

Propane fire cause unknown

Damage estimated at $4M - $6M

SEBRING — Wayne McCall remains in the hospital, undergoing treatment for the burns he sustained in last week's fire on Twitty Road.

While investigators with Florida's Division of the State Fire Marshal haven't uncovered any suspicious activity surrounding that fire, they still haven't pinpointed the source, according to Fire Marshal officials. Damage to the Kosan Crisplant propane tank facility, according to the agency, is estimated between $4 million and $6 million.

It's been a week since a fire at the facility ignited a stack of Blue Rhino-style propane tanks, each full of 20 pounds of liquid petroleum, on the south side of the building.

The tanks then began exploding, sending entire tanks and/or shrapnel into the air, landing as far away as a quarter mile, or more.

Highlands County Fire Rescue command staff were first to arrive, quickly declared the scene too dangerous for close-quarters firefighting, and ordered a one-mile evacuation, especially since the site had a full 50,000-pound propane tank.

Reports are that McCall, despite injuries, was able to get to the main shut-off valve and prevent the fire from getting to the large tank. Fire Rescue Chief Marc Bashoor said a line of fire burned through the grass under the tank and passed to the other side without igniting the tank.

The catapulted tanks, however, did force the closure of U.S. 27 north from the intersection with Twitty Road. It also destroyed 15 structures in Sunset Manor mobile home park, across Twitty Road

Investigators swarm over the Kosan Crisplant last Tuesday in an effort to find out what started a fire last Monday that ignited, and in most cases launched, a whole stack of full 20-pound propane tanks. The facility, in the background, has been in use as a propane refurbishment facility since 2015. Rubble in the foreground shows where a mobile home park across the street once stood, but got lit by burning debris.

Wildfire season is upon us

By KIM LEATHERMAN

SEBRING — May is the month to be aware and prepare for wildfire season. Whether wildfires are accidentally started by humans or sparked by natural causes such as lightning, fires cause loss of property, wildlife and sometimes human loss.

The Weather Channel says Florida's wildfire season runs from mid-March to mid-June. The Florida Forest Service, Okeechobee District, is urging everyone, especially those living in natural areas such as a forest or grassland, to take a look at their surroundings and assess the dangers that surround their homes. After identifying those areas, take action before a wildfire threatens.

"The wetter summer and winter aided in the growth of vegetation, which now has produced additional fuel for a wildfire, as the vegetation cures with the drier weather," Forest Area Supervisor Joe deBree with the Florida Forest Service said.

"Even with nature's threat, it is possible to minimize the homeowner's risk by taking protective measures, such as watering your yard regularly and removing dead branches or leaves near or on your home," he said.

The wastewater treatment plant at Spring Lake should be operational by the end of June.

Third time's the charm for Spring Lake

By KIM LEATHERMAN
STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — Spring Lake Improvement District Board of Supervisors, residents and Rep. Cary Pigman will probably want to celebrate their win this past legislative session. The District won nearly $1.1 million in appropriation funds for a sewer infrastructure project effective July 1.

Pigman, R-Avon Park, sponsored the proposed bill over the past two years. In the past he was asking $750,000 and was turned down. The "ask" for the 2019-20 fiscal year was $1,096,980 due to the rise in construction and materials cost.

According to Pigman, the bill, HB 2707, was fully funded and sent to Gov. Ron DeSantis' desk to be signed. Pigman saw no reason for DeSantis not to sign it but didn't have a date for him to do so.

Pigman said the Spring Lake sewer infrastructure was his top priority during the Legislative session, which ended Saturday. $30 million was available for water projects and Pigman got Spring Lake a nice slice of the pie. He also said a big factor in the District getting the appropriation funds is having a good track record of being "prudent and responsible" with the money they have been given in the past.

was $3.2 million for a wastewater treatment plant, Pigman said. The new plant should be up and running by June 2020, Spring Lake District Manager Joe DeCerbo said.

The money will be used to run sewer lines from the wastewater treatment plant on the District's property westward along the north side of U.S. 98. The goal is to have the lines run down to Madrid Drive.

"This is going to be a big boon to the (U.S.) 98 corridor and open it up to a lot of businesses," Pigman said. "That area of Highlands County will be seeing millions of dollars in construction costs in the next 12 to 18 months. Highlands County got a lotta love from Tallahassee."

Pigman was referring to the District's sewer expansions for future development and the Deputy William J. Gentry Regional Safety Training Center, which was also funded in this Legislative session. The plans are to build the facility at the Sebring Regional Airport.

"We are used to hearing from people on the coasts that they want to up they're estuaries," Pigman said. "What we do upstream — what we spend money on and sacrifice there — benefits those downstream."

DeCerbo agreed with the environmental benefits and commercial expansion possibilities. More sewer lines will mean fewer septic tanks in the area. Septic tanks have been partially blamed for leaking nutrients into the waters that flow into Lake Okeechobee.

DeCerbo responded to Pigman's statement about the District being good stewards of money granted to the neighborhood.

"Some governments are money driven, not driven by the mission," he said. "I think that's what Pigman means. We have our plans and then we start right away. Some governments go after the money first and then wait to start the project."

"That's not how we do things," he said. "We get everything ready to start and then get the funding."

DeCerbo said having the sewer lines in place, along with stormwater and wastewater treatment facilities nearby, will make the area very attractive to developers.

DeCerbo says this area of the county will have significant eastward growth.

"It's the logical place, everything is here," he said. "I think this was the catalyst to put us right over the top."

County to discuss impact fees

By PHIL ATTINGER
STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — Today's agenda didn't give anything away about the Board of County Commission's scheduled discussion on impact fees.

Not much has happened in the last few years with them. They have been on moratorium since 2009.

County Administrator Randy Vosburg said Monday that discussion today would center on whether or not the County Commission wants to fund a new study on the fees.

Without that study, showing where the need is and isn't, the county can't impose the fees, Vosburg said. When commissioners last talked about renewing that study, the price tag was approximately $90,000.

In May 2017, during a recent renewal of the impact fee moratorium, Development Services Director Benjamin Dunn said new schools had been built, roads had upgraded, and businesses had both opened and closed, so the needs have changed.

Commissioners preferred then to hold off on new discussion. Commissioner Ron Handley, a builder by trade, said the economy was "nowhere near back."

That was before Hurricane Irma hit, impacting both the local economy and the

Sonni Family Foundation makes a difference

SPECIAL TO
HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

SEBRING — The Sonni Family Foundation has awarded hundreds of thousands of dollars in college scholarships to deserving students throughout Highlands County.

The nonprofit foundation is the brainchild of Drs. Ashok and Rajeswari Sonni. He is an orthopedic surgeon; she is a pediatrician and both are immigrants from India.

"We came to America for a better life. We completed our education here and became very successful. Now we want to give back," Dr. Rajeswari Sonni said.

The foundation was founded in 2010 and began its scholarship program the next year. Since then, a total of 28 students at Avon Park, Lake Placid and Sebring high schools have been scholarship recipients.

Each recipient receives a total of $16,000 over four years. They get $400 per month for 10 months from August to May. A contingency of the scholarship is based on students taking a minimum of 12 college credits a semester.

The requirements are somewhat atypical. Applicants need only be above average in academic performance. Emphasis is also given to extracurricular activities, financial need, high school GPA, standardized test results, and interviews with the scholarship committee.

In addition, recipients are expected to attend a public college in the state of Florida and maintain a 3.0 GPA for each of the four years they receive funds from the foundation.

Although the deadline for the 2018-19 school year has passed, students wishing to apply for the 2019-20 scholarship are strongly urged to contact their high school guidance counselors. The deadline for new applicants is March 15, 2020.

Currently, more than a dozen college students from Highlands County are receiving funds from the Sonni Family Foundation.

For more information, call Dr. Rajeswari Sonni at 863-446-2017.

5 THINGS That Will Make You SMARTER

1. Plecia nearctic, more commonly known as love bugs, are small, black flying insects that have a distinctive red spot on the top of their heads.

2. The bugs belong to the March fly family and are related to fungus gnats, mosquitoes, sand flies and biting midges.

3. Love bugs are most common in the Southeastern United States and parts of Central America.

4. Love bugs mate twice a year, generally in late April to early May and in late August to early September. Swarms of male love bugs take flight, attracting female love bugs that attach to the males of their choice. The two love bugs remained intertwined, mating and feeding off of flowering plant nectar.

5. Female love bugs lay between 100 to 350 eggs per mating season. The bugs lay their eggs, which hatch two to four days later on grassy areas, usually on top of dead, decaying vegetation. The young love bugs usually remain in the areas of their births for 120 to 240 days. They then reach the pupa, or transformational, stage of their lives that prepares them for the adult mating season. The pupa stage typically lasts between 7 and 9 days, after which the bugs take flight and swarm until each one finds a mate.

Remember Zika?

Not a Central American drug gang, but the mosquito-borne virus that sent shivers through the Western Hemisphere in 2016.

An outbreak of Zika in Brazil in 2015 was linked to miscarriages and birth defects such as myoccephaly in children born to women who were pregnant when infected. The virus spread quickly the following year through the warm climates of South and Central America, into the Caribbean and the southern United States, primarily Florida and Texas.

In 2016, more than 5,000 cases with Zika symptoms were reported in the U.S.; 218 in Florida.

It was scary. The CDC advised pregnant women or women who might become pregnant not to travel to hot spots. Making it more dangerous was the fact Zika could be transmitted to women from a male partner who had been bitten by the carrier — the relatively rare Aedes aegypti mosquito — for as long as two months after symptoms appeared. Cases were reported in the Tampa Bay region, but were primarily confined to southeast Florida.

In all, as of 2019, 43,000 people had been infected in the Western Hemisphere, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

And then, Zika dissipated.

In February, the CDC said it had seen no cases of Zika in the United States this year. The agency downgraded previous warnings about travel to Florida and other areas of the southern U.S. The federal government also issued new guidelines for citizens traveling outside the country. While Zika was still present in Central and South America, it is far less prevalent than two years ago. The only country left on the watch list was India, where active outbreaks are still present.

The CDC now recommends that pregnant women and couples planning a pregnancy in the next three months consult a physician before traveling to assess the potential danger.

That's it. And that's good news, which merits mention.

It took awhile to get a full-on federal response rolling, due to infighting in Congress, but pressure from the public and Florida's congressional delegation succeeded in bringing supplemental CDC allocations of more than $250 million to the fight. The CDC established a registry and better testing procedures. The state's emergency management offices stepped up with identification and heightened eradication programs in mosquito-breeding areas.

It was an appropriate response to a potential threat to public health and an economy that depends on tourism. Apparently, the war on Zika was a success.

Working together as a community

An open letter to our Highlands County community:

Back to back incidents landed a one-two punch in Highlands County last Monday and Tuesday. Monday's propane fire event and Tuesday's Avon Park area brush/structure fire event tested our resources and response plans. These two events also highlighted our great and evolving working relationship between all of our local fire companies/jurisdictions, and between our paid and volunteer forces and the community.

The extremely volatile propane situation sent flaming projectiles in the air, some landing over ¼ mile away along highway [U.S.] 27, which we shut down. Unfortunately, 17 structures were lost across the street from the propane facility. Dropping embers also ignited several brush fires on the other side of highway 27, along Lake Josephine.

The Avon Park area Riverdale Road fire began

PUBLIC SAFETY

in thick brush along a roadway, before spreading to a house, a barn, nine vehicles and about three acres of brush.

Both incidents remain under investigation. Amazingly, the only injury through all of this mayhem, was the propane plant worker, Wayne McCall, who was severely burned. Wayne took steps to shut off the propane supply and notify the residents across the street to evacuate — his actions likely saved lives. Wayne has been talking with his family and his condition is improving.

Our community (residents and our firefighters, paramedics, EMT's, emergency management staff, dispatchers and sheriff's deputies) was confronted by quickly deteriorating conditions in these back to back significant fire events.

I want to thank not only all of our first responders, but also our community members who evacuated without question, who brought our firefighters drinking water while they were filling up tanker trucks, and who sent innumerable notes of thanks and appreciation in person and over Facebook. Thanks also to our county administrator and deputy administrator who helped our logistics staff deliver food to responders working the fires and staging areas Monday. Firefighters remained on the scene on Twitty Road for about 28 hours. I also want to thank our PIO who assisted me with the media, even though she was in class five states away.

If only coincidence, on May 4th we recognized International Firefighters Day (IFD), also known as St. Florian's Day. This day was chosen in memoriam of the 1998 line of duty deaths of five firefighters in a wildfire in Linton, Victoria Australia. May 4th has been recognized for over 150 years in Europe as the "day of feast of St Florian," the patron saint of firefighters. Saint Florian was the first known fire commander of the firefighting squad in the Roman Empire. Saint Florian lost his life protecting the same humane ideas that firefighters all over the world share today.

Thanks once again to everyone who helped out during these events, and many others we run every day. As we experienced these events last week and on May 7, as we memorialize the one-year anniversary of Deputy Gentry's death, I am reminded that only as a community working together will we be able to protect each other and make for a safer and more resilient Highlands County and beyond.

Marc Bashoor is public safety director of Highlands County, Florida.

Spring concert was a delight

Once again, my husband Don and I were privileged to attend the Lake Placid Middle and High School Orchestras' Spring Concert. The program was opened with musical selections by the LP bands (Beginning, Intermediate and Advanced) along with the Beginning Orchestra. We were treated to a wonderful performance by the students who were visibly engaged with their music and many were featured soloists.

A sincere thank you to Aristides Salgueiro, their conductor, for introducing them to and teaching them about the satisfaction of playing a musical instrument, along with the wonderful world of classic and popular pieces. "Amazing Grace" was just that ... amazing.

With all the negativity in the news of late, it's a pleasure to shine a spotlight on an entertaining and wholesome event.

Emphasize the first meaning

Sex in itself is overrated by Hollywood and our society as providing the ultimate in intimacy and happiness.

The first meaning of the word intercourse in Webster's Dictionary is sharing of thoughts and feelings which ends loneliness and provides intimacy, respect, and understanding without engaging in sexual activity.

Perhaps the much-needed education of emphasizing these facts in our schools when our children are young will prevent unethical behavior or temptation later in their life.

How accountable do they need to be held

This is my response to a letter to the editor on Saturday May 4, 2019.

Your remarks about restaurant inspections may have some merit, though I don't know the statistics as to how many are sickened by causes you remarked about. Truthfully, I can't remember any. I don't know of a local restaurant that has been taken to task for causing someone to become sick.

As for your views about not allowing service animals to be allowed; do you think the owners of these trained service dogs like having to depend on them to be a most important part of their existence? These animals are trained so well because lives do depend on their actions.

At the end of your writing you said you have eliminated several places. In your opinion, if the restaurant industry is as filthy and nasty as you suggest, my suggestion to you is to eliminate even more. Rather you decide to not eat out or not, please leave to folks that find it necessary to have a service animal alone so they can enjoy themselves when they choose to eat out.

