SEBRING —Many lives were changed forever and hearts touched on Jan. 20 when a caravan of National Guard soldiers and their vehicles wrecked near Hammock Road on U.S. 27. The wreck proved to be fatal for National Guard Specialist Luis E. Garcia. Five other soldiers were also injured in the wreck.

Kelli Delaney was so moved by the accident that she felt led to erect a memorial on Tuesday afternoon where the accident occurred.

Delaney is has been the paramedic training coordinator with Positive Medical Transport for the past eight years. She is a mother, a grandmother and mother-in-law to National Guardsman Garrett Rex Mimbs.

"The soldier was in the National Guard like my son-in-law so it hit a little closer to home," Delaney said.

"Even though they were not in the same platoon together, I still feel like this young gentleman was family. I know that they were from Miami and I was not sure if he had family here, but I felt that something needed to be done in honor of him," he said.

Delaney collected donations with the permission of her boss, Robert Layne, and got a wreath with yellow ribbons and American

Barnard, Deleon at odds again

By MARC VALERO
STAFF WRITER

AVON PARK — Anyone attending or following the City Council meetings in the past year knows that Mayor Garrett Anderson and Councilman Jim Barnard are frequently at odds on the issues with City Manager Julian Deleon.

BARNARD

DELEON

Barnard and Anderson have been the only "no" votes on many agenda items presented by Deleon, including on Monday when Council approved, by a 3-2 vote, a three-year employment contract for Fire Chief Brad Batz.

The city manager works for the council and can be removed by the council.

The three council members who support Deleon — Terry Heston, Dora Smith and Deputy Mayor Brenda Gray — are in terms that expire in November.

At Monday's council meeting, during discussion of Batz's contract, Barnard clearly expressed his thoughts on the city manager's tenure in relation to a possible change in council members.

"I believe we are going to have a new city manager sometime this year; if not by November, I think probably sooner," Barnard said.

During the contract discussion, Deleon said, "I was recently told that commentary at a Chamber of Commerce event that come November I am fired."

A few minutes later in commenting on the contract benefits and possible department head changes, Barnard said, "If we do have a new city manager this year, which I think we will, they will walk away with at least five months in severance pay."

Highlands News-Sun asked Barnard about his comments on the city manager.

Barnard said Wednesday the city manager wants to do a lot of things that are in the best interest for himself and the people he hires.

"My fiduciary responsibility is to the citizens, voters and taxpayers of Avon Park," he said. "Anytime you have a member of the City Council that votes in favor of the city manager over the best interest of Avon Park, I think that they are making a mistake and this is an election year and we will see how the votes go down come November.

"The people of Avon Park are extremely smart and have great memories and they will remember in November what has been going on the last

Nominations accepted for new awards

HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN STAFF

We all know someone who does great things in our community. The question is, how do we as citizens recognize these people, whether the heroic actions are in your child's school, or benefits our county as a whole? All of us know someone like that, but what we don't know is how to get them recognized.

Enter the Highlands News-Sun's new program, The Highlander Awards, which gives you the opportunity to recognize publicly those people who deserve credit for what they do.

Understanding the value of community service, we have decided to create The Highlander Award and we will present these awards in public to those 14 heroes who have had a huge impact in the communities they live or work in, or the entire county.

We will recognize these individuals for what they have done to help make this a better place for all of us.

"While winning awards for a business is important, it's the people who have put this county together. The work they do to make this a great county to live in is just as powerful as any business or money put forth," said Tim Smolarick, Highlands News-Sun publisher.

Our businesses are recognized annually, which will be changed to the Best of Highlands County this year.

We are pleased to enter into a partnership with Florida Hospital Heartland Division, which has

Lunar showstopper

Super blue blood moon awes, wows

By MARCIA DUNN

A plane passes by as the moon sets over trees during a phenomena that combined a supermoon, a blue moon and a lunar eclipse in Charlotte, N.C., Wednesday.

CAPE CANAVERAL — The moon put on a rare cosmic show Wednesday: a red blue moon, super big and super bright.

It's the first time in 35 years a blue moon has synced up with a supermoon and a total lunar eclipse, or blood moon because of its red hue.

Hawaii and Alaska had the best seats, along with the Canadian Yukon, Australia and Asia. The western U.S. also had good viewing, along with Russia.

At the Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles, hundreds gathered on the lawn in the wee hours under clear skies. Traffic was backed up more than a mile around the observatory. Sky-gazers also lined the beach near the Santa Monica Pier, some snapping photos and others reclining in the sand, their faces

AP allows more business choices for Main Street

By MARC VALERO
Staff Writer

AVON PARK — There are now more business possibilities for West Main Street with the City Council unanimously approving the final reading of an ordinance amending the land development code.

Ordinance 01-18 allows through conditional use (approval by City Council) — restaurants with a drive-through or drive-through only, plant nursery and bank/financial institution with drive-through in the C-4 mixed-use commercial zoning district.

Council approved the first reading of the ordinance on Jan. 8 after amending it to drop car/vehicle sales and car wash/detailing businesses.

Councilman Jim Barnard opposed allowing new car dealerships and car wash businesses on Main Street, believing those businesses should be located on U.S. 27 and not downtown on Main Street.

Also, the approval of a business was changed from "special use" to "conditional use," which means a proposed business would have to come before the City Council, instead of just the zoning board, for approval.

City Manager Julian Deleon stated Wednesday, "In ordinance 01-18, we struck a compromise in preserving the historical nature of the downtown, while allowing more flexibility to the western end of Main Street, which has several undeveloped lots."

In other action, the City Council unanimously approved to extend the city's continuing services contract with Excavation Point, Inc. by one year.

The city originally contracted with Excavation Point, Inc. in February 2016.

The terms of the agreement were for one year with an option to extend the agreement up to three additional years from the award date.

The unit price for each individual piece work will remain the same as in the original agreement, the agenda shows.

The company does utility, roadway, curbing and sidewalk projects.

Man, woman arrested for theft

BY JAY MEISEL
Staff Writer

SEBRING — When a man and a woman visited a Wal-Mart, the store wasn't having a buy some items, get a few free sale, authorities say.

Yet, the man and the woman paid for about 40 items, while leaving the store with 54 items, according to a warrant affidavit.

Luis Antonio Tambunga, 33, and Rachel Martinez, 39, both of 513 Concert Drive, Lake Placid, were arrested by the Sebring Police Department and charged with third-degree grand theft.

The affidavits indicate it took law enforcement almost a year to identify and arrest the suspects.

Surveillance photos placed on Sebring Police Department's Facebook page led to someone identifying the couple, the affidavits said. They also identified them through a license plate on a vehicle, it said.

The warrant affidavits said that on March 25, 2017, a man and a woman entered the store with children. A Wal-Mart security employee then saw the man placing fishing hooks inside a bag of grapes, the affidavit said.

The Wal-Mart employee later saw the woman scanning items in a way so that the prices would not show up on the computer at the self-checkout, the affidavits said.

Both the man and the woman left the store without paying for numerous items, the affidavits said.

Expo succeeded, Airport director says

BY JAY MEISEL
Staff Writer

SEBRING — Last week's U.S. Sports Aviation Expo in many ways exceeded expectations, Sebring Regional Airport Director Mike Willingham said.

Willingham said the attendance, which typically is between 10,000 and 15,000, ranked second of the eight expos that have been held.

That the attendance was so high is a testament to the quality of what the event offers, he indicated.

One challenge was a 37-knot crosswind that occurred every day of the expo, he said. As a result, people who would have flown into the airport could not come via flight and may have missed the event.

Willingham believes a lot more people would have attended under other situations. So the attendance being the second highest despite that was impressive, he said.

Another factor drawing in people was the quality of the displays, including the Ford Tri-motor craft. He said he got an opportunity to go on a flight on one.

If someone was looking for a sports aircraft, he said, chances are if they didn't find the one they wanted at the expo, they couldn't find it anywhere else.

In Memory Of Our Mother

Hattie E. Hannah
May 27, 1913 - Feb. 1, 2013

It was five years ago today, just short of her 100th birthday, that the Lord called Mother home.

We remember her love, her sunny smile and her tender heart; her kindness, her cheerfulness and unfailing support; and her humor and zest for life. She was a beloved mother, grandmother and aunt. Mother left us treasured memories, and will live in our hearts forever.

turned upward.

John Cook joined fellow photography enthusiasts at the pier, using the ferris wheel and roller coaster for his foreground.

"It was incredible," said Cook, a visual effects artist for films. Photographers also gathered at the Telegraph Hill neighborhood of San Francisco, striving to get the famous Coit Tower in their moon shots.

In San Francisco's Marina district, a crowd gathered to watch the super blue blood moon, as NASA calls it, set over the Golden Gate Bridge. Spectators got lucky: There were clear skies and no trace of the city's famous fog.

"It's very cinematic, the way the moon is changing colors and reflecting on the water," said Clara Cambon, who arrived around 5:30 a.m. with her husband.

On the other side of the Pacific, where it was already nightfall, hundreds descended on the Tokyo Garden Terrace Kioicho complex, where telescopes and binoculars were plentiful. A TV monitor showed zoom-in views of the moon, and a university professor gave a run-down as the eclipse unfolded.

"It's wonderful to be at this precious event and to have been able to see the moon looking so beautiful," said Mayumi Kimura, a visitor.

The U.S. East Coast, Europe and most of South America and Africa were out of luck for the total eclipse. At Cape Canaveral, Florida, where a rocket delivered America's first satellite to orbit exactly 60 years ago — Explorer 1 — the blue super moon loomed large in the sky.

The second full moon in a calendar month is a blue moon. This one also happened to be an especially close and bright moon, or supermoon. Add a total eclipse, known as a blood moon for its red tint, and it was a lunar showstopper.

NASA called it a lunar trifecta: the first super blue blood moon since 1982. That combination won't happen again until 2037. For those looking ahead, the next supermoon is in February.

several years and especially the past year with all of these 3-2 votes and the previous 4-1 votes and the voters will act accordingly," Barnard said.

In comments to Highlands News-Sun following Monday's Council meeting, Deleon said it is no secret that City Council elections are this coming November.

"I was told that Mr Barnard made an announcement at the Chamber of Commerce that come November the city manager and his department heads are all fired," he said.

This type of council member commentary, if true, has brought ample turmoil and instability to City Hall, Deleon said. Several key employees have expressed serious concerns from this, some requested reassignments and insulation and others opted for early retirement.

"These workers are in fear of Barnard's attacks," he said. "An employment contract will allow these workers to focus on the future in moving organizational objectives forward, rather than having their safety and security needs threatened."

Gray said Wednesday it was uncalled for, unprofessional and not a nice thing to do for Barnard to say there will be a new city manager.

"I would have not done anything like that even I felt that way," she said. "You just don't put people on the spot. That's very unprofessional.

"It shows that we are so divided. People are elected to do things to make the City of Avon Park a better place to live, not a hostile environment."

flags. She also purchased a larger flag and pole. Several co-workers and Delaney loaded up two ambulances and headed out to the site of the tragedy. Sebring Police Department provided an escort and traffic control.

"I only did this because I felt something needed to be done to remind our community that there are soldiers out there that risk their lives for each one of us. We need to stick together and remember our fallen soldiers," she said.

Delaney and her co-workers did not make this a big public event but a simple memorial to say "thank you for your son's service" to Garcia's parents.

"I am very proud of him and very proud of any soldier that goes out to risk their lives to keep ours safe. This just makes this moment a little better and makes this mother proud. I know that this fallen soldier's mother and family was very proud of their son and all that he sacrificed," Delaney said.

taken the first step in this leadership program by sponsoring this event, as well as three of the categories, to bring The Highlander awards to life in our community.

How will these 14 people be chosen? That's where you, our readers, come in to play.

In today's edition, on page A3, and in the coming weeks, we will be publish a nomination form in our newspaper, or you can submit nominations by email. We want you to take a few minutes to think about the categories we will be honoring and choose the people you think has made the biggest impact in our community and tell us why.

The categories include Man of the Year, Woman of the Year, Teen of the Year, Physician of the Year, Surgeon of the Year, Nurse of the Year, Female Coach of the Year, Male Coach of the Year, Financial Representative of the Year, Real Estate Agent of the Year, Educator of the Year, Volunteer of the Year, Agricultural Person of the Year, and Philanthropist of the Year.

Please feel free to suggest other categories that we may have missed.

Remember, we don't want just a name. Tell us in detail why they deserve to receive the recognition.

Please use a separate nomination form or blank sheet of paper to nominate more than one person, or to nominate in more than one categories.

Three finalists will be chosen by a selection committee, not by the number of nominations. That's why the written explanation of why you think your nominee should be selected is so important. Don't be shy about making your nomination.

A winner will be selected from those three finalists in each category. Finalists and winners will be recognized at a dinner in their honor.

Nominations must be received by 5 p.m. March 26. Nominations can also be accepted by email to nominations@highlandsnewssun.com. Be sure to include your name and phone number in case more information is necessary.

This award is open to all Highlands County residents. Nominations are not limited to county residents alone. There are no requirements or qualifications to be met in making your nomination.

The dinner and awards presentation tickets will go on sale to the public as more information on the banquet is released.

"Something like this program has been needed in Highlands County for a long time. We are proud to partner with Florida Hospital in this endeavor and look forward to celebrating our heroes together," said Romona Washington, executive editor of the Highlands News-Sun.

Just in time to help

With 37 pediatric deaths across the nation now attributed to the flu, the Florida Department of Health-Highlands County picked the perfect time to open its Lake Placid branch, at 6 N. Main Ave., for an additional day weekly.

Doctors, and dentists, can provide care for people in the area with a variety of ailments and those also in need of family planning. The nutritional supplement program, Women, Infants and Children, or WIC, provides services to expectant moms and those with newborns.

Beginning Feb.7 Lake Placid Medical Services will also work on Wednesdays.

Services at the Lake Placid facility have been limited for WIC and dental, and that will not change.

While the flu season has not even reached its peak yet, the branch will be adding a day to its medical services.

The Highlands County Health Department has confirmed that, so far, we are currently experiencing a mild rate of flu activity. However, officials also warn that flu activity in Florida is expected to remain at an elevated level for several weeks.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, flu activity continues to increase and is widespread in most of the United States. As of this week, the agency was reporting flu activity to be widespread in every state, except Hawaii. The number of people seeing their health care provider for influenza-like-illness has been at or above the national baseline for eight consecutive weeks so far this season.

According to the CDC, only injectable flu shots are recommended this flu season. Health officials say that if the flu season's most active part is still ahead of us, there is still time to get a vaccination however reports of a shortage in Tamiflu are widespread.

It takes about two weeks after vaccination for the body to protect against the flu.

While most cases of flu are mild, there are some exceptions and those are the most vulnerable – children, seniors, pregnant women, those with chronic conditions and people over the age of 65.

The timing of flu is almost as unpredictable as its severity. It can vary in different parts of the country and from season to season, and year to year. Seasonal flu viruses can be detected year-round, but according to the CDC, seasonal flu activity can begin as early as October and continue to occur as late as May.

We still have a long way to go, so we encourage everyone to shield yourself.

Aside from getting a flu vaccine, all of us should avoid close contact with sick people. If you are the one who is sick, be kind and limit your contact with others as much as possible to keep from infecting them. The CDC recommends those who are sick with flu symptoms to stay home for at least 24 hours after your fever is gone except to get medical care or for other necessities.

Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze, and be sure to throw the tissue in the trash after you use it. Don't sit it on the desk or the table until a later time.

Wash your hands often with soap and water. If soap and water aren't available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth. Germs can even spread this way.

And always clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may be contaminated with germs like the flu. In doing so, don't forget the door knows and light switches.

Office managers can put together a "flu prevention kit" that includes paper towels to use instead of sponges to help keep surfaces germ-free, a disinfectant spray to fight germs on plastic and stainless steel surfaces where they can live up to 48 hours, hand sanitizer to keep workers' hands clean, pens so that each employee has their own stockpile of pens, and hand sanitizer wipes for employees to keep at their desks.

