Local couple win award for their blackberry farm

HERNANDO SUN WRITER

Most people associate strawberries with Plant City and blueberries with Hernando County but for Gene and Ann Altman blackberries are their passion. Together the couple own and operate Bramble Creek Farms in Brooksville.

Recently the Florida Farm Bureau recognized them for environmental stewardship. They received the 2018 "Hernando County CARES" designation which is the first CARES awarded in Hernando County.

Gene, a fifth generation Floridian, started his agricultural interest with his father on a two hundred-acre farm in Sumter County where they grew peppers, cucumbers, eggplants and watermelons.

After several tough weather and economic years, he decided to go to college to get a degree in Civil Engineering. Gene then started working at Southwest Florida Water Management District (SWFWMD) developing best management practice projects and flood maps in several counties.

Although Ann did not come from a farm background, she was raised by her Mom who loved fresh fruits and vegetables, canning and making jams. Ann has inherited the love of canning, pickling and making jams and puts these skills to good use at Bramble Creek

The Altmans planted their first crop of blackberries in 2003 and realized their first harvest the following year.

They grow a thornless blackberry, a hybrid strain that was developed at the University of Hernando County has relatively mild winters, but the original settlers had to suffer though stifling summers and mosquito swarms. Air conditioning made the heat much more bearable, but Florida has always struggled with mosqui-

Mosquito control has made life in Florida more comfortable. The spraying, mosquito fish and reducing standing water lessens the mosquito population allowing Floridians to enjoy the outdoors and reduce the diseases that are spread

In its early days, Congressman John Randolph of Roanoke was staunchly against the purchase of Florida from Spain. He argued it was "a land of swamps, of quagmires, of frogs and alligators and mosquitoes!' Randolph followed that up with "A man ... would not immigrate into Florida ... no, not from hell itself!"

John Randolph was against the expansion of the United States. He argued against the Louisiana purchase and against the purchase of Florida. Some of what he says can be attributed to his desire to keep America from expanding and his propensity for rhetorical flourish.

DEBORAH SALVESEN (DEM) CANDIDATE BIO PROVIDED BY CANDIDATE:

A native from Camden County, New Jersey, I moved to The State of Florida in September, 1998. We raised our son in the public school system in Tarpon Springs, Florida until 2013, when our family moved to Hernando County, Florida.

In spite of my education and experience in Court Stenography, I changed career paths to become an admissions school representative for a private post-secondary institutė. This provided a platform to jump to the American Red Cross Blood Services and on to becoming the Community Relations Director for the Department of Policy, Planning and Development for the Freeholders of Camden County, New Jersey. I also served as the Secretary for the Camden County, New Jersey Ethics Committee. More recently, I have a dedication to the Better Business Bureau since 1999. It has been my mission for the last 19 years to seek out ethics, truth and transparency with the business community.

STATE SENATOR DISTRICT 10

WILTON SIMPSON (REP) CANDIDATE Q&A

What are the critical statewide issues that you will focus on if re-elected?

I will continue to work on ensuring our students have world-class education opportunities, fight to lower taxes and keep our economy strong, and protect our precious natural resources.

What are the critical local issues you will support if re-elected?

Our economy and our way of life are linked to the health of Florida's environment. We have to make sure we steward our natural resources and preserve our environment for future generations. This is one of my top priorities in Tallahassee and I won't quit fighting until we get the job done. I have worked to:

•Secure $2 million to clean up and restore the Homosassa River

•Secure $10 million to clean up and restore the habitat of Kings Bay Continue significant restoration projects all along our Florida Springs •Fund the Florida

Forever Program, responsibly conserving important land to protect our state's natural resources

What was your motivation for becoming an elected official and do you feel you have been able to accomplish it?

As a farmer and a business owner, I know first-hand that the greatest obstacles job creators face come from government.

As a state senator, I've been a clear and consistant voice for Florida's entrepreneurs because they are the backbone of our economy and the pathway to prosperity for all Floridians.

Please describe some upcoming or ongoing projects that will improve District 10. Ex: specific infrastructure projects, park and recreation development, environmental projects, flood/water management- etc...

•Weeki Wachee Springs Restoration and State Park •Complete the bike trail

through Hernando County •Continue cleaning up Kings Bay and Homosassa

•Look forward to adding to the $12 million spent this fiscal year in septic to sewer projects around our spring sheds

•Complete Citrus County portion of the Sun Coas Parkway

•Numerous road projects throughout the entire district

Q & A WITH WAYNE DUKES

Describe up to three ordinances that need to be modified/changed/added.

In 2017, the current BOCC voted to review the current ordinances looking to reduce and simplify the County ordinances. Examples of ordinances that have already been repealed include Fuel Code, Coastal Construction Code, Natural Gas Code, Storage and Handling of LP Gases, Solare Energy Heating & Cooling Devices, Amusement Device Code, Bingo Ordinance, Accessory Structure Ordinance (amended), Flood Ordinance (amended) and Marine Construction Code (amended).

Describe up to three county projects that are most important for the county and why?

(Example: Kass Circle revitalization, additional recreation, airport development etc...)

RESTORE Act - As a member of the Gulf Coast Consortium, Hernando County is working on its list of Gulf and waterways related projects including the areas of tourism, education, and as they pertain to Gulf and waterway restoration. First installment of funds from the RESTORE Act will be available in March 2019.

Economic Development - expand tax base by attracting more industry and recruitment of higher paying jobs. For example, FrigiTech is a new company coming to Hernando County building a 200,000 SF cold storage facility and employing 80 employees with a starting salary/wage of $37,500/ annually. Another company, Alumi-Guard is currently expanding their facilities adding 100,000 SF of space and 20 additional jobs. The additional projected revenue to the County from these two companies alone will be $270,000/year.

Airport Infrastructure -Expansion of the airport will require improvements to the current infrastructure at the airport for roads, sewer, water, and power. These project are currently being worked

Describe up to three top issues facing the county (Example: opiate epidemic, flooding, managing development, etc...)

Springs Protection - This includes ongoing efforts to decrease nitrate levels in the Springs,

Infrastructure to Match Growth - as the County is growing, the infrastructure will need to be improved and expanded to meet the growing demand for roads, water and sewer line, and storm drainage.

Job Creation is always an ongoing concern. Hernando County together with Pasco and Pinellas Counties and the State started an apprenticeship program that teaches people high level skills to prepare them for high tech jobs that are needed to attract the industries and high paying jobs that Hernando County desires.

Describe up to three economy by allowing conordinances that need to be sumers to travel distance modified/changed/added. without increasing traffic. "Park and ride" is critical

DEBORAH SALVESEN

(A) The Super Majority Vote with regard to protecting our Environmentally Sensitive Lands Plan needs to be resurrected. When our Board of County Commissioners seats 5 commissioners, it is necessary to level the playing field by have the super majority vote on this issue.

(B) Return our Land Management Plan to what is was before 2017. So much of Hernando County was protected from development before 2017. We now have developers purchasing undeveloped land to create projects that will have incredible impact on our quality of life. Contamination of our water, increased traffic in high populated areas, threatening emergency management services are all issues that will create undo stress on an already weakened system.

(C) Impact fees must be imposed on new development to share the burden of taxes on residents in Hernando County.

Describe up to three county projects that are most important for the county and why? (Example: Kass Circle revitalization, additional recreation, airport development etc...)

(A) Small Business Revitalization is critical to the survival of Hernando County. Hernando County will thrive only when the character of our community is developed by featuring our small businesses. When we recognize tourism as our primary source of income, we create a community that supports our economy, attracts economic development and builds a strong foundation for families.

