Chris Evert/Raymond James Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic

Two days of celebrity tennis at the Delray Beach Tennis Center and the Boca Raton Resort & Club

BOCA RATON, FL. – The 23rd annual Chris Evert/Raymond James Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic will be held October 26-28. The event will kick off with the Boxholder & Sponsor Cocktail Reception October 26 at the Boca Raton Resort & Club. Two days of Pro-Celebrity tennis will take place at the Delray Beach Tennis Center October 27-28. The annual star-studded Gala will feature an evening of fabulous musical entertainment and will take place Saturday, October 27 at the Boca Raton Resort & Club.

For more than two decades, tennis legend and South Florida philanthropist Chris Evert, has hosted the event to help abused and neglected children in South Florida. Since the first event in 1989, the Chris Evert / Raymond James Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic has raised more than $20 million. Chris Evert Charities partners with the Ounce of Prevention Fund of Florida, a public-private partnership in conjunction with the state of Florida to raise money supporting programs for at-risk children.

Among the celebrities scheduled to join Chris Evert and compete in the two days of tennis action are actors Tom Arnold, Jon Lovitz, Scott Foley, Alan Thicke, Kevin McKidd, Dean McDermott and Maeve Quinlan, former housewife of New York Jill Zarin, host of NBC's Today show Hoda Kotb, American Idol winner David Cook, tennis great Murphy Jensen, tennis Hall of Famer Martina Navratilova as well as many other greats from the world of tennis and entertainment. Past-featured participants have included Venus and Serena Williams, Matt Lauer, Continued on page 3

DELRAY GREENMARKET RELOCATING TO OLD SCHOOL SQUARE PARK

DELRAY BEACH, Fla.—The Delray GreenMarket is relocating to the Old School Square Park in the Pineapple Grove Arts District for its 17th season, beginning Saturday, October 13. The move received final approval from the City Commission last week.

The market is an open-air weekend destination offering fresh produce, plants, baked goods, gourmet food items, and other unique fare from local vendors. With free live entertainment each week, and a variety of special events, the Delray GreenMarket is a fun, educational experience for the whole family.

"The park is the perfect place for the market," said GreenMarket Manager Lori Nolan. "It's a beautiful spot in the heart of the downtown with lots of grass, tables and chairs, and even playground equipment for kids."

The move will also provide the market with more space than its previous location on SE 4th Avenue. This season, the market will have space for up to 60 vendors, offering shoppers a wider variety of quality products.

The Old School Square Park is located on NE 2nd Avenue, a half block north of Atlantic Avenue. Public parking will be available immediately north of the park, in the Old School Square Parking Garage, at the southwest corner of NE 2nd Avenue and NE 1st Street.

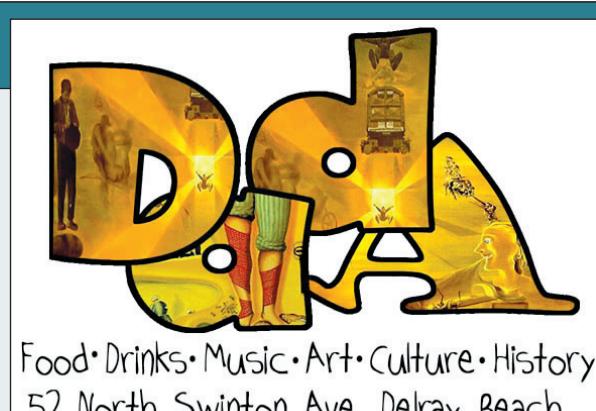

The market will be open every Saturday through May 11, from 9am-2pm. To request a vendor application, contact GreenMarket Manager Lori Nolan at (561) 276-7511 or greenmarket@delraycra.org.

The Delray GreenMarket is a project of the Delray Beach Community Redevelopment Agency. For more information about the market, visit their website at www.delraygreenmarket.org.

Delray Dinner in the Sky

The Delray Beach Marketing Cooperative is bringing Dinner in the Sky, an exclusive dining experience, to Delray Beach. 88 people (4 seatings of 22 people) will have the opportunity to dine, literally, in the sky at a table apparatus hoisted up 180 feet in the air. Caffe Luna Rosa and the new Union restaurant, Candyfish, will be hosting and serving dinner in the sky that evening. Seatings at 5:30pm, 7pm, 8:30pm & 10pm. Tickets are $500 per person and include an exclusive pre and post party at the Dinner in the Sky site on the Great Lawn of Old School Square. ## WELLNESS FESTIVAL PLANNED FOR DELRAY

Delray Beach, FL, – Delray Beach, recently voted the most fun small town in the US, also has a more serious side where fitness, wellness and a health-oriented lifestyle are a way of life for the thousands of visitors and tourists who flock to downtown Delray Beach each year.

One of those visitors and now part-time resident, Bob Lipp, a business marketing executive who has promoted fitness events and enjoys an active lifestyle decided that Delray was the perfect place for a Wellness Festival.

His concept, also caught the attention of former Delray mayor Jeff Perlman, and the two created WellFest Delray 2013 (www.WellFestDelray.com), an event scheduled for March 7, 2013, where the Expo will be held in Delray Beach Center for the Arts at Old School Square in the vintage gymnasium.

"Wellness is an all encompassing term, which speaks to a lifestyle that recognizes the importance of staying fit, eating right, protecting the environment, and promoting mental and physical well-being," said Lipp. "It's about feeding the body and the mind."

When Jeff and I imagined an event that would support the diverse elements of Delray Beach and build on the community's feel good vibe, wellness just made sense."

Currently, the WellFest team, which now includes Sara Sloan, a Delray visitor and personal trainer who recently made Delray her permanent home, is talking to potential exhibitors and sponsors while considering other activities in nearby venues such as healthy cooking demonstrations, fitness and/or yoga exhibitions, expert speakers on health and nutrition, as well as exercise and meditation forums, and more.

The WellFest Delray 2013 website, www.WellFestDelray.com is currently set up to provide exhibitors and sponsors with instant information on exhibiting at the Old School Square gymnasium Expo, sponsoring the Expo, or sponsoring a custom event.

For further information, visit the WellFest Delray 2013 website, email bob@meetindelray.com or call Bob at 561-921-5182.

The Fifth Delray Beach Bus Loop set for Friday, October 5, 2012

Originally created in August of 2007 in Fort Lauderdale, the Bus Loop, a fundraiser for local charities will once again be coming to Delray Beach on Friday, October 5th, from 6:00 p.m. – 11:00 p.m.

All proceeds will benefit The Delray Beach Public Library, The Spirit of Giving and Old School Square. The last Bus Loop in July netted each organization $2,500.

Once again, The Bus Loop will involve some of the hottest Delray Beach venues. Participants can register and begin the Bus Loop at the tent at Old School Square on the corner of N.E. 1st Avenue & Atlantic Avenue beginning at 6:00 p.m. Some of the venues include: Boheme Bistro, Olio's, Paddy McGee's, Boston's, Sundy House, Bull Bar, Kevro's Art Bar (Live Music), Pepe's Hideaway, Hurricane Lounge, and DaDa's. The evening will end with a Pizza Post-Event Party beginning at 10:30 p.m. at Hurricane Lounge.

Upon check-in, participants will receive their Bus Loop cards and wristbands allowing them to ride on the trolleys all evening at no charge and to receive complimentary cocktails, appetizers and special featured items at participating locations along the route. The trolleys travel continuously so attendees can move at their own pace until 11:00 p.m. You can stay at each spot as long as you wish and don't need to hurry.

Admission for the Bus Loop is a $25 donation at the door or $20 if prepaid online at www.BusLoop.org. For further information call 954-574-6000.

Spady Museum asks for cable donations to provide youth services

The Spady Cultural Heritage Museum (www.spadmuseum.org) in Delray Beach seeks a community donation of $1,000, in order to underwrite cable/internet services for one year in its Williams Cottage at the Spady Museum, which houses the youth programs on its campus. Cable/internet service is necessary to provide educational services for the programs the museum offers to area youth.

"We can use the service for any number of programs, events and activities," said Museum Director Charlene Jones. "We have plans to broadcast the Presidential debate that is scheduled at Lynn University later this year, which we see as a critical community event. We also have plans to record and broadcast cultural and artistic shows, which fit into our mission. And from a fundraising standpoint, we'd love to be able to host NFL and college football viewing parties for the fans and raise money for our youth programs."

The museum is seeking a cash donation of $1,000 total and will accept smaller monetary donations that contribute toward this goal.

"If you can give $5, we welcome it. If you can give $100, we welcome that, as well," said Jones. "Any amount, large or small, we welcome to be able to fulfill our mission and make our campus more enjoyable, educational and useful to the community."

The Spady Museum can accept cash, credit card and check donations. For more information or to donate, please call 561-279-8883; email spadmuseum@spadmuseum.org or mail checks to:

Summer Artists Series at Cacace Fine Art Gallery Aug. 22. More than 45 guests, including Delray Beach Commissioner Tom Carney, attended the reception. Donations at the door and a silent auction garnered over $1,000 to benefit the Delray Beach Preservation Trust, a nonprofit organization that effectively advocates for the historic and architectural heritage of the city of Delray Beach.

Delray Beach Commissioner Tom Carney, Laura Simon, and Ernie Simon at Preservation Generation event held on August 22 at Cacace Fine Art Gallery.

Artist Vincent Cacace offered a giclee on canvas depicting 1940's Atlantic Avenue named "Cruisin' the Avenue" for the silent auction with half the proceeds from the winning bid going to the Delray Beach Preservation Trust.

"We're so thankful to this group and so proud to know young people who have an interest in history and are working to support historic preservation in Delray Beach," said JoAnn Peart, president of the Delray Beach Preservation Trust.

Attendees also enjoyed viewing the original oil paintings of Vincent Cacace, James P. Kerr and Valerie Vescovi as well as a special exhibit from the Delray Beach Historical Society called "The Art of Architecture II," a look at the changes in Delray Beach's architecture.

For more information, visit the website at www.preservationgeneration.org.

Florida's Bureau Of Historic Preservation awards Spady Museum grant to produce Trolley Tour Brochure

Sherry Heller of Delray Beach disembarks from the "Ride & Remember" Trolley Tour; a brochure funded by the State of Florida is being produced by the Spady Museum.

The Spady Cultural Heritage Museum (www.spadymuseum.org) in Delray Beach has received a grant from the State of Florida, Department of State, Division of Historical Resources to produce an illustrative brochure, detailing the history and features of the museum's "Ride & Remember" Trolley Tour.

The $7,000 grant will be used to create a brochure depicting the historic structures located within five historic districts on the tour. The marketing piece will include information on the city's historic preservation efforts and promote the area's other historic tourism enterprises. The grant covers production of 5,000 copies to be distributed throughout the state.

