New tax collector ready to listen, learn

By B.C. Manion
bcmansion@cnewspubs.com

Mike Fasano spent his first day as Pasco County's tax collector visiting the four offices that are now under his supervision.

"I was so impressed by the abilities of the staff and their work ethic," said Fasano, who said he plans to listen and learn as much as he can while transitioning into his new role.

Fasano was selected by Gov. Rick Scott to assume the post left empty by the death of Mike Olson, the tax collector since 1981, who died suddenly in June.

Scott appointed Fasano at an Aug. 7 ceremony at New Port Richey City Hall.

Fasano, a Republican from New Port Richey, said he was honored that the governor made the appointment in person, with colleagues from the Legislature there to

Academy buys 46 acres, laying groundwork for its future

By Michael Hinman
mhinman@cnewspubs.com

Academy at the Lakes, central Pasco County's private school that hugs both sides of Collier Parkway off SR 54, is getting a lot larger, growing by more than 46 acres.

The school has purchased a large chunk of land near its existing campus that has belonged to the pioneer MacManus family for decades, with an eye toward a major campus expansion in the coming years.

The $2 million land grab is four times larger than the school's existing campus, and allows Academy at the Lakes to extend its reach to 20 Mile Level Road with a total of nearly 60 acres of land.

"About six years ago, my sister and I, and our brother, started talking about what we wanted to do with this land," said Dr. Lou MacManus. A retired surgeon who lived for decades in Ohio and Tennessee, MacManus grew up in a modest house built a year before she was born on the property now owned by Academy at the Lakes. She shares many memories of her childhood on the land with her sister, University of South Florida professor Susan MacManus, as well as her late brother, Dr. H. Cameron MacManus, who was killed in a plane crash last spring.

"There's been a lot of changes here since we were kids, and many of them good changes," MacManus said. "But we didn't want to see a bunch of homes on this land."

MAKING IT WORK

Academy at the Lakes had plans to expand for the last two years, but the deal to purchase this piece of MacManus land came together only recently, thanks to the work of the MacManus family, as well as the Academy's head of school Mark Heller and then board of trustees chair Cynthia Miller.

"The MacManuses have been very interested in seeing the future of their parents' and grandparents' land used for something productive and positive for the community," Heller said. "They could've easily sold this land to a developer for a lot more money. But instead, decided that they should take a

Watch out Band-Aid: Wesley Chapel woman develops liquid bandage

By B.C. Manion

Kerriann Greenhalgh was studying at the University of South Florida when an idea struck her for a product that could plug a gap in the market.

That idea has since gone from concept to creation with the launch of Greenhalgh's own company, KeriCure Inc.

The company uses a water-based polymer technology that was developed by University of South Florida scientists in 2003. Greenhalgh's product provides a sting-free, preservative-free, waterproof liquid bandage that blocks bacteria and fungi from invading minor cuts, scrapes and burns.

The woman-owned company has developed KeriCure Skin Protectant, KeriCure Natural Seal Skin Protectant and is in the process of developing KeriCure Advanced - Rx for Medical Use.

The skin protectant is a spray designed for people who are on the go. It is being sold at more than 200 Kroger grocery stores and is scheduled in September to hit the shelves at 616 Publix stores in Florida, and 239 more in Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina and Alabama.

"Seeing it in Publix is going to be so fun," said Greenhalgh, who grew up in New Tampa and graduated from Wharton High School before obtaining her bachelor's degree and doctorate from USF.

Long before her wound care spray hit the shelves, Greenhalgh, who is chair and chief executive officer of her company, was busy raising funds, networking and learning what she needed to manufacture her product and get it to market.

It took research to find six companies that could manufacture the packaging and the product.

Steinbrenner High student wins modeling competition

By B.C. Manion
bcmanion@cnewspubs.com

When Courtney Reed hits the runway, she has a singular goal: To put whatever piece of apparel she's wearing in its best light.

Recently, the 17-year-old Steinbrenner High School student proved that she knows how to work a runway by capturing first place in Old Navy's "Next Top Model" competition at a mall in Sarasota.

She modeled black jeans, a black tank top and a white jacket, along with accessories — and came out on top among a field of about 60 competitors.

As a result of winning that competition, she now advances to the Florida competition for Miss Teen U.S.A.

The young woman from Lutz said she was first introduced to modeling when she was 13.