(B) Public transportation should be a primary focus for the coming years. Our elderly and disabled population need transportation for everyday services. Transportation focusing on tourism would allow for increased visitors to enjoy our natural environment without imposing structural changes to environmentally sensitive lands. Corporate sponsorship of public transportation is practiced throughout the United States spurring increased

Upon my arrival I made contact with the victim, who identified herself as Marsha. Marsha advised she and her friend's son, Troy Lamoureux JR (defendant) were involved in a heated verbal argument. She further advised during the altercation, the defen-dant became violent and used his arms to shove her from the back resulting in her falling on a mattress which was lying on the floor of the living room. Contact was made with an independent witness who was inside of the home during this altercation, the witness stated he observed the defendant become angry and intentionally shove the victim against her will onto the mattress which was lying on the floor of the living room within the residence. The defendant denied the allegations and stated the witness and the victim were lying. Due to the probable cause established, the defendant was determined to be the primary aggressor in this case and was charged accordingly.

A criminal history check revealed the defendant to have two guilty convictions for prior Battery offenses on the dates of 08/18/2016 and 08/10/2018. The defendant was placed into custody and transported to the Hernando County Jail without incident, where he is being held

The defendant entered the residence through an unsecured window leading to the living room. The defendant proceeded through the residence to the south bedroom where the victim was sleeping. Upon entering the room, the defendant jumped on the victim (who was lying on the bed), straddled her and pinned her to the bed against her will. The victim and the defendant began to struggle when the defendant pulled the victim off the bed and threw her to the floor. The defendant and victim continued to wrestle until the victim was able to break free. The defendant then fled the bedroom and exited the residence. The victim sustained a scratch to her left side of the neck and several scratches to the right light was red. A traffic stop was then conducted at the intersection of Waterfall Drive and Eden Circle. Deputy V.D. made contact with the driver of the vehicle by approaching the driver side door. I then approached the passenger door of said vehicle. While Deputy V.D. was speaking with the driver/ defendant, Barbara Bradley, I observed a black/chrome handle of a firearm. I observed said handle to be located near the center console of the front passenger seat. I observed a portion of the firearm to be concealed by clothing as well as being concéaled in between the passenger seat . The firearm was not able to be seen from Deputy V.D.'s view and was readily accessible for the defendant. I brought the concealed firearm to Deputy V.D.'s attention and the defendant was asked to step out of the vehicle. I then asked the defendant for identification, to which she advised that she did not have a driver license. The defendant then advised her name was "Barbara Ambrogio." The defendant spelled out her last name. Shortly after running said name and date of birth the defendant provided, it was determined the name to be fictitious. The guidelines and state law that Turbeville referred to was in a 2011 guide titled, "Weeki Wachee Springs State Park Unit Management Plan," written by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). Text in the guide recommends an "Optimum Carrying Capacity" for canoeing and kayaking of 280. Turbeville has been corresponding with the park and state officials for several months on this matter.

Good Evening Senator Simpson,

On behalf of the Florida Department of Environmental Protection and as a follow-up to our conversaoperations at Weeki Wachee Springs State Park. Per our direction to the concessionaire, effective Friday, October 26, 2018, the Park's paddling operation will launch no more than 280 users (individuals) per day from the Park (regardless of paddle craft type). (Please see the attached

In addition, our team will continue to work with our concessionaire to ensure proper controls are in place for accurate reporting. These reports will be monitored daily to augment existing research efforts, such as the recreational carrying capacity and resource impact studies. The data gained from these studies should be helpful in guiding future Unit Management Plan discussions.

THE GENERAL ELECTION 2018

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS 7-13

By ROCCO MAGLIO

There are 13 Constitutional Amendments on the ballot for the Nov. 6 General Election. Here is a review of Amendments 7-13 as 1-6 we published last week.

AMENDMENT 7:

Florida First Responder and Military Member Survivor Benefits, Supermajority Board Votes for College Fees and State College System

Amendment 7 requires that the employers of first responders provide a survivor benefit to all first responders who died while on official duty. The surviving spouses of Military service members will be provided a benefit if the member is accidentally, unlawfully or intentionally killed by the state. Additionally, the state would have to waive some of the educational expenses for the surviving children and spouses. The amendment would also require a supermajority vote by both the University's board of trustees and the state board of governors to raise the college fees.

AMENDMENT 8: School Board Term Limits, Allow State to Operate Non-Board Established Schools and Civic Literacy

 AMENDMENT 8 was removed by the Florida Supreme Court ***

AMENDMENT 9: Florida Ban on Offshore Oil and Gas Drilling and Vaping in Enclosed Indoor Workplaces Amendment 9 would ban offshore oil and gas drilling in the states territorial waters. It would also ban vaping in enclosed indoor workplaces. It would have exceptions for private residences that are not being used for commercial childcare, adult care or health care; for retail tobacco and vapor-generating device shops; for designed smoking guest rooms in hotels; and in stand-alone bars.

AMENDMENT 10: Florida State and Local Government Structure and Operation

Amendment 10 changes state and local government structure and operation. This amendment would add a couple of state offices to the constitution including the State Department of Veteran Affairs and a State Office of Domestic Security and Counter Terrorism. The amendment would also require several local county offices: sheriff, tax collector, property appraiser, supervisor of elections and clerk of circuit court to be elected offices. Currently the county charter or a special law can be used to provide different options for filling these offices.

AMENDMENT 11: Repeal Prohibition on Aliens' Property Ownership, Delete Obsolete Provision on High Speed Rail

Amendment 11 would remove language that states: "... ownership, inheritance, disposition and possession of real property by aliens ineligible for citizenship may be regulated or prohibited by law." The amendment would also remove the high-speed rail provision that was repealed by voters. It would also remove a restriction on the application of changes in criminal laws to crimes that happened in the past.

AMENDMENT 12: Lobbying Restrictions for Elected Officials

Amendment 12 would prohibit elected municipal officials, judges, statewide elected officers, legislators, county commissioners, county officers, school board members, school superintendents, special district officers with ad valorem taxing authority and state agency heads from being paid to lobby while in office and for six years following their term of office. The legislation does not define what is meant "lobby," it directs the legislature to define the term. The lobbying restriction would go into effect December 31, 2022.

Amendment 13: Prohibit Dog Racing in Florida.

Amendment 13 would prohibit commercial dog racing in Florida. Currently, dog tracks have to run dog races in order to retain their license, which lets them also operate card games and slot machines. This law would grandfather in dog tracks' ability to operate card games and slot machines. The prohibition would go into effect in 2020.

An 'Out of this World' Performance

ARTICLE AND PHOTOGRAPHY BY CHERYL CLANTON

Thursday night October 25, 2018, the fourth grade classes of Chocachatti Elementary School for the Performing Arts and Micro Society took their audience on an adventure around our solar system in a 'stellar' performance of The Solar System Saga. In the play, the planets and other astronomical features had to convince the egotistical Sun they were also important in our solar system. Students portraying each planet used educational facts, singing, dancing, instruments, jokes, to prove to the Sun they are special and unique. An Earthling named Annie assisted in the task of changing the Sun's mind about her over exaggerated self-worth. All the characters involved in the play learned a valuable lesson that everyone is important.

Several other teachers helped out in various capacities- Miss Bowers: Choreographer, Mrs. Kraus: Music Director, Mrs. Poholek: Scenery and Mrs. Flaherty: Stagecraft.

There were thirty five main characters and thirty five understudies along with twenty dancers, seven musicians, eight singers and eleven stagecraft. Cemex, County to be Challenged in Hearing

by LISA MACNEIL Hernando Sun Writer

An Administrative Hearing began on Tuesday, October 30, 2018, filed by Brooksville resident Heinrich Bracker who owns property adjacent to the proposed Cemex mine expansion project.

