BCSO warning of 'green crack'

By Zack McDonald

PANAMA CITY – After a massive bust seized hundreds of vials of “green crack” over the weekend, local law enforcement was spreading a word of caution about the highly potent and easily concealable drug, officials reported Tuesday.

The series of search warrants executed this Saturday yielded about 50 pounds of marijuana, small amounts of cocaine, prescription pills, about $50,000 in U.S. currency and 1,400 individual packages of THC resin pens from California called “green crack.” Three people – William Baird, 36; Leta Bishop, 56; and Brian Bruhmuller, 18 – were arrested as a result. How such a large amount of THC oil made its way from the Pacific Coast to the Emerald Coast remains the subject of investigation by the Bay County Sheriff’s Office narcotics unit.

But not long after the busts, authorities were issuing words of caution about risks associated with THC oil. BCSO Lt. Kevin Francis, who frequently tours schools to discuss drug awareness, said the oil is highly potent and difficult to police.

“It raises big problems,” he said. “One is the high levels of THC content and two is the ease of concealment.”

Francis said that methamphetamine and heroin have been priorities for law enforcement as of recent. However, the magnitude of THC oil resin

How much rain have we received this summer?

PANAMA CITY – It’s been a great summer.

Well, if you’re a duck that is. With afternoon rain showers sweeping through the county nearly every afternoon in August and at times causing flash flooding, one reader asked The News Herald through the Bay Asked, We Answered series “how much rain have we received this summer? Did we break a record?”

It was a lot of rain, confirmed Mark Wool, a meteorologist at the National Weather Service Tallahassee office, but not a record.

In June, the weather station at the airport recorded 3.7 inches of rain. The station recorded 9.16 inches in July and a then a whopping 11.25 inches in August.

August was the closest to breaking records, but ultimately didn’t make the cut as 12.43 inches of rainfall was recorded in 2003.

“We can confidently say it didn’t break a record,” Wool said.

The most rain fell on Aug. 2, when 4.4 inches was recorded at the airport, according to records. During that storm, a flash flood watch was in place as an unseasonable front helped hold tropical moisture

Hurricane Florence closes in on Carolinas

By Jonathan Drew
The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, N.C. – Motorists streamed inland on highways converted to one-way evacuation routes Tuesday as about 1.7 million people in three states were warned to get out of the way of Hurricane Florence, a hair-raising storm taking dead aim at the Carolinas with 140 mph winds and potentially ruinous rains.

Florence was expected to blow ashore late Thursday or early Friday, then slow down and wring itself out for days, unloading 1 to 2½ feet of rain that could cause flooding well inland and wreak environmental havoc by washing over industrial waste sites and hog farms.

Forecasters and politicians pleaded with the public to take the warnings seriously and minced no words in describing the threat.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 12, 1942, during World War II, a German U-boat off West Africa torpedoed the RMS Laconia, which was carrying Italian prisoners of war, British soldiers and civilians; it's estimated more than 1,600 people died while some 1,100 survived after the ship sank. The German crew, joined by other U-boats, began rescue operations.

In 1958, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Cooper v. Aaron, unanimously ruled that Arkansas officials who were resisting public school desegregation orders could not disregard the high court's rulings.

In 1959, the Soviet Union launched its Luna 2 space probe, which made a crash landing on the moon. The TV Western series "Bonanza" premiered on NBC.

In 1960, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy addressed questions about his Roman Catholic faith, telling the Greater Houston Ministerial Association, "I do not speak for my church on public matters, and the church does not speak for me."
In 1992, the space shuttle Endeavour blasted off, carrying with it Mark Lee and Jan Davis, the first married couple in space; Mae Jemison, the first black woman in space; and Mamoru Mohri, the first Japanese national to fly on a U.S. spaceship. Police in Peru captured Shining Path founder Abimael Guzman. Actor Anthony Perkins died in Hollywood at age 60.

In 1994, a stolen, single-engine Cessna crashed into the South Lawn of the White House, coming to rest against the executive mansion; the pilot, Frank Corder, was killed.

NATION & WORLD

US marks 9/11 with somber tributes

By Jennifer Peltz
and Karen Matthews
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Americans looked back on 9/11 Tuesday with tears and somber tributes as President Donald Trump hailed “the moment when America fought back” on one of the hijacked planes used as weapons in the deadliest terror attack on U.S. soil.

Victims’ relatives said prayers for their country, pleaded for national unity and pressed officials not to use the 2001 terror attacks as a political tool in a polarized nation.

Seventeen years after losing her husband, Margie Miller came from her suburban home to join thousands of relatives, survivors, rescuers and others on a misty morning at the memorial plaza where the World Trade Center’s twin towers once stood.

“To me, he is here. This is my holy place,” she said before the hours-long reading of the names of her husband, Joel Miller, and the nearly 3,000 others killed when hijacked jets slammed into the towers, the Pentagon and a field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania on Sept. 11, 2001.

The president and first lady Melania Trump joined an observance at the Sept. 11 memorial near Shanksville, where one of the jetliners crashed after 40 passengers and crew members realized what was happening and several passengers tried to storm the cockpit.

Calling it “the moment when America fought back,” Trump said the fallen “took control of their destiny and changed the course of history.”

They “joined the immortal ranks of American heroes,” said Trump.

At the Pentagon, Vice President Mike Pence recalled the heroism of service members and civilians who repeatedly went back into the Pentagon to rescue survivors.

The terrorists “hoped to break our spirit, and they failed,” he said.

At the United Nations, Security Council members stood for a moment of silence, led by U.S. Ambassador Nikki Haley.

The 9/11 commemorations are by now familiar rituals, centered on reading the names of the dead. But each year at ground zero, victims’ relatives infuse the ceremony with personal messages of remembrance, inspiration and concern.

For Nicholas Haros Jr., that concern is officials who make comparisons to 9/11 or invoke it for political purposes.

“Stop. Stop,” implored Haros, who lost his 76-year-old mother, Frances. “Please stop using the bones and ashes of our loved ones as props in your political theater. Their lives, sacrifices and deaths are worth so much more. Let’s not trivialize them.”

This year’s anniversary comes as a heated midterm election cycle kicks into high gear. But there have been some efforts to separate the solemn anniversary from political campaigns. The group 9/11 Day, which promotes volunteering on the anniversary, asks candidates not to campaign or run political ads for the day. Organizers of the ground zero ceremony allow politicians to attend, but they’ve been barred since 2011 from reading names or delivering remarks.

If not political speeches, there were politically tinged appeals from some victims’ relatives amid the reading.

“May we support our president to lead our country,” said Joanne Barbara, who lost her husband, Fire Department Assistant Chief Gerard Barbara.

Another victim’s family sent a different message.

“My hope is that discrimination, hatred and bigotry will cease and that we all will come together and love,” said Debra Epps, a sister of victim Christopher Epps. Another sister, Chaundera, had an answer for anyone who wonders why families still come to such ceremonies after 17 years.

“Because soldiers are still dying for our freedom. First responders are still dying and being ill,” Chaundera Epps said, adding, “God bless America that’s never, ever, stopped being great.”

Trump uses “Make America Great Again” as a slogan.

Other relatives laid bare the toll their losses had taken on their families. Thomas Langer said his brother, Timmy, “drank himself to death” after losing his wife, Vanessa, and their unborn child on Sept. 11.

Lawyer for officer asks judge to recuse over TV comments

The attorney for a Pennsylvania officer charged in the shooting death of an unarmed black teenager as he fled a traffic stop Tuesday asked the judge in the case if he would be willing to recuse himself.

Attorney Patrick Thomasse, who represents East Pittsburgh Police Officer Michael Rosfeld, asked Judge Anthony Mariani during a pre-trial hearing to recuse himself because of comments he made on a cable news program about whether the shooting was justified. The comments were made before he was assigned to the case. Thomasse said Mariani used language suggesting that the bystander video of the incident might show the shooting wasn’t justified and saying the officer might have shot 17-year-old Antwon Rose Jr. out of frustration.

BASRA, IRAQ

Iran relocates consulate in Iraq’s Basra following unrest

Iran’s ambassador to Iraq says his country is relocating its consulate in Basra, after demonstrators burned down the old one four days ago.

Protests in the oil-rich city that began over failing services and contaminated drinking water have morphed into a condemnation of Iraq’s entire political class, as well as of Iran, which holds a large sway over politics.

Angry demonstrators torched nearly every government building in Basra last week as well as the offices of several Iran-backed militias that operate in the city.

Ambassador Iraj Masjedi on Tuesday said the old consular building was “completely burned.” It was occupied and torched on Friday.

BEIRUT

US-backed group in last push to defeat IS in northeast Syria

A U.S.-backed Syrian fighting force said Tuesday it has begun the final stage of its campaign to clear Islamic State group militants from northeast Syria.

Separately, at least 21 pro-government fighters were killed in clashes with the militants in south Syria, underlining the persistent threat posed by the group despite its shrinking footprint.

The Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights monitoring group said the 21 fighters, among them Syrian soldiers and foreign militia-men who have been recruited to fight for President Bashar

Assad, died Monday night in a battle with IS militants in the Safaa desert region at the edges of Sweida province.

CINCINNATI

Coroner: Gunman wanted to kill ‘as many people as he could’

The county coroner on Tuesday described the gunman in the fatal shootings in downtown Cincinnati as determined to kill “as many people” as possible without hesitation and said that she had met one of the victims.

Dr. Lakshmi Sammarco reported on autopsy findings from the Fifth Third Bank building shootings last Thursday.

She said the gunman who used a 9 mm handgun fired both standard bullets and hollow-point bullets, which often inflict more damage to bodies.

OKLAHOMA CITY

Oklahoma man seeks new trial in white supremacist plot

An Oklahoma man says new evidence of prosecutors withholding information should result in a new trial on his 1999 murder conviction and death penalty for killing an Arkansas family as part of a plot to set up a whites-only nation in the Pacific Northwest.

Attorneys for Danny Lee, 45, of Yukon say in documents filed late Monday in U.S. District Court in Little Rock that prosecutors illegally failed to tell defense attorneys that a witness, who testified that Lee admitted to the murders to him, also told investigators he believed Lee was lying.

Poll: Voters open to candidates who are not very religious

By David Crary
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Religion's role in politics and public policy is in the spotlight heading toward the midterm elections, yet relatively few Americans consider it crucial that a candidate be devoutly religious or share their religious beliefs, according to a poll released Tuesday by The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research.

Just 25 percent of Americans say it's very or extremely important that a candidate has strong religious beliefs, according to the poll. Only 19 percent consider it very or extremely important that a candidate shares their own beliefs, and nearly half say that's not very important or not important at all.

Still, most Americans see a role for religion in shaping public policy. A solid majority of Americans, 57 percent, want the influence of religion on government policy to extend beyond traditional culture war issues and into policies addressing poverty. Americans are more likely to say religion should have at least some influence on poverty than on abortion (45 percent) or LGBT issues (34 percent).

There is little public support for the campaign by some conservative religious leaders, backed by President Donald Trump, to allow clergy and religious organizations to endorse political candidates while retaining their tax exempt status. Such a change is opposed by 53 percent of Americans and supported by 13 percent. The rest expressed no opinion.

Trump's stance on political endorsements by clergy is one of many reasons he has retained strong support among white evangelical Christians, despite aspects of his behavior and personal life that don't neatly align with Christian values. The AP-NORC poll found that 7 in 10 white evangelical Protestants say they approve of Trump, a Republican.

The importance of a candidate's religious faith varied across religious and political groups.

Among white evangelical Protestants, 51 percent consider it very or extremely important that a candidate has strong religious beliefs. An additional 25 percent think it's moderately important. Far fewer Catholics and white mainline Protestants considered this important.

Roughly two-thirds of Republicans said it's at least moderately important that a candidate has strong religious beliefs, compared with 37 percent of Democrats.

Jack Kane, an accountant from Key West, Florida, was among the Republican-leaning poll participants who said it wasn't important to him whether a candidate was deeply religious.