Elected officials should know history

All people who run for public office should show that they have taken a course in American history. Our public officials of today show little knowledge of our past history.

Obama has done more to destroy the love that all races have for one another in America and the entire world. America is the melting pot of all races. We all bleed red.

Obama's role model in his youth was Rev. Wright, the religious leader who firmly believe in the division of races, unlike Martin Luther King who promoted love for all races.

In future elections, anyone who promotes race hatred should be barred from running for any public office as they have to represent all races. My ancestors are the Cherokee nation. Andrew Jackson, a former president, used my ancestors in our great Civil War and the war against the Cree nation. The Cherokees won the last battle of the Civil War at Brownsville, Texas, to win his way into the presidency of these United States. He rewarded the Cherokee Nation by stealing the biggest land grab in American history — Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

He removed the tribe to Oklahoma. It was called the Trail of Tears. Thousands died on this journey.

All we have left is part of the Blue Ridge Mountains around the Qualla Boundary and that is being held by the United States. They say for the safety of the Cherokee Nation.

Can we, as a native American tribe, believe Congress?

The athletes from the Heartland acquitted themselves quite well at the FHSAA State Track and Field Meet held Friday and Saturday in Jacksonville.

Leading the way was Avon Park distance runner Dylan Branch. The talented Red

Devil senior capped an outstanding high school career by finishing fifth in the 800 meters at the Class 2A State Meet in a school-record time of 1:53.44.

Branch also competed in the 1600 and finished fourth in a personal-best time of 4:21.19. Branch, who earned a medal in both events, has signed a track and cross country scholarship with Montreat College in North Carolina.

"Dylan is the best distance runner I've ever coached," said Avon Park co-track coach Chet Brojek. "It was very hot and humid in Jacksonville and he ran well in both events. He had a wonderful high school career and I'm sure he'll do very well in college."

Avon Park junior Emily Vargas also competed in two events. Vargas finished 10th in the 800 with a time of 2:19.67. She came back on Saturday to finish 10th in the 1600 in 5:21.67.

"I'm very proud of Emily," Brojek said. "She

The Sebring Sunrise Rotary Golf Tournament attracted a full field of 144 golfers on Saturday at Sun 'n Lake Golf Club.

The golfers competed in a four-person scramble format on the challenging and beautifully manicured Turtle Run course.

After the round was complete, the golfers enjoyed a luncheon and awards ceremony in the beautiful and scenic Island View Restaurant.

The Championship Flight Low Gross winners with a score of 54 was the foursome of Zane Chappy, Bob Murphy, Anthony Haney and Brandon McNees.

Placing second with a score of 56 was the talented team of Ryan Adair, Nick Maloyed, Joey Desimone and Bruce Beumel.

Coming in third place with a score of 58 was the quartet of Kip Doty, Pat Dell, Lars Bylund and Steve Welsh.

District baseball tournaments on tap

Avon Park, Lake Placid, Sebring host games tonight

By MARK PINSON
SPORTS EDITOR

The Avon Park, Lake Placid and Sebring High School baseball teams are ready for the second season.

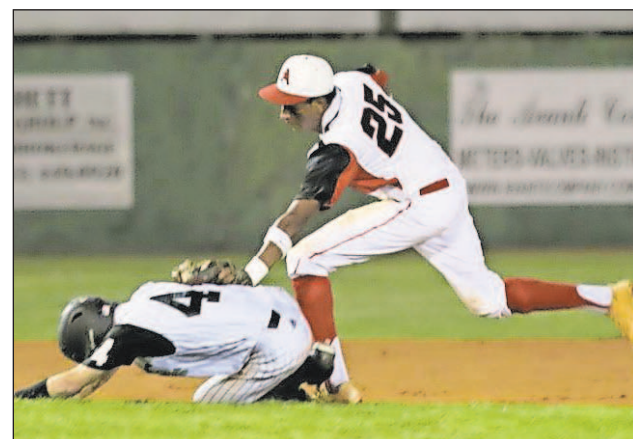

All of the hard work and practices put in during the regular season has been done and now it's time to play for their respective district championships.

Avon Park is the No. 1 seed in the Class 5A-District 8 tournament. The Red Devils open play at home at 7 tonight against the winner of Monday's game between Mulberry and Tenoroc.

Avon Park went unbeaten in district play and a win tonight would give the Red Devils home field advantage for the district championship game on Friday night.

"It doesn't matter if we play Mulberry or Tenoroc," said Avon Park coach Whit Cornell. "We swept both of them during the season, but that doesn't mean anything now. We have to come out, play our brand of baseball and take care of business. We're at home in front of our fans and we're looking forward to playing."

overcame an injury and some adversity to have a terrific season. She is a hard worker. loves to run and I'm looking forward to seeing what she can accomplish her senior year."

Avon Park also had its girls 4x800 relay squad qualify for the Class 2A State Track Meet. Vargas was a member of the squad along with Kiersten Oca, Amy Schlosser and Adrianna Hernandez.

The quartet ran well but did not qualify for the finals.

Lake Placid was represented at the Class 2A State Track Meet by sophomore Christy Shank in the pole vault competition.

Shank scratched on her attempts and did not make it to the finals.

Sebring High School competed in the boys 4x400 relay at the Class 3A State Track Meet.

The Blue Streaks finished 14th overall in a time of 3:23.56. Members of the relay squad were Shareal Taylor, junior Chase Doty, junior Jaheim Sanders and junior Jabari Knighten.

"I'm real proud of the boys," said Sebring co-track coach Renee Crenshaw. "It was rough in Jacksonville because most of Friday's running events were cancelled because of rain and storms. The FHSAA reseeded the relay teams and put us in a fast heat. We finished sixth in that heat and came in 14th overall which is pretty good. All of the kids worked hard and we had a good season."

Lake Placid is in Class 5A-District 12. The Green Dragons, who are 9-11-1 overall, have had an up and down season but will be at home for tonight's 7 p.m. game against DeSoto.

A win tonight, would put Lake Placid in Friday night's district championship game.

Sebring is in Class 6A-District 10. The Blue Streaks, who are 10-14 on the season, host Auburndale at 7:30 tonight at Firemen's Field. Sebring beat Auburndale in their first game by a score of 6-3. The Bloodhounds came back to win the second game by a score of 8-5.

A win tonight would put Sebring in the district final on Friday night.

The district champion earns a regional quarterfinal home game next week, while the district runner-up goes on the road for their regional quarterfinal.

Plenty of beans

My husband, Peter, is preparing for the End Times. This might not be literally true, but it would certainly appear to be if you checked out the food supplies we have stashed away. Peter hates the fact that packages now contain less than they used to while the price continues to rise. He is infuriated when products substitute less quantity and quality and try to “get away with it.”

“Whenever I find a product I like, they discontinue it or change

we would never admit it. We met when we were both technically past “middle-age,” although I notice that “middle-age” seems to be a very elastic term. Not a lot of us are going to be around at 120, yet 60 still qualifies it!” Peter laments. I tell him he sounds like an old person. Peter and I are getting to be old people — although as “middle-age” to every 60-year-old I know. Meeting when we did meant some accommodations on our part. When I moved in with Peter, he relinquished his entire bedroom closet and moved his clothes into the spare bedroom, seeming to realize intuitively that we were past the age of peacefully cohabiting a wardrobe. Peter accepts that his closet will never again be his and I have accepted that Peter derives great comfort in having plenty of the essentials on hand — and not paying a lot for shipping. Nothing bothers Peter more than shipping charges. “They want $15 to ship those beans!” Peter said, outraged, once we found a tasty variety of bean that was grown locally. Peter investigated. It turned out he could order a 50-pound bag and save a substantial amount per pound on shipping. “Fifty pounds?” I asked. “Yeah!” Peter explained how much he’d be saving. “But...fifty pounds of beans?” I clarified. “It’s a great deal!” Peter insisted. “Where are we going to keep them?” “Um... Maybe next to your desk?” I had an image of myself getting slowly blocked at my writing desk, surrounded by food stuff. Somehow, my glamorous image of “The Writer at Work” had not included her straddling a 50-pound burlap sack of beans. We waited several days for word the beans had shipped. When we heard nothing, Peter wrote to the small supplier. An exasperated employee wrote back: They haven’t shipped yet because I’ve been working here alone and I can’t lift 50 pounds! I felt bad, ordering enough beans to put someone in danger of back injury. I wondered how our poor UPS driver was going to feel about dropping off this 50-pound bag. Still, it’s nice knowing Peter is looking out for us. I lived alone for quite a while before I met Peter and there hasn’t been an accommodation I haven’t

Raindrops keep falling on my head

It’s become that time of year again, when you can tell the time of day by the approaching or exiting rain and thunderstorms. All of us who have lived in Highlands County throughout the summer season can attest that the midday storms are usually pretty well scheduled, hitting around 3 in the afternoon nearly every day.

GUEST COLUMN
Annsley Bohlman

Living in central Florida means that we are dealing with a subtropical to a tropical climate. This means that we have hot, humid summers followed by very mild winters. This also means that there is a swell in rainfall during the summer. Other subtropical climates, such as those in south and southeast Asia, face monsoons during the rainy season due to the increased rainfall.

Florida reports more thunderstorms per year than most other parts of the country, outside of the tropics. Furthermore, Florida has the highest density of lightning strikes out of all states. This means that lightning is a real danger to those living in Florida, and several deaths are blamed on lightning per year. Thunderstorms during the summer are a result of several influencing factors. To begin, there is an increase of warm and cold air mixing during the summer, and Florida is perfectly positioned to receive any little storm that might come out of the mixing of air temperatures. Furthermore, during the incredibly hot days in summer, the intense surface heat combined with strong subtropical sun angles can lead to thunderstorms and rainfall.

This is something we find specific to the summer. After all, our winters in Highlands County are often quite dry and we might even experience water shortages during the winter. Considering that many other parts of the county are plagued by snow and ice in the winter, this makes Florida the oddity among the other states.

Personally, I enjoy living in Florida. Aside from all the crazy ‘Florida Man’ stories and the constantly rising coastal population, I enjoy seeing the sun nearly every day. After all, people have historically chosen to come to Florida for the weather. Those of us who live here are fortunate to not have to travel far to feel like we’re on an island vacation.

Something else that I’ve come to love about the weather in Highlands County is the feeling right before the rain starts. When the sky is dark grey and heavy with rain. The wind picks up, shaking the trees, and you can feel the water in the air. The buildup of the storm is something all Floridians are familiar with. In fact, it has even come paired with the commonly uttered phrase “Looks like its ‘bouta rain.”

Other interchangeable phrases that could also fit include: “There’s a storm coming” and “My car windows are down!” Okay, maybe that last one was mostly said by myself.

However you feel about the weather, all of us living in Highlands County can agree that this is a system and climate specific to central Florida. It distinguishes Florida from other states, even if that means potential flooding from May to October.

The Kingsborough Art Museum is located on the campus of Kingsborough Community College, The City University of New York and museum director, Dr. Brian E. Hack will host the show, Tide and Time: Paintings by Frank Lind from April 17 through May 15.

The exhibition focuses on the theme of the seascapes and brings together many of Lind’s recent and masterful compositions dedicated to his long considered subject of the Atlantic Ocean. Frank Lind has been addressing the sea and shore for a good part of his long and impressive art career. A Rhode Island native, Lind is a lover of water sports and also creates works of art so dramatic and true to life that viewers can almost their living room paint colors. It's so rewarding to have this special relationship with each one."

DOROTHY HARRIS/CORRESPONDENT

Brittany Queen provides a color service to seven-year client, Lourdes Seralta, at Cut N Up Salon in downtown Sebring.

Starting with Barbie dolls long ago, Queen always knew what she wanted to do. She admitted none of her dolls had any hair after a while. Graduating from a local Christian school, she entered cosmetology training at South Florida Community College at the tender age of 17.

"The instructor, Mary Starling, was wonderful. I just loved her, everyone does." She also recalls her delight in the aroma of perm solution. "It sounds crazy but I long for them to return to fashion because I like the scent so much." She remembered being the fastest perm wrapper in hair school, but if tight curls don't return, it's clear her own fan club does.

Lourdes Seralta has been a client for seven years. She finds Queen to be dependable with great color skills. "She's so gifted," Seralta gushed. "She just has that touch."

Yvette Hendry was also cosmetologist early on to put herself through college. Teaching English at Sebring High School for the past 19 years, she found Queen and loves how she helps clients feel beautiful.

From all hair services to facial waxing, deep conditioning treatments, high-lights and root touch ups, or maintenance services, as Queen refers to them, her downtown Sebring location and welcoming hospitality provide a great experience.

Her children recall growing up in the salon. "We were always here," said daughter Bailey. From chalk drawing on the sidewalk out front to coloring near the shampoo bowls, Queen's children found time to visit with customers as they helped with shop chores throughout the years.

"My kids know it takes a family to run a business and we've all grown up right along with it," Queen added. Having a super supportive husband helps. "He's always right there during all my business adventures."

Longtime clients, like Brittany Fann, have been with Queen since the very beginning. Now the pair, more friends than business associates, work together on Fann's Beauty Fit for a Queen endeavors. "We do the hair and makeup for the girls and really enjoy being able to pour positive affirmation into these teens."

Queen works hard but insists Highlands County is full of talent and anyone who wants to work in a rewarding career like hers should go for it. "You can do this," she insisted. "Don't neglect your dreams."

Cut N Up Styling Salon is located at 116 N. Ridgewood Drive in Sebring. By appointment only at 863-385-7777.

been happy to make.

One day, Peter looked at me seriously.

"I sometimes think about how sad I'd be if you were gone," he told me.

"I'm not going anywhere!"

"I know, but I think how sad I'd be," he said.

"That's gloomy!"

"No, it's not," he insisted.

"It is!"

"You want me to think, 'Yay! She's gone!'"

"No, I don't want you to think that!"

"Well then!" Peter said, feeling he'd proven his point.

"I only get two choices?"

The truth is, I get a lot of choices — especially now, at what I will continue to call (for the foreseeable future) "middle-age." I'm happy with my choices. I'm happy my life is different because it is attached to another person's life. And, to be completely truthful, it's kind of a nice feeling knowing I have plenty of beans.

Same day mastectomy home recovery programs benefit patients

American Society of Breast Surgeons

Comprehensive post-operative mastectomy home recovery programs significantly increased same-day patient discharge with no decrease in quality-of-care in two new studies presented last week at the annual meeting of The American Society of Breast Surgeons.

"Research demonstrates the safety of same-day home recovery for well-chosen mastectomy patients. Yet, utilization remains low," comments Brooke Vuong, MD of Kaiser Permanente South Sacramento Medical Center, lead author of one study. "Many women feel more comfortable recuperating in a familiar environment, and risks of hospital acquired conditions are reduced, while inpatient resources are available for higher acuity patients."

May Lynn Quan, MD of University of Calgary, lead author of the second study, notes, "Wound pain, shoulder movement and some psychological healing have demonstrated superiority in a home environment. With proper education and support many patients can recover and return to normal activities more quickly."