"The Spady Museum is extremely excited and appreciative of the state's investment in one of our most popular and enduring community programs," said Museum Director Charlene Jones. "The Ride & Remember Trolley Tour is becoming a staple in Delray Beach and in Palm Beach County for where people who love history can come and have a wonderful two-hour experience, learning about what makes this city so distinctive and memorable."

About the "Ride & Remember" Trolley Tour: Monthly, from 10 a.m. to noon, the tour takes riders through the city's five historic districts. Riders will also disembark at select historic and garden sites for a closer look at the fascinating history of Delray Beach.

For the 2011-2012 season, which spanned from October to May, the "Ride & Remember Trolley Tour" averaged 25 riders per tour, with a peak of 35 riders in February 2012 and 30 riders in January 2012. Due to its popularity, the tour has been extended to run all 12 months of the 2012-13 season. "Ride & Remember" Trolley Tour sponsors include Florida Power & Light, Waste Management, Del-Raton One-Hour Air Conditioning & Heating and Cartridge World.

Trolley Tour dates for 2012-13 are:

October 13, 2012; November 13, 2012; December 8, 2012; January 12, 2013; February 13, 2013; March 9, 2013; April 13, 2013; May 11, 2013; June 8, 2013; July 13, 2013; August 10, 2013; September 14, 2013

The brochure has been financed in part with historic preservation grant assistance provided by the Bureau of Historic Preservation, Division of Historical Resources, Florida Department of State, assisted by the Florida Historical Commission.

18th Annual Downtown Delray Beach Craft Festival

DELRAY BEACH, FL – The Downtown Delray Beach Craft Festival returns Saturday and Sunday, October 6 – 7, from 10:00 am - 5:00 pm and will feature the work of some of the country's leading crafters. A full spectrum of craft art mediums will be on display and for sale with prices ranging from as little as $3 to $3,000.

Festival goers can expect to see folk art, pottery, handmade jewelry, wall hangings, ceramics and paintings, to personalized gifts, handmade clothing, scented soaps and body products; all items have been handcrafted in America. All crafters will be present for the duration of the show, available to discuss their art and inspiration.

The festival will take place along 4th Avenue, one block north and south of Atlantic Avenue, in Downtown Delray Beach. A portion of the proceeds benefits the Delray Beach Downtown Development Authority. Admission is free and open to the public.

This is just one of the many juried events that American Craft Endeavors and Howard

Alan Events bring to Downtown Delray Beach each year including the city's signature Downtown Delray Beach Festival of the Arts which takes place in January and the Thanksgiving Weekend Art Festival in Pineapple Grove along with many craft shows at various locations around town.

In order to ensure a superior event with quality affordable original crafts and an array of artistic media, all of the local and national crafters have been hand-selected from hundreds of applicants by American Craft Endeavors.

For more information contact info@artfestival.com or 561-746-6615 or visit www.artfestival.com.

was the perfect site for his newest venture. After coaxing by Feingold, the decision was made to move beyond the original coffee shop concept and use the converted home as a full scale restaurant.

There are many things that set this particular eatery apart from so many others in downtown Delray Beach. For one thing, Dada is quite famous for serving their full menu until 2 am, 7 nights a week. The venue also boasts one of the tastiest menu's in the neighborhood (my mouth waters just thinking of the famous Dada Dates). After learning of their countless works in the community, I am convinced this restaurant is much more than a fabulous menu in an extraordinary locale.

Many may not know that the place to be on Thanksgiving is not in fact crowded around the dining room table with your extended family. In the spirit of truly giving back, Dada began their own holiday tradition in which every dollar earned from the sales of their Thanksgiving feast is donated directly to feed the homeless through Joshua House and Lords Place. "We felt it was a creative way to encourage the community to do something to give back. Spending your Thanksgiving holiday at Dada is charity in itself," explains Feingold.

While Thanksgiving only comes around once a year, the very special Tata-tini provides guests with a way to be charitable for the entire month of October. This very special cocktail is part of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. All proceeds from the inspired martini are donated to the cause. Dada will also participate in the annual Key to the Cure event held at Saks Fifth Avenue to benefit breast cancer research at Jupiter Medical Center.

"What better way to encourage and support local fine artists than to provide them with a place to exhibit."

- Head Chef Bruce Feingold

Over the last year, this unique restaurant has participated in a number of other off-site charity events that bring awareness and resources to South Florida causes. This past July, Chef Bruce Feingold represented Dada and Delray Beach at the 25th Anniversary Year of Share our Strength, Taste of the Nation in Miami. The special event featured the best local chefs and their fare in order to raise money to end world hunger. Dada also participates in the March of Dimes Signature Chefs & Wine Extravaganza each year in support of healthier babies.

This month (October), Dada will be a part of the American Lung Association benefit, Savor, Sips, Suds & Spirits, held at Old School Square. They are also in the process of planning a fundraising event for Bethesda Hospital Pediatric Wing with Spa Eleven.

While all of these creative charity events provide a benefit to the community, Dada has also been known to step in on a moment's notice in support of communities around the world who have suffered a major disaster. This Delray Beach establishment donated $24,000 to Haiti after their tragic earthquake and they also donated significant funds to victims of the tsunami in Japan.

While bringing awareness to great charitable causes as well as fundraising for them is admirable in itself, Dada also makes a real effort to support our community's quest to build a lasting economy in arts and culture. Not only does the restaurant host local musicians, poets, comedians and performance artists weekly, they have also hosted hair shows and fashion shows.

"There are so many types of expressive art out there and some are more neglected than others. We want Dada to be a truly creative space and I am really proud of a lot of the artistry that has come out of here over the years," explains Feingold.

You don't have to catch a performance to appreciate the arts at this venue. Feingold and his partners have even offered up their walls to up-and-coming fine artists in the area. "What better way to encourage and support local fine artists than to provide them with a place to exhibit," says Feingold.

What impressed me the most about this local Delray Beach restaurant is their dedication to supporting what this community believes is important. With the overwhelming success of the dining industry in downtown Delray Beach, not every establishment proves its devotion to the health and strength of our community.

Sometimes with success comes complacency and it becomes easy to lose sight of those around you who are still in need. After 12 years of continued success, Dada still chooses to give back to the community and there is no doubt that it is their integrity and willingness to share that will keep them at the top.

The Unknown Diner visits Dada

The Food Beat.Com is Delray Beach's very own online food network. The Food Beat produces entertaining and insightful programs that feature Delray Beach restaurants, coffee houses, bars, entertainment venues, caterers, events, and bakeries. The Food Beat is also building the most unique and powerful food and entertainment search engine, all in Hi Definition Video. It's all food...all Delray Beach...all fun.

THE UNKNOWN DINER

*Editors Note:
The Unknown Diner provides Food Beat viewers with the definitive approval of Delray Beach restaurants. Due to events that took place with* an organized crime ring in Paris, France in 2011, he disguises his identity and refuses to speak. Despite his egocentricities and mysterious mannerisms, The Unknown Diner is revered for his discriminating pallet. When asked to write a review for a recent visit to Dada, he declined, but allowed us (The Food Beat) to view his legal pad containing the notes he took during his dining experience. We have taken those notes, and added our interpretations to provide this review.

Target Restaurant:

Dada

52 N. Swinton Ave, Delray Beach
561.330.3232

Open 7 days a week: 5pm to 2 am

Unknown Diner:

Atmosphere... Heterogeneous

The Food Beat: UD recognizes Dada as a place where unique forces come together to provide a festive and somewhat "different" dining ambiance. The outdoor seating area is unlike any in the area, complete with brick pavers, trees and lanterns. The house turned restaurant is cozy with a generous dose of hip.

Unknown Diner:

The Food Beat: Apparently, Unknown is pleased with the way Dada allows its staff to be who they are. Friendly and skilled comes in a wide range of styles at Dada, thus adding to the welcoming ambiance. He did not feel out of place or feel unwelcome at any time during his visit. (This is not usually the case)

Unknown Diner:

The Food Beat: Unknown thought the level of service at Dada was exceptional and gracious. His waiter, Jason, was knowledgeable, respectful and prompt.

Unknown Diner:

The Food Beat: Menu... Promethean
The Food Beat: He could have easily said pure genius, but his arrogance prompted the use of yet another word with an alarming number of syllables. Not only is the Dada menu diverse, it is priced so anyone can enjoy it. The appetizers often serve as a meal in themselves...the baked brie and the Ahi Tuna Tartar are house favorites and Unknown is particularly fond of the Dada dates wrapped in bacon.

Choosing his entree proved to be a conundrum. Unknown had visited Dada's website prior to arrival and had narrowed his choices to four amazing dishes; Habanera Glazed Salmon, Crab Cakes, Desi Burger or Bea's Meatloaf. Just before he was ready to make his selection, his waiter Jason made a most unusual suggestion.

"You should really try the Butternut Squash Ravioli."

Rarely would Unknown consider a dish vegetarians would eat, but he had come to trust Jason and took a leap of faith. He wasn't disappointed. The ravioli was tender and slightly sweet with a rich cream sauce that screamed opulent. The dish also featured freshly steamed asparagus that proved to be the perfect companion for this sensational dish. After finishing every last bite, Jason told him the dish could also be served with chicken and bacon. This too little too late information had a negative impact on Jason's tip.

Unknown Diner: Bar... Damn!

The Food Beat: At last. Unknown drops his pretentiousness and tells it like it is. He has just taken his first sip of Dada's signature Mojito, made with fresh mint and muddled to perfection. Dada has a full bar and the finest Mojito's and Long Island Ice Teas in north America.

Unknown Diner: Intangibles... Fanciful

The Food Beat: Unknown loved the fact that Dada serves its full menu until 2:00 AM every night of the week. He was also impressed with the nightly entertainment ranging from live music to poetry.

Unknown Diner: Bottom Line... Fork up. Way up.

The Food Beat: The Unknown Diner highly recommends Dada.

Log on to www.thefoodbeat.com to see the Unknown Diner's visit to Dada. Make sure you stick around to the end to hear the incredible ghost story as told by Dada management.

New restaurant "The Grove" opening soon

New to NE Second Avenue in Pineapple Grove comes "The Grove" a new restaurant offering up comforting upscale food and wine, with a sprinkling of Southern hospitality. The beverage program, driven by boutique, small production wines is rounded out by craft beers and wine-based cocktails. Warm, rustic influences with modern accents fill the interior and hint at the offerings to come from the ever evolving menu . . . where rustic cuisine becomes more creative.