Study: Semi-automatic rifles more deadly

By Lindsey Tanner
The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Active shooters with semi-automatic rifles wound and kill twice as many people as those using weapons that don't self-load, although chances of dying if hit in either type of assault are the same, a new analysis shows.

Researchers examined FBI data on nearly 250 active shooter incidents in the United States since 2000. Almost 900 people were wounded and 718 were killed.

One in four of these attacks involved semi-automatic rifles. These weapons automatically load each bullet after firing although firing requires pulling the trigger for each round.

Recent attacks involving semi-automatics include the shootings at Parkland High School, Orlando's Pulse night club and Sandy Hook Elementary School.

Semi-automatics, which include some assault weapons, often are thought of as being more lethal. Since they can fire rapidly, chances of being hit in those circumstances are high, the study shows.

But in active shooter attacks, which tend to occur in confined spaces and with an intent to kill, the results suggest all types of guns can be equally deadly, said lead researcher Dr. Adil Haider, a trauma surgeon at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

Overall, 44 percent of people hit in active shooter attacks involving semi-automatic weapons died, the same as those wounded in attacks not involving semi-automatic rifles, showing that "the death rate if you got hit by a bullet was the same," Haider said.

"Active shooters are hell-bent on killing people," he said. "The big difference — and this is not such a big surprise — is if you give them a semi-automatic, they're able to shoot twice the number of people."

The average number of people wounded in semi-automatic attacks totaled nearly six, versus about three in attacks with other weapons. Roughly four people were killed on average in semi-automatic attacks, compared with about two in other attacks, the study found.

The results were published Tuesday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Russia launches biggest ever war games involving China

By Vladimir Isachenkov and Sergei Grits
The Associated Press

CHITA, Russia — Hundreds of thousands of Russian troops swept across Siberia on Tuesday in the nation's largest ever war games also joined by China — a powerful show of burgeoning military ties between Moscow and Beijing amid their tensions with the U.S.

Moscow said the week-long Vostok (East) 2018 maneuvers will span vast expanses of Siberia and the Far East, the Arctic and the Pacific Oceans and involve nearly 300,000 Russian troops — nearly one-third of the country's 1-million-strong military. They will feature more than 1,000 aircraft, about 36,000 tanks and other military vehicles and 80 warships.

Russian Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu has described the drills as even bigger than the country's largest Cold War-era exercise called Zapad 1981 that put NATO allies on edge.

A retired Russian general said that the giant war games come as a warning to the U.S. against ramping up pressure on Russia.

"The maneuvers are aimed at deterring the aggressive intentions of the U.S. and NATO," Ret. Gen. Leonid Ivashov said. He was quoted by the Interfax news agency as saying that the drills are "also a response to the U.S. sanctions."

China is sending about 3,200 troops, 900 combat vehicles and 30 aircraft to join the drills at a Siberian firing range, a significant deployment that reflects its shift toward a full-fledged military alliance with Russia. Mongolia also has sent a military contingent.

Asked if the U.S. is worried about a possible military alliance between Russia and China, Defense Secretary Jim Mattis told Pentagon reporters Tuesday that, "I think that nations act out of their interests. I see little in the long term that aligns Russia and China."

As the maneuvers kicked off, Chinese President Xi Jinping visited Russia on Tuesday to attend an economic forum in Vladivostok. President Vladimir Putin treated Xi to pancakes with caviar and shots of vodka in a show of their warm rapport.

Moscow and Beijing have forged what they described as a "strategic partnership," expressing their shared opposition to the "unipolar" world, the term they use to describe perceived U.S. global domination. However, the military drills they had until now were far smaller in scale, reflecting China's caution about alliances.

Some experts pointed out that the U.S. helped spawn closer Russia-China military ties by labeling them strategic competitors.

"They feel they need to embrace to deal with the increasingly high pressure and containment from the U.S.," said Yue Gang, a military expert and retired Chinese army colonel.

He noted that China feels that the Washington's hostile attitude and actions, such as deploying the THAAD missile defense system in South Korea, relieve it of any need to take U.S. views into consideration when deepening strategic trust with Moscow.

"The war games have laid a foundation for China and Russia to enhance cooperation on international arena and will lift the combat proficiency of both sides," he said.

The Chinese media touted the Chinese involvement in the maneuvers as the country's largest-ever dispatch of forces abroad for war games.

Some noted that the People's Liberation Army, which hasn't fought a war since the attempted invasion of Vietnam in 1979, is keen to learn from Russia's experience in the Syrian campaign, where it tested its latest weapons and tactics.

From China's perspective, the emerging military alliance with Russia sends a strong signal to the U.S. and its ally Japan as Beijing moves to defend its interests in the South China Sea, which China claims virtually in its entirety, as well as Taiwan and the Senkaku and Diaoyu islands controlled by Japan but claimed by Beijing.

Hong Kong-based commentator Song Zhongping said China is anxious to acquire more experience in large-scale operations that might become a factor in a conflict with the U.S. and others over territorial claims in Asia.

AP interview: Iran nuclear chief hopes deal will survive

By Jon Gambrell and Nasser Karimi
The Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's nuclear chief said Tuesday he hopes Tehran's landmark atomic deal with world powers will survive President Donald Trump withdrawing the U.S. from it, warning the Islamic Republic's program stands ready to build advanced centrifuges and further enrich uranium.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, Ali Akbar Salehi stressed Iran would be guided by "prudence and wisdom" when weighing whether to abandon the deal if European nations fail to protect it from Trump.

The U.S. withdrawal from the deal already has badly shaken Iran's anemic economy, crashing its currency, the rial. That likely will be compounded by U.S. sanctions coming in November that threaten Iran's oil exports, a major source of government funding.

All this puts further pressure on the administration of Iran's relatively moderate President Hassan Rouhani, to whom Salehi reports as one of his vice presidents.

But Salehi dismissed out of hand the idea of caving to American demands to renegotiate the accord.

Demand for 'DEATH PENALTY' prejudiced case: Lawyers

By Kyle Swenson
The Washington Post

President Donald Trump's tweets have been increasingly popping up in court cases, and their latest cameo comes in the proceedings involving the deadliest terrorism case in New York City since Sept. 11. Defense lawyers for the man charged in the attack are citing them in efforts to save the defendant from the death penalty.

Last October, Sayfullo

Saipov nosed a rented flatbed truck down a bike path on Manhattan's West Side, violently killing eight and injuring 12 others before being taken into custody. According to a federal indictment, the Uzbekistan native later told investigators he carried out lone wolf attack out of allegiance to ISIS.

Saipov now faces a handful of federal charges, including murder, conspiracy and providing material support or resources to a foreign terrorist organization. The New York Daily News reports Attorney General Jeff Sessions is expected to decide whether federal prosecutions will pursue the death penalty in the case in the coming weeks.

But Saipov's attorneys filed a motion last Thursday in the Southern District of New York trying to yank a possible execution off the table.

Their evidence: Trump's online bluster.

Did You Know? >

Spondyloarthropathies, commonly known as Ankylosing spondylitis is a type of arthritis that affects the spine. The spine's vertebrae fuse together, resulting in a rigid spine. These changes may be mild or severe, and may lead to a stooped-over posture. Early diagnosis and treatment helps control pain and stiffness and may reduce or prevent significant deformity.

Ankylosing spondylitis symptoms include pain and stiffness from the neck down to the lower back. However, Ankylosing spondylitis is a systemic disease, which means symptoms may not be limited to the joints. People with the condition also may have fever, fatigue, and loss of appetite. Eye inflammation (redness and pain) occurs in some people with spondylitis. In rare cases, lung and heart problems also may develop.

There is no cure for ankylosing spondylitis, but there are treatments that can reduce discomfort and improve function. The goals of treatment are to reduce pain and stiffness, maintain a good posture, prevent deformity, and preserve the ability to perform normal activities. When properly treated, people with ankylosing spondylitis may lead fairly normal lives.

Trump launches attacks on FBI, Justice Department

By Matt Zapposky
The Washington Post

As politicians and others went on Twitter on Tuesday morning to mark the 17th anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, President Donald Trump used the platform to launch a fresh round of assaults on the FBI and Justice Department.

Trump — apparently seizing on allegations leveled the night before by one of his conservative allies in Congress — referred to two former FBI officials who have become infamous for trading anti-Trump texts: Peter Strzok and Lisa Page.

The president repeated a claim from Rep. Mark Meadows, R-N.C., that the pair employed a “media leak strategy” to undermine his administration, then blamed the bureau and Justice Department for inaction on the matter.

The claim from Meadows is debatable; Strzok’s attorney said his client’s reference to a “media leak strategy” was an effort to stem unauthorized disclosures of information. Both Strzok and Page have left the FBI, Strzok because he was fired over his anti-Trump texts.

“New Strzok-Page texts reveal ‘Media Leak Strategy.’ @FoxNews So terrible, and NOTHING is being done at DOJ or FBI — but the world is watching, and they get it completely,” Trump wrote.

The tweet was one of several Tuesday in which Trump interspersed messages about Sept. 11 with his thoughts on the Justice Department. Apparently quoting from a segment on Fox News, he tweeted at 7:08 a.m., “We have found nothing to show collusion between President Trump & Russia, absolutely zero, but every day we get more documentation showing collusion between the FBI & DOJ, the Hillary campaign, foreign spies & Russians, incredible.”

A minute later, he retweeted a message about his Sept. 11 proclamation, adding the hashtags, “#NeverForget #September11th.” Next he tweeted about the “media leak strategy.” After that, he suggested — apparently derisively and again quoting Fox News — that his Justice Department “would be behaving no differently than it is” if it were run by Eric Holder, President Barack Obama’s attorney general.

Holder fired back: “This is not a day for the usual unhinged Trump politics. This is a day to remember the innocent Americans we lost and the brave first responders who gave their lives.”

Trump’s tweet about the “Media Leak Strategy” refers to a letter Meadows sent to Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein on Monday alleging a “systemic culture of media leaking” among high-ranking Justice Department and FBI officials. The letter reveals previously undisclosed messages between Strzok and Page, who were involved in both the investigation of Russian interference in the 2016 election and the probe of Hillary Clinton’s use of a private email server.

coming up on their radar in the case demanded resources, he said.

The THC oil resin comes in 0.5 milliliter vials and boasts about 91 percent potency, whereas Florida’s medical counterpart is between 30 and 40 percent. They mostly originate from California. And the oil vials are interchangeable among “vape pens” and similarly smell much different than their tobacco or marijuana predecessors, Francis said.

have that strong pungent smell of marijuana,” he said. “It’s definitely tougher.”

The bust was a joint operation spanning the last several months and involved BCSO, Panama City Beach Police Department, Panama City Police Department, Florida Department of Law Enforcement, Lynn Haven Police Department and the Jackson County Sheriff’s Office.

According to BCSO arrest affidavits, Bishop allegedly had the most abundant amount of marijuana and THC resin pens. She is being held on a $75,000 bond. Baird likewise allegedly possessed THC oil as well as THC edibles and prescription pills. He is being held on a $28,500 bond. Bruhmuller allegedly possessed THC wax. He is being held on a bond of $36,000, court records stated.

Francis said this is the largest combined seizure of THC oil in memory and said the new method of illegal marijuana consumption has presented a variety of problems for law enforcement.

“It has opened up a whole new area for us, but what’s happening in the West usually makes its way here,” he said. “It’s tough to decipher because so many people have vape pens.”

RAIN

over the region. Heavy rain also fell on August 13, causing flooding on roads in Panama City that don’t usually flood such as Magnolia Avenue and 15th Street.

But those, of course, weren’t the only storms.

“There was Gordon that came in and dumped several inches and there was just an awful lot of your typical summer storms,” Wool said.

Forecasters are also predicting September will be wetter than normal, but Wool said October may mark a turning point.

“Usually, by the time we get to October we get a break,” Wool said.

Florence’s potential path

FLORENCE

“This storm is a monster. It’s big and it’s vicious. It is an extremely, dangerous, life-threatening, historic hurricane,” North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper said.

He added: “The waves and the wind this storm may bring is nothing like you’ve ever seen. Even if you’ve ridden out storms before, this one is different. Don’t bet your life on riding out a monster.”

