Georgia company trying to help Bay residents find housing after Hurricane Michael

By Patrick McCreless pmccreless@pcnh.com @PNCHPatrickM

PANAMA CITY - Modular houses typically referred to as tiny homes could be a quick, relatively cheap living option for area residents recovering from Hurricane Michael.

Some area officials said, as long as it adheres to basic Florida building codes, a tiny home can be erected in the county in residential zones. Interest in the topic has ignited on local social media sites in recent weeks after at least one out-of-state tiny home manufacturer started advertising its product in the area to help address the housing shortage since the hurricane.

Ian Crelling, community development director for Bay County, said tiny homes are allowed in the unincorporated areas.

"They're allowed, they just need to meet Florida building codes on things like wind load designs, and meet certain requirements for foundations, room height, energy codes and, of course, flood zone requirements," Crelling said.

Crelling said that for instance, any home built in the county must have at least one 70 square-foot room. Also, ceilings must be at least 7 feet high.

According to current county records, there have been no permit requests for tiny homes since the Oct. 10 hurricane, which damaged or destroyed thousands of houses in the area.

Crelling said the only questions he really has gotten from residents on the issue are if they can buy storage units and convert them into tiny homes. Again, such a structure must meet all state codes and the building would need proper permitting, Crelling said.

Haney Cosmetology Program salon filling void after Hurricane Michael

By Genevieve Smith @PCNHGenevieve gsmith@pcnh.com

PANAMA CITY - Virginia York has been working in the cosmetology industry for more than 50 years - but if you ask her, she will insist that what she's doing isn't work at all. "I love my job and I always have," she said. "It's one of those jobs that doesn't feel like a job." York often is reminded of herself when she sees her new students filled with anticipation and excitement as they begin their careers in cosmetology. Immediately following graduation from Bay High School, York began her career behind the chair, and today is embarking on her 22nd year of instructing in the Cosmetology Program at Haney Technical Center. Haney's Cosmetology Program is a 40-week, 1,200hour program that offers three classes each year. Instate tuition for the program is $4,744, which includes tuition fees and books. Each day of instruction includes two hours of time in the classroom where students learn the science behind the application. In the lab, students practice their craft on mannequin heads, before moving on to practice on family and friends. Once the students are properly prepared, they begin practicing on paying customers in the lab's created salon, which has become a mutually beneficial service for the students and the community after the hurricane demolished many salon businesses around

"Our clients come because they see it's cheaper but we do the same job," said Julieth Montoya, who is finishing the program in just a few days. "And we need people to practice on."

Montoya said the program is particularly in need of men to practice on, as most of their customers are women.

The salon offers a variety of services - from haircuts and color, to facials and manicures, all under the guidance of York, a licensed cosmetologist, and at a price rate of half what you would pay at a regular salon.

"My passing rate is 98 percent," said York of the state exam, which students will take in Tallahassee following the program.

No wall money in Dems' first offer

By Andrew Taylor and Alan Fram The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Democrats in the House offered a border security plan on Wednesday that would not provide a penny for Donald Trump's border wall, ignoring - for now - an early-morning warning from the president that they'd be "wasting their time" if they don't come up with wall money.

The Democratic offer is just a starting point in House-Senate talks on border security funding that kicked off in a basement room in the Capitol. A top Democrat acknowledged that "everything is on the table,"

Peace with the Taliban?

Trump warned of risks of withdrawing too soon from Afghanistan

By Deb Riechmann The Associated Press

WASHINGTON – Trump administration claims of progress in talks with the Taliban have sparked fears even among the president's allies that his impatience with the war in Afghanistan will lead him to withdraw troops too soon, leaving the country at risk of returning to the same volatile condition that prompted the invasion in the first place.

Discussions between a U.S. envoy and the Taliban are advancing weeks after the administration said it wanted to begin drawing down troops in Afghanistan. That has prompted some critics to note that President Donald Trump is telegraphing a withdrawal – the same thing he accused President Barack Obama of doing by saying he wanted to end the American combat mission in 2014.

"It's an effort to put lipstick on what will be a U.S. withdrawal," said Ryan Crocker, a former U.S. ambassador to Kabul under Obama.

A negotiated settlement to America's longest war poses a dilemma for Trump. He has often declared he wants to end lengthy overseas military entanglements, something he made clear in December by declaring the Islamic State group defeated in Syria and announcing he was pulling 2,000 American troops from that country over the objections of his top foreign policy advisers.

The stakes are higher in Afghanistan, a conflict that has cost 2,400 American lives and hundreds of billions in taxpayer dollars. The U.S. invaded the country to oust the Taliban and al-Qaida in October 2001 in response to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, and the CIA director warned as recently as Tuesday that Afghanistan could once again become a terrorist haven.

But now even fellow Republicans worry that reports of progress will embolden Trump to withdraw troops from Afghanistan before the region is stable and will reintroduce the conditions that first ensnared America in the conflict. The Taliban now control nearly half the country and carry out near-daily attacks, and foreign-policy experts fear that any progress on protecting women and minorities in the country could be lost if the militant group is once again part of the government.

The top Republican in Congress, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, cautioned the president against a hasty exit from the war.

"While it is tempting to retreat to the comfort and security of our own shores, there is still a great deal of work to be done," McConnell said Tuesday. "And we know that left untended, these conflicts will reverberate in our own cities."

James Dobbins, special representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan during the Obama administration, said Trump "seems to have abandoned" the conditionsbased strategy he espoused in 2017. The future of troops in Afghanistan is anybody's guess, he said.

"I don't think anybody, including probably him, can predict his behavior," Dobbins said.

Polar blast envelopes Midwest

Infrastructure strained by some of the lowest temperatures in years

By Michael Tarm and Corey Williams The Associated Press

CHICAGO – A blast of polar air enveloped much of the Midwest on Wednesday, cracking train rails, breaking water pipes and straining electrical systems with some of the lowest temperatures in a generation.

The deep freeze closed schools and businesses and canceled flights in the nation's third-largest city, which was as cold as the Arctic. Heavily dressed repair crews hustled to keep utilities from failing.

Chicago dropped to a low of around minus 23, slightly above the city's lowest-ever reading of minus 27 from January 1985. Milwaukee had similar conditions. Minneapolis recorded minus 27. Sioux Falls, South Dakota, saw minus 25.

Wind chills reportedly made it feel like minus 50 or worse. Downtown Chicago streets were largely deserted after most offices told employees to stay home. Trains and buses operated with few passengers. The hardiest commuters ventured out only after covering nearly every square inch of flesh against the extreme chill, which froze ice crystals on eyelashes and eyebrows in minutes.

GAUTIER, MISS. Interstate standoff ends with machete-wielding trucker

A standoff between Mississippi authorities and a truck driver armed with a machete came to an end Wednesday afternoon.

News outlets report officers used tear gas to get the suspect out of the truck. Information has not been released on the charges he will face.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol says there were no injuries.

The situation began shortly after 9 a.m. Wednesday when authorities in Alabama pursued the 18-wheeler. That chase continued into Mississippi, coming to an end just east of the Gautier Vancleave Road exit.

Authorities have not said what sparked the initial pursuit.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN. Jones seeks venue change in Sandy Hook defamation cases

Lawyers for Infowars host Alex Jones have asked a Connecticut judge to move defamation cases against him to another part of the state as he defends discussions on his web show about the Sandy Hook Elementary School massacre being a hoax.

The requests filed Wednesday ask that the cases be moved to Windham County. Jones' lawyers say pretrial publicity has made it impossible to get a fair trial in Bridgeport, in the same county where 20 first-graders and six educators were killed in Newtown in 2012.

Lawsuits by families of eight victims and a first responder say they've been subjected to harassment and death threats from Jones' followers.

CHICAGO Police: No footage yet showing 'Empire' actor being attacked

Detectives have reviewed surveillance footage of "Empire" actor Jussie Smollett walking to his downtown Chicago apartment after an early morning visit to a Subway restaurant, but none of the video they've watched so far showed him being attacked, a police official said Wednesday.

Investigators "for the most part" can confirm the route Smollett took early Tuesday when he says he was attacked by two masked men along a street in the Streeterville neighborhood, police spokesman Anthony Guglielmi said. However, there are gaps and none of the footage police have reviewed shows an attack, he said, noting that the review is ongoing.

BUCHAREST, ROMANIA NATO chief urges Russia to comply with missile pact

NATO's secretary-general on Wednesday urged Russia to respect a Cold War-era missile treaty saying its missiles are nuclear capable and could reach European cities.

Jens Stoltenberg that Russia was violating the treaty and had "developed and deployed new intermediate range missiles," which were "hard to detect, mobile."

The 1987 Intermediaterange Nuclear Forces Treaty between the U.S. and the Soviet Union bans production, testing and deployment of land-based cruise and ballistic missiles with a range of 310-3,400 miles. The Pentagon has shared details with NATO allies asserting that Russia's new 9M729 missile system falls within the treaty.

Turkey: US Consulate translator convicted of terror charge

A Turkish citizen who worked as a translator for the U.S. Consulate in Adana was convicted on terror charges Wednesday but will be freed from prison, Turkey's official news agency reported.

A court convicted Hamza Ulucay of "knowingly and willingly aiding an armed terror organization" without membership in the group, Anadolu news agency said. Ulucay had denied the allegations and requested an acquittal while appearing in court through a video hookup.