Bracker seeks a judgment from the state on whether Hernando County's Plan Amendment (CPAM 1702) is in compliance with Florida statutes governing land use amendments. Statement of facts appear within the petition, including inconsistencies with surrounding zoning and features, wildlife disruption, air and water quality concerns and sinkhole features which could potentially affect the aquifer.

The proposed mining expansion area is located across Cortez Boulevard from Bayfront Hospital, as well as private homes. The petition states, "An open pit industrial mine located next to residential homes and a hospitals contrary to the public interest. Even with the proposed commercial area, a separation would exist between only most, not all, of the area located between the hospital campus and the mine." Residents attending recent hearings have also expressed concern over the potential for diminished value of their properties.

According to the petition filed by Jane West Law, attorneys for Bracker, on February 12, 2018, the Planning and Zoning Commission discussed and conducted a public hearing, and found "numerous inconsistencies" with the county's Comprehensive Plan, and voted 5-0 to recommend the amendment package not be transmitted to the State Department of Economic Opportunity. The petition states that on "March 6, 2018, the Hernando County Commissioners ignored the recommendation from their Planning and Zoning Board and reversed course with a unanimous vote to transmit the proposed Comprehensive Plan to the Department of Economic Opportunity (DEO) and designated review agencies for review." The State Land Planning Agency and DEO received the proposed Plan Amendment for review on March 14, 2018, and returned an Objections, Recommendations and Comments ("ORC") response to the County on April 19, 2018. On June 12, 2018 the Hernando County Board of County Commissioners voted to approve the CPAM 1702 amendments to the Comprehensive Plan.

Rodney Garlits, Don Garlits' grandson, now runs the Drag Racing Museum in Ocala, Florida.

Don Garlits Museum of Drag Racing

ARTICLE AND PHOTOGRAPHY BY ALICE MARY HERDEN

"Drag racing—the straight dash over 1/4 of a mile from a standing start for the shortest elapsed time—is a form of racing unique to the US."

- The National Museum of American History

It's just a 55 minute trip from Brookville to visit Don Garlits Museum of Drag Racing. Billboard signs along I-75 for Don Garlits make travelers who are not necessarily drag racing enthusiasts curious enough to see what this place is all about.

"Big Daddy," Don Garlits was born in Tampa, Florida in 1932. He is an American race car driver and automotive engineer. He is known for drag racing and is the first racer to surpass speeds ranging from 170 mph to 270 mph marks in the quarter mile.

His challenges, victories, in the face of death is the reason why so many people refer to him as a 'Living Legend,' which pretty much sums it up all in two words.

Garlits' inner drive for speed made his life on the drag racing strip inspirational to his grandson, Rodney Garlits, who now runs the museum.

Rodney remarked, "I admire him, because he is the only father figure that I had growing up.

Don Garlits' Museum of Drag Racing opened their doors to the public in 1983.

Him and I were very close. He would pick me from school as a kid in all these hotrods.'

Rodney Garlits, 29, began to study physical therapy but that wasn't his final destination.

"There has always been that feeling deep down inside that I belonged here. I felt like I was veering down a path that would have been successful, but it wouldn't have been the right choice for me," Garlits said. "I'm really the only one [in the family] that is interested in carrying this on for the next generation."

While only a few months into learning the business side of the museum, Rodney personally knows the value of his grandfather's business as well as the importance of maintaining his fan and customer based relationships.

"He is a good role model and a very smart businessman. He took me under his wing and wanted to show me basically how to run a company," Garlits said. "He really appreciates his fans and does everything he can to help inspire the youth."

After Don Garlits participated in the first international drag race festival in England: The Goodwood Festival of Speed, he began to form his own idea for cele-

Visit May-Stringer's Fairy Garden

Brooksville Garden Club Volunteers maintain the Living Memories Garden once a month with weeding, sweeping the walkways and picking up blow/fall down from the overhead trees. This "best kept secret garden" is located behind the May-Stringer Museum, 601 Museum Street, Brooksville.

Recently Museum Volunteers and volunteers from the Brooksville Beautification Board designed and created a Wee Fairy Village to stimulate renewed interest in the garden for visitors to the Museum effective November 13th at 5:30 PM.

With this intent, Brooksville Garden Club shared their time and creative efforts to donate their version of a Fairy Tree House. Several members not in photo pooled talents, Collette Bortolin, Allison Murphy and Helen Wheat. In photo, Fairy House is held by interior Fairy furniture creator, Lois Bendheim. brating the sport of drag racing. Don and his wife, Pat, began their their tribute to drag racing on their own property in Seffner, Florida in 1976. In order to share this growing collection of memorabilia with others, the couple purchased the property off of I-75 and opened the Don Garlits Museum of Drag Racing in 1983.

Rodney is grateful to his grandfather for the opportunity to learn the business and continue it for generations to come.

"I am very thankful for him taking the time to teach me the company and how to conduct business. I would really like to express to him how thankful I am for all the meetings that we've had one on one so that one day I will be able to carry this place on and make it greater than it is today. I have had the most magnificent time of my life being around him," Garlits expressed.

From racing on old abandoned military airways in the late 1950's and early 1960's to sharing history, memories and possibly new found inspirations, The Don Garlits Drag Racing Museum in worth the trip. Visitors can see the how drag racing has transformed throughout the years, view a variety of cars from many accomplished drivers and learn the mechanics and innovations that still push the limits on the asphalt.

Contests result in clean district sweep for Sharks

BY JOE CARLINO PHOTOGRAPHY BY CHERYL CLANTON

Due to Hurricane Michael's pathway a couple of weeks ago, the Nature Coast Sharks game against the Lecanto Panthers was unfortunately pushed back to October 29, which put the Sharks in an interesting predicament: playing three games in a span of seven days, two of which were district opponents. The Sharks needed to only win one to secure the championship and a first-round home playoff game.

When the weekend concluded, the Sharks would not only win the district, but would run a clean sweep of their opponents.

Riding behind the battery play of senior tailback Michael "Mike-Mike" Weston and junior quarterback Fabian "2Fabe" Burnett, the Sharks (8-1, 6-0) would clinch the district championship by defeating the defending champ and district rival Hernando Leopards on homecoming night 35-14, then travelled to Lecanto on Monday night and defeated the Panthers in a shutout,

Below is a recap of each individual contest: Game One: Friday night, 10/26 versus Her-

nando Leopards With the first of two chances to clinch the district title coming on Friday night, the Sharks welcomed the Hernando Leopards to the Shark Tank, Nature Coast took full advantage of the opportunity, sending their fans home happy and putting the Leopards in jeopunder the points system the FHSAA is now under for football. In the contest against Hernando, the Sharks outgained the Leopards in total yards (382-221) and had more success in the red zone (NCT:2/2, HHS: 2/3), and had two more first downs than the

Leopards (14-12). Both teams also had the same

total penalty yards, but

ardy of being eliminated

the Sharks had more flags go against them (9-6). "It feels great, being able to win the championship this week than next," said Sharks head coach Cory Johns after the game. "They (Hernando) came out ready to play,

but their opponent tonight

was a quality foe."

Nature Coast was led yet again in yards by Weston, who had 20 carries for 132 yards and two touchdowns, and Burnett, who contributed 124 total yards (86 in the air and a touchdown along with 38 rushing yards). Hernando was led by senior tailback Israel Fields, who had 122 total yards (35 receiving yards and a touchdown and 87 rushing yards with a touchdown and fumble). Also leading the Leopards was senior quarterback Boston Tafelski, who completed 53 percent of his throws (9 of 17 for 82 yards and a score), adding 17 yards on the ground. "The game was much closer than the (final score) indicates," stated Leopards head coach postgame interviews.

a few errors from controlling the game. I am very proud of this team's heart and how they carry themselves; they don't quit under any circumstances."