Employers should take a lesson from day care facilities. If an employee comes to work sick, send them home so that they don't infect the entire staff. Designate someone to use a hand sanitizer wipe to clean the computer keyboard, mouse, telephone keypad and mouthpiece, anything that the employee has touched on a regular basis. That way the employee doesn't get re-infected upon returning to work.

Most commonly, flu activity peaks in the U.S. between December and March, so we still have a ways to go.

The Lake Placid branch office closes from noon to 1 p.m. for lunch on days with services.

The south branch of the Highlands County Health Department will also serve as the office of two of Environmental Health workers. The division is responsible for inspecting public pools, group home food kitchens and private wells and working within migrant camps, among other responsibilities.

The sweet, sweet splendor of rejection

HARRIS & CO.
Dorothy Harris

That she had the sample since mid-August and responded only recently blew my mind. I had long assumed no news was indicative of disinterest. The rejection was polite and apologetic, thanking me for my patience and explaining the reasons why this would be "a pass from her at this time." My brain would often return to the text in that email as I went about the crazy pace of life for the next few days.

In the shower, bleary from early rising I would struggle to remember exactly what the agent had written. I'd grab my iPad and pull it up so I could run the words through as I blow dried my hair. Applying mascara, I'd murmur out loud, repeating the phrases, hoping for clearer understanding in my sleep deprived consciousness. What exactly did it mean? Was this still good feedback or had the time come to deconstruct my entire novel, bringing better action to the forefront?

A week went by, then two. Sick and bumbling about the house for a couple of days, insight was not to be mine. My head was so clogged with mucus and my thoughts bathed in cold medication that clarity was not possible.

Once I regained health and caught back up in life, I returned to the rejection email. Struggling to fully understand this agent's comments, I hit the writing groups on the web. Reviewing the various opinions and blogs, I discovered I may or may not be getting tantalizingly close to success.

One reputable writers' website cautioned not to become discouraged until you had submitted to at least 80 agents. I digested this number slowly. Then I nodded in agreement as I continued reading. As long as you're not getting the same standard rejection statement, continue on. That, I could understand.

Another website included an author's personal belief of four stages of rejection and the encouragement to continue as long as you passed tier two. Reviewing my rather meager — certainly nowhere near 80 — pile of rejection emails, I found myself solidly vacillating between tiers three and four. This was looking good. My personal favorite was an author blogging about 10 steps of rejection. Sharing he had been rejected an average of 100 times a year for the past six years, I felt he had a good grasp of the subject. Even better, he had also been published extensively. I read his list and noted all rejections in my stack solidly smacked numbers eight through 10. Quickly highlighting his admonition to send a personal thank you letter to those agents offering personal or specific guidance, I shook my head at not following my gut on this important step. When those very encouraging rejections came in it had felt as though I should, but I recalled reading agents don't want to be bothered unless they specifically request something. Scribbling specialized thank you cards to my shopping list, I prayed good manners would trump irritation in this regard.

With a handful of queries still out there and my small stack of positive rejections, I began work to punch up my query letter and am chewing over whether to deconstruct my chapters to begin elsewhere within the story. Perhaps one day the inbox email will offer not angst and ambiguity, but acceptance.

Beware of return of IRS scams

Beware of a telephone call from someone claiming to be from the Internal Revenue Service. I received such a call today and the woman on the phone said she was Officer Hannah Burton, and she gave me her badge number.

She said she was calling because there was an outstanding warrant for my arrest because of tax evasion for the years 2012-2016. I told her that this must be in error, that I had never evaded taxes, and always had my taxes filed by a professional.

Long story short, she said that the amount I owed was $8,315. She never asked me to pay anything over the phone, but when I told her I was going to hang up and call the IRS myself, she said that should I hang up, she would have no choice but to have the warrant executed for my arrest, and that I should be careful of what I said because anything may be used against me in the lawsuit. I told her I was not going to give her any information over the phone, but I did give her my name when she originally asked who she was speaking to. She told me I had been notified twice by the IRS and gave me dates. I told her I had never received anything, and I was going to call the IRS again. I then asked her who the plaintiff in the lawsuit was, and she said I was. I told her that I would have had to have been the defendant, not the plaintiff, and she hung up.

I then called the Highlands County Sheriff's Office and was advised that it was a scam. I went out to tell my husband about the call and told him that a couple times she told me she couldn't hear me, could I hear her? I even called her back the first time. Larry reminded me about another scam where they ask if you can hear them, and they record you saying "Yes" and use that to do something else. I called the Sheriff again and asked them about that scam and they told me they could not trace the call and just to monitor my bank accounts and credit accounts.

I am not totally happy with that answer, especially when I offered to provide our Sheriff's Office with the phone number, which was 941-548-2423. I am passing this on with the hopes it will remind everyone to not give out any information of a personal nature over the phone, unless you initiate the call and know who you are calling.

You can't handle the truth

Our Justice Department, our servant, is now telling the American people that they are not qualified to hear the truth. That the FBI and the CIA is above the law, will not stand. Our government has been stolen by global powers.

We the people are very close to a serious civil uprising. Our servants have taken complete control of our nation. The American people are disgusted with our representation. This we can no longer endure; something has to change if we are to stay a free nation.

We the people will prevail, and we can handle the truth. Deny the benefits to those who have betrayed our nation and prosecute them to the fullest extent of the law.

Donald Trump, the American voter who put you in office asked for a wall and amnesty for no one. My ancestors were replaced by Dreamers. They were Cherokee and Shawnee.

Will we the people be forced to march on Washington and take our government back?

If we the people have to clean the swamp, it won't be a pretty site. The elected and appointed will have a lot of explaining to millions of disgusted citizens. We all voted that we would have a wall and no amnesty. Our elected officials are not listening to the voting public. That can be very dangerous to those who say we cannot handle the truth. We are not children.

Wildcats knock off Blue Streaks

Hardee beats Sebring in district soccer tournament

By JIM TAYLOR
Correspondent

SEBRING – For the past three years, the Sebring Blue Streaks boys soccer team has been unable to solve the riddle of the Hardee Wildcats in the district tournament.

Tuesday night proved to be just a frustrating as the Wildcats bounced the Blue Streaks from the Class 3A-District 11 tournament by a 2-0 score at Firemen's Field.

"We just could not get it going today," said Sebring head coach Mark McKelvey. "No shots, could not get the ball in the hole, could not get the ball on top, Hardee played good."

Sebring started the game taking charge for the first 20 minutes with several scoring opportunities that just missed their mark.

Midway through the first half Hardee slowly changed the momentum to their side as they started to connect on passes and pushed the ball up the field, while at the same time stopping the Sebring offense from mounting any significant threat.

Neither team managed to score in the first half as the two teams went into the half in a scoreless tie.

Sebring continued to struggle on the offense in the second half as Hardee kept the momentum they had built in the first half.

A few minutes into the second half, the Wildcats broke the scoreless tie on a header by Adam Pazzaglia. Pazzaglia was able to redirect a free kick by Hardee from 40 yards out of the left side.

Pazzaglia on the right side of the net was able to head the ball into the goal to give the Wildcats a 1-0 lead.

Sebring stepped up the intensity, pushing the ball several times into Hardee territory in an attempt to quickly respond to the goal.

The Wildcats were able to stem back the tide and again slowly switch the momentum back to there side.

"Every time we attempted to make a move," said McKelvey, "it seemed like Hardee had a player there to disrupt the offense or intercept the pass attempt. It was like they were reading our mind before we were. They got a couple great shots, especially that header, it was a great shot. Any time between these two teams, it seems the team that scores first usually wins, that is a big difference."

Lake Placid beats Ft. Meade to reach district finals

By MARK PINSON
Staff Writer

LAKE PLACID - Lake Placid rallied from an early two-goal deficit to stun Fort Meade by a score of 7-3 in Tuesday night's semifinals of the Class 2A-District 8 tournament at Roger Scarborough Memorial Field.

The win improved Lake Placid to 14-5-2 on the season and puts the Green Dragons into Friday night's district championship match against Mulberry.

"The team understands we play 40-minute halves and they knew the match wasn't over when we got behind," said second-year Lake Placid coach Alix Jolicoeur. "They kept playing hard, we made some adjustments at halftime and the boys executed very well. It was win and advance or lose and the season was over. Fort Meade is a team we have a lot of respect for and we're excited about playing Mulberry for the district title on Friday night."

Ft. Meade dominated play from the opening whistle and scored twice in the first 10 minutes to take a quick 2-0 lead.

Lake Placid settled down and began to put some offensive pressure on the Miners' goalie.

Ft. Meade was called for a foul in the 18-yard box and Alejandro Villagomez converted the penalty kick to pull the Green Dragons within 2-1 at the half.

Lake Placid's Sam Troutman gained the equalizer on a spectacular goal with 36:07 left in the second half.

The offense continued to click as Orlando Medina made a nice run and drilled a shot past the Ft. Meade goalie to make it 3-2.

Ft. Meade tied it at 3 on a 35-yard free kick midway through the half.

Lake Placid responded as Villagomez scored on a penalty kick to put the Green Dragons on top by a score of 4-3.

Cesar Martinez scored and Diego Orduna drilled another shot past the Miners keeper with less than 10 minutes left in the match.

Lake Placid continued to play hard and controlled the ball to run out the clock on the semifinal victory.

Chip Ganassi Racing wins GT class

Team has incredible day at Rolex 24 in Daytona

Special to Highlands News-Sun

DAYTONA BEACH - Chip Ganassi gave the starting command for the weekend's Rolex 24 At Daytona on Saturday and a day later hoisted a trophy in victory lane courtesy of a phenomenal performance and GT Le Mans (GTLM) class sweep for his two-car team in the historical race. His cars led all but nine of the 783 laps completed.

It was a nice bookend for the championship team owner and good way to start the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship racing season - giving Ganassi his 200th victory in major league auto racing. It the team's record eighth win in the Rolex 24 – the second straight in class, plus six more victories overall.

Lake Placid will play at Mulberry on Friday for the district title. The Panthers swept the two games against the Green Dragons during the season.

"Mulberry is very strong and beat us twice this season," said Jolicoeur. "It's not going to be easy and we're going to have to play well if we want to come away with a win."

No matter the outcome of Friday night's district championship match, both teams are guaranteed to play in the firsy round of the state playoffs.

The district champion earns a home regional quarterfinal match, while the district runner-up must travel to play its first-round game.

The Wildcats iced the game with a few minutes left when Pazzaglia scored his second goal to give Hardee a commanding 2-0 lead.

"Districts is always tough, from top to bottom all the teams are fairly close." said McKelvey.

"Even though we were seeded one, we are not much above the rest of them, it is just a tough district."

Hardee head coach Dennis Aubry did not take this win lightly, stating that Sebring always has a strong and impressive team and that his guys had worked really hard for this game.

"It is difficult to beat a team three times," said Aubry, "they tied us and beat us during the season, this time here we were really determined to get a win."

Aubry also noted that things have to go your way in soccer and they had a nice score early in the second half to give them the lead.

"We told them at the half we have to win the second half and they went out there strong and did it," the Wildcats coach said. "One thing we are good at is applying pressure quickly. We told them that we needed to cutoff the lanes and do not let anything develop and our guys did a good job at that tonight."

The loss ended the Blue Streaks season while Hardee faces Lake Wales for the district championship.

Richard Westbrook and former Indy 500 winner Scott Dixon led its team car, the No. 66 Ford GT, across the finish line for the victory by only 11.180 seconds.

The third-place No. 3 Chevrolet Corvette C7.R finished two laps behind the Fords. And it all made for exciting close-quarter racing during the record-setting event won overall by the No. 5 Action Express Racing Cadillac.

"No team orders, just 24 hours of intense racing," Ganassi driver Westbrook told FOX Sports television with a huge grin as the pits emptied in celebration.

Dixon, who has two overall victories in addition to Sunday's class win, summed up his feelings with a smile as well. "Pretty sweet," he said.

It was also pretty intense – especially in the final couple hours.

The defending Rolex 24 GTLM class champion No. 66 – driven by Joey Hand, Dirk Mueller and Sebastien Bourdais – led the bulk of the race and was listed as the lead class car for 21 of the first 24 hourly results.

But a pit stop for the final driver change – Bourdais to Hand -- took a few seconds longer than normal with a slight hiccup getting the car from neutral into first gear. That was enough to give the team's other car the opportunity to seize the advantage and change the competitive dynamic on track.

The cars were so close for so long, that pit strategy may have ultimately decided the running order.

And as each Ganassi driver confirmed following the race, there were no team orders.

"There was a little bit of strategy playing out between the two teams which was really cool - just to witness the whole thing," said Westbrook, who earned his first Rolex watch.

"Everyone was trying to outsmart one another. We chose to short-fill and they put me out on a nice clean track with new tires, I was able to push and had a nice clean out-lap and built up a lead. That sort of took the pressure off.

"They tried to react to that and do the short-fill next time as you obviously would, but by that point we were on the front and had pretty much sewn it up by then."

Hand, a defending winner of the race, was happy for the Ganassi team although also understandably disappointed as he stood on pit lane following the checkered flag.

"You always want to be the one that wins for the team but man, we still had a great day," Hand said. "The car led a lot of this race and as far as the team goes we've got two cars and finished and first and second. You can't do better than that.

"For Chip Ganassi and Ford Racing, it was a great day and this Ford GT ran flawlessly.

"I'm definitely bummed because I thought we had a good car all day and then had our worst car at the end, unfortunately. The 67 car was really good at the end and we were really good at the beginning."

Everyone on the Ganassi team agreed that keeping the trophy in-house was a tremendous accomplishment and shows how well Ganassi leads the team.

It was an exciting and challenging race – just the right kind of day.

Arcadia hosting 'Art on the River Competition'

Annual art show now in its 6th year

Special to Highlands News-Sun

Celebrate the Peace River and the heritage of our part of Florida with some of the area's top artists. The DeSoto Arts and Humanities Council presents its Sixth annual Art of the River Competition today through Saturday in Arcadia.

"This competition recognizes our unique culture and our special environment," said DAHC President Pamela Davis. "Artists are invited to enter paintings, drawings, sculptures, photos, pottery, fabric art – what ever creative mode they choose to interpret the Peace River." Entries are not limited to pictures of the river and wildlife – they may include historic structures, activities people enjoy such as biking or camping, our cattle and citrus industries, whatever says Southwest Florida to them.

The exhibit is held at South Florida State College's DeSoto Campus, at 2251 N.E. Turner Ave.

Dixon to speak at Lake Wales Museum

Professor to discus journey of African Americans in Florida

Special to Highlands News-Sun

LAKE WALES — The Lake Wales Museum & Cultural Center will host Dr. Anthony Dixon on Friday, Feb. 2 at 6 p.m. Plan to attend for an incredible talk and learn about the journey of the African American people in Florida. Florida has a relationship with African descendants unlike any other state, which has had a direct impact on the growth of Florida. Throughout each period of Florida history there is a significant presence of the African diaspora.

Professor Dixon of Bethune-Cookman University will present a talk and discussion about Florida's relationship with the African American people. Topics will range from 1513 to present including Florida Maroons, Black Seminoles, slavery in Florida, African Americans and Florida reconstruction, tourism, in the citrus industry and the civil rights movement in Florida.

Dixon is the Founder and President of Archival and Historical Research Associates, LLC (AHRA), a public history company. He is also the Archivist and Assistant Professor of History at Bethune-Cookman University and Chairman of the Gullah Geechee Cultural Heritage Corridor Commission (the only national heritage area under the Department of Interior/ National Parks Service in the United States). As a public historian his mission is to help "bridge the gap between academia and the public" while also preparing the next generation of historic preservationists.

Three Days Grace are scheduled to appear in Tampa and Orlando in April.

Ticketmaster math leaves much to be desired

By ALLEN MOODY
Highlands Sun Editor

Despite being on the wrong side of 50 — just barely, thank you — I've refused to grow up in many aspects. I still believe that they Whoopee cushion is one of God's greatest gifts to mankind, would rather watch Captain Caveman than Game of Thrones and still believe vegetables to be abhorrent things — especially mushrooms and those little corn dudes that they try to sneak into your food when your order Chinese. Baby corn, they call them, as though somehow a cute name is going to make up for the fact they're actually nasty little mutants who didn't have what it takes to grow up and become full-fledged corn-on-the-cob.

