General thanks Army Reserve Soldiers

BY Lt. Gen. Jack C. Stultz
Chief, Army Reserve Commander,
U.S. Army Reserve Command

On this seventh anniversary of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on our nation, Americans remember and pay tribute to their fallen brethren and reflect on the resilience and determination of our great country.

President George W. Bush declared on that fateful night in 2001: "A great people has been moved to defend a great nation." And, indeed, Army Reserve Soldiers immediately responded, and continue to fulfill the mission to keep our nation free and safe. In fact, more than 164,000 warrior citizens serve our nation with honor and distinction in the war on terrorism; while some 26,000 Army Reserve Soldiers perform homeland defense missions and other critical operations around the globe.

I commend the men and women in uniform and their Families who make immeasurable sacrifices to protect our Nation's security and advance democracy around the world.

Today in particular, we pause to honor all the innocent victims of the 2001 terrorist attacks and the 162 fallen Army Reserve Soldiers who are a constant reminder of why we continue our auspicious mission. It is my great privilege to represent the United States Army Reserve at the dedication ceremony of the Pentagon Memorial, a fitting and lasting tribute to the 184 enlisted and civilian victims of the attack on the Pentagon. Army Reserve Soldiers and our Families join with others in our communities to

Yokwe Yuk Women's Club begins preparing for Christmas Drop to Ebadon and Majetto

By Lauren Traweek

Mede Kirijmoj!

That's how you say Merry Christmas in Marshallese. It's early but it's time to start thinking about the annual Outer Island Christmas Drop. Every year the Yokwe Yuk Women's Club gathers toys, clothing, food, educational items, toiletries and medical supplies to provide to children on Ebadon and Majetto, the most far-away islands in the atoll. Those islands are cutoff from the outside world except for a once-a-month supply boat.

The children on Ebadon and Majetto are thrilled to receive their own backpack filled with generosity each year.

YYWC cannot receive fund-raising materials through Kwajalein Post Office due to postal regulations. All items to be used in fund-raising activities must be hand-carried in by visitors and returning residents, or shipped to California and brought by barge. This not only costs the YYWC precious resources that could be used for the children, but causes a time delay of up to three weeks.

Jimmy Matsunaga, Kwajalein Range Services shipping guru, met with the YYWC and has been very helpful in overcoming this obstacle in the process.

Because he needs to plan each container, he should be notified by e-mail of each box coming to Kwajalein at: James.Matsunaga@smdk.smdc.army.mil for approval.

Items for donation such as educational materials, backpacks, etc. going to schools or other recipients will be accepted by the post office. The customs form on packages must be marked DONATION. Any items to be used for fund-raising such as for the YYWC Silent Auction baskets, or any commercial function where money is exchanged, cannot be accepted through the post office and must be shipped to Kwajalein and Roi on the barge.

File photo

Nothing can be shipped without his approval.

No alcoholic beverages, tobacco or HAZMAT items can be sent. Let Matsunaga know it is for the YYWC and the approximate size of the shipment and from whom it's coming. The boxes must be clearly marked YYWC and sent c/o KRS, 3200 Regatta Blvd., Richmond, CA 94804. Boxes must be received in Richmond by Sept. 19 for the Oct. 22 barge; Oct. 2 for the Nov. 5 barge; Oct. 15 for the Nov. 19 barge and by Oct. 29 for the Dec. 3 barge.

The YYWC will pay the shipping costs. However, we would greatly appreciate the senders removing all extraneous packaging such as blister packs, bubble wrap and boxes. Our weight is limited so we remove it ourselves before the drop anyway.

While KRS doesn't charge by the pound, the smaller the box the better! That is something to stress to any shippers whom you are using if ordering by mail.

If this all seems too complicated, we always welcome cash donations, which go a long way for our thrifty co-chairs and volunteers. They are always on the prowl for good deals online and while off-island. Meg Dolan can be reached at 52843 or e-mailed at Mon921@aol.com. She can advise which age groups need what items. Because she has such broad, wonderful shoulders, she also agreed to chair the Silent Basket Auction/Wine and Cheese event on Nov. 16, in the multi-purpose room. The Silent Basket Auction donated 60 percent of its proceeds last year to the Outer Island Christmas Drop.

