympics, when rival broadcast networks went largely into repeat mode, which typically wouldn't be the norm in ratings-conscious February. Expecting the Olympics would get their traditionally big tune-in, others didn't want to "sacrifice" new series episodes, opting to save them for later in the TV season.

A: In what turned out to be a surprise twist midway through the CBS reboot's first season, Patricia Thornton — named in homage to the original show's Pete Thornton (who was embodied by actor Dana Elcar), and played by Sandrine Holt — was exposed as an enemy agent and arrested. She then was replaced by current Phoenix Foundation boss Matty Webber, portrayed by Meredith Eaton.

As for Holt, who has done a lot of television over the years ("Once a Thief," "The Returned," "Hostages," etc.), she has landed another series role. She's among the stars — along with Steve Zahn and Natalie Martinez

With that said, the norm for a broadcast network show's full season now is 22 episodes — some shows a few more, some a few less. When it's bought for its first year, a series usually gets a 13-episode order, which is why you'll hear references to a program getting picked up for its "back nine" — the remaining nine stories that would add up to a total of 22.

Q: Will "Me, Myself & I" ever be back? — Tom Porter, Reading, Pa.

A: Supposedly, according to CBS, but only to finish out its original run that was cut short when the Bobby Moynihan-John Larroquette show was among this season's first new series to be pulled. That left seven episodes of the 13 ordered unaired, and if those are shown, it's likely to happen in the summer (and we'd guess on Saturdays, where CBS has relegated most of its programs that basically are canceled to play out).

CELEBRITY SCOOP

Checking in with Jack Cutmore-Scott

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

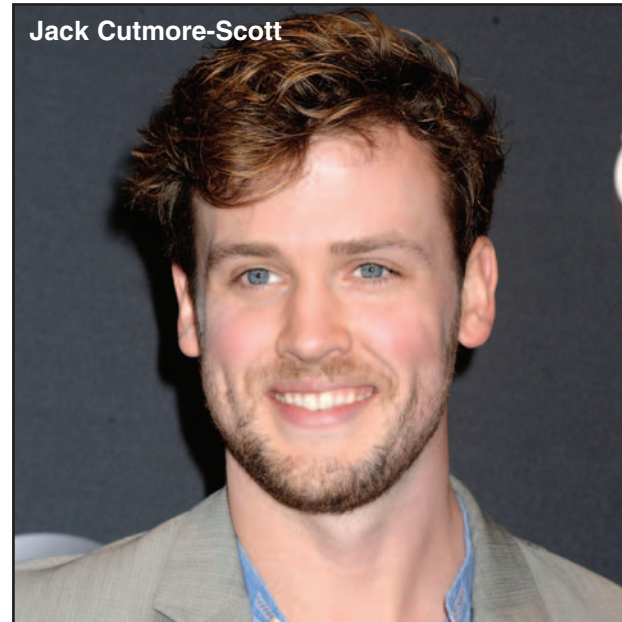

Do you believe in magic? Well, Jack Cutmore-Scott does now.

The former title star of the Fox sitcom "Cooper Barrett's Guide to Surviving Life" returns to series work as a disgraced illusionist who uses the tricks of his trade to help the FBI catch slippery felons in the ABC drama "Deception," premiering Sunday, March 11. The prolific Greg Berlanti ("The Flash," "Blindspot") is among the series' executive producers, and actual magician David Kwona — who was an adviser on the first "Now You See Me" movies — is a co-producer and hands-on consultant on the show, created by Chris Fedak ("Chuck").

"It's been a very steep learning curve," the pleasant Cutmore-Scott admits of learning magic for the job. "I have David Kwong to thank for most of the-day-to-day, as well as another magician, Francis Menotti, who works with us. It definitely is an ongoing thing. I'm trying to stay a little bit ahead of each episode and find out what's coming up in order to have a week or two of practice but it is a lot of work"

Jack Cutmore-Scott

THURSDAY'S BEST BETS

Viola Davis

10 p.m. on 20 23 How to Get Away With Murder

The title of the show's fourth-season finale is "Nobody Else Is Dying," but don't bet on that being the fact — especially since a death and the resulting arrest fuel the story, written by series creator Pete Nowalk. The shocks and surprises don't end there for Annalise (Viola Davis) and her proteges, either. Billy Brown, Jack Falahee, Aja Naomi King, Matt McGorry, Karla Souza, Liza Weil and Charlie Weber also star.