One other area I've refused to grow up is music, as I still prefer the same type of music that I grew up with, which is simply rock 'n' roll and its many derivatives, ranging from punk rock to heavy metal to grunge to alternative. None of that Adult Contemporary garbage for this middle-aged kid.

I'll take a pass on country, as I don't really care if your wife took your pickup and your dog Roscoe to run off with the tractor repairman. I have enough problems of my own.

Over the past five years or so, one of the bands I listen to on a semi-frequent basis is Three Days Grace. A quick look at the titles of some of their more popular songs, such as "I Hate Everything About You," "Misery Loves My Company" or "Animal I Have Become" lets you know this isn't Englebert Humperdink crooning love songs.

When it was announced that Three Days Grace would be playing in Tampa in April, several of us decided it would be worth making the two-hour drive to see them in person.

It's just not Three Days Grace performing, but the line-up also includes Seether, Shinedown and Fozzy, the band fronted by wrestler Chris Jericho. Even better, tickets were just $45 each. So, I signed into Ticketmaster and bought our three tickets, which naturally came to $189.95. Ticketmaster math at its finest.

Now, for the privilege of buying your tickets from Ticketmaster — a company that's in the business of selling tickets — you get to pay a "service fee" of $12.90 per ticket. That's like Publix charging you an extra $5 to buy groceries at their stores.

Now, the service fee isn't to be confused with the $3.75 "facility charge" for each ticket. Nor should it be mistaken for the $5 "order processing fee," which most likely is the charge for somebody to calculate your service fees and how much you owe for those.

Still, $63.32 per ticket isn't all that bad. It would just have been a little nicer had Ticketmaster not hidden behind the veil of fees and told us what we would paying to begin with.

Feb. 6: Branson on the Road

Branson on the Road has over 20 years of experience of performing at the top theatres in Branson and is the first national touring show named for the famous city. The show delivers the Branson traditions of good, clean, family fun wherever they go… and they go all over the United States and beyond! In the same tradition as the traveling road shows during the glory days of the Grand Ole Opry, the Louisiana Hayride, and the first Branson music shows, Branson on the Road keeps you tapping, laughing, and smiling.

Feb. 8: Amazing Grace

National Broadway musical tour of the awe-inspiring true story of the world's most famous song. A captivating tale of romance, rebellion, and redemption, this radiant production follows one man whose incredible journey ignited a historic wave of change.

Feb. 10: Black Violin

Wil B. and Kev Marcus of Black Violin use their unique style of classical, hip-hop, rock and pop to create a high energy sound that is enjoyed by fans of all ages and backgrounds. Backed on stage by drummer Nat Stokes and DJ SPS, Black Violin delivers an entertaining yet powerful show that encourages people of all ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds to overcome barriers and find what brings us together. Wil and Kev are classically trained string musicians who have been performing and creating music together since high school. The duo has opened for or collaborated with artists such as Kanye West, 50 Cent, Aerosmith, Alicia Keys, Lincoln Park, Wu-Tang Clan, and more. Black Violin has also been the featured artist for multiple ESPN and NFL hosted events, composed the score for a FOX television series in 2016, and made a cameo appearance on HBO's Ballers in 2016. The band places heavy emphasis on music education and student outreach, performing for over 100,000 students in the past 12 months.

Feb. 11: Mickey Gilley: The Original Urban Cowboy

With 17 #1 hits, numerous awards and accolades, Mickey Gilley is a true country legend. Don't miss the chance to see this hit show packed with singers, comedy, and hit songs sure to please all audiences. Selling out with a great show in venues across the country. Local favorite Lee Allcorn opens.

in Arcadia. It is free and will be open to the public today and Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Artists will be competing for more than $1,400 in cash and art merchandise prizes. First, second and third places plus honorable mention will be awarded in each category. Brenda Brunderman will judge the two-dimensional and three-dimensional entries. She has worked in several media including painting, pottery, stone and stained glass. Mark Renz, who will judge photography, is a talented wildlfe and nature photographer, as well as an author and expert in Florida's fossils.

An Artists Reception will be held Friday evening from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Soft music and light refreshments set the atmosphere for guests to view all the artwork and talk with many of the artists about their work. Artwork can be purchased Friday evening, or any time during the exhibition.

Winners of the art show will be announced Friday, Feb. 2 during the Artists Reception. Visitors will vote for the People's Choice award which will be determined by noon on Feb. 3.

On Saturday, visitors will also enjoy the Rio de la Paz Festival from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., which will include a variety of vendors and displays. Among the delights on the campus green are garden herbs, handmade handbags, garden charms, jewelry, notecards and photos, plus authors with books for sale. Inside, artists will have a variety of work for sale. There will also be displays from nonprofits such as Florida Trails and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

All of the exhibits and displays are free and open to the public; on Saturday, for the Rio de la Paz Festival, a $3 parking donation is suggested, to benefit the SFSC Ambassadors student group who will be directing parking.

During the Saturday festival, DAHC will hold a Coffee 'n Canvas painting session. Jane O'Neal will lead the group in painting a charming and colorful tropical frog. DAHC provides everything you need – brushes, paints and canvas — to create your own painting to take home with you. The cost is only $25/person. To reserve a seat, email desotoartscouncilinfo@gmail.com, or call 863-703-0373. Walk-ins are permitted as long as space is available.

The event will also include a display of beautiful handmade quilts — and these are not necessarily your grandmother's patchworks. Local quilters are creating some beautiful art of their own with fabric and thread, and you are sure to enjoy seeing these lush pieces by creative quilters.

IF YOU GO

For more information, visit www.desotoartscouncil.org or call 863-703-0373.

In addition to art, colorful handmade quilts were displayed during last year's show, including this flamingo-themed beauty. Quilts will again be exhibited along with the art following the Florida theme.

Train carrying GOP lawmakers strikes trash truck; 1 killed

By ALAN FRAM and HEIDI BROWN
Associated Press

CROZET, Va. — A train carrying dozens of Republican members of Congress to a strategy retreat in the countryside slammed into a garbage truck in rural Virginia on Wednesday, killing one person in the vehicle and sending several lawmaker-doctors rushing to help the injured.

No serious injuries were reported aboard the chartered Amtrak train, which set out from the nation's capital with lawmakers, family members and staff for the luxury Greenbrier resort in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. At least two other people in the truck were reported seriously hurt.

The collision happened about 11:20 a.m. in Crozet, about 125 miles southwest of Washington, tearing the truck in two, crumpling the nose of the locomotive and scattering trash alongside the tracks.

Rep. Robert Pittenger of North Carolina said he was standing at the train's refreshment stand, waiting to be served a soft drink, when he felt "an enormous slam. ... It was a huge jolt. We all hung on to whatever we had."

He said he looked out the window and saw a big pile of garbage, and it appeared the train had pushed the truck for a few hundred yards.

Authorities gave no details on the cause of the wreck, which took place at a crossing protected by gates, flashing lights, bells and warning signs. The National Transportation Safety Board sent a team to investigate.

Benny Layne, on whose property the truck landed, said the crossing arms had been known to malfunction, sometimes coming down even though no train was approaching. Sometimes, he said, they stayed down for hours.

He said motorists would get out of their cars to help guide other motorists around the malfunctioning arms so they could cross the tracks.

"A guy was up here just yesterday or the day before taking a look at them," he said.

Carrie Brown, human resources manager at Buckingham Branch Railroad, which leases the stretch of track and is responsible for maintenance, said she was unaware of any problems with equipment at the crossing.

Florida Rep. Neal Dunn, a former Army surgeon, said he and other lawmakers who are doctors joined other passengers who are nurses or paramedics and jumped out with the basic medical gear they had. They broke into three teams to help the injured people in the truck, he said.

"The first gentleman was somebody who had really, really, really devastating injuries. We did try to resuscitate, but ultimately you had to realize it wasn't possible," Dunn said. He said another man in the truck was critically injured and a third was seriously hurt.

Rep. Phil Roe, a doctor from Tennessee, said the truck driver was killed instantly.

Sen. Bill Cassidy of Louisiana and his wife, both doctors, were among those who came to the rescue. He said he helped a man from the truck who was badly injured.

"My role was quite simple: I picked up his feet so the blood in his feet would go to his heart and his brain," Cassidy said.

Sen. Jeff Flake of Arizona said seeing the lawmakers who are doctors tending to the injured reminded him of

Once sacred, FBI becomes unlikely target of GOP fury

By ERIC TUCKER and SADIE GURMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — It's rare to see the law-and-order Republican Party attack America's top law enforcement agency, which traditionally has drawn more ire from civil rights-minded Democrats.

But as special counsel Robert Mueller's Russia investigation intensifies, President Donald Trump and his GOP supporters have unleashed their fury on the FBI and Justice Department, institutions they once held sacred.

They point to what they see as a number of anti-Trump biases. Democrats say it's an effort intended to undermine Mueller's investigation into possible obstruction of justice and Trump campaign ties to election meddling by Moscow.

A look at the Republican grievances and how Democrats have rushed to defend the FBI and Justice Department:

Republicans claim the FBI and Justice Department used false grounds to conduct surveillance as part of the Russia investigation. A classified memo prepared by Republicans on the House Intelligence Committee tries to make that case. The committee chairman is Rep. Devin Nunes,

Florida Senate backs Bethune statue for U.S. Capitol

By JIM TURNER
News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — A statue of civil-rights leader Mary McLeod Bethune is halfway to its supporters' goal of replacing the likeness of a Confederate general as a representative of Florida in the U.S. Capitol.

The Florida Senate voted 37-0 on Wednesday to pass a measure (SB 472) to have Bethune's statue replace Confederate Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith at the National Statuary Hall in Washington.

Among those voting in support was Sen. Dennis Baxley, an Ocala Republican and descendant of a Confederate soldier who had opposed changing the statues because of concerns about "dishonoring" Smith.

Baxley said his vote Wednesday was due to the manner in which bill sponsor Sen. Perry Thurston, D-Fort Lauderdale, handled the proposal. That included making a change last week to require the Smith statue be acquired and displayed by the Florida Division of Cultural Affairs.

"While I still have some heartburn about disrespecting Gen. Kirby Smith, just because of history that we didn't live, you showed respect," Baxley told Thurston. "And I am committed to finding him (Smith) a place of honor here, because I think we should all honor those that come before us."

The proposal to make Bethune the first African-American woman to be honored in the national hall awaits action by the Florida House, where an identical bill (HB 139) has started moving forward.

"Bethune's life and values illustrate the best of Florida," Thurston said, adding that placing her likeness in the hall "will send a powerful signal to the world that Floridians recognize our rich history and its present-day diversity."

Bethune, who in 1904 founded what became Bethune-Cookman University in Daytona Beach, also served as president of the National Association of Colored Women, was an appointee of President Herbert Hoover to the White House Conference on Child Health and was an adviser to President Franklin Roosevelt.

The university has offered to pay for the Bethune statute, but the cost of transporting both statues has yet to be addressed.

Sen. Bobby Powell, D-West Palm Beach, described Bethune as "the mother of the struggle."

Stone tools in India suggest earlier human exit from Africa

By MALCOLM RITTER
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK — Just a week after scientists reported evidence that our species left Africa earlier than we thought, another discovery is suggesting the date might be pushed back further.

Homo sapiens arose in Africa at least 300,000 years ago and left to colonize the globe. Scientists think there were several dispersals from Africa, not all equally successful. Last week's report of a human jaw showed some members of our species had reached Israel by 177,000 to 194,000 years ago.

Now comes a discovery in India of stone tools, showing a style that has been associated elsewhere with our species. They were fashioned from 385,000 years ago to 172,000 years ago, showing evidence of continuity and development over that time. That starting point is a lot earlier than scientists generally think Homo sapiens left Africa.

This tool style has also been attributed to Neanderthals and possibly other species. So it's impossible to say whether the tools were made by Homo sapiens or some evolutionary cousin, say researchers who reported the finding Wednesday in the journal Nature .

"We are very cautious on this point" because no human fossils were found with the tools, several authors added in a statement.

It's not clear how much the tool development reflects arrival of populations or ideas from outside India, versus being more of a local development, said one author, Shanti Pappu of the Sharma Centre for Heritage Education in Chennai, India.

The tool-making style was a change from older stone tools found at the site, featuring a shift to smaller flakes, for example.

Michael Petraglia, an archaeologist who specializes in human evolution in Asia but didn't participate in the work, said he did not think the tools show that our species had left Africa so long ago.

"I simply don't buy it," said Petraglia of the Max Planck Institute for the Science of Human History in Jena, Germany.

Instead, he said, he believes one of our evolutionary cousins in India developed the tool style independently of outside influence. The tools at the site northwest of Chennai in southeastern India are closely related to the older tool-making style there and seem to represent a transition, he said.

The idea that they reflect knowledge brought in from elsewhere would be tough to prove in India, he said. The country has few well-studied archaeological sites and only one fossil find from this period, from a forerunner of Homo sapiens that was associated with the earlier style of tool-making, Petraglia said.

CDC director resigns over financial conflicts of interest

By MIKE STOBBE
AP Medical Writer

NEW YORK — The director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention resigned Wednesday over financial conflicts of interest involving her investments in health care businesses.

Dr. Brenda Fitzgerald's complex financial investments presented conflicts that made it difficult to do her job, according to a statement from the Department of Health and Human Services, which oversees the CDC. In an ethics agreement filed in September, Fitzgerald had said that legal and contractual restrictions prevented her from selling the two investments.

The new HHS head, Alex Azar, who took office on Monday, accepted her resignation Wednesday after discussing the investments with her and their effect on her work.

Her investments were "limiting her ability to complete all of her duties as CDC Director," HHS spokesman Matt Lloyd said in the statement. "Due to the nature of these financial interests, Dr. Fitzgerald could not divest from them in a definitive time period."

Brenda Fitzgerald, the director of the nation's top public health agency, has resigned because of financial conflicts of interest.

Fitzgerald's resignation follows a news report Tuesday that her financial manager bought tobacco and drug stocks after she took the job in July, while selling other stocks that posed a conflict of interest.

Before she became the CDC's chief, she owned a range of stocks, including holdings in beer and soda companies, the tobacco company Philip Morris International, and a number of health care companies. She said she sold the stocks, but in December, U.S. Sen. Patty Murray (D-Wash.) wrote Fitzgerald saying she was concerned about the unresolved financial holdings.

In the ethics agreement, Fitzgerald discussed long-term investments in an electronic medical records company and a biotech startup that focuses on early cancer detection. She said in the agreement that she would not participate in matters that might affect those companies. Those investments prevented her from talking about cancer and prescription drug monitoring programs, Murray wrote.

On Tuesday, Politico reported that a month after becoming CDC director, Fitzgerald's financial manager bought new stocks, including shares in Japan Tobacco and the drug companies Bayer and Merck & Co. Those stocks were later sold, Politico reported.

Fitzgerald could not be reached for comment. Her predecessor, Dr. Tom Frieden, said he talked to her after the Politico story came out, and Fitzgerald told him she didn't know about the purchase of the new stocks when they were made.

"I have spoken with Dr. Fitzgerald and believe her when she says that she was unaware that a tobacco company investment had been made, she understands that any affiliation between the tobacco industry and public health is unacceptable, and that when she learned of it, she directed that it be sold," Frieden said in a statement.

Guantanamo to demolish camp built to send message of 'hope'

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Miami Herald

GUANTANAMO BAY NAVAL BASE, Cuba — The military has put a federal court on notice that it plans to demolish the Detention Center's first communal, prisoner-of-war-style prison, a site where guards posted President Barack Obama's Guantanamo closure order on an outdoor bulletin board and detainees saw it fade in the sunshine.

Camp 4, as it was called, was opened in 2003 as a bunkhouse-style lockup for up to 175 captives. It was the first place where war-on-terror detainees could eat and pray together, kick around a soccer ball and take classes. It opened as a pre-release site to prepare prisoners approved for repatriation, but eventually became a perk for cooperative captives.