With a government mandate to provide consistent quality-of-care and enhanced patient experience in 13 hospitals throughout the Canadian province of Alberta, Dr. Quan and her team developed a program to support home recovery as the standard-of-care for all mastectomy patients. The multi-pronged approach provided patient education about the care journey from diagnosis to survivorship with special emphasis on post-surgical expectations and potential problems as well as pathways to access clinical feedback and care.

A mastectomy education booklet, group classes and online resources also were developed for patients and families. From pre-admission to operating and recovery room staff, the entire care team was educated about the program to ensure they understood the process and delivered consistent information. "We found patients really wanted to go home following surgery," says Dr. Quan. "They felt empowered to play an important role in their recovery, and hospital staff themselves became better informed about the mastectomy process."

The program was developed and implemented across the province during an 18-month period. Data was collected for same-day patient discharge, emergency visits and readmission. Since implementation, home recovery participation has risen from 1.2% to 40% through 2018. Of the 102 patients participating in a voluntary post-operative survey, 91% indicated they felt "excellent or good" with the plan to go home, 93% felt "excellent or good" caring for themselves, and 93% felt "excellent or good" about knowing how to access support if needed. A standardized questionnaire designed to measure the quality of recovery one week following surgery on issues from pain management to the ability to eat, sleep and care for themselves, as well as general well-being and return to routines, found an average score of 7.9/10.

The study examined home care rates and quality-of-care measures for all women undergoing mastectomy for six months prior to and following program implementation. Prior to the program, 165 of 626 or 26% of mastectomies were outpatient procedures. Following implementation, 404 of 620 or 65% were home recovery. Despite the increase in home recovery, the study found no statistical differences in emergency visits, reoperation or readmission.

"Notably," adds Dr. Vuong, "at study launch only 18% of mastectomies were outpatient, while during the last month in the study, the figure had risen to 79%. That reflects the tremendous satisfaction of all stakeholders in the program."

Both surgeons agree that increasing post-mastectomy home care adoption is an important goal.

and various hues. Lind's paintings take on and highlight the vast expanse of the ocean yet make it relatable, intimate, close. Gallery patrons will marvel at the highly realistic artistic results of this show as very few artists can capture the power and grace of nature as poignantly as Frank Lind.

Lind has been drawn to the long and important tradition of American landscape painting put forth by such famous painters as William Merritt Chase, Winslow Homer, and James A. M. Whistler, among others for decades. He is not afraid to go beyond the typical and concentrate on the movement of the sea and how time and space change along the active shoreline. In this new exhibition, Lind shows his ability to capture and highlight the power of the ocean from the rough Atlantic and beyond. Dramatic scenery, attractive colors, and new compositions of this time-tested subject matter are all united in this fine exhibition by a master at the height of his talents.

Frank Lind continues to paint from his studio in Brooklyn, NY and his work resides in important public and private collections worldwide.

US sending aircraft carrier to Mideast, citing Iran threats on American forces

'The United States is not seeking war with the Iranian regime, but we are fully prepared to respond to any attack ...'

By LOLITA BALDOR and ZEKE MILLER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The U.S. is sending an aircraft carrier group to the Middle East ahead of schedule and warning that Iran and its proxy forces are showing “troubling and escalatory” indications of a possible attack on American forces in the region.

Exactly what prompted the action was unclear, but it marked a further step in sharply rising tensions between the Trump administration and the Islamic Republic.

National security adviser John Bolton said Sunday night the U.S. was deploying the USS Abraham Lincoln Carrier Strike

Group and a bomber task force to the Middle East, intending to send a message that “unrelenting force” will meet any attack on American forces or allies.

“The United States is not seeking war with the Iranian regime, but we are fully prepared to respond to any attack, whether by proxy, the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps or regular Iranian forces,” Bolton said.

Neither Bolton nor other officials would provide any details about the supposed threat, which comes as the Trump administration wages a campaign of intensifying pressure against Iran and nearly a year after it withdrew from an Obama-era nuclear deal with Tehran.

In Iran, the semi-official ISNA news agency on Monday quoted an anonymous official as saying that Iranian President Hassan Rouhani planned a broadcast address Wednesday and might discuss “counteractions” Tehran will take over America’s withdrawal from the international nuclear deal.

The agreement limited Iran’s enrichment of uranium amid Western concerns that Tehran’s program could allow it to build nuclear weapons.

Iran insists its program is for peaceful purposes.

With its pressure campaign, the U.S. administration is trying to get Iran to halt activities such as supporting militant activities that destabilize the Middle East and threaten U.S. allies, including Israel, Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said.

“Our objective is to get the Islamic Republic of Iran to behave like a normal nation,” Pompeo told reporters during a visit

UN report: Humans accelerating extinction of other species

1 million species of plants and animals are at risk of extinction

People are putting nature in more trouble now than at any other time in human history, with extinction looming over 1 million species of plants and animals, scientists said Monday.

But it’s not too late to fix the problem, according to the United Nations’ first comprehensive report on biodiversity.

“We have reconfigured dramatically life on the planet,” report co-chairman Eduardo Brondizio of Indiana University said at a press conference. Species loss is accelerating to a rate tens or hundreds of times faster than in the past, the report said. More than half a million species on land “have insufficient habitat for long-term survival” and are likely to go extinct, many within decades, unless their habitats are restored. The oceans are not any better off.

“Humanity unwittingly is attempting to throttle the living planet and humanity’s own future,” said George Mason University biologist Thomas Lovejoy, who has been called the godfather of biodiversity for his research. He was not part of the report.

“The biological diversity of this planet has been really hammered, and this is really our last chance to address all of that,” Lovejoy said.

Conservation scientists convened in Paris to issue the report, which exceeded 1,000 pages. The Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES) included more than 450 researchers who used 15,000 scientific and government reports. The report’s summary had to be approved by representatives of all 109 nations.

Some nations hit harder by the losses, like small island countries, wanted

Treasury denies Democrats’ request for Trump tax returns

By ANDREW TAYLOR and JONATHAN LEMIRE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin has made it official: The administration won’t be turning President Donald Trump’s tax returns over to the Democratic-controlled House.

Mnuchin told Ways and Means Committee Chairman Richard Neal, D-Mass., in a Monday letter that the panel’s request “lacks a legitimate legislative purpose” as Supreme Court precedent requires.

In making that determination, Mnuchin said he relied on the advice of the Justice Department. He concluded that the Treasury Department is “not authorized to disclose the requested returns and return information.” He said the Justice Department will provide a more detailed legal justification soon.

The move, which was expected, is sure to set in motion a legal battle over Trump’s tax returns. The chief options available to Democrats are to subpoena the IRS for the returns or to file a lawsuit. Last week, Neal promised “we’ll be ready” to act soon after Monday’s deadline.

Treasury’s denial came the same day that the House Judiciary panel scheduled a vote for Wednesday on whether to find Attorney General William Barr in contempt of Congress for failing to comply with a subpoena for a full, unredacted copy of special counsel Robert Mueller’s report. Fights with other House panels are ongoing.

“I will consult with counsel and determine the appropriate response,” Neal said in a statement Monday.

Neal originally demanded access to Trump’s tax returns in early April under a law that says the IRS “shall furnish” the returns of any taxpayer to a handful of top lawmakers, including the chair of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee. He maintains that the committee is looking into the effectiveness of IRS mandatory audits of tax returns of all sitting presidents, a way to justify his claim that the panel has a potential legislative purpose. Democrats are confident in their legal justification and say Trump is stalling in an attempt to punt the issue past the 2020 election.

The White House and the president’s attorneys declined to comment on the deadline to turn over Trump’s returns.

Harry and Meghan love story takes new turn: a baby boy

By GREGORY KATZ and MISTYSLAV CHERNOV
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WINDSOR, England — The improbable love story between an American actress and a British royal took the best of all possible turns Monday with the arrival of a healthy baby boy.

The as-yet-unnamed baby arrived less than a year after Prince Harry wed Meghan Markle in a spectacular televised event on the grounds of Windsor Castle that was watched the world over.

Meghan is now the Duchess of Sussex, but she still does things her own way: The couple bucked royal tradition by declining to say where the baby was born and opting not to come out to pose with the newborn just hours after the birth.

Instead, an obviously overjoyed Harry emerged to tell the world — via its waiting TV cameras — that a baby had been born. It marked a moment the nation is likely to remember as a once-troubled boy undone by the death of his mother Princess Diana in 1997 car crash seemed giddy in his embrace of fatherhood. “This little thing is absolutely to die for,” the ginger-haired, bearded prince said. “I’m just over the moon.”

The baby weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces (3.26 kilograms) at birth and was born at 5:26 a.m. (0426 GMT; 12:26 a.m. EDT). Harry said their son was a little bit overdue and that had given the royal couple more time to contemplate names.

Harry promised that more details — such as the baby’s name — will be shared in the coming days.

Harry and the palace didn’t immediately provide details on whether the baby was born at a hospital or if it

Gaza quiet after Israel, Hamas agree to cease-fire

The Israeli military has lifted protective restrictions on residents in the south

By ARON HELLER and FARES AKRAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

JERUSALEM — The Israeli military lifted protective restrictions on residents in the south on Monday, while Gaza's ruling Hamas militant group reported a cease-fire deal had been reached to end the deadliest fighting between the two sides since a 2014 war.

The escalation had killed 25 on the Gaza side, both militants and civilians, while on the Israeli side four civilians were killed by incoming fire.

The Islamic Jihad militant group, which Israel accused of instigating the latest violence, confirmed that a "mutual and concurrent" truce had been brokered by Egypt. Hamas spokesman Hazem Qassem said Egyptian mediators, along with officials from Qatar and the U.N., helped reach the deal. He said Hamas could still use "different pressuring tools" to get Israel to ease a crippling blockade of Gaza.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu pointedly noted that "the campaign is not over, and it requires patience and judgment."

Plane was heavy with extra fuel before deadly crash landing

A Russian airliner that took off from Moscow was airborne for just 28 minutes before returning to make an emergency landing

By JIM HEINTZ
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — A Russian airliner that took off from Moscow was airborne for just 28 minutes before returning to make an emergency landing while still heavy with unburned fuel, which then ignited after a rough touchdown.

Flames quickly engulfed the aircraft, killing 41 of the 78 people aboard.

A day after Sunday's horrifying accident at Sheremetyevo airport, Russian news media quoted the pilot, Denis Evdokimov, as saying he followed procedures for landing with excess weight. But the crew reportedly did not dump any fuel, which is common for flights that have to land soon after takeoff to prevent being overly heavy.

The pilot said he was not certain why the plane landed hard. Video showed flames bursting from the jet's underside as it touched down, then raging across the rear of the Sukhoi SSJ100's fuselage within seconds as the airliner bounced down the runway.

"Everything happened right away, at lightning speed. There was a strong blow — my eyes almost popped out — a second was a little quieter, a third, and then smoke, and it started to burn immediately," survivor Marina Sitnikova was quoted as telling the magazine Snob.

When the plane came to a halt, some of the people aboard plunged down inflatable slides deployed from the forward part of the plane.

Some of those who escaped were carrying luggage, raising concerns that grabbing their bags may have delayed an evacuation in which every second was critical.

"I do not know what to say about people who ran out with bags. God is their judge," survivor Mikhail Savchenko wrote on Facebook.

Evdokimov said the plane had lost radio communications because of a lightning strike, but it was not clear if that precipitated the emergency landing.

A flight attendant said there was a sharp flash soon after the Aeroflot flight took off, bound for the northern

A crane works at the site of the damaged Sukhoi SSJ100 aircraft of Aeroflot Airlines in Sheremetyevo airport, outside Moscow, Russia on Monday, May 6. A Russian airliner burst into flames while making an emergency landing at Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport Sunday evening, and at least 40 people died, officials said.

city of Murmansk.

"We took off, got into a cloud, there was strong hail, and at that moment there was a pop and some kind of flash, like electricity," flight attendant Tatiana Kasatnikova said in a video posted on YouTube.

Russia's main investigative agency said both of the plane's flight recorders — data and voice — were recovered from the charred wreckage.

Agency spokeswoman Svetlana Petrenko was also quoted by Russian news agencies on Monday as saying that investigators were looking into three main possibilities behind the cause of the disaster: inexperienced pilots, equipment failure and bad weather.

Storms were passing through the Moscow area when the plane landed.

One survivor praised the plane's attendants for helping save him and others.

"It was dark and there was gas, very high temperature. They helped people out of there, helped them to descend," Dmitry Khlebnikov said, according to Komsomolskaya Pravda.

The SSJ100, also known as the Superjet, was heralded when it went into service in 2011 as a new phase for Russia's civil aviation industry. It was introduced as a replacement for outdated Soviet-designed aircraft.

But the plane has been troubled by concerns about defects in the horizontal stabilizers. Russia's aviation authority in 2017 ordered inspection of all Superjets in the country because of the problems. A Mexican airline, Interjet, grounded Superjets in December 2016 and later said it was phasing them out of the fleet.

Deceased pets recovered from plane in Florida river

They couldn't save animals in the cargo area because it was under water

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Deceased pets have been recovered from a chartered jet that ran into a river at a Florida military base.

Naval Air Station Jacksonville said in a statement late Sunday that a dog and two cats were recovered in their carriers from the Boeing 737 that skidded into the St. Johns River after landing at Naval Air Station Jacksonville.

None of the 143 human passengers and crew members had serious injuries from the landing Friday night.

Despite trying twice, rescuers were unable to remove the pets from the cargo area immediately after the landing because that section of the plane was underwater. Divers were sent in Sunday to retrieve the animals.

Base officials said another cat that flew in the plane's cabin was safely removed by the cat's owner.

Meanwhile, the operator of the plane on Monday offered $2,500 to each passenger as a "goodwill gesture."

Miami Air International made the offer to the 136 passengers in an open letter from the airline's CEO expressing regret for what happened. The Boeing 737 was traveling from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba when it landed at the Florida base, skidding into the river.

Passengers lined up on the planes wings while they waited for rescuers, who arrived within a few minutes.

"We understand and appreciate the difficult experience you endured," wrote CEO Kurt Kamrad.

HEADLINES AROUND THE STATE

Records: Cracks in Miami bridge grew 'daily' before collapse

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Just hours before a pedestrian bridge collapsed and killed six people at a Miami university, engineers confirmed that cracks in the concrete structure "increased in length daily," according to meeting records released Monday by the Florida Department of Transportation.

The meeting included officials from the state and Florida International University, which was building a pedestrian bridge over a busy roadway when the span fell onto traffic, killing six people in March 2018. Minutes of the meeting were released after previously being blocked as the National Transportation Safety Board investigated the collapse. Cracks found in the span were discussed at length.

"CEI confirmed cracks have increased in length daily," the notes said, referring to the construction, engineering and inspection team.

The Florida Department of Transportation asked FIGG Bridge Group, the company that designed the span, "Are you going to continue to figure out why it happened?"