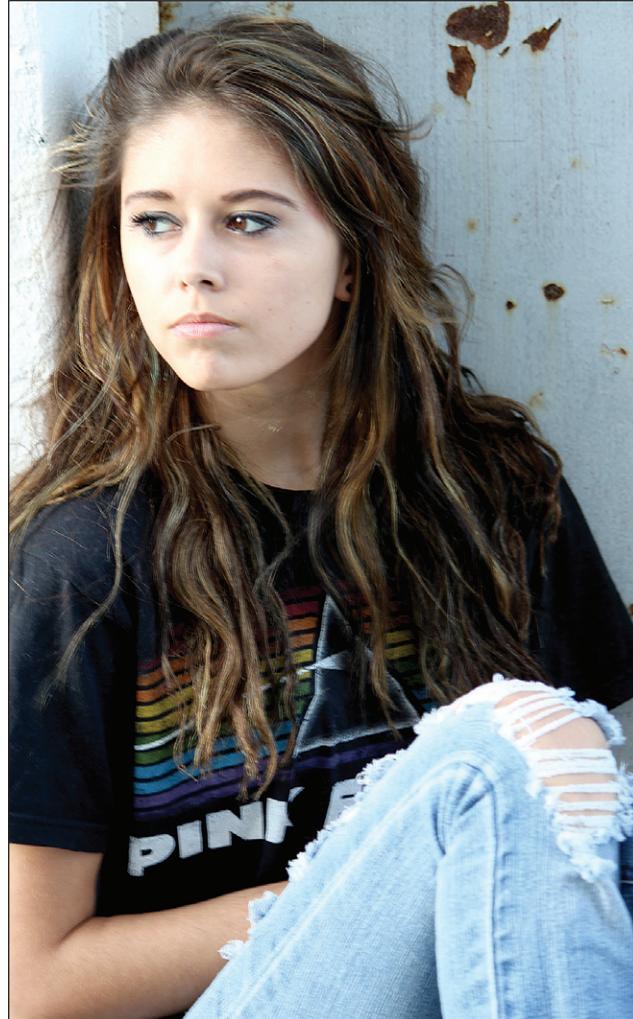

Reed was at a Jonas Brothers concert at the amphitheater at the Florida State Fairgrounds when someone approached her and asked if she'd ever considered modeling.

She said she was interested, so she went to an audition and ultimately began working with a management company called N8 Talent, based in Sarasota.

N8 Talent is a management company for actors, models, vocalists, comics and bands in Florida and Los Angeles. The company's

One of the many looks of Courtney Reed, a young woman from Lutz who enjoys modeling.

"It was really tough," said her mom, Debbie. The agents were interested, but the family couldn't swing it financially. Things just got put on hold for a little bit."

Steve said he's pleased by his daughter's commitment and her ability to maintain a level head.

"I'm proud of how she's stuck with it throughout the years," he said. "She has a good outlook. She works hard at it."

Despite the family's economic setbacks, the young woman has taken it all in stride.

Reed said she enjoys modeling and would love to pursue a career in modeling and acting. At the same time, she's also interested in studying psychology and becoming a licensed cosmetologist.

She can easily picture herself doing hair and makeup for other models.

Courtney knows that psychology and cosmetology may seem like an odd combo to some, but that doesn't bother her a bit.

She also has a variety of other interests. Courtney carries a 3.76 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, as she enters her senior year at Steinbrenner.

clients have been involved in numerous widely known films and television programs including "Spider-Man," "Dolphin Tale," "ER" and "Hannah Montana." N8 has also done commercial work for clients like T.J. Maxx, MTV, Publix Super Markets and McDonalds.

Reed said she attended the International Presentation of Performers, or iPop, in Las Vegas, and received callbacks from several agents in Los Angeles. But she was unable to pursue those opportunities.

At the time, her dad, Steve, was laid off from his job as an information technology manager after 23 years with the company.

She also plays piano and violin.

She was an altar server at St. Timothy Catholic Church for four years, and hopes to attend college in New York while pursuing modeling opportunities there.

But rejection is part of the business when it comes to modeling and acting, and Steve Roberts from N8 has worked with Courtney to make sure she doesn't take it personally.

"If I don't get a call back, I'm not what they wanted at that moment," Reed said.

Much-needed supplies head to schools before Aug. 19 opening

By Michael Hinman
mhinman@cnewspubs.com

Pasco County Schools is set to approve a budget valued at more than $1 billion. Yet, the hundreds of teachers who lead classrooms in the district regularly find themselves without much-needed supplies as simple as notebooks and pencils.

And that's where United Way of Pasco County steps in.

The charity and service group collected more than 10,000 school supply items recently as part of its annual Stuff the Bus for Teachers campaign. The effort is designed to bring the community together, stocking classrooms and giving a helping hand to the men and women responsible for ensuring the education of our young future leaders.

"Teachers spend between $400 and $1,000 out of their own pocket to supply their classrooms," said Stefanie Pontlitz, director of development for the local United Way office. "After hearing that, we really wanted to try and assess their needs, because it not only helps the teachers, it helps the students, and it helps learning. And that helps keep the focus on the classroom."

This year, United Way and Pasco County Schools will reach out to 770 teachers in 80 of its schools to help supply their classrooms with essential items. They'll use supplies collected from 14 buses parked at Publix and Walmart locations throughout the county during Florida's annual tax-free holiday.

With school ready to start on Aug. 19, the district is looking for everything they can to help. That includes $1,000 thanks to a small church congregation in Trinity that took a bit of a unique approach.

"If you see someone in need, and it's within your power to help them, let's do so," said Pastor Clayton Bell, who leads Trinity New Life Church at Trinity Elementary School on Duck Slough Boulevard.

For the second year in a row, Bell interrupted his regular Sunday morning sermon at the young church to convince his flock to get in their cars and head straight to the nearby Walmart. There, the church shopped together, leaving with several carts full of supplies.

"Pasco is a very heavy-education county, and we have a lot of teachers and home-school moms in our church," Bell said. "Teachers have to do so much out of their

Supplies aplenty

Pasco County Schools and the United Way of Pasco County collected nearly 10,000 pieces of much-needed school supplies during its Stuff the Bus for Teachers event. That included:

- 2,902 spiral notebooks
- 1,437 folders
- 4,839 pencils
- 433 scissors
- 831 glue bottles
- 795 glue sticks

own pocket, and we wanted to do something that would help them."

The effort also got support from local Rotary clubs, as well as teachers themselves, volunteering at drop-off points around the county. Moving company Two Men and a Truck will deliver supplies to west Pasco schools, while the United Way will take care of the eastern side of the county.