BUDDHA SKY BAR TO EXPAND TO THREE FLOORS

Atlantic Avenue's only rooftop dining experience will soon offer guests a brand new view: from the first floor. Buddha Sky Bar is expanding their infamous Asian Fusion restaurant to 10,000 square feet with a three-month renovation that includes the first and second floors of 217 East Atlantic Avenue. To be completed by early November, the new first floor space, aptly titled "Buddha Garden," will allow the restaurant to serve more Buddha fans than ever.

"After being open for just over a year and seeing the amount of success and devoted customers we've attained, we felt as though this was the perfect time to take Buddha Sky Bar to the next level," said owner, Christopher Licata. "We want to enhance the guest's experience, give them something new and continue to exceed their expectations when it comes to unparalleled cuisine and one-of-a-kind atmosphere."

PDT International is the design company behind Buddha Garden. Their plans for the space include a new sushi and sake bar, waterfall and living walls. Buddha Garden will also offer indoor and outdoor bars, including one that opens up to Atlantic Avenue. Guests can expect more of a late night lounge feel on Fridays and Saturdays as well.

"Nature inspired the design of this Chinese-Japanese fusion restaurant, where many details are tied to one of the four elements of nature: Earth, Water, Air & Fire," said Senior Designer at PDT International, Joy Lynskey. "Red, gold and chocolate combine with textural materials of Asian influence to create a warm environment that coordinates with the Buddha Sky Bar upstairs while allowing the Buddha Garden to have its own special identity."

In addition to the 96 seats that the intimate third floor currently holds, Buddha Sky Bar's second floor will be open for private parties, hosting 110 people in total. There will be customizable conference rooms available with direct access to multimedia, leaving the space open to corporate or holiday events from groups of 8 to 60. Buddha Sky Bar prides itself on providing an exceptional experience for parties of any size and look forward to the expansion of their corporate event offerings.

Buddha Garden will seat 120 guests and offer a completely different atmosphere than Buddha Sky Bar, while serving the same cuisine that earned them Open Table Diners' Choice Awards for Top Asian Restaurant in Southeast Florida and Palm Beach County Hot Spot.

"We've got some incredible staff and a concept that you can't find anywhere else in the area," General manager, Damian Burke said. "It's the same great experience and food, but the expansion will offer guests minimal wait time, if any at all."

Second floor renovations are expected to be complete by the beginning of October, while Buddha Garden will be finished by early November.

For more information on Buddha Sky Bar, visit www.BuddhaSkyBar.com.

Follow a local fave: "Christina's"

By Christalyn Warner
The Pineapple Staff Writer

Delray Beach local Christina Betters, owner of Christina's Restaurant in Pineapple Grove, has kept her momentum through all of Downtown's many changes. The consistency in her point of view over the years has earned her the local following she has today. Christina's breakfast and lunch niche is exactly what Delray needs, as is obvious by the steady stream of patron's through her doors. Her history may surprise, being that she is on her fourth Delray location to date.

Christina's Greek heritage and family background of owning diners has made the grueling restaurant industry somewhat like home for her. You can see her heritage strewn about her menu, Spanikopita with Greek Salad and Avgolemono soup are just a few menu items that infuse Greek flavors and pay homage to her roots.

Having lunch at Christina's is a sure treat. I love the California veggie melt and her soup is to die for. The lemony chicken soup has such depth. Where else can you find a soup that people come in for when they are under the weather? Some of Christina's customers have a longstanding history of coming in for the Avgolemono when their children aren't feeling well.

And breakfast at Christina's is always fantastic. The Egg White Omelet with spinach, tomato and feta is my personal favorite. I don't know how she does it, but I order that omelet often and it is fluffy and perfect every time. The Twilight Burrito, eggs and cheese wrapped in a flour tortilla and served with sour cream and salsa, simply amazing. And for the sweet tooth who loves morning pancakes and french toast, her Banana Cinnamon Nut French Toast will send you over the moon.

Right about now you might be asking yourself, what is Christina's history? Well before the Christina's we now know and love on 2nd Avenue in Pineapple Grove, Christina was once the head server at Peter's Stone Crabs. This is where she got her start on Atlantic Avenue, and for those of you who have a long running love affair with Atlantic Ave., you know that Peter's used to be in the location where Gol! Brazilian Steakhouse now resides.

After her long stint at Peter's, she then moved onto her first restaurant venture. This café was in the location of the Atlantic Starbucks next to The Office, named Twilight Café. For those of you who don't know, it was a small café serving breakfast, lunch and Italian style dinner on the weekends.

After spending what were a few years at Twilight, Christina then moved over to Gleason Street Café near the beach. She took over the already established business and maintained it long enough for people to walk into Christina's and still talk about some of the Gleason Street fare. Like the cashew chicken salad, which can be found on her menu even today.

With the success of Gleason behind her, Christina decided to go a little bit bigger. An idea was born, in that little pocket on the east side of 2nd Ave., where Solita's and House of Siam are located. This is where the original Christina's first opened. It was located next to Solita's when it was Kyoto, that delicious restaurant with amazing sushi.

The original Christina's is where her menu really took shape and her signature dishes flourished, like the Avgolemono soup, the California Veggie Melt, and those deliciously fluffy omelets. Her loyal breakfast and lunch crowd know these signature dishes well.

When it comes to consistency, she is on it. Breakfast has to be one of the most difficult meals to execute properly and she does it with finesse. There is a lot to be said about a woman who owns her own restaurant and cooks in it everyday.

Christina has a lot of heart and passion for food and it shines through in each delicious bite. After five years at her original location, Christina felt her restaurant was a little too big for her liking. She closed her restaurant and after a little hiatus, the New Christina's was built, in the little shopping plaza in Pineapple Grove. Where the mimosas are always delicious and the coffee cups have great sayings. This restaurant has charm and food you can count on being cooked to perfection every time you come in.

May Christina's stay for a long time... her food is just that good!

Art Works 4 Food "Augmented Reality" art fundraiser

Proceeds to be used to help feed healthy food to at-risk children in Palm Beach County.

DELRAY BEACH, FL. – On Wednesday, October 24 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Max's Harvest in Delray Beach, Art Works 4 Food will be the first not for profit organization in Florida to utilize Augmented Reality to bring art to life while also bringing the awareness and funds needed to fight the children's hunger epidemic in Palm Beach County.

In recognition of National Food Day and in support of the organization he founded, Anthony V. Pugliese, III, will merge one of his own paintings into a new reality – Augmented Reality. This will be one of the first Augmented Experiences in Florida.

Augmented Reality, a cutting edge technology, is the layering of digital information onto real life objects and places. These digital content layers are then viewable with computers or smartphones and may take the form of text, video, or images.

According to Pugliese, "This new technology blurs the line between what's real and what's computer-generated by enhancing what we see, hear and feel. Guests who join us at Max's Grill on October 24th will experience my artwork in a new reality and get a chance to help feed the children in our community who go hungry each and every day." Pugliese encourages attendees to download the free app at www.artworks4food.org and to bring their iPhone, iPad or Android, as this is an interactive art event.

Event attendees will also be treated to delicious food and drink, which is taken to the level of its own art form when prepared by Chef

FLAVOR

SoLita Italian Restaurant & The Parlor Lounge will be featuring their signature Watermelon Martini the entire month of October in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. A portion of the proceeds from each drink will be donated to the Susan G. Koman Foundation.

SoLita Italian Restaurant & The Parlor Lounge adds a sexy dinner and late-night flair to the already happening downtown Delray scene. The delectable menu of Italian favorites offers only the finest hand-picked ingredients inspired by warm memories of Italian kitchens and the country's unforgettable flavors - tomatoes, pancetta, garlic and other herbs. The extraordinary selection of seafood, veal, and pasta entrees are bursting with flavor and will satisfy any discriminating palate. SoLita Delray boasts an exotic lounge area which adjoins the main room, perfect for the amazing late-night scene and for the weekend crowds that come for live music.

Located at 25 NE 2nd Avenue in Delray Beach, SoLita Italian Restaurant & The Parlor Lounge is open for dinner Sunday-Wednesday from 5:00pm - 11:00pm and Thursday-Saturday from 5:00pm - 2:00am. # How safe is marijuana, really?

After decades of widespread casual use, and now after a number of states legalizing use for "medicinal purposes", the use of marijuana has increasingly become perceived as safe. Is this perception accurate, or is it a fantasy that has been fostered by nostalgia, urban folklore, the drug culture, and the multi-million dollar dispensary industry? Let's take a step back and try to take in the whole picture.

It is important to understand that a number of recent trends have greatly affected the risk profile of marijuana. The first major change involves the rising concentrations of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC). The levels of THC currently seen in higher grades of marijuana are 40 times greater than the levels seen in the late 60's (Woodstock pot is a common reference point). This is the direct result of advanced growing and procurement techniques, which have systematically increased the levels of THC in "professionally" raised marijuana. Most people see this as a positive result of applied botanical science.

The problem here is what is called the "dose effect". As the potency of this drug increased over time, a number of thresholds of toxicity have been exceeded. A good analogy would be a comparison to beer. One beer will not due much to cause injury to an adult. Four to six beers would cause a significant degree of inebriation in the average individual. Forty beers consumed at once however, would cause alcohol poisoning and probably death in many cases. Marijuana has not become a common direct cause of death but has become a significant cause of major psychiatric complications including depression, anxiety and most alarmingly psychosis.

The anxiety and depression problems resulting from THC consumption are nothing new, but they are much more common now. The psychosis severity and frequency is something that is a more recent development though. I personally have treated 14 cases of THC induced psychosis in just the last 3 years. Many other addiction specialists have had similar experiences. The psychosis consists of intense auditory hallucinations, paranoid delusions, and a number of bizarre behaviors that are completely out of character for the individual. The condition resembles Schizophrenia but is usually more difficult to treat.

Some of these cases may very well be Schizophrenia that was triggered by the THC, but the total number of cases exceeds the usual incidence of this disease and they all follow heavy pot use. Most of these individuals are not even addicts, just recreational users. All who have suffered this complication have experienced a major decline in functional capacity, often becoming permanently disabled. The prognosis for this condition is very poor. Similar presentations can result from contaminated marijuana.

The intentional contamination of marijuana is another growing trend among the purveyors of illicit substances. Many drug dealers spike their marijuana with more addictive drugs, such as cocaine, crystal meth and heroin, to create cross-addictions to substances that generate higher overall profits. Aside from creating these cross-addictions, the contaminants cause a number of other major complications such as seizures, tic and movement disorders, depression, anxiety and psychosis.

When complications develop, it is often difficult to distinguish if the cause was the THC or an undetected adulterant. Sometimes the extra ingredients can be detected on a drug test. Many other chemicals such as formaldehyde are frequently added and also cause neurological complications.