Some hoped for divine intervention.

“I’m prayed up and as ready as I can get,” Steven Hendrick said as he filled up gasoline cans near Conway, South Carolina.

More than 5.4 million people live in areas under hurricane warnings or watches on the U.S. East Coast, according to the National Weather Service, and another 4 million people were under a tropical storm watch.

President Donald Trump declared states of emergency for North and South Carolina and Virginia, opening the way for federal aid. He said the federal government is “absolutely, totally prepared” for Florence.

All three states ordered mass evacuations along the coast. But getting out of harm’s way could prove difficult.

Florence is so wide that a life-threatening storm surge was being pushed 300 miles ahead of its eye, and so wet that a swath from South Carolina to Ohio and Pennsylvania could get deluged.

People across the region rushed to buy bottled water and other supplies, board up their homes, pull their boats out of the water and get out of town.

5 STORMS TO WATCH IN THE ATLANTIC

PANAMA CITY — With hurricane season in full swing, the National Hurricane Center is currently watching five storm systems in the Atlantic. Here’s the rundown:

Storm: Hurricane Florence
Strength: Category 4
About: Spinning toward the Carolinas, Florence is predicted to bring life threatening storm surge, life threatening flash flooding and damaging winds when it hits on Thursday or Friday, according to the National Hurricane Center. Evacuations have been ordering in parts of the region. Wind speeds as of Tuesday night were sustained 130 mph and it is expected to hit the coast as a Category 3 or 4 storm.

Storm: Hurricane Helene
Strength: Category 2
About: Unlike Florence, Helene is not a threat to the U.S., based on National Hurricane Center predictions. A strong Category 2, Helene is spinning at sea, currently closer to Africa than North America. It’s has begun to turn north and is expected to veer toward Europe.

Storm: Isaac
Strength: Tropical Storm
About: Isaac was a hurricane, and then lost steam, but the National Hurricane Center is anticipating it will be at or near hurricane intensity when it approaches the Lesser Antilles on Thursday. The current path has the storm heading due west toward Nicaragua.

Storm: Not named
Strength: Forming
About: A disturbed weather pattern in the extreme northwestern Caribbean sea is gradually becoming better organized and has a 50 percent chance of becoming a tropical depression in the next 48 hours and a 70 percent chance of forming over the next five days. The National Hurricane Center is advising people in northeastern Mexico and the coasts of Texas and Louisiana to monitor the storm. The next name in line is Joyce.

Storm: Not named
Strength: Forming
About: A non-tropical area of low pressure has formed in the northeastern Atlantic with a 20 percent chance of developing into a tropical depression over the next 48 hours and a 50 percent chance over the next five days, according to the National Hurricane Center. Kirk is the next available name.

LONDON UK wages pick up, should bolster growth

Household incomes in the U.K. picked up during the summer, official figures showed Tuesday, a development that, if sustained, should shore up the British economy in the run-up to Brexit.

The Office for National Statistics said Tuesday that average earnings excluding bonuses were up 2.9 percent over the three months through July from the same period the year before. In the three months to June, they were up 2.7 percent.

Analysts said the rise can be largely attributed to the 3 percent pay increase awarded to more than a million National Health Service workers in England, including cleaners, nurses, paramedics and midwives. The increase started being rolled out from July.

To prep for Hurricane Florence, investors sell off insurers

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Hurricanes almost always set off an orchestrated dance on Wall Street before they make landfall, with shares of property and casualty insurance companies dumped in favor of companies that sell construction supplies or portable generators.

That routine began a week ago, though Hurricane Florence appears to be turning up the volume this time.

The last time a hurricane of this size struck the middle of the East Coast, Texas Instruments had just introduced the first transistor radio.

Since then, the region has been developed heavily and the potential damages may be exponentially higher.

Karen Clark & Co., which produces models for catastrophes, said that if 1989's Hurricane Hugo had hit South Carolina in 2012, just 23 years later, insurance losses would have more than doubled to $10 billion when development and inflation are factored in.

Forecasting where a hurricane will hit and with what level force is always tricky and there is a long history of false alarms. But the likelihood that Hurricane Florence will collide with Carolinas and neighboring states has created a sustained sell off of major property and casualty insurance companies, and the companies that insure the insurers.

Allstate Corp had been in decline for three days, as has Travelers Cos., though those shares appeared to stabilize Tuesday.

Property and casualty insurance investors "are still keenly aware of significant losses from Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, and Maria in 2017," wrote Kai Pan and Michael Phillips, analysts with Morgan Stanley. "We expect Florence to weigh on P&C (re)insurance stocks as it moves closer to mainland U.S."

Allstate has a 6.9 percent market share for home, auto and commercial property coverage in the Carolinas and Virginia, according to Morgan Stanley. Berkshire Hathaway has a market share of 5.6 percent, and Traversis 4.3 percent.

As of 5 p.m. Tuesday, Florence was centered 785 miles southeast of Cape Fear, North Carolina, moving west-northwest at 17 mph.

The center of the titanic storm is expected meander Thursday, Friday and Saturday over a stretch of coastline saturated by rising seas, inundating several states and triggering life-threatening floods. Seven-day rainfall totals are forecast to reach 10 inches to 20 inches over much of North Carolina and Virginia, and even 30 inches in some places. Combined with high tides, the storm surge could swell as high as 12 feet.

Insurers, of course, have built up war chests and insured their own potential losses given the severity of the storms that have been striking the coastal United States.

Pan and Phillips point out that even with losses exceeding $140 billion last year, the insurance industry remains well capitalized.

How to put a price on the destruction and how those companies will secure funding going forward is a topic of discussion this week at the annual, global reinsurance conference in Monte Carlo, where the analysts are in attendance.

But early estimates are emerging, based on each $1 billion in covered damages.

North Carolina has the highest property and casualty insured premiums of the three states at $16 billion, followed by Virginia at $13.6 billion, and South Carolina at $9.5 billion, according to Citi.

"In North Carolina, we estimate Travelers losses would be about $42 million for each $1 billion in insured losses, followed by Allstate at $37 million, Chubb at $25 million and Progressive at $21 million," wrote Citi analyst James Naklicki.

On the other hand, companies that help people ride out a storm, or clean up afterward, are having an exceptional week.

Shares of Generac Holdings Inc., which sells generators, are up 8 percent in just the past week. Shares of Home Depot Inc. and Lowe's Cos. are both up about 4 percent in the same period.

China puts off licenses amid tariff battle

By Joe McDonald
The Associated Press

BEIJING — Amid a worsening tariff battle, China is putting off accepting license applications from American companies in financial services and other industries until Washington makes progress toward a settlement, an official of a business group said Tuesday.

The disclosure is the first public confirmation of U.S. companies' fears that their operations in China or access to its markets might be disrupted by the battle over Beijing's technology policy. China is running out of American imports for penalties in response to U.S. President Donald Trump's tariff hikes, which has prompted worries that Chinese regulators might target operations of U.S. companies.

The license delay applies to industries Beijing has promised to open to foreign competitors, according to Jacob Parker, vice president for China operations of the U.S.-China Business Council. The group represents some 200 American companies that do business with China.

In meetings over the past three weeks, Cabinet-level officials told USCBC representatives they are putting off accepting applications "until the trajectory of the U.S.-China relationship improves and stabilizes," Parker said.

Chinese authorities have promised to increase foreign access to areas including banking, securities, insurance and asset management.

ARBOR OUTLOOK

Young Ideas, Old Wisdom and Frank Sinatra

Margaret McDowell

"And if you should survive to a hundred and five... Look at all you'll derive out of bein' alive."

"Young at Heart" as performed by Frank Sinatra

Technological changes that have occurred in our lifetimes are truly remarkable, aren't they?

Consider advances in communication. Remember the manual typewriter? Then the electric one? I thought the automatic return was an incredible invention.

We then discarded the typewriter and educated ourselves on the computer. Then we learned to utilize the iPhone and eschewed land lines in favor of mobile ones. Now we read on our iPads as print fades from our lives like ancient, dried ink on parchment.

Since most innovative ideas in technology are offered by those under 30, we tend to associate positive technological change with young people. Most of us Baby Boomers understand ageism intuitively. Who isn't familiar with the looks of scorn and derision we receive when we ask our children and younger co-workers about tech issues?

So you would think that nearly all successful startups and entrepreneurial enterprises are launched by youngsters, right? Not even close. An article in the New Republic states among other things that... "Most successful entrepreneurs are middle-aged, not young." Why? Because there's more to developing a successful business than hatching an innovative idea. There's financing, marketing, business plans, and personnel management. Our life experience and our business acumen, earned over decades, can take a great idea and then make it work in the marketplace.

Young people are good at getting into business. Boomers are skilled at getting out and more likely to enjoy a positive final outcome with commercial endeavors. Someone who creates a business at age 50 is almost twice as likely to employ a successful exit strategy as someone who starts a business at age 30. "The mean founder age of startups with a successful exit, through IPO or acquisition, is 46.7," the article states.

The message? It's never too late, and we're never too old, to put our experience to work. Henry Ford was 50 years old in 1913 when he developed the assembly line to mass-produce his cars. Ray Kroc was 52 when he opened his first McDonald's in Des Plaines, Illinois and older than that when he finally figured out how to profit from franchising.

To someone who is 30, the future is always infinite. But many Americans who amass small fortunes do so through selling a business. It takes years of experience and skill to build an enterprise that others see value in; then it takes marketing and negotiating ability to consummate the transfer of ownership and reap the profits.

Get past platitudes on water supply

It's September in an election year in Florida. Suddenly, and suddenly everybody cares about water.

GOP gubernatorial nominee Ron DeSantis and his Democratic opponent, Andrew Gillum both cite water and environment as top issues. U.S. Sen. Bill Nelson and his challenger, Gov. Rick Scott, both claim credit for Everglades restoration and cleanup efforts in the Indian River Lagoon.

But which candidates really have a track record to back their talk? And where are the details of their plans to secure Florida's water supply and protect the lakes, rivers and coastline that form such an integral part of our quality of life?

These are the questions voters should be asking.

The urgency of these issues extends beyond the top of the ballot to legislative and even local races, and transcends partisanship. The state's water supply is crucial to our future. The threat is immediate, as seen in the headline-grabbing algae blooms and the devastating red tide that's killing sea life — including manatees and fish — along the Gulf coast. But it's also long-term. Florida threats that don't grab as much attention, but pose just as much danger to the state's economic and environmental future.

One of the biggest hazards is the stress being placed on the Floridan aquifer, the vast network of underground caves that hold the state's freshwater drinking supply. Sea level rise, pollution and overconsumption are all taking their toll, putting access to relatively inexpensive water in jeopardy. This, in turn, puts Florida's future — which is heavily reliant on growth — at risk.

One of the major threats to the underground water supply: Failing septic systems that could number in the hundreds of thousands, leaching pollutants like nitrogen into the water supply.

The effects can be seen in the water that bubbles in Central Florida's freshwater springs, but the cost there could run into the hundreds of millions.

The other big challenge: Sea level rise. People can argue about the cause, but the impacts are already manifesting. South Florida is seeing significant flooding problems in areas that never flooded before, and Miami-Dade voters approved a $400 million tax increase last year to begin to deal with the impacts. Higher coastal areas like much of Bay County, have a little more time, but not much. A 2014 study estimates that the state might need more than $1 trillion in projects by 2100 to cope with rising seas.

It's a daunting prospect — especially when combined with other major challenges facing Florida, including education, health care and public safety. But Florida voters can't afford to let candidates dodge water issues with platitudes. They need to know what solutions the candidates support — and how they plan to pay for them. Examine candidates' records, and see if they are prepared to match their talk with action.

Trump confronts the enemy within

Stephen Chapman

Deep in the White House, someone is acting to subvert Donald Trump's policies, thwart his desires and generally sabotage his presidency. No, not the anonymous "senior official" who wrote an op-ed for The New York Times. The name of the person making a relentless effort to keep the president from achieving his goals is well-known: Donald Trump.