As it was being built, Army Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Miller, then the Detention Center commander, said it would send a message of "hope" to the more than 600 captives held at Guantanamo. "Medium-security is a recognition of cooperation and adherence to the rules," the general told reporters at the time. "It gives them hope. Hope is of enormous importance."

Captives came to call it the "Big Sky" camp because it was the first site where they could walk unshackled in open spaces, albeit surrounded by fences and barbed wire. It was closed for a time in 2006 after detainees resisted squads of guards coming in to search their belongings after a double suicide attempt in an adjacent single-cell prison block at Camp Delta.

In a notice filed Tuesday with the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., the current prison commander, Rear Adm. Edward Cashman, said that Camp 4 closed in 2011 and has "deteriorated into a state of disrepair." He said the cleared site might be useful for administrative space in a consolidated Detention Center Zone.

Hours later, President Donald Trump revoked Obama's closure order and said the United States would add captives to the 41-prisoner Detention Center "when lawful and necessary to protect the nation." Obama never added a single captive to the prison and downsized it from about 240 detainees through transfers that enable consolidation of the facilities.

NATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

Manson corpse case on ice for another month in heirs dispute

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The corpse of Charles Manson will remain in a morgue for at least another month before would-be heirs can argue in court over who gets his remains.

A Kern County Superior Court commissioner on Wednesday set a March 7 hearing in the dispute.

A son of Manson, a grandson and a pen pal who collected and sold Manson memorabilia are among those who have filed competing claims.

A Los Angeles judge ruled Friday that Manson's estate should be litigated there because it's where the cult leader lived when he was convicted of orchestrating the 1969 killings of pregnant actress Sharon Tate and eight others.

The same judge rejected hearing the remains case because Manson died in Kern County and spent his last years in state prison in Kings County.

National Book Awards add translation category

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Book Foundation announced Wednesday that it has started a category for best translated literature, awarding a work of fiction or nonfiction translated into English and released in the U.S. The new prize should provide a boost for authors from overseas who have struggled to catch on in the U.S.

The National Book Awards for decades had four competitive categories: fiction, nonfiction, young people's literature and poetry. The foundation also gives out two honorary prizes at the annual November ceremony.

Royal audience as SpaceX launches satellite for Luxembourg

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — SpaceX had a royal audience as it launched a satellite for Luxembourg.

The Falcon 9 rocket blasted off late Wednesday afternoon from Cape Canaveral, Florida, hoisting GovSat-1 for the government of Luxembourg and SES, the European country's prime satellite operator. The satellite will support both military and civilian security efforts.

Witnessing the launch were Luxembourg's Prince Guillaume and his wife, Stephanie. The country's prime minister, Xavier Bettel, and other high-ranking officials also were present.

The rocket's first-stage booster — which also flew last spring — was not recovered this time. Instead, it dropped into the Atlantic.

With GovSat-1 now in orbit, SpaceX can focus on next week's debut of its new, big Falcon Heavy rocket. The test flight is scheduled for Tuesday.

Father continues fight to change police tactics

MILWAUKEE – Since his namesake son was fatally shot by Wisconsin police in 2004, Michael Bell has waged a campaign for greater accountability when police use lethal force.

In November, Bell released online a 20-minute video alleging a police coverup.

The Kenosha, Wis., officers who killed Bell's son were cleared of wrongdoing after an internal investigation by officers within their department.

Bell's video, "Forensically Impossible: How a Police Coverup Occurs," uses depositions, video recreations and other evidence from the civil case to try to bolster the allegation that a police coverup occurred after the younger Bell was shot.

Kenosha officials denied a coverup in Bell's case.

In 2010, the city settled a lawsuit with Bell's family for $1.75 million. His father put much of the money toward efforts to change police procedures.

Bell's activism led to a first-of-its-kind law that requires outside investigation when people die in police custody.

In a letter to one of Bell's supporters last month, Wisconsin Attorney General Brad Schimel said that although he appreciates the elder Bell's work on the custody death law and sympathized with his loss, there is no way to legally hold the officers accountable.

"Michael Bell's death is tragic, but 13 years later, I cannot undo the way it was investigated," Schimel wrote. "The most I can do is commit to ensuring our investigations of similar events are unbiased and thorough."

The state attorney general noted that one of the officers involved has died and the statute of limitations on perjury charges has run out.

"There are some facts that will never be known, because all of these years later, there is simply no way to know them because some evidence is not available, recollections are not fresh, and some witnesses are not available," Schimel wrote.

A retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, Bell works with a group of experts in policing, aviation and other fields that carry life-and-death risk to use airplane crash investigations as a model for reviewing officer-involved shootings. The approach focuses on learning from mistakes to prevent them from being repeated.

Bell's video was released online in feeds targeting Wisconsin, New York, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Chicago and Minneapolis.

In response to Trump, Democrats argue for middle class

By MATTHEW DALY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Soaring stock prices under President Donald Trump have boosted investor portfolios and corporate profits but have not eased the economic anxieties of middle-class families, Massachusetts Rep. Joe Kennedy III said Tuesday night in the Democratic response to Trump's first State of the Union address.

In calling on Americans to reject the "chaos" of the Trump era, Kennedy also outlined a Democratic vision that promises a "better deal for all who call this country home."

Democrats support a higher minimum wage, paid leave for employees and affordable child care, among other priorities, Kennedy said.

"We choose pensions that are solvent, trade pacts that are fair, roads and bridges that won't rust away, and good education you can afford," he said in a speech from a vocational high school in Fall River, Massachusetts, a onetime manufacturing hub now struggling with high unemployment and other problems.

Kennedy, 37, a three-term congressman and grandson of former Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, has argued that Democrats should focus on the economic concerns of working-class voters who bolted the party in the 2016 elections.

Fall River, home to many blue-collar workers, "has faced its share of storms," Kennedy said. "But people here are tough. They fight for each other. They pull for their city."

In an apparent reference to Trump, Kennedy said that "bullies may land a punch" and leave a mark but that they have "never managed to match the strength and spirit of a people united in defense of their future."

In a hard-hitting speech for a political newcomer, Kennedy decried a rollback of civil rights protections, noting proposals that target Muslims, transgender people and others.

The Trump administration "isn't just targeting the laws that protect us — they are targeting the very idea that we are all worthy of protection," Kennedy said.

Trump's record is "a rebuke of our highest American ideal: the belief that we are all worthy, we are all equal and we all count — in the eyes of our law and our leaders, our God and our government," Kennedy said.

The red-haired Kennedy was elected to the House in 2012, returning the family to Congress two years after the retirement of Rhode Island Rep. Patrick Kennedy, the son of Joe Kennedy III's great-uncle Ted.

Known mostly for his famous last name, Kennedy's selection has been criticized by some as tone-deaf at a time when sexual harassment of women and the Black Lives Matter movement are at the forefront of American politics. Speaking without a suit coat in front of a rebuilt car and an enthusiastic audience, Kennedy tried to defuse that Tuesday by citing the (hash)MeToo movement and declaring, "Black lives matter."

In a nod to "Dreamers," the 700,000 young immigrants brought here as children and now here illegally, Kennedy spoke in Spanish as he said Dreamers are a part of America's story and promised that Democrats will not walk away from them.

Kennedy said Trump and his administration were breaking a core promise of America — that everyone will be treated equally under the law. He accused the administration of "callously" appraising Americans' worth and deciding "who makes the cut and who can be bargained away."

In this July 26, 2017, photo, Rep. Joe Kennedy, D-Mass., smiles on Capitol Hill in Washington. Kennedy, grandson of Robert F. Kennedy, gave the Democratic response to President Donald Trump's State of the Union speech.

Under the leadership of Trump and congressional Republicans, Americans are "bombarded with one false choice after another," Kennedy said. "Coal miners or single moms. Rural communities or inner cities. The coast or the heartland."

Democrats "choose both," Kennedy said.

A former Peace Corps volunteer, Kennedy was an assistant district attorney in two Massachusetts districts before being elected to Congress. He has focused on economic and social justice in Congress and has advocated on behalf of vocational schools and community colleges and championed issues such as transgender rights and marriage equality.

To illustrate that message, Kennedy invited U.S. Army Staff Sgt. Patricia King, a transgender woman, as his guest to the State of the Union. King, an infantry squad leader at Fort Lewis, Washington, was the first person to have gender reassignment surgery paid for by the military.

Kennedy's speech was one of several Democratic responses. Elizabeth Guzman, one of the first Latinas elected to the Virginia House of Delegates, delivered a Spanish-language response, while former Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders spoke on Facebook Live and Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., spoke on BET.

the shooting of Rep. Steve Scalise at a GOP baseball practice last June.

"I thought then I never want to experience a day like this again," Flake said. "Unfortunately, it came too soon."

Officials gave varying figures on the number hurt. But Amtrak said two crew members and three passengers were taken to a hospital with minor injuries.

Minnesota Rep. Jason Lewis' staff tweeted that the first-term congressman was among those taken to the hospital and was later discharged after suffering a concussion. Others aboard the train reported bumps, bruises and sore joints.

The GOP policy retreat, an annual event, was scheduled to last three days and feature speeches from President Donald Trump and Vice President Mike Pence. By early afternoon, lawmakers were boarding buses to resume their trip.

Later Wednesday, Pence told Republicans at the party retreat that he knows "it's been a harrowing day for all of you." Pence, a former House member, said he has fond memories of the retreat and the train rides back and forth. "Just know our hearts are with you," Pence said.

Pence was the featured speaker Wednesday night at the GOP retreat. Trump was to address lawmakers Thursday.

Rep. James Comer of Kentucky said about 100 Republican lawmakers were on the train when the crash made him jump out of his seat.

"I looked out the side of the window and then I could see a truck, just in pieces out the side of the window," Comer said. He said Capitol police officers quickly jumped off the train but came back and asked for any doctors to help.

Other doctor-lawmakers who assisted included Reps. Michael Burgess of Texas, Phil Roe of Tennessee, Larry Bucshon of Indiana and Roger Marshall of Kansas, according to those aboard.

House Speaker Paul Ryan of Wisconsin was on the train and was unhurt, aides said.

FBI

R-Calif., is a close Trump ally.

Committee Republicans, who hold a majority, voted this week to release the memo. That was unusual move because the committee usually goes out of its way to protect classified information.

Democrats say the memo is a selectively edited group of Republican talking points aimed at sidetracking the committee's own investigation into Russian meddling. They have prepared their own memo in response, but Republicans voted to block its immediate public release.

Trump has signaled that he wants to release the Republican document. The Justice Department is urging him not to do so, a further point of contention with congressional Republicans. On Wednesday, the FBI released its first public statement on the issue, saying it has "grave concerns about material omissions of fact that fundamentally impact the memo's accuracy."

The text messages

The Justice Department has been turning over to Congress thousands of text messages involving an FBI agent who was removed from Mueller's team following the discovery of derogatory comments about Trump. The communications surfaced during a watchdog's inquiry into the FBI's handling of the Hillary Clinton email investigation.

Many of the texts between the agent, Peter Strzok, and an FBI lawyer, Lisa Page, included their observations of the 2016 election and sometimes colorful opinions of Trump, Clinton and other politicians. Strzok also worked on the Clinton email case; Page left Mueller's team before the texts were discovered.

Some Republicans have seized on the communications as proof that the FBI is anti-Trump and Mueller's probe is tainted. FBI Director Christopher Wray has denied that.

Hillary Clinton email

The most pronounced and long-lasting grievance took root in the summer of 2016, when then-FBI Director James Comey announced his determination that Clinton should not face criminal charges in connection with her use of a private email server.

For the majority of his extraordinary public statement at FBI headquarters, Comey appeared to be laying out a case for prosecution on charges of mishandling classified information. He criticized Clinton and her aides for being "extremely careless" with sensitive material. Comey also said that contrary to Clinton's repeated public assertions, dozens of email chains reviewed by agents contained classified information at the time they were sent and received.

Yet at the end of his announcement, Comey contended that "no reasonable prosecutor" would bring such a case in part because there was no evidence that anyone involved had intended to break the law.

The decision infuriated Republicans, not least because Comey appeared to substitute his own judgment in place of that of career prosecutors ultimately tasked with deciding whether charges were merited. Republicans were further angered because the statute that Comey cited did not require criminal intent, even though Comey said the Justice Department had historically required it for prosecution.

Several developments involving senior career FBI and Justice Department officials — among them, Attorney General Loretta Lynch's impromptu airport tarmac meeting with Bill Clinton, and campaign contributions from a Clinton ally that flowed to the wife of FBI Deputy Andrew McCabe — only fueled Republican suspicion that Clinton was afforded special treatment.

Democrats, however, see the exact opposite. They argue that Comey undermined the Clinton campaign by first criticizing her while acknowledging he didn't have a basis for charges, then briefly reopening the investigation in the final days of the 2016 campaign following the discovery of a trove of emails.

STATUE

image in your likeness, then sometimes you're not inspired to go there or get there," Powell, an African-American, said.

Sen. Audrey Gibson, D-Jacksonville, said the change in statues should not be seen as disrespecting Smith but as a change to reflect the ingenuity of Floridians.

"I think Mary McLeod Bethune demonstrated that, starting the school with $1.50 and five little girls," Gibson said.

Florida's other representative in the statuary hall is John Gorrie, widely considered the father of air conditioning. Smith has been one of Florida's representatives since 1922.

The Legislature voted in 2016 to replace the Smith statue during a nationwide backlash against Confederate symbols in the wake of the 2015 shooting deaths of nine African-American worshippers at a historic black church in Charleston, S.C.

Despite agreeing to remove Smith, lawmakers were unable to come up with a replacement during the 2017 session, as the House did not move forward with suggestions from the Great Floridians Program within the state Division of Historic Resources.

Bethune was the top recommendation, while others were George Washington Jenkins, Jr., the founder of the Publix grocery store chain, and Marjory Stoneman Douglas, the environmentalist and author best known for her 1947 work "The Everglades: River of Grass."

The West Point-educated Smith had few ties to the state as an adult. After surrendering — the last Confederate general to do so with a major army under his command — and later taking an oath of loyalty so he could return from Cuba, Smith spent his remaining years as an educator in Tennessee.

Owner receives letter granting dog unemployment benefits

SAUGATUCK, Mich. (AP) — Michael Ryder had been approved for $360 every week in Michigan unemployment benefits — until the state learned he'd been dogging it at the Detroit-area restaurant chain where he supposedly worked.

Ryder is a German Shepherd owned by attorney Michael Haddock on the other side of the state in Saugatuck.

WZZM-TV reports that Haddock received a benefits letter addressed to "Michael Ryder" from Michigan's Unemployment Insurance Agency. The station says Haddock contacted the agency about the letter.

The agency says its computer system sent the letter, but the claim later was flagged as suspicious and denied.

Investigations administrator Tim Kolar wrote in a tongue-in-cheek email that he knows "first-hand it is rare for 'man's best friend' to contribute financially to the household and that will continue in this instance."

Apple to respond to US probes into slowdown of old iPhones

By MICHAEL LIEDTKE
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

SAN FRANCISCO — Apple is cooperating with U.S. government inquiries into its secret slowdown of older iPhones, further complicating its efforts to move past an issue that irked customers whose devices bogged down.

The company acknowledged the probes late Tuesday after both The Wall Street Journal and Bloomberg reported the U.S. Justice Department and Securities and Exchange Commission were investigating how investors have been affected by Apple's handling of the situation.

A software update released in 2016 began to slow down older iPhones when their batteries weakened to prevent them from abruptly turning off. But Apple didn't fully disclose what it was doing until December 2017.

Apple has since apologized for not being more forthcoming and is replacing batteries on older iPhones for $29, a $50 discount.

The Cupertino, California, company is also working on another software update that will give consumers the option of turning off the slowdown feature, if they are willing to risk a sudden shutdown. That free update, due out this spring, also will include a feature measuring the battery's strength.

In its latest statement, Apple reiterated its belief that it was acting in the best interest of its customers by extending the lives of their iPhones. Many consumers, however, remain convinced that the company torpedoed the older iPhones to prod them to upgrade to the latest — and more expensive — models released in last fall.