This annual event always sells out and generates a feeding frenzy of pre-holiday competitive purchasing that often leaves the participants breathless. Catered dinners, handmade jewelry, exotic items from Bali and many more creative baskets are featured with a wine bar and a cheese buffet. If you have an idea for a basket or want to participate in any way, contact Meg for ideas. The deadline for baskets is Nov. 1, so she can prepare the auction catalogue.

This year, with a little luck, a lot of preplanning and if we hold our collective mouths just right, the children in Ebadon and Majetto really can say Mede Kirimoj!

Sept. 11, 2001*

Nation was stunned by terror attacks, shocked at large number of lives lost

By Dan Adler
Media Manager

Where were you on September 11, 2001 at approximately 8:45 a.m.?

Americans remember hearing the shocking news of two commercial jetliners crashing into the World Trade Center twin towers and, as they watched in horror, they learned that yet another plane had crashed into the Pentagon and one more in a field in Pennsylvania.

As the nation watched the TV images of the burning buildings, people jumping from the towers and firefighters and police struggling to rescue survivors, the American flag sprouted from homes and buildings and it became the emblem to unify a nation.

As the country realized the magnitude of the destruction, grief turned to anger and the Global War on Terror was declared.

Now, as the seventh anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001 tragedy approaches, Americans are once again reminded of the victims and heroes who lost their lives in the worst attack on the United States mainland in history. The images of people frantically searching for loved ones, the firefighters digging through the rubble to find the bodies of their comrades, the photos of the missing, and so many more images of that day will never be forgotten.

Hanapa'a — Fish On

Anglers compete in Labor Day Tournament

USAKA Public Affairs Officer

Crews start out for the Hanapa'a fishing tournament

The 11th Annual Kwajalein Hanapa'a Labor Day Fun Fishing Tournament was held Aug. 31-Sept. 1, starting at the Small Boat Marina. Being a newcomer to the Kwaj experience, I jumped at an invitation to participate and got ready for my first Kwajalein fun fishing tournament experience. I would fish on day two.

The first thing I did was research the word 'Hanapa'a' on the Internet. Never trust everything you find on the net. I found it was a company that does charter fishing trips for people, a lounge in Hawaii, and a street in Albuquerque, NM. Now why would Kwaj name their tournament that?

Then I found a website that said it was Hawaiian for 'got fish.' That made sense and I felt enlightened. I figured it would also be helpful to familiarize myself with the categories and rules before the tournament. So I carefully read the category information.

It stated that winners with the largest and smallest fish in each of the following categories would be placed in a lottery for the tournament grand prize:

The categories were:

- Billfish – blue marlin
- Black marlin, sailfish and tuna
- Yellowfin and bigeye
- Ono
- Other tuna: aku, kawakawa, dogtooth tuna
- Reef runner: rainbow runner, ulua, uku, snappers, groupers, barracuda and aggregate.

Prizes would also be awarded for: grand prize, biggest fish, aggregate, captain, queen, mental person, and slave.

The rules were easy to follow:

- Hours were 8 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., unless disqualified
- Crews have to have at least one person of the opposite sex on their crew
- No bottom fishing or net fishing;

Play fair.

- Do not give false reports on the radio as to the whereabouts of the bird piles, where the fish are feeding, false sightings of sailfish, logs in the water, etc.

- Weigh-ins are conducted at the small boat marina starting at 12:30 p.m.

Very detailed information was given about the weigh-ins, since this is where the competition ends and fish category winners are decided.

The detailed rules included the following: (a) all weighed-in fish must be whole and not bitten. They must not be mutilated by sharks, other predators, or even the mental guy. Any fish missing a chunk of meat is disqualified; (b) A fish can only be a qualified weigh-in for one category. If a fish is submitted for a particular category but does not win in that category, then it will be counted in the total aggregate; (c) Only fish caught during the fishing period qualifies for weigh-in.

Do not sneak frozen fish on your boat in the morning for weigh-in later that day after it's thawed out;

(d) Do not load your fish with sand, lead, nuts and bolts before weigh in. This is an automatic disqualification. And remember to take the lure off the fish, as well as any ice cubes.

So, I was prepared. I knew what Hanapa'a meant. I knew the categories and the rules. On the first day of the tournament I was sharing my new found knowledge with the Kwaj old-timers when they quickly corrected me and said Hanapa'a meant 'fish on' and winked at each other over my naivety. Alright, so I got my first lesson of the fishing tournament on word usage.