The court sentenced Ulucay to 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ years in prison, but released him with credit for the nearly two years he spent in pre-trial detention.

Bo Creel, president of EPCI Code Administration Services, which provides building department services for Panama City, said that like the county, residents must meet standard state code requirements to build a tiny home in the city. "According to the code,

"According to the code, it's got to at least have a kitchen and the kitchen has to be a minimum of 150 square feet," Creel said.

Creel said he didn't think EPCI had issued any permits for tiny homes in the city since the hurricane.

"A lot of people have talked about them, but nobody has pulled the trigger," Creel said of tiny homes.

Allen Childs, owner of Tiny Houses of Georgia, hopes to end that hesitation.

Childs said he started advertising his company in the county a few weeks ago as an option for residents struggling to recover from the hurricane. Childs said he doesn't normally buy advertising in disaster areas. "It was just my idea to do it because a friend of mine drove through the area and saw all the devastation," Childs said. "I wanted to help get in affordable housing down there."

Childs said his homes, which are pre-made and then delivered, typically are 400 square feet and cost between $50,000 and $60,000.

"This is very affordable housing and doesn't look like a mobile home," Childs said. "If you ordered now, I could deliver it in a week and then we'd just need to hook up utilities ... and we work with people on money and financing."

The area's interest in Childs' tiny homes appears to be significant.

Childs said he received between 300 and 400 calls about his services within a week after advertising in the area.

"I heard such heartbreaking stories," Childs said. Childs said he installed bis first home in Pay County his first home in Bay County in Lynn Haven about 30 days ago.

"And I'm working on other orders," he said of the area. "I've got a guy wanting to buy five homes to rent out to low-income families."

including the border barriers demanded by Trump. Lawmakers on both sides flashed signs of flexibility, eager to demonstrate willingness to compromise in hopes of resolving the standoff with Trump that sparked the just-ended 35-day partial government shutdown.

The high-stakes talks are taking place against the backdrop of another possible shutdown in mid-February — an outcome Trump's GOP allies in the Senate are especially eager to avoid. negotiating the bill are well aware that he could move to quash an agreement at any time, plunging them back into crisis.

Still, Trump's request for $5.7 billion to build about 234 miles of barriers along the U.S. border with Mexico faces uphill odds. Even Trump's GOP allies acknowledge he may only get a fraction of it. The Democratic plan includes new money for customs agents, scanners, aircraft and boats to police the border, and to provide humanitarian assistance for migrants.

"Democrats are once again supporting strong border security as an essential component of homeland security. Border security, however, is more than physical barriers; and homeland security is more than border security," said Rep. Lucille Roybal-Allard, D-Calif.

Senators revisited a bipartisan $1.6 billion proposal for 65 miles of fencing in the Rio Grande Valley in Texas that passed a key committee last year. The panel of old-school lawmakers from the powerful appropriations committees has ample expertise on homeland security issues, as many of them helped finance fence built over the years that stretches across much of the 1,954-mile border.

Taliban talks better than an endless war fter 17 years and the deaths of more than 2,400 American troops, U.S. involvement in Afghanistan might finally be coming to a close – not with a decisive victory over the Taliban but with a negotiated settlement that could give the Islamist insurgents a role in governing the country again. Still, depending on the details, that could be preferable to continued, open-ended conflict with no guarantee of success.

Although nothing has been finally agreed, U.S. and Taliban representatives meeting in Qatar have discussed a "framework" in which U.S. troops in Afghanistan, now numbering about 14,000, would leave the country along with other foreign forces. In exchange, the Taliban would offer assurances that Afghanistan wouldn't be used as a launching ground for attacks against foreign countries. Those terms might be the beginning, not the end, of a settlement that also should include new political arrangements in Afghanistan.

It was the Taliban-controlled government's sheltering of Osama bin Laden and Al Qaeda that led President George W. Bush to order U.S. troops into Afghanistan following the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks after first giving the Taliban the opportunity to "deliver to United States authorities all the leaders of Al Qaeda who hide in your land." So there is a necessary symmetry to a demand by the U.S. that the Taliban agree not to harbor terrorists in the future as the price of its rehabilitation in a peace agreement.

But while the original rationale for the U.S. intervention in Afghanistan was to stop that country from serving as a staging ground for international terrorists, the toppling of the Taliban also led to the merciful end of a puritanical government that for five years had oppressed and marginalized women.

That is why it is important that the U.S., even as it negotiates directly with the Taliban, also press that group to deal with the Afghan government headed by President Ashraf Ghani, which the Taliban in the past has dismissed as an American puppet. To his credit, Zalmay Khalilzad, the Trump administration's chief negotiator, said any deal with the Taliban "must include an intra-Afghan dialogue" and a comprehensive cease-fire. Khalilzad needs to bargain hard to convince the Taliban that it must negotiate in good faith not only with the U.S., but also with its fellow Afghans.

The Taliban may have reasons of its own to do so. At

Shutdown hit a wall of truth evasion

Froma Harrop

N resident Trump's reason for the shutdown, a "crisis" at the border, was a lie. The real reason was Robert Mueller's tightening noose around his world and a desperate need for new drama to draw eyes elsewhere. When things go south, Trump sends attention in the same direction – to where the United States meets Mexico.

Trump couldn't get Congress to approve wall funding, even when Republicans ran the whole thing. When the new Democratic House leadership said "no of undocumented immigrants in this country has been declining, according to a new Pew Research Center study using government data.

Some defenders said that even if a wall stopped just a few, it would be worth it. But if they are that concerned, why don't they also call for vigorously punishing the employers who provide the jobs that draw the undocumented here? Note that hiring undocumented workers is illegal, as well. Trump knows that. (He employs them himself.) The game is to treat the workers as criminals but, if they get through, turn a blind eye to the companies that provide employment. Talk about amnesties.

The most cracked corner of this whole wall business is the question of who should pay for the wall. Let's assume for the sake of argument that it is needed. Trump made making Mexico pay for the wall a cornerstone of his campaign. OK. But if there's a threat to national security, why ask other countries to pay for our defense? Just do it. Of course, this was a thinly covered exercise in blaming foreigners for a perceived domestic problem.

his own stupid rhetoric. But saying this reinforces the belief in many minds that we need a wall and the problem is paying for it. It fuels an argument that should roll to a stop based on its faulty foundation.

For the record, we already have fencing and other barriers along parts of the border vulnerable to illegal entry. Tijuana has many miles of barrier extending along land and then well into the water.

I wish Nancy Pelosi wouldn't call the wall "immoral." The American people have a right to border security. Pelosi frequently asserts that everyone wants this but doesn't make clear enough that this sometimes means turning good people away. When Barack Obama ran a vigorous deportation program, he came under attack by various leftwingers and ethnic activleast some in its leadership may prefer peace and a role in a power-sharing arrangement over continued conflict and the presence of foreign troops. The U.S. could play a part by making clear that, while it is eager to withdraw its remaining military forces, it would be willing to provide economic assistance to Afghanistan in the event of a peace agreement.

Hopeful as the talks in Qatar may be, much remains to be done before diplomacy can be said to have triumphed. A successful agreement to end the fighting in Afghanistan will probably require the participation of Pakistan, which in the past has been criticized for sheltering Afghan militants but lately seems to be supportive of a peace process. President Trump may need to control his impatience for a deal and allow his negotiators more time to use the possibility of troop withdrawal as leverage in negotiations. The Afghan government needs to accept that sharing power with some elements of the Taliban is the price of peace, just as the Taliban may need to purge some of its extremist elements.

wall," Trump responded "then no government." While he rummaged for an out, some right-wing mercenaries said mean things about him on their tweet machines, and he collapsed. Nobody "forced" him. If a national emergency existed – he certainly convinced many Americans there was one –

Many Democrats retort, "You said Mexico would pay for the wall." This wrongly evades the nut of the question. It is, "Do we need a wall or not?" Of course, they are harassing Trump with ists. Pelosi did not do nearly enough to defend him.

Perhaps her use of "immoral" was a way of getting at the racism feeding so much of the wall demands. It's there, for sure. But it's unfair to so label everyone who sees this as a path toward an orderly immigration system. Many just haven't digested all the facts.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

'Trump Derangement Syndrome' and the media that supports it

Bernie Sanders reminds me of the old men on the Muppet TV show sitting in the "Balcony of Life" shaking his fist at any anything positive Trump happens to achieve. He has come flat out and told the press that our president is a racist. Let's see what he could base his theory on:

During the first two years of Trump's presidency he has taken a surprisingly tough line with Russia, he recognized Jerusalem as Israel's capital, withdrew from the loony Paris climate agreement, made NATO allies kick in $12 billion more toward our historic tax and regulatory reforms which has unleashed economic growth, and he is installing conservative judges who will preside for decades. He is a truly unique president in our American history. He's a kid from Queens who became an international business leader and made billions by getting things done where no one else could.

collective security, enacted

Washington Post columnist Marc Thiessen said, "Trump has proven to be successful at keeping his campaign promises." He continued, "The fact is, in his first two years, Trump has compiled a remarkable record of presidential promise-keeping." Unemployment rates have hit record levels: African-American at 5.9 percent, Hispanic at 4.5 percent, Asian-Americans at 2 percent, also women's unemployment at the lowest in 65 years. All setting new records and it keeps getting better day by day.