Other presidents have occasionally shot themselves in the foot. Trump's lower limbs are riddled with new bullet holes every day. He campaigned as though he didn't want to win, and he governs — "governs," rather — as though he doesn't want a second term, or maybe even a full first term.

It would be only a mild surprise to learn that he has been a Democratic mole, scheming incessantly to covertly discredit the Republican Party by making it complicit in his ineptitude and sleaze.

For Trump to be a successful president would not be hard at all. He inherited a growing economy that has kept steaming along since he took office. He has thrilled the GOP rank-and-file with Supreme Court nominees Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh.

He has been able to roll back a host of federal regulations, to the delight of many business people. He has gotten a big package of tax cuts. He has avoided entanglement in a major new war.

Under ordinary circumstances, a Republican president with this record could expect solid public support and a flower-strewn path to re-election. That Trump has had approval ratings near record lows for the first 20 months of his presidency and faces the prospect of huge House losses in November is a testament to his talent for self-immolation.

Bob Woodward's latest book, "Fear," amply confirms what was already known. Revelations that would be shocking in any other administration are tediously predictable in this one.

Woodward is a formidable reporter with a matchless talent for getting insiders to talk. No one can seriously doubt his account of what White House chief of staff John Kelly said of Trump: "He's an idiot. It's pointless to try to convince him of anything. He's gone off the rails. We're in crazytown."

Try to imagine senior members of the Obama White House talking about their boss this way.

The Times op-ed, by a "senior official in the Trump administration," was additional proof of the unprecedented dysfunction he has created. Trump's "leadership style ... is impetuous, adversarial, petty and ineffective."

Such scathing assessments might be expected from the opposition party. But these come from people who work for Trump.

Sen. Ben Sasse, R-Neb. — whose voting record is more conservative than that of Ted Cruz — said the information in the Times op-ed "is what you hear from two-thirds of the senior people there." Sen. Bob Corker, R-Tenn., agreed: "I am not a fan of anonymous op-eds, but I don't think those of us who have worked closely with people in the White House are surprised by the content."

They can only dream of how much Trump could achieve if he weren't always getting in his own way. Most of what is known about the president's malignant motives and brainless blundering comes not from anonymous sources but from Trump's public behavior and pronouncements. He's a self-sacking quarterback.

Trump has created a host of enemies, outside and inside his administration. But his worst one is the man he sees in the mirror.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Democrats seal fate with Gillum

The media has gone berserk once again! On the day after the primary elections, we are immediately bombarded with the accusations of racism. Let's take a look at what has actually happened.

In our primary races for governor, we saw a Democratic field full of fringe whack jobs, with the exception of Gwen Graham.

Gwen Graham was the only halfway rational contender in the whole field, and the only one in which the Democrats might have had a chance to win with in the general election. What did the Democrats do? They split their votes among all the fringe lunatics and gave Andrew Gillum the nomination with slightly more than 1/3 of the vote, hardly a ringing endorsement! So, I would like to thank the Democrats for once again shooting themselves in the foot.

On the the Republican side, we essentially had 2 conservatives running, with basically the same ideas and platform, with the consensus that either one of them could easily win the general election.

Let's look at the winning nominees on both sides. Gillum is a progressive Democrat, Democratic Socialist, or just plain Socialist, however you want to look at it. With an endorsement by the head lunatic Bernie Sanders, you have to wonder what in the world is perpetuating this idiocy! None of the so called Socialists have been remotely able to explain how they might pay for all these "free lunches." I would suggest that Gillum, Bernie, and the rest of their ideologues take a 6-month visit to Venezuela to see how well socialism works!

Venezuela not long ago was one of the wealthiest countries in the western hemisphere, and now it's populace is living with poverty, starvation, no medical care, and the worst inflation in history. In the 20th century, Argentina went the same route with the Perons, and they still haven't recovered. I won't try to get into all the evils of socialism, but just remember the quote from Maggie Thatcher.

"socialism works fine until you run out of other people's money."

Now, let's look at the racism issue. In the Aug. 20 News Herald, we have the headline on B4, "Racism issue in governor's race." In addition, on the day after the elections, we see the media frenzy accusing DeSantis of making a racist comment. This is another example of trying to distract the voters from Gillum having to explain how he could possibly fund his various schemes. Just pull out the race card whenever politically expedient, and brand your opponent as a racist!

Let's consider DeSantis' comment using the term "monkey around." The origin of this phrase or idiom is unclear, but dates back to at least the late 1800's. The general meaning is "to play, goof around, or tinker." The tinkering definition shows "someone trying to repair something without really knowing how to do it."

I can't conceive of a more appropriate definition for a Socialist!

I think that people in this country are sick of the politically correct attempts to control or suppress every word or thought that might be considered remotely offensive to any particular group. I believe that Florida voters will agree and the Democrats will go down in a crushing defeat, and still wonder what happened!

Attorneys to argue fate of evidence argue today against attorney Greg Wilson's claim of privacy violation when he was caught on video allegedly helping two Bay County Jail inmates pass contraband, according to court records.

Prosecutor Jack Campbell filed the response Tuesday to recent requests to exclude the video — the key piece of evidence — from trial because Wilson's defense team says it violated attorney-client privilege. Wilson, formerly the second-in-command at the State Attorney's Office, faces charges related to helping two Bay County Jail inmates pass "kites," folded pieces of paper, and then lying to investigators about it before he knew there was video captured of the exchange. His tentative trial date on a felony charge of contraband introduction and a misdemeanor of perjury is scheduled for Sept. 17, court records state.

In the meantime, Wilson's defense attorneys and Campbell are scheduled to make their arguments over several matters during a hearing today in Circuit Judge Michael Overstreet's court. A main point of contention will be whether video of Wilson and two inmates, sisters Clista Robbins and Christy White, ought to be admissible.

"The soundless video recording of the physical activity between (Wilson) and two inmates is not subject to Constitutional protection," Campbell wrote in his response to the defense's motion. "Their physical

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE — On Sept. 11, 2001, Don Arias had his last conversation with his younger brother Adam.

Adam Arias worked in New York in the financial industry and died in the terrorist attacks. Don Arias, who's also from New York and now works as a spokesman at Tyndall Air Force Base, called his brother on the phone when he heard about the attacks.

"He was a lighthearted, determined guy. He was smart and he was very talented," Arias said. "I remember that morning. On Sept. 11, the enemies of freedom attacked our country. I think back to that morning a lot, particularly on that anniversary. I think back to that morning when our lives were changed forever. ... I was here at Tyndall Air Force Base participating in a NORAD exercise."

Arias, a former New York firefighter, spoke about his memories and personal connection to Sept. 11 during a remembrance ceremony held Tuesday at Tyndall held for the 17th anniversary. While Arias wasn't able to personally find Adam when he went back home to search for his brother and cover the aftermath, Adam's remains were returned to his family 10 days later and put to rest.

University system looks for funding

By Lloyd Dunkelberger
News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Board of Governors is ready to consider a $5.2 billion budget request for the state university system for next year, representing a 3.6 percent increase in spending and including $75 million in additional state performance funding.

The proposal, which will be considered by the university-system board during a two-day meeting that begins Wednesday at New College of Florida, would increase state funding for the system by $183 million in the 2019-2020 budget year.

Overall, it would include $3.2 billion in state funding, along with $1.96 billion in tuition and fees, although there would not be a tuition increase.

The proposal would increase performance funding for the 12 universities to $655 million next budget year, up from $560 million this year. The overall $95 million increase would be a combination of money from the state and from the institutions.

The budget would include $327.3 million in state performance funds, including the $75 million increase, along with $327.3 million in performance funds from the institutions.

The funding is distributed to the universities each year based on 10 measurements of performance by each of the institutions, including graduation rates, salaries of recent graduates, retention of students and student costs.

New metrics include holding the 12 schools in the system to a four-year graduation rate and rewarding schools that serve large numbers of economically disadvantaged students, reflected by those receiving federal Pell grants.

Judge refuses to scuttle NRA lobbyist case

By Jim Saunders
News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — A federal judge has refused a request by a California man to dismiss part of a lawsuit in which the National Rifle Association's longtime Florida lobbyist alleges she received harassing and threatening emails in the aftermath of the February mass shooting at a Broward County high school.

Lobbyist Marion Hammer filed the lawsuit in July against California attorney Lawrence Sorensen and three other men because of emails they sent to her after the Feb. 14 shooting that killed 17 people at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School and amid the subsequent debate on gun-control issues. The lawsuit sought damages and an injunction against further emails.

Sorensen, who works as an arbitrator and mediator, argued in seeking dismissal that a federal court in Florida does not have "personal jurisdiction" over him. The argument was based on Sorensen saying he lacks any substantial connection to Florida and arguing that two emails he sent to Hammer in March do not provide such a connection.

"Mr. Sorensen simply sent two email in one half hour in March to an email address that was published to the world on the internet," the motion to dismiss said. "That email address, on its face, gave no indication that it was in Florida. Nothing in the text of the email mentioned or suggested a connection to Florida. In today's age, those two email could have been opened anywhere."

But U.S. District Judge Robert Hinkle on Friday rejected dismissing the case against Sorensen.

"To be sure, Mr. Sorensen says he did not know his email would be routed to Florida," Hinkle wrote. "But this record shows that Mr. Sorensen could easily have learned — had he cared where he was sending his email — that Ms. Hammer was a Florida resident. In short, Mr. Sorensen intentionally sent the email to Ms. Hammer, wherever she might be, and he should have known the likely destination was Florida."

In a document filed last month, Hammer's attorneys wrote that the emails caused harm to Hammer, a former national president of the NRA, and argued that the case against Sorensen should continue.

"This court has specific personal jurisdiction over Mr. Sorensen because he made a conscious decision to seek out Ms. Hammer, a well-known Florida resident and lobbyist, and sent her two emails containing graphic images of gunshot victims, including a photo of President John F. Kennedy's exposed cranial cavity and photographs of gaping wounds to an unidentified man's leg," Hammer's attorneys wrote. "Without doubt, Mr. Sorensen selected and sent these particular images to Ms. Hammer because of their gruesome nature and immediate shock value."

Hammer filed the lawsuit against Sorensen, Connecticut resident Christopher Risica and two men, Howard Weiss and Patrick Sullivan, whose places of residence were unknown. The lawsuit alleged that the men sent harassing and threatening emails, with at least some of the emails using vile language.

Hinkle's ruling last week also found that Risica was in default for failing to respond to the lawsuit and approved a request by Hammer's attorneys to conduct investigative "discovery" to determine the identity and residence of Weiss. Hinkle, however, denied such as discovery request related to Sullivan.

"His (Sullivan's) email was profane and disgusting, but he threatened only to scream in Ms. Hammer's face if ever he encountered her," Hinkle wrote. "This is unlikely to be actionable and is not enough to warrant disclosure of Mr. Sullivan's true identity."

Autism foundation receives $25,000 check

News Herald Staff Report

PANAMA CITY — A $25,000 donation from one local charity to another will help Bay County children with autism develop life skills. On Monday, the St. Joe Community Foundation handed over a large check to the George Butchikas Autism Foundation at Angelo's Steak Pit. "The George Butchikas Autism Foundation applied for a grant from The St. Joe Community Foundation a couple months ago," said April Wilkes, the executive director of the St. Joe Community Foundation. "The $25,000 will be used to purchase a number of items to create a Life Skills Training Room at the Early Childhood Autistic Program located at FSU-PC." The Early Childhood Autistic Program (ECAP) at Florida State University provides Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) services to children diagnosed with autism and other related disorders in a quiet, controlled setting. ECAP is the only ABA program in the Panhandle to provide in-home and in-clinic services. The George Butchikas Autism Foundation has long been a partner with ECAP, with one room even named after Butchikas's daughter Camille. Butchikas, who owns Angelo's Steak Pit, holds a fundraiser every October for the foundation.