Day one of the competition saw six boats leave. It was a beautiful, sunny day supposed to be good for fishing. I heard there were lots of cries of Hanapa'a throughout the morning. However, one boat came back skunked — an affectionate term for having caught no fish. That crew didn't even go to the weigh-in area. I asked if there was a skunk award and was told there used to be a skunk passed around each year, but some team had lost it or shredded it. I'm not sure which — you know how fishermen tell tall tales.

Many Kwajalein residents turned out to see the catches. The other boats had several fish in different categories. By the end of the first day's weigh-in, the categories of other tuna and reef runner had entries from the boats. Of special note was Captain Bernie Delgado's crew which caught a 21.8-pound aku that was less than two pounds less than the Kwajalein record.

After the catches were weighed, it was time for cleaning the fish. The crews took turns and once again got to see the slaves work. It was also easy to spot the Captain, Queen, and mental person on each crew. Several children hung around to carry the scraps over to feed the nurse sharks.

Day two started with seven boats going out. The day was overcast and threatened rain. At this point in the competition, there were no entries in the billfish, tuna, or ono categories.

I don't know different species of fish, but surely there were enough species that our boat would get something. I was really looking forward to being able to yell Hanapa'a. I figured it would be the same thrill as yelling Bingo.

The jobs of captain and queen on the boat were easy to figure out. I'm still not sure what the mental person's job was, but everyone on our boat qualified as slave. Working the lines, reeling in and letting out lines, changing lures, driving the boat, watching for bird piles, are all work, and everyone had to pull together. As it turns out, the captain of the boat fills out a position title for each of his or her crew. I really think the captain of our boat put slave by all our names.

Of the seven boats that went out on day two, six boats returned skunked. By the end of the rainy, dreary day there were still no entries in the billfish, tuna or ono categories.

See HANAPA'A, Page 8

HANAPA'A from Page7 —

I was on one of those six boats. But our mental person kept telling us that a 'bad day of fishing is still better than a good day at work' and that's why the sport is called 'fishing' and not 'catching'. Thanks a lot.

As it turned out, it was a good fishing day for Captain Les Saulibio and crew who returned with fish. The community didn't turn out for the second day of weigh-in. It was raining and dreary and they would have been disappointed with only one boat catching fish.

The tournament potluck dinner and awards were held at 6 p.m., Monday, at the Pacific Club. Great foods, including several fish dishes, were eaten. Random drawings were held for door prizes.

In the other tuna category, Captain Johnny Ysaguirre and crew took the prize for the largest fish with a 45.3-pound dogtooth tuna.

Captain Dalbert Delacruz and crew took the prize for the smallest fish with a 9-pound aku.

In the reef runner category, Captain Bill Jones and crew took the prizes for the largest and smallest fish with an 18.6- pound grouper and a 2.2-pound barracuda.

Captain Les Saulibio and crew took the aggregate prize with a total of 59.2 pounds of fish comprised of an 8.8 pound barracuda, a 19.4-pound aku, and a 31-pound dogtooth tuna.

The grand prize winner was then randomly drawn from the list of category winners.

Captain Johnny Ysaguirre and crew were the lucky winners. That means they now have the responsibility of organizing next year's 12th Annual Hanapa'a Fun Fishing Tournament.

Oh, and by the way, I couldn't rest until I researched the word Hanapa'a again.

It is commonly spelled Hana Pa'a and is a Hawaiian word which literally means 'to make secure or fasten.'

However, it is frequently used as a slang to mean 'hook up' or 'fish on.' Thus, throughout Hawaii, whenever a fisherman has a strike, he yells, "HANA PA'A!"

U.S. reviewing military aid to Republic of Georgia

By John J. Kruzal
American Forces Press Service

The Pentagon will send an assessment team to Georgia to determine what role the U.S. should play as the nation's military rebuilds after clashes with Russia, a Defense Department official said Tuesday.

"The Department of Defense is sending an assessment team to Tbilisi later this week to help us begin to consider carefully Georgia's legitimate needs and our response," Eric S. Edelman, undersecretary of defense for policy, told members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

After the assessment, officials will review how the United States will be able to support the reconstruction of Georgia, including armed forces aid, Edelman told the lawmakers.

Officials in the Georgian capital of Tbilisi reportedly are eager to rebuild a Georgian military that folded as Russian forces invaded the breakaway province of South Ossetia early last month after an attack by Georgian forces. Russian troops reportedly remain in the former Soviet republic in defiance of a cease-fire deal reached Aug. 13.