"FIGG responded that all we 'know is that it just happened,'" said the notes taken by the university.

FIGG went on to say that there was no concern about the safety of the span and that nothing should be done about repairing the cracks until after construction of the back span. The construction and inspection team still raised concerns, saying, "it wanted more eyes on this and that the more eyes on this, the better. FIGG concurred."

Hours later, the 174-foot-long span fell onto traffic flowing on a busy highway beneath the bridge.

While the state released the records, it said it wouldn't comment further until after the NTSB finishes its investigation.

ICE to train Florida officers to serve federal warrants

LARGO (AP) — The country's immigration enforcement agency has announced a new partnership in Florida to allow some sheriff deputies to serve warrants on behalf of the federal government.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement said in a statement Monday that Pinellas County is the first jurisdiction to participate, but more have expressed interest. ICE will train deputies for one day to enable them to arrest people on immigration charges while they are in jail and already facing other charges.

The American Civil Liberties Union quickly condemned the plan, saying local agencies would risk violating search and seizure laws. The warrants are not reviewed by a judge.

The Florida Legislature last week passed a contentious bill that requires jails to hold people for ICE.

Last year, several Florida law enforcement agencies agreed to increase cooperation with the agency.

Police: Officer driving home hits, kills woman lying in road

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Authorities say a police officer driving home after work ran over and killed a woman who was lying on a Florida expressway.

The Florida Times-Union reports that a Jacksonville officer was driving a marked patrol vehicle when the crash occurred about 2:40 a.m. Sunday on Interstate 295.

The Jacksonville Sheriff's Office says the officer was headed home after a shift. A witness who was with the woman confirmed to investigators that she was lying in the road when she was hit.

Authorities haven't identified the officer or the woman.

It wasn't immediately clear why the woman was in the roadway.

Deputies: Man shot with wife's gun at supermarket

LAND O' LAKES (AP) — A man who Florida authorities originally said had accidentally shot himself in a supermarket checkout line was actually shot by his wife's gun.

The Pasco County Sheriff's Office told the Tampa Bay Times on Monday that deputies' investigation shows that 69-year-old Vernon Messier was shot Sunday when his wife's purse fell off a counter at a Land O' Lake Publix, causing the two-shot derringer inside to fire.

The bullet struck Messier in the shin. Deputies said 67-year-old Lillian Messier has a concealed weapons permit. No charges are expected and deputies said Vernon Messier is recovering.

Beginning prison sentence, Cohen has harsh words

By MICHAEL R. SISAK and JIM MUSTIAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Michael Cohen took a last swipe at President Donald Trump while reporting to federal prison Monday to start a three-year sentence for crimes including tax evasion and campaign finance violations related to hush-money payments made to protect his former boss.

Cohen, who turned on Trump last summer after a decade as his personal lawyer, fixer and “take a bullet” loyalist, didn’t mention the president by name, but he left little doubt about whom he blamed for his incarceration.

“I hope that when I rejoin my family and friends that the country will be in a place without xenophobia, injustice and lies at the helm of our country,” Cohen told reporters outside his Manhattan apartment. “There still remains much to be told, and I look forward to the day where I can share the truth.”

Cohen, 52, then stumbled through a crush of media, ignoring shouted questions, and got into a waiting Cadillac Escalade, which drove him to jail 70 miles northwest of New York City.

He got a slight jump on his prison sentence, arriving at the Federal Correctional Institution, Otisville, at around 11:45 a.m., more than two hours before a court-imposed deadline.

The prison has a minimum-security camp that’s become known for the white collar criminals it houses and the amenities — including tennis courts, bocce ball and rugelach in the commissary.

Cohen — officially Inmate No. 86067-054 — took off the blue blazer he wore on the ride up and left it with his driver before walking into prison, where he was to be provided with a khaki uniform.

Cohen had fought to delay or reduce his sentence but failed in a last-ditch effort to convince federal prosecutors that his cooperation in various investigations related to Trump warranted leniency.

Cohen is the only person charged with a crime in connection with the hush-money payments to women who allegedly had affairs with Trump. Federal prosecutors have said Trump directed Cohen to arrange the payments to buy the silence of porn actress Stormy Daniels and former Playboy model Karen McDougal in the run-up to the 2016 election. Trump denies having trysts with either woman.

Cohen also pleaded guilty to lying to Congress about a Trump Tower project in Moscow, to bank fraud, and to tax evasion charges that stemmed, not from his dealings with Trump, but from his failure to report income from other business interests.

At Cohen’s sentencing last December, his lawyer requested that he be placed at Otisville, which Forbes once ranked as one of “America’s 10 Cushest Prisons.” He was originally scheduled to start his sentence in March, but a judge granted a two-month delay so he could recover from surgery and get his affairs in order.

Cohen will spend the first few weeks of his sentence in admission and orientation. He’ll undergo medical and mental health screenings and be assigned a job, such as mowing the grounds or cleaning up the visiting room. If he wants to work on a tell-all, he’ll have to skip sleep or exercise to do so.

Cohen’s fellow inmates include “Jersey Shore” star Mike “The Situation” Sorrentino, who wraps up an eight-month tax fraud sentence in September, and Fyre Festival fraudster Billy McFarland, who’s serving a six-year sentence.

Coffee cup in ‘Game of Thrones’ perks up viewers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — “Game of Thrones” fans got a taste of the modern world when eagle-eyed viewers spotted a takeout coffee cup on the table during a celebration in which the actors drank from goblets and horns.

The characters Daenerys and Jon did not react to the out of place cup in Sunday’s episode.

Many viewers complained the show should have caught the gaffe, which turned into an enduring meme on Monday.

HBO poked fun at the oversight: “The latte that appeared in the episode was a mistake. Daenerys had ordered an herbal tea.”

Amateur sleuths tried to determine where the coffee cup came from, with But some viewers who took to Twitter concluding it was from Starbucks. HBO only said it was from its craft services crew.

Even the show’s executive producer, Bernie Caulfield, expressed disbelief that the cup made it on screen.

“Our onset prop people and decorators are so on it, 1,000%,” she said in an interview with Alison Stewart on WNYC’s “All of it.”

“Nowadays you can’t believe what you see because people can put things into a photo that really doesn’t exist, but I guess maybe it was there, I’m not sure,” she said. “We’re sorry!”

She also joked that Westeros was the first place to actually have a Starbucks: “It’s a little known fact.”

The last “Game of Thrones” episode airs May 19.

US stocks slide after threat to raise tariffs

By DAMIAN J. TROISE and ALEX VEIGA
AP BUSINESS WRITERS

Fresh market jitters over the possibility of an escalation in the costly trade war between the U.S. and China pulled stocks broadly lower on Wall Street Monday.

President Donald Trump threatened over the weekend to raise tariffs on goods imported from China. Trump complained that the trade talks between the two countries are moving too slowly.

Stocks slumped early but then gradually recovered a good portion of the losses, a sign that investors’ hopes of a trade deal haven’t dimmed entirely. China remained committed to sending a delegation to talks later this week in Washington despite the Trump threat, and some investors appeared to conclude that the president’s warning was just more high-stakes posturing. However, after the market closed, U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said that the tariff increases that Trump threatened to impose on China would go into effect 12:01 a.m. Eastern time Friday. He did say negotiations would resume Thursday in Washington.

The ratcheting up of the trade rhetoric from Washington came after the U.S. and China sent signals in recent months that talks on resolving the dispute were progressing.

The S&P 500 dropped 13.17 points, or 0.4%, to 2,932.47. At one point, the benchmark index had been down 1.6%.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 66.47 points, or 0.3%, to 26,438.48. It had been down as much as 471 points in the first few minutes of trading.

A medical history helps physicians understand patients

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am 77 years old. When I go to a new doctor, there is always that past history form to fill out. I know to include current medications, including OTC and allergies, but how far back should I go?

Should I include the tonsillectomy when I was in grade school (I don't recall how old I was)? Or the surgery to remove a benign tumor from my right femur in 1955? The miscarriage in 1961? Or that the last of my five children was born over 40 years ago?

I would include the surgery because my right leg is about 3/4 inch shorter than my left. After all these years, it causes a back ache after standing too long. — S.B.

ANSWER: In general, doctors want all the information you can give.

However, past medical history tends to become less important as people get older. I agree with you that the surgery on your femur is important: Even now, a leg-length discrepancy may still benefit from being addressed.

A small (half the discrepancy or less) adjustment to the shoe of your shorter right leg may help reduce your backache.

If I were your new doctor, it would be important to me to know you had a 40-year-old son (and about the rest of your children), but that would be more to know who you are as a person. I also ask my patients to identify someone in their family who can help make decisions if you are unable to. That should be done formally, through a health care proxy designation, which is complementary to the advance directive that all adults should have.

It's a privilege for me as a primary care doctor to get to know my patients and follow them over years, sometimes many years.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I've read about a new drug for depression that is supposed to work quickly. Is it safe? — N.F.

ANSWER: Ketamine, like many biological molecules, has two forms that are mirror images of each other. Esketamine, the more active of the two, has recently been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for treatment of depression, and is the first new class of approved depression medication in years.

It is striking how quickly it works. With the intravenous drug, test subjects found their mood improving within hours, as opposed to the weeks it takes most current drugs to work. With the nasal spray form, the kind just approved by the FDA, benefit began within two hours and persisted throughout eight weeks of follow-up. It is not yet clear how long the effect will last and whether (or more likely, how often) additional doses will be necessary in long-term use. It is approved to be given only in a doctor's office, and only for people who have been resistant to other medications.

There are significant potential harms. Blood pressure goes up after the dose, and people can have sedation and disorganized thinking after treatment. For now, the drug is given only through a restricted distribution system.

I am cautiously optimistic. Depression is a serious disease with treatments that are not as effective as we would like. Any new type of treatment is a source of hope; however, I have seen potential "miracle drugs" turn out to be only moderately useful.

Daughter tries to mediate among estranged family

DEAR ABBY: My sister "Thea" has distanced herself from the family. I understand why she did. Our parents were mentally, physically and emotionally abusive while we were growing up, with one who instigated the issues and the other taking it out on us kids.

I feel stuck in the middle of chaos.

My parents have started to work on their behaviors and make amends for past conduct.

It comes a bit too late for apologies, even for me, but I decided to give them a second chance since they seem sincere. Thea told them she wants nothing to do with them.

Recently, she contacted me asking me to suggest that my parents help out a family member who was in dire straits.

I told Thea I would suggest it, but I couldn't guarantee what their response would be. Their response was that if she wanted something from them, she needed to ask them herself and not through an intermediary.

I'm at a loss as to how to tell both sides that I'm tired of being the middleman, as this has become an emotional thing between all parties involved.

I'm also not sure how to open the discussion for them to air their differences whether they reconcile or not. Help! — Stuck In The Middle

DEAR STUCK: Thea has cut herself off from your parents for good reason.

You are no more "in the middle" than you want to be.

Tell your sister that if a family member is in trouble, THAT person should approach your parents and ask for help, not do it through you or another intermediary.

Dear Readers: Need a quick ride? You can download a RIDE-SHARING APP to your phone. Here are some hints for your safety:

Take note of your driver's name, rating and car make, and wait in a safe spot until he or she arrives.

Take a picture of the vehicle before you get in, and sit in the back seat.

Giving your phone number to the driver is not necessary.

Follow the route with a maps tool on your phone. If you feel unsafe at any time, you can always call 911.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There's a time to challenge people and a time to make things easy and fun. You've an excellent sense of which mode to use for any given situation, and for this reason, you'll be tapped for leadership.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Reactions can be even more important than actions. There are people close to you who count on your feedback and will take your response to heart, whatever it may be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The story doesn't really start until the main character decides to stop letting life happen to her and start happening to life. You'll reach that point in your story today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll put out a certain strength, and you'll attract the equally strong. They'll have different talents from yours, and together you'll be a force to be reckoned with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). There's nothing wrong with sacrificing something of yourself for the good of others. But when they consistently miss the inherent gift that is you doing you, maybe what they need isn't a sacrifice so much as a wake-up call.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). One man's gossip is another man's good information. The spirit of the talk is what matters to you. When the motive is self-elevation at the cost of another, you'll want nothing to do with it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Ideas have a liberating effect. They can unstick what's stuck, create what didn't exist, save the day. Exercise your idea muscle by coming up with a few each day. The more ideas you have, the more you will have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). If you're not sure what you should do next, look to your feelings for clues. If your feelings are confusing, look to your likes and dislikes. It's like playing a game of "hot" and "cold" with yourself. Simple questions lead to discovery.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). In centuries past, it definitely wasn't at all uncommon for people to never travel beyond their own village. Now there's really no good excuse for confining yourself thusly. So when's your next mind-expanding adventure?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Someone needs to keep the action on track, or time and money will be wasted. You're the perfect person to set a tone. You have excellent instincts and superb taste, and you'll stay to the point.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). It's fun to see people you love doing interesting things and succeeding — until it's not. When it hits uncomfortably close to home, take it as your cue to do the thing you haven't been letting yourself do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Here comes an opportunity to carry your name to a larger number of potential new friends, fans and customers. You'll have a deal of fun positioning and presenting yourself.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 7). It doesn't seem like freedom would be a bonding agent, but easing up on the rules and limits will actually help you feel more connected to people, especially over the next six months. You'll grow in confidence and take on new sorts of adventures. There's a windfall in July and a status bump up in October. Capricorn and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 29, 35, 1 and 48.

The bidding:
EAST 2♣* SOUTH Pass WEST Pass NORTH Dbl
 Pass 2♥ Pass Pass 4♥
 All pass
 *Weak two-bid in either major

Opening lead: Ace of ♠ Multi Two Diamonds is a very popular convention around the world, but it sees little action in North America. An opening bid of two diamonds shows a weak two-bid in one of the major suits, to be determined by subsequent bidding.

This deal arose in a recent Australian tournament, and the Australian West passed two diamonds, guessing that his partner's suit was hearts and hoping two diamonds would be a better spot. North-South bounced into four hearts, and West, who might well have bid four spades at the end, decided to defend. Perhaps he was hoping his partner had five good hearts. The defense would have gone well had West led his ace of spades and the defense could no longer prevail.

When visiting American expert Karen McCallum sat East, she opened a more traditional two spades. Maybe not traditional, exactly, but normal for our old friend Karen. Partner raised her to four spades, doubled by North, and McCallum brought it home after a heart lead with careful play. She ruffed in dummy and led a trump. McCallum won in hand with her queen and led the queen of clubs. There was nothing North could do to defeat the contract.