All of this is directly attributed to Trump's rapid mass deregulation actions. He has rolled back the Dodd-Frank provisions which give relief to credit unions, community and regional banks. Added to this is the over $5 trillion dollars in tax cuts where 60 percent of which will go directly to families. See any "racist" actions attached to any actions attached to any of this? Me neither.

The fact that unemployment numbers are at record lows for blacks and Latinos since the president took over seems to be of little consequence to Bernie or any of the other bomb-throwing liberals.

The Trump Derangement Syndrome" is running rampant through the Democratic Party and they were infected by the "fake" mainstream media. It seems as if the liberal talking heads get their "Daly Talking Points" from the Democratic Playbook and a "buzz word or phrase" is to be repeated over and over again all day by the talking heads hoping the voters believe them - the latest being: "There is no crisis at the Southern border." Even though time after time we see masses of illegals trying to breach the border daily. Group speak, innuendos, accusations and wishful thinking are all the liberals have to hang on to.

They remind me of Linus in the Peanuts comics waiting each year for the "Great Pumpkin" and missing out on all the treats. The Democrats keep hoping for something like the "Great Pumpkin" to drop out of the sky and change the election results, while all the others are out living their lives and taking advantage of the Trumps agendas. The Democrats would rather curse the darkness than turn on a light. William C. Meadows, Panama City

Fewer Americans signed contracts to buy homes in December with affordability pressures causing interest from would-be buyers to fall.

The National Association of Realtors said Wednesday that its pending home sales index fell 2.2 percent last month to 99, its lowest reading since April 2014. The index based on contract signings has plunged 9.8 percent over the past 12 months.

Home sales declined in 2018 as the combination of higher mortgage rates, relatively low inventories and price gains consistently outpaced wage growth.

PANAMA CITY – A multimillion dollar investment 13 years ago is paying big dividends for The News Herald and the community with the announcement that the Pensacola News Journal daily newspaper is now printing live nightly in Panama City – less than 4 months after the region was struck head-on by one of the worst hurricanes in the nation's history.

"In a time like this where every business and every job counts for our area, this is a game changer," said Tim Thompson, publisher of The News Herald and the Northwest Florida Daily News, as well as the eight regional weeklies surrounding them. "Not just for The News Herald and the company, but for the community. We're all looking for small signs that things are getting better and this is a big sign that one thing has." The news that the Gannettowned paper started printing Monday in Panama City means new jobs, an expansion of the press production facility at 501 W. 11th St., and is visual and tangible evidence that The News Herald, like other businesses that have said they intend to rebuild, actually mean it, said Thompson. His thoughts were echoed by Pat Dorsey, the company's regional vice president, who at one time worked for Gannett and has close ties to and friends in Panama City. "After all the Panama City area has been through and continues to endure as a result of Hurricane Michael, we are very happy to be able to earn this new printing business and bring additional jobs and capital investment to the community," Dorsey said. "Gannett has been a great partner and supported us in our time of need when our facilities were badly damaged and unable to print for over a week after Hurricane Michael. This additional work allows us to make further capital improvements and solidify our standing as a regional printer of choice, which will better support our operations and The News Herald and community for many years to come." The build-out in the production facility is the first of two construction phases for the building at 501 W. 11th St. While editorial, accounting and

Stocks jump after Fed preaches patience

By Damian J. Troise and Alex Veiga The Associated Press

Stocks finished sharply higher Wednesday after the Federal Reserve signaled it could hold off on interest rate increases in the coming months, citing muted inflation.

Technology companies powered the broad rally, which snapped the market's two-day losing streak. The benchmark S&P 500 index is now track to end January with its biggest monthly gain in more than three years, and the gains pushed the Dow Jones Industrial Average above 25,000 points for the first time since early December.

"The Fed gave the market everything it wanted in terms of a dovish message," said Willie Delwiche, investment strategist at Baird. "Now it's saying maybe there will be rate hikes, maybe there won't be."

The midafternoon Fed announcement added to early gains as traders welcomed positive results and outlooks from several big companies including Boeing.

The aerospace giant soared after blowing away analysts' forecasts for earnings and as its annual revenue topped $100 billion for the first time. The gain in Boeing's stock accounted for about a third of the 434-point gain in the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

The S&P 500 index rose 41.05 points, or 1.6

will be enough to revitalize buyer demand because of a decrease in the sales listings of homes that median-income families can afford.

WASHINGTON Survey: Businesses added 213,000 jobs in January

U.S. businesses added a solid 213,000 jobs in January, a private survey found, signaling that the partial government shutdown and trade war concerns that have roiled financial markets aren't discouraging companies from hiring more people.

Payroll processor ADP said Wednesday that January's job gains were lower than the 263,000 added in December, which was revised slightly lower.

ADP's report does not include government employees and therefore was not directly affected by the government shutdown. Still, the data suggests that the shutdown did not broadly discourage private companies from adding workers. The ADP report frequently diverges from the official figures.

The government will issue its official monthly jobs numbers Friday. Economists are forecasting a smaller gain of 164,000, though that is enough to lower the unemployment rate over time.

The front, facing 11th Street, where customers were used to visiting editorial staff, paying their bills, taking out ads or just dropping by, is scheduled to undergo demolition in March and be completely rebuilt in about a year. Plans are for a total rebuild, with offices for editorial, advertising, circulation and accounting. But there also are plans, given the downsizing in the industry that's taken place since the structure was originally built, for a 10,000-squarefoot office space that will be available for lease.

All of this is an astounding turn of events for those who rode out the storm inside The News Herald and the others who saw the damage to the entire building in the immediate aftermath.

"On Oct. 11, the day after the storm, with the front half of the building destroyed and the pressroom heavily damaged, we didn't know when our press would be operational or what kind of shape it would be in, but we knew we were committed to staying right here," Thompson said, noting that the paper's editorial and advertising staff quickly secured temporary office space downtown with the help of business owners who wanted the paper to stay in Panama City proper and the support of Panama City City Manager Mark McQueen, who wanted the same. "Now Into the early 2000s, The News Herald printed off a Goss Cosmo press that was installed in the early 1970s. In 2005, The News Herald ordered a multi-million dollar 28-unit single-wide press from Goss International Corp. It was so large that the size of The News Herald almost doubled as a structure was built onto the back of the existing building to house it. It is that structure which mostly survived the storm.

At the time the paper was looking to consolidate its regional printing operations but also saw the opportunity to print "outside" jobs, or products for others, off the versatile and modern press.

Once the press was up and running post-Hurricane Michael, according to Shane Spence, regional director of operations, confidence was high that in addition to the regular work his crew already was committed to, they were ready for more. The ability to increase staffing by 25 percent was good news as well.

"I was surprised at how quickly we were able to get back online and up to full capacity, but I'm not surprised at all at how quickly and professionally the staff handled both that and the new work," Spence said. "They were amazing, and they continue to be amazing. This is huge for everybody, not just our staff, but for the community." percent, to 2,681.05. The Dow gained 434.90 points, or 1.8 percent, to 25,014.86.

The Nasdaq composite climbed 154.79 points, or 2.2 percent, to 7,183.08. The Russell 2000 index of smaller companies picked up 15.49 points, or 1.1 percent, to 1,486.94. The Russell is up more than 10 percent this month.

Jitters over the ongoing U.S.-China trade conflict, uncertainty over the path of interest rates and signs of a weakening global economy helped knock the market into a steep slump in December that left the S&P 500 index 9.2 percent lower for the month. The market has since rebounded, with the index is now on track to end January with a 7 percent gain.

BCSO: Scams rampant after Michael

News Herald staff report

PANAMA CITY - The Bay County Sheriff's Office has seen a sharp increase in reported scams around Bay County, including a rental scam preying on those looking for housing after Hurricane Michael.

According to BCSO officials, their scam hotline has received 31 complaints in the past 10 days, primarily focused on three types of scams: rental scams, IRS scams and jury duty scams. Sheriff Tommy Ford said it's often difficult to trace and prosecute scammers because they usually are based in other countries.

"Educating the public is our best strategy to fight scammers," Ford said. "Using technology, scammers make it almost impossible to trace and identify them. When we are able to follow a trail, it often leads us overseas to countries where prosecution is almost impossible."

The sheriff's office has seen an uptick in rental scams, where homes are falsely advertised as being for rent on sites like Craigslist, leading to people paying money to secure a unit that is already occupied or never was for rent. According to a press release, the increase is connected to the large number of people looking for rentals in the area following Hurricane Michael and victims have lost thousands of dollars either through wiring money or sending checks.

"Please insist on visiting the house in person prior to sending money," the release reads. "The owner, or their representative, should meet you there with a key to let you inside, or use a reputable property management company to assist in renting a home."

As tax season rolls around, IRS scams also have increased, where a scammer calls the victim and accuses them of either failing to pay taxes or of owing the IRS money and threatening them with arrest. To avoid arrest, the victim is directed to purchase gift cards at a store and provide the caller with the code on the back of the card so they can redeem the card. A similar scam involving missed jury duty, and another involving a compromised Social Security number, also involve purchasing gift cards as payment.

Government organizations will not request gift cards as payment and law enforcement, nor the Social Security Administration or clerk of court will ever call to threaten arrest, according to the release.