President George W. Bush last week pledged to provide $1 billion in nonmilitary aid to Georgia, which supplements the more than 2 million pounds of humanitarian supplies the United States military has delivered over previous weeks. But Edelman's statements today mark the first time a defense policy official's public endorsement of U.S. aid to Georgia has included a military reconstruction component.

"Georgia, like any sovereign country, should have the ability to defend itself and deter renewed aggression," he said. "There should not be any question about whether Georgia is entitled to military assistance from the United States or, indeed, from NATO or any of the NATO allies."

Edelman said the United States has played a significant role for several years in preparing Georgian forces to conduct counterterrorism missions, but offered no indication of what type of military aid the United States might provide in the future.

A separate assessment team currently in Georgia is sizing up the losses sustained by the military, Edelman said.

"They're looking at various aspects of this, trying to assess first the damage to the Georgian military forces, understand what has been lost in terms of equipment and facilities, and get some sense of the scope of what it would take to just rebuild that capability," he said of the assessment team in Georgia now.

Edelman urged that the United States be "measured and calibrated" in its response. He added that the United States "does not seek a new Cold War."

"It requires, first, understanding the situation in terms of capability that exists, capability that might need to be built and reaching some understanding with Georgia about what capabilities it thinks it needs and how they might be employed," he said of the sequenced response.

NATO, which created an ad hoc group Aug. 19 to oversee the alliance's relationship with Georgia, will send an additional assessment team to help shape the organization's response, Edelman said.

"NATO has also decided to assist Georgia in assessing the damage caused by Russian military action, including to the Georgian armed forces, and to help restore critical services necessary for normal public life and economic activity," he said.

Mark and Amy Daniels are pleased to announce the early and unexpected arrival of the most recent Kwaj resident, their daughter, Marcy Laine Daniels, who weighed in at 5 pounds, 12 ounces. She was born at 8:22 p.m., Sept. 3, at Kwajalein Hospital. Mark and Amy would like to send a sincere thank you to the community for all that has been done for them this past week. The donations of clothing, baby essentials, meals, and emotional support have been phenomenal. It is no surprise to see fellow residents come together in times of need, yet they are extremely appreciative and humbled. Thanks also to the fabulous hospital staff. The care and attention Marcy Laine received was top notch.

Juvenile Review Board results

A Juvenile Review Board met recently to determine appropriate sanctions to recommend to the U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll/Reagan Test Site commander to be imposed against a juvenile dependent of Kwajalein residents.

One fifteen year old juvenile admitted to drinking alcohol before going to the Namu Weto Youth Center. This is in violation of Hawaii Revised Statutes § 281-101 (Prohibition Involving Minors).

The JRB recommended and the USAKA/RTS commander approved a 7 p.m. curfew until Jan. 1, 2009, plus forty hours of community service, and a one-thousand word essay and voluntary counseling.

A JRB is administrative in nature and is not to be construed as judicial action against the juvenile involved. Boards are convened pursuant to USAKA Regulation 27-5 and serve as an alternate to imposing an administrative bar from the island.

Coast Guard cutter Rush to visit Kwaj

The Coast Guard cutter Rush and its crew of approximately 160 will visit Kwajalein next week. Rush's crewmembers will be allowed access to the common areas of the island, but restricted from the housing areas. Courtesy patrols from the cutter will assist Kwajalein Police Department in maintaining discipline and control on the island.

The Rush is a 378-foot high-endurance Coast Guard cutter. Rush's primary missions include defense operations, enforcement of laws and treaties, and search and rescue throughout the Pacific.

Voicemail Information

The new voicemail system is up and running well. The new Callegra system is somewhat different from our old AUDIX but provides much greater capacity. The following items explain a couple features and address home voicemail usage.

1. You can still check your voicemail from any phone at USAKA or by long distance. When you dial Callegra voicemail at 5-5925, the system will start an announcement about the phone you are using. To log in to voicemail for a different phone, press the # key as soon as Callegra answers. You will then be prompted to enter the five digit extension of the phone that you want to access voicemail for.

2. All Callegra voicemail boxes are currently set to accept messages up to four minutes long. However, the message will be terminated if there is a pause in speaking while you are leaving a message. We hope to be able to adjust this timeout feature but for now you must speak continuously or call back to complete your message.

3. Callegra was loaded for all USAKA extensions but that is only the first of two steps in having it work for an extension. There also needs to be a telephone switch entry that will connect callers to your voicemail. This switch entry should be in place for all extensions that were previously using AUDIX voicemail. If you did not have AUDIX but you would like to use Callegra voicemail, send an email to gambler@smdck.smdc.army.mil or call Ron Gamble at 51127.