ARGUE

interactions do not constitute communications protected under attorney-client privilege and such privilege is waived when it is done to facilitate a crime." Campbell goes on to argue that attorney-client privilege is not meant to protect attorneys, and also that Wilson did not have a reasonable expectation of privacy from observation in the interview room because of a "large window" that allows an officer stationed outside to observe attorney-client interactions. The response stems from a filing by Wilson's defense attorney, Lisa Anderson, to suppress the video on grounds that not only was it a violation of attorney-client privilege but also that investigators had not properly established cause to monitor Wilson and his client. The Bay County Sheriff's Office investigation began in August 2017 after a deputy working another investigation heard a recorded jailhouse call between Robbins and Wilson, in which she told him in vague terms that she wanted to quit everything and instructed him to "get rid of it."

Robbins faced a narcotic possession charge, and authorities suspected drugs might be the topic of discussion, officials reported, as there were references to her car outside. BCSO monitored several jail calls afterward, which eventually led authorities to expand their investigation and, after consulting with the State Attorney's Office, install video cameras — without audio capability — shooting into an attorney interview room where it could video Wilson and his clients. Anderson provided several reasons — including BCSO's inmate visitation policy that states attorney-client communications will not be monitored — in an effort to make the case Wilson had a reasonable expectation of privacy and authorities illegally obtained the video. "In effect, the observing officers were not in a place where they had any right to be since their covert presence and observation served as an impermissible intrusion into an attorney-client consultation," Anderson wrote. "Thus, Mr. Wilson's expectation of privacy was objectively reasonable, and (BCSO) intrusion via visual observation was a violation of his Fourth Amendment rights."

Anderson had also initiated a motion to dismiss the perjury charge. However, the motion was withdrawn after Campbell cautioned her that the decision would result in subpoenas for Wilson's former legal counsel, Jim White, and a prominent businessman, Derwin White, who backed Wilson's campaign for the State Attorney's Office and who is the father of the two women Wilson was representing. Those subpoenas do not appear to have been renewed, according to court records. Despite conceding that the defense raised valid concerns about attorney-client privilege, Campbell responded they were not applicable to Wilson's case. "The State does not disagree with much of the law cited and the underlying importance that a person be safe to frankly and fully disclose their legal issues with counsel," Campbell wrote. "That is not the issue at bar. A client has a right to counsel and to privileged communications with his attorney. An attorney has no right to a client." Campbell has also asked the court to bar Wilson's defense from raising any defense impertinent to the underlying criminal charges, such as selective prosecution or that Wilson was targeted.

TOURISM

One of the strategic initiatives included operating the TDC and CVB "as a trusted, innovative, industry-leading destination marketing organization that reflects the dynamic character of Panama City Beach." By 2020, officials hope to increase partner participation in TDC and CVB programs, increase year-round visitor demand and tourist development tax collections and more through that initiative. The plan also calls for enhancing and creating public venues to generate additional visitor demand, and in 2020 officials hope to have an outdoor concert facility for family-friendly events and new and improved attractions that make the beach a family-friendly destination. The $37 million sports park — set to open next year — was also included in the plan to enhance and develop public venues under a 2020 goal for outdoor sports fields. The implementation of an outdoor sport field for tournaments and events was highlighted as "accomplished" under the 2020 goals. "The Program of Work serves as a staple for the CVB, each time we make a decision about a marketing campaign or an event, we see how that ties back to the strategic plan and if we are on point with the organization's message," Feeney said. Other initiatives included beach preservation and enhancement, visitor enhancement and the development and marketing of Panama City Beach as a year-round destination. In addition to approving the 2020 strategic plan, officials also approved an extension of the Gulf Coast Jam sponsorship agreement for $375,000 a year through 2021. Promoters saw a record

73,000 people attend the three-day festival on Aug. 31-Sept. 2. Even though it rained during some of the festival days, fans remained loyal and stuck around for more, said Rendy Lovelady, executive producer. "We had a good year," Lovelady said. "[It] was the best year yet. Our partnership with CMT has paid off."

Adam "told me the terrible sights he saw from his window, of men and women jumping to their deaths, of your fellow Americans making that terrible decision of whether they're going to jump or burn," Arias said. "A tragic human drama unfolded in front of my brother's eyes. Over the phone I could hear the commotion of people in the background lined up on windows and all too human responses of, 'Oh my God.' His last words to me were, 'I got to go.' I heard the urgency in my brother's voice." In addition to Arias' remarks, there was also a ceremonial bell ringing, bagpipe performance and table displaying first responder equipment. 325th Fighter Wing Cmdr. Brian Laidlaw said Sept. 11 was a tragic day, though it also brought out the best in Americans. "It was our police officers and firefighters who showed us what it really means to be American and help out when others need you," Laidlaw said. "It's important we do remember this. Our country changed a lot on Sept. 11, 2001. I hope we remember it as a time when we came together as Americans." Arias said some people entering the Air Force now may have been kids when the attacks occurred. America should have a strong national defense and not let down its guard in a post-9/11 world, Arias said. "The unthinkable can certainly happen if brave men and women don't defend us," Arias said. "This was our generation's Pearl Harbor. The days after 9/11 this country pulled together. There were American flags everywhere. People were volunteering to join the service. It was a wave of patriotism and unity of purpose in the country."

PANAMA CITY
High speed chase
ends in crash

A high-speed pursuit ended Tuesday morning with a roll-over crash and a Lynn Haven man suffering serious injuries, according to Florida Highway Patrol reports.

It happened about 11:40 a.m. at the intersection of State 390 and U.S. 231. Chau Nguyen, 32, was taken to the hospital for treatment to his injuries afterward.

Troopers had spotted a driver slumped over behind the wheel in a 2003 GMC Denali moments earlier in Lynn Haven. Once they turned on their emergency lights to conduct a traffic stop, the driver fled. At one point, troopers conducted an intervention maneuver, which spun the SUV through a grassy median, FHP reported.

The Denali overturned and “partially ejected” the driver, FHP reported. He was extracted and then taken to the hospital with serious injuries.

The driver was later identified as Nguyen. Charges are pending further investigation.

Bonifay man charged with 288 counts
of child porn

The arrest of a Bonifay man on 288 charges of possession and distribution of child pornography has led to the shuttering of one of the largest online distribution hubs of child pornography in the area, according to the Holmes County Sheriff’s Department.

Mark Jay Ashcroft, 55, of Bonifay, was arrested Monday after a search warrant was served on his Highway 79 address. He is currently being held in the Holmes County Jail on $2.8 million bond.

The arrest comes after a six-week operation involving HCSO, the Walton County Sheriff’s Office, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security and the North Florida Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force and began after investigators with WCSO discovered child pornography images and videos being downloaded and transmitted through a file-sharing network. Officials initially believed the network’s hub was in Walton County, but then narrowed the location down to Ashcroft’s address.

Upon executing the search warrant, law enforcement found a computer running the file-sharing program that was actively downloading and transferring numerous files. According to a news release, law enforcement were able to observe 288 explicit images and videos of children between the ages of 7 and 15. Other hard drives were also seized during the search and more charges are expected.

The Parker United Methodist Church on Tyndall Parkway will be registering children grades K-5 in their “SLIMED” program on Wednesday night.

“Each week we will use slime to teach kids about the life of Jacob,” a press release said. “Sometimes in life it feels like we’ve been slimed! Sometimes it’s because of decisions we make, sometimes it’s from decisions others make that hurt us. Through the life of Jacob, kids will learn that when we stick to God, He can make something beautiful out of any slimy situation.”

Doors open at 5:45 p.m. for sign-in and new registrations. The program is from 6 to 7:30 p.m. with a meal at 6 p.m. Youth and adult programs are also available at the same time and place.

A Florida mother faces up to 30 years in prison after pleading no contest to aggravated child abuse.

A judge revoked bail for 23-year-old Sheretta M. Harris on Monday and ordered her held in jail. A sentencing hearing hasn’t been set.

The Daytona Beach News-Journal reported Harris called 911 in April 2017, saying her 3-year-old son had been burned and skin was hanging off his feet. Dispatchers could hear the boy’s screams.

Harris told investigators she found the boy in the bathtub with the water running.

About a month later, her husband told investigators that Harris confided in him that she became angry with their son, filled the tub with scalding water and placed his feet in. When she was the seriousness of the injuries she called 911.

Dolphins face toughest test yet in Jaguars

By Dustin Kent

PANAMA CITY — Looking at Mosley's schedule, one could've predicted with a reasonable amount of certainty that the Dolphins would be heading into this week's District 1-5A opener against West Florida with a 3-0 record.

Where the Dolphins' season goes from here is harder to foresee and will be determined at least in part by what happens against the Jaguars Thursday night at Tommy Oliver Stadium. The district foes face off at 7 p.m. with Mosley looking for its first victory in the series since winning 31-24 in 2015, while West Florida (1-1) tries to take its first step toward a fifth consecutive league title.

While the stakes are higher and the competition stiffer than during the Dolphins' blowout wins over Walton, Gadsden County, and Rutherford, Mosley coach Jeremy Brown said the approach for his team remains the same.

"It's kind of the same mentality that we've had, which is we're just trying to win every game on the schedule," he said. "The more games you win the better chance you've got to get in the playoffs. Obviously if you win the district you won't have to worry about seeding and the points and all that, but for us it's just the next game on the schedule, so let's try to win it."

Mosley has faced very little pressure through its first three outings, winning by a combined score of 118-14 and getting a running clock in two of the games. The Dolphins' offense has found success through the air and on the ground, with senior quarterback Michael Maddox passing for 356 yards and five touchdowns without an interception, while running backs Don McKay and Jacarri Greene have combined for 306 yards and five touchdowns, with both averaging over 7 yards per carry.

Senior receiver Daveno Ellington has been a dynamic deep threat on the outside, with half of his eight receptions going for touchdowns from 59, 49, 31, and 29 yards out. It has been a collective effort defensively, with seven different Mosley players tallying seven or more tackles. James Padot and Kendall Moore have two sacks each.

West Florida has played just two games but has been impressive in each, losing 23-20 on a fourth quarter field goal to undefeated 6A Escambia and doubling up Tate 40-20. Senior quarterback Trevor Jordan also has five touchdowns without an interception for the Jaguars, while sophomore running back Jaheim Simmons leads in rushing with 219 yards and two touchdowns. Senior receivers Amir McDaniel and Keion Burrell are explosive playmakers with two receiving touchdowns each.

Florida Atlantic commit Antarius Moultrie, who Brown called, "as good of a high school linebacker as we'll see all year," leads the defense with 18 tackles, two tackles for loss, and two sacks. The Jaguars also have a high-major prospect in 6-foot-4, 285-pound left tackle Darius Washington, who is committed to Mississippi State.

SERENA SHOWING EMOTION

Some black women say Serena Williams' experience at the U.S. Open final resonates with them. They say they are often forced to watch their tone and words in the workplace in ways that men and other women are not.

Seminoles see areas for improvement

By Bob Ferrante

The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Willie Taggart's dream was to be the coach at Florida State. His first games have been a nightmare.

Taggart's mistake-prone Seminoles (1-1, 0-1 Atlantic Coast Conference) look to clean up nearly every area after they were overwhelmed in the opener by Virginia Tech and then needed a rally in the fourth quarter to take the lead and hold off Samford.

Next up is a road game at Syracuse (2-0) on Saturday.

"We've got to play cleaner, we've got to play smarter, if we're going to be a championship football team like we aspire to be," Taggart said.

The sample size is small, but Florida State is far from a championship-caliber team. There are concerns on offense, defense and special teams. Florida State has struggled to establish a ground game behind an injury-depleted offensive line, seen its pass defense thrashed in the first half and watched its kicker miss 3 of 4 field-goal attempts.

Florida State was expected to have some growing pains with a new coaching staff but the aches have been more than anticipated. The Seminoles must prepare for Syracuse, which has scored 117 points in wins over Western Michigan and Wagner.

While the Seminoles are 10-1 all-time against Syracuse, including eight wins by double figures, it shapes up to be a pivotal division matchup.

"At the start of the season people circled (the game) as probably we don't have a very good chance of being successful," Syracuse coach Dino Babers said. "It's going to be a tough task, but we welcome the opportunity to see how we can do."

The Seminoles are averaging 390 yards of total offense, which is tied for 87th nationally, and the Seminoles' 3.62 yards per rush ranks them 101st in the FBS.