If you want to report a scam attempt, call the Bay County Financial Crimes Hotline at 850-248-2328. If you have been victimized, call the Bay County Sheriff's Office Financial Crimes Unit at 747-4700.

BAY COUNTY - With all the hurricane damage, there's been a lot of talk about debris lately.

From when will it be picked up, to how will it be picked up, to how is it being paid for, it's become quite the conversation starter. One reader had a slightly different question. "Where's it going?" wondered Melissa Whitted as she watched the debris being picked up.

To find out, she wrote to The News Herald's Bay Asked, We Answered series, "What is the status of the incinerator? With all the debris from (Hurricane) Michael, if it is not operational, is the debris filling up our landfill?"

The hurricane temporarily knocked out the incinerator, but by Dec. 14

it was operational again, according to the county. The county authorized emergency repairs for the waste-to-energy facility. The incinerator burns trash to generate energy, and is considered to be a form of recycling. The incinerator is at capacity accepting household garbage and is not processing debris waste.

In 2017, the Legislature created a regulatory framework for the new industry, but banned the sale of leaf marijuana for medical treatment - a prohibition successfully challenged in court and which the state has appealed.

Superintendent Husfelt asks state for relief

By Genevieve Smith @PCNHGenevieve gsmith@pcnh.com

PANAMA CITY - On Tuesday, Bay County School Superintendent Bill Husfelt sent a letter to Florida's commissioner of education, Richard Corcoran, requesting assistance from the FLDOE as the district looks into long-term recovery plans from Hurricane Michael.

The district is requesting academic relief and mental health assistance from the state for its students, teachers and support staff.

The district has requested $2 million from the state to go toward mental health support in schools. Kara Mulkusky, directer of student services, said the money would go toward implementing services in schools to help continued success in the classroom such as adult mentoring, work with social skills, and giving students a therapeutic support outlet.

"We already know as a school district that trauma and toxic stress existed prestorm, but it's very much still existing and has even evolved post-Hurricane Michael," Mulkusky said. "The things that our students are experiencing, and our faculty, we really want to work to see the needs of our families."

The district has seen an uptick of discipline referrals from both students with previous behavioral records and students who are accumulating referrals for the first time.

Although the district has received financial assistance through Florida Senate Bill 7026, known as The Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act, Mulkusky said it's not enough.

The letter also has requested that Florida Standard Assessment testing, if required, be used for informational purposes only, and not when calculating school grades or for teacher evaluations.

"I am glad that the incinerator is working and reducing the amount of garbage going to the landfill," Whitted wrote in an email after learning the incinerator was back up. "There is no planning for what happened due to Michael and the amount of debris that was produced whether vegetative or other but in my opinion the less we put into the ground/landfill the better. We need to be good stewards of the land and plan for the future."

The district believes waiving the FSA scores for this year will alleviate a great amount of stress for adults in the classroom during an already very challenging year.

"Once you make that first D or an F, the clock starts ticking," Capes continued. "While I know DOE has said they will try to help us as much as they possibly can, it is in the law that there are certain things that must be done for accountability purposes."

Knowing students will be affected by the hurricane, if the district is able to avoid grades in the first place, the impact on student learning for three years.

"We all know that testing and academics is key to our students' progress and it's necessary, however we don't want to do anything that will add any undue stress to our students, or trouble down the road," Camilla Hudson, coordinator of assessment and accountability. "I'm very hopeful we'll be approved. I'm hoping that Tallahassee will pay attention to what we've been going through."

This year, growth for teacher evaluations are difficult to quantify as students have had gaps in instruction, traumatic events occurring, and many students have shifted schools or changed

As of now, testing will begin with writing in April, and reading, math and EOCs in May.

In addition to requesting immunity from negative testing results this year, the district has requested waiving required assessments for graduating seniors for the class of 2019, to assure students who are on track to graduate still will be able to graduate in the spring. The district also has requested third-grade promotion requirements from the state assessments be waived, and instead be based on the district's own assessment measures.

DeSantis earlier this month said he would no longer fight the court ruling – but gave the Legislature until March 15 to approve a new law that gives seriously ill Floridians access to smokable pot.

Recently sworn-in Agriculture Commissioner Nikki Fried, a Democrat, said her office is moving forward to install a new state cannabis director to serve as a point of contact for patients seeking help navigating Florida's medical marijuana law.

While Senate President Bill Galvano said Wednesday he expected the Legislature to approve a revamped law by DeSantis' deadline, Oliva stopped short of such assurance, adding that House members view the move as a step toward lifting all sanctions against marijuana use.

"The House's position has generally been ... recreational marijuana is not something anyone voted for," Oliva said.

He said any attempt at lifting the ban should include provisions that assure marijuana remains treated as medicine, that children don't have access to the product, and that recommended dosage amounts are defined.

"We would like to have something on the governor's desk," Oliva said of the March deadline - which would come just 10 days after the Legislature convenes.

"The devil in the details is always that there are two (legislative) chambers, and people have to come to an understanding of what the definition of what you're trying to accomplish really is," he added.

In other issues addressed Wednesday:

• Galvano said he wants to make a host of road projects a priority in the upcoming session, among them the extension of the Suncoast Parkway from Tampa Bay to the Georgia state line, an idea advanced after Hurricane Irma forced massive evacuations and traffic tieups in 2017. Former Gov. Rick Scott vetoed $1.5 million in funding last year to study the extension, but Galvano said such action is still needed. He also wants lawmakers to review extending Florida's Turnpike and creating a new parkway connecting Polk County to Collier County.

• DeSantis said he will join with other Republican leaders calling for revisiting legislation approved after last year's shootings at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School. A commission that spent months studying the tragedy is recommending allowing teachers to be trained and armed, along with increasing spending on mental health resources.

• With DeSantis expected to release his state budget recommendation to the Legislature on Friday,

Democratic Leader Kionne McGhee of Miami said Democrats plan to offer an alternative spending plan for the state in coming weeks that will include such proposals as a 13 percent pay increase for teachers, a tax refund aimed at lower-income Floridians, and other progressive approaches.

Democrats are vastly outnumbered in the House and Senate. But after Florida went through November elections decided only after an unprecedented three statewide recounts for U.S. Senate, governor and agriculture commissioner, Democrats appear intent on keeping policies in play.

"It's a new day in Florida politics for Democrats," McGhee said.

Lawmakers to review 'job growth' fund

By Jim Turner

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE – An economic-development fund created as a compromise after a battle between former Gov. Rick Scott and House leaders could be short-lived.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Rob Bradley, R-Fleming Island, said a close look is warranted at the $85-million-a-year Job Growth Grant Fund, which was passed by the Legislature in 2017.

"I've always had some concerns about the parameters of that money," Bradley told reporters last week. Bradley said his primary concern is that the "legislators are appropriators, not the executive." Under the program, Scott had wide discretion in how to use the money for regional projects.

"While we're interested in infrastructure, investing in infrastructure, we're going to take a close look at economic development initiatives," Bradley said.

House Appropriations Chairman Travis Cummings, R-Fleming Island, said the House also will look at the fund. However, he has not received direction from Speaker Jose Oliva, R-Miami Lakes, and the House is waiting to see Gov. Ron DeSantis' proposed budget and how the new governor views the fund.

"At this time, I think it's still early," Cummings said.

The Job Growth Grant Fund received $85 million from the Republicandominated Legislature in each of the past two sessions over the objections of some Democrats who called it a "slush fund" that lacked oversight.

Enterprise Florida and the state Department of Economic Opportunity are required to review proposals before awards are granted. The fund was created during a June 2017 special legislative session as a compromise between Scott and House leaders. The House had earlier sought to eliminate the business-recruitment agency Enterprise Florida and other economicdevelopment programs that awarded incentives to individual companies to relocate to Florida or to expand in the state.

Former House Speaker Richard Corcoran, a Land O' Lakes Republican who now is the state education commissioner, repeatedly called such incentives "corporate welfare." Oliva replaced Corcoran in November as speaker.

Scott drained the current fiscal year's allocation to the Job Growth Grant Fund by awarding $48 million to 15 government agencies and educational programs in his final three weeks in office.

More than 100 applications have been made to the fund in each of the two years, with 56 projects approved.

Among the recent awards were $357,328 to Gadsden Technical Institute to develop a diesel-system technician training program and $496,193 to the LaunchCode Foundation to provide coding and programming training at Brewster Technical College in Tampa. Other awards included $10 million to expand Pensacola International Airport, $10.2 million for construction of a wastewater treatment plant in Columbia County and $16 million to widen Kirkman Road to relieve congestion at the Orange County Convention Center and other major Central Florida destinations.

This year's requests sought more than $620 million in funding. Most offered local matches.

DeSantis seeks $625M for 'Glades, water efforts

By Jim Turner

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE -Water protection and restoration projects, including the fight against red tide and the continued cleanup of the Everglades, will account for $625 million of a proposed budget that Gov. Ron DeSantis said he will roll out Friday for state lawmakers to consider.

DeSantis on Tuesday outlined part of his environmental budget proposal during an appearance at Rookery Bay Environmental Learning Center in Naples. He also named Chauncey Goss and Ron Bergeron to the South Florida Water Management District Governing Board.