The scoring started early in this contest, but interestingly, it was an uncommon source who saw paydirt. After receiv-

Rob Kazmier during the 'We were once again just getting nowhere on the first two plays, the Sharks ran a reverse play that saw sophomore wideout Kinyatah Morgan race untouched for an 80-yard touchdown. A missed extra point saw the Sharks hold a slim 6-0 advantage, which would hold until the second quarter. In said quarter, Her-

ing the opening kick and nando was able to take the lead away from the Sharks, with Tafelski running a bootleg which got the entire Sharks defense to bite, leaving Fields wide open on the far side of the field for a 14-yard score. From there, Nature Coast would score 14 unanswered points, both on rushes by Weston, to take a 21-14 advantage into the intermission. The second half saw Hernando chew up the first six minutes of the third quarter before Fields would find paydirt for the second time of the contest, cashing in from eight yards out. That would be the final score of Hernando's night, as the Sharks

Why Blake Snell deserves the Cy Young Award

BY MATT VANDENBURGH HERNANDO SUN WRITER

With the 2018 World Series over, it is time to look forward to the seasonal awards that MLB players earn. One in particular should be coming down here, as Tampa Bay Rays pitcher Blake Snell is a clear pick for the Cy Young Award.

Snell, a 25-year-old starting pitcher from Seattle, was drafted in the first round of the 2011 MLB draft by the Rays and had been a top prospect until he made his big league debut two years ago. This season saw everything come together for the young man as he firmly established himself as a top flight pitcher. If Snell wins, he will be the second Rays pitcher to earn the award, joining David Price's 2012 award for the team.

To start with. Snell had the most wins of any pitcher in the league, with 21. Combine that with the best American League Earned Run Average at 1.89, along with 221 strikeouts and we can see that Snell certainly has broken away from the pack and launched himself into the ace category.

Snell is not the only candidate for the Cy Young though. Top pitchers such as the Houston Astros' Justin Verlander, Cleveland Indian Corev Kluber and Chris Sale from the World Series winning Boston Red Sox are also amongst the favorites.

To their credit, they all have more strikeouts than Snell, led by Verlander's 290. They also all pitched for playoff teams this season, each pitcher as the head of a pitching staff that won their respective divisions. Also, Both Verlander and Kluber have won the Cy Young Award before, with Kluber winning it twice and also being the 2017 winner. If Kluber wins, he will be the first American Leaguer to win the Cy Young in back-toback seasons since Pedro Martinez in 1999 and 2000.

While they are all great pitchers, only Snell really deserves the award this season. His wins and ERA truly stand alone in the American League, and his Wins Above Replacement of 7.5, again the best amongst American League pitchers, will boost his credentials among voters that appreciate the new-age statistics. His walks & hits per inning pitched was 0.974, fourth best in the majors, second to Verlander's 0.902 in the AL. With only five losses this season, Snell's winning percentage stands at .808, third best in the majors.

Overall, the Cy Young award is Snell's to lose. With the season he had, it would be a huge disappointment if he does not get it when the awards are announced on November 14.

Top 5 Prep Football Ranking Week 10

by ANDY VILLAMARZO HERNANDO SUN SPORTS WRITER

Week 10 of the regular season for prep football in the state of Florida began last week and we here at the Hernando Sun want to give you the Hernando County reader all the insight you can get during the 2018 campaign. We now take a look at the Hernando Sun Top 5 Prep Football Ranking heading into Week 11 of the regular season.

No. 1 Nature Coast (8-1, 6-0): Nature Coast ran away with a Class 5A, District 7 championship by defeating Hernando 35-14 and Lecanto 36-0 on a Friday and Monday, respectively. The Sharks will end the regular season with a game against IMG Academy before preparing for the Class 5A postseason. Question now is when will running back Mike Weston surpass 2,000 yards rushing?

No. 2 Hernando (7-3, 3-3): The Leopards' bleak playoff chances turned into dust when they fell 35-14 at Nature Coast last week. Despite pulling off a solid record of 7-3 on the season, Rob Kazmier and Hernando will miss the playoffs unless they get a ton of help this Friday night. Otherwise, the Leopards will get a head start on the off-season.

No. 3 Springstead (7-3, 4-1): The Eagles had another easy go of it in a 48-8 blowout victory over Dade City Pasco. Springstead has outscored its last two opponents (Cypress Creek, Pasco) by a combined score of 102-15. Since they weren't able to win the Class 6A, District 6 championship, it looks like the Eagles took out their frustrations on the

No. 4 Weeki Wachee (3-6, 2-4): One accomplishment that Weeki Wachee head coach Jacob Gray wanted to pull off this 2018 season was getting quarterback Vaughn Sykora to the county record of 20 touchdowns. Sykora reaches that feat this past Friday when the Hornets lost 32-22 to Crystal River. The Hornets can get to 4-6 when they face New Port Richey Gulf

No. 5 Central (0-10, 0-6): John Warren and crew completed a winless season and now the Bears must shift their focus to an off-season that poses more questions than answers. On the other coast, former Central High head coach Chris Sands led Eau Gaullie High School to a playoff spot in Year 1.

Citrus Bucks and Songdogs

I've got to tell you folks just how much I'm enjoying this cooler weather. Just the other day I actually was cold while sitting in my ground blind. And with the cooler weather, there has been a significant amount of daytime activity by the bucks and harvest reports are pouring in. I'm very happy to announce I was fortunate enough to use a muzzleloading, flint lock rifle to send an invitation to a fat forkhorn for a ride on my tailgate. But, I'll tell you more about that hunt another time. Now, I'd like to remind ya'll that this weekend will be the season opener in the Citrus WMA. Citrus WMA is the crown jewels of wildlife management areas in our area and encompasses over fifty-three thousand acres just north of our county line. This weekend will see the arrival of five hundred permitted bowhunters, for the first of three hunts taking place between this Saturday, Novmder 3rd inrough the 25th. For bag limits and a list of game, legal to take, you can go to www.MyFWC. com and look up the WMA brochure. But, I can assure you, each of the five hundred archers will be targeting whitetails. This hunt is buck only, and from what I've been seeing while out and about on the WMA, it will be a productive hunt. Bucks will be cruising the edges downwind side of the thickets with primary activity being throughout the middle of the day. The first rut is about to wind up, but they will be still searching for a whiff of estrous scent and will begin spending a little of their time feeding, so oak flats downwind of thick bedding areas

I will be out with the old recurve myself and have a couple fine eight pointers on game cam, so I'll have to keep you posted. But, on my trail cams also are a few different coyotes using the same trail as the deer. Not cool, as I surely will be attempting to toss an arrow their way first opportunity I can. Coyotes are terribly detrimental to the health of any native wildlife, especially deer. A pack of coyotes can take an adult deer down in a matter of minutes. That is why I so greatly admire men like DC Sims of Brooksville. DC wrote me an email about his efforts to hunt and control defense clamped down and prevented any further points for the rest of the night.

Offensively, though, the Sharks were not finished, as Morgan would score his second touchdown of the game on a 25-yard jet sweep, and Burnett finding junior tight end Brian Morgan on a beautiful 33-yard pass for the final score of the game.

Game Two: Monday

night, 10/29 against Lecanto Panthers

In the makeup contest between the Sharks and Panthers, Nature Coast capped off the perfect district play with a 36-0 shutout. Burnett would contribute to three of the Sharks' five touchdowns in the contest, rushing for two scores and finding Dedric "Hollywood" Hall for 35 yards on a screen pass.