FRIDAY'S BEST BETS

Christina Tosi

MasterChef

Milkshakes are the initial matter for the 22 young chefs remaining, as the new "Junior Edition: American Classics" separates them into teams and challenges them to make as many of the fountain favorites as possible within 10 minutes. Then, chicken and waffles are at the crux of the next test facing them. Gordon Ramsay (also the show's host), Christina Tosi and Joe Bastianich are the judges.

9 p.m. on (USA)

The Secret Life of Kids

Billing itself as a "comedic social experiment," this new series features kids approaching such topics as relationships, love, hate and lying, as captured by hidden cameras. Behind the scenes, childhood experts share insights into the funny ways young people navigate the daily situations they run into in their routines.

10:02 p.m. on (LIFE)

Laurieann Gibson: Beyond the Spotlight

Laurieann's latest client is singer-songwriter Justine Skye, and the assignment is to transform her into a pop superstar and market Justine that way to potentially millions of fans. The project almost immediately hits a major hurdle, however, when Laurieann sees that Justine is far more absorbed in her life and celebrity via social media to give much attention to the work required to launch her into the highly competitive world of music in the new episode "Skye's the Limit."

'American Idol' returns with new judges at a new network home

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Two years isn't a long absence for a show that supposedly ended, but "American Idol" is back.

The most notable differences as the singing competition returns? A new network, since after its 15 seasons on Fox, it begins its ABC run Sunday, March 11; and a new panel of top music stars as judges, with Luke Bryan, Katy Perry and Lionel Richie now handling those roles. Still, many of the show's essential elements have been retained, including Ryan Seacrest as host.

"It's different, obviously, because of these personalities," notes Seacrest, who also will continue his weekday "Live With Regis and Kelly" co-host duties, "but the show, at its core, works in format and works in premise. We go out. We look for young, talented people. They see the judges. (Those chosen) come back to Hollywood and then, they have to step up. To change the show drastically in terms of format, I think, would be a mistake."

The first celebrity signed for the new "Idol," Perry was a guest judge on the earlier version and has scored a major payday — reportedly, $25 million — for joining the program full-time.

"'American Idol' and I have always been circling each other," she says, "and it just hasn't been the right timing. And now, after ten years and a lot of aging and learning and providence, I can take all that information and really mentor and give constructive criticism, because that's really what we do. We're here to really find a star and, if someone isn't a star, we delicately help repurpose them on the path that's going to be good for them."

Richie also likes using his experience to benefit new talents. Explaining that he's been asked to do projects offering career advice, the winner of four Grammy Awards and an Oscar admits he considered turning "American Idol" down ... "and then I realized, '(It's about) reaching people.'

"The beautiful part about this is the judging. We're artists, and we know exactly how to critique talent, so all the things that I was going to put in my video and my CD and my master class, I'm actually going to be able to tell the 'students' in person. I consider myself the instructor, basically."

For Bryan, signing up for "American Idol" came down to a simple gut reaction. "I just felt like it was going to be a blast to be a part of," he reflects. "I've had the opportunity to do some TV stuff through the years and turned it down, because I always focused on touring in my little kind of country-music world that I just kind of figured out.

"And then, 'American Idol' happens, and I jumped right on it. It was never a moment's thought for me, because I get inspired (by it). I'm in there on the emotional ride with these kids."

GLENN

DID YOU KNOW

Glenn Franklin Howerton III was born in Japan on April 13, 1976 to Janice and Glenn Franklin Howerton Jr., a fighter pilot. He grew up in London and South Korea before moving to Alabama when he was 10 years old.

He was very seriously considering studying Aerospace Engineering at Auburn University before deciding to pursue acting. He spent two years at the New World School of the Arts in Miami, Florida, and then went on to graduate from the Juilliard School's Drama Division with a Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Howerton had his first starring role as Corey Howard in the short-lived "That '80s Show" (2002). He then guest starred as Dr. Nick Cooper on "ER," and had recurring guest roles in "The Mindy Project" (2013-2017) as Cliff Gilbert and the FX TV series "Fargo" (2014) as Don Chumph. He also had a recurring voice role on "The Cleveland Show" (2009-2013).

He has written many episodes of "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia," (2005-) for which he is also a producer, director and star. The show began as a short film idea written by Howerton and co-star Rob McElhenney about a man telling his friend he might have cancer, while the friend is only trying to borrow a cup of sugar. It was then developed into a pilot called "It's Always Sunny on TV" and was shot on a digital camcorder by Howerton, McElhenney and co-star Charlie Day. Their pilot was shopped around various studios before being picked up by FX.