Among the volunteers was Pasco Schools superintendent Kurt Browning, who not only donated his own box of supplies, but also worked tirelessly to help organize everything as they were brought into the Pine View Middle School gymnasium.

"It's a great partnership, and the United Way has been a catalyst to really lead the effort," Browning said. "But my thanks goes out to all the people that contributed their hard-earned dollars to make sure our kids have what they need to start school here."

This year slightly less than $40,000 in donations came in, topping last year's total of around $35,000, and the increase was needed since 80 more names were added to the teacher list.

"This is our county's future," Pontlitz said. "We want to support the future, and we want to support our teachers."

The trip from the buses to the inventory room in the gymnasium of Pine View Middle School was a short one thanks to some hand trucks.

Clerk's office warns residents of scam involving jury summons

By B.C. Manion
bcmanion@cnewspubs.com

If the phone rings and someone on the other end of the call says it's time for jury duty, beware.

The Pasco County Clerk & Comptroller's office is reminding residents that notices of jury service and failure-to-appear notifications are still mailed, and not made over the telephone. The warning comes after the clerk's office received word from their state association that these kinds of calls are going out, said Darcy Foster, director of strategic enterprise for the clerk's office.

Some of these calls also seek sensitive personal information, which should never be provided to an unsolicited phone caller, the clerk's office advises.

The fraudulent telephone calls generally follow the same lines, the clerk's office notes, claiming it's coming from the office of the court. The caller threatens to have a warrant issued for an arrest if that person does not report for jury duty.

When the person receiving the calls says they never received a notice or summons, they're then prompted to give information like birthdate, Social Security number or even credit or bank account information, according to the clerk's office.

When that happens, the person receiving the call should hang up the telephone and report the call to a local law enforcement agency, Foster said.

They can even take the additional step of reporting the fraud to the Federal Trade Commission at FTC.gov, or call (877) 382-4357.

Anyone with questions about jury duty notices or summons can call O'Neill's office at (800) 368-2411, ext. 2200.

St. Joseph's Hospital Cancer Institute Treating Cancer Patients for 30 Years

This summer, St. Joseph's Hospital in Tampa is celebrating the 30th anniversary of the start of its complete cancer program, St. Joseph's Cancer Institute.

"We set out 30 years ago to provide the best care possible for adult and pediatric cancer patients," said Carl Brannan, M.D., a former surgeon at St. Joseph's Hospital and former cancer liaison physician for the American College of Surgeons Commission on Cancer.

Although much has changed in the last 30 years, there are still many familiar faces around St. Joseph's Cancer Institute.

Joseph G. Sinkovics, M.D., an oncologist, joined St. Joseph's Hospital in 1981 and was named the first medical director of St. Joseph's Cancer Institute in 1983. He still works at the hospital as the Cancer Institute's senior medical and scientific advisor. A handful of oncology nurses from the early 1980s who were the Cancer Institute's first team members are still caring for oncology patients.

In 1986, Dr. Carl Brannan's son, Anthony Brannan, M.D., joined his father in surgical practice at St. Joseph's Hospital. He then took over his father's position as the cancer liaison physician for the American College of Surgeons Commission on Cancer when his father retired two years later. He too, became the chairman of St. Joseph's Cancer Committee, a position he still holds today.

Cancer services continued to grow with the opening of St. Joseph's Children's Hospital Hematology and Oncology Department in 1990. Hardeo Panchoosingh, M.D. now leads the pediatric program as it continues to grow and treat Tampa Bay area children.

"As we celebrate the 30th anniversary of St. Joseph's Cancer Institute, we again want to express appreciation for the enthusiasm and generosity of the many loyal cancer professionals who care for our cancer patients and who make the successes of the St. Joseph's Cancer Institute possible," said Dr. Anthony Brannan. "With their leadership and support, we are confident in our ability to fulfill our mission and set the standard for high-quality, compassionate cancer services in our community."

Today, St. Joseph's Cancer Institute treats more cancer patients in Hillsborough County than any other facility. It serves as a community resource dedicated to improving survival and quality of life for cancer patients through collaborative efforts in prevention, testing and diagnosis, research, education and the monitoring of comprehensive quality care. Board-certified surgeons, oncologists and radiologists at the Cancer Institute specialize in diagnosing colorectal cancer, breast cancer, pediatric cancer and blood diseases, gynecological and ovarian cancers, lung cancer, prostate cancer, skin cancer and other types of cancer.

The Cancer Institute functions within St. Joseph's Hospitals (St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Joseph's Women's Hospital, St. Joseph's Children's Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital-North) and within its affiliated independent physician offices/practices.

In 2012, the Cancer Institute expanded services to St. Joseph's newest location, St. Joseph's Hospital-North, bringing infusion therapy to the Lutz community.

Craven Chiropractic Offers Patients Breakthrough Treatment for Diabetic Neuropathy, Fibromyalgia and Chronic Pain

Do you or a loved one suffer from Diabetic Neuropathy, Fibromyalgia or Chronic Pain? Dr. Michael Craven can offer you relief with NeuropathyDR Protocol.

Dr. Michael Craven, a well-respected chiropractor who has practiced in Land O' Lakes since 1983, has partnered with NeuropathyDR to offer treatment plans that dramatically reduce chronic pain, burning, numbness, fatigue, muscle weakness and tingling caused by nerve damage from diabetic neuropathy, fibromyalgia and other chronic pain sources.