In moving to 8-1 on the year, the Sharks won the total yardage battle (302-99), first down totals (8-7), red zone efficiency (NCT: 2/2, Lecanto 0/0), and won the turnover battle 5-0 (three interceptions, two blocked punts). However, the Sharks were also very sloppy in this contest, as many Panthers drives were extended because of unnecessary penalties (in total, NCT racked up 11 for 115 yards, while Lecanto had 4 for 30 yards).

"It is what it is," head coach Cory Johns stated after the game. "We did what we needed to do, but it wasn't great by any means."

Nature Coast was initially set to receive the opening kickoff by losing the coin toss, but in a situation eerily like what transpired between the Pittsburgh Steelers and Cleveland Browns on Sunday, the return team did not try to field the ball, and Lecanto recovered the live ball. By rule, a kickoff is considered a live ball if it travels at least 10 yards while still in the field of play. However, the Sharks' defense held tough following the gaffe, forcing a turnover on downs.

From there, it was all NCT. After their first drive ended in a punt, the Sharks got their first turnover by blocking a punt by Panthers punter Jared Sheley, recovering at the Lecanto 16. One play later, Weston ran left for 16 yards and the opening score, adding a two-point conversion to boot.

The second quarter was all Nature Coast, outscoring the home team 21-0. Weston's second tally

Spring Hill Athletic Association is a non-profit organization, supported with volunteers. Everyone is held to a code of conduct to assist in developing social skills and positive behavior. Coaching staff, teams and league supports in the success of the athlete's academics. The season opens every August with a Football and Cheer Jamboree. To sign up go to http://www.shaaeaglesfootballandcheer. com SHAA consists of 3 age divisions. Division 1 ages 5-8, division 2 ages 9-10 and division 3 ages 11-13.

The 2018 Championship football games were held on Saturday October 26, 2018. The Division Championship winners: Division 1 – Warriors, Division 2 – Warriors, Division 3 – Predators.

In Division 3, Coach Jimmy Allen has been with SHAA for four years this year and he will be loosing about seventy five percent of his team. The players will be too old to play in league and they will move on to high school football teams. Coach Jimmy Allen was happy to take the championship on Saturday so these boys could take the experience with them as they begin the next level of competition.

The Predators took on the Punishers this past

Saturday in the battle for the Championship in Division 3 at Veterans Park. Predators Head Coach Jimmy Allen said they were 13-12 going into halftime. "We got together with our Predators Asst. Head Coach Defensive coordinator (Minister at New Hope Missionary Baptist Church) Gary Fields and we made some adjustments and put in some plays that no-one has seen yet this season. These adjustments and plays put us at 42-24 taking the Champion-ship," said Allen. He also remarked that it was a complete team effort that took them to an undefeated season 11-0. For 2019, Division 3 will start fresh again with new players and some returning players.

of the game came early, running right for 39 yards with 10:26 left. After this, Burnett decided he wanted to get in on the scoring barrage, and would get the first of his three tallies, taking a read option play for 26 yards just before the second quarter water break. And right before the half, Burnett found Dedric Hall on a bubble screen on the left side, and "Hollywood" raced through the blockers untouched for the Burnett's final touchdown contribution, which also initiated the 35-point running clock, came with 6:02 left in the third quarter, where he converted a fourth-down attempt from the Lecanto 7.

The Sharks' regular season slate concludes this Friday night, when they welcome the IMG White Ascenders to the Shark Tank on senior night. A win by the Sharks then would put them in contention for the top spot in the 5A-II region, which would guarantee they would play at home for the duration of the regional play come November. Currently, the Sharks sit at the No. 3 spot, while the two ahead of them are currently held by neighboring county school Zephyrhills and Citra-North Marion. This just makes for a wild finish to the regular season, and that's all these coaches and students could ask the invasive coyotes and even shared some photos. And, with his permission, I'll share his message with all of you.

"My name is DC sims and I have been coyote hunting for about six years now. What attracted me to the sport was the challenge of getting a creature that you hardly ever see, to come to you for a close up and personal encounter. I am mostly known for only carrying my dad's old shotgun and my handmade hand calls, which sound like a rabbit in distress." DC not only hunts the coyotes whenever possible, but he runs a successful trapline for them.

'Last year I decided I'd start trapping coyotes for a local cattle rancher. Coyotes can take many caves at birthing season, so I use foothold traps, properly permitted. I prefer the foothold method over snares because with foothold traps they do not harm the animal. That way, if I end up catching a Fox that are a protected species I can let him go unharmed."

As always, if you have any comments, questions or just want to share your success from the woods, give me a shout out at RebelYell-Outdoors@Gmail.com. God Bless and Good Hunting!

"Every season, I replenish my inventory and buy more mer-

At around 5,800 square feet, Patricia's boutique de mode boasts various rooms each with its own theme. stocked from floor to ceiling with unique and distinctively different quality wear and accessories from daywear to evening wear.

The boutique specializes in a variety of quality clothing casuals, pageant, bridal, prom wear as well as tuxes and more. Accessories like shoes, purses, jewelry and hats are also available. Sizes include petites, women's petites, misses and plus sizes ranging from 00-32.

"And because we regularly replenish to keep our lines completely up to date, my husband Richard and I decided to open an outlet where we could offer our merchandise at a reduced price," she said.

Called Patricia's Outlet, the new venture is located at 10 W. Jefferson Street in Brooksville. About 650 sq. ft., the Lambrights constructed new fitting rooms and opened up the interior to display their fashion items.

We were very fortunate to get this location because it's so close to our main boutique and also in the heart of downtown Brooksville," said Patricia. "We've worked hard to make it pretty and attractive to make our customers happy.'

The outlet store will be managed by Marsha Stevenson, assisted by Sarah Yungmann, a longtime sales consultant at Patricia's Boutique.

"We get all ages coming in to browse our gowns," she said. "For example, we have a host of homecoming dresses priced at only $50 — very affordable and making a lot of girls happy.'

She explained that every item in the outlet store is just like those in Patricia's Boutique. Every piece is brand new and there are no preworn or consignment items.

"The outlet is always getting new merchandise," said Patricia. "Each day we sort our stock at Patricia's Boutique and take new items over to Patricia's Outlet."

When a customer visits Patricia's stores, she and her staff of 10 stylists like to get to know each person so they can best cater to their personal tastes.

"Everyone has certain styles they love and it's our aim to cater to each individual," she said.

Patricia and her experienced staff take time to find what's important for their customers. They find out what works for that customer and what makes them feel confident.

Multi-County Extension Director

The Gopher Tortoise is a unique native animal found throughout Florida. In fact, did you know that the gopher tortoise is the only tortoise found in the southeastern United States? Here in Hernando, you can find gopher tortoises in natural areas from urban developments to pastures and wildlife conservation areas, such as Chinsegut. Here at our UF/IFAS Extension Hernando County office, we have four located behind our building. Hernando is very suitable for gopher tortoise habitats. Diverse ecosystems such as scrub, sandhill and even coastal dunes make the perfect home for these ancient reptiles.

Gopher tortoises are longlived creatures. Many residents are surprised as to how long they actually live. In their natural setting, gopher tortoises have an average lifespan between forty to eighty years. Remember that when you see one crossing the road dodging traffic. It can take as long as ten years for a female gopher tortoise to reach sexual maturity. They have a low reproductive rate where females average only two to seven eggs each year. It is estimated that only 3% to 5% of young survive. The conservation of gopher tortoises is critical to the survival of not only the species itself, but to other native Florida fauna. Gopher tortoises excavate a burrow for protection and for nesting. Burrows have been seen to extend to over 45 feet long, but usually average about 15 feet long and have a depth of 6.5 feet. The burrow is just as important as the species itself. The eggs are laid in the burrow, often just at the entrance.