In addition to all of the neurological problems caused by THC, a host of psychological consequences have arisen from all of the recent trends. The legalization of marijuana in some states has fostered a perception that the drug is very safe, especially among adolescents. I have had countless Florida teens tell me openly "yeah but pot is legal". This has led to more experimentation at an earlier age. The young human brain that is not fully developed is exquisitely sensitive to the negative effects of drug use. The increased early marijuana use in turn has facilitated more experimentation with more addictive drugs. Experimentation with addictive drugs reliably leads to addiction in many cases. The net result is a worsening of the nation's drug problem, especially among the younger generation.

The surge in drug use has been so prominent in Palm Beach County that the Delray Center For Healing has developed and launched a new outpatient drug treatment and relapse prevention program for adolescents to address this growing epidemic.

This information is relevant to all segments of the population, but will most likely be received by parents and grandparents. If you are a parent or grandparent, it is important to realize that the marijuana you may have tried in the past was very different than what is available now. Your experiences did not carry the same risks that your children and grandchildren face today. It is important to understand the differences when discussing this topic with your family. Regardless of what your opinion of marijuana use actually is, it is of greatest importance to base that opinion on the most complete foundation of information that is available to you.

McENROE RETURNS TO LEAD ATP CHAMPIONS CHARGE IN DELRAY BEACH

Wilander, Moya, Philippoussis also playing in newly-formatted event

DELRAY BEACH, FL – John McEnroe is returning to Delray Beach to play in the newly-formatted ATP Champions Tour event that features six stars playing a round-robin event over three days.

The iconic McEnroe will be joined by Mats Wilander, Pat Cash, Carlos Moya, Mark Philippoussis and Aaron Krickstein in the 'legends' field at the 2013 Delray Beach International Tennis Championships (ITC) held February 22 - March 3.

A Moya vs. Krickstein and McEnroe vs. Cash doubleheader on Friday, February 22 will kick off the 21st annual ITC, which features the only ATP Champions Tour event in the US and the only one in the world to be played alongside an ATP World Tour event.

"Our fans never tire of seeing Johnny Mac," says tournament director Mark Baron. "He is a magician with a tennis racket in his hands. The amazing skills that you see in him and players like Mats and Pat are the reason people of all ages keep coming back."

McEnroe and Wilander, each winners of seven Grand Slam singles titles and members of the International Tennis Hall of Fame, are both returning to Delray Beach after playing in the ITC's first two ATP Champions Tour events. McEnroe was the runner-up to Patrick Rafter in the inaugural tournament in 2009.

Moya (2012) and Philippoussis (2011) won the last two Delray Beach ITC events and are the top two players on a Tour where players are ranked based on points compiled across a global schedule.

Cash, the 1987 Wimbledon champion, and Krickstein have played in all three ATP Champions Tour events that have been held in Delray Beach. Krickstein, the director of tennis at St. Andrews Country Club in Boca Raton, reached the final in 2011.

Under the new format, the Delray Beach ATP Champions Tour event now includes eight matches - there are six round-robin matches played in two player groups that lead to a 3rd/4th playoff match and a championship match, both scheduled for Sunday, February 24.

The Saturday (Feb. 23) lineup will include the ATP Champions Tour's current top-ranked players, Moya vs Philippoussis, and a featured match-up between Hall of Famers McEnroe and Wilander. The legends are forever linked by their 1982 Davis Cup quarterfinal - the longest Davis Cup match in history - in which McEnroe outlasted Wilander in five sets over six hours and 32 minutes.

"The players are really excited about the new format," says Baron, who moved the ITC to Delray Beach 15 years ago. "It helps them give our fans a peak performance every time they take the court."

The ITC's ATP World Tour event, which holds its qualifying tournament during the ATP Champions Tour event, has early commitments from world No. 11 John Isner and No. 23 Mardy Fish in its singles draw and the world No. 1 Bryan Brothers as its top-seeded doubles team.

To celebrate these champions coming to Delray Beach, tournament officials have extended their US Open promotion. From Sunday, Sept. 23, 8:00 am - Monday, Oct. 8, 11:59 pm, ITC tickets will continue to be available for up to 50% off.

To purchase tickets call 561-330-6000, order online at www.YellowTennisBall.com or in-person at Walmart's Ticketmaster outlets or the Delray Beach ITC box office (open Monday - Friday, 9:00 am - 5:00 pm, 561-330-6000, 30 NW 1st Avenue, Delray Beach, FL 33444). Complete tournament information is available on the Delray Beach ITC website, www.YellowTennisBall.com.

Delray Beach Watersports

Your headquarters for "Fun in the Sun"

Have you snorkeled a 100 year old ship wreck? Have you been on a Hobie Cat or sailboat recently? How about paddleboarding or kayaking? All this and more is available right here at Delray Beach Watersports. Located along the South side of A1A, this company has established itself as Delray's premier location for fun on the beach.

Delray Beach Watersports, owned and operated by Albert Richwagen, was an integral part in showing USA Today and Rand McNally's Best of the Road team why Delray Beach is the Most Fun Small Town in America. They treated our visiting travelers to the best Delray has to offer, from sailing the crystal waters of the Atlantic to snorkeling the 100 year old ship wreck just twenty feet from shore. Richwagen helped Delray show it's true colors, which incidentally are varying shades of turquoise and aquamarine.

Unbeknownst to many Delray residents, this company has transformed the beach experience. Walking towards their alcove on Casuarina Road and A1A can only be compared to stepping into a Beach Boys music video. A thatched roof tiki umbrella casts shade over relaxing beach chairs next to the rental stand. This is where it all begins.

From surfing, paddle boarding and boogie boarding to windsurfing, kayaking and snorkeling, they truly have it all. Delray Beach Watersports also offers a Surf Camp, a fantastic way to learn a new skill while enjoying some of the most beautiful landscapes in Florida. They also offer sailing or hobicat lessons.

Gumbo Limbo's Sea Turtle Rehabilitation Facility Opening

BOCA RATON, FL – For the past two decades, Gumbo Limbo Nature Center's Sea Turtle Conservation team has rescued sick and injured sea turtles throughout southern Palm Beach County. In January, 2010 efforts were stepped up with the opening of their Sea Turtle Rehabilitation Facility (STRF). The STRF was temporarily closed in August 2010 to make modifications and improvements to the filtration system. Now the STRF will once again be open to visitors.

"We look forward to having Gumbo Limbo visitors learn about the sea turtles under our care and the injuries they are dealing with," says Manager, Stefanie Ouellette. "They will also learn simple steps which they can take, such as properly disposing of trash, to help prevent injuries to sea turtles and other wildlife."

Earlier this summer, the Florida Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission granted Gumbo Limbo Nature Center's STRF a temporary permit allowing the treatment of sea turtles again. Sea Turtle Rehabilitation

One aspect of this beach paradise that cannot be overlooked is the friendly and well-versed staff. They provide beach goers with everything from safety information to the most opportune time of year to try each of their stellar activities. Nothing is more evident than these employees fervent zeal for beach life, and this is clearly illustrated in their desire to share all Delray Beach has to offer.

Delray Beach Watersports owner Albert Richwagen

Living in South Florida palm trees and ocean breezes often become commonplace, but they are surely not taken for granted at this Delray landmark.

THE GIRL'S U-PICK

A strawberry time machine

By Jordan Coyne
Special to The Pineapple

The best kept secret of Delray Beach? We have a time machine. Some said it couldn't be done, others whispered of distant possibilities, but just North of Atlantic Avenue on Military Trail lies a hidden gem that immediately transports all who enter to the era of Happy Days and penny candies at the general store. This place, this beacon of a simpler time, is The Girls Strawberry Patch.

by the seemingly endless assortment of old fashioned candy.

The sweet memories continue with their extensive list of mouth watering homemade ice cream, but the must have is nothing other than traditional strawberry shortcake. Served with heaps of whipped cream, this dessert can certainly be shared, but who would want to?

Just when it seems as though the experience is over, all signs point to the rear exit, the strawberry patch. The doors open

The Girls Strawberry Patch is nestled in an assortment lot of locally owned venues, quiet and humble. A passerby may even pay no mind to this small piece of Delray culture, but they would be sorely mistaken. Upon entering The Girls your senses begin to run wild. Colorful visuals dart the eye from one keepsake to the next while the nose is trying to absorb the tantalizing and ever present aroma of strawberries. You've hit the mother-load.

Further inquiry into the sights and sounds of The Girls reveals everything from small modern day trinkets to retro lunchboxes. Meandering through the store, listening to the likes of Dion and The Platters, fills every shop-goer with a sense of nostalgia that is only heightened to a magical mixture of fresh off the vine fruit and exotic animals that plasters on a smile you cannot shake. The expansive plot of land is truly unexpected and takes most every visitor by surprise.

Although strawberries are a seasonal fruit, The Girls offers fresh mangoes, papayas, avocados and more. Their collections of exotic birds will leave you speechless, but try to prepare a few talking points because some love a good chat.

All in all, a visit to The Girls is a step back in time, a simpler time when the summer nights were endless and smelled of heavenly strawberries. For more information, please visit <http://thegirlsstrawberryupick.com> or call 561-496-0188.

by the Milagro Center Stars

During this past month of September, the Milagro Center STARS explored the living value of "Respect". Here, in their own words, is what the kids said about the meaning of "R-E-S-P-E-C-T":

"Helping your mom because she might be tired." - Brianna

"Saying sorry for the bad things you've done and being nice." - Alex

"Never poking someone in the eye with a pencil." - Nikacie

"Listening to your mom and dad, auntie, nanny, and teacher." - Cashalie

"Helping someone with something they can't do by themselves." - Karlebe

"Being respectful is speaking without using bad words." - Carlos

"When you show respect for someone you are being good." - Christopher

"Being respectful is treating others the way you want to be treated. Cleaning up for each other even if you didn't create the mess!" - Aylin

"If you give respect, you get respect." - Kayla

"Showing respect is keeping your hands to yourself." - Brandon

"Fixing your bed every morning is respectful." - Laniya

"Respect means to me to take care of things and not just leave it all raggedy. Respect is loving, caring, and having tolerance for other people." - Angely

"When I show respect for other people I am being responsible." - Carlos

"Respect means being polite to each other." - Mildred

"You have to treat others with respect" - Jayden

"Being respectful is being responsible, doing your homework, and helping people when they are hurt." - Jonathan

"As Aretha sings, 'R-E-S-P-E-C-T' find out what it means to me" - Milagro Staff

Atlantic High gets "Futuristic" uniforms

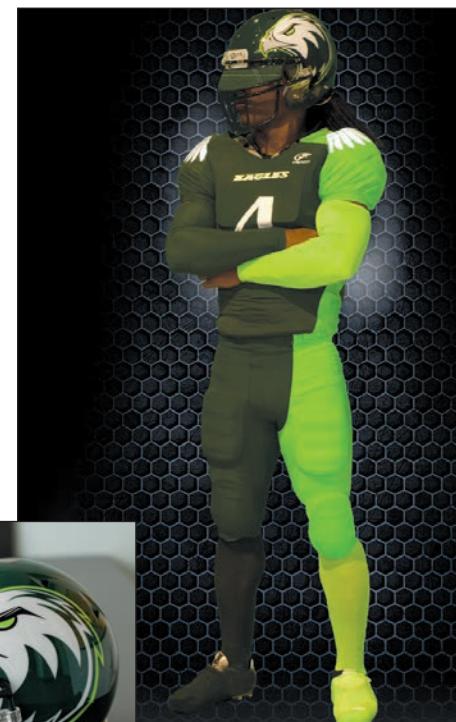

Eagles new look creates national buzz for local creative firm

OCTOBER 2012

The Atlantic Community High School football team made national news recently with their new uniforms designed by Delray Beach creative firm, FuturisticWoo. "This is just the first step in assisting Atlantic High with marketing and exposure" states FuturisticWoo founder Ryan Boylston.