Traditional treatments for chronic pain are only focused on treating symptoms with prescription drugs and in the case of diabetes, by controlling blood sugar. But drugs are expensive, often have limited effectiveness and can result in unpleasant side effects. If only physical therapy is prescribed, patients often do not find lasting relief.

NeuropathyDR is a new breakthrough program for people who suffer from various forms of neuropathy. In addition to successfully treating the symptoms of these chronic diseases, it also addresses the true root causes and fosters independence.

Fortunately for area residents, Dr. Craven is the only doctor in Tampa Bay to offer this new NeuropathyDR program and his office is close to home for residents in Pasco and north Hillsborough counties.

What Exactly Is Diabetic Neuropathy?

This chronic disease is a result of nerve damage that results in pain, weakness, burning and tingling in the hands and feet. Its root cause is most often trauma, medications and systemic diseases like diabetes. An estimated 20 million Americans suffer from this debilitating illness.

How Does NeuropathyDR Help?

This comprehensive program of patient care incorporates nutrition, dietary changes, exercise and rehab therapies. It uses clinically tested NDGen home care electrical therapy units, along with massage, spinal therapy and LASER THERAPY, to achieve lasting pain relief and long-term self-management of their illness.

What Makes NeuropathyDR Different From Other Treatments?

This protocol begins by establishing a baseline upon which to improve and then develops four key areas:

- 1.) Determine what caused a patient's neuropathy, fibromyalgia or chronic pain in the first place
- 2.) Diet analysis and specific nutritional supplement combinations
- 3.) Using Laser Therapy and NDGen nerve stimulators to heal and restore function.
- 4.) Perhaps most importantly, Dr. Craven monitors his patient's progress and adjusts their individual, specific treatment plans based upon their clinical results to achieve maximum relief.

The Bottom Line

This program is for the patient that is serious, really serious, about restoring their health, normal daily function, independence, and reducing their dependency on drugs.

For diabetic neuropathy there is usually four to six weeks of supervised in-office treatments, then patients continue on a personal, home-care program. Most patients need only periodic, in-clinic follow-ups. Other conditions may require less.

Craven Chiropractic uses the highest quality professional and research-supported nutritional products and therapy tools. Laser Therapy especially has shown fantastic results with a multitude of painful conditions.

Dr. Craven is always available for follow up and emergencies. The office phone is answered live 24/7, offering you direct contact with Dr. Craven by phone or email, at all reasonable hours of every day. He gladly shares clinical support materials with your physicians and always refers you back to your personal physicians for careful monitoring of underlying medical conditions.

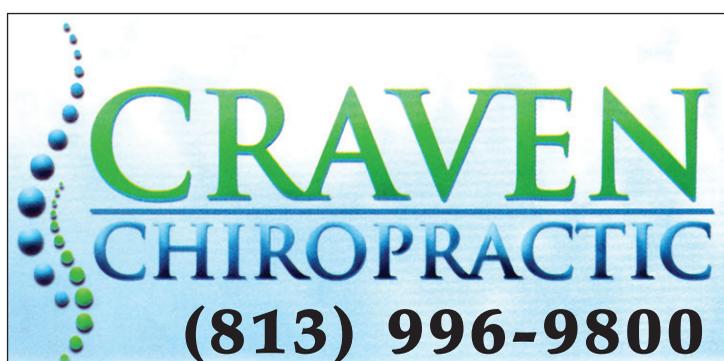

Call our office at (813) 996-9800 to schedule a FREE* Neuropathy Consult and Analysis.

(* $99 Value)

Dr. Craven looks forward to personally consulting with you on this exciting new program for particularly challenging problems.

Personal, outstanding patient care to area residents since 1983.

Pine trees replaced orange groves on much of the MacManus land decades ago, and now they could form the border of an expanded campus for Academy at the Lakes.

philanthropic route, and dedicate this land to the same thing they have always dedicated their lives to: education."

Academy at the Lakes is paying slightly more than $2 million for the land, equating to a little less than $44,000 per acre. MacManus set up a charitable remainder annuity trust, which holds the 16-year mortgage for the property. Excluding any interest or other fees, that will cost the growing school approximately $10,500 per month on average.

While it might seem high, Heller sees it as an investment in the future for a school that is key to the economic growth in central Pasco County.

"The north side of the county is growing so fast, certainly now that construction and homebuilding is picking back up again," Heller said. "The north side is going to be burgeoning again, just like it did 10 years ago, and we're going to be able to grow with that community, and provide resources to that growing community."

There are no immediate plans to build on the land, but it is something the school expects to do at some point to accommodate student needs, Heller said. In the meantime, some of the older students will tend to the land and learn how to grow oranges and take part in other agricultural activities. Food raised will be donated to local charities.

Heller talked about expansion in August 2011 when he said Academy at the Lakes should explore ways that would set it up for the next 100 years.

"This is something that could absolutely transform the footprint and the presence of the school," Heller said at the time.

What happens is up to the school's board of trustees, but there are many possibilities. One could include integrating the entire campus into one site, instead of having the younger and older students divided physically by Collier Parkway. The land could also become a sports complex center, among other things.

"There's just so much that we can do that we haven't really even talked about yet," Heller said.

NEVER FORGET HISTORY

The matriarch of the MacManus family had always pushed education on her children, explaining why Lou MacManus and her siblings all reached doctorate levels in their schooling. Knowing that the farm she worked so hard to build would now be used for educating hundreds of young people — not just three — would make her mother proud, MacManus said.