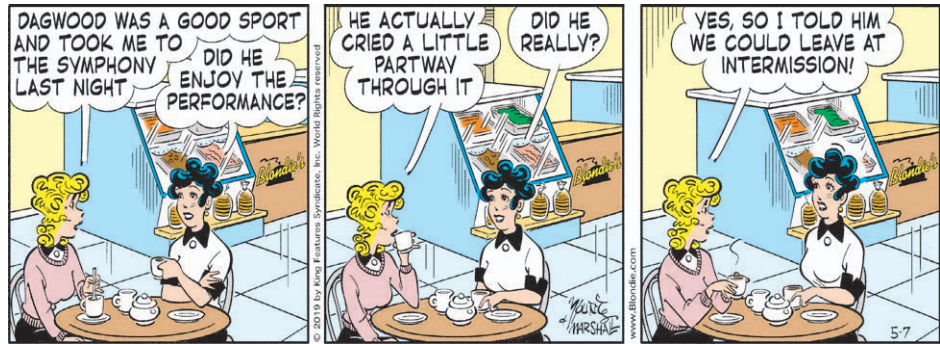

Despite this result, we are a fan of Multi Two Diamonds and we wish it was legal in all events in North America. It's fun! Both to play it and to play against it.

to Finland. “When they do that, we will welcome them back.”

The order to the carrier group would get the Abraham Lincoln into the Middle East about two weeks earlier than initially planned following exercises in the Mediterranean region, according to a U.S. defense official who wasn't authorized to speak publicly, so spoke on the condition of anonymity. It forces the ships to cancel a planned stop in Croatia.

For years, the U.S. maintained a carrier presence in the Persian Gulf and Middle East region. During the height of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, there were two carriers in the area, but that was reduced to one.

Last year the administration decided to end the continuous carrier presence, and send a strike group only intermittently into the region. The U.S. Navy currently has no aircraft carrier in the Persian Gulf.

Bolton said the U.S. wants to send a message that “unrelenting force” will meet any attack on U.S. interests or those of America's allies.

Jon Alterman, senior vice president at the Center for Strategic & International Studies, questioned whether the U.S. adequately understands Iranian motivations and actions, and whether the military move was warranted.

“I don't think we should let the Iranians pull our chain at the time and place of their choosing,” he said. “You can communicate seriousness to the Iranians without moving a lot of assets around, because moving assets is expensive and keeps assets from being in other places.”

He added, however, that Iran has the capability to harm Americans, but it's difficult to assess the situation without knowing more about the intelligence that prompted the move.

Mark Dubowitz, who studies Iran for the Washington-based policy institute Foundation for Defense of Democracies, said a credible threat of overwhelming force “will make war less likely.”

Along with the Lincoln, Bolton mentioned “a bomber task force,” which suggested the Pentagon is deploying land-based bomber aircraft somewhere in the region, perhaps on the Arabian Peninsula.

Pompeo said the actions undertaken by the U.S. have been in the works for a while. The request for the accelerated move came over the weekend from the military's U.S. Central Command after reviewing various intelligence reports for some time, according to the U.S. official. Acting Defense Secretary Patrick Shanahan approved the request on Sunday.

“It is absolutely the case that we have seen escalatory actions from the Iranians and it is equally the case that we will hold the Iranians accountable for attacks on American interests,” Pompeo said. “If these actions take place, if they do by some third-party proxy, a militia group, Hezbollah, we will hold the Iranian leadership directly accountable for that.”

Asked about “escalatory actions,” Pompeo replied, “I don't want to talk about what underlays it, but make no mistake, we have good reason to want to communicate clearly about how the Iranians should understand how we will respond to actions they may take.”

Asked if the Iranian action was related to the deadly events in Gaza and Israel — militants fired rockets into Israel on Sunday and Israel responded with airstrikes — Pompeo said, “It is separate from that.”

The Trump administration has been intensifying its pressure campaign against Iran.

Last month, President Donald Trump announced the U.S. would no longer exempt any countries from U.S. sanctions if they continue to buy Iranian oil, a decision that primarily affects the five remaining major importers: China and India and U.S. treaty allies Japan, South Korea and Turkey.

The U.S. also recently designated Iran's Revolutionary Guard as a terrorist group, the first ever for an entire division of another government.

more in the report. Others, such as the United States, were cautious in the language they sought, but they agreed “we're in trouble,” said Rebecca Shaw, chief scientist for the World Wildlife Fund, who observed the final negotiations.

“This is the strongest call we've seen for reversing the trends on the loss of nature,” Shaw said.

The findings are not just about saving plants and animals, but about preserving a world that's becoming harder for humans to live in, said Robert Watson, a former top NASA and British scientist who headed the report.

It's also an economic and security issue as countries fight over scarcer resources. Watson said the poor in less developed countries bear the greatest burden.

The report's 39-page summary highlighted five ways people are reducing biodiversity:

— Turning forests, grasslands and other areas into farms, cities and other developments. The habitat loss leaves plants and animals homeless. About three-quarters of Earth's land, two-thirds of its oceans and 85% of crucial wetlands have been severely altered or lost, making it harder for species to survive.

— Overfishing the world's oceans. A third of the world's fish stocks are overfished.

— Permitting climate change from the burning of fossil fuels to make it too hot, wet or dry for some species to survive. Almost half of the world's land mammals — not including bats — and nearly a quarter of the birds have already had their habitats hit hard by global warming.

— Polluting land and water. Every year, 300 to 400 million tons of heavy metals, solvents and toxic sludge are dumped into the world's waters.

— Allowing invasive species to crowd out native plants and Development that's led to loss of habitat, climate change, overfishing, pollution and invasive species is causing a biodiversity crisis, scientists say in a new United Nations science report released Monday.

animals. The number of invasive alien species per country has risen 70% since 1970, with one species of bacteria threatening nearly 400 amphibian species.

Fighting climate change and saving species are equally important, the report said, and working on both environmental problems should go hand in hand. Both problems exacerbate each other because a warmer world means fewer species, and a less biodiverse world means fewer trees and plants to remove heat-trapping carbon dioxide from the air, Lovejoy said.

The world's coral reefs are a perfect example of where climate change and species loss intersect. If the world warms another 0.9 degrees, which other reports say is likely, coral reefs will probably dwindle by 70% to 90%, the report said. At 1.8 degrees, the report said, 99% of the world's coral will be in trouble.

At least 680 species with backbones have already gone extinct since 1600. The report said 559 domesticated breeds of mammals used for food have disappeared. More than 40% of the world's amphibian species, more than one-third of the marine mammals and nearly one-third of sharks and fish are threatened with extinction.

The report relies heavily on research by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, or IUCN, which is composed of biologists who maintain a list of threatened species.

The IUCN calculated in March that 27,159 species are threatened, endangered or extinct in the wild out of nearly 100,000 species biologists examined in depth. That includes 1,223 mammal species, 1,492 bird species and 2,341 fish species. Nearly half the threatened species are plants.

Scientists have only examined a small fraction of the estimated 8 million species on Earth.

The report comes up with 1 million species in trouble by extrapolating the IUCN's 25% threatened rate to the rest of the world's species and using a lower rate for the estimated 5.5 million species of insects, Watson said.

Outside scientists, such as Lovejoy and others, said that's a reasonable assessment.

The report gives only a generic “within decades” time frame for species loss because it is dependent on many variables, including taking the problem seriously, which can reduce the severity of the projections, Watson said.

“We're in the middle of the sixth great extinction crisis, but it's happening in slow motion,” said Conservation International and University of California Santa Barbara ecologist Lee Hannah, who was not part of the report.

Five times in the past, Earth has undergone mass extinctions where much of life on Earth blinked out, like the one that killed the dinosaurs. Watson said the report was careful not to call what's going on now as a sixth big die-off because current levels don't come close to the 75% level in past mass extinctions.

The report goes beyond species. Of the 18 measured ways nature helps humans, the report said 14 are declining, with food and energy production noticeable exceptions. The report found downward trends in nature's ability to provide clean air and water, good soil and other essentials.

Habitat loss is one of the biggest threats, and it's happening worldwide, Watson said. The report projects 15.5 million miles of new roads will be paved over nature between now and 2050, most in the developing world.

Many of the worst effects can be prevented by changing the way we grow food, produce energy, deal with climate change and dispose of waste, the report said. That involves concerted action by governments, companies and people.

Individuals can help with simple changes to the way they eat and use energy, said the co-chairman of the report, ecological scientist Josef Settele of the Helmholtz Center for Environmental Research in Germany. That doesn't mean becoming a vegetarian or vegan, but balancing meat, vegetables and fruit, and walking and biking more, Watson said.

Mnuchin has said Neal's request would potentially weaponize private tax returns for political purposes.

Trump has privately made clear he has no intention of turning over the much-coveted records. He is the first president since Watergate to decline to make his tax returns public, often claiming that he would release them if he was not under audit.

“What's unprecedented is this secretary refusing to comply with our lawful ... request. What's unprecedented is a Justice Department that again sees its role as being bodyguard to the executive and not the rule of law,” said Rep. Bill Pascrell, D-N.J. “What's unprecedented is an entire federal government working in concert to shield a corrupt president from legal accountability.”

But the president has told those close to him that the attempt to get his returns was an invasion of his privacy and a further example of what he calls the Democrat-led “witch hunt” — like Mueller's Russia probe — meant to damage him.

Trump has repeatedly asked aides as to the status of the House request and has not signaled a willing to cooperate with Democrats, according to a White House official and two Republicans close to the White House.

He has linked the effort to the myriad House probes into his administration and has urged his team to stonewall all requests. He also has inquired about the “loyalty” of the top officials at the IRS, according to one of his advisers.

Trump has long told confidants that he was under audit and therefore could not release his taxes. But in recent weeks, he has added to the argument, telling advisers that the American people elected him once without seeing his taxes and would do so again, according to the three White House officials and Republicans, who were not authorized to speak publicly about private conversations and spoke on condition of anonymity.

BABY

The infant is seventh in line to the British throne and is the eighth great-grandchild of 93-year-old Queen Elizabeth II, Britain's longest reigning monarch.

It is a satisfying moment for the queen as the monarchy grows in popularity in part because of public affection for Harry, his older brother Prince William, and their two wives, Meghan and Kate, the Duchess of Cambridge.

Harry, the 34-year-old son of Prince Charles, said he was present at the birth.

“It's been the most amazing experience I could ever have possibly imagined,” he said. “How any woman does what they do is beyond comprehension.

“We're both absolutely thrilled and so grateful for all the love and support from everybody out there. It's been amazing, so we just wanted to share this with everybody,” he said.

Word that the baby had been born was withheld while senior members of the royal family, including the queen, were told. Princess Diana's family was also informed.

Buckingham Palace said minutes before 2 p.m. that Meghan had gone into labor (in fact the baby had already been born) and Harry emerged less than an hour later to announce the birth in person.

Harry's dramatic announcement, and his obvious pleasure, sparked cheers among royal fans and well-wishers who had gathered outside the imposing grounds of Windsor Castle hoping to hear the news.

Some people in Windsor said it would provide a welcome respite from the continuing political stalemate over Brexit. Londoners Pam and Keith Jonson said the news will provide a boost to peoples' spirits.

Buckingham Palace said Meghan's mother, Doria Ragland, was also with her daughter and was overjoyed with the baby's arrival.

Harry said he planned to make another announcement, probably in two days' time, “so everyone can see the baby.” It's expected they will pose for a family picture at that point.

The arrival of a boy was something of a surprise because Britain's legal bookmakers several weeks ago stopped accepting bets on the baby's sex because so many people had placed bets on the baby being a girl.

Meghan has brought something new and different to the royal family. She is an American who enjoyed a successful career in show business before joining “the firm,” as the royals are known to many.

The child will be eligible for dual citizenship, but Harry and Meghan have not said whether they plan to apply for American status.

Harry has long spoken of his desire to start a family. He had several serious relationships, but they collapsed in part because of the pressure of constant press scrutiny, leading Harry to vow to protect Meghan from intrusive reporting. He has complained publicly about a racist undertone in coverage of Meghan, who has a white father and an African-American mother.

Blake Snell sparkles, Rays rout Diamondbacks 12-1

Snell allows 1 hit in 6 innings, Pham hits grand slam as Rays roll against D-Backs

By FRED GOODALL
AP SPORTS WRITER

ST. PETERSBURG — Reigning AL Cy Young Award winner Blake Snell took a perfect game into the sixth inning and Tommy Pham hit his first career grand slam, leading the Tampa Bay Rays over the Arizona Diamondbacks 12-1 on Monday night. Snell (3-3) rebounded from allowing a career-high seven runs over three innings of an 8-2 loss at Kansas City last week to hold the Diamondbacks without a hit until Ildemaro Vargas singled through the hole between shortstop and third base with two outs in the sixth.

The 26-year-old left-hander, who has struggled this year after leading the AL with 21 wins and a 1.89 ERA last season, hit the next batter with a pitch before getting Tim Lincecum on a groundout that ended his 83-pitch outing. Snell struck out nine.

Chaz Roe relieved to start the seventh and Casey Sadler allowed an unearned run in the ninth to finish a two-hitter before 8,124, the lowest at Tropicana Field since September 2017.

Pham's grand slam off Merrill Kelly (3-3) finished a five-run second inning that put the AL East leaders up 6-0. Daniel Robertson and Avisail Garcia drove in three runs apiece for the Rays, who have the best record in the majors.

Kelly, a 30-year-old rookie who began his pro career in the Rays organization, allowed seven runs and seven hits in four innings.

Before Vargas broke up the perfect game on a 1-0 pitch, the closest the Diamondbacks came to getting a hit was John Ryan Murphy's third-inning line drive that Robertson, the Tampa Bay shortstop, snared with a leaping catch.

Arizona's Christian Walker worked the count to 3-2 with one out in the fifth before taking a third called strike.

Garcia had a two-run homer off Murphy, the Arizona catcher who pitched the eighth inning for the Diamondbacks.

PORT CHARLOTTE. — Port Charlotte scored in every inning and got a complete game from pitcher Damian Ashley in rolling to an 11-2 win over North Fort Myers in a Class 6A-District 11 baseball quarterfinal Monday night.

The Pirates pounded out 15 hits as everyone in the lineup hit safely, led by designated hitter Zach Koerick with three hits and five RBIs. Hunter Wilder, Will Hepner, and Mitchell Derocher added two hits apiece.

"Damian did a great job for us tonight," Port Charlotte coach Rodney Taylor said. "Kept his pitch count down in the mid 80s for a complete seven inning game. We scored in every inning and gave him some run support tonight." Ashley allowed six hits, walked one and struck out six.

The Red Knights got on the scoreboard first in the top of the first inning as RJ Tejada singled, advanced on a groundout and scored on a throwing error.

But the Pirates quickly evened the score in the bottom of the frame as Scotty McLean led off with a single, stole second, moved up on ground out, and came home on a single by Wilder.

Port Charlotte took the lead for good in the bottom of the second inning as Ashley singled and courtesy runner Jeremy Swofford scored on Hepner's double to make it 2-1.

The Pirates worked the hit and run to perfection in the third inning. With Wilder on second after reaching on a base hit, Koerick hit a ground ball deep in the hole at short.

Six-time Pro Bowler answers critics with post: "Don't you ever question me!"

By RICK STROUD
TAMPA BAY TIMES

TAMPA — It's time for the Bucs to make a decision. Rip the Band-Aid off. Frozen molasses doesn't move this slow. Does Gerald McCoy stay or does he go?