The project came together in just three short weeks, with the support of several local businesses. The Law Office of Lee Philip Cohen P.A., Ocean Properties Ltd., The Related Group, and Saxena White P.A., were engaged by members of Delray 21 and jumped at the chance to assist Atlantic Community High School. With new businesses already calling the offices of FuturisticWoo looking to sponsor additional uniforms/sports, who knows what the school will unveil next.

"We'll continue to donate our time building an attractive program for sponsors, as long as they (Atlantic) are willing to take a few risks" Boylston says with a smile.

FROM WALL STREET TO WATERWAYS

Alex Warner of Gulfstream Boat Club

By Stephanie Immelman
Special to The Pineapple

Alex Warner has a pretty interesting back story.

After a brief stint in pro baseball in his early 20s he decided college might be a better idea and enrolled at Lynn University. After going out on Atlantic Avenue one night he immediately moved to Delray and "fell in love" with this town. This is a similar refrain

I hear from many people who have moved here. They don't just love Delray, they fall "in love" with Delray.

After University, Alex was offered a job on the floor of the US Stock Exchange in New York City for Bank of America. He was right at the epicenter of the international finance industry. However, he remembers, "every day on the subway, amongst the herds of Wall Streeters, I was daydreaming about Delray Beach."

So Alex came back home to Delray with a thought to developing a boat rental business. He was thinking along the lines of Net Jets, an airline company that hires out private jets. He wanted to bring this concept (hours of boating time) to the luxury boating industry.

Gulfstream Boat Club sells memberships starting at 16 hours for $1000. This gives regular people the ability to participate in a wealthy person's sport. Alex explains, "Young professional can join a boat club but they don't have the time and money to own and maintain their own boat. Enjoying the water is one of the greatest things that south Florida offers. If you don't get out on the water, it's like living in Vail and never skiing."

In addition to memberships, the Gulfstream Boat Club also offers half day or full day rentals, fishing charters, scuba diving and trips to the Keys and the Bahamas. They will even do an evening sunset cocktail cruise. "Basically, we do anything on the water" says one of his captains, Justin Jordan.

All this didn't come easy. Alex always loved the boat business but realized he needed to learn it from the ground up. After moving back to Delray he approached Pat, the owner of Marina Delray for a job.

After working on Wall Street, he agreed to start at $10 an hour cleaning the bathrooms and scraping the barnacles off the boats in the marina. "It wasn't easy", laughs Alex, "but my mindset was always on the big picture." One year later he asked Pat if he could start a boat rental business and the answer was yes.

He started with 2 boats and 10 customers and now, 4 years later, he has 10 boats and 100 members. They have also expanded their business to Two Georges in Boynton Beach and more expansion is on the way.

In addition to life on the water, Alex loves art (he spent a semester in Florence, Italy doing photography) and his 'boat dog', Luna, a chocolate lab. "I love being a part of a community like Delray. There are so many people here that have pride in our town and a passion for making Delray incredible."

It seems like Alex is first among them.

an interview with
Anthony V. Pugliese, III

Anthony V. Pugliese, III

The Pineapple sat down for a chat recently with Anthony V. Pugliese, III CEO of the Pugliese Company of Delray Beach, a South Florida real estate developer. Pugliese is an avid art collector and philanthropist. Recently, the idea of combining the two passions emerged and a great concept was born: Art Works 4 Food. Through Art Works 4 Food, Pugliese hopes to bring together emerging artists, established artists, art galleries and collectors to donate their creations, time, and resources to help feed children in need. An artist himself, Pugliese will be leading the way by providing 100 paintings (painted by him) for sale in various art galleries around Florida. One hundred percent of the sales proceeds after third party sales commissions and expenses from art sales will be donated to Art Works 4 Food.

Pineapple: For people who don't know who you are, can you tell us a little about your company?

Pugliese: The Pugliese Company's main focus is in raw land development dealing in commercial, industrial and residential properties. We own and manage close to 2 million-square-feet of industrial, office and self-storage in Florida and New Jersey. I started out in the building business when I was 17-years-old.

Pineapple: We understand in August 1999 you bought an old blighted, two-acre property (an old Winn Dixie) on NE 1st Street and 2nd Avenue to develop the first Pineapple Grove commercial project.

Pugliese: Yes, Delray has always had its own special thing; with connectivity and a hometown flavor. From my viewpoint even though the property was in a blighted area I knew it would one day come into its own because of its close proximity to all the action on Atlantic Avenue and 2nd Avenue.

In 2001, we built our Corporate Offices and a 30,000 Square-foot Retail store, Creations. I guess we must have done something right because we received an award from the Delray Beach Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) for our Development at 101 Pineapple Grove Way in Delray Beach.

Pineapple: Tell us about your non-profit organization, Art Works 4 Food that raises awareness and funds to provide healthy food to the growing number of homeless and hungry Palm Beach County School Children.

Pugliese: Clearly hunger is an issue around the world, but what completely shocked me was the fact that here in affluent Palm Beach County there is a growing number of homeless and hungry children. Since 2007, we have had an 83 percent increase in Palm Beach County school age child homelessness. In the past two years a 66 percent growth in poverty in our School Districts, and 61 percent of school children are now receiving free or reduced lunch programs.

These "food insecure" children not only demonstrate higher health and behavioral issues, but what is really worrisome is that the school drop-out rate is five times higher. These children, for the most part, only have access to processed foods filled with sugar, fats and salts. Clearly not the right body and brain food they need to have a chance to succeed.

Pineapple: Can you tell us about the Art Component of your new charity, Art Works 4 Food?

Pugliese: My concept is to raise some necessary funds for the Healthy Food Programs by selling my artwork and other artist's work. I painted 103 original paintings over several years, and I did that as a way to bring awareness to this issue. We are looking for young talented children, professional and amateur artists who want to donate art work and receive a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the art. The rest will be donated to Art Works 4 Food.

Pineapple: We hear you are launching a new technological format, "Augmented Reality" at your fundraiser that will take place on October 24th in at Max's Harvest.

Pugliese: Both art and technology have been of major interest to me, so it seemed like a natural progression for me to incorporate it into my artwork. Augmented Reality merges the virtual and physical worlds through the use of technology. It combines the real and virtual worlds with interactive and real-time images that are 3D. It's very intriguing - just bring your Smart or iPhone.

To learn more about Art Works 4 Food, and the fundraiser visit www.artworks4food.org. or contact Roz Gatewood, Executive Director @ 454-1616 or 561-561-271-8102

THE RIGHT MIX

By Ed Maass
The Pineapple Staff Writer

To begin lets tune into WIIFM, No... not a new station found on your radio dial, but simply an acronym that most people utilize each and every day of their lives, WIIFM: What's In It for Me.

The short answer, should you choose to continue reading, might just be a bit of insight and knowledge that could help you to achieve your financial goals.

Whether it's mixing cement, baking a cake or building an investment portfolio, it's the right mix that determines the outcome. The right mix equates to allocating and diversifying your assets in different investment vehicles. Unfortunately, for many, asset allocation is the investment equivalent of flossing your teeth (most know we should do it), however for some reason we don't.

Asset allocation is synonymous with diversification, but diversification is a relative term. Many investors may believe they are diversified, yet they probably have not implemented a real asset allocation plan. True asset allocation looks at the full scope of investment alternatives, which may include stocks, bonds, REITs, hedge funds, commodities, money market instruments, and other investment alternatives.

The underlying concept of asset allocation tells us that whatever the market environment brings forth, some of these investments should be advancing or at least holding steady while others are declining in value. It is important to note that a properly allocated portfolio will not offer the explosive growth and fireworks of a narrowly invested one; however it will hopefully minimize the total risk in the portfolio and thus reduce the chances of severe and disappointing losses.

Television, radio, newspapers and other media often paint with a broad brush when it comes to investing. The stock market (Dow Jones Industrial Average) is up or down and the bond market is stagnant – end of story. Usually however, it's not that simple.

During any given market environment, some stocks are usually rising while others are falling. Quite often trends emerge, and rising and falling stocks will fall into distinct asset classes. If you're serious about building a well diversified asset allocation plan, you should consider the pros and cons of investing in the various major stock asset classes, including small cap and large cap, value and growth, foreign and U.S.

Similar thinking also applies to different types of bonds, REITs and other investment alternatives. If you don't want to short-change yourself and your future net worth, you need to be aware of these different asset classes and make sure that you include them in your investment portfolio.

While I might be dating myself I will leave you with a verse from a Rita Coolidge song, "Too often opportunity knocks, but by the time you push back the chain, slide back the bolt, unhook the lock and turn off the burglar alarm, it's too late."

You have a potential opportunity to help yourself become a more successful investor so don't let it pass you by. And above all, if you need help, ask for it!

Behringer Harvard begins construction of luxury multifamily development

Behringer Harvard has commenced the construction of a 180-unit multifamily development project on approximately eight acres in Delray Beach.

"This was a compelling opportunity to build a multifamily community in an exceptionally desirable location with strong demographics and proximity to employment centers in West Palm Beach and Boca Raton," said Mr. Mark T. Alfieri, Chief Operating Officer of Behringer Harvard Multifamily REIT I, Inc.

The general contractor is LandSouth Construction of Jacksonville; the architects are STB Architects & Planners of Dallas and Richard Jones Architecture of Delray Beach.

The luxury multifamily community, called The Franklin Delray, is being constructed at 1206 South Federal Highway in Delray Beach.

BEHRINGERHARVARD

The Franklin Delray will be comprised of seven three-story residential buildings with a free-standing clubhouse and amenities building. Averaging 1,035 square feet, the apartments at The Franklin Delray will be built to condominium-quality specifications and offer up to three bedrooms and two baths. Units will feature granite countertops, brushed nickel hardware, stainless steel appliances, tile backsplashes, nine-foot ceilings, private balconies and full-size washers and dryers.