4. The expanded capacity of the Callegra voicemail system permits us to offer home use on a trial basis. If you would like to use voicemail at home, send an email to gambler@smdck.smdc.army.mil or call Ron Gamble at 51127. This service will be offered at no cost. Permanent residential use will be subject to an analysis of the effect on system performance and administrative time requirements.

NOTE: To use official and unofficial PINs for phone calls, 00 must precede the number. For example, if the PIN is 123456, it would now be 00123456. Telephone upgrades are still ongoing.

Kwajalein's religious services offer diversity

Hourglass reports

Our small island community is very rich in diversity including our opportunities for spiritual nurturing and encouragement. Some may choose to gather informally or simply follow a more personal path of religious vocation, but many desire to join others on a common journey. Listed below are the various congregations that meet regularly to worship God and encourage one another. If one of these groups matches your beliefs, contact the person in charge. If you are not sure what you believe and would like to explore that issue a bit more, call Chaplain Rick Funk, 53505. He would be glad to chat with you.

Protestant Services

The Protestant Congregation on Kwajalein meets twice on Sunday mornings at Island Memorial Chapel. The 8 a.m. service is more formal and liturgical, typical of an Episcopal or Lutheran service. The congregation primarily sings hymns accompanied by piano. At the 10:45 a.m. service it is more contemporary and uses several instruments in our praise music. The same message is preached by Pastor Rick Funk at both services. There is also Sunday School for all ages at the Religious Education Building. 9:15 – 10:15 a.m. The congregation also hosts a wide variety of ministries including youth, children's church, missions, outreach, Bible studies, fellowship and other activities. Protestant services are held on Roi-Namur at 4 p.m., at the Roi-Namur Memorial Chapel next to the Tradewinds Theater. For more information, call Pastor Rick Funk, 53767.

Catholic Services

Fr. Leo Daly is the Pastor of Blessed Sacrament Chapel. Daily mass is celebrated in his office on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 4:45 pm. Weekly Mass is held on Saturday in Blessed Sacrament Chapel at 5:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 9:15 a.m. in Island Memorial Chapel. Sunday Mass on Roi Namur is offered at 12:15 pm on the first Sunday of the month. Anyone wishing to celebrate Mass on Roi on any other Sunday should contact Fr. Daly by the previous Friday to make the arrangements. Many of the parishioners are generous in volunteering for ministries such as CCD teachers, lectors and Eucharistic ministers, choir members, singers, altar servers, musicians, ministers of hospitality and sacristans at weekend Masses. A sound technician at the Sunday Mass is an important volunteer so that everyone can hear what is said. Without these generous individuals the parish could not function. Anyone interested in any of these important volunteer ministries should contact Fr. Daly, 52116.

Christian Women's Fellowship

CWF has an ecumenical Women's Fellowship that is a joyful blend of many congregations. The CWF typically celebrates with a monthly luncheon on the first Sunday of the month at noon at the Religious Education Building. They also have many other activities including weekend retreats, Bible studies, service projects, fund raisers and fellowship opportunities. For more information about CWF, contact Chris Hadley, 54520.

Kwajalein Baptist Fellowship

Kwajalein Baptist Fellowship has been active on Kwajalein for twelve years. The congregation invites residents to participate in the Sunday morning worship services beginning at 9:40 a.m., in the elementary school music room (next door to Surfway). There is singing, preaching and worship for adults and older children. At the same time, junior church for younger children is provided. Mid-week Bible study begins in September. Call Ernie Long, 54173, for location and time.

Latter-Day Saints

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints meets every Sunday at 10 a.m., in Corlett Recreation Center Room 3. Sacrament meeting (the main meeting of the whole congregation) is first, followed by Sunday School at 11 a.m. Sunday school is split into three groups, primary (children), young men / young women, and adults. The president of the Kwajalein branch is Peter Yoho who can be reached at 54622 or pkyoho@gmail.com. Further information about the church can be found at www.mormon.org and www.lds.org.

Jewish Services

The Jewish Community is a small but active group. Many of their meetings and services will center on the Jewish holidays. During the months when there isn't a holiday, they will have a Shabbat service and potluck dinner. Contact Cindy Brooks, 5-2395, or Rick Funk, 53505, for more information.