A couple weeks ago after the NFL draft, coach Bruce Arians began to call out of the names of the Bucs returning players on defense like Santa's reindeer: Now Stewart and Davis and Hargreaves and Vea. On Allen and Evans, Pierre-Paul and David. But do you recall the most famous Pro Bowler of all?

Nope. Not one mention of McCoy. But this week, the situation is likely to come to a head.

That's because all the talk about McCoy not being worthy of his $13 million salary, all the Twitter trolls insisting he should be participating on the off-season workout program, well, it finally got to him.

McCoy took to his Instagram account to post a video of him working out Sunday, his children in tow.

"Cinco de Mayo," McCoy said in the video. "Everybody out, probably getting ready to drink, probably drinking right now. No matter. You want to question me? See what I do on Cinco de Mayo. I work. I work."

Maximum Security out of Preakness

After controversial call at Kentucky Derby, disqualifying horse will appeal decision

By GARY B. GRAVES
AP SPORTS WRITER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Taken down as the Kentucky Derby winner, Maximum Security is now out of the Preakness.

Maximum Security's owner said Monday he will not run the horse in the middle jewel of the Triple Crown and will appeal the disqualification as Derby winner.

Gary West told The Associated Press by phone there is "really no need, not having an opportunity to run for the Triple Crown to run a horse back in two weeks."

The 1 1/8-mile Preakness is May 18 at Pimlico Race Course. Though shorter than the Kentucky Derby, the race requires a quick turnaround. West didn't want to burden his colt with the Triple Crown off the table.

Maximum Security is scheduled to leave Churchill Downs on Monday and arrive Tuesday at Monmouth Park, where trainer Jason Servis is based, the New Jersey track said.

"The horse will be better off long term with the rest," West said. "He ran a really good and a really hard race on Saturday."

"Really, there are a lot of other Grade 1 races the rest of the year for 3-year-olds. So we'll let him gather himself and point to one of the other races. I don't know which one that will be, but it will definitely not be the Preakness."

Maximum Security, the first to finish the muddy race by 1 3/4 lengths on Saturday, became the first Derby winner to be disqualified for interference. After an objection by two riders, stewards ruled the colt swerved out and impeded the path of several horses between the far and final turns. Country House, a 65-1 shot, was elevated to first.

Country House's status for the Preakness is unclear. That race would mark his fourth start in eight weeks.

New Sex Cream Works Like Magic for Older Men

Recent warnings on sex drugs leads to the creation of an amazing no pill option; key ingredients activate special sensation pathways, enhancing erections and triggering arousal

Daniel Watson
Medical News Today

BOSTON — The medical community now has a safer and more effective alternative to sex pills, which they can immediately start offering to male patients. It will not require a prescription.

The alternative, called Sensum™, is an amazing new sex cream that activates a sensation pathway on the penis known as TRPA1.

When applied as directed, it leads to incredible arousal and much more satisfying erections.

It also promotes powerful climaxes and ultimately results in significant improvements in performance.

“Men can expect outstanding sexual improvements with regular use. The penis will become hyper sensitive, making them easily aroused and excitable” explains Dr. Henry Esber, the Boston based scientist who introduced Sensum™ to market.

“And that’s because Sensum™ does what no other sex pill or drug has done before — it stimulates a special sensory pathway right below the skin, which leads to phenomenal sensation.”

Overtime, constant exposure (especially if circumcised) leads to decreased penis sensitivity, which can cause problems with arousal and erection quality. There just isn’t enough feeling to get excited.”

“Diabetes, anti-depressants and normal aging also leads to desensitization, a can make the situation even worse.”

“This is what makes Sensum™ so effective and why the clinical studies and clinical use studies have been so positive.”

MISDIAGNOSIS LEADS TO UNNEEDED PRESCRIPTIONS

After years of clinical research and testing, Dr. Esber and his team have discovered an incredible compound that triggers arousal while helping men achieve erections more easily.

This compound isn’t a drug. It’s the active ingredient in Sensum™.

And according to users, it produces sensational results. Many men report remarkable improvements in sexual performance and overall satisfaction.

They are more sexually active than they’ve been in years with the average Sensum™ user over the age of 50.

Clinical studies show Sensum™’s key ingredient activates the TRPA1 sensation pathway right below the skin of the penis.

According to research, many men adults and seniors who suffer sexually have lost sensation in their penis due to constant rubbing and exposure and health related issues such as diabetes, hernia surgery, use of some anti-depressants, multiple sclerosis, and other type of illnesses.

This desensitization often makes sex extremely challenging. Without a 100% feeling in the penis, its next to impossible to get truly aroused.

Worse, modern day sex drugs have absolutely no effect on sensation and are laden with side effects. They simply stimulate an erection by enhancing blood flow.

It’s why most men are rarely satisfied after taking them and why Sensum™ users are always stocking up on more and couldn’t be happier.

“We knew the science behind Sensum™ was there, but we never expected results like we’re seeing. It’s far exceeded our expectations” said a spokesperson for the company.

A STAGGERING 80% IMPROVEMENT IN SENSITIVITY

Researchers have conducted several clinical studies on Sensum™ and the results from the most recent are undoubtedly the most impressive.

A data analysis of three clinical surveys of 370 men showed that an amazing 80% of Sensum™ users experienced dramatic improvements while using the cream and as a result were aroused easier and a phenomenal boost in performance.

Additionally, 77.4% of men also reported much more satisfying climaxes, making sex for both them and their partners nearly 300% more satisfying.

“I have full feeling and sensitivity back in my penis. Everything feels better. My erections are harder, I’m more easily aroused, I can finally climax again. This stuff honestly works like magic in the bedroom. I couldn’t be happier at 66!” raves one Sensum™ user.

HOW SENSUM™ WORKS

Sensum™ is a new sex cream for men that’s to be applied twice a day for the first two weeks then just once every day after.

There are no harmful side effects for either the user or partner. It also does not require a prescription.

The active ingredient is an organic compound known as cinnamaldehyde with a patented combination of sexually rousing extracts.

Research shows that as men get older, they often lose sensitivity to the penis.

Although very subtle, this desensitization can significantly hinder sexual performance and lead to serious problems with becoming aroused and staying/getting hard.

The cinnamaldehyde in Sensum™ is one of the only known ingredients to activate a special sensation pathway on the penis called TRPA1. Once activated, it restores tremendous sensation to the penis, stimulating arousal and powerful erections.

This would explain why so many users are experiencing impressive results so quickly and why the distributors of Sensum™ offer their low cost cream with an amazing guarantee.

GUARANTEE DISCOUNTED SUPPLY TAKES RISK OFF CONSUMERS

A large percentage of men report life changing results with Sensum™. That’s why it is now being sold with an above-industry standard guarantee.

“We can only make this guarantee because we are 100% certain this cream works,” says Esber.

“We want to take risk off the consumers. So besides offering massive discounts, we’re also offering this guarantee, so they don’t have to risk a cent.”

Here’s how it works: Use the cream exactly as directed and you must feel a significant improvement in sexual sensations. You must be more easily aroused with harder, longer lasting erections and be having the best sex you’ve had in years.

Otherwise, simply return the empty bottles. Then, the company will refund your money immediately.

HOW TO GET SENSUM™

This is the official release of Sensum™. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to any reader who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Florida residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-308-3443 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Sensum™ is currently available in your region.

Consumers who miss out on our current product inventory will have to wait until more becomes available and that could take weeks. The company advises not to wait. Call 1-800-308-3443 today.

Bruins put away Blue Jackets to advance to conference final

By MITCH STACY
AP SPORTS WRITER

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Tuukka Rask made 39 saves and recorded his sixth career playoff shut-out as the Boston Bruins beat the Columbus Blue Jackets 3-0 Monday night to clinch their second-round series and advance to the Eastern Conference final.

Rask was supported by great defensive play in front of the net in the Bruins’ third straight victory for a 4-2 win in the best-of-seven series, which came despite being outshot 39-29 in Game 6.

Boston advances to face the Carolina Hurricanes, who swept the New York Islanders in four games. The Bruins advanced to the Eastern Conference final for the first time since the 2012-13 season, when they lost in the Stanley Cup finals.

David Krejci scored in the first period, and Marcus Johansson and David Backes had third-period goals for the Bruins, who gave up four power plays to the Blue Jackets but stonewalled

Columbus goalie Sergei Bobrovsky had an outstanding postseason but allowed two quick goals in the third period that sealed another hard, tight-checking game and the series for Boston.

NBA: Bucks 113, Celtics 101

Giannis has 39, Bucks beat Celtics 113-101, lead series 3-1

By JIMMY GOLEN
AP SPORTS WRITER

BOSTON — Giannis Antetokounmpo had 39 points and 16 rebounds to lead the Bucks to a 113-101 victory over the Boston Celtics in Game 4 of their second-round playoff series on Monday night and move Milwaukee within one win from its first trip to the Eastern Conference finals since 2001.

The Bucks have won three straight since losing the opener of the best-of-seven series at home. They can eliminate the Celtics in Game 5 at home on Wednesday night and reach the East finals for the first time since the ‘01 team of Ray Allen and Glenn Robinson fell to Philadelphia’s Allen Iverson and Dikembe Mutumbo in seven games.

One game after Antetokounmpo was two assists shy of a triple-double, he scored 17 points with seven rebounds in the fourth quarter to help the Bucks pull away.

Reserves George Hill, who scored 15 points, and Pat Connaughton, who had nine points and 10 rebounds, again led the Bucks bench, which outscored Boston’s 32-7.

In what might be his last home game for the Celtics, Kyrie Irving scored 23 points with 10 assists. But he was 7 for 22 from the floor, including 1 for 7 from 3-point range; after leading all scorers with 26 points in Boston’s Game 1 blowout, he has made 19 of 62 shots and just 4 of 20 from 3-point range.

Irving, who can become a free agent this summer, left the court to a lone fan shouting at him, “Don’t leave!”

Boston led by as many as 11 points before Connaughton made a long 3 at the first-quarter buzzer to make it 30-22. With about five minutes left in the second, the Bucks scored eight straight points to tie it.

Boston led 67-65 before Milwaukee scored 13 of the next 14 points — seven of them by Hill — to open a double-digit lead. The Bucks made it 12 points early in the fourth.

With the Celtics drawing a shot clock violation on their first possession of the fourth quarter, the crowd began booing. They were down 82-72 at the time after giving up a 9-0 run late in the third.

But the crowd was back on its feet, chanting “Let’s Go Celtics!” midway through the third, when Horford made a pair of baskets around a 3-point-er by Tatum to cut the deficit to five, 91-86 with 7:19 to play.

But that was as close as they got, as Brook Lopez hit a 3-pointer and Antetokounmpo followed with a putback to start a 3-point play to again make it a double-digit lead.

Former Pirate to play professionally in Taiwan

By BARBARA BOXLEITNER
SUN CORRESPONDENT

Morgan Coslor will continue her softball career professionally. The Port Charlotte High School graduate signed a contract in April to play for Chinese Taipei of the Taiwan Professional Women's Softball League.

The Sterling College (Kan.) senior catcher, who graduates May 11, said she sent out video of her play to coaches nationally and abroad while inquiring about available roster spots.

The Taiwan league features elite players, including those from Olympic and national teams. "They're one of the best leagues in the world," Coslor said. "I'm pretty excited."

She'll be departing May 16 to report to her new team. Coslor said the contract is good through the first part of the season, which has started, and that she returns June 26 to the U.S. when the league has a break in action. "If they like me and want me to come back, I'll go," she said.

This season, Coslor played in eight of 46 games, including just two in both March and April. She batted .308 with four runs batted in and had a .917 fielding percentage handling 12 chances.

She said she suffered an ankle sprain during a practice, and had her foot in a boot for a few weeks. Because the pain lingered, she wasn't healthy enough to stay in the lineup.

Coslor played the most as a sophomore, when she batted .277 with 15 RBIs in 45 games. She had a perfect fielding percentage in 41 chances.

Last year she hit .270 with 11 RBIs in 26 games and had a .969 fielding percentage in 65 chances.

Miami Dade College sophomore pitcher Tiffany Dodson was named to the Florida College System Activities Association all-Southern Conference first team. The Charlotte High alumna had a 12-13 record and a 3.93 earned run average in a team-high 27 appearances.

Miami Dade freshman infielder Dekoda Johnson was named to the all-Southern Conference second team. Out of DeSoto County High, she hit .319 in 47 games and had five home runs and 26 RBIs.

Campbell shines, Walls homers in 6-2 win over Miracle

Walls drives in three in return from injured list

BY STONE CRABS
PORT CHARLOTTE – Paul Campbell turned in a gem and Taylor Walls drove in three in his return from the injured list Monday, as the Charlotte Stone Crabs beat the Fort Myers Miracle 6-2 at Charlotte Sports Park.

Campbell (3-3) went 6.2 innings for the second straight time against the Miracle (20-11), allowing one run on four hits. He struck out six and walked one.

The Stone Crabs (15-16) wasted no time jumping on Miracle starter Edwar Colina. Jim Haley and Walls started the bottom of the first with singles to right. After a Thomas Milone walk loaded the bases, Tanner Dodson pulled a two-run single to right to give Charlotte a 2-0 lead.

After the Miracle got a run back in the top of the second, Joey Roach walked before Seaver Whalen was hit by a pitch to put two on with one out. The runners then moved to second and third on a Haley ground-out. The next batter was Walls, who lifted a sacrifice fly to left, which scored Roach to make it 3-1.

Leading by that margin in the bottom of the fourth, Roach led off the frame with a line drive double to the left field corner. Two batters later, Haley yanked a double to left to score Roach and make it 4-1. The next batter was Walls, who clocked a two-run homer to right to make it 6-1. Simon Rosenblum-Larson allowed one run on three hits over 1.2 frames before Mikey York got the final two outs to seal the victory.

The Stone Crabs will go for the series win on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. Brian Shaffer (0-0, 1.82) makes the start for Charlotte, against Bryan Sammons (3-0, 0.40) of the Miracle.

PIRATES

Koerick beat the throw to first, and Wilder scored all the way from second as he was running with the pitch.

The Knights cut the lead to 3-2 in the top of the fourth, but Port Charlotte added two more in their half of the inning. Eric Morales singled, Hepner followed with his second double of the night and Derocher singled up the middle to make it 5-2.

The Pirates got three more in the fifth off reliever Riley Reed as Wilder walked and stole second. Koerick doubled home Wilder, went to third on an errant pickoff throw and scored on a wild pitch. Ashley's single and another throwing error on a ball hit to third by Hepner brought in another run to make it 8-2.

In the bottom of the sixth, Andrew Rodriguez singled, Wilder walked, and Koerick followed with a home run over the left field fence to complete the scoring.

"We hit the ball well tonight," Taylor said. "I hope they keep rolling because they swung it well tonight. One through nine, up and down the lineup."