"We have never — and would never — do anything to intentionally shorten the life of any Apple product, or degrade the user experience to drive customer upgrades," Apple said. "Our goal has always been to create products that our customers love."

APPLE PHOTO

Older iPhones are impacted by slowdown.

Despite its contrition, Apple is still grappling with the fallout from its slowdown of older iPhones.

Authorities in France are in the midst of an investigation whether Apple violated laws protecting consumers in that country and lawyers in the U.S. are pursuing a variety of class-action lawsuits on behalf of millions of consumers.

Meanwhile, the head of the commerce committee in the U.S. Senate had previously sent a letter to Apple demanding more information about the iPhone slowdown. Apple was supposed to respond by Jan. 23, but was granted an extension and is now expected to answer by the end of this week, said Frederick Hill, a spokesman for Sen. John Thune, a South Dakota Republican who confronted the company.

Both the Justice Department and the SEC have declined to comment on their investigations, leaving it unclear what piqued their interest.

Apple's delayed disclosure of the iPhone slowdown doesn't appear to have done significant harm to investors so far.

Just a few weeks after Apple disclosed it had been slowing down older iPhones, the company's stock surged to an all-time high, despite consumer outrage. The shares have retreated in the past week, but that downturn has been driven by concerns about lackluster demand for its high-priced iPhone X.

Chinese stocks on the NYSE

Dear Mr. Berko: In January 2015, I invested $200,000 in Chinese stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The Chinese stock market was as hot as a firecracker, and people I know were making big money quickly. Needless to say, it didn't work out for me. I bought 41 stocks, and my original $200,000 investment is now worth $127,000. Could you please look over my portfolio and tell me what to sell and what to keep? — GL, Kankakee, Ill.

Dear GL: Most Chinese IPOs are generating unexpected losses for investors. The route has discouraged many Chinese firms from going public in the U.S. and listing their shares on the New York Stock Exchange. Last year, 17 Chinese firms debuted on the Big Board. Accordingly, 11 of those firms are trading below their initial public offering prices, with half of them plunging within a month of their listing. For example, your Qudian (QD-$12.30) — a $1.5 billion-revenue outfit that, with its subsidiaries, runs online consumer finance platforms for the People's Republic of China — has been a bust. QD lends small sums of cash plus merchandise credits that have retail value. QD, among China's largest IPOs, raised $900 million when it came public at $35 a share last October. It now trades 60 percent lower. Your money's gone.

QD and numerous other Chinese stocks are paper tigers. China uses accounting systems from the Middle Ages. Chinese concepts of return on investment, net profit margins, operating margins, shareholders' equity, gross profits, depreciation, return on total capital, free cash flow et al. are ludicrous. Few American companies could survive using Chinese production and management concepts, wherein most production is purchased by the government or government cooperatives, below product costs, and then retailed at lower prices to China's citizens. Why in the name of all that is good and wonderful would one care to own stock in a Chinese company that reports its financial statements in renminbi and is guided by a menagerie of feckless Chinese securities laws that would cause the NYSE members, most members of Congress and our Securities and Exchange Commission to implode in laughter? Chinese tax laws, Chinese labor laws and Chinese bookkeeping are a farce. I want my numbers to be explained in English — not in one of the 200-plus Chinese dialects, which are Greek to me.

Chinese managers are accustomed to bribery; they expect it and they get it. Chinese companies have little care about what a product costs to make, because the government subsidizes solar panels, paint, tires, electronic games, appliances, auto production and raw materials and controls interest rates. There's no transparency, and financial data are incomplete and often inaccurate. There are frequent reports of company suppliers being owned and controlled by current management in order to milk and maximize personal profits. And there are numerous commodity bubbles in the Chinese economy, purposefully created by the government and purposefully ignored by the government. And if just one of those bubbles were to burst, it could easily damage our global economy. Bribery is not only expected in China but also demanded; it's a national pastime.

China Zenix Auto International (ZX-$1.42) was $5.35 a share in 2016. ReneSola (SOL-$2.60) was recently $5.20 a share. China New Borun (BORN-$1.51) traded last year at $4.70. Yingli Green Energy Holding Co. (YGE-$1.97) was $66 a few years ago. Chinese bonds are in a mad scramble, and Chinese exchange-traded funds seem to have increased their volatility. Many Chinese companies that lack integrity are being asked to leave the U.S. market.

I don't know much about your 41 Chinese stocks, which include China Cord Blood, China Hydroelectric, Zuoan Fashion Ltd., WuXi AppTec, E-House Holdings and Nam Tai Property. They're not covered by Morningstar, Value Line, BTIG Research, Tigress Financial Partners, Nomura Securities, GF Securities, Ping An Securities, Haitong Securities or Guosen Securities.

You are down about $73,000 from your $200,000 investment in Chinese stocks in January 2015. That's not good! I recommend that you take this portfolio to the China desk at Bank of America Merrill Lynch, because there's no flaming way in paradise that I could analyze all that crap and give you a knowledgeable response.

Please address your financial questions to Malcolm Berko, P.O. Box 8303, Largo, FL 33775, or email him at mjberko@yahoo.com.

STOCKS LISTING CHANGE - REQUESTS WELCOME!

The Sun Newspaper is tweaking the way stocks are listed in the daily paper. We will continue to run a wide range of stocks, but we're trying to eliminate stocks our readers don't want. If you do not see your stock in the paper, please let us know and we will put it in the listings. Email the name of the company and the symbol to nlane@sun-herald.com, or call 941-206-1138. You can leave the stock name and symbol on voice mail. When requesting a stock, please include where you live so we can run the listing in the appropriate edition. If you reach voice mail, please leave your contact information so your call can be returned.

UK lawmakers agree to leave Parliament for repairs

By JILL LAWLESS
Associated Press

LONDON — This is not a metaphor: Britain's Parliament is a mess.

The 19th-century building is crumbling, leaky, infested with vermin and riddled with asbestos.

After years of dithering, lawmakers voted Wednesday to move out of the building to allow several years of major repairs. The plan will cost billions, but experts say the alternative could be catastrophic.

"This debate arguably should have taken place about 40 years ago," House of Commons leader Andrea Leadsom told lawmakers, adding that the building "is in dire need of repair."

Legislators voted to back a call for lawmakers and staff to leave the building by the mid-2020s — a plan known as a "full decant" of Parliament. It's estimated the repairs will take six years and cost about 3.5 billion pounds ($5 billion).

Workers stand on scaffolding for repairs on the Houses of Parliament in London on Wednesday.

The decision came after warnings about the risks of delaying.

"It might be an exaggeration to say that Parliament is a death trap," Conservative lawmaker Damian Green said. "But it's not a wild exaggeration."

Experts have issued increasingly urgent warnings about the state of the neo-Gothic Parliament building, one of London's most famous landmarks and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Reports have sounded alarm bells about leaky roofs, temperamental steam heating, antiquated plumbing, crumbling stonework and ventilation shafts clogged with old pipes, wires and asbestos.

Wednesday's vote backed a 2016 report commissioned by parliamentary authorities which said the building is at risk of a flood or fire that could leave it uninhabitable. The issue still has to be considered by the House of Lords, Parliament's upper chamber.

Caroline Shenton, former director of the parliamentary archives and author of "The Day Parliament Burned Down," said that without major repair work, Britain could lose "the most iconic, famous building in the country."

"It could just simply be a utilities failure that brings the whole thing to a halt — the electricity goes, the water stops working, the loos stop flushing," she said. "But something more catastrophic could happen."

African leaders nearly demanded public apology from Trump

By ELIAS MESERET
Associated Press

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — African leaders this week came close to demanding that President Donald Trump publicly apologize for his vulgar remark about the continent "that defies all forms of diplomatic etiquette," according to a draft declaration obtained by The Associated Press.

The draft, created during an African Union summit on Sunday and Monday, says heads of state and government are "deeply appalled" by Trump's reported comparison of African countries to a dirty toilet.

It warns that the strategic partnership between Africa and the U.S. is at risk because of Trump's "racist and xenophobic behavior."

The African leaders appear to have changed their mind on issuing the draft declaration because of a Trump letter to them last week pledging his "deep respect" and saying Secretary of State Rex Tillerson would make an "extended visit" to the continent in March, his first in that role. The letter emerged after Trump met with Rwanda's president and new African Union chairman Paul Kagame at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland last week.

Many African leaders had been outraged by Trump's comment last month, after nearly a year of little attention by his administration to the world's second most populous continent. Concerns have been widespread over proposed deep cuts to U.S. foreign aid and a shift from humanitarian assistance to counterterrorism.

Trump has said he didn't use the vulgar language, while others present say he did.

Ahead of the summit, the chairman of the African Union Commission, Moussa Faki Mahamat, declared that "Africa cannot keep quiet" about Trump's "shocking" remarks. But by Monday he had toned down his stance, telling reporters only that African leaders had received a "letter of correspondence" from Trump and "we've taken due note of it."

The draft declaration, however, shows how the 55-nation continental body came close to speaking out.

Polish Senate debates Holocaust bill that has angered Israel

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Senate has begun debating a law regulating Holocaust speech which has sparked a diplomatic dispute with Israel.

Senate approval, expected late Wednesday or Thursday, will put the controversial bill a step closer to becoming law. It must still be signed into law by the president, who supports it.

Poland's conservative ruling Law and Justice party authored the bill. It foresees up to three years of prison for any intentional attempt to falsely attribute the crimes of Nazi Germany to the Polish state or people.

Law and Justice says it is fighting the usage of phrases like "Polish death camps" to refer to death camps operated by Nazi Germany.

Israel sees an attempt to whitewash the role some Poles played in the killing of Jews during WW II.

Oil giant Shell wins 9 blocks in Mexican deep water bidding

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Royal Dutch Shell has won nine of the 29 deep-water oil exploration blocks Mexico put up for bid in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Anglo-Dutch oil giant won four of those bids in alliance with other companies. Shell was the biggest winner in the bidding round, in which 10 blocks drew no bids.

Malaysia's PC Carigali won seven blocks alone or in alliances, and Mexico's state-owned Pemex won four blocks, two of them as part of an alliance.

The head of Mexico's National Oil Commission said Wednesday the bidding ensures that nearly two dozen deep-water exploration wells would be drilled as part of billions of dollars in investment.

Shell said in a statement México "is ready to successfully compete in attracting investment in the oil and gas sector."

Venezuela rejects UN plan to settle border fight with Guyana

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela has rejected a United Nations proposal to send its longstanding border dispute with neighboring Guyana to an international court.

Foreign Affairs Minister Jorge Arreaza said Wednesday that his country will push for a diplomatic settlement spelled out in a 1966 agreement signed in Geneva.

His comment comes a day after U.N. Secretary-General Antonio Guterres announced that he is sending the case to the International Court of Justice.

U.N. officials cite a provision of the Geneva accord that gives the secretary-general authority to find a solution if the two countries can't.

The territorial dispute between the two South American countries dates back to 1899. The swath of disputed land makes up 40 percent of Guyana.

Physicians may not accept money to prescribe drugs, but promoting them is not off-limits

Dr. Roach

DEAR DR. ROACH: Are the drug companies asking you doctors to push their new stuff? I hear all the time from various people that they wonder if doctors get kickbacks for prescribing certain medicines. I think the general public wonders if that is the case. — C.M.

ANSWER: It is illegal for physicians to accept money or gifts in exchange for prescribing a medication. That doesn't mean it never happens, but the consequences of being caught are so great for both parties that I don't think that actual "kickbacks" occur very often. However, pharmaceutical companies can and do pay physicians to promote their products, often as a paid speaker. The difference between being paid to prescribe something and being paid to promote it may seem subtle. In the past, these payments and gifts often became large and ethically questionable: There is less abuse now, I believe, than 10 or 20 years ago.

Thanks to independent investigative reporters, you can look up whether your doctor accepts money from pharmaceutical companies at https://projects.propublica.org/docdollars/. The U.S. government also has a tool at https://openpaymentsdata.cms.gov/. Just accepting a lunch or educational conference may show up on this website, and may not be an ethical violation at all; however, as I look at this list, there do seem to be some doctors who accept large amounts of money, with the potential for conflict of interest.

Personally, I do not accept money or gifts from pharmaceutical companies. I think there is too great a potential for conflicts of interest, especially in my role as a writer.

DEAR DR. ROACH: My 66-year-old husband is a metastatic colon cancer survivor. It brought on diabetes, and he takes 5 mg daily Tradjenta for it. His A1C is 7.1 percent. I wonder if chromium picolinate would be a good alternative. I've been taking it for over five years, and my A1C is excellent. — D.A.

ANSWER: Linagliptin (Tradjenta) is in a class of diabetes medication called DPP-4 inhibitors. They are moderately effective in lowering blood sugar, with most people having a decrease in their A1C between 0.5 and 1 percentage point. Unfortunately, a 2015 review of studies on this subject showed that chromium picolinate does not have a significant effect on A1C. I would not recommend that he stop the Tradjenta, nor that he start taking chromium picolinate for treatment of diabetes.

People respond very differently to medications sometimes, so one needs to be cautious about applying one's own experiences to other people.

DEAR DR. ROACH: On a recent exam, I was found to have a low urine specific gravity (the normal range was 1.010 to 1.030, and my level was 1.005). What does this mean? Is this a problem? — S.M.

ANSWER: Urine is water with the metabolic byproducts that your body wants to get rid of, along with a certain amount of salts, depending on your consumption. The specific gravity is a way to look at how concentrated the urine is. A very high number (1.030 or higher) indicates that the kidney is trying to conserve water: It's likely that the person needs fluid. In people who drink a lot of fluid, the kidney must make a dilute urine: 1.010 or lower. With your result, it is clear that you drink a lot of water, and it's very likely that your kidneys work well.

It takes work for the kidneys both to make an extra-dilute urine as well as to make an extra-concentrated one, and diseased kidneys can do neither well, which is why fluid management is so critical in people with many kinds of kidney diseases. Healthy kidneys can keep your body regulated under a huge variation in water and salt intake.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Routines give us a sense of comfort and purpose. They let us relax and, at the same time, be stronger and work harder within the confines of what we're doing, knowing that we don't have to search for or fear what comes next.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Since the treasure of this day is hidden inside the dirt of relationships you may have to dig for it a bit. Do what it takes to connect.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). People are wary of emotionalism, over-righteousness and anything with too much "sound and fury." That's why your very subtle and classy pitch will get serious traction today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It doesn't seem fair that some days seem to rush and blur on their way to nowhere. But nothing lasts like yesterday, on and on and on. Some yesterdays last longer than others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Use your creativity and you'll get more. You can never run out, actually. The only way you'll stop being creative is if you believe you have no more ideas, but that belief would be false.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). When you get it wrong, it's not the end of the world; it's just another lesson. Take it from your sign mate Bill Murray: You die in the improv set five times out of nine. When you get over your fear of dying, nothing scares you anymore.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Figure out the story and the general direction of your message and then deliver it from the heart. This is how you let people in on who you are and make them come to love and trust you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). When you get really close to success, you're likely to panic. This is normal. It's just the brain's way of telling you that you're about to enter a new level. Breathe, and keep going. The doors will open before you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You don't have to invent anything to solve today's problem. Recombine the existing ideas until you come up with something that feels fresh to you; then try it out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your loyalty will be rewarded. Your optimism will prove well-placed. And the care you give others will help them a lot and make you 10 times happier, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You resist distraction and opt to look inside yourself instead with the question, "What is it I'm trying to avoid?" This is powerful, and the answer will come to you because you're ready for it now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Weird new problems crop up — good. These are the type that require you to slip into an innovative part of your brain, and you'll love playing around in there.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Feb. 1). People will be demonstrative in their love for you, and you'll collect symbols and experiences throughout this solar return as proof. Your comfort zone will undergo a complete rezoning, too, and by May you might be surprised by what you're capable of, all because you risked, failed, learned and got up again. Cancer and Gemini adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 3, 19, 11 and 16.

BIBLE

"Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name." — Psalms 100:4.