The gopher tortoise is commonly referred to as a keystone species. A keystone species is defined as a species that other species depend on in an ecosystem. If that species were to be removed, it would significantly change that ecosystem. Were you aware that a gopher tortoise burrow could host as many as 350 different species? Species that can share their home include burrowing owls, rabbits, opossums, gopher crickets, gopher frogs, eastern diamondback rattlesnakes and the federally threatened indigo snake. Another keystone species you may be familiar with is our state reptile: the American alligator. Gopher tortoises average about 15" long and can weigh up to 15 pounds. This is not an aquatic species. They live their whole lives on dry land feeding on plants, such as native blueberries, grasses, frog fruit and prickly pear cactus.

Gopher tortoises are a threatened species and both the tortoise and burrow are protected under Florida state law. It is also a designated federally endangered species. Populations are declining due to habitat destruction. If gopher tortoises need to be relocated, permits are available from the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation. If you see a gopher tortoise, leave it be and admire it. For more information, please visit http://myfwc.com/wildlifehabitats/managed/gopher-tortoise/.

Arkansas, and averages about 4,000 pounds of blackberries a year. The harvest season lasts about six to eight weeks – from May until July, but the blackberries require maintenance almost all year. It's a challenge because the thornless varieties are not that well adapted to our weather.

Gene stated, "Besides having a full time career as a professional engineer, the most challenging aspect is Mother Nature. We've seen years that have been extremely dry to years like 2018 where it rained almost every day for two weeks during our peak harvest. We just never know what we will get from year to year.

However, the rewards far outweigh the challenges and there is always next vear.

"To see families and friends come out and make new memories is very rewarding. The folks we've seen for years and years. We've watched children grow up and we have wonderful conversations on the front porch of our 'Blackberry Shack', ' Ann commented.

In addition to the blackberries, the Altmans have planted bananas along their creek. Planting them there gives them a little more freeze protection and also helps keep them watered naturally. Gene is also experimenting with growing artichokes. They have fruit from their fruit trees for their own consumption and in the spring of this year the Altman's planted additional figs which they will harvest for public consumption in Ann remarked, "We currently lease our pasture out for cows. We also have hens and their fresh eggs are the best! Our plan is to build a shelter for and then adopt some donkeys. Donkeys are great for keeping unwelcome critters out of the pasture."

Along with running a successful farm, the Altmans have raised two daughters that they are very proud of. Jenifer is a captain in the Marines and has served two tours in Iraq. Megan is a Registered Nurse and has given them a grandson, Triston.

reau CARES award, the Altmans had to have been enrolled in Best Management Practices (BMP) that included fencing off wetlands and use of soil moisture sensors. They also had to submit answers to a lengthy questionnaire and compete with many other operations. The judging was based on certain criteria, such as reducing the use of fertilizers and herbicides, reducing ground water withdrawal and improving soil health.

Bramble Creek Farms is a U-Pick operation, so along with the enjoyment of eating the delicious fresh blackberries you get the fun and exercise of picking them. They are open, rain or shine, as advertised during the season, May - July. The schedule and prices are posted on their website at https://bramblecreekfarms.com and on their Facebook page. If you prefer not to pick them yourself and want to enjoy the fruit out of season you can buy them prepackaged or frozen. The Altmans also sell homemade jams: BBQ sauce from Granny Nichols, Gene's grandmother; as well as raw honey, goat milk soap and other products from local farmers.

Ann and Gene enjoy their life on their blackberry farm but also take their role as part of Hernando County's and Florida's agricultural heritage seriously.

Random acts of BBQ

BY DONNA SNAPP HERNANDO SUN WRITER

Random Acts of BBQ is what Sonny's BBQ on Commercial Way calls some of its charitable work. Often a day's proceeds are donated to a worthy cause, such as Hurricane Michael relief two weeks ago.

On Friday, October 26, a Random Act of BBQ honored the volunteers of the Ability Tree organization.

Ability Tree is a national organization dedicated to assisting families impacted by disability. Ability Tree offers recreation, education, support and training (R.E.S.T.) to members. One popular program Ability Tree offers is a "Parents Night Out." Parents are able to leave their children, special needs and their siblings, with trained, screened volunteers. The volunteers make sure the children have a wonderful time with games and food and the parents, knowing their children are safe and having fun, can enjoy a few carefree hours for dinner or a movie or whatever else they care to do.

Ability Tree also offers sensory friendly, accessible and inclusive events for families with children with special needs and their friends, such as movie screenings, bowling, art and music classes. Other programs are available for caregivers and local businesses and churches.

Ability Tree depends on its volunteers. So Sonny's staff, accompanied by some great BBQ and red checkered tablecloths, showed the volunteers how much they are appreciated for all they do to give R.E.S. I. to families affected by disability.

Ability Tree was brought to Hernando County by Wayne and Tina Cordova, who are also parents of a special needs daughter. Wayne is a pastor at Crosspoint Church in addition to his work organizing and promoting Ability Tree Florida. Tina Cordova is the Program Director.

To donate, volunteer or connect your family, see AbilityTreeFlorida. org, call 352-593-0430, or email florida@abilitytree.org

Local homeschool group creates chilling tram ride experience

West Central Homeschoolers West Central Asylum Area at Homosassa Springs State Park during the Haunted Tram Ride experience

by MELISSA FORDYCE HERNANDO SUN WRITER

Imagine enjoying a night time tram ride down Homosassa Wildlife Park's Pepper Creek Trail, only to hear a voice on a megaphone warning you to "turn around zom-bies on the loose!" Then approaching the signs, you hear, "entering prison area" and the "symptoms of Green Skin Fever.' You wonder, 'Green Skin Fever what is that?' You soon find out as you enter the West Central Asylum area and witness the doctors infecting patients with Green Skin Fever. Luckily your tram moves on, out of the area, but only for a moment. You approach the West Central Penitentiary where zombie prisoners grab, growl, and hiss at you behind the prison walls. As your tram races back to safety, you see the zombies emerge from behind trees and more break free from the confines of the prison, chasing after the tram until your driver gets you out of the area and back to safety.

This is one of the frightful experiences guests got to be part of during the annual Homosassa Wildlife Park's 15th Annual Haunted Tram rides. Although it sounds scary, this adventure was family friendly and extremely fun for all ages. Anyone on the ride could appreciate the dedication and performances given during the tram ride on both nights. The middle, high school, and foreign exchange students of West Central Florida Homeschoolers created the 'Green Skin Fever' thrilling, attention getting performance. Together these students discussed, planned, constructed, and executed their theme with the direction of the Middle School Coordinator Melissa Lane in about five weeks. All the time and hard work of the students and their supportive parents paid off as they received 3rd place. Never taken a ride on the Haunted Tram? Be sure to check it out next year.

Escambia and St. Johns County seperated by the Suwannee River. Mosquito County was split off from St. Johns County on December 29, 1824.

Originally Hernando County was part of Mosquito County. The Mosquito County map from 1839 shows the Chocachatti Prairie inside of Mosquito County. The boundary of Mosquito County went from Port Charlotte to Ocala to Daytona Beach to somewhere near Boca Raton. Mosquito County

shrunk over time as more counties were created in Florida. Mosquito County was split again into St. Lucia County (renamed to Brevard) to the south and Orange County to the north in 1844.