Injuries have made the Seminoles' growth difficult. Coaches frequently have been forced to move players from guard to

Gators are getting defensive

By Robbie Andreu

Staff writer

Defensive coordinator Todd Grantham has a simple and succinct explanation for why the Florida defense got gutted for 303 yards rushing in the loss to Kentucky on Saturday night.

"No. 1, we got our tails kicked, OK?" he said. "You can't hide that."

No you can't. It was out there, live and on national television, for all to see — Kentucky's offensive linemen manhandling Florida's defensive front all night long.

Along with being in a physical mismatch, there was other bad stuff also going on for the Gators that contributed: players losing discipline and getting out of their gaps; linemen, linebackers and defensive backs all missing tackles; the defensive ends and outside linebackers giving up the edge and letting UK quarterback Terry Wilson scramble for big plays.

The result was 175 yards rushing on 27 carries for Benny Snell Jr., 105 on 20 carries for Wilson and 23 on four carries for Asim Rose.

It all adds up to 303 yards rushing and 7.4 yards a carry.

By UF's high defensive standards, giving up 100 yards rushing is poor, 200 is unacceptable and 303, well, that is a downright disaster.

"We always talk about playing to a standard and playing to an identity. We didn't do that," Grantham said. "We always talk about stopping the run and affecting the quarterback. We didn't do either one and didn't give ourselves a chance to win because of that."

"The biggest thing is just looking for solutions, and the thing with that is there's a certain physicality you've got to play with up front. You've got to be able to set the edge. You've got to be able to strike blockers."

GATORS

When the Gators weren't getting physically overpowered by a stronger UK front, mental errors were taking them out of position to make plays.

Linemen got out of their gaps, allowing Snell to cut back and find openings. And the edge players failed to contain Wilson in the pocket when he started to scramble around, letting him break outside to an open field.

"You've got to trust that, 'I'm going to stay in my gap and the other guy's going to be in his gap,'" Grantham said. "When you start freelancing, you create seams. That's something we've got to work on as we move forward."

"It really gets down to securing your gap and doing what you're supposed to do and making sure that you're where you need to be. That's the biggest thing."

"Hey, look, if somebody hits a play, they hit a play. But the key thing is to play in a consistent basis. You've got to play consistently four quarters. You've got to play with effort and energy, but you've also got to be able to do things on a consistent basis."

In the 27-16 loss, the UF defensive front wasn't tough enough or strong enough to hang with the Wildcats. That's a troubling sign, as the Gators prepare to enter the heart of their SEC schedule, where they will be facing some offensive fronts that are more physical than Kentucky's.

It's an issue the Gators have started addressing on the practice field this week.

UF coach Dan Mullen has said the Gators need to be tougher and more physical in practice, and that's been the approach.

"You practice," Grantham said. "You get better during practice. You've got to continue to develop yourself and play with the effort and energy that we talk about."

Then you'll get better. It's really about finishing the play. Finish the play. Tackling, finish your job.

"I like our guys' approach. We just have to keep working. There's a fine line between being really good and not being where you want to be. We've just got to continue to work to do the things that you have to do to be a good defense."

The Gators certainly will be working on their tackling this week. They missed 20 tackles against Kentucky that led to 168 yards in UK gains.

It's an issue that junior defensive back Chauncey Gardner-Johnson addressed with his teammates during Saturday's game.

"I spoke to the defense at halftime and at the end of the game," he said. "They came in here and slapped us in the mouth. We've got to respond."

"As leaders of this team, we've got to go in and we've got to dial in and practice and do what we need to do because we can't change the outcome. You've got to go in and get ready for this week."

week as he deals with a high ankle sprain, with his replacement Jay Moody also out after rolling an ankle in last week's game. Senior tight end Matt Stephenson, who started every game at guard as a sophomore, will step into the starting center role Thursday.

It's tough to go into a big game without one of your best players and key offensive leaders, but Brown said everything he has seen from his players thus far gives him reason to believe they'll be ready to handle whatever obstacle they face Thursday night.

"I think we'll go out and play with confidence," he said. "The biggest area I see that in is how in each week we've kind of known going into the first three games that we were better, but the kids didn't practice that way. They practiced with intensity and effort and focus and I hope that's what we see show up (Thursday) when some adversity shows up, which is inevitable when you're facing a really good team. With the way the kids have practiced and prepared, I believe they'll be able to battle and overcome that."

Palm Beach sprinters renew rivalry

The News Herald

EBRO — Ultra Emily and Be Par Salem renew their rivalry this afternoon during the greyhound simulcast program at Ebro Greyhound Park.

The rivals are matched in what should be a highly competitive 301-yard sprint in the matinee fourth race at Palm Beach. Be Par Salem has won two of three recent duels between the standouts and has made nine quinielas in 10 starts. Seven of them are victories.

Ultra Emily has made nine quinielas in 11 starts with six of them wins. In addition, she posted her fastest sprint time of the meet while beating Be Par Salem by 3 lengths on Wednesday.

Also in the field is Atas-cocita Laura, who has won three of her last five, Pat C Wild Wings, who has won two of her last three and JSK Brenham, who has won two of his last four.

In addition, Atas-cocita Malou and Don't Tell On Me each are rising into Grade A off wins in their last start.

The matinee 15th could be contended on the outside as 6 dog K's Margaret has won two of three and 7 dog Rail Defender has won three of six.

At Orange Park, Arkansas Converse streaks into the evening 15th with four wins in his last six starts. Amanda Polk should challenge in the race over the longer 660-yard course.

The matinee 11th includes Pat C Todd with four wins in his last six. The 78-pounder won't turn 2 years old until mid-November. CBJ Remington and LK's Berry Frost are worthy rivals, each with three triumphs since Aug. 19.

The matinee seventh has Craigie Legacy looking for his fourth win in his last five with a start from the 1 box. Workin-the-corner has made five quinielas in her last six starts.

At Derby Lane, SNL Elevator Luv has won two straight. She faces Flying Amity who is looking to add to 15 trifectas in his last 16 starts.

SEMINOLES

Cam Akers had an 85-yard run against the Hokies but just 73 yards on his 27 other carries over two games.

"We've got a lot of guys going in and out and it's hard to get a rhythm," Taggart said.

So is not converting on third down situations.

Florida State is converting just 9 of 30 third-down conversions, ranking 111st out of 128 FBS programs. Many of the problems stem from not getting in good position on first or second down. Florida State faced third-and-6 or longer on 19 situations in two games.

Taggart hasn't been able to get his up-tempo offense rolling simply because they can't consistently move the chains.

"We all can see offensively we're not where we need it to be," Taggart said. "A lot of it is gaining yardage on certain downs. When you get it you can continue to go fast."

While the offense has struggled, the defense hasn't exactly been stellar.

Florida State allowed Samford's Devlin Hodges to throw for 475 yards on Saturday, which was the most against the Seminoles since Arizona State had 532 passing yards in 1984.

"I knew early on we was playing too soft, some guys, and we weren't getting to the quarterback," Taggart said. "(Hodges) did a good job getting it out of his hands and got us beat a couple times with the deep ball."

There has been one silver lining on defense. The Seminoles have adjusted well after halftime, allowing just a touchdown and a field goal on 14 combined second-half drives.

Special teams have also not consistently played well either.

The most noticeable special teams mistake was a Virginia Tech blocked punt that was returned three yards for a touchdown. But Ricky Aguayo, who made 18 of 21 field-goal attempts in 2017, has already missed three in two games (32, 40 and 42 yards).

DOLPHINS

"There's no question that they're the best team we've played so far and maybe the best team we'll play all year," Brown said. "We've got to go out and execute and play good football. We'll definitely have a better idea about where we're at and what we need to do moving forward after Thursday."

Mosley will be without senior starting center Castor Gay for the second straight

Florence forces 3 games with ranked teams off weekend slate

By Aaron Beard
The Associated Press

Hurricane Florence has forced the cancellation of several Top 25 games this weekend, including No. 13 Virginia Tech's home game against East Carolina, No. 14 West Virginia's trip to North Carolina State and No. 18 UCF's game at North Carolina.

director Whit Babcock said in a Tuesday statement. "We certainly understand the need for safety, of course, we just felt that tomorrow, making the decision then, would've been more responsible and accurate. We informed ECU of this multiple times."

In North Carolina, the Tar Heels were set to play their first home game in Chapel Hill after two road losses. But the schools announced the change around midday while saying they could continue discussions on whether to play the game later this season.

"Hosting a major college football game is a massive undertaking that on a good day involves fans and thousands of state, local and campus personnel, including public safety officials, traveling from all over the area," UNC athletic director Bubba Cunningham said in a statement. "The current forecast for both the impact and aftermath of the hurricane would require those officials to divert critical resources from what we can't know for certain the amount of damage called off the rest of the week's classes — cited "significant imminent safety concerns" that included "the high probability of a catastrophic impact on the region and perilous travel conditions before, during and after the storm."

Several of the schools appeared to be publicly in agreement on the need for schedule changes due to Florence, though East Carolina's decision not to travel to Blacksburg was called off the rest of the week's classes — cited "significant imminent safety concerns" that included "the high probability of a catastrophic impact on the region and perilous travel conditions before, during and after the storm."

East Carolina's announcement also noted the Greenville campus' history with serious flooding issues from Hurricane Floyd in 1999 and Hurricane Matthew in 2016. "It is ECU's hope the game can be rescheduled at a later date this season," the school said. In its own release, Virginia Tech officials had planned to wait until Wednesday to determine the status of the game based on updated storm projections. "We will do what's best for Virginia Tech moving forward as it relates to East Carolina and to the game," Virginia Tech athletic director Whit Babcock said in a Tuesday statement. "We certainly understand the need for safety, of course, we just felt that tomorrow, making the decision then, would've been more responsible and accurate. We informed ECU of this multiple times."

IN BRIEF

TAMPA BAY, FLA. Yzerman steps down as Lightning general manager

Steve Yzerman announced Tuesday that he is stepping down as general manager of the Tampa Bay Lightning after building them into a perennial contender, handing the reins to longtime assistant Julien BriseBois just two days before training camp.

Yzerman will move to a senior adviser role working under Brise-Bois and he said he was "100 percent committed" to the Lightning this season. Owner Jeff Vinik joined both men at a news conference in Tampa, Florida.

It was a surprising move for a powerhouse team in the league, one that reached the Eastern Conference final last season. Yzerman, 53, spent the past eight seasons as Tampa Bay's GM, a tenure that included five playoff appearances, three trips to the conference final and an appearance in the 2015 Stanley Cup Final.

BUFFALO, N.Y. Bettman: NHL in mediation on concussion lawsuit

NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman downplayed the significance of entering mediation with former players in a bid to settle a concussion lawsuit, saying Tuesday the league is simply following a judge's order.

"The judge asked us to go into mediation and so we're complying with the judge's request," Bettman told The Associated Press.

He said he had nothing to add when asked if there has been progress, and Bettman reiterated the NHL's position on the lawsuit hasn't changed, by saying: "We also think the lawsuit doesn't have merit."

MARANELLO, ITALY Former F1 champion Raikkonen leaving Ferrari

Kimi Raikkonen is leaving Ferrari for Sauber and will be replaced by rookie Charles Leclerc.

Raikkonen, who won the 2007 Formula One title with Ferrari, will be heading back to Sauber from next season while Leclerc will take his seat alongside Sebastian Vettel. The 20-year-old Leclerc is touted as one of the most talented young drivers in F1 and had been widely expected to move to Ferrari if Raikkonen left.

TORRELAVEGA, SPAIN Dennis wins Vuelta time trial, Yates overall leader

Rohan Dennis won his second time trial at the Spanish Vuelta on Tuesday, while Simon Yates added a few more seconds to his lead over Alejandro Valverde.

Dennis dominated the 19.8-mile stage with a time of 37 minutes, 57 seconds, nearly a minute faster than his closest competitors, Joseph Rosskopf and Jonathan Castroviejo.

Steven Kruijswijk was fourth-fastest and gained the most in the general classification by moving to third overall, 52 seconds behind Yates.