"Education was so big for us growing up, and we were always out learning everything," MacManus said. "We spent a lot of times outdoors, and didn't watch much TV. We were doing sports, riding bicycles, and I even had a horse."

The 2,200-square-foot house that served as the MacManus home for more than half a century still stands on the property. There are trees in front where the young MacManus children would hang their wet clothes after swimming in the nearby lake.

"We were together and outside from dawn until dusk," MacManus said. "We spent our days swimming in the lake and roaming around the orange groves."

And while the lake may no longer be a place where young people can just jump in, the land will be there to help educate many generations to come.

share the event.

Olson, who held the office longer than any other tax collector in Florida, had a reputation for efficiency and customer service.

Fasano said he plans to build on that foundation.

Shortly before his death, Olson was seeking new locations in the central and eastern parts of the county to improve services for customers. At the time, Olson said the tax collector's office at 4111 Land O' Lakes Blvd. was too small and that its parking lot was unsafe for people who were there to take tests for their driver's license.

Olson advocated finding a new location, which would include a driving course where applicants for driver's licenses could take their tests.

Olson predicted that driver's license offices equipped with driver courses would become the prototype of the future.

Olson was also pushing for a regional office to serve the Zephyrhills and Wesley Chapel areas. He said that office should have a driving course, too.

Fasano said there's no doubt that the tax collector needs an office in the Wesley Chapel area.

"There's a customer service need, especially when it comes to driver's licenses and registrations," he said.

He thinks it is likely that a future office in the area will be located somewhere around SR 56 or old SR 54.

Fasano also thinks he needs to take a look at the Land O' Lakes facilities.

He said he wants to be sure that he understands the office needs. While Olson was interested on pushing ahead on those offices, Fasano said he is not pursuing those new facilities immediately.

Rather, the county should use the money to help avoid major tax cuts and to limit the need for a tax increase, Fasano said. He is interested in pursuing the possibility of shared facilities with the county and the school district.

"We're all from Pasco, and we all have to work together," said Fasano, who was a state lawmaker for 19 years, serving in both the state house and state senate.

His appointment drew praise from legislative colleagues.

"Rep. Fasano has worked tirelessly over the past 19 years in office fighting for the consumer and the little guy and gal," State Sen. John Legg, R-Lutz, said in a news release. "He brings not only the expertise and know-how to run the office of tax collector, but he possesses the passion for excellent service that will benefit Pasco residents for years to come."

Pasco County Democratic Executive Committee Chair Lynn Lindeman also applauded Fasano's appointment.

"That's what he wanted, and for his service, he deserves it," Lindeman said, noting that residents have lost a Republican legislator from Pasco who put residents' well being ahead of ideology and dictates.

Fasano, 55, will hold the office through Nov. 11, 2014, when an election will be held to fill the post until 2016. The post pays more than $136,000 a year.

Even before his appointment, Fasano said he had been considering a run for the tax collector's post, but said he didn't plan to do that until Olson retired.

While Fasano adjusts to his new role, a primary election has been set to fill the District 36 he vacated in the state house.

Gov. Scott has scheduled a special primary election for that seat on Sept. 17, and a special general election on Oct. 14. The seat encompasses about 94,000 Pasco County voters within 35 precincts.

"I personally financed the whole operation for a year and a half," said Greenhalgh, who taught chemistry at USEF.

She came up with the idea for her product when she was a student.

"I was working with this technology and I noticed that the polymer that we were working with formed a film," Greenhalgh said. "It's really elastic and it stretched and moved and would go back to the normal shape. I looked at this, and I said, 'You know, this would make a really cool second skin, like a liquid bandage.'"

Greenhalgh began using the product herself all the way through graduate school. "I always had it at my house for my pets, for myself, for my husband. I just always kept using it," she said.

Greenhalgh didn't pursue her idea right away, but she knew there was a need for it and she knew it worked, she said.

"I didn't realize how well it worked until people started using it," she said. Since it has been available, people have told her that they've used it as an after-care product for tattoos. Some have used it for psoriasis and others for acne, she said.

And since it's waterproof, it's good for those who want to be in the water, or who might be working up a sweat, Greenhalgh said.

She's interested in seeking out other markets in the United States, including Winn-Dixie, CVS and Walgreens, as well as branching out to Central and South America.

Although initial marketing efforts are going well and the company now has four full-time and one part-time employee, Greenhalgh isn't trying to build a huge company.

"We don't want to be a powerhouse," said the scientist, who lives with her husband, Daniel Opp and nine-month-old son, Nolan Opp, near Quail Hollow. "I don't want to be running a nationwide company and selling product. It's hard, dealing with the retail side of things. There are nuances to it. There are loopholes and pitfalls."

Instead, she would like to get a lab facility and do what she does best: research and development.

"We have a lot of medical product ideas that are in the pipeline," Greenhalgh said.

Being successful with this product is the first step, though, she said.

"We've got this up and running. We've got to get it going," she said. "That way we can find people that are interested in licensing the products from us."

Can Anclote be stopped in Class 5A-District 7?

By Jeff Odom

jodom@cnewspubs.com

As the 2013 high school football season fast approaches, The Laker/Lutz News sports staff is previewing the new districts marked up by the Florida High School Athletic Association.

Our fourth installment in the series takes a look at Class 5A-District 7.

For past editions, go to LakerLutzNews.com.