DeSantis earlier this month announced plans to pump $2.5 billion during the next four years into water-resource projects - a $1 billion increase from the past four years.

"I think it's something that Floridians from all walks of lives and political persuasions think needs to be done," DeSantis said.

The proposal introduced

Tuesday did not address the Florida Forever landpreservation program or coastal protections.

"There will more environmental budget items that we will roll out. This is just one piece of that," DeSantis said. "All in all, I think we're on the right track."

DeSantis' budget proposal will be a starting point for lawmakers, who will negotiate a 2019-2020 spending plan during the legislative session that starts March 5. The agreed-upon budget will take effect with the July 1 start of the fiscal year.

The governor, who took office Jan. 8, said his overall budget will feature no tax increases and include a surplus of about $1.5 billion, up from $1 billion as a brace against future hurricanes and the lack of a timeline on federal reimbursements. Northwest Florida, for example, is cleaning up from billions of dollars in damage from October's Hurricane Michael.

The environmental budget pieces quickly drew praise Tuesday from conservation groups.

Audubon Florida Executive Director Julie Wraithmell called the proposal and an executive order issued Jan. 10 signs of "a pro-water agenda." The executive order included a series of water-related moves.

"Water quality and quantity challenges are facing all corners of Florida, and these recommendations improve the outlook for water resources from America's Everglades to North Florida's springs, and the Indian River Lagoon to Apalachicola," Wraithmell said. "Florida's environment is the foundation of our economy. Getting the water right protects our economic future."

Kellie Ralston, who is with the group Keep Florida Fishing and serves as Southeast fisheries policy director for the American Sportfishing Association, called the proposed funding "a substantial down payment" to speed Everglades restoration and address water quality "critical for Florida to remain the 'Fishing Capital of the World.' " environmental funding includes $360 million toward 22 projects in the Everglades.

One of the projects is an Everglades Agricultural Area reservoir that has been approved by the Legislature and is intended to draw water south from Lake Okeechobee. The reservoir would receive $107 million, $43 million more than what has been annually set aside for the project.

Also included in the Everglades part of the package is $40 million from the Department of Transportation to complete raising the Tamiami Trail, which has served as a dam blocking the natural flow of the River of Grass. The fight against toxic algae and red tide outbreaks, which have threatened coastal areas of Southeast and Southwest Florida, would get $25 million, of which $4.2 million would go to redtide research; $1 million would go to the Department of Health to study the impact of algae; and $10.8 million would go to a Blue-Green Algae Task proposed Force, which was created as part of DeSantis' Jan. 10 executive order.

One of the assignments for the task force will be to look for ways to reduce pollution going into Lake Okeechobee. Polluted discharges from the lake have been blamed for toxic algae outbreaks in the St. Lucie and Caloosahatchee estuaries.

Another $150 million of the proposal is for "targeted" water quality improvements, including cost-share programs with local governments. That involves efforts to hook up septic-tank users to central sewer systems.

Under the proposed budget, Florida's natural springs are targeted for $50 million, which is the amount already set in state law.

A final $40 million would be directed toward helping communities move forward with conservation, reuse and other alternative-water supply projects.

DeSantis also has followed up on his Jan. 10 executive order by recommending the transfer of 19 positions that comprise the Environmental Crimes Enforcement Unit from the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission to the Department of Environmental Protection.

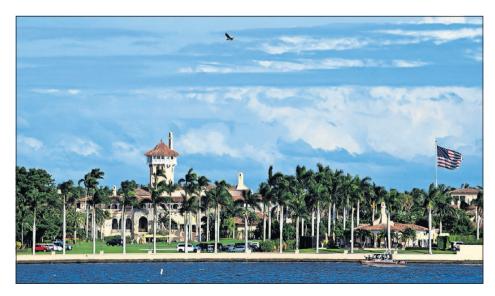

The appointments of Goss and Bergeron came after DeSantis on Jan. 10 called for the resignations of all members of the South Florida Water Management District Governing Board.

The board has been under fire since voting in late November to grant Florida Crystals a lease extension for land eyed for the Everglades Agricultural Area reservoir. As of Tuesday, five of the nine members appointed by former Gov. Rick Scott still were listed as serving on the panel.

Goss is a Sanibel City Council member who once was a deputy staff director for the U.S. House Budget Committee and twice ran for Congress.

Bergeron, nicknamed "Alligator" and usually seen sporting a cowboy hat, is a businessman from Fort Lauderdale who was a long-serving member of the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.

President Donald Trump's Mar-a-Lago estate in Palm Beach is shown in November. A pastry chef is suing Mar-a-Lago, alleging he was laid off in retaliation for trying to stop managers from sexually harassing women in the kitchen. [AP FILE]

By Bernard Condon The Associated Press

A pastry chef is suing President Donald Trump's Mar-a-Lago club, alleging he was laid off in retaliation for trying to stop managers from sexually harassing women in the kitchen.

Former executive pastry chef Graham Randall says in the state lawsuit filed last week that he was laid off about six months after complaining to human resources that two top managers were sending lewd texts and engaging in other offensive behavior toward two women pastry chefs. The lawsuit against the Palm Beach club and the managers seeks more than $15,000 in lost wages and damages.

Trump Organization spokeswoman Amanda Miller said the allegations were "completely without merit" and "we look forward to presenting the truth and defeating the ridiculous claims."

Randall said the club told him it couldn't afford to keep him on because too many charities had canceled events after Trump's comments blaming both sides in the know because Trump's company is privately held and financial figures have not been released in any detail.

The club did think it was strong enough to double its membership fees to $200,000 shortly after Trump was elected two years ago. And Mara-Lago has been on a hiring spree of foreign workers, as noted in the lawsuit.

An Associated Press review of Labor Department filings shows the club got permission to hire 70 foreign workers on special H-2B visas in the winter months after Randall was laid off. That was up from 64 for the 2016-2017 winter season. For the latest winter season, Mar-a-Lago has requested even more visas -78. That is the most since Trump launched his presidential campaign on a promise to limit both illegal and legal immigration so Americans could have more jobs. The president has said he has no choice but to hire abroad for some positions because there aren't enough America workers to fill them. On his latest financial disclosure report filed with the government, Trump reported that Mar-a-Lago generated $25 million in revenue in the 2017 calendar year, down from $37 million reported in his prior disclosure report. But the figures are not comparable because the earlier report covered 16 months. Trump is not required to release estimates for profits in his disclosure reports.

But Randall said business had not suffered, as evidenced by all the special visas requested by the club for foreign workers to fill jobs after he was laid off, including pastry chef jobs.

Randall said he alerted human resources about the behavior after one of the women showed him lewd texts, including one asking her to show a man her breasts.

The lawsuit said the two managers eventually were reprimanded and that they even thanked Randall for saving their careers because he had told human resources that he believed their behavior seemed out of character.

Nonetheless, Randall was laid off in September 2017, a month after Trump's comments about the Charlottesville riots that prompted the American Cancer Society and other major charities to cancel events at the club.

LAKELAND Deputy forced to shoot police dog during attack

Authorities said a deputy shot and killed a K-9 that attacked him while he was feeding the dog.

GateHouse Media Florida reported that the attack and shooting occurred Monday night.

The Polk County Sheriff's Office reported the K-9 deputy had been feeding the dog, Recon, for about a week while the dog's normal handler was out of town.

The deputy said Recon clamped down on his hand, and the dog wouldn't release him, forcing him to shoot the dog.

Officials said the deputy suffered a serious injury and underwent surgery on his hand.

Recon had been with the department for three years, and officials said they're not sure what prompted the attack. They say it's common for K-9 deputies to take care of each other's dogs when they are away from home.

TALLAHASSEE Parkland shooting: Ex-sheriff challenges suspension

A sheriff suspended this month by Gov. Ron DeSantis and accused of failing to prevent a school shooting has requested a state Senate hearing.

An attorney for ex-Broward County Sheriff Scott Israel requested the hearing Tuesday. Florida law says the legislative body has the final say in the removal of local elected officials. No hearing date was announced.

DeSantis said previously that Israel failed to keep families and children safe before and during last February's shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School that left 17 people dead.

A state investigating commission recently concluded Israel's changes to the department's active shooter policy might have contributed to some deputies' inaction during the shooting.

Israel said after his suspension that DeSantis was making a "power grab" against those who elected him.

LAKELAND Judge: City can move Confederate statue

A federal judge has dismissed a lawsuit aimed at blocking a city from moving a statue honoring Confederate soldiers.

District Judge Virginia Hernandez Covington dismissed the lawsuit this week filed by Confederate rights groups against Lakeland.

The city plans to move a statue of a Confederate soldier from a park where it was erected in 1910 to a veterans cemetery where it will be placed among statues honoring the dead from other wars.

The groups argued the city was violating their free speech and due process rights by moving the Civil War statue.

Hernandez Covington disagreed, saying the statue belongs to the city and it can move it if it wants.

Black residents had pushed for its removal, saying it represents racism.

The Confederate groups said they plan to appeal.

TALLAHASSEE Corcoran seeks to speed up teacher certification

New state Education Commissioner Richard Corcoran is taking a series of steps to eliminate a "significant" backlog in the process of certifying teachers, the Florida Department of Education said Tuesday.

The department began using a new certification system in November 2017, leading to longer delays in processing applications, the department said in a news release.