If your prayers aren't getting through, try sending them in on the wings of praise. "His praise shall continually be in my mouth."

Graduate longs to distance himself from family strife

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm an 18-year-old guy who's having troubles regarding my family. My parents are divorced, and I moved out of my mom's house after I graduated.

After the divorce, I flipped back and forth between living with either Mom or Dad. I moved into my mother's after an argument with my stepmom, who insists that I call her "Mother." I don't consider her my mother. My father is an alcoholic and was completely impaired when he married her. I've never forgiven him. When I visit, I can't help but feel no longer welcome.

My mother (a hypocritical tiger mom) made my high school career so stressful it pushed me into severe depression, so I spoke to a doctor who prescribed medication for me and gave me therapist referrals. Since I moved out, I've never been happier.

My siblings and I have never been close, other than at times when we needed someone to talk to about our parental situation.

I have been thinking about disappearing and starting a new life on my own with no thought of my family past. I'm not sure if it's worth fixing the mess my family has become. Advice? — BREAKING AWAY

DEAR BREAKING: For your stepmother to demand that you call her "Mother" was wrong. She is not and never will be your mother. (Besides, you already have one of those.) For your mother to have pushed you to succeed academically is normal when a parent thinks her child has potential that isn't being realized. That she was so heavy-handed that it had the opposite effect is very sad.

If you would like to move away and start a new life, no one can stop you. At 18, you are considered an adult. But I do NOT think it would be healthy for you to do it in anger and without mending fences, if that's possible. Running away will not have the effect you're looking for because your family will still be living in your head.

DEAR ABBY: I believe my wife is egocentric. She has five framed pictures of herself around the house. Even the wallpaper on her tablet is of herself. If we have a disagreement about anything, she won't talk to me for days unless I break the ice. It's ruining our 2 ½-year marriage. Any suggestions? — MYSTIFIED IN THE SOUTH

DEAR MYSTIFIED: Yes, be less quick to judge her because of the photos she keeps around the house. The reason may have less to do with egocentricity than insecurity.

What's destroying your marriage isn't the pictures; it's your wife's inability to fight fair. Her silent treatment is emotionally abusive; it's not a healthy way to solve a disagreement. A licensed marriage and family therapist may be able to help the two of you communicate more effectively. If your wife won't agree to it, go alone.

DEAR ABBY: Should I marry someone who doesn't love me more than anyone in this world? — JIM IN VIRGINIA

DEAR JIM: I think that depends on who else the person loves.

Thinking of those in nursing homes

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Let's not forget those in nursing homes. Here are some suggestions of items to bring them: a battery-operated wall clock with large numbers (provide extra batteries); magazines with pretty pictures and large print; and a bulletin board with family pictures would be nice, along with coloring books and colored pencils. Bring simple card games and puzzles, and a bright lap blanket. Play with the seniors, or read to them.

Can you sew? Offer to take in slacks and sew on buttons. The nurses are busy — many times they don't have time. — Elaine R., Fort Dodge, Iowa

Tissue issue

Dear Heloise: Because bathroom tissue comes in so many different counts and sizes, it is difficult to find the best price and value. Therefore, I suggest that a unit price be added to the price listing.

Like food, it would help to know the price per unit. This also could be included in other paper products, like paper towels and facial tissues. It would be enlightening. — Lu L., Whiting, N.J.

Manufacturers, are you listening? Readers, take advantage of the shelf stickers at the supermarket. And bring a calculator into the store, or find a calculator app on your phone to tabulate price per, just in case. — Heloise

Collecting, not clogging

Dear Heloise: I've used "color catcher" sheets for the laundry in the past, but then my washer wouldn't drain, and when the technician came to repair it, he found the sheets clogging the drain basket.

I suggest placing the sheets in a mesh bag, and then tossing it in the washer. It will still collect dyes but won't be sucked into the drain. — Margaret in Hood River, Ore.

Two-suited bids are very popular in tournament bridge. This was a Michael's Cue Bid in today's deal, but there are others. The Unusual No Trump is another popular two-suited bid and the full list would be quite long. They can be very effective when they discover a good fit but they can backfire when the bidder ends up defending the hand. They often provide a roadmap for declarer, not only about the bidder's hand, but also his partner's.

West continued with the king of diamonds at trick two, ruffed by South. Declarer cashed the ace of spades and ruffed a spade in dummy. A low trump from the table was ducked by East. South won with the king and continued with the queen, not surprised to see West show out. East won this with the ace and continued with a third round of diamonds.

Declarer ruffed this and cashed the jack of hearts, leaving himself with no trumps and East with one. This was no problem as long as East was out of diamonds, as advertised by West's two-suited bid. South cashed the king of spades and continued with the queen of spades. East had a choice that he didn't care for — he could ruff and lead a club away from his queen, or not ruff and watch South cash the ace and king of clubs. Rather than make a choice, East just folded his cards, claiming his trump trick, and congratulated South for his fine play.

NFL: Lightning

Lightning power play struggles again

By ROGER MOONEY
Tampa Bay Times

WINNIPEG, Manitoba – The Lightning power play continues to remain missing, failing on all four attempts Tuesday during a 3-1 loss to the Jets at the Bell MTS Place.

That's the fourth consecutive game where the Lightning failed to capitalize with the man-advantage.

"I thought we had some good looks, actually," Tyler Johnson said. "It's just a matter of putting the puck on the net getting those second opportunities. Sometimes they go in, sometimes they don't. I thought tonight we had some good shots that had a very good possibility of going in. We got to work a little bit harder."

Some of the credit for The Jets successful PK goes to goaltender Michael Hutchinson, who made his first start of the season after playing in Monday's AHL All-Star Game in Utica, N.Y., and for the PK unit that is 12th in the league and rising with an 83 percent success rate.

Meanwhile, the Jets second-ranked power play unit was 1-for-3.

The Lightning's power play entered the game fourth-best in the league with a 23.7 percent success rate. That number has come down over the last four games as the unit tries to regain its production. Even the return of D Victor Hedman couldn't end the drought.

C Brayden Point said the empty power plays is becoming frustrating.

"I think we had some good chances," he said. "It was a little tough on the entry sometimes. I think they were outworking us the whole game."

That was echoed throughout the dressing room.

Johnson: "We expect a lot better from ourselves."

Hedman: "We got way better in this room."

MLB: Rays

Rays to extend netting at Tropicana, Charlotte Sports Park

By MARC TOPKIN
Tampa Bay Times

The Rays will extend protective netting to the outfield edge of the dugouts at Tropicana Field.

Almost all other teams, and likely eventually all, have made similar decisions in a tradeoff that provides better protection for fans but also can inhibit and limit access to players, specifically for autographs.

The netting at the Trop will be a green knotless product that the team says will provide better game visibility than the traditional black knotted net. The current backstop net also will be replaced with the new green net.

The nets will be fixed, which means they can't be raised or lowered before or after the games, and the same height at the current backstop net, which is 29 feet.

The Rays will be making a similar change at their spring training stadium in Port Charlotte.

"The Tampa Bay Rays are committed to providing a safe and secure environment for each person who enters Tropicana Field and Charlotte Sports Park. We will be expanding the protective netting this season to the outside edge of the dugouts in both ballparks. All affected Season Ticket Holders will be contacted in the coming weeks with more information."

GYMNASTICS: Sexual Abuse Case

More victims confront Nassar

Abuse victims say they were required to see disgraced doctor

By DAVID EGGERT
Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, Mich. — Another wave of victims confronted Larry Nassar on Wednesday, this time about sexual abuse at an elite Michigan gymnastics club where young athletes felt they had to use the disgraced doctor's services and could not question the adults who ran the facility.

The judge presiding over the case said the number of people who allege they were abused by Nassar has topped 265. That total includes 150-plus victims who offered statements at a different hearing last week, as well as scores of new ones expected to speak over the next few days.

Nassar faces another long prison sentence on top of the two he has already received. He was sentenced to 60 years on federal child-pornography charges and another 40 to 175 years on state charges that he abused women and girls while working for Michigan State University. Either one of those sentences effectively mean life in prison for the 54-year-old.

"You are the most vile, disgusting creature I have ever met," said Katherine Ebert, who was a gymnast from 5 to 18 and started seeing Nassar at 15. "There are black holes in my memory that come back as nightmares or flashbacks, not wanting to believe they're true."

Nassar, once the doctor for the national gymnastics team, sat at a table with his lawyers as nearly 30 accusers rebuked him. They discussed the psychological scars from his abuse — depression, anxiety, suicidal thoughts, trouble being around male teachers and other men and fractured relationships with family.

"You took advantage of my innocence and trust," 17-year-old Jessica Thomashow said. "You were my doctor. Why? I ask myself that question all the time. What you did to me was twisted. You manipulated me and my entire family. How dare you."

Judge Janice Cunningham has set aside several days for more than 60 victims who want to confront Nassar or have their statement read in the courtroom in Charlotte, a city outside Lansing.

NFL: Catch Rule

Goodell wants to look deeply into catch rule

By BARRY WILNER
Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Roger Goodell wants to see the mystery of the NFL's catch rule solved, and he's ensured that the process has begun.

The commissioner said at his annual Super Bowl news conference Wednesday that he personally sees that rule as the most obvious to address.

Asked about the scrutiny that NFL officiating came under this season, Goodell said "on the catch/no catch rule, we need to find a rule we think will address that. We certainly need to get this rule right so everyone can appreciate."

NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell, right, and New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft laugh before a news conference Wednesday in Minneapolis.

Goodell recently spent three hours with former players, including Pro Football Hall of Famers, going over 150 plays. He said there were many good ideas offered, but as for the specifics of what should be a catch, there was little consensus.

"There were a lot of people with different perspectives and lot of disagreement in the room," he said.

So the competition committee will dive into not only this rule, but perhaps refining the rulebook.

Fox gets Thursday night football for 5 years, $3B

By BARRY WILNER
Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Fox and the NFL have agreed to a five-year deal for Thursday night football games.

Those games previously were televised by CBS and NBC, two of the league's other network partners. Fox announced Wednesday that it will televise 11 games between Weeks 4 and 15, with simulcasts on NFL Network and Fox Deportes.

Fox, which has the Sunday afternoon NFC package, will produce all of the games under the deal, which is worth a little more than $3 billion, according to a person with direct knowledge of the terms of the deal who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the league didn't announce its value.

"This is a single partner deal, we are not splitting the package,"

NBA: Cavs 91, Heat 89

LeBron, Cavs edge Heat in first game without Love

By TOM WITHERS
Associated Press

CLEVELAND — LeBron James scored 24 points, Jae Crowder made a go-ahead 3-pointer with 1:21 left and the Cleveland Cavaliers began a long stretch without injured All-Star Kevin Love by holding off the Miami Heat 91-89 on Wednesday night.

The Cavs rebounded from a troubling loss at Detroit — Cleveland gave up 125 points to the undermanned Pistons — and prevented the Heat from overtaking them for third place in the Eastern Conference standings.

Cleveland played its first game since Love broke his left hand against the Pistons. The five-time All-Star is consulting with surgeons in New York, and it's possible he'll undergo an operation as early as Thursday. Love, who could miss two months, already has screws in the hand from a previous procedure after he broke it in 2009 with Minnesota.

AP PHOTO

Miami Heat's James Johnson, right, knocks the ball loose from Cleveland Cavaliers' LeBron James in the first half Wednesday, in Cleveland.

While he's out, the Cavs have to hold themselves together.

Goran Dragic scored 18 and Josh Richardson 15 to lead the Heat, who went just 3 of 28 on 3-pointers.

Miami had a last chance after Cleveland's Kyle Korver made one of two free throws with seven seconds left, but Heat forward James Johnson, harassed by James on the baseline, couldn't get off a shot before the horn sounded.

The Cavs have been enveloped in drama all season. There have been injuries, blowout losses, persistent trade rumors and more story lines than a day-time soap opera.

"As The Land Turns," coach Tyronn Lue said with a sigh following his pregame media availability.

The chaos could continue, but for at least one night things didn't get any worse for the Cavs, who went 6-8 in January and have been plagued by shoddy defense.

It was the first time they've held a team under 90 points since Nov. 20.

NBA ROUNDUP

Turner leads Pacers past Grizzlies

Associated Press

Myles Turner had 15 points and 11 rebounds, and the Indiana Pacers won their third straight game with a 105-101 victory over the Memphis Grizzlies on Wednesday night.

Turner gave the Pacers a 102-101 lead by hitting two free throws with 34 seconds left.

With two seconds remaining, Wayne Selden missed a floater in the lane that would have given Memphis the lead. Indiana came up with the rebound and sealed it at the foul line with less than a second left.

All five Pacers starters scored in double digits. Bojan Bogdanovic and Darren Collison each had 21 points, Victor Oladipo added 13 and Thaddeus Young had 10.

MAGIC 127, LAKERS 105: Marreese Speights scored 21 points in his second start of the season, Evan Fournier added 19 and the Orlando Magic ran away from the Los Angeles Lakers in the third quarter for a victory. Winning for only the fourth time in 24 games, the Magic made a franchise-record nine 3s in a 43-point third period, their highest-scoring quarter of the season. They shot 18 for 32 (56 percent) from behind the arc in the game. With 15 points and six assists, Elfrid Payton was one of seven players to score in double figures for the Magic (15-35). Julius Randle and Jordan Clarkson scored 20 each for the Lakers, who never led after the first quarter.

HORNETS 123, HAWKS 110: Kemba Walker sank a career-high nine 3-pointers and scored 38 points, leading the Charlotte Hornets to a dominant win over the Atlanta Hawks. Charlotte never trailed while building double-digit leads in each half. Dwight Howard had 20 points and 12 rebounds in his first return to Atlanta after his one season with his hometown Hawks. It was Howard's second double-double in less than a week against the Hawks. He had 18 points and 15 rebounds in Charlotte's 121-110 win over the Hawks on Friday.

NHL ROUNDUP

Holl scores in debut as Maple Leafs blank Islanders

Associated Press

Justin Holl and Travis Dermott each scored their first NHL goal, helping the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the New York Islanders 5-0 on Wednesday night.

Holl made his NHL debut after being recalled from the minors earlier in the day.

Kasperi Kapanen, Auston Matthews and Mitch Marner also scored for the Maple Leafs (29-18-5), and Frederik Andersen made 28 saves for his fourth shutout of the season.

Thomas Greiss stopped 45 shots for the Islanders (25-22-5), who also lost 4-1 at home against Florida on Tuesday.

RED WINGS 2, SHARKS 1, SO: Justin Abdelkader scored in the seventh round of a shootout, and Petr Mrazek stopped Tomas Hertl at the other end to give the Detroit Red Wings a victory over the San Jose Sharks. Trevor Daley scored for the Red Wings in the third period before Kevin Labanc responded for San Jose. Gustav Nyquist, Andreas Athanasiou, Tomas Tatar and Abdelkader scored in the shootout for Detroit, while Joe Pavelski, Logan Couture and Chris Tierney scored for the Sharks.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Hot-shooting Virginia Cavaliers hold off Louisville

Associated Press

Kyle Guy scored 22 points and No. 2 Virginia held off hot-shooting Louisville to win its 13th straight, 74-64 on Wednesday night.

Ty Jerome added 16 points and Devon Hall 12 for the Cavaliers (21-1, 10-0 Atlantic Coast Conference). Virginia's start is its best in ACC play since the 1980-81 team won its first 12 games. The winning streak is its longest since winning 19 in a row to begin the 2014-15 season.

Ray Spalding scored 16 points and Deng Adel had 15 points for the Cardinals (16-6, 6-3). Louisville made nine of 10 shots at one point down the stretch, closing to within 62-57 on a long 3-pointer by Ryan McMahon with 3:44 left, but Jerome answered with back-to-back 3s for the Cavaliers.