MEET THE TEAMS

Anclote (6-5, 5-2 in 5A-6)

Gulf (0-10, 0-7 in 5A-6)

Hudson (3-7, 3-4 in 5A-6)

Ridgewood (1-9, 1-6 in 5A-6)

River Ridge (3-7, 1-6 in 6A-6)

Wesley Chapel (3-7, 2-5 in 5A-6)

ANCLOTE'S TITLE TO LOSE

The Anclote Sharks made the playoffs last season as a district runner-up behind region semifinalist Pasco, and are the only team in 5A-7 that had a winning record last season.

And the bad news for fellow opponents — all signs point to coach Matt Wicks' team keeping its foot on the gas pedal.

Though they lost a few key offensive linemen, the Sharks return one of the top running backs in the North Suncoast in senior Willie Barrett.

Barrett rushed for 1,901 yards on 20 carries last season, and finished with 22 total touchdowns. He was also invited to compete in the Under Armour All-America underclassmen combine, which was at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg in January, and featured some of the best players in the country.

If Anclote can keep running the ball with Barrett and find a good replacement for quarterback John Forgione — who graduated in May after passing for 906 yards with 15 touchdowns his senior season — the Sharks will be very hard to knock off, and could cruise to their first district championship in program history.

KANTOR TURNS AROUND HUDSON

Former Gaither coach Mark Kantor came to Hudson without any real expectations other than to win a couple games here and there.

But after his first season, which saw the Cobras improve from an 0-10 record in 2011 to 3-7 last year, Kantor might just sneak Hudson into the playoffs in his second year.

The Cobras return a host of playmakers, including running back Noah Siegrist, who rushed for 656 yards and four touchdowns during his junior season. Under an experienced leader like Kantor, Siegrist could thrive in 2013.

Another big key for Hudson this season will be the development of quarterback Joey Caruso. As a sophomore, Caruso appeared in six games for the Cobras last season and passed for 266 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

Though those are not Joe Montana-like numbers, Caruso will continue to get better, especially with one year under his belt in Kantor's system.

WILDCATS GET STRONGER

With interest back in its program, Wesley Chapel has high hopes for the future.

The Wildcats struggled to draw players into its program under Ben Alford last season, and it showed as only 26 players were on the spring roster in 2012.

But optimism is shining bright this season under first-year coach Tico Hernandez, who took over for Alford after he left Wesley Chapel to take a director job in Iowa. And that could be a major impact for the young Wildcats.

Hernandez has instilled a new motto for his players — Building Men for Others — and that doesn't just ring true in the community, but on the field, too.

Wesley Chapel lost 12 seniors to graduation after last season, but returns a host of leaders, including quarterback Ty Tanner, who passed for 445 yards with four touchdowns during his sophomore campaign.

CAN'T MISS MATCH-UP

Wiregrass Ranch at Wesley Chapel, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m.

Yes, it's a nondistrict game. Yes, Wiregrass Ranch has never defeated its cross-town foe in the regular season. And, yes, this could be one of the dark horse picks for the best game in Pasco County this year.

'Nuff said?

This game won't have implications for the district championship, but a reloaded, hungry to win Wiregrass against a scrappy Wesley Chapel bunch will make for some big fireworks.

And if the spring meeting between these two teams in early June was any indication of what's to come in November, you better buckle your seatbelts. It's going to be a dogfight.

Still, even with a new culture, there are bound to be some bumps in the road.

Question marks swirl around the Wildcats' offense, which loses leading-rusher Daquan Caeseur (671 yards on 125 carries) and top-receiver Jordan Primus (222 yards on 18 receptions). On defense, Wesley Chapel returns Nalu Fraticelli (108 total tackles) and Mark LaBarbera (67 total tackles), but loses Kudiel Gomez, who had 57 total tackles, including five for losses.

It won't be easy going up against the likes of Anclote and nondistrict opponents in Pasco and Sunlake. But Wesley Chapel has enough quality players to get close to a playoff spot this season.

PROJECTIONS: 1. Anclote 2. Hudson 3. River Ridge 4. Wesley Chapel 5. Gulf 6. Ridgewood

KEEP AN EYE ON ...

Willie Barrett, running back, Anclote

Barrett represents the Sharks' biggest bite out of the backfield. The senior has one offer on the table from South Alabama, but expect Division I programs to line up at the door for his services if he is able to repeat or better his near-2,000-yard season in 2012.

Marcus Hayne, wide receiver, Wesley Chapel

Hayne has been one of the best players for the Wildcats' athletic program, but on the hardwood, not the gridiron. The 6-foot-7 senior is giving football a try after helping lead the Wesley Chapel boys basketball team to its first district title in seven years. With that kind of experience, he will be an appreciated member of the locker room and possibly even an under-the-radar playmaker that will give Tanner a nice target down the field.

Performance-enhancing drugs hit high school level

By Jeff Odom

jodom@cnewspubs.com

In light of the recent Biogenesis scandal that put a black eye on Major League Baseball, the Florida High School Athletic Association is conducting a major review of its policies against the use of performance-enhancing drugs for student-athletes.

In a release by the organization, which regulates interscholastic athletic programs for high school students at member public and private schools, FHSAA executive director Roger Dearing asked the Sports Medicine Advisory committee to perform a "top-to-bottom review" of existing policies to determine what can be done to eliminate PED use.

"The FHSAA's overriding priority is the safety, well-being and constructive development of young student-athletes, whose bodies and character are still forming," Dearing said. "Performance-enhancing drugs undermine every aspect of this goal, and so it is imperative that our student-athletes adhere to a zero tolerance policy toward these inherently unfair and dangerous substances."