The number of educator certificates issued dropped from 70,166 in 2016-2017 to 31,397 in 2017-2018.

Corcoran, a former House speaker who became commissioner this month, issued a statement saying the "unreasonable wait times for our school teachers are unacceptable, and this stops today."

Judge pokes hole in 'dry needling' rule

By Christine Sexton The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE

 Florida physical therapists cannot offer "dry needling" procedures to their patients, a state judge ruled Monday in a legal challenge filed by a group representing acupuncturists.

Administrative Law Judge Lawrence P. Stevenson issued an order rejecting a proposed rule by the Florida Board of Physical Therapy that set minimum standards for physical therapists to use dry needling. Stevenson said the proposal exceeded the Board of Physical Therapy's "grant of rulemaking authority because it would expand the scope of physical therapy practice, not merely establish a standard of practice."

The order can be appealed to the 1st District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee.

Tad Fisher, chief executive officer of the Florida Physical Therapy Association, said Monday he still was reviewing the order with his attorneys and that he wasn't sure if the association, which formally intervened in the case, would appeal.

Dry needling is the name physical therapists use to describe a technique of inserting filiform needles into the skin at various "trigger points," which causes certain responses. Filiform needles – which are used for acupuncture – are solid. They cannot be used to inject substances or medicine, hence the word "dry."

Physical therapists in more than 30 states practice dry needling, but it is not authorized by law in Florida.

The Florida Board of Physical Therapy initially published the proposed rule last year. It was pushed in part by the Florida Physical Therapy Association, which touted dry needling as a possible alternative that patients could seek for chronic pain management.

The proposed rule called for allowing physical therapists to perform dry-needle techniques as long as they had taken courses recognized by the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, the American Physical Therapy Association, the Federation of State Boards of Physical Therapy or any branch of the United States Armed Forces.

The Florida State Oriental Medical Association, which represents acupuncturists, challenged the proposed rule in the state Division of Administrative Hearings arguing, among other things, that the proposal modified existing law and that it was vague and capricious.

Stevenson agreed with the Florida State Oriental Medical Association that the Board of Physical Therapy expanded state law by passing the rule.

Stevenson said that "dry needling meets the definition of acupuncture in Florida law because it involves the insertion of acupuncture needles" into specific areas of the body.

He noted that the law generally bans physical therapists from performing acupuncture, allowing it only when "no penetration of the skin occurs."

The Florida State Oriental Medical Association had an announcement on its website Monday afternoon saying "WE WON!!! The Dry Needle Challenge."

Police: $200,000 'cam girl' obsession led to massacre

By Kyle Swenson

The Washington Post

Grant Amato had a problem and it was ripping apart his family.

Outside the walls of his family's well-manicured home in a rural area northeast of Orlando, the 29-year-old could have been mistaken for another luckless young man surfing through a bad patch – lost his job, kicked out of school, living at home.

But inside the house, Amato was allegedly gobbling up whatever money he could steal. He lifted $150,000 from his parents, Chad and Margaret. His brother Codv lost $60,000; when that was gone, Amato allegedly stole his brother's guns and sold them. Amato even allegedly took out a $65,000 loan on the house.

said, where it landed more than 5,600 miles away in the Balkans. Since last June, he had been communicating with a Bulgarian woman – who has not been publicly identified. They met on Cam Girls, a live-streaming pornographic website. In three months, he had paid out more than $200,000 to interact with the woman.

His family knew he had stolen the money, and they knew where it was going. His mom and dad demanded Amato enter rehab for a pornography addiction last December. Promises were made, a contract signed between parents and son. The family drama hit such an intense pitch that Cody confided to his girlfriend he was worried his brother "would kill everybody," according to an arrest affidavit filed recently by the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Authorities now believe he did. On Friday morning, police discovered inside the family home the bodies of Chad, 59, Margaret, 61, and Cody, 31. All had been gunned down in what a police affidavit described as an "execution style" shooting. Amato is facing three first-degree murder charges. Police alleged his obsession with the girl across the Atlantic propelled Amato to violence.

"I think we have some mental health issues," Jeffery Dowdy, the defendant's attorney, told reporters this week. "A few months ago ... he had checked himself into an internet sex addiction facility in Fort Lauderdale. He had walked off there."

As Amato's hours and money were beginning to be consumed with his overseas obsession last year, his life beyond the computer screen also was coming undone.

On June 21, 2018, Amato was working as a registered nurse at AdventHealth Orlando. According to a police report, hospital staff discovered eight empty vials of propofol, a medication used as a sedative before surgery, in two rooms Amato was overseeing. No doctors had ordered the drugs, and records indicated Amato had taken them from a storage machine.

When confronted about the unauthorized drugs, Amato told hospital authorities "he administered the drug to patients who were not being adequately relaxed," the police report stated. The hospital believed he had previously improperly administered propofol as well.

During the confrontation, Amato expressed suicidal thoughts, and police were called. Officers arrested Amato Jason. Chad told Amato that if he wished to stay at their house, he needed to enter a 60-day sex and pornography rehabilitation center in Fort Lauderdale.

He agreed to go, but walked away from the center before his treatment was complete on Jan. 4.

After returning home, his father presented Amato with a twopage list of rules he was required to follow if he wanted to live at home.

One of the conditions was that he cease all communication with the Bulgarian woman. According to the arrest affidavit, Amato would later explain to police that he agreed, "but he didn't think they were fair because he felt that the Bulgarian female was his girlfriend and they had a relationship."

He continued, however, to communicate with the woman over Twitter, according to the arrest affidavit. Not much later, his father discovered the messaging was continuing. On Thursday, the family again confronted Amato, telling him he had to get out of the house.

That night, Amato's brother Cody was with his girlfriend when he received a call from his father asking Cody to come home. When the girlfriend asked what was wrong, he replied that it was "stupid" family nonsense, the arrest affidavit said. Later, she texted her boyfriend for a status update. "All ok," he wrote back. But when Cody did not show up for work the next morning, the girlfriend called police to check on the family. Sheriff deputies arrived at the house at 9:17 a.m. Friday. No one answered the knocks. The windows and doors were all locked. Calls to the family members went unanswered. The deputies even blasted the cruiser's air horn, but no one stirred inside.

A deputy eventually slipped the deadbolt on the back door using a knife. Chad was lying on his back on the kitchen floor, blood pooling across the ground. Cody was curled into the fetal position on the floor of a storage room. Margaret was sprawled over the desk in her home office. All had been shot and a 9mm handgun was recovered at the scene.

Amato's 1996 Honda Accord was missing from the house. Law enforcement put out a bulletin for the car, and the next day police tracked the Honda to a DoubleTree Hilton Hotel in Orlando. Approached by investigators, he agreed to sit for an interview. Amato described the family drama stemming from his relationship with the Bulgarian woman.

But he denied killing his family, instead claiming he left the house after his father confronted him about the Twitter messages. Later, Amato said he returned to the house and saw police and news vehicles outside the house. He said he fled again.

After showing Amato ghastly pictures of the crime scene - his father face up on the kitchen floor, his brother curled up in the storage, his mother spilled over her desk - investigators asked Amato if he "had any remorse." According to the arrest affidavit, his "response was his family had been blaming him for months for ruining their lives, stealing and not following the rules of the home, so he might as well be blamed for this too." Court records indicate Amato will be formally arraigned on the charges on March 26. Authorities have not signaled whether the unnamed cam model is facing any charges related to the deaths.

and the hospital said it planned to prosecute, according to the police report, though public records do not indicate that charges were ever filed. Amato's brother's girlfriend later told police he then was kicked out of anesthesiology school.

Amato's online relationship intensified, meanwhile, and he continued sending large sums of money overseas. The family, watching Amato's online infatuation drain their bank accounts, reached a tipping point. According to the arrest affidavit, on Dec. 22, his father Chad called a family meeting, along with Margaret, Cody, and eldest son

Florida police: Man robbed restaurant at finger-point

By Daniel Smithson GateHouse Media Florida

GAINESVILLE – A Gainesville man was arrested Monday after police said he robbed a restaurant.

Steven Michael Berlin, 56, was charged with armed robbery, but he did not have a weapon.

Berlin entered Szechuan Palace Monday night and sat down for about 30 minutes, according to a Gainesville Police Department arrest report. Police said Berlin then approached the restaurant's counter and told an employee, "I am ready," walked around the counter and demanded she open the drawer.

The employee told police that during the robbery, Berlin had his hand in a position that resembled a gun - his thumb pointed up and his index and second finger pointed straight out.

He took money out of the drawer and left, according to police.

Berlin was later arrested and found with $577. Police said Berlin admitted to robbing the restaurant.

He was charged with armed robbery due to the employee believing he had a gun and based on his actions, according to police.

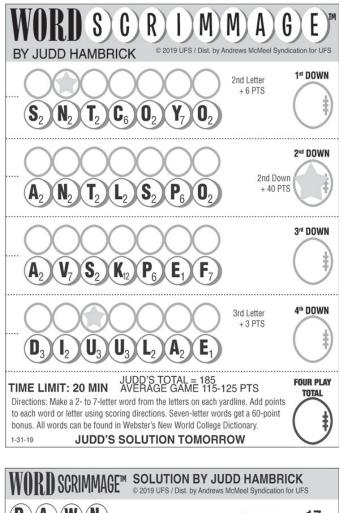

"He was charged with armed robbery because he implied he had a weapon," Chief Inspector Jorge Campos said.