AP All-America Watch: Kansas' stopper; CU's breakout star WR

By Ralph D. Russo
The Associated Press

The Associated Press has been honoring college football's best with an All-America team since 1925. This season, the AP released a preseason All-America team and will put out a midseason team. The full three-team AP All-America selections will be unveiled in December. The first installment of the weekly All-America watch features Kansas' all-around linebacker, Colorado's breakout receiver and Alabama's other offensive tackle.

SPOTLIGHT

Joe Dineen, LB, Kansas

There might not be many opportunities to spotlight the Jayhawks this season, but Dineen is worthy of attention — especially after Kansas snapped a 46-game road losing streak last weekend. Dineen was one of the Big 12's best linebackers and most productive in the country last year, averaging 11.4 tackles per game with 93 solo stops. Through two games, the senior is averaging 15 tackles with 20 total solo stops. The Jayhawks held Central Michigan to 280 total yards on Saturday, including only 103 on the ground. Dineen was excellent in all phases, grabbing his first career interception.

What they are saying: "Seeing Joe get his first career interception, after all he's done here, that was actually pretty athletic looking. He's going to start telling me he's a real athlete. But he did a nice job adjusting on the ball." — Kansas coach David Beaty, joking about his thumping linebacker.

Outlook: Players on losing teams rarely gather much support for All-America, but maybe Kansas has turned a corner toward being respectable? Rutgers comes to Lawrence on Saturday and then Big 12 play starts. Expect Dineen to be excellent no matter how his team fares.

WHO'S HOT?

Laviska Shenault Jr., WR, Colorado

Shenault is a former three-star recruit from Texas who caught seven passes for 168 yards last season as a freshman. At 24 yards per catch, he showed big-play potential. Well, that potential is being realized now in a big way. Shenault has caught 21 passes for 388 yards to lead the nation in both categories. Against Nebraska last week, he caught the game-winning touchdown pass and ran for a score out of the wildcat.

At 6-foot-2, 220 pounds, the Buffaloes might have one of the best players in college football.

WHO'S NOT?

Khalil Tate, QB, Arizona

Tate was a revelation last season. He was a backup for weeks, and then became one of the best players in the country. He put up silly stats running the ball, averaging nine yards per carry. His passing was nothing special, but as a ball carrier in coach Rich Rodriguez's spread offense Tate was dynamic. Rodriguez was fired after the season and replaced by Kevin Sumlin. Through two games, Tate has been unrecognizable as a player. He has run 15 times for 22 yards and two touchdowns, while passing 79 times (completing 52 percent) for 538 with one touchdown pass and two interceptions. Arizona is 0-2.

ON THE LINE

(former Auburn offensive lineman and ESPN analyst Cole Cubelic identifies an o-lineman worth watching)

Jedrick Wills, Jr., OT, Alabama
The Crimson Tide's left tackle, Jonathan Williams, is a preseason All-American and potential top NFL draft pick. Wills is a sophomore manning the right side and more manning at a high level, too. "Wills has been dominant in the run game. Technique there is flawless," Cubelic said. "Very physical in pass protection. Has been a pleasant surprise in both games getting movement at the point of attack. Comes off with a flat back and hands inside. Fun to watch."

GROUP OF FIVE STAR

Sutton Smith, DE, Northern Illinois

The running back-turned-defensive end is at it again for the Huskies. Smith was a second-team All-American who led the nation in tackles for loss last season with 29.5. After two games against Iowa and Utah, Smith has 5½ TFLs, one off the national lead. At 6-foot-1 and 237 pounds, Smith's NFL potential is probably tied to a transition to linebacker, but he is a terror coming off the edge in the Mid-American Conference.

ALL-AMERICA MATCHUP

Diontae Johnson, WR, Toledo vs. Michael Jackson, CB, Miami
The 21st-ranked Hurricanes are at the Rockets, a potentially tricky road test for Miami. Toledo has three excellent receivers in Diontae Johnson, Jon'Vea Johnson and Cody Thompson to challenge Jackson, one of the best cover corners in the country. Johnson had 74 catches for 1,278 yards and 13 touchdowns last season.

Serena's treatment resonates among black women

By Deepti Hajela
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — When Serena Williams told the umpire at the U.S. Open final that he owed her an apology, that he had stolen something from her, and then she got penalized for her words, Breea Willingham could relate to her frustration and anger.

Willingham isn't a tennis star, but she is a black woman. She and others like her say Williams' experience resonates with them because they are often forced to watch their tone and words in the workplace in ways that men and other women are not.

And if they're not careful, they say, they risk being branded "Angry Black Woman."

"So much of what she experiences we experience in the workplace, too," said Willingham, a professor of criminal justice at the State University of New York at Plattsburgh. "As black women ... we're expected to stay in our lane, that lane that has been created for us. Any time we step out of that lane, then we become a problem."

The stereotype of the "Angry Black Woman" is alive and well, said Felicia Martin, 36, a federal employee who lives in Brooklyn. She recalls once seeing a white female co-worker cursing and throwing things and not facing repercussions, while she's been told to calm down for expressing her own upset in a normal tone of voice.

"If I'm upset about something, I should get to express that to you," Martin said.

During Saturday's championship loss to Naomi Osaka, Williams got a warning from the chair umpire for violating a rarely enforced rule against receiving coaching from the sidelines. An indignant Williams emphatically defended herself, denying she had cheated. A short time later, she smashed her racket in frustration and was docked a point. She protested that and demanded an apology from the umpire, who penalized her a game.

Many people, black women among them, echoed Williams' contention that she was punished while men on the tennis circuit have gotten away with even harsher language.

"A lot of things started going through my head in that particular situation. You know, first and foremost, what was going to be said about her the next day? The typical angry black woman, you know ... when she really was just standing up for herself and she was standing up for women's rights," said former tennis champion Zina Garrison, who is black. "A woman, period, is always, when we speak up for ourselves, then you have the situation where people are saying, you know, they're too outspoken. They're acting like a man, all of that. But then a black woman on top of that, the angry black woman, who does she think she is?"

ACES ON BRIDGE: BOBBY WOLFF

"What is merit? The opinion one man entertains of another."
— Lord Palmerston

The Yeh Bros tournament consists of generously sponsored teams and pairs events. There are consolation events in each category, and today's deal sees a coup by the two pairs who finished third in the main pairs, Fu Zhong and Ji Lie, and third in the consolation pairs, Paul Hackett and Tom Hanlon. Both Hanlon and Fu were faced with the same declarer play problem; see if you can match wits with them.

Declaring four spades as South, you receive a friendly heart lead (the two, suggesting three or five cards), which goes to the king and your ace. Can you see anything better than hoping either diamonds or trumps will behave?

Both declarers passed a club honor around to East, who won the queen and returned a heart. The declarers won and played the club jack, covered by West. They cashed two top trumps and found the bad news, then ruffed a club to hand, hoping to see the nine appear.

Finally, each took the heart ruff. When West produced the jack and East followed suit, it was crunch time. The opening leader appeared to have jack-third or jack-fifth of hearts and three spades, and three or four clubs, the nine not having appeared. Should you finesse diamonds, or is there anything better?

Both declarers backed their judgment by ruffing a club to hand as West followed with the nine, then exiting in trumps. When West won his queen and had nothing but diamonds left to lead, they were home, no matter who had the diamond ace.

ANSWER: Having found a heart fit, are you going to play in two hearts, drive to game or invite game? Of the three positions, the invitation seems like the middle-of-the-road action. It looks logical because one of your minor-suit queens will surely be wasted. Partner will be short in one suit or the other. Give me an ace in a minor instead of the queens, and I'd bid game.

Man's social anxieties prolong loneliness

Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: When I was a teenager, there were many times when I made things awkward. It continues today. I try to have normal conversations with people, but when I do, I have nothing to say. My mind goes blank, so I keep quiet and walk away. I feel like the odd person out each time and like I'm not good enough, and it really sucks.

The only time I'm successful socially with people is at work because I'm kind of forced to be. I really want to make friends and possibly get a girl in my life, but it's almost impossible to do with my social skills. This is so depressing and disappointing that I'm almost ready to quit trying. I need some tips and guidance. Do you have any? — FRUSTRATED GUY IN FAIRBANKS

DEAR FRUSTRATED GUY: I think so. If you think you are alone in having this problem, you are mistaken. The majority of people have the same insecurities you do. No one is born knowing how to be social. Social adeptness is a skill like any other. It can be learned and, with some practice and effort, polished until it becomes second nature.

You don't have to be handsome to be well-groomed. You don't have to be brilliant or witty, either. Part of being social is showing an interest in other people. Ask them about what they think and encourage them to share their interests and opinions. And when they tell you, be a good listener. Cultivate your own interests and you will have something to talk about with others.

My booklet "How to Be Popular" contains tips on how to approach others, and what to say and what not to say when trying to make conversation. It can be ordered by sending your name and address, plus check or money order for $7 (U.S. funds), to Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mt. Morris, IL 61054-0447. Shipping and handling are included in the price. When you receive it, don't read it just once. Keep it on hand for reference because it contains many helpful suggestions about how to be the kind of individual others find interesting and attractive. Be courteous and show kindness to others. If you do these things, you will find the results you're looking for.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

HOROSCOPES BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — It might be strange to think of competition as a social skill, but its purpose is key to our social structures. Today's competitive interaction will help you decide how best to spend your time and who best to spend it with.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Talk can be cheap and it can be expensive, too. The value depends on who's buying it and what they are willing to give for it. Mostly, you'll pay in attention, which you're likely to give to those who talk less, not more.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) — It's as if you're standing on the intersection of life pushing the "walk" button, unsure if it will actually have an influence on the traffic pattern. The jury's out on that one, but you're better off pressing than doing nothing.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) — If what the Dalai Lama said is true, and the aim of spiritual practice is to become a friend to all beings, then it makes no sense to spiritually evolve to dislike someone or a group, and there is no such thing as righteous hatred.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You may find that you keep asking the same question to which you already have the answer. That's because you don't like the answer. Either prove it wrong, or accept it so you can move on to better questions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You'll do the noble thing, which is to say you'll protect those who are vulnerable and help those who are difficult. Ignore negative attitudes and try to connect with the goodness in others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — You've just about forgotten that someone wronged you, probably because you've trained your focus on the many things they did right by you. This is how you'll continue to bring out the best in others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) — Even if it's not technically going so smoothly this morning, a simple nod to the universe will set your day off on the right note. Nothing fancy. "Thanks for everything" will do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — To some degree, moods are choices. They certainly don't feel like it. But there's something controllable in them if you're able to take a mental step back and witness your own emotional landscape.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Allow for mutuality. Don't let pride get in the way. If you give too much and don't let anyone give back, people will be robbed of the pleasure of completing the circle of reciprocity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — One way to clear your mind is to talk it out. But to whom should you talk? Everyone has a bias. Those who love you are the most biased. Perhaps a stranger or a professional will provide the best insight.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — As long as people can change, the world can change. Be the agitator. Someone has to. Without those irritating grains of sand, the world would be bereft of pearls.

SUSTAINABILITY

HOW TO PICK SUSHI

Do you love sushi but also love the ocean? Seafood Watch from the Monterey Bay Aquarium offers some tips for making your sushi dinner as sustainable as possible.

- Look for U.S.-sourced Alaskan King Crab over crab from Asia, Russia and Argentina.

- Search for pole-caught albacore from the U.S. or Canada as an alternative to bluefin tuna.

- Yellowtail is best when fished with hooks and lines, but avoid yellowtail farmed in Australia and Japan.

STRAWBERRIES

BENEFITS OF BERRIES

Check out these reasons why adding strawberries to your diet is worth it, according to California Strawberries.com:

- One serving of eight strawberries has only 50 calories and eight grams of sugar.

- A single serving has more vitamin C than an orange.

- According to a study in the Annals of Neurology, eating strawberries at least twice per week may delay cognitive aging by two and a half years.