Roger Dearing

Existing FHSAA policies and bylaws state that student-athletes can be suspended from competing if they have used PEDs, but Dearing said it isn't enough. Especially after a report by the Miami Herald alleged that two current high school baseball players were clients of the Biogenesis Anti-Aging Clinic in South Florida where many professional baseball players, including New York Yankees third baseman Alex Rodriguez, Milwaukee Brewers outfielder Ryan Braun and Texas Rangers outfielder Nelson Cruz, were found to have allegedly obtained banned substances.

In total, MLB officials suspended 13 players for their involvement.

Dearing said the issue starts and ends with coaches.

"Here is the bottom line for me: As executive director of FHSAA, I believe we must draw a line in the sand against performance-enhancing drugs," Dearing said. "School districts simply cannot tolerate coaches who encourage or look the other way when athletes use PEDs. Therefore, these coaches cannot be allowed to keep their jobs or have anything to do with young athletes."

"This is more than safeguarding fair play. It's about saving lives."

According to the release, Dearing has asked the 15-member committee, which includes 11 physicians, as well as athletic trainers, former coaches and educators, to review a full range of issues related to PED use, including but not limited to:

— Whether existing policies and procedures provide sufficient authority for schools to test and discipline student-athletes who may be using banned substances.

— The legal, policy and fiscal implications of heightened policies against performance-enhancing drugs; and — Whether the FHSAA prohibition of PEDs would be more effective if set out as a stand-alone policy rather than existing as a part of a broader policy on sportsmanship.

Dearing was joined in his pledge for a review by State Sen. Bill Montford, D-Tallahassee, who is a former school principal and superintendent and now serves as chief executive officer of the Florida Association of District School Superintendents.

"Performance-enhancing drugs pose a very real, very dangerous threat to high school student-athletes, both physically and psychologically," Montford said in the release. "I commend the FHSAA for being proactive in addressing the challenge presented by coaches, parents and young athletes who want to get ahead by any means possible, whatever the personal cost."

Jennifer Roth Manyard, an assistant professor of family and sports medicine with the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville and member of the FHSAA Sports Medicine Advisory Committee, said the organization is making positive strides to eliminate PEDs.

"Teenagers are still developing ... and PEDs have no place in their lives," Manyard said in the release. "Whatever the FHSAA can do to stop PEDs from being used by high school student-athletes is a step in the right direction."

Saint Leo names new women's golf coach

The Laker/Lutz News Staff Report

Tommy Baker has been named the new women's golf coach for Saint Leo University.

Baker, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, makes his way to Saint Leo after serving as the head men's and women's golf coach at Coker College in Hartsville, S.C.

"I am extremely honored and excited to be joining the Saint Leo family," Baker said. "I am very excited about the future of Saint Leo women's golf. The program has established itself as a regional power, and I feel they are on the verge of bursting onto the national scene."

Under Baker's tutelage at Coker, the women's golf program was transformed into a regional competitor. During the 2012-13 season alone, the Cobras had three top-5 finishes, and they completed eight of nine events in the top 15. In addition to the women's success, Baker guided his men's program to 12 total tournament victories. The men's team also captured the 2012 Conference Carolinas Championship.

"We are excited to add Tommy Baker to our staff and the leadership he brings to our women's program," said Athletic Director Francis X. Reidy. "His accomplishments at his previous positions on and off the golf course are a great fit for our athletic mission and university values."

In his five years with the Cobras, Baker helped to produce more than 70 Conference Carolinas Presidential Honor Roll recipients, 32 All-Tournament Team selections, 17 All-Conference Team selections, 11 team tournament victories and 10 individual medalist honors.

In addition, he led six Golf Coaches Association of America All-Region Selections, two GCAA All-Freshman Team selections, one Conference Carolinas Player of the Year, one Conference Carolinas Freshman of the Year, and one Ping First Team All-America selection.

Along with numerous awards, Baker's teams spent 29 consecutive weeks ranked in the Golf World/Nike Coaches' Poll in 2012-13. He also led the Cobras to six NCAA Regional Appearances and one NCAA National Championship appearance. In 2012, his women's golf team also won the Conference Carolinas Team Sportsmanship Award. Adding to his resume, Baker was named the Conference Carolinas Coach of the year in 2009.

Prior to his success with the Cobras, Baker was an assistant men's and women's golf coach at his alma mater, UNC Pembroke, for two years.

As a member of the UNC Pembroke golf team from 2002-06, Baker was a four-time letterman, as well as a four-time Peach Belt Conference Honor Roll Selection. He received a bachelor's of science with honors in exercise in sport science, as well as his masters in sports administration.

The Fayetteville, N.C. native will serve Saint Leo as the fourth head women's golf coach since the program's inception in 2002.

Families Love Elsa's 41 Tex-Mex Sports Grill

More Than Mexican – Something For Everyone

Families looking for affordable dining with something for everyone are flocking to Elsa's 41 Tex-Mex Sports Grill in downtown Lutz.

In addition to its trademark Tex-Mex cuisine, Elsa's is known for its signature wings, excellent pizzas and outstanding specials — 50-cent wings on Sundays, $1 tacos on Mondays and kids eat free on Tuesdays.

Along with these incredible deals, diners can also choose from Elsa's "2 for $20" menu, available every day, all day long, and includes one appetizer, two entrées and one delicious dessert.

"Our portions are so generous that our "2 for $20" menu serves so much food that guests frequently ask for take-home boxes," said Manager Justin Hemmert, whose family owns Elsa's.