The Pirates, now 17-8, will host Island Coast in the semifinals Tuesday night.

Swarm of bees forces delay to game
Swarm of bees above backstop forces 18-minute delay

By JOE KAY
AP SPORTS WRITER

CINCINNATI — San Francisco Giants manager Bruce Bochy's last game in Cincinnati created more buzz than anyone imagined.

A swarm of bees circled above the backstop screen shortly before the start of the Giants' game against the Reds on Monday, prompting an 18-minute delay to the first pitch. The umpires and players moved away from the plate and watched the buzz from a safe distance.

The bees soon moved toward the upper deck — workers closed press box windows as they came that way — and the game went on without further incident.

Nothing new for the Giants. Not when they come to Cincinnati.

They also were involved in a bee delay here that got national attention on April 17, 1976. A swarm made its way into San Francisco's dugout, forcing players to flee. The game was halted for 35 minutes, and the Reds pulled away to an 11-0 victory. Bochy now has been involved in two unusual events at Great American Ball Park. The Giants were in town when one of the home run smokestacks in the outfield caught fire on May 15, 2015, forcing fans to evacuate two sections of the outfield while firefighters extinguished it.

Bochy is retiring after the season. The Reds honored him on the field Monday, before the bees arrived.

The Reds were involved in another notable bee delay on May 11, 1987, at Riverfront Stadium. A swarm prompted a 17-minute delay, and Reds pitcher Ted Power was stung on the hand.

Mets' Darling says he has been diagnosed with thyroid cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mets announcer Ron Darling says he has thyroid cancer and hopes to return to SNY's broadcast booth in about a month. Darling issued a statement April 13 saying he planned to have surgery to remove a large mass from his chest and hoped to return to work in May.

In a statement Monday, Darling says that after the removal of the mass and additional tests, the thyroid cancer diagnosis was made.

"My doctors have said they are optimistic that the cancer is treatable and that I would be back on air talking baseball in the next month or so," he said.

Darling, a right-hander, was 136-116 from 1983-95 and helped the Mets win the 1986 World Series.

YANKEES 7, MARINERS 3

NEW YORK (AP) — It had been a decade since pitchers with so many combined punchouts started the same game.

In this showdown between Félix Hernández and CC Sabathia, the New York Yankees landed their haymakers early.

The Yankees pounced on Hernández, hitting three homers in the first two innings to build a comfortable cushion for Sabathia in a 7-3 victory over the Seattle Mariners on Monday night.

Luke Voit, Brett Gardner and Thairo Estrada homered off Hernández while New York gave Sabathia a 7-0 lead and held on for its 12th win in 16 games. Hernández

(1-3) settled in after the second, completing five innings of seven-run ball.

Hernández had allowed just two homers in 12 career starts in the Bronx. He allowed three in seven batters Monday. "One of those nights when I didn't have my best stuff," Hernández said. Domingo Santana and Dee Gordon homered off Sabathia, but the oversized lefty limited Seattle to three runs over five innings. Sabathia (2-1) struck out five in his first start since becoming the 17th pitcher with 3,000 strikeouts last week.

ORIOLES 4, RED SOX 1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jonathan Villar hit a grand slam, John Means handcuffed Boston's torrid offense over seven innings and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Red Sox 4-1 Monday night. Villar connected in the second inning off Josh Smith (0-1), who was making his first start with Boston. The drive came after Villar was robbed of a first-inning double when a fan reached over the 7-foot wall and interfered with left fielder J.D. Martinez's effort to make a catch. Villar's second career slam was more than enough support for Means (4-3), who allowed one run and three hits, striking out four and walking none. Making his fifth career start and 10th appearance, the lefty shut down a power-laden lineup that scored 30 runs in a three-game weekend sweep of the White Sox.

After Paul Fry got two outs in the eighth, Mychal Givens completed the three-hitter to earn his fourth save.

Christian Vázquez led off the fifth with a double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Eduardo Núñez for Boston's only run. After winning six of seven, the Red Sox (17-19) were trying to get to .500 for the first time since March 29, when they were 1-1. Boston's streak of six consecutive games with a home run ended. The Red Sox clubbed a dozen long balls in that span and led the majors with 10 in May.

TWINS 8, BLUE JAYS 0

TORONTO (AP) — Martin Perez and two relievers combined on a three-hitter, Eddie Rosario hit his AL-leading 12th home run and the Minnesota Twins blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 8-0 on Monday night.

Rosario began the day in a four-way tie for the AL home run lead with Seattle's Jay Bruce, Texas' Joey Gallo, and New York's Gary Sanchez. Milwaukee's Christian Yelich had a ML-leading 15 home runs going into Monday's games.

Jason Castro homered and had three RBIs before leaving with a sore right elbow after he was hit by a pitch in the eighth inning. Castro is day to day.

Rosario also drove in three runs and Jorge Polanco had three hits, including a solo homer.

Perez (5-0) won his fourth straight start. The left-hander allowed two hits, both singles, in seven innings, his second straight scoreless outing. He pitched eight shutout innings against Houston on May 1.

Perez walked two and struck out a career-high nine. He's 4-0 with a 1.64 ERA in five starts since opening the season in the bullpen.

WHITE SOX 9, INDIANS 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tim Anderson chased Trevor Bauer after the All-Star tweeted a playful message to him earlier in the day, Yoán Moncada had a two-run homer and four RBIs, and the Chicago White Sox routed Cleveland Indians 9-1 Monday night to stop a three-game losing streak.

Bauer (4-2) matched career highs by allowing eight runs and seven earned runs in five-plus innings, and his ERA rose from 2.45 to 3.42. He had been 3-0 in his previous four starts. Chicago ended his streak of starts allowing four earned runs or fewer at 60, the second-longest in the major leagues since 1970 behind Greg Maddux's 106 from 1991-94.

Bauer tweeted a playful message to Anderson before the game.

"I'm all in on the bat flips man but if you could skip a day today that would be great," Bauer wrote. "Even the lord took a day of rest."

Anderson then chased him with a two-run single in the sixth. He had two hits and is batting .339 with a major league-leading 12 steals.

Last month, Anderson flipped his bat after a home run against Kansas City, and Royals pitcher Brad Keller hit him with a pitch, prompting benches to clear.

Moncada homered in the first, had a sacrifice fly in the third and an RBI double in the fifth. Leury García had three singles, and James McCann added a solo homer for Chicago.

Iván Nova (1-3) allowed one run and eight hits in seven innings for his first win since beating Milwaukee for Pittsburgh on Sept. 21. He had been 0-3 in his prior eight starts.

FOOTBALL: XFL

XFL reaches multiyear agreement with ESPN and Fox

By JOE REEDY

AP SPORTS WRITER

The XFL reached multiyear agreements with ESPN and Fox Sports on Monday to broadcast its games beginning in 2020.

The league also announced its season will start Feb. 8, the weekend after the NFL season ends with the Super Bowl.

This is the second time Vince McMahon has launched a football league. The first version of the XFL — a joint venture of WWE and NBC — lasted one season in 2001.

The only similarities this time are the name and that teams are in New York and Los Angeles. McMahon has created a separate company to run the XFL and has gone with established football executives to run it, including Oliver Luck as commissioner.

“We really think what the XFL brings with Oliver and Vince is a great combo,” said Mark Silverman, president of Fox’s sports networks. “We’ve seen some of the rules changes they have planned and are looking forward to working with them.”

Jeffrey Pollack, the XFL’s president and chief operating officer, said the league has been fortunate in its preparations to have the time and resources.

“There was a lot of interest from various networks about the league. This is further proof that we are situated in the best possible way and are approaching this with a long-term build in mind,” Pollack said.

All 43 XFL games — 40 regular season, three playoffs — will be televised with 24 on ABC or Fox. The remainder will air on ESPN, ESPN2, FS1 and FS2.

Luck worked with ESPN and Fox as partners when he was West Virginia’s athletic director.

“They both have a strong DNA in carrying football. That is very powerful when you have two major companies working hand in hand,” he said.

ABC will broadcast the league’s first game and Fox will have games on Saturday and Sunday during the XFL’s opening weekend. ESPN will show the championship game April 26.

The eight-team league has set its schedule with most games on Saturday and Sunday airing back-to-back. The final two weeks will have a Thursday night game on Fox.

“The technical innovations with cameras, data and player tracking are extremely interesting,” said Burke Magnus, ESPN’s executive vice President of programming. “We all share a vision for spring football and Vince has made it clear that with this version he is dropping hockey but not dropping the creativity.”

The talent agency CAA helped broker the deal and has a longtime relationship with McMahon. The company helped negotiate the latest WWE television agreement, which will have one of its shows moving to Fox on Friday nights starting in late September.

At right, in a Feb. 7, 2019, file photo, XFL Commissioner and CEO Oliver Luck makes comments during a news conference in Arlington, Texas. The XFL has reached multiyear agreements with ESPN and Fox Sports to broadcast its games beginning in 2020. The league also announced Monday, May 6, 2019, that its season will start Feb. 8, the weekend after the NFL season ends with the Super Bowl. This is the second time Vince McMahon has launched a football league.

“Having most of the games on ABC and Fox is a game changer compared to other spring football leagues,” said Alan Gold, head of CAA’s media division.

The Alliance of American Football folded after eight weeks last month but its ratings showed there is an appetite for spring football. The AAF averaged 400,000 viewers per game but only one game was on CBS with the rest on CBS Sports Network, TNT and NFL Network.

The AAF also paid up most of the production costs of games while the XFL is not paying anything to the networks. Silverman said that Fox was able to examine the league’s financial plan before making a commitment.

The XFL will also have teams in Dallas, Houston, St. Louis, Seattle, Tampa Bay and Washington. Head coaches have been hired for six teams, with Los Angeles and Houston the remaining openings.

“And I’ve got my kids with me. How many people doing that? All-Pro on and off the field. Want to question me? ‘Is he going to be ready? Does he love football?’ What? Y’all crazy. Lost y’all mind. I work. Don’t you ever question me!”

Surely this gets decided long before the quarto de Julio.

If the Bucs thought a trade for McCoy would materialize during the draft, it didn’t happen.

Really, they have nobody to blame but themselves.

Wasn’t it at the league meetings in Arizona at the end of March when Ariens all but said McCoy was no longer worth what they are on the hook to pay him in 2019?

“I got to evaluate him,” Ariens said. “I mean, guys at a certain age, it’s different. Usually, the age they get paid the most and production (doesn’t) match. We’ve got to find that out.”

When asked what the film said, Ariens also didn’t help McCoy’s value.

“He’s not as disruptive as he was four years ago. He’s still a good player,” Ariens said. “If he’s here, he’s our starting three- (technique). No doubt about that. Would I like to see him more disruptive? Yeah. We can use him. If he’s here, he’s going to be used a bunch. It’s just a matter of what happens.”

Finally, and this may be what McCoy referred to about people questioning if he loves football, Ariens seemed to wonder if the six-time Pro Bowl player still had a passion for the game.

If the Bucs thought a trade for McCoy would materialize during the draft, it didn’t happen.

“You still see his enthusiasm for the game. If he still has all that, I’m fine,” Ariens said.

Seems like McCoy answered that one himself on Instagram Monday.

It’s a shame, really. No matter whether you disliked him because he wasn’t Warren Sapp or blamed him for all the losing seasons, McCoy will be remembered as one of the best players to wear a Bucs uniform. His name will be in the Ring of Honor. They won’t be handing out No. 93 when his career is done in Tampa Bay.

But for some reason, McCoy still dangles.

The Bucs have only about $1.8 million under the salary cap, meaning they don’t have enough room to sign their draft picks.

They don’t need to sign them until the end of July, so time is on their side. And there are other players they could release to get the $8 million or so they need to sign draft picks.

Maybe the Bucs believe if they sit tight, some team will give them a low-round draft pick for McCoy.

But is that enough compensation to hold McCoy hostage?

If the Bucs do plan to part with McCoy, you have to assume they would like to try and prevent him from going to an NFC South team. Bucs lore is full of former players who have come back to haunt them.

Know this about McCoy: he’s in tremendous shape. He looks as lean as he did when he was selected No. 3 from Oklahoma in 2010. He also is motivated. McCoy rarely plays angry, but that’s the way he will start 2019.

McCoy believes he can play another 3-4 years. He’s made well north of $100 million, so money won’t be the main motivator. He wants to win a Super Bowl ring.

But will it be playing for the Bucs?

I don’t think the Bucs have tried to offer McCoy a chance to stay for less money. As soon as you suggest to a player he take a salary cut, the rest of the league will know you plan to release him.

If the Bucs plan to move on from McCoy, the one thing that would be helpful to them is if he didn’t sign with an NFC South team. Inasmuch as they can control his next landing spot, you would think they would want to do that.

It’s a crazy thought, but what if the Bucs believe they would be better off keeping McCoy? He did have six sacks and 21 quarterback hits last season. What if Ve’a gets hurt?

We’re almost through the looking glass now. If the Bucs have any notion of McCoy returning for 2019, they better start building a bridge for him to return to the AdventHealth Training Center.

Right now, it’s on fire.

extended spring training game, allowing two earned runs and three hits while striking out four. ... C Alex Avila (left quadriceps strain) caught Walker’s 47 pitches and went 1 for 3 at the plate. The Diamondbacks have yet to determine whether Avila will need a minor league rehab assignment.

Rays: RF Austin Meadows (sprained right thumb) went through a full workout and hopes to start a minor league rehab assignment this week. ... Manager Kevin Cash said Matt Duffy’s rehab assignment with Class A Charlotte for back and left hamstring injuries has been stopped because the third baseman “doesn’t quite feel 100 percent.” Cash is hopeful that a date for when Duffy will resume the assignment can be made in the near future.

FIRST WIN IN A MONTH

Snell made his third start since returning from a stint on the injured list with a broken toe on his right foot. He won for the first time since beating the White Sox in Chicago on April 8. The Rays improved to 3-4 in games started by the 2018 Cy Young winner, compared to 19-8 in games started by all other pitchers.

UP NEXT

Rookie Taylor Clarke makes his first major league start for the Diamondbacks on Tuesday night. He earned a save in his only other big league appearance, pitching three scoreless innings against the Cubs on April 20. The Rays will send an opener to the mound first, however manager Kevin Cash didn’t plan to announce who will start until after Monday’s game.

said there’s no rush to decide on whether he’ll run in Baltimore. But he acknowledged the race’s importance and added, “The challenge of the Triple Crown is that there’s three races really close together, and it takes a champion.”

The only other Derby disqualification was in 1968, and long after the race. First-place finisher Dancer’s Image tested positive for a prohibited medication, and Kentucky racing officials ordered the purse money to be redistributed. Forward Pass got the winner’s share. A subsequent court challenge upheld the stewards’ decision.

West has said he realizes the appeals process will take “months, if not years.” He remains bothered that he was denied his request to view replays with stewards after the race.

“There’s an extreme lack of transparency with the stewards,” he said. “They will not talk to us until Thursday. So we didn’t have any choice but to file an appeal. And we’ll see where that goes.”