Preserve jalapeños now for chipotles, sriracha and more heat all winter

By Ari LeVaux

More Content Now

If I were stranded on a desert island with one type of chile pepper, it would definitely be the jalapeño. No single pepper wears as many sombreros as the pride of Jalapa, Veracruz, Mexico.

The jalapeño shines in two distinct areas: cooked fresh and preserved. This time of year, when fresh, local jalapeños can affordably be acquired by the boxload, I focus on preservation — which is another way of saying “jalapeño condiment making.”

Sriracha sauce, for example, is made from red, ripe jalapeños. Mexican escabeche, meanwhile, is a style of pickles made with carrots, herbs and green jalapeños.

Green jalapeños can also be roasted like a New Mexico green chile, and with comparable flavor. I've enjoyed roasted jalapeños dressed in butter and Maggi (a type of Mexican soy sauce) alongside the escabeche at the salsa bars that grace Mexican restaurants.

Back in the day, farmers would pick enough green jalapeños to enjoy fresh and bring to market, and at the end of the season the chile plants would be full of unpicked red jalapeños.

Following an ancient practice, the farmers would leave these ripe peppers on the plant as long as possible, allowing them to shrivel and dehydrate, before smoking them to complete the dehydration process. These Aztec-style smoked red jalapeños are today known as chipotle peppers, and their sweet, smoky, earthy flavor is important in many dishes.

Meanwhile, jalapeños of both hues have taken off among Asian Americans. Sriracha sauce is as ubiquitous at American Vietnamese and Thai restaurants as ketchup is at a burger joint, and sliced green jalapeños garnish virtually every bowl of pho that is sold in America, while pickled jalapeños are a common fixture in American banh mi Vietnamese sandwiches.

In my general approach to dealing with the seasonal glut of my favorite pepper, I try to emulate the jalapeño farmers of Jalapa. When they are green, I enjoy the fresh jalapeños in my meals, and make pickles. When they turn red, I make chipotle.

My current preferred form of preserved green jalapeño is based on Vietnamese-style pickled jalapeño slices, a la banh mi. These pickled slices are an easy way to store jalapeños for later, and they are even easier to scoop onto everything, where they rightly belong.

Pickled Jalapeño Slices

- Jalapeños
- Vinegar (white or cider)
- Salt
- Sugar

(In order to properly trim the jalapeños, you must know how hot they are relative to your heat tolerance. If they're not too hot you can leave the seeds and inner membranes in place. I brought a load of jalapeños home from the farmers market recently, and they were so hot I had to clean them carefully, then wash my hands with equal dedication.)

Begin by slicing off the stem end of the jalapeño. If the peppers are too hot, use the tip of a narrow knife to carve out the seed-bearing membranes. Slice the peppers crosswise as thinly as possible, and pack them into a sterile jar.

When all of your peppers are packed, add vinegar to each jar until it's full, then pour the vinegar out of the jar(s) and into a sauce pan. Bring vinegar to a simmer on medium.

As it's heating, add two teaspoons sugar and a teaspoon of salt to each pint jar (adjusting sugar and salt quantities accordingly for larger or smaller jars). When the vinegar reaches a simmer, pour it into the jars and screw on clean lids and rings. Place jars in fridge, where they can last for longer than you can refrain from eating them.

If you're doing massive quantities and don't have space in the fridge, process the jars for 10 minutes in a boiling water bath, which will render them shelf-stable.

To use, simply scoop the pickled jalapeño slices from the jar and apply them to your food. You'll get the hang of it.

Smoking chipotles

When it's time to smoke red jalapeños into chipotles, my technique is less refined. I trim and clean the red jalapeños the same way as the greens, then roast them on the grill. When the skins have blistered, I move the peppers away from direct heat, add some wood chips to the grill and close the top so the peppers smoke, adjusting the airflow as necessary.

When the wood chips have all burnt off, I finish drying the jalapeños in the sun or a dehydrator. One could smoke them for days, Aztec-style, but a touch of smoke is fine with me. When crispy-dry, store them in airtight bags in the freezer.

Remember, this is a process that has been in use for thousands of years, and there are a lot of ways to smoke a red jalapeño.

As long as you don't touch your eyes before washing your hands, messing around with jalapeños is a tolerant process.

There's still time to enjoy healthy summer salads

Laura Tolbert

I'm a firm believer in the concept of “eating with the seasons.” Now is the ideal time to enjoy summer salads filled to the brim with healthy, fresh flavors and textures.

Tomato, Watermelon and Grilled Corn Salad

This salad would be a great alternative to your regular green salad for the next cookout or potluck. The next time you grill corn on the cob, prepare a few extra to use in this salad. The charred flavor adds a subtle smokiness.

- 2 cups diced Roma tomatoes
- 2 cups chopped watermelon, seeds removed
- 2 cups corn kernels cut from grilled corn on the cob
- ½ yellow onion, chopped
- 1 green bell pepper, chopped

For the vinaigrette:

- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon Caribbean Jerk Seasoning
- Few grinds of black pepper
- ½ teaspoon sea salt

Combine vegetables in a medium bowl. Whisk together vinaigrette ingredients and pour over vegetables. Gently stir to combine. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Garlicky Four Bean Salad

I found this recipe in Cuisine at Home magazine and made a few changes. Confession time: I had never eaten wax beans until this salad. I was pleasantly surprised.

You're never too old to try new foods! With no mayo added, this is a perfect salad for a picnic.

A garlicky vinaigrette is a great finishing touch.

- ¼ cup Garlic Olive Oil
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon minced garlic
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 12 oz. fresh green beans (cut into 2-inch pieces)
- 1 can chickpeas (16 oz.) rinsed and drained

- 1 can red kidney beans (16 oz.) rinsed and drained
- 1 can yellow wax beans (14.5 oz) rinsed and drained
- ½ cup finely chopped celery
- ½ cup finely chopped red onion
- ½ cup chopped parsley

Whisk together the oil, vinegar, sugar, garlic, salt and pepper.

I used a 12 oz. bag of ready to cook (steam) green beans, cut a slit in the bag, microwaved for the time instructed on the pack and THEN cut the green beans into 2-inch pieces.

Combine the cooked green beans, chickpeas, kidney beans, wax beans, celery, red onions and parsley in a bowl; toss with the vinaigrette. Cover and chill until ready to serve.

Watermelon and basil turn boring water into a party-worthy quencher

By Ellie Krieger
 Special To The Washington Post

When you want something more flavorful than water to quench your thirst, and you'd like to keep it healthful, on an ordinary day it does the trick to just pop a few sliced berries, citrus wedges or chunks of melon into your water bottle with a sprig of mint. But for occasions such as holiday weekend gatherings that call for something more elevated, this beautiful blush beverage is the answer. It takes a little more effort than a basic infused water, but the look and taste of it is well worth it. First you make a fresh herb tea by crushing and steeping basil

The drink is delicious just like that, but it is more of a punch that way (which, I suspect, would be darn good spiked with some gin). To make it a super-quenching, low-calorie flavored water, you dilute it further with more fresh water.

leaves in boiling water. Then you puree chunks of watermelon in a blender, and strain the puree to extract the vibrant pink juice. The watermelon liquid and the basil tea are then combined in a pitcher with a brightening touch of lime juice. The drink is delicious just like that, but it is more of a punch that way

(which, I suspect, would be darn good spiked with some gin). To make it a super-quenching, low-calorie flavored water, you dilute it further with more fresh water. I suggest adding two more cups of water and serving it over ice, but you can dilute it as much or as little as you like. Once you get the basic formula down, you can play with the fruit and herb combinations; berries, cherries or grapes along with sage, mint or rosemary all work well to make this fresh take on a refreshing drink.

Krieger is a registered dietitian, nutritionist and author who hosts public television's "Ellie's Real Good Food."

MAKE AHEAD: The mixture can be refrigerated up to 2 days in advance; re-stir before serving.
 From nutritionist and cookbook author Ellie Krieger.

Ingredients

- ½ cup packed fresh basil leaves, plus some small leaves, for garnish
- 1 cup boiling water
- 4 cups cubed, seeded or seedless watermelon (1

- 4 cups cold water
- 2 teaspoons fresh lime juice, plus thinly sliced wheels or half-moon slices of lime, for garnish

Steps

Place the ½ cup of basil leaves in a small pot or heat-proof mug and pour the cup of boiling water over them. Use a muddler or the handle of a wooden spoon to crush the basil leaves. Let steep and cool for 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine the watermelon and 2 cups of the cold water in a blender; puree until smooth. Strain through a fine-mesh strainer into a large pitcher, and discard the solids. Strain/discard the basil leaves from their water, then add that liquid to the pitcher, along with the remaining 2 cups of cold water and the lime juice, stirring to incorporate. Serve over ice, garnishing each portion with basil leaves and lime slices.

Giving your child a tasty school lunch without turning your routine upside down

By Angela Davis
 The Washington Post

How to send your child to school with a tasty lunch without turning your routine upside down. Food styling by Lisa Cherkasky for The Washington Post. (TOM MCCORKLE FOR THE WASHINGTON POST)

Do you hear that? It is the sound of parents everywhere collectively exhaling as kids return to school. My days working from home have become eerily quiet, and the pantry and fridge are finally safe from daily raids by a bored teenager and a toddler with an appetite rivaling "The Hungry Caterpillar." This brief celebratory moment is often followed by dread, once I realize it is time to figure out a game plan for school lunches. As a single mom to two children with busy schedules, I find a no-nonsense approach ends up working best. When I am grocery shopping, I look for lunch options that are affordable, reasonably nutritious and do not require a ton of prep. For kids who prefer to graze, lose the concept of a structured meal. My 4-year-old daughter is happy munching on an assortment of chopped grilled chicken or sliced salami, cheese cubes, raisins, apple slices and crackers. Compartmentalized plastic storage containers or Bento boxes are perfect for lunches like this. Older kids might appreciate extra protein in the form of protein bars, boiled eggs or hummus accompanied by something hearty to dip, such as pita chips and sliced veggie sticks. Last night's leftovers can find a second home in school lunches. I am often thinking about how I will repurpose a meal for lunch before I choose to cook it for dinner, and in many cases I will cook more of it for just that reason. Soups and stews can be reheated in the morning and poured into an insulated thermos to safely stay warm until lunch time. If you often have a smorgasbord of options in the fridge, consider grain or pasta bowls for your more adventurous child. Start by filling the base of a small food storage container with cooked rice, quinoa or other grains. Pile on some roasted veggies or raw salad ingredients. Add your protein and some sort of dressing will help tie everything together. If you have a favorite store-bought vinaigrette, use it! If not, it only takes a couple minutes to shake up your own vinaigrette in a Mason jar to use throughout the week. You can pack this dressing in a smaller container for your child to drizzle over the grain bowl when it is time to dig in. Sandwiches are traditional for good reason. There is no shame in packing a "regular" sandwich alongside chips, a piece of fresh fruit and a drink.

Tips for completing an employment application:

1. Be thorough – carefully read and answer all questions. If not applicable, mark n/a.
2. When an application asks for professional references, it means the employer wants contacts who can evaluate your work performance. Don't list your best friend, your father-in-law, etc., unless you have worked with them.
3. Explain any gaps in your employment, such as furthering your education, working from home, etc.
4. If you have little or no work history, don't hesitate to list volunteer positions you have held.
5. If applying for a management or supervisory job, it's a good idea to have a resume which will list past work history and skills required for such a position.
6. CHECK SPELLING. Even when applying for an entry-level job, spelling, grammar and correct word usage are steps in the right direction.

WELCOME TO THE COUNTS REAL ESTATE TEAM

How Long Have You Worked For Counts Real Estate Group, Inc?
I have worked for Counts a little over a month now and still loving it!

What Made You Decide to Choose Counts Real Estate Group, Inc and What Has Been Your Experience Thus Far?

I made the decision to move to Counts so that I could get superior mentoring and training and learn from the biggest local real estate company on the beach. My favorite thing about working for Counts is that my broker, Jason Smoker, guides me through question I bring to him and my fellow agents offer to help in any way. Jill Woody is a marketing wizard and has been extremely helpful in designing materials for my business. I really enjoy all the comradery within the Counts organization.