"In addition to a shared appetizer and dessert, each entree includes Mexican rice and refried beans. It really is a heck of a deal."

Elsa's is a neighborhood restaurant located in the heart of downtown Lutz at US 41 and Sunset Boulevard. Just four miles south of State Road 54, and four miles north of Bearss Avenue, its patrons mostly come from Lutz, Land O' Lakes, Wesley Chapel, Carrollwood and north Tampa.

"We truly are a neighborhood restaurant with a genuine, family atmosphere," said Justin. "We are a good alternative to chain restaurants for families looking for great food, great service and great prices. Plus, we have a full service bar and super happy hour prices for those wanting a beer, margarita or cocktail with their meal."

Elsa's all-day, every-day drink special features two-for-one well drinks and $1.75 pint domestic drafts. It also offers $5 margaritas on Mondays and half-price bottled Mexican beer on Tuesdays.

Elsa's bar is best known for its trademark Bad Juan margarita, by far its most popular mixed drink — a clear, lime-based drink made from tequila, lime juice and triple sec. Complementing the Bad Juan is the Bad Juanita, a strawberry margarita popular with the ladies and young adults. Beware, the strawberry has the same alcohol content as the original.

"Our Bad Juans are very smooth for a margarita," said Justin. "People like them because they are delicious and also for their strong alcohol content, which is double the amount of liquor found in a bottle of wine."

Elsa's is owned and operated by the Hemmert family, a multigenerational restaurant family that has owned restaurants in Ohio for more than 30 years.

Son Justin took over as general manager of the Lutz restaurant last fall. He grew up in the family business and worked in the kitchen through high school and college. After graduating, he spent 10 years working as a CPA, five of those years for a company located in Clearwater, before returning to the family business in 2009.

"Justin's financial expertise and understanding of business operations has been invaluable in his management of our Lutz store," said Bill Hemmert, Justin's father and founder of the company.

"We want local residents to know that Elsa's has a very strong capital base," he continued. "We can weather the normal up-and-downs of the restaurant business, and now with Justin's financial background, our Lutz store is stronger than ever."

"We're here to stay," Justin adds.

Elsa's employees and customers want to congratulate long-time manager Amanda Cagle on the birth of her beautiful baby daughter, Teagan. We look forward to your return!

Suttles to play for Miami, sit out year

By Jeff Odom

jodom@cnewspubs.com

Less than two months after he was dismissed from the University of Nebraska for an off-campus incident, former Gaither High School football star Ernest Suttles is transferring to Miami.

Cowboys coach Jason Stokes confirmed the defensive lineman's decision to The Laker/Lutz News on Aug. 5. Suttles will sit out one year due to NCAA transfer rules.

Suttles, a 2012 graduate, was a highly recruited defensive end out of high school and earned 2012 All-Laker/All-Lutz News Defensive Player of the Year honors for his contributions to Gaither's first district championship in nine years.

However, shortly after arriving at Nebraska, Suttles and a teammate were kicked off the squad by Cornhuskers coach Bo Pelini after an incident at an off-campus party.

In a report published by the Lincoln Journal Star, the Lincoln Police Department cited Suttles for assaulting a teammate, Nebraska linebacker David Santos, in the late evening hours on June 21. A police incident report says Suttles struck Santos in the head with a bottle, requiring multiple stitches. Suttles was ticketed for misdemeanor assault.

"At the end of the day, we hold our guys to a pretty high standard and that's the way it's gonna be as long as I'm the head football coach," Pelini told the Omaha World Herald during Big Ten Conference media day last month. "We're going to help kids grow, we're going to help them develop as human beings, but at the end of the day, you're not only accountable to yourself and family, but my family, anyone associated with Nebraska football and your teammates. If, at any time, something is being done — a player is acting in such a way that it's taking away from any of that — they're not going to be a part of our program."

Suttles was a dominant force on defense for the Cowboys last season, compiling 88 total tackles, 12 for a loss of yardage, 12 sacks and four forced fumbles. He was originally verbally committed to Iowa State University, but opted to sign with the Cornhuskers at the last minute.

In total, the 6-foot-5, 240-pound Suttles had 15 offers from FBS schools including Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, South Florida, Missouri and Indiana.

The Hurricanes finished last season with a 7-5 overall record, 3-5 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"Do this for YOU!"

Karen went from a size 14 to an 8 in only 3 months!

Age 64

"I weighed 200 and now I'm under 160 lbs. I'm amazed that in only 3 months, I went from a tight size 14 to fitting into a size 8 pants...just last night!!! I am really excited! I feel so much healthier, look better and my husband thinks so too. I feel much better about myself and I feel like God wanted me to be healthier and stronger. I am empowered by my new fitness and strength and I am 64! I do things now because I know I can, not being afraid that I can't do it. At 64, I am literally stronger and healthier than I ever have been! I love the trainers here, they are supportive and encouraging but they don't let me slack. I also love that its women only; you can just be yourself and feel comfortable. This is just an amazing place. If anyone is thinking of doing this, just do it! You need to do it for yourself; your health, your peace of mind and the way that you look. You will be glad you did!"

Novena Prayer to Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal

Immaculate Virgin Mary, mother of Jesus and my mother, I come to you with confidence in your powerful intercession, manifested through your Miraculous Medal.

As your loving, trustful child I ask this favor...Obtain for me as well, a pure heart, that my entire life may give glory to God.

Amen.

O Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to you.