Maximum Security was placed 17th of 19 horses after starting as the 9-2 second betting choice, ending his four-race winning streak.

Stewards cited the rule that calls for disqualification if a “leading horse or any other horse in a race swerves or is ridden to either side so as to interfere with, intimidate, or impede any other horse or jockey.”

Chief steward Barbara Borden said in a news conference she and two other stewards interviewed riders and studied video replays during a 22-minute review after the finish. The stewards did not take questions from reporters.

Game 5s await for Nuggets-Blazers, Raptors-76ers

By TIM REYNOLDS

AP BASKETBALL WRITER

Denver and Toronto started this second round of the playoffs feeling great about their chances.

And then things went bad. And then they bounced back.

So now, going into a pair of big-time swing games on Tuesday night — Denver plays host to Portland, Toronto plays host to Philadelphia — the Nuggets and Raptors can either take a firm grip on their respective series or get themselves into pits of trouble that would be even deeper than the ones they were in a couple of days ago.

Game 5s await. Blazers-Nuggets, tied 2-2. 76ers-Raptors, tied 2-2. Toronto and Denver both reclaimed home-court advantage with series-tying road wins on Sunday, and the task now is to keep that momentum going with very high stakes.

“You win a game, and you’ve got to play another one,” Raptors coach Nick Nurse said Monday. “To borrow a phrase that everybody uses, this is a grind. These things are grinders, and being even-keeled, professional, hard-working, tough mentality is what it needs on each game and each possession, really, on both ends.”

Sunday’s situation was dire for Denver and Toronto: A loss would have meant a 3-1 series deficit, which is almost always a precursor to elimination.

The trick now, Nuggets coach Michael Malone said Monday, is to keep that same level of desperation — a lesson his team learned in Round 1. “Well, it is dire,” Malone said. “It’s a best-of-three ... and we don’t want to do all that work to allow them to come in and win Game 5 and have a chance to close it out in Game 6 back in Portland. We attacked it the same way in Round 1 in the same scenario. We beat San Antonio down there in Game 4 and we approached Game 5 like it was all or nothing. And we were able to get that win. So, it’s the same thing for us now.”

Portland Trail Blazers guard Damian Lillard, right, shoots over Denver Nuggets guard Gary Harris during the second half of Game 4 of an NBA basketball second-round playoff series, Sunday, May 5, 2019, in Portland, Ore. The Nuggets won 116-112.

Kawhi Leonard’s numbers have been ridiculous for Toronto so far in this Eastern Conference semifinal series: He’s averaged 38 points, nine rebounds and four assists on 62 percent shooting.

He’s scored 152 points in the series. Philadelphia’s top two scorers, Jimmy Butler and Joel Embiid, have 163 combined in the four games.

“He’s been really, really, good,” Nurse said of Leonard. “From my vantage point, it’s been really fun to watch. And we’ve needed him to be that good.”

Meanwhile, Denver has gotten help from a perhaps surprising source. Will Barton suddenly isn’t an offensive liability anymore.

Booed at home while going 1 for 10 from the floor against San Antonio last month and benched for Torrey Craig not long afterward, Barton finally found his shooting touch in Portland. All 22 of his points in the Nuggets’ 140-137 quadruple-overtime Game 3 loss came after the third quarter. And Barton had two crucial 3-pointers in the fourth quarter of Denver’s 116-112 win in Game 4.

“I thought those two 3s in that fourth quarter were huge for us,” Malone said. “It’s back and forth, neither team could really get a stop in the fourth quarter. But we kept on answering the bell. We scored enough points and Will’s 3s were a big part of surviving their push at the end of that quarter.”

“And hopefully that continues into Game 5.”

A look at Tuesday’s games:

76ERS AT RAPTORS

Series tied 2-2. Game 5, 8 p.m. EDT, TNT.

NEED TO KNOW

Not that this technically matters to either team, but history shows how vital Game 5 wins are in a series that is tied at 2-2. Each of the last five times that Toronto has been in a series tied 2-2, the Game 5 winner has ultimately advanced. And in Philadelphia’s case, this is the 25th time in franchise history that it has been in a 2-2 matchup. The Game 5 winner has won 24 of those series.

INJURY WATCH

More of a health watch in this case, but Embiid was impeded by illness big-time in Game 4. When he was on the floor, the 76ers controlled play at both ends. When he wasn’t, the 76ers simply could not score — and Toronto took advantage of his absences to win the game.

KEEP AN EYE ON

Kyle Lowry and Danny Green. Everything is running through Leonard right now, and rightly so, but Toronto has to be thinking that either — or both — of these guys are overdue for a big game.

PRESSURE IS ON

Ben Simmons. The Philadelphia guard has 40 points, 37 shot attempts and 19 assists in 153 minutes. Too quiet.

TRAIL BLAZERS AT NUGGETS

Series tied 2-2. Game 5, 10:30 p.m. EDT, TNT.

NEED TO KNOW

Could this series be more even? No, probably not. Total points, Denver leads 464-462. Field goals, Denver leads 169-168. Both teams have exactly 44 3-pointers. Both teams have exactly 82 free throws made.

INJURY WATCH

Portland center Enes Kanter battled through 29 minutes of Game 4 with his ongoing shoulder problem.

KEEP AN EYE ON

Portland’s starters. Blazers reserves like Seth Curry, Rodney Hood and Zach Collins were great in Game 4, but the starting five couldn’t generate any real sustained success.

PRESSURE IS ON

Denver. Yes, the Nuggets went through a seven-game grind in Round 1. But the Blazers won’t rattle easily and know they can win on the road.

■ NHL: Tampa Bay Lightning

Tyler Johnson still tailor-made for the Lightning

Tampa Bay’s 5-foot-8 forward plays big on the ice

By MARI FAIELLO

TAMPA BAY TIMES

It’s easy to miss Tyler Johnson out on the ice, his 5-foot-8 stature can get lost in the quick action of the game.

But it’s more difficult to miss him on the stat sheet.

Johnson made a point of coming up at the most critical moments. Consider the March 14 night when the Lightning found itself trailing the Red Wings 3-0 on the road. Steven Stamkos ignited the comeback with the first goal and Nikita Kucherov closed it with Tampa Bay’s fifth goal.

But in between, it was Johnson who provided a crucial goal that gave Tampa Bay a 4-3 advantage. Detroit’s defenders completely overlooked his small frame as he stood just outside of the crease and just in front of the view of goalie Jimmy Howard. ernak’s shot from the blueline was wide by about three feet but it perfectly set Johnson up for a tip in that bounced past Howard.

It was another loud goal for a player with a quiet demeanor. But when it comes to production, it’s one of his most valuable assets and critical contributions. On the year, he placed fourth behind Tampa Bay’s three 40-goal scorers: Stamkos, Kucherov and Brayden Point.

The “small” forward has shown his “large” capabilities as one of Tampa Bay’s strongest players out of the core, putting up steady numbers season after season.

Yet, he’s still the one that’s always overlooked.

Normally people think of the big names — Stamkos, Kucherov, Point, Victor Hedman and Andrei Vasilevskiy. But do they still consider Johnson one of the top-notch players?

They should. He has proven himself to work well on the second line, often paired up with Ondrej Palat and Point. Their line alone totaled almost a quarter of Tampa Bay’s goals this season, 78 out of 319.

Johnson also logged two hat tricks this season, both against Carolina. It was the first time he has notched multiple hat tricks in a single season since 2014-15, which was arguably the best season of his career to date.

It’s not every season that a player hits the 20-goal mark, but Johnson makes it look easy, posting the mark four times in his seven-year career. The only seasons he didn’t break that barrier was his first in the league (a meager three goals in 14 games), his 2015-16 season (he only notched 14 in 69 games) and the 2016-17 season, where he scored 19 goals.

It’s nothing to snark at, he has had a productive career with Tampa Bay since his 2012-13 season when he first joined the league.

And while he didn’t break any records this season, franchise or personal, his season overall was the same as it has always been more times than not — consistent and reliable.

Johnson might have quietly climbed his way to 29 goals this season, but that’s nothing that should be overlooked by any means. In fact, it should be one of the most noteworthy takeaways from the Lightning’s roster this season.

Johnson’s season in review

High: Multiple hat tricks against the Carolina Hurricanes earlier in the season.

Low: Only notching one assist in the Lightning’s four-game Round 1 playoff series against the Blue Jackets.

BY THE NUMBERS

29 goals, fourth on the roster overall this year

47 points, combined for 29 goals and 18 assists this season

1 short-handed goal, one of six players to notch one this year

15:57 average time on ice, his lowest time since his inaugural season in 2012-13

■ MLB: Tampa Bay Rays

Rays trade reliever Wilmer Font, recall Casey Sadler

By MARC TOPKIN

TAMPA BAY TIMES

ST. PETERSBURG — Wilmer Font didn’t seem long for the Rays after being unable to match the first impression he made last year, and he was traded on Monday to the Mets for a player to be named or cash considerations.

Font impressed after being acquired in trade from Oakland last May, posting a 2-1, 1.67 mark in nine games until being sidelined in late June with a lat strain that kept him out the rest of the season.

He made the opening day roster this year despite an unimpressive spring primarily because he was out of options and the Rays wanted to give him more time.

But he didn’t really regain his 2018 form, nor seem to have the trust of his bosses to work in many key situations, posting a 5.79 ERA in 14 innings over 10 games, with 18 strikeouts but also 15 hits and five walks.

Advertisement
The Rays will recall Casey Sadler, who was called up last week and then sent down Sunday to make room for Ryan Yarbrough, who was then sent down this morning, and replaced on the roster by infielder/outfielder Andrew Velazquez.

Optioned players usually have to spend 10 days in the minors but can be recalled sooner if there is an injury to or trade of a player on the big-league team.

So if you’re keeping track, Sadler is in the bullpen, Velazquez is on the bench, Yarbrough is headed back to Durham and Font to join the Mets.

Red Wings hire Verbeek as NHL teams shuffle front offices

The Detroit Red Wings have hired Pat Verbeek as assistant general manager to work in the new regime run by Steve Yzerman

DETROIT — (AP) The Detroit Red Wings have hired Pat Verbeek as assistant general manager to work with Steve Yzerman.

Verbeek joins Yzerman, the longtime Red Wings captain who was recently named GM, after working for him with the Tampa Bay Lightning. Yzerman stepped down as Lightning GM before the season.

The departure of Verbeek led Tampa Bay to promote Al Murray, Jamie Pushor and Stacy Roest to assistant GMs under Julien BriseBois. The Lightning also added Mathieu Darche as director of hockey operations.

Yzerman’s hiring in Detroit moved Ken Holland upstairs as president of hockey operations. Holland has since been linked to the Edmonton Oilers’ GM vacancy.

The Vegas Golden Knights last week promoted assistant GM Kelly McCrimmon and made George McPhee president of hockey operations in part to keep a sought-after executive. McPhee said it was his idea to make McCrimmon the day-to-day point man, which is different than the moves of Holland, Jim Rutherford with Carolina and Lou Lamoriello with New Jersey in recent years that caused those veteran GMs to seek jobs elsewhere.

Truex wins 2nd career Monday NASCAR race at Dover

Martin Truex Jr. wins for the second time in three days at Dover International Speedway

By DAN GELSTON
AP SPORTS WRITER

DOVER, Del. — Martin Truex Jr. won a Monday race at Dover International Speedway for the second time in his career, pulling away from the field down the stretch to reach victory lane for the second time in three races.

Truex won his first career NASCAR Cup race on June 4, 2007, at Dover and 12 years later used another Sunday rainout to take the checkered flag. Truex, the 2017 Cup champion, won at Richmond three weeks ago and is getting hot in the No. 19 Toyota for Joe Gibbs Racing.

“Coach has put together a good bunch,” Truex said. Alex Bowman finished second for the second straight week in the No. 88 Chevrolet. Kyle Larson, Kevin Harvick and Chase Elliott rounded out the top five. Elliott gave Hendrick Motorsports and Chevrolet their first wins of the season at Talladega last week. Bowman and Elliott made it another solid race for a manufacturer that was in need of a boost.

“We at least had a shot at it. It’s really all you can ask for,” Bowman said. “We had a miserable start to the reason. We really did a good job resetting in the off week.” But all the teams are chasing Gibbs. JGR has seven wins in 11 races this season and has established itself as the team to beat. Truex, who is from Mayetta, New Jersey, has long considered Dover his home track and he crushed Bowman by 9.5 seconds after starting in the back of the field because of inspection issues.

“I promise, it wasn’t easy,” Truex said. “It was long work. It was tough. But this race car was incredible.”

Truex has been as reliable with crew chief Cole Pearn in his first season with Gibbs as he was for years at the since-shuttered Furniture Row Racing. Truex, who has 21 career wins, made it to victory lane for the first time in 2007 but didn’t win again until 2013. He hasn’t sniffed much of a victory drought since 2015, winning 19 races over that span and a series championship.

TOP 10

Kyle Busch matched Morgan Shepherd’s NASCAR record with 11 straight top-10 finishes in the first 11 races of the season. Busch was 10th for the second straight race. Shepherd reached the mark in 1990 driving for Hall of Fame car owner Bud Moore. Busch started the streak when he finished second behind teammate Denny Hamlin in the Daytona 500. He also has three wins, two thirds, a sixth, an eighth and two other 10th-place finishes to go with his victories during the streak.

WINLESS JOHNSON

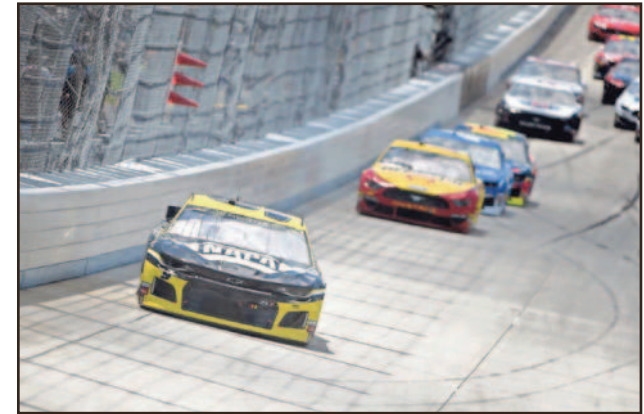

Jimmie Johnson holds the track record of 11 victories at Dover, where he finished 14th. Johnson has been stuck on 83 career wins since he last reached victory lane on June 4, 2017, also at Dover.

GARAGE MAKEOVER

Work will begin immediately on new $5.5 million garage at Dover that should be ready for the fall race. The current garage area has been in place since the Monster Mile’s first race on July 6, 1969. Among the improvements: 44 garage bays for the Cup cars.

UP NEXT

The series shifts to Kansas Speedway, where Kevin Harvick is the defending race winner.

Driver Chase Elliott (9) leads driver Joey Logano (22) during the NASCAR Cup Series auto race, Monday, May 6, 2019, at Dover International Speedway in Dover, Del.