Common-area amenities will include a rotunda community room, cyber cafe, business center and library, children's activity zone, and state-of-the-art fitness center. Outdoor living areas will feature a resort-style pool with cabanas, a children's playground, a barbecue and lounge area with fire pit, water features, and bicycles available for use by residents.

The portfolio of Behringer Harvard Multifamily REIT I, Inc. includes investments in 47 multifamily communities in 14 states comprising 12,575 apartment homes.

DELAIRE COUNTRY CLUB HONORED AS PLATINUM CLUB OF AMERICA

Delaire Country Club, a private club located in Delray Beach, was recently awarded Platinum Club of America status by the Club Leaders Forum. The Platinum Club of America award is based on excellence of service to its membership, quality of club facilities, heritage, and enlightened leadership from management and the board. Platinum Club status is the ultimate recognition of club excellence, a privilege that only 150 of the nation's 5,000 private clubs receive.

"Delaire has always had a reputation for commitment to its members, but with the total rebirth of the club, it secures its place among the finest clubs in America," says Trent Squire, General Manager of Delaire Country Club.

Delaire Country Club is a private community of 324 single-family homes located around a Joe Lee-designed 27-hole championship golf course. Recent club improvements include a brand new clubhouse, a new fitness center, a new pool and a children's play area.

To learn more about the lifestyle available at Delaire Country Club, contact Executive Coordinator Liz Shaw at 561-499-9090.

SK QUALITY ROOFING SPONSORS "MAKING STRIDES AGAINST BREAST CANCER"

The overwhelming feelings about a breast cancer diagnosis has affected a small Palm Beach County company, and they are fighting back! SK Quality Roofing, Inc. of Delray Beach, Florida is pleased to announce that it is sponsoring the "2012 Making Strides Against Breast Cancer of Boca Raton, FL", October 27, 2012 at the Mizner Park Amphitheatre in Boca Raton.

Every "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer" walk is a powerful and inspiring opportunity to unite as a community to honor breast cancer survivors, raise awareness about how to reduce the risk of getting cancer, and raise money to help the American Cancer Society fight the disease. The American Cancer Society provides breast cancer research, information and services, and access to mammograms for women who need them. Since the inception of Making Strides 20 years ago, breast cancer death rates have declined 32 percent.

SK Quality Roofing (SKQR) is a leading provider of Flat Roof Maintenance Programs, as well as roofing for any type of structure. With three decades of experience and proven methods, SKQR possesses an excellent client reputation. SKQR is uniquely qualified to serve all roofing needs and serves Palm Beach and Broward Counties.

Connie Bowser, President and Co-Owner of SKQR says, "We're three generations of family working in this company and living in this community. I'm proud to say, this is my home - these people are my family."

And because of that, I'm honored to serve this community not only through my work as President of SK Quality Roofing but through our sponsorship of this very important cause, a cause that has touched so many lives on so many levels.

A few years ago a member of our company family, a young woman who was pregnant, was diagnosed with breast cancer. Her extended treatment included the early delivery of her son to protect him and save her. Our sponsorship of the Breast Cancer Walk is to honor her journey through cancer into motherhood.

Breast cancer, through its deep impact, takes a community of strangers and turns them into family and it's through the strength of that bond that we will be able to cure breast cancer."

BMI ELITE VOTED ONE OF THE BEST SMALL COMPANIES IN FLORIDA TO WORK FOR

BMI Elite has been voted as one of the best companies to work for on Florida Trend's 2012 list. It beat out many other small businesses in the state, coming in at 23rd on the list of 33 winners. It was one of four companies in the advertising/public relations industry to make the list and one of three in Palm Beach County.

To qualify for the list, companies chose to participate in a survey by Best Companies Group. Randomly selected employees answered anonymously to questions focused on eight themes including leadership; culture; job satisfaction; work environment; their relationship with supervisors; training and development; pay and benefits; and overall engagement.

According to Florida Trend, the publication focused on hiring practices and the ways that companies attract top talent to form its list of the best companies to work for. "Nothing matters more than how you go about hiring," said Mark Howard, the magazine's executive editor. BMI Elite prides itself in hiring qualified individuals who share a passion for exceeding client goals.

BMI Elite is a rapidly growing company that was noted on the list for hiring 22 new full-time employees over the past year. Some of the perks that its employees enjoy are an office arcade, potluck lunches, happy hour social events, company bowling tournaments and free breakfast on Fridays.

"Receiving this award is truly an honor," said CEO Brandon Rosen. "We have built one of the fastest growing, creative, online marketing companies in the industry, and we are very proud to have done this in Palm Beach County."

Headquartered in Delray Beach, Florida, BMI Elite is a full service digital advertising agency and affiliate network that leads the industry in performance-based marketing initiatives. CITY TO COMPLETE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT SURVEY WITH DUKAKIS CTR.

The City of Delray Beach has entered into an Economic Development Partnership with the National League of Cities (NLC) and Northeastern University's Dukakis Center for Urban and Regional Policy to promote local economic development. Through this partnership, the City will participate in the Economic Development Self-Assessment Tool (EDSAT), which will analyze our municipality's economic strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats regarding its ability to attract new businesses while retaining and growing existing ones.

The EDSAT was developed for use by municipal leaders to help identify local characteristics that affect a municipality's potential to increase private investment. In March 2010, the National League of Cities (NLC) and the Dukakis Center formed a partnership to offer the EDSAT to its member cities as well as training and other resources related to economic development. Delray Beach recognized this as an opportunity to improve the perception of our City as a business friendly and viable corporate destination, grow sustainable and livable wage jobs, encourage entrepreneurship (both new and existing), and increase the City's tax base.

Once the EDSAT is completed, the results will be tabulated and published on the City's website, www.mydelraybeach.com. For more information on this program, contact Vincent Nolan, City of Delray Beach and Delray Beach Community Redevelopment Agency Economic Development Director, at (561) 276-8640 or by E-mail at nolanv@mydelraybeach.com and/or the City of Delray Beach Public Information Office at (561) 243-7009 or by E-mail at pio@mydelraybeach.com.

ARTS GARAGE SELECTED AS ONE OF ONLY FIVE NOMINEES TO WIN THE FIRST PEOPLE'S CHOICE AWARD BY KNIGHT FOUNDATION
Vote for Arts Garage, text "2" to 305-767-2200 before October 22

South Florida's coolest cultural hub, Arts Garage in Delray Beach was selected as one of five organizations to compete for the Knight Foundation People's Choice Award for up-and-coming cultural organizations. As a way of bringing more attention to innovative emerging groups, Knight Foundation is asking the public to vote by text for their favorite of the five. The organization that receives the most votes will get $20,000 in unrestricted funds to use for a project.

"So much of the exciting art in South Florida is at the ground level. We want to make sure everybody knows about these groups and the work they are doing to engage people through the arts," said Dennis Scholl, Knight Foundation's Vice President of Arts.

The only organization selected from Palm Beach County, Arts Garage has swiftly established a solid reputation as "the place" for diverse programming that includes live jazz, blues, hip hop and classical music, as well as original theatre and visual art exhibitions. More importantly, Arts Garage is providing a stage and a voice for emerging regional artists of all disciplines to flourish.

"Not only are we thrilled to be nominated for this outstanding gift," said Alyona Ushe, Executive Director of Arts Garage, "we are also humbled and honored to represent our county, and especially Delray Beach, in Knight Foundation's prestigious people's choice award competition."

Alyona Ushe of Arts Garage and Stuart & Shelby Chuck Halberg get busy texting their votes.

Since its inception, Arts Garage brought to our region a roster of extraordinary talent. From internationally renowned to emerging artists, a wide array of disciplines and programming can be experienced at any given week at Arts Garage.

"We owe our success to remarkable talent living and creating in South Florida and culture lovers who believe in our vision and appreciate the intimacy of our venue. This win would give us the support and endorsement to build on our progress and keep our artistic dreams prospering. We appreciate every vote, and every text does count!" said Ushe.

Knight Foundation has launched the contest to bring attention to the exciting art happening on the ground level in South Florida and to invite people to participate in the selection process. The contest is part of the Knight Arts Challenge, which is investing $40 million in bringing South Florida Arts together.

HI THERE, MY NAME IS DEL-IDA, WELCOME HOME

Oh, here he goes again dragging me in with catchy titles that have nothing to do with the story. Hah not this time. So who, or what, is Del-Ida? Well if you are going to call yourself a local you will have to familiarize yourself with this beloved historical districts just north of downtown.

Originally platted in 1923, Del-Ida Park Historical District runs from NE 4th Street to George Bush Boulevard and is cradled between Swinton Avenue and the train tracks.

Wait a minute, I think I have seen a sign with that name on it.

Now you get it! Placed there by the city in 2009, it serves to offer a summary of the area's history and rests on NE 2nd Ave approximately seven blocks north of Atlantic Avenue, just before you get to the light.

The historic district itself compromises 58 acres, with approximately 150 structures. Roughly one-third of these homes still maintain the original Mediterranean Revival Style introduced to the area by one of our first general contractors, Frederick Henry Link.

Here's a little local trivia. Mr. Links' daughter, Catherine Link Strong, went on to become Delray's first woman mayor in 1954.

What I find really interesting is that even though Del-Ida Park is considered a "planned development" there are many odd shaped lots with varying street frontages caused by the diagonal running side streets. Definitely not your typical cookie-cutter neighborhood.

Ok, you sold me - how do I live in Del-Ida? Well, you better move quick. Currently there are only two homes available in the area according to the local MLS. Both homes were built in the early 1960's and are right around the 2,300 per square foot range. One of the homes resides on famed Swinton Avenue and has an asking price of $499,000, placing it just above $230 per square foot and features a large yard, pool, and inviting circular driveway.

The other is in the dual-zoned area (you can live or work here) on 3rd and has an asking price of $399,900 which is just shy of $170 per square foot. Both homes have maintained their gorgeous historical exterior appearance while being meticulously updated inside.

Delray Beach bringing history, music, art and the beaches all together. No wonder its America's "most fun small town".

107 NE 2nd Ave, Delray Beach "In the Heart of Pineapple Grove"

Sally Childs
561-414-4668

Posh Properties is proud and happy to announce the addition of another outstanding agent to our roster, Sally Childs.