NO. 5 MICHIGAN ST. 76, PENN ST. 68: Miles Bridges had 23 points and nine rebounds, helping Michigan State come back from a double-digit deficit to beat Penn State. The Spartans (21-3, 9-2 Big Ten) rallied to win after trailing by 12 with 15:23 left after coming back from 13-point deficit to win their previous game at Maryland. Cassius Winston made a go-ahead layup midway through the second half and Michigan State led by as much as 15. The Nittany Lions (15-9, 5-6) had won two straight, including a buzzer-beater at Ohio State, and they didn't give up their winning streak easily. They went on an 11-2 run to pull within six points with 37 seconds left after Tony Carr made consecutive 3-pointers in 6 seconds. Carr just missed a 3-pointer with 19 seconds left.

NO. 8 CINCINNATI 80, HOUSTON 70: Jacob Evans III scored 18 points, hitting the pivotal shots during Cincinnati's rally from an 18-point deficit, and the Bearcats extended the nation's longest home-court winning streak by beating Houston. After trailing 33-15, the Bearcats (20-2, 9-0 American Athletic) closed out the first half with a flourish that featured Evans' steal and banked-in 3-pointer at the buzzer. His 3 gave Cincinnati its first lead of the second half. Cincinnati has won 13 in a row since back-to-back losses against Xavier and Florida, the only ranked teams it has played. The Bearcats have won 38 straight home games, the longest active streak. Houston (16-5, 6-3) couldn't get a breakthrough win in the series. The Cougars fell to 0-16 on the Bearcats' home court and 2-30 overall against Cincinnati.

IOWA ST. 93, NO. 15 WEST VIRGINIA 77: Donovan Jackson scored 25 points, Lindell Wigginton added 22 and Iowa State upset West Virginia, sending the short-handed Mountaineers to their fifth loss in six games. Cameron Lard scored 18 points with 13 rebounds for the Cyclones (12-9, 3-6 Big 12).

Mickelson, Rahm set for Phoenix Open pairing

By JOHN NICHOLSON
Associated Press

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Phil Mickelson and Jon Rahm will get the party started early Thursday in the Waste Management Phoenix Open.

The former Arizona State stars will begin play with Xander Schauffele on the 10th tee at TPC Scottsdale just before 8 a.m. They will hit the rowdy par-3 16th hours before the alcohol-fueled revelry kicks into high gear at the stadium hole. No matter the time, they'll hear plenty of "Forks up!" and "Go Devils!" cries from the gallery.

"Every time I go by, every hole, every single shot, I get cheers from someone from ASU," Rahm said. "When you miss a shot, you remember how many people you have pulling for you. And when you're playing good, it makes it that much more fun. It just escalates everything to a whole level of joy."

Two-time defending champion Hideki Matsuyama will be in the group directly ahead with Rickie Fowler and Webb Simpson, the players the Japanese star outlasted in playoffs the last two years.

"It's going to kind of be weird to play with them on Thursday and Friday," Matsuyama said.

On the other side of the draw, Jordan Spieth and Justin Thomas will join Patton Kizzire, the lone two-time winner this season.

"This is always a little different week, very exciting," Spieth said. "Nice change, kind of a fun change with this kind of party crowd."

Rahm and Mickelson are playing together for the first time in the tournament and fourth time on the PGA Tour. Mickelson's brother, Tim, coached Rahm at Arizona State and was the Spaniard's agent. Tim Mickelson is now his older brother's caddie.

"He's always been a great friend and mentor to me," Rahm said about the 47-year-old Hall of Famer. "He's helped me out on everything he's been able to help me out on. Even in college and out of college. And we just have a lot of fun together. I love playing practice rounds with him, I love joking around with him."

Rahm won the Career-Builder Challenge two weeks ago in a playoff in the California desert and was in contention last week in his title defense at Torrey Pines before fading on the weekend. The 23-year-old has jumped to No. 2 in the world behind Dustin Johnson.

"He'll get there (No. 1), eventually," Mickelson said. "He's so talented and to have him do it as quickly as he had right out of college, very impressive. Not only that, he's such a nice guy to be around."

Rahm was second behind Johnson at Kapalua in his first start since winning the European Tour's season-ending event in Dubai in November. He's making his third appearance in the tournament after tying for fifth as an amateur in 2015 and tying for 16th last year.

"I live a couple miles from here," Rahm said. "It's home."

Mickelson is making his 29th start in the event, matching the record held by Gene Littler, Jim Ferrier and Jerry Barber. Lefty won on the Stadium Course in 1996, 2005 and 2013.

"I just love what I do. I love playing golf for a living," Mickelson said. "I love the West Coast and I'm excited to be back here in Phoenix. The golf course is in great shape. We have got great weather. It's just a fun place to play, one of the places I look forward to every year."

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Blake Griffin described his reaction when he found out he had been traded.

"Shocked is a good way to put it," he said. "I didn't know anything. I pretty much found out when everybody else found out. It just kind of took a second to realize, OK, like, everything's changing."

Griffin has arrived in Detroit now, and on Wednesday the Pistons introduced him and the two other players they received from the Los Angeles Clippers in the blockbuster deal earlier this week. Griffin, Brice Johnson and Willie Reed should be available to play Thursday night when Detroit hosts the Memphis Grizzlies, and that's when the idea of Griffin in a different uniform will really become a reality.

The Pistons sent Tobias Harris, Avery Bradley, Boban Marjanovic and two draft picks to the Clippers. The trade came seven months after Griffin signed a $171 million, five-year contract to stay with Los Angeles — a fact that's been duly noted. LeBron James described the deal as "unfortunate" — pointing out that players are described as disloyal for leaving teams, but franchises don't necessarily face the same criticism when trading players who have stayed committed to them.

When asked if he regretted not having a no-trade clause, Griffin kept the focus on his future with his new team.

"I want to play for an organization that wants me to play there," Griffin said. "This is where I want to be, and this is the place that wants me."

Detroit is in its fourth season with Stan Van Gundy as coach and team president, and the Pistons — without Griffin and the newcomers — snapped an eight-game losing streak with a win Tuesday night over Cleveland. If the season ended now, they would not make the playoffs, but they're within striking distance with plenty of time remaining.

An injury to point guard Reggie Jackson has been a big issue, and Van Gundy has cautioned against expecting any immediate surge after Griffin's arrival. The trade was a risk because of Griffin's big contract and his injury history, but owner Tom Gores indicated before Wednesday's news conference that he understands it could take time for the deal to pay significant dividends.

"My job probably should be to be a little patient, although Stan and I did talk yesterday, and our biggest job up front is to adapt as fast as possible," Gores said. "Our expectation was always to win this year, so of course we want to win this year, but whatever happens this year, we have an asset for the long haul. This deal does not happen if Blake was on a one-year deal."

Gores said the deal wasn't made to provide a short-term boost in fan support, although any added buzz is certainly welcome. The Pistons have played in front of plenty of empty seats at their new downtown arena this season, but a few more performances like Tuesday's might change that.

"I did consider the buzz it would bring to our players and our organization," Gores said. "I didn't think for a second about filling the stadium. That would be very short-term."

But if Griffin stays healthy and productive, he could easily become a fan favorite in Detroit, where the franchise has long featured physical, blue-collar players willing to throw their weight around. Griffin was asked about a couple of those former Pistons — Ben Wallace and Dennis Rodman — and whether he could be comparable.

"Somewhere in between Ben Wallace and Dennis Rodman," he said, drawing a laugh. "Being a coach's son and growing up playing for my dad, and him always demanding that I play hard and be a hard worker — both my parents are two of the hardest-working people I know. I think hard work is something that has been instilled in me from a young age, so I try to play that same way."

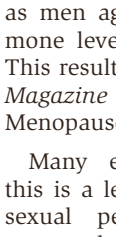
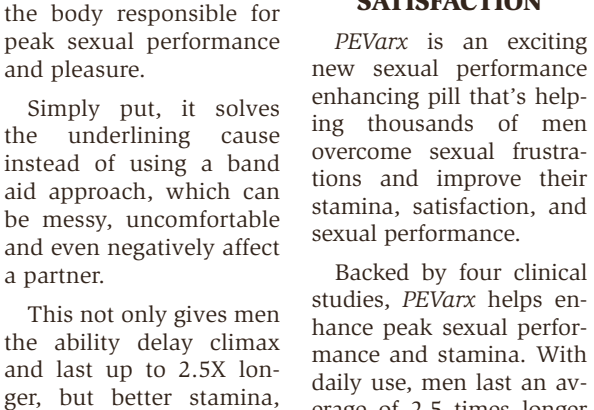
Amazing New Pill Helps Men Last 250% Longer in Bed

Backed by four clinical studies; new pill improve sexual performance by delaying premature climax; users report stunning improvements in stamina, staying power and satisfaction



Gerry Johnson Men's Health News



LAST LONGER, ENJOY MORE EXCITING SEX: PEVarx is helping thousands of men overcome PE. The results are improvements in stamina, satisfaction, and sexual performance.

SAN DIEGO, CA – Following four groundbreaking clinical studies, a new pill that can delay climax and help men last a phenomenal 250% longer in bed has now been approved, creating a frenzy in the market place. It will not require a prescription.

The pill, called PEVarx™, contains key ingredients that increase levels of certain male hormones that support longer sexual performance.

Sufficient levels of specific hormones, like serotonin, are vital to controlling a climax, which leads to longer, more exciting sex. They calm the nerves that create the urge to orgasm.

By boosting these hormonal levels, PEVarx helps men experience peak sexual performance and stamina.

Users also report significant improvements in duration, endurance, mood, and total satisfaction. Many even said they are now having the best sex of their lives.

HORMONES LINKED TO PREMATURE CLIMAX

Research shows that as men age, certain hormone levels can decline. This results in what Time Magazine calls "Male Menopause."

Many experts believe this is a leading cause of sexual performance issues and why PEVarx is so groundbreaking.

"To our knowledge, it's the only sex enhancement pill available that's proven successful in multiple clinical trials to help users both last longer in bed and experience greater satisfaction without dangerous side effects" explains the CSO of Innovus Pharmaceuticals.

"With daily use, PEVarx can increase men's stamina and make sex last up to two-and-a-half times longer. It's incredible.

"It also improves men's performance in the bedroom and triples their satisfaction too. "

LAST 2.5X LONGER IN BED

Since its introduction to the market, sales for PEVarx have skyrocketed. And when you look at the science, it should come as no surprise.

Clinical studies have been impressive. Participants taking PEVarx saw a stunning 2.5X increase in how long penetration lasted before climax.

Promoting higher levels of serotonin helps to control ejaculation and prolong the duration of intercourse. Experts say this is why PEVarx helps men to delay orgasm and last much longer than usual.

They also enjoyed better performance, endurance, mood, and a significant three-fold improvement in sexual satisfaction.

PEVarx is formulated with a synergistic composition of amino acids to support longer sexual performance in addition to two patented absorption enhancers for maximum efficacy. It is both safe and healthy.

Research has shown that as men get older, their bodies produce less and less of the hormones it needs. This explains the causes of male performance issues and why PEVarx seems to be so effective.

A RADICAL NEW APPROACH TO SEXUAL DYSFUNCTION

Backed by four clinical studies involving more than 650 men, PEVarx takes a radical approach to improving men's sexual health and performance.

Unlike delay sprays, desensitizing creams, and other topical lotions that work by reducing feeling in the penis, PEVarx helps men last longer by supporting the pathways in the body responsible for peak sexual performance and pleasure.

Simply put, it solves the underlining cause instead of using a band aid approach, which can be messy, uncomfortable and even negatively affect a partner.

This not only gives men the ability delay climax and last up to 2.5X longer, but better stamina, satisfaction, and sexual performance regardless of age and level of health.

Experts say this is why PEVarx helps men to delay orgasm and last much longer than usual.

The effects of PEVarx were studied in a multi-center, observational study in men with sexual dysfunction. 665 adult men with sexual disorder were given two capsules of PEVarx twice daily for two months and the results were stunning.

The average duration of sexual intercourse in penetration duration in PE patients increased 2.5 times. Users reported significant improvement in almost all areas of the International Index of Erectile Function test (IIEF-5). And PE patients reported an average of a 300% increase in total satisfaction.

With clinical results like this, it's easy to see why sales for the new PE pill are soaring.

THE SCIENCE BEHIND THE BREAKTHROUGH

PEVarx is taken just once daily. The pills are small. Easy to swallow. There are no harmful side effects, and it does not require a prescription.

The active ingredients are specific combination of amino acids that promote synthesis the hormones responsible for peak sexual performance and stamina.

Research shows that as men age, their hormones levels decline, resulting in devastating decline in their sex lives. Diet, stress, insufficient sleep and lifestyle factors exacerbate this problem.

Insufficient levels of these hormones are a leading cause of PE and have a negative impact on sexual health and performance.

Scientists believe that PEVarx promotes serotonin synthesis, the male hormone responsible for controlling ejaculation and prolonging the duration of intercourse. Explaining why so many users experience impressive results so quickly.

DELAY CLIMAX & TRIPLE YOUR SATISFACTION

PEVarx is an exciting new sexual performance enhancing pill that's helping thousands of men overcome sexual frustrations and improve their stamina, satisfaction, and sexual performance.

Backed by four clinical studies, PEVarx helps enhance peak sexual performance and stamina. With daily use, men last an average of 2.5 times longer in bed and triple their sexual satisfaction.

With daily use, men last an average of 250% longer in bed and triple their sexual satisfaction.

No prescription or doctor visit is required. PEVarx is NOT sold in stores.

NFL: Eagles

Eagles having fun on big stage, not intimidated by Pats

By ROB MAADDI
Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Wrestling masks have replaced the dog masks.

The underdog Philadelphia Eagles are having fun with the media frenzy leading up to the Super Bowl against the New England Patriots. They're staying relaxed, loose and won't be intimidated by their opponent's incredible success.

Three-time Pro Bowl defensive tackle Fletcher Cox and All-Pro right tackle Lane Johnson on Wednesday donned masks that resembled the ones WWE star Rey Mysterio and other luchadores wear in the ring.

"This was a gift from Mexico so I can have super powers all week," Cox said about the green mask featuring an Eagles logo.

"I'm just having fun right now. We know why we're here. We can't come into this all uptight. You have fun when it's time to have fun and get serious when it's time to get serious."

Johnson and defensive end Chris Long pulled out German shepherd masks and wore them off the field and in their interviews after the Eagles beat Atlanta in the divisional round. The Eagles (15-3) were the first No. 1 seed to enter their first playoff game as an underdog.

The city, which has always had an underdog personality, embraced the masks. Johnson and Long then turned it into a charitable venture . They created underdog T-shirts that were sold with all proceeds going to the Philadelphia school district's not-for-profit arm.

The Eagles were underdogs again in the NFC championship game and routed the Vikings 38-7. They're in the same spot against the Patriots, who are 4½-point favorites on Sunday.

But these Eagles don't fear Bill Belichick, Tom Brady or New England's dynasty. Johnson called Brady a "pretty boy" and made it clear he's not bothered by the hype.

"I definitely respect him and all that he's done in this league," Johnson told The Associated Press. "I'm not going to go into the Super Bowl worshipping this man and make him more than what he is. No disrespect.

"As far as bulletin-board material, they can put it on their night-stands for all I care, in their bathrooms, I don't care. I don't think you need any motivation to play in the Super Bowl. They know that."

Brady and Belichick have led the Patriots to five Super Bowl titles, including two of the past three seasons. They beat the Eagles 24-21 in the big game 13 years ago.

GOODELL

"I would like to start back, instead of adding to the rule, subtracting the rule. Start over again and look at the rule fundamentally from the start. Because I think when you add or subtract things you can still lead to confusion. These rules are very complex; you have to look at what the unintended consequences are of making a change, which is what the competition committee, in my view, does so well and with so much thought.

"Clearly, the catch/no catch has had a lot of discussion. I won't tell you there won't be controversy (in the future), but we need to get to a better place."

He added that there were more video replay interruptions in 2017 "and I think we can look at that. How do we make the game more attractive with less stoppages is one of the things we focus on. How do we use replay to ensure correcting obvious mistakes but making sure it doesn't interrupt the flow of the game."

Goodell noted that in his 36 years working in the NFL, officiating always has been in the spotlight. Recently, because of advances in technology, the attention has ratcheted up significantly.

Goodell revealed that the league has hired an independent investigator to look into claims of sexual and racial misconduct in the workplace against Carolina Panthers owner Jerry Richardson.