Mosquitos are still a part of Hernando County, but with spraying they are managed. Mosquito County is a distant memory and Florida tourism is thankful for that.

Mosquito/Leigh Reid County (in pink): This detail of a map from the Tanner's Universal Atlas shows towns, forts, roads, canals, major rivers and lakes in Mosquito County. Mosquito County is shown as Leigh Read County on this map, a name change that was proposed by the State Legislature, but was never officially adopted. This tract of land is the largest section of Florida at this time. Fort Dade and Chocochattee are in Mosquito County.

Oak Hill Residency Program achieves 100 percent certification success

Oak Hill Hospital is particularly proud to announce that 100% of the graduating class of its GME Internal Medicine Residency program have passed their board certification exam and are now certified in Internal Medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM) Board certification from the ABIM is the highest standard in internal medicine to signify physicians have demonstrated to their peers and to the public the clinical judgment, skills, and attitudes essential for providing excellent patient care. ABIM board certification is voluntary and includes a rigorous exam testing the physician's ability to diagnose and conditions. To maintain certification, physicians participate in continuing medical education activities to assess their knowledge of the latest scientific developments and changes in practice.

According to the ABIM, internists and subspecialists who earn and maintain board certification "differentiate themselves every day through their specialized knowledge and commitment to continual learning in service of their patients.

The 2015-2018 Internal Medicine graduates are the second class to graduate from Oak Hill Hospital's internal medicine residency program. According to the Florida Department of Health, there is a critical statewide need for physicians. Oak Hill Hospital's Graduate Medical Education programs help alleviate the overall shortage and many will stay to practice show that many physicians practice where they have completed their residency. Almost 100% of the current graduating class have remained in Florida, most in the Tampa Bay area.

Exploring the pros and cons of prescribed burns

by Solomon St. Ledger, 10th grader

Wildfires, while they do occur naturally, can be devastating to forests and woods all over the country. They usually begin by lightning striking down a tree or by spontaneous combustion of natural fuel, such as sawdust and leaves. Wildfires can be beneficial towards a forest, but it can also be just as harmful. To prevent wildfires, sometimes a prescribed, or controlled burn will be planned to help prevent wildfires. States that do not perform prescribed burns usually suffer from more wildfires than those states that do. While prescribed burns are highly beneficial, sometimes they can cause more trouble than they are worth. This raises the question, are or bad idea?

Prescribed burns can help in many different ways. By burning the natural dry fuels on our accord, we can get rid of them while being ready for the fire they cause. This way the natural fuels would not be able to spontaneously combust or increase the intensity of a lightning fire. Some trees and plants also rely on fire for their species to survive. Some trees' pine cones will only drop their seeds after a forest fire. Prescribed burns can also be used to clear large amounts of trees for houses and parks. Some states may not want to use prescribed fires because of the risks they would be taking in doing so. The smoke from the persistent burning of woods could cause air pollution and respiratory problems of nearby citizens if inhaled. The smoke can also cloud the view of drivers nearby and cause accidents on the road. If a prescribed fire gets out of control, then the surrounding area could be engulfed in an uncontrollable fire. This would and keep the chances hurt the environment and could even cause property damage.

scribed fires take risks and are a little bit dangerous, but it is also a fact that states that do not perform prescribed fires suffer from more wildfires. This is mostly because of the buildup of natural fuels. When a lot of natural fuels build up, a wildfire is more likely to happen and, when it does happen, all the natural fuel makes the fire much more intense. The combination of intense and unexpected fires makes it extremely hard to put out wildfires in states that

It is true that pre-

do not permit prescribed burns.

After exploring both the pros and cons of prescribed fires, I think that they are a good thing to keep around. They both help the habitat of unexpected wildfires low. While they do have risks that have to be taken, such as air pollution, clouding of vision, and fires breaking out, all the possible outcomes can be prepared for ahead of time. There is little to no reason why a prescribed burn should get out of control if it was well prepared for. The pros outweigh the cons in my opinion and I would urge other states to take to performing prescribed fires to keep unexpected wildfires at a minimum.

Honest report cards, conferences, essential for student improvement, independence

When a student, teacher and parents meet together, many positive things can take place. By honestly interacting with each other, pertinent information can be exchanged that will be an accurate snapshot of the child's present strengths and weaknesses. This picture will certainly change over time although the strategy developed by the process will hopefully keep the student moving in the positive direction.

Most parents want their child to do well from the beginning to the end of their education. They often have difficulty accepting teacher conference statements and report card comments. When their child does not do as well as the parent's expectations, most parents view it as a negative reflection on their parenting. A student receiving outstanding grades provides the parent with bragging rights to put a decal on their bumper that says "My child is on the honor roll." Most modern parent wants their child to be a winner in every endeavor attempted. This is unrealistic and unfair for the child's emotional development. No one can be the best in everything.

Report cards in preschool are not the same as transcripts for college.

The type of courses and grades are evaluated by college search committees to decide on students who are acceptable for their college. However, preschool through eighth grade is the interval for the development of social, academic, time management and critical thinking skills, which are essential for doing well in future endeavors including academics.

When the child complains that he received lower grades than he expected, instead of the parent saying work harder and your grades will go up, the modern parents become an advocate for their child's grades. The parents want a grade to be changed upward to make the child happier for being recognized. These parents fail to understand that the lower grades than they expected can motivate students to do better the next marking period.

Starting the first marking period with high grades can result in student complacency and grade inflation for a student and eventually for the entire class.

Besides the fact that no one is perfect, the parents who expect and demand their child be straight A in all subjects is missing the point that we all have to learn how to overcome our shortcomings. These are healthy challenges.

The straight A student will hit a wall in learning in a particular subject. It is up to the student to figure out a beneficial means of getting to the other side of the wall. These self compensation experiments might not be emphasized or even mentioned on the report card although in the long run is often more important than a GPA (Grade Point Average.)

In the lower grades report cards are more subjective than they are in higher grades where there is more objective subject material. In the lower grades skills, attitude and discipline issues have to be taken into consideration too. The student needs to view the report as an honest assessment of his improvement as a student. A report card to parents should demonstrate their child's actual growth in all areas not just how well he is doing compared to fellow students. Growth, not bragging rights should be the criteria of the evaluation of their child's educational development. They are insisting on high grades for their child from the first day he enters school. Parental

Dear Editor:

As a resident of Hernando County since 2009, and as an attendee of the multiple School District Board, committee and hearing meetings, I've "learned a thing or two" about the education system being used by our School Board.

Additionally, I was a member of the citizens/District volunteer search committee which recommended NOT hiring Dr. Romano for the Superintendent's position, and another citizen group which actually read some of the books then being used by the system. Reports on each book were made to the School Board and the Superintendent at the time.

In recent years, the school districts across the state have made a tremendous push to convert all learning to electronic/on-line communications so that the students need not actually READ anything, but can merely ask "SIRI" a home-work question and the answer is immediately provided by voice mail.

I am a landlord dealing in – NOT the 1%ers – those who have become the "staple" of our economy. More than most ads, mine are filled with lots of information about the property, the process for viewing the property, a further description of the ambiance of the property.

There is a Website-created button in the ads which lead to my contact information which essentially tells the ad reader to push this button for more information. So, without reading the information already provided in the ad, my e-mail account pops up with the computer-driven sentence: "Please provide more information."

About the only additional information – the ad includes exterior and interior pictures – I can think of to give is that the exterior paint is dark brown upstairs, the downstairs is painted a darker shade of yellow and the flora is green.