Originally from Longmeadow MA, Sally Childs has made Delray Beach her home for more than a decade. While she still considers herself a New England girl, she can't resist the Palm Beach County lifestyle. After graduating from the University of New Hampshire, Sally made her way to San Francisco, then to Los Angeles to become one of Hollywood's most successful and well known make-up artists. She spent more than 20 years working for many of the major studios, including CBS and NBC, as well as feature films, music videos and fashion shoots. Sally found her way to live theater and soon became a successful costumer for the Kravis Center. Once in Florida, Sally immediately fell in love with Delray Beach. She purchased her home that first year.

For the past 6 years, Sally has been putting that same drive, dedication and her love for the Palm Beaches, into successfully representing buyers and sellers of Residential Real Estate. Her knowledge base makes her an invaluable agent. Her warmth and sincere concern for her customers, makes her your agent of choice. Sally doesn't quit after the sale, she continues to keep in touch and is always available for her customers.

Help Us Help Them:
The City of Delray Beach and Collaborative Businesses join together to aid in bringing local children up to grade level in reading ability.

Help Us Help Them

Schools can't do it alone: You may be thinking that teaching children to read is the work of schools. But, we are declaring it is the work of the entire community to support children in learning from birth on. It is harder for schools to help children succeed if youngsters arrive at school unprepared, if they miss too many days of class or if they lose some of their hard -fought gains over the summer months. The work that communities do to promote grade-level reading goals will support the work of teachers and principals, allowing them to concentrate their efforts on instruction and curriculum.

Benefit Fundraiser, Oct 10th, 6pm
Lincoln of Delray
2102 South Federal Highway • Delray Beach, FL 33483
RSVP Janet Meeks 561-243-7231

It starts before children reach the schoolhouse door. We need to make sure:

- Children are born healthy
- Parents and child care providers have the latest information on child development
- Every child has access to good childcare and preschool programs
- We align what we are teaching in preschool with the early grade curriculum

advice

"...Then Jack Happened"

Welcome to "...Then Jack Happened", the new advice column written by me, Jack. I grew up reading all of your favorite advice columns, hoping one day to get a crack at my own, and now here we are. This is going to be a lot of fun, certainly for me and hopefully for you.

The first question has to be, "who is this Jack chump to be giving advice?" My credentials are understandably fair game. Anticipating this issue, I researched the backgrounds of several syndicated advice columnists to decipher what separated all of us from them. I can cheerfully report that the answer is this: very little to nothing. They are people, women usually, with bachelor of arts with some sort of writing background, that have penned articles called "Water Birth and You," "Soup Spoons: Underrated in the 21st Century," or "How to Dump Your Boyfriend and Begin Dating His Roommate, the Hot One." They occasionally come from rough backgrounds and sometimes they are blue bloods. I am almost there. I am a 31-year-old single fellow with a bachelor of the arts in English that has yet to write an article about uteruses, formal table etiquette, or love problems, but I promise to whip something up once "...Then Jack Happened" gets off the ground. Importantly, I am capable of reading and writing sentences. I'm neither a rough kid nor a fancy boy, but I can handle myself comfortably in most social situations.

So - who can ask questions? Anyone. What kind of questions will I answer? Almost any question I find interesting, and more importantly, any question you find interesting. This column is the readership, you are its support system and authors. I am a proactive bystander. This excites me because you readers have endless possibilities, contrasted to my numerous limitations. As far as the tone and language, I won't be going blue, I got the vocabulary for it but want to keep the column reasonable, helpful, and considerate. I won't be obscene for the sake of obscenity, because that is boring, but I will be honest and straightforward. We will crack some jokes and enjoy some poetry. "...Then Jack Happened" is for fun, interest, and the human condition. I am excited to start and look forward to your questions, problems, and stories so, please, write in and we'll get going.

Question: I'm about to turn 30 and although I'm not all that bent up about it like most—I am going to miss the "Wow that's impressive for someone in their '20s!" So I guess my question for you Jack, is What do I have to accomplish in my '30s to get someone to crow "Wow that's really impressive for someone in their '30s!"?

Answer: Happy birthday and welcome to the '30s club, I have been a member for over a year and it's fantastic. I have interesting patches of hair, bags under my eyes, and my down-slopes are faster than my up-slopes. Still, I feel great. Your attitude about turning 30 is positive, but it would serve you better to extend it further.

Because you impressed in your '20s you must have enjoyed some type of success in your life, which is a wonderful thing. Although it is nice to have those successes recognized, your successes and goals must align with your personal happiness and satisfaction or else the outside validation is meaningless. I've always equated success/impressiveness with happiness, and you probably won't be happy unless you follow your personal passions.

What good is managing the world's largest spittoon conglomerate at 32 if you are unhappy doing it? You should accept that you're the only one running in your race so it's important to run as hard as you can, and although you are inconsolable when you inevitably don't win, you are brightened that you didn't lose either. By satisfying your personal goals regardless of outside influence, you'll be happier and more complete. That is impressive in of itself, regardless of what age you are and who is patting you on your back. It's just you.

Or drive a Lamborghini into the Atlantic, but I'm coming along for the ride!

If you want to learn more about Jack (me) jump onto www.delraypineapple.com/jack or please feel free to get to know me better through a letter of recommendation from an old boss (whom I detested).

Notes

[Jack] has several qualities that might not be apparently beneficial but certainly serve to the inherent value of an office environment [advice column]. Firstly, he is an extraordinarily beautiful man, gristled with the musk of pure machismo, but also demure and polite, regal and refined, he is an American Patriot. Occasionally this distracts, but in 99 out of 100 situations this is a benefit to the company [advice column]. His light brown tresses, and innocent tomfoolery, but also can freeze into a pose of cold analytic business-serious, a mane that befits the man. The sleepy, mysterious chocolate orbs, occasionally bespectacled, dart too and fro always observing and pondering his surroundings, soaking in the environment but also providing a lush window into his complex soul; they are more of a place that one would sit and have a single-malt, rather than mere human "eyes". His angular face, with commanding beak, powerful jaw line, soft, aware ears set the perfect tiger trap, a creature so stunning shouldn't be so amazingly approachable and good natured. His mouth, soft and wet created by two alluring pillows, peels back to reveal a smart, gapped smile, mischievous and ingenious, with a single un-cavitated goldenrod-tinted chomp that rests on the edge of the invisible, even Achilles had his heel. His powerful body slivers and gracefully glides through the sands of time, an appropriate vehicle, well oiled, treated, cared for, riding along life's highways with not a hiccup but many a head turn. Always dressed meticulously and true, he makes a tee-shirt a tuxedo and a tuxedo a pair of trunks; always with his soft, long feet shelled in Spanish appropriateness. His nature removes angst, or is he something More. Something that polishes out the scuff, and wipes the tears, and reaches a slightly callused grip out for an honest greeting that fills the void in a heart with warm apple cider and mom's comfort food. To be in his presence is to understand forgiveness. Forgiveness for all the atrocities, all the disagreements, all the children resting their wandering heads and questioning beings without a morsel of food in their stomachs. [Jack] is Hope.

My boss was a dunce, this never scored me a job...

2012 Authors Series returns to the Delray Beach Public Library

Starting in October, the Delray Beach Public Library begins a new season of authors speaking on a variety of subjects as part of our popular Authors Series. Don't miss these opportunities!

Thursday, October 11th @ 2:00pm

Author Elaine Bossik of Boynton Beach will read selections and discuss her latest novel "The Last Victim" that tells the story about a Jewish-American family's trials, triumphs, and tragedies.

Saturday, October 13th @ 2:00pm Chemistry Professor Dr. Rose Mary Stiffin of Miami Gardens will present a program about her debut novel "Walk in Bethel." It is a multigenerational family saga of two clans in Indianola, Mississippi, the Thompsons and the Suttons spanning over 90 years and provides the reader with an intimate and honest look at the lives of various friends and relatives of these two families.

Elaine Bossik

Dr. Rose Mary Stiffin

Wednesday, October 17th @ 2:00pm

Boynton Beach author Barbara Erlichman will present a program titled "One of a Kind." It asks what would happen if a rare coin was discovered and put up for auction. This book weaves together four plot lines surrounding the auction of a one-of-a-kind coin.

Monday, October 22nd @ 2:00pm

As part of our Centennial Series celebrating the 100th birthday of the Delray Beach Public Library, Delray Beach playwright, columnist and author Carol White will present a program on her new book "From One Place to Another" which features several local places in Delray Beach.

Wednesday, October 24th @ 2:00pm

Melbourne's Marshall Frank, author, classical violinist & retired captain from the Metro-Dade Police Department in Miami, will present a program titled: "The Upside to Murder: Transposing True Life to Fiction." These programs are free and open to the public. Books will be available for purchase and autographing. Registration is not required. For further information visit www.delraylibrary.org or call 561-266-9490.

An Educational Guide to Art and Culture in Palm Beach County - Now available on the web

LAKE WORTH, FL. – The Cultural Council of Palm Beach County announced that the Seventh Edition of its publication: An Educational Guide to Art and Culture in Palm Beach County is now available on the web. This one-of-a-kind educational resource for educators and families may be viewed or downloaded online at: www.palmbeachculture.com/educationalguide.

An Educational Guide to Art and Culture in Palm Beach County is an easy-to-use resource tool that assists educators and parents looking for free, or low-cost events, field trips and in-school presentations to enhance learning experiences for children. An Educational Guide to Art and Culture in Palm Beach County offers hundreds of activities for the K-12 student-age bracket, and provides information for educators and families to help keep art and culture a constant throughout the year.

"The guide is an excellent resource and we encourage everyone to take advantage of these wonderful activities," said Rena Blades, President and Chief Executive Officer for the Cultural Council of Palm Beach County. "By doing so, it strengthens and forms ongoing partnerships with arts and cultural organizations often in the same community with your home or school, and can lead to other exciting possibilities such as, internships, scholarships, and jobs."

SEASON OPENING CELEBRATION

HOSTED BY:
ARTS GARAGE GUILD

SAT, 11/3
7:30PM

Stroll among dazzling stars, sip cocktails and sample delicacies from some of Delray's finest restaurants as the plush red carpet below you turns into a bustling urban scape of performers and entertainment. Break dancers give way to opera singers; graffiti artists mingle with portrait sketchers; and classical violin music is offset by bucket drummers in this clash of grunge and glamour.

Be a part of the official opening of the 2012-2013 Arts Garage season as we offer a panoply of art for you to enjoy in Arts Garage's unique urban setting. Genres meld in this explosive display of art in all its forms. Don your classiest threads or throw on your ripped blue jeans. Visit your stylist or slick your hair back with motor oil—either way, don't miss being a part of this exciting evening showcasing the eclectic talent of our community.

Tickets are $75 per person, or $125 per couple.
Sponsorship opportunities and VIP packages are available.