Berlin was booked into the Alachua County jail. His bond was set at $25,000.

DEAR ABBY

Last rites for dying wife were comfort to her family

Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My wife, a convert to reform Judaism, died this past year. The day before she passed, while she was in a coma, Roman Catholic family members asked if they could bring in a priest. I said OK because I knew it meant a lot to them. A priest came and administered last rites. (My wife was born and raised a Catholic.)

I have been having serious second thoughts about my decision. Nobody outside my family knows about this. Did I make the right call, or should I have politely told my wife's family that I could not agree to their request? -TROUBLED REFORM JEW

DEAR TROUBLED: Your wife, who had converted to Judaism, was comatose. What happened at her bedside made no difference to her at that point. It was kind and generous of you to allow the priest to come for the sake of your in-laws. You did it for the right reasons, so please do not second-guess yourself now. What happened does not impugn the authenticity of the Jewish rites that you used to bury her.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago, my friend "Stephanie" decided to stop cutting hair as her second job. She had done mine, my husband's and our son's hair for years. We switched to a stylist she referred us to and have been satisfied with the service.

We just found out Stephanie is going to start cutting hair again, and my husband and I want to switch back to seeing her. The sticky part is, we already have appointments with the new person, and Stephanie's going to be working at the same salon where she referred us. Is it rude to call and ask to switch our stylist knowing that we will be seeing both of them in the same place? - TENTA-TIVE IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR TENTATIVE: No, it is not rude. Tell your new stylist that you have decided to go back to Stephanie in light of your long relationship. Make the switch as cordial as possible. Explain that it has nothing to do with the quality of the stylists' work. When you visit the salon, be friendly to both stylists. That way, if Stephanie decides to quit cutting hair again or even takes a vacation, you will have someone to fall back on.

Commodores not worried after opening-weekend miscues

By Tyler Waldrep twaldrep@pcnh.com

The Gulf Coast State baseball team dropped a pair of games against No. 10 State College of Florida on opening weekend, but coach Mike Kandler hasn't lost faith that his team is on track to put everything together when it really counts.

"One of the reasons you go play a team like that is to figure out what it is you need to get better at," Kandler said. "So using it as a learning tool, it was an outstanding weekend."

The Commodores lost Friday night's game 10-7 after extending the game to the 12th inning. The following day Gulf Coast State fell 6-1.

The Commodores' time at the plate stands out as an obvious area in need of improvement as the season continues. The team managed only 18 hits in total across 21 innings and finished the weekend with a .220 batting average and a .289 on-base percentage.

Evan Johnson stood out as a bright spot for the team offensively, finishing the weekend with three hits in eight plate appearances and a team-high .444 on-base percentage.

.444 on-base percentage. He also had a pair of home runs in Friday's loss.

"He got two elevated pitches and did what good hitters do with those pitches," Kandler said.

After his hot start hitting seventh, Kandler is considering moving Johnson up in the lineup, but that decision isn't set in stone just yet.

Kandler's pitchers seemed a little sharper, but he said they still elevated too many balls and didn't command fastballs well enough to hang with State College of Florida.

The rest of the defense seemed to play closer to what Kandler expected and finished the weekend with only three errors.

No. 7 Gulf Coast rallies from 22 down to beat Pensacola

By Dustin Kent dkent@pcnh.com

PANAMA CITY – Four days after going on the road and knocking off the No. 1 team in the country, No. 7 Gulf Coast found itself trailing by 22 points in the third quarter to last-place Pensacola State on Wednesday night.

That's life in the Panhandle Conference for you. Despite the big deficit, the Lady Commodores battled back to take a 91-83 overtime victory to improve to 17-3 overall and 5-2 in league play. The Lady Pirates fell to 0-6 in the Panhandle and 14-8 overall. "The Panhandle is such a grind," Gulf Coast coach Roonie Scovel said. "It's just hard. I don't know that I've ever described it that way, but it's so hard. You can't even get excited about what you just did because the next battle is probably harder than the one you just won or lost, so there's not time to celebrate or get excited." The Lady Commodores got a bigger battle than they were bargaining for from the Lady Pirates, who burned the nets up for eight 3-pointers in the first half to take a 50-31 lead at the break. Pensacola State had broken 60 points in a full game just once in Panhandle play coming in.

Sade Mobley scored 17 points in the first half for Pensacola State after scoring just 13 points total in her first five Panhandle games. It was that kind of night for the Lady Pirates, who continued to pour it on to start the second half, getting a driving layup from Kaiya Burnett and a 3-pointer from Brandi Washington to go up 55-33 with 8:14 on the third quarter clock.

Gulf Coast charged back with a quick 9-0 run featuring four points from Alexus Dye, two free throws from Naomi Marshall, and a corner 3-pointer from Astou Gaye. Another corner three for Brittany Davis got Gulf Coast to within single digits at 59-51 with 4:24 left in the third. An offensive rebound and putback by Dye followed by a steal and layup from Davis cut it to 71-66 midway through the fourth quarter. A three-point play by Dye pulled GC to within two with 1:40 left in regulation, with a pair of free throws by Davis tying it up at 75-75 with 1:27 on the clock. Pensacola State had the last shot in regulation, but Burnett's step-back three rimmed out as time expired. Davis opened the overtime period with a driving bank shot and a pull-up jumper in transition to give Gulf Coast an early four-point edge.

PANAMA CITY — The first half of the Panhandle Conference schedule was mostly miserable for the Commodores, with a heartbreaking opening loss to Tallahassee followed by five successive defeats.

Gulf Coast got the second half of the Panhandle schedule started off with a bang, however, knocking off Pensacola State 76-70 on Wednesday night at the Billy Harrison Field House.

The Commodores (13-11 overall, 1-6 in the Panhandle Conference) outscored the Pirates (13-10, 1-5) 27-12 over the final nine minutes of action to notch their first league win of the season.

"It feels great," Commodores coach Jay Powell said. "The men worked and worked and worked and deserved to win this game, so I'm proud of them. Sometimes in life you don't get what you deserve and sometimes in life you do. Fortunately tonight the men got what they deserved, which was a big home win."

KK Godwin scored 22 points to lead Gulf Coast, with Cameron Holden adding 16 points, Jacolbey Owens 13, and Reggie Rivera 12. Yeikson Montero was the top scorer for the Pirates with 18 points, while De'monte Nelson scored 12 points, and Shaundarius Cowart had 11.

NEW YORK Ex-Okla. St. coach pleads guilty in bribery case

A former Oklahoma State assistant basketball coach pleaded guilty Wednesday to taking bribes from business advisers to steer them to star college athletes expected to turn pro.

Lamont Evans, 41, entered the plea in New York federal court to conspiring to commit bribery. He admitted receiving $22,000 to steer the players at the University of South Carolina and Oklahoma State University to certain financial advisers and business managers, attorney Johnny McCray said.

Evans also agreed to forfeit the bribe money he received from two financial advisers as part of the deal he signed Thursday.

"I now know that accepting those funds in exchange for introducing them to any one player was wrong and violated the law," he said.

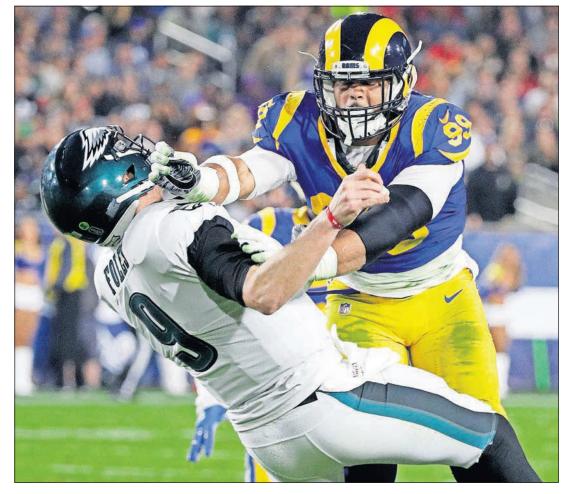

Sentencing was set for May 10 on a charge that carries the potential for up to five years in prison, though a plea agreement between Evans and prosecutors recommends no more than two years behind bars.

ATLANTA Rams' Robey-Coleman says he received threats

The comments on social media grew darker by the hour until Nickell Robey-Coleman decided to stop looking.

Fans being frustrated is one thing. Seeing threats on his life crawl into his Instagram feed took it to another level.

"There was a little bit of everything," the Los Angeles Rams cornerback said Wednesday at the team hotel. "I had like one or two death threats. I mean, it wasn't anything that I really paid attention to." The 27-year-old Robey-Coleman was the target of New Orleans fans after the now-infamous play during which he was not penalized for his hit on Saints receiver Tommylee Lewis. No flag was thrown for pass interference for the helmet-to-helmet nature of the hit - for which Robey-Coleman was fined $26,739 by the NFL possibly altering the outcome of Los Angeles' 26-23 overtime victory.

Donald, Suh to lead Rams' Super Bowl pursuit of Patriots QB

By Greg Beacham The Associated Press

ATLANTA – Practically every member of the Los Angeles Rams has a favorite story about Aaron Donald's feats of ridiculous athleticism.