My reason for these comments is that, after 10 years of struggling with our education leaders, I can now point to the results of their efforts – people don't read before taking action! It is a sad commentary to me that we have spent so much taxpayer cash in electronic media ALONE for our students, only to have them be unable to read and communicate with any level of common device usage

My incoming phone messages are much the same with my same response. But, in addition to the level of ignorance displayed by the written ad responses, callers leave garbled phone numbers (I estimate that I must eventually – even after trying many similar sounding numbers – cease my attempts to facilitate a twoway communication because I can not decipher some 10% of the numbers clearly) OR callers leave phone numbers with the in-box full or not even established, with outgoing answering messages to which I can only respond "What information do you want?" or a constant busy signal.

Tom Brokaw, as far back as the 1970's, began referring to the 1960's as the "Dumbing down of America" based on the education being provided to our students. After all the backslapping and handshaking in our legislative and administrative halls since then, I cannot help but think he was "Spot on" with the situation getting worse by the day.

I don't wear short pants because my shins look horrible. They are destroyed. I started destroying them back when I was eight years old and living at MacDill AFB, where my dad was stationed as part of Strike Command. At the ends of those tall, apartment-like government quarters we lived in, stood large AC units, and when we military brats discovered them we played there a lot, mainly Zorro. One day I tried to jump the long space between two units, and while I got my left foot on it, the middle of my right shin hit the corner. You know the episodes of Family Guy where Peter falls and hurts his leg and holds it for many seconds while he hisses through his teeth and moans? Yep, that really happens. I think I even made the same sounds, but I'm positive I held my leg for a lot longer, and I endured my suffering while on top of the flat, gray surface of the AC.

Others talk about the innocence of youth, but I am more familiar with its stupidity. I tried the jump again, and hit the same spot. And did it over and over. I finally had to take a break from Zorro, and we kids played other games in other yards around the complex until the scab fell off. Then I was back at it. And I leaped that vast expanse on my first attempt! Oh, it was a shaky landing, with just the toes of my tennis shoes rocking me back and forth until I fell forward on my hands and knees. But I made the jump! Confident, I tried it again, and hit the exact same spot on my right shin. By the end of summer vacation that spot was numb, and it stayed numb for fifty-one years, or perhaps less; I just happened to notice while drying off after a shower that the spot had some feeling.

GOOFY STUFF By VINCENT ĆARDEGIN

But over the years I kept injuring my shins, both of them. I don't know what it is about my shins that I keep injuring them. As far as I can tell, they are average human shins: long bones with a sharp edge covered with thin skin. But it seemed that anything between nine and thirteen-and-half inches high kept putting scars on my lower legs. Coffee table, large toolboxes, shredder, wooden lawn chairs, nearly everything in my wife's garden. Once I nicked a shin with my guitar after I swung it of my shoulder, and several times I whacked a shin with a buckle while threading a belt into my pants.

However, thorough scaring didn't start until I was at Exwork. There stacks of pallets were thirsty for my shins, and single pallets with beams and shelves on them hunted my shins down.

me and ran into my shins. From knees to ankles, my shins always had scabs.

Then one day I broke my left big toe. (Actually, I should say it this way: my left big toe was broken.) Two fellow associates helped me pull a pallet of salt from outside, and I forgot they were pushing, and so when I leaned back to give it an extra tug up the ramp, I fell down and they push the two-thousand pounds onto my left foot. Oh, Exwork sent me to a clinic, and over the course of weeks my toe healed, and I'm still amazed that neither of my shins were involved

After that I decided we associates needed better allaround protection. While my shins bore the brunt of many contusions and abrasions, every part of my body, of everyone's body, suffered injuries. Boxes fell on our heads; wooden, plastic, and metal rods poked us in the eyes and gored our abdomens; everything we touched pinched or tried to crush our fingers; and carts sliced epidermal layers from our Achilles heels. As a friend of mine put it:

As soon as you move from standing still, you're at risk of being hurt. So I envisioned the proper attire for such a hostile environment.

Chainmail is the main thing, complete with proper padding: helmet, vest, forearms and leggings, with extra layers of metal plates for shins. Also, steel-toed shoes with steel heels, and metal gloves with retractable fingertips, so we could push buttons when needed. I'd like a face shield with a gasmask, something stylish that will protect me from, but not offend, customers of the filthy trend. Or, just give me Iron Man's suit. I could wear that. Of course, in the future, a full metal associate will probably be a robot.

The evaluative process is a necessary one to keep everyone on the same page. It informs the child that there are real consequences for his effort and attitude. Parents and teachers become aware of the growth of the student's academic attributes and maturing behavior. This feedback assists everyone. It keeps everyone on his toes to motivate the student at home and at school.

Ultimately it is the student with or without the support of his parents, teachers or administrators who has to take control of his own education. Becoming an independent learner even with the help of others is a decision made by the individual.

MINISTER / CHAPLAIN Green pastures and still waters

Green pastures and still waters When we think about living on purpose, it can mean different things to different people. Personally, one of the first aspects that comes to my mind is the desire to not only love God and be thankful for who he is but to also love my life and appreciate who I am. This is not to be confused with being arrogant or satisfied about where I am in my journey, but rather it has everything to do with having peace and contentment in our soul as we allow God to change us into his image. It's true that being honest and willing to embrace the anxiety and the unfairness within our éveryday life is painful, but it's also the only way we can truly become the person God wants us to be. The difficult part of being transformed into this way of thinking is learning how to embrace not just the pleasant events, but also the difficult circumstances. This is a very important part of our spiritual development and a great way to learn how to listen carefully, wait patiently, keep our eyes focused on him, and trust him completely. Alexander MacLaren is quoted, Only he who can say the Lord is the strength of my life can also declare, of whom shall I be afraid?" We realize that many of our problems and failures are selfinflicted but there are also times when things happen to us that are not our fault. When we find ourselves in a difficult place, we must believe this season of agony will not last forever. We can know that if we keep walking forward with complete faith in $\bar{\mbox{God}}$ that eventually our situation will change for the better. As we realize the whole world is not a scorching, relentless desert, but also contains lush jungles, beautiful lakes and rivers, majestic mountains, forest and fields, likewise, if you are walking through a dry and desolate experience, I encourage you to stop and consider that your oasis is possibly right over the next hill. I do not know how or when you will walk out of your desert, but the Lord is our shepherd and its only a matter of time before he leads you into his green pastures and still waters. An amazing truth is that God wants the best for all of us and of all the promises we can write upon the tables of our heart, we can stand with confidence on the spiritual reality of his endless love.

It's no secret we all have a certain amount of independence that wants to do things our way. We are always trying to fix our own problems but we can look around and see this does not work out very well. I believe that being honest with God and ourselves is a great place to begin when are trying to figure out how to deal with our troubles. Psalm chapter 94 and verses 18 and 19 gives us this insight, "I cried out, I am slipping, but your unfailing love O Lord, supported me. When doubts filled my mind, your comfort gave me renewed hope and cheer." The idea here is that it's alright to cry out to God and tell him exactly how we feel. If we are sad, depressed, tempted, angry, or whatever, we can just pour out our feelings to him anytime. He listens to us, he sees our tears, and knows exactly what we are going through.

Actually, God is the only one who can help us when it comes to healing and deliverance. Others can pray and help comfort us, pat us on the back, and maybe offer a tissue, but another person cannot catch us when we are falling into a state of discouragement or rescue us when we are drowning in misery. When we have lost all hope, God not only has the power and authority to forgive us and redeem our soul but he is also waiting to open our eyes, give us courage, and keep us safe until the storm passes. that dwells in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty" Psalm 91:1. It gives us hope and comfort to know if we should ever collapse under the weight of our burdens, his love and mercy will always carry us to safety. Remember, he who created us is more than able to take care of us.