Just call me "Rigel Post"

Shopping etiquette to buy by

By Rigel Herman

The Pineapple Contributing Writer

This month in lieu of my usual question and answer column, I've decided to address an issue of personal importance, Shopping Etiquette. High Season is upon us and the stores will soon be filling up again, with lines for the fitting rooms, waits to check out and, inevitably, some cranky shoppers and sales clerks.

Working in retail is, for the most part, wonderful, and I have made friends with many of my customers. However, there are things that frankly drive me bananas in my line of work. After discussing the subject further with colleagues and doing some online research, it seems I'm not alone in my frustration. And the same things tend to bother us all.

The bottom line is that shopping should be a pleasure. But in order for that to be fully realized, the experience should be mutually pleasing for both the customer and the sales clerk. Here are some rules to shop by. And while I'm sure that you'd never do these things, consider this a friendly reminder before you head out to make your next purchase.

1. Be polite

I was recently shopping in Manhattan at a well-known, high-end shop that I will refrain from naming. I was in the store for over 20 minutes and the two giraffe model-type girls working on the floor hadn't so much as blinked at me. They were completely "unaware" of my presence and were instead focused on taking pictures of each other in various poses for, I assume, Facebook.

I left soon after, annoyed and empty-handed. Point being, you should always expect to be greeted and acknowledged when walking into a store. That being said, a response is appreciated. Ignoring a "Hello" is quite rude in any setting and can set the precedent for the rest of the visit. Beginning with a pleasant rapport is the best way to ensure an enjoyable experience.

2. Bathrooms

Most boutiques do not have public restrooms. Yes, department stores have bathrooms, but most boutiques have limited space in the back, often an office, stock room and storage in one small area. The restrooms therefore are most likely unglamorous and are reserved for employees only. Don't be offended by a refusal to let you go, it's not personal and I'm sure that there's (almost always) a Starbuck's near by.

3. Children

I shopped with my mom all the time as a child. Her mantra to me was, "look with your eyes, not with your hands." If, on the off chance I wasn't being angelic, and I was touching things or misbehaving, we left immediately.

We don't mind your kids in the store, but seriously, they have to be on their best behavior. Crying, screaming, pulling clothes off the racks, crawling on displays, foot stomping...not okay. As a general rule I would say to reserve actual shopping trips, when you're looking for new jeans, for example, for a kid free afternoon. If you're popping by to browse or say hello, kids are cool, but they lose patience quickly and quite frankly, so do we.

4. Discounts

It's really never okay to ask for a discount. Let me first make a few exceptions, though I stand by my first statement whole-heartedly. If you find that an item on the floor is damaged, point it out to the sales person. In the event that it is the only one and you are willing to take it as final sale, a discount will most likely be offered and if not, it's okay to ask for a percentage off. If you work in a nearby store and there is a courtesy discount generally given, you may ask if the store you're in participates. However, in both instances, the shop owner or sales person is free to decline.

Simply asking for a discount because you want to pay less isn't okay. Most stores have sale items and asking if something is on sale is fine. But choosing your items and then trying to haggle the price is just plain rude. If the owner of the store or sales clerk is able to offer you a discount, they will, and I can guarantee they'll be more inclined to do so if you've been polite and haven't behaved as though you deserve a discount simply because you're you.

5. Returns/Exchanges

Boutiques generally operate differently from large department stores and their policies on returns and exchanges are probably somewhat less lenient. Understand the rules where you're shopping before you make a purchase. Because stores are required to have their policies displayed, claiming ignorance while trying to return something most likely won't be effective. Arguing with a sales person about the store's policy is also probably not going to work in your favor. And I hate to even have to mention this, but I do, wearing or altering a garment and then trying to return it . . . never okay.

6. "High" Prices

When walking through a store, if you find that the prices seem high, that's fine. But please, keep that to yourself. It is impolite and offensive to scoff at prices, or say things like, "this skirt isn't worth x dollars!?" or "I could get this at Target." Perhaps you're not familiar with the lines carried at the store you're in. Asking polite and respectful questions is, of course, okay, and even welcomed. Just don't say, "Why is this so expensive?" because that just sounds silly.

7. Making a Mess

It is the job of a sales person to keep the store looking clean and nice. That means re-folding things, re-hanging things and such. However, that doesn't mean that it's okay to unfold every shirt in the store and leave them in a ball. It also doesn't mean leaving things you've tried on in a pile on the floor. It's disrespectful to treat things that don't belong to you that way.

In closing, remembering the adage, "you catch more flies with honey than with vinegar," is a good rule of thumb when shopping. In my experience, people respond so much better to someone who is polite and nice, rather than aggressive, pushy and rude. Most people working in retail enjoy what they do and love what they sell and sincerely want to help. And having good manners and proper etiquette is always in fashion.

Arts Garage plans an outstanding October!

Arts Garage has scheduled another stellar and diverse array of talent this month. Jazz Project and Garage Blues continue to feature world class artists and will present a special Melton Mustafa CD release party. Global Invasion offers a rare opportunity to experience the historic Cuban phenomenon Orquesta Aragón and Arts Garage's very own multi-talented Drew Tucker. Shades of Soul debuts with ALEX, and to finish out the month and Arts Garage celebrates Halloween with Divas in Art: Super Spooktacular 2, which includes a costume contest.

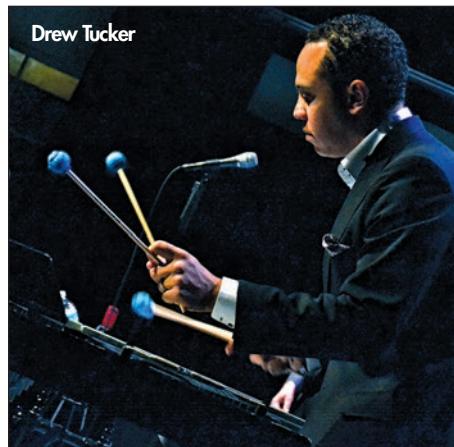

"October offers an exceptionally rich and diverse array of talent," said Alyona Ushe, Executive Director of Arts Garage. "We are taking our audiences on an unforgettable and powerful musical journey. Every concert is a must see, and since we've sold out every show this summer, we urge our patrons to get tickets early!" Visit www.artsgarage.org

Saturday, 10/6, 8pm

Global Invasion: Drew Tucker

Tickets: $20-$30. $5 more at the door

Musical visionary Drew Tucker returns to the Arts Garage stage with a performance sure to captivate and inspire. Joined by an array of international musicians, Tucker's Heartbeats aims to capture what is similar in us all. Exotic instrumentation including a marimba, an Indian tabla, and Japanese taiko drums collaborate with Latin piano, bass guitar, and electronic dub-step to create a performance that pairs reimagined jazz classics with musical innovation. This collaboration of top musicians from around the globe promises to give audiences an unforgettable musical experience unlike anything they have ever seen.

Friday, 10/12, 7:30pm

Shades of Soul: ALEX

Tickets: $15-$25. $5 more at the door

Soul sensation ALEX started his musical career at the age of 7, when he toured with his siblings throughout the southeastern United States. Since then, his engaging and heartfelt performances have earned him a worldwide following. As the lead vocalist for the musical group A7, ALEX won the hearts of thousands with his single "Don't Walk Away," which earned the band a spot on the Billboard Charts top 20 for 29 consecutive weeks. He has opened for major musical acts like John Legend, Al Green, and Eric Benet, and now makes his debut performance at Arts Garage in the Shades of Soul series premiere.

Saturday, 10/13, 8pm

Jazz Project: LeNard Rutledge

Tickets: $25-$35. $5 more at the door

Miami-born LeNard Rutledge brings his robust vocals to the Arts Garage in a soul-stirring evening of eclectic jazz. Often compared to legendary Lou Rawls, Rutledge's silky voice is backed up by Miami musical heavyweights Paul Shewchuck on bass, Jai Schneider on keyboard, and Carlomagno Arroyo on drums.

In response to the 2006 release of his first independent album Hello World, the Miami New Times voted Rutledge Best Jazz Artist of the Year. Rutledge's silky voice and classy elegance have made him one of the most sought-after vocal talents in contemporary jazz.

instruments and musical innovations. They are credited with inspiring the New York mambo movement in the 1950s, and are hailed as "the purest form music from Cuba." This 15-person ensemble combines violins, piano, flute, percussion and vocals to deliver one of the best live shows on the planet.

For two nights only, Orquesta Aragón ignites the stage in a fury of Latin rhythms and raucous beats. Dust off your dancing shoes and join us for this once-in-a-lifetime performance that promises to thrill and entertain. See them at Arts Garage in October or you will have to wait to see them at Manhattan's B.B. King's on New Year's Eve!

Thursday, 10/18 & Friday 10/19, 7:30pm

(Friday Performance SOLD OUT)

Global Invasion: Orquesta Aragón

Tickets: $25 to $35. $5 more at the door

Arts Garage is thrilled to announce this fall's special presentation of the Cuban music icon Orquesta Aragón. This legendary ensemble, formed in Cuba in 1939, quickly established itself as a true institution of Cuban music, and has evolved over the years to incorporate new

Saturday, 10/20, 8pm

Garage Blues: Joe "Survival" Caruso

Tickets: $25-$35. $5 more at the door

Hailing from a musical family from the heart of New Orleans, blues guitarist Joe Caruso grew up across the street from the legendary Club Desire, where he was introduced to legends like the young Ray Charles, Memphis Slim, Dinah Washington, and Fats Domino. He fell in love with the blues, and has developed his own electrifying blues sound with a twist of boogie-woogie and a touch of rock and roll. He has opened for Etta James, Hank Ballard, and Bobby Marchand. After losing his home in Hurricane Katrina, Joe moved to Florida and started up the Boogie-Woogie Blue-Fay Blues Band, and they have been exciting audiences ever since.

Friday, 10/26, 8pm

Jazz Project: Melton Mustafa

| CD Release Party

Tickets: $25-$35. $5 more at the door

Saturday, 10/27 8pm

Jazz Project: Randy Bernsen

Tickets: $25-$35. $5 more at door

Jazz guitarist Randy Bernsen has played to audiences all over the U.S., Europe, Asia, and Africa. He brings with him an exciting fusion guitar sound and a musical message. He has worked with some of the greatest modern guitar players, including Herbie Hancock, Michael Brecker, and Jaco Pastorius. Bernsen also spent 2 years with Weather Report jazz keyboardist/composer maestro Joe Zawinul developing his guitar synth chops and composition skills, and was the guitarist for the Zawinul Syndicate fusion band.

Sunday 10/28 7pm

Divas in Art: Super Spooktacular 2

Tickets: $15-$25. $5 more at door

Come dressed as you are, as you were, or as you'd like to be! This ain't no "Monster Mash"—it's a diva-ish party filled with glitter and guts! Thriller songs and performances, as well as an unforgettable costume contest. A horror show with a twist!