Howerton married actress Jill Latiano on September 8, 2009. Together, they have two children. Their first son, Miles Robert, was born in 2011, and their second son, Isley Ray, in 2014.

Howerton is currently starring in "A.P. Bio" on NBC.

SATURDAY'S BEST BETS

Bill Hader

7 p.m. on (OXY) Aaron Hernandez Uncovered

This two-part special event, which premieres tonight and concludes Sunday, chronicles the complicated saga of the NFL superstar who was a true sports phenom, gathering millions of fans and riches beyond his dreams before events led him down a dark path. This examination of an icon's shocking double life opens with definitive interviews with members of the Massachusetts State Police, who lay out the strong murder case they built against Hernandez for the killing of linebacker Odin Lloyd.

8:30 p.m. on (NBCSN) 2018 Winter Paralympics

The 2018 Winter Paralympics in PyeongChang conclude with over six hours of coverage included in this evening's telecast, which should allow for both live events and replays with consideration for local time in South Korea. Expect to see gold medal games in wheelchair curling and ice sledge hockey. Other gold medal events on the schedule include cross country skiing, as well as alpine skiing, including the women's giant slalom.

11:29 p.m. on 2 & 3 Saturday Night Live

It's always a special occasion whenever a former regular on this show returns to it as a host, and "SNL" alum Bill Hader fills that role for the second time with this new episode. He has a new project to promote: "Barry," an upcoming HBO comedy series on which he fills many of the key jobs — including playing the title character. The band Arcade Fire is in the musical-guest slot for the fourth time.

Renovating Sin City one dump at a time on HGTV's 'Flip or Flop Vegas'

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Anyone who has ever renovated a run-down property knows of the horrors that can await – rotted wood, collapsing floors and ceilings, asbestos, decaying garbage, dead critters and squatters of the human and nonhuman kind among them.

As veteran home flippers and hosts of HGTV's "Flip or Flop Vegas," Bristol and Aubrey Marunde have seen it all in their decade-plus of saving some of the most dilapidated Sin City homes from the wrecking ball and turning them into showplaces, all with strong stomachs and a can-do attitude.

"A lot of these houses are extremely dirty and just downright gross," Bristol Marunde explains. "You know, it's hot in Vegas and these houses just bake, and so the old food and the old refrigerators and the deceased pets – somebody has to clean that up, and that somebody is me."

As the 13-episode second season gets going Thursday, March 15, builder Bristol and realtor and designer Aubrey take on more wayward homes, hoping that smart improvements and a dash of Vegas glamour will help turn a quick sale and make them a tidy profit. But to do that, they first must be ready to pounce when a prospect comes up for sale.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

Clint Eastwood is a filmmaker who famously likes to do things his way, so when he says he's going to cast the real people in a movie based on a true story, he probably doesn't get questioned too much at this point.

"The 15:17 to Paris" is an interesting effort, but at the same time, it underscores why actors act – and why those who aren't actors don't. The movie recalls a 2015 incident in which a gunman began firing aboard a high-speed European train, only to be subdued by three American passengers. Those young men, two of whom were in the military, play themselves in the film.

They certainly deserve to be named for their bravery: Spencer Stone, Alek Skarlatos and Anthony Sadler. And yes, there surely is a curiosity value to seeing the actual people the story is about, something that usually happens only fleetingly, if at all, in movies that re-create actual events.

That is bold and commemorative casting by Eastwood, and with all of his expertise on both sides of the camera, you have to figure he knows what he's doing. That also goes for his three true-life stars, at least to the degree of the instincts that led them to become impromptu heroes ... but it's one thing to really be heroes, and another to re-enact being that, which puts "The 15:17 to Paris" in a strange netherworld as both a drama and a semi-documentary.

While interesting to watch, it's also an odd fit, particularly in scenes that show the relatively unremarkable fellows just living their lives until fate calls them to action. That they're surrounded by television-familiar actors such as Jenna Fischer ("The Office") and Thomas Lennon ("Reno 911!") also underscores that they're fish out of water when they're not seen on the train.

Of course, though, everything builds to the critical moment aboard the locomotive ... which Eastwood stages in his traditionally straightforward way. It's a suspenseful sequence, even with the world knowing how the incident turned out. And it's a curio again to see the three men re-create the motions they went through to defuse a crisis, which probably felt strange for them to be directed through this time, no matter who else was calling the shots.

It seems doubtful that any of the trio will make moviemaking their new calling, but at least for the moment, Clint Eastwood and "The 15:17 to Paris" give them their due.