Former U.S. attorney Mary Jo White will lead the investigation. White has led similar investigations in other fields, including a recent one at the University of Rochester.

Richardson stepped away from day-to-day operations after allegations surfaced and is seeking to sell the team. The NFL has said it didn't pressure Richardson to sell based on the allegations.

Goodell said he wants the team to remain in Carolina and believes most of the other owners do, as well.

"I am sure that is a question many of our owners will ask," Goodell said of the Panthers staying in Charlotte under new ownership.

NFL: Chiefs

Chiefs' trade of Smith opens door for Mahomes, fills needs

By DAVE SKRETTA

Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Patrick Mahomes (15) throws against the Denver Broncos during the second half of an NFL football game in Denver.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The countdown to the Patrick Mahomes II era in Kansas City began the moment the Chiefs traded up to select the strong-armed quarterback in the first round of last year's draft.

Officially, it is down to about six weeks.

Practically, it has already reached zero.

The Chiefs agreed to trade veteran quarterback Alex Smith to the Washington Redskins late Monday, a deal that will become official with the start of the new league year on March 14. In doing so, the Chiefs made a bold statement that they're ready for Mahomes, a prolific passer during his college days at Texas Tech, to assume the starting job for the foreseeable future.

Mahomes dazzled coach Andy Reid and his staff during training camp, making the kinds of downfield throws that Smith could never accomplish. And when he made his regular-season debut in Week 17, when the Chiefs were already assured of the AFC West title and the No. 4 seed in the playoffs, he not only played well but returned in the fourth quarter to lead the winning drive against the Broncos.

It was the kind of performance — and the kind of moxie — that made Reid draw comparisons to another of his protégés from his days with the Packers: Brett Favre.

Those are big shoes to fill. Then again, so are the ones Smith is leaving behind.

For all the angst he caused fans by going 1-4 in the playoffs, Smith succeeded in stabilizing a franchise that had been turning over quarterbacks for years. He went 50-26 as a starter and made a couple of Pro Bowl appearances, setting a slew of franchise records in the process.

"Alex, you are the definition of a true leader and your professionalism helped me grow as a player," Chiefs offensive guard Laurence Duvernay-Tardif said in a statement posted to Twitter.

"Can't say enough about the type of friend and teammate Alex Smith has been since getting to Kansas City," Chiefs fullback Anthony Sherman said, adding "the Sherman family will miss the Smith family."

Yet the Chiefs knew they were going to move on from Smith in part because of the hefty price tag that came with the final year of his contract. And his strong performance last season made Smith a hot commodity with at least five teams along with the Redskins.

That bidding war, even this early in the offseason, drove up the Chiefs' asking price.

They wound up solving more than one problem in the trade with Washington: The Chiefs, drained of draft picks by previous trades, got a third-round choice in April; they acquired Kendall Fuller, one of the league's top slot cornerbacks and a potential starter on the outside opposite Marcus Peters; and they freed up nearly $16 million in salary cap space to make additional moves in free agency.

Kansas City now has a pick in the second round and two in the third, along with selections in the later rounds, which could be used to address other pressing issues on defense.

NFL: Patriots

Guy, Francois, appreciate tough paths to Super Bowl

By KYLE HIGHTOWER

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — The Patriots have had a knack for getting sometimes unexpected production out of late-round draft picks and undrafted free agents during Bill Belichick's tenure.

From Tom Brady to Julian Edelman to Danny Amendola to last season's Super Bowl star James White, the list is long and lauded.

This season has been no exception with 2011 seventh-round draft pick Lawrence Guy and Ricky Jean Francois, a seventh-round pick in 2009, each providing contributions that have helped solidify New England's defensive line that has thrived during the second half of 2017.

The Patriots want to make life as miserable as possible for Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Nick Foles in Sunday's Super Bowl.

It puts the spotlight on Guy and Jean Francois, with Deatrich Wise (concussion) and Malcolm Brown (foot) both dealing with injuries.

Guy said experiencing his first Super Bowl has validated the path he took to get here.

"My journey's still going," he said. "I wasn't thinking about this a couple of years ago. I was just thinking about doing what I could do to play harder and harder, study film and stay on the team and contribute. But now I'm blessed to be here."

Guy started 15 games during the regular season at either defensive tackle or defensive end, and he's started both playoff games.

Jean Francois appeared in six games after signing with the Patriots in early November and started New England's AFC championship game win while playing defensive end.

"My appreciation is high for this," said Jean Francois, 31, who came to the Patriots following stops in San Francisco, Indianapolis, Washington and Green Bay. "I'm having fun. Clowning around with my teammates. Sitting down, watching film. Just appreciating the moment."

Jean Francois will be getting his second shot at a Super Bowl. He was on the 49ers team that lost to Baltimore in the Super Bowl to cap the 2012 season. It's an opportunity he acknowledged he wasn't sure he'd get again.

"It's crazy. I never thought there'd be a point when I'd be starting in the AFC championship game again," Jean Francois said.

FOX

NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell said in a conference call. "We had tremendous amount of interest from all the broadcast partners, all of whom wanted it exclusively. We felt this was the best opportunity for the NFL to grow the Thursday night package."

Goodell added that the league is exploring partnerships with digital outlets, also in conjunction with Fox.

The NFL has broadcast deals "five years out" with its other partners — ESPN has the Monday night package — so five years on this agreement made sense.

"Fundamentally, Fox was built on football," said Peter Rice, president of 21st Century Fox, nothing that 25 years ago, the NFC package "helped launch a fledgling network into what it is today."

"These opportunities come along very, very infrequently," he added. "You either have the rights to the most-watched content in media or you don't. If you don't take the opportunity, this won't come up again for five years. We believe in buying the very best rights, and the best rights are the NFL."

CBS and NBC each paid $450 million for the previous two-year package.

"We explored a responsible bid for Thursday Night Football but in the end are very pleased to return to entertainment programming on television's biggest night," CBS said in a statement. "At the same time, we look forward to continuing our terrific long-term partnership with the NFL on Sunday afternoons, with more than 100 games per season including next year's Super Bowl 53."

Fox could have a conflict if weather causes a World Series game to be postponed from Wednesday to Thursday. In recent years, Series Game 2 and 6 have been scheduled for Wednesday.

"In that hypothetical kind of a scenario, the World Series game would stay on Fox and our Thursday night game would become an FS1/NFL simulcast," Fox spokesman Eddie Motl said.

Goodell noted that the Thursday night games are a place for innovation.

"One of the things we've taken into consideration with Thursday night in general is to evolve this package, to use it as an opportunity to learn, to understand where these various platforms are going, and what we can do to make it a more attractive experience for our fans," he said. "We will look at that in that context, and the term will be consistent with what it will take to make sure that we continue to evolve that platform as well as the experience for our fans."

Olympics draw Korean adoptees as South Korea confronts past

By SALLY HO
Associated Press

When Megan Olson lands in South Korea for the Winter Olympics next week, she'll feel something that is both surreal and vivid.

An intoxicating sense of belonging.

A deep sense of loss.

Pride, for the motherland she barely knows after being secretly adopted away.

The 33-year-old social worker from Minnesota is joining dozens of fellow South Korean adoptees who are returning to their birth country for the 2018 Winter Games in Pyeongchang.

Many endured cultural, racial and national identity issues stemming from an international adoption phenomenon that peaked in the 1980s. Now, the once-in-a-lifetime Olympics experience will satisfy an internal pressure for some adoptees to justify being where they came from, even though it won't erase the fact that they were once sent away with shame and en masse.

Sisters Hannah, left, and Marissa Brandt, pose at their family's home in Vadnais Heights. Minn. Marissa, a native Korean who was adopted as an infant by parents in Minnesota, and her sister Hannah will both be playing in the upcoming Winter Olympics in women's hockey. Marissa for South Korea and Hannah for the U.S.

"I think I really wanted to go back. It feels like it's home but at the same time, when I get there, I'm not home. I don't really know where I belong," Olson said.

The Olympics will also reconcile a part of their life journey that has been book-ended by an era of complete economic transformation for South Korea.

Much of that rise happened at the same time the small Asian country, lacking a solid social welfare system, dispersed an estimated 200,000 of its Korean-born children, according to Richard Lee, a University of Minnesota professor who studies adoptees.

The cultural diaspora reaches more than a dozen countries around the globe, including in western Europe, North America, Australia and New Zealand. But for South Korea, the timing of the adoption boom coinciding with their costly 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul is still a subject of criticism among some.

No longer in the shadows of the devastating Korean War era, the country over the past half century has become a powerhouse on the world stage, thanks to its fortunes in tech, cultural reach from pop music, and famously rigorous education system.

All the while, a majority of those South Korean orphans landed in the U.S. They grew up largely with white parents in the western world where adoption is seen as a humanitarian endeavor. Now adults, they've come of age and some have risen in the worlds of politics, fashion and entertainment.

That such orphans are now successful enough to afford an elite experience like the Olympic Games has surprised some of the locals in a patriarchal society where adoption is taboo.

Keziah Park of the International Korean Adoptee Service called it a "slap in the face" for status-driven South Koreans. The Seoul-based nonprofit since the 1990s has organized trips and birth-search pilgrimages for adoptees.

MLB: Owners Meetings

Owners hopeful of fixing pace of play without showdown

By BETH HARRIS
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Arizona Diamondbacks owner Ken Kendrick is hoping Major League Baseball and the players' association can work out a deal to improve pace of play without imposing changes on the union unilaterally.

Commissioner Rob Manfred has long vowed to put the rules in place for the upcoming season with or without an agreement, but says his preference is for a deal and he is willing to negotiate the changes involving a pitch clock or limits on mound visits.

"We need to improve the pace of play and as the Commissioner said very well we need to really try to do it as partners with the players because that will make it work better than if Rob made a decision to do it on his own," Kendrick said Wednesday after the first of two days of owners meetings near Beverly Hills.

MLB has the right to implement the proposal it made last offseason, which includes a 30-second clock between batters and a 20-second clock between pitches that would reset when a pitcher steps off the rubber and when he makes or feints a pickoff throw, according to details obtained by the AP.

Nine-inning games averaged a record 3 hours, 5 minutes during the 2017 regular season and 3:29 during the postseason. Players have resisted a pitch clock while appearing slightly more amenable to limits on mound visits.

"The absence of a clock is both a blessing and a curse," Kendrick said. "It's more the pace of how the game flows and there are times when it doesn't flow well. It's our responsibility to the fans to try to help that. There's a lot of interest within baseball and I think on the players' side as well."

Manfred is expected to address the issue when he speaks at the conclusion of the meetings Thursday.

Kendrick met with some of his fellow owners to discuss the effect of the new tax laws on player trades and pending action in the Supreme Court over legalized gambling.

"That's an area of concern for us," he said.

Among the other owners in attendance were Fred Wilpon of the Mets, Mark Attanasio of the Brewers, Mark Walter of the Dodgers and Tom Werner of the Red Sox.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL: Washington

Washington head coach Mike Hopkins talks to his players in a huddle during NCAA college basketball practice in Seattle.

Inside Washington's turnaround season

By TIM BOOTH
Associated Press

SEATTLE — Mike Hopkins is frantically scrolling through the photo album on his phone. Stored deep in the collection of screen shots, aerial images from his many plane trips and family pictures is an image that helps define what he's trying to build in his first season as Washington's head coach.

It's a picture of a quote. And it has a connection to his favorite band, Pearl Jam.

"When you trust people that you work with and let them have their freedom, that's when the chemistry happens. That's when the real art goes down," Hopkins reads, looking at the photo of a quote attributed to Pearl Jam bassist Jeff Ament.

Building chemistry. Forming the foundation. Those are the underlying principles of what Hopkins has done in the 10 months since he left all he knew at Syracuse for the chance to turn around the Huskies' program. It's one of the most surprising stories in college basketball. The Huskies are 15-6 overall and 5-3 in Pac-12 play with a huge week coming up against No. 25 Arizona State and No. 9 Arizona that will go a long way in determining Washington's NCAA Tournament hopes.

Any talk about the NCAAs seemed ridiculous when the Huskies gathered for their first practice in the fall. Now it's a realistic goal entering February.

The Associated Press was given an inside look at the Huskies program last week as they prepared for their matchup with rival Washington State. What stands out most about Hopkins' first season is how the narrative has changed. Six months ago, most were wondering why Hopkins left Syracuse as the coach-in-waiting behind Jim Boeheim.

Now, the story has become about the foundation Hopkins has created and where might the Huskies go from here.

"We set our goals real high," Washington guard David Crisp said. "We know the work that we've put in every day. For it to have something come true, one of your goals, it feels good to have that hard work pay off."

Before every home practice, the signs are affixed to a wall or railing. They are foundational pillars for Hopkins' program. They are not subject to debate.

"Be comfortable being uncomfortable."

"Multiple effort mentality."

"Own the ball."

"Always moving forward."

NHL: Nashville

Fisher coming out of retirement, will join Preds

By TERESA M. WALKER
Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Mike Fisher insists he never thought of returning to the NHL and that watching players come out of retirement always bugged him.

Fisher can add his name to that list.

He and the Nashville Predators announced Wednesday that the veteran center is coming out of retirement for his 18th NHL season as they try to win the Stanley Cup.

"I believe this team is built to win and has a very good chance, so that is part of the reason why I want to come back and compete and be a part of it," Fisher said. "But we didn't win last year, and it was the best time in my career and we didn't win. So I believe that this year can be our year, and that's why I want to be a part of and have some fun."

GYMNASTICS

The case on Cunningham's docket in Eaton County centers on Nassar's assaults at Twistars, a Lansing-area gymnastics club that was run by 2012 Olympic coach John Geddert. Nassar admits penetrating three girls with his hands when he was supposed to be treating them for injuries.

Victims said they were instructed to see Nassar instead of their family doctors. Many of them concluded that it was mandatory.

Bailey Lorencen recalled that Nassar came to Twistars on Monday nights to provide free treatment. After an especially bad fall from a high bar, she broke her neck in four places and narrowly escaped being paralyzed. Nassar consoled her.

"I felt like Larry was my hero," she said in a statement read by a prosecutor.

That kind of trust allowed the doctor to do as he pleased with the young patients.

"It is a clear that in an environment like Twistars, a monster like Nassar should thrive. He just had to be the nice guy so that all these little girls would look at him as a savior and that safe place at the gym."

Annie Labrie, who said she spent 25 hours a week at Twistars as an adolescent, said athletes "were conditioned for years to obey at all costs."

She said gymnasts, dancers and figure skaters were pressured to be "pure, innocent, perfect" while simultaneously being sexualized at an age where they did not understand the concept.

She cited pressure to engage in unhealthy dieting, crude comments about their bodies and "creepy men towering over us."

"Our bodies did not belong to us. Our experiences, physical and emotional, were constantly invalidated. You learned early on not to question authority."

Geddert, who was suspended last week by USA Gymnastics, the sport's national governing body, and suddenly announced his retirement, insisted he had "zero knowledge" of Nassar's crimes. In response to lawsuits, his lawyer filed court papers saying Geddert was "just one person in an extremely long line of people who were fooled by Nassar."

The hearing was scheduled to resume Friday, with proceedings potentially extending into next week.

A nearby police department admitted that it missed an opportunity to pursue charges against Nassar in 2004.

1 — Name of stock.
2 — Ticker Symbol company trades under.
3 — Dividend: A distribution of the company's earnings to shareholders, usually consisting of stock dividends, interest on bonds, or short-term capital gains on the sale of securities usually paid quarterly in the form of cash or stock.
4 — Div. Yield: The dividend divided by the stock price. It helps gauge how well the stock is paying, compared to other investments such as CDs, bonds or savings accounts.
5 — Price to earnings ratio: The price of a stock divided by its earnings per share. PEs are used to gauge the relative worth of a company' stock. When compared to other companies in the same industry, the companies with the lowest PEs are generally earning higher profits.
6 — Range of closing prices in last year.
7 — Sales in thousands (10 = 10,000 shares), and closing price.
8 — Last trading price of the day.
9 — Percent change for the year.