Michael Brockers loved the moment at Carolina in 2016 when Donald beat the Panthers' left guard and launched himself like Superman, swallowing up Cam Newton while airborne.

Nickell Robey-Coleman preferred the game at San Francisco this season when Donald shredded a double-team and sacked C.J. Beathard – not by grabbing him, but by shoving the 49ers' center into his own quarterback. "Aaron can do things you didn't know were possible," said Rams defensive tackle Ndamukong Suh, no stranger to improbable feats himself. Donald is the NFL's current sacks champion, the only unanimous All-Pro and a probable two-time league Defensive Player of the Year. But Los Angeles' powerful defensive tackle has one more daunting task in the Super Bowl. Donald and the Rams must figure out how to pressure Tom Brady, who completely stumped the New England Patriots' first two playoff opponents. million contract extension to Donald in late August, making their best player happy after two offseason holdouts. He responded with the best season of his stellar career. Los Angeles then acquired edge rusher Dante Fowler from Jacksonville in late October, adding a speedy outside pass-rushing threat to a roster that lacked it. Fowler has 11/2 sacks and six quarterback hits in the Rams' past four games including the biggest hit of LA's season, forcing Drew Brees' overtime interception in the NFC championship game.

Goodell mostly dodges pressing questions

By Barry Wilner The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Faced with a blitz of officiating questions and queries about the effectiveness of the Rooney Rule, Colin Kaepernick's football unemployment, and the cancellation of a news conference for a Super Bowl halftime show that has drawn hefty criticism, Roger Goodell scrambled.

The NFL commissioner did provide some nuggets of news on Wednesday. He noted establishing a quarterbacks summit at Morehouse College in June to help get more minority coaches into the pipeline of higherlevel assistant coaching jobs that are quicker pathways to head coaching opportunities. Otherwise, Goodell generally ducked the rush at his annual State of the NFL appearance as effectively as Russell Wilson.

Naturally, Goodell was peppered with questions, some bordering on demands, to upgrade the officiating 10 days after a non-call late in the NFC championship game pretty much cost the Saints a spot in the Super Bowl.

While agreeing that game officials missed the helmet-to-helmet hit and pass interference penalty by Rams defensive back Nickell Robey-Coleman league officiating chief Al Riveron called Saints coach Sean Payton after the game and admitted the blown call – Goodell said the league will reexamine the officiating process. He didn't rule out adding such plays to the video review system, and he definitely didn't endorse such a move. "We will look again at instant replay," said Goodell, who added that league executives recognize the frustration of Saints fans. "There have been a variety of proposals over the last - frankly 15 to 20 years – of should replay be expanded? It does not cover judgment calls. This was a judgment call. "The other complication is that it was a no-call. And our coaches and clubs have been very resistant and there has not been support to date about having a replay official or somebody in New York throw a flag when there is no flag (thrown). They have not voted for that in the past. It doesn't mean that we won't. It's something that we're going to put to the competition committee to see if there's an answer to that, but the reality is that's been at least an opposition philosophically for many clubs." Goodell completely ruled out any use of commissioner's powers to change the call or resume the game; a lawsuit was filed in New Orleans seeking that.

PARIS Neymar out for about 10 weeks with foot injury

Neymar is expected to be sidelined for about 10 weeks with a right foot injury, ruling the Paris Saint-Germain striker out of the Champions League matchup against Manchester United.

PSG travels to play United in the last 16 of the Champions League on Feb. 12, with the return leg in Paris on March 6. The injury potentially also rules him out both legs of the quarterfinals in mid-April if PSG advances.

However, if PSG reaches the semifinals, the 26-year-old Brazilian may be back in time for the first leg at the end of April and the return leg in the second week of May.

The Associated Press

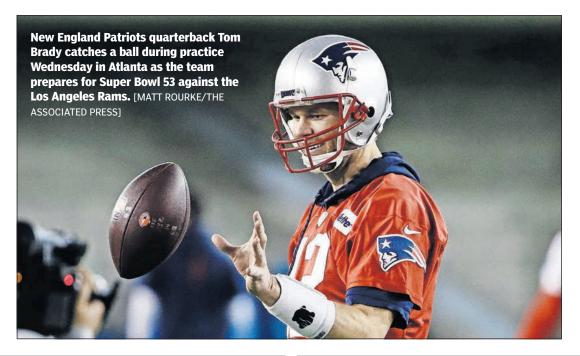

Donald, who set an NFL record for sacks by an interior lineman with 20¹/₂ this season, believes Los Angeles (15-3) can do what the Chargers and Chiefs couldn't.

"We'll get to him, but we have to stay patient and don't get frustrated," Donald said. "We've got a great secondary that will do its job and make sure he doesn't have easy throws. If he has to hold onto the ball, we'll have our chances. We just have to go get him."

The Rams have been assembling the tools for this job all year long.

In the spring, they signed the imposing Suh to a $14 million deal. They also acquired Aqib Talib and Marcus Peters, two elite cornerbacks who can create chances for their pass rush. They gave a six-year, $135 Fowler never became a superstar with the Jaguars, but he loves being a role player for LA.

"I knew I was going to fit in with this defense because of A.D. and Suh," Fowler said. "They make it easy for everybody else on the defense. They cause so many problems."

"The numbers will be there at the end of the year so you just gotta keep playing and keep grinding it out," Kandler said. "Two games it's not enough to really judge anything by."

Those numbers won't really start to mean much to Kandler until the Commodores have 20 games behind them. If the schedule doesn't change, that gives the team almost a month to improve before it crosses that threshold with a doubleheader against Thomas College on Feb.

Davis scored again in transition with a layup plus the foul, converting the three-point play to make it 84-77 with 2:56 remaining. Dye's three-point play with 43.3 seconds left all but put the game to bed with the Lady Commodores leading 89-82.

Dye finished the game with 30 points, with Davis adding 28. Washington had 30 points on six 3-pointers in the losing effort for Pensacola State.

It was an impressive comeback for the Lady Commodores necessitated by a slow start and some red-hot shooting from the visitors. At halftime, Scovel said there wasn't much discussion of strategy, simply effort.

Kandler said he doesn't believe the strength of the latest group lies with any one aspect of the game. Instead, he said the success of the 2019 group will come from the strong bonds established between the players before they ever tasted defeat last weekend.

Monday afternoon, many of them couldn't help but stop and appreicate what they saw in front of them. For the first time since Hurricane Michael ripped through town on Oct. 10, the field had a backstop and even what the players called a "big leaguer" mound to pitch from.

"Anytime any little thing happens it's kind of nice," Kandler said. "It's most of the clay across the right field. With the playing surface shaping up, attention will turn now to other items like replacing the windscreen and rebuilding the equipment shed.

"So one morning it will all be back together," Kandler said. "Just like Bay County will be and we'll all say that was just a bad memory."

Pensacola State jumped out in front early and held a 25-13 advantage when Godwin made his first bucket of the game, a 3-pointer with 6:17 on the first half clock.

The freshman guard added a steal and a reverse layup moments later, then a 3-pointer from the left corner and another triple from the right corner to tie the game 27-27. Godwin knocked in another shot from deep in the waning seconds of the first half to again level the game at 35-35.

The Pirates regained control in the second half, with Montero hitting a 3-pointer and a lefty hook in the lane to make it 58-49 with just over nine minutes to play.

An offensive rebound and putback by Holden started a 12-2 Gulf Coast run culminating in a steal and layup by Owens to give the Commodores the lead 61-60 with 4:04 remaining.

Nelson gave the lead right back to the Pirates on a driving finish, but back-to-back threes from Holden out of the left corner and Godwin from the right corner put the Commodores back on top for good at 68-64 with 1:31 to play.

Owens added a driving layup against the Pensacola State press, followed by four straight free throws by Godwin and Rivera, and then put the finishing touches on the win by throwing down a one-handed dunk on a long inbounds pass from Holden to make it 76-67.

Despite the win, the Commodores remain in the Panhandle Conference cellar behind the Pirates by a halfgame. But Powell said that the victory was still important for building confidence and hopefully momentum to finish out the season.

"It's game by game, but I'm proud that the guys know that if we go out and compete like crazy that we can win," he said. "When you have a young team, they can start to question themselves, so to find a way to win tonight says a lot about the young men."

Celtics cruise past Hornets as Irving sits

The Associated Press

BOSTON - Jaylen Brown had 24 points and 10 rebounds, Jayson Tatum scored 20 points, and the Boston Celtics rolled over the Charlotte Hornets 126-94 on Wednesday night despite Kyrie Irving's absence.

Terry Rozier had 17 points and tied a career high with 10 assists in place of Irving, who missed his second straight game with a left hip strain.

Marcus Morris scored 15 points, Al Horford had 14 and Gordon Hayward 12 for the Celtics, who won for the seventh time in eight games.

Kemba Walker had 21 points to lead Charlotte, well short of the 43 he scored in a 117-112 home win over Boston on Nov. 19.

Malik Monk scored 16 points, Nicolas Batum added 13 and Marvin Williams 10 in Charlotte's third loss in five games.

Morris knocked down a 3-pointer from the right wing with 6:49 left in the third period to put Boston ahead 76-69 and started a 25-6 quarter-ending run.

The Celtics led 98-75 after three and ran the lead up to 35 during the fourth.
