County Council postpones sales tax referendum

By Gina McKee
gmckee@hometownnewsol.com

At the request of Volusia County's 16 cities, voters will not see a referendum for a half-cent sales tax increase on their ballots in November.

Instead, the council will begin workshops in June to review and perhaps revise developers' impact fees, which haven't changed since 2003, council members said after postponing the scheduled vote to place the sales tax on the ballot.

At a roundtable discussion Monday, April 30, at Daytona International Airport, Volusia County mayors agreed now is not the time for the tax referendum, noting issues ranging from an over-crowded ballot to growing public displeasure with growth in the county.

"We got to the line of scrimmage and things changed a little bit … when we adopted our resolution (in favor of the half-cent sales tax) we didn't know how many items were going to be on the ballot," DeLand Mayor Bob Apgar said.

In addition to an over-crowded ballot, on which the referendum would potentially get lost in mix, a new mandate from the state requiring audits of of sales tax uses before it goes on the ballot added to the mayors' concerns.

"The issue of the audit was a new issue that came through the process," Mayor Apgar said. "I think all of us have worked hard to get to this point and I think it's important that we give both our citizens and our communities the best opportunity to have meaningful dialogue on all these issues."

The mayors also cited public education on the issues, including those regarding impact fees, as a need before the referendum could have any chance of success. Funding is needed for the projects necessary to deal with a boom of growth across the county as well, said Ormond Beach Mayor Bill Partington,

"Ormond Beach has critical infrastructure needs without a defined funding source … so we want to make sure we give this (sales tax referendum) the

F.A.I.T.H seeks to 'Save Our Children'

By Diane M. Carey
dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

With the rallying cry "Save Our Children", Fighting Against Injustice Towards Harmony supporters showed up by the hundreds at Peabody Auditorium in Daytona Beach Monday, April 30, to see where local leaders stood on reducing juvenile arrests by giving civil citations instead and also taking a closer look at school suspensions.

State Attorney R.J. Larizza, Volusia County Sheriff Mike Chitwood, Daytona Beach Police Chief Craig Capri and Dan Merrithew of the Department of Juvenile Justice attended and pledged support for giving juveniles civil citations for minor crimes. Youth who commit sex crimes or crimes with weapons would not be eligible for a civil citation.

Out of 67 counties in Florida, Volusia County ranks fifth highest in out-of-school suspension rate and seventh highest in school arrest rate, statistics presented at the rally showed. Further, arrests cost $4,500 compared to $400 for a civil citation. Presenters stressed that civil citations are not a slap on the wrist, but rather assign restitution and atonement.

The state attorney's office has committed to overseeing restitution. Mr. Larizza said, "Now we have kids going through the program that would not have previously.

"It is a balance between victims and their loss and kids suffering consequences

Camp Winona enjoys 100th year of fun

Children enjoy some fun in Lake Winona during last year's summer camp.

By Gina McKee
gmckee@hometownnewsol.com

Volusia-Flagler Family YMCA's Camp Winona in DeLeon Springs is about to celebrate a major milestone -- a century of helping area youth reach their full potential.

It's a place where heroes come together to aid children in finding their own inner hero.

And, as the camp prepares to celebrate 100 years of giving young heroes-in-the-making a chance to overcome, learn and grow into the Supermen and Wonder Women of the future, organizers are asking county residents to dig deep and find their own inner super-power: The power to change a child's life.

"Many kids are fortunate to be able to have these experiences because of their families and close support groups, but many families just do not have the means nor the support circles to be able to give their children these life-changing opportunities," said Jackie Aton, senior program director, in a letter to Friends of Camp Winona. "This is where we call out to our community heroes, those individuals who know how meaningful and powerful a week of camp can be for a child who, without your help, would never have the opportunities only found here at YMCA Camp Winona."

It takes $500 to fully fund one week for one child at the camp, although any amount helps, said Jennifer Rice, marketing director.

"The cost per child is $500, but that's not a minimum donation," Ms. Rice said. "Every dollar helps a child in need go to camp."

During the week, youth enjoy a summer experiencing the blob, water toys, swimming, archery, zipline and more.

"They grow in self-confidence and self-worth, make lasting friendships, and have a sense of inclusion and acceptance they may not

Museum has what goes bump in the night

C. Green's Haunted History House and Museum has plenty for those who want to learn about the paranormal, hauntings, other phenomenon and more about the area.

The museum is at 1079 Stevens St. and is adjoined, or part, of The Purple Rose, which has been around for nearly 40 years. It is 2,000 square feet and houses many artifacts and photographs of the beginnings in the area.

Varney Pearce, manager of the museum, said there's artifacts and never-before-seen photographs of George Colby, the founder of Southern Cassadaga Spiritualist Camp Meeting Association, his reading table, séance table, and dishes and fixtures from his home. The steps of Mr. Colby's home remain in Colby-Alderman Park.

"It's our current pride and joy," he said. "The railroad paperwork is on the bottom (underneath) the table. It was shipped from New York to Lake Helen."

There are photographs of the Andrew Jackson Davis Educational Building in the camp and of William Amory Underhill, the grandson of the Aldermans and one of the first managers of Cassadaga Hotel.

"There's a lot of different stuff to see," Mr. Pearce said. "We add things on a weekly basis. You can walk through it two or three times in a day and still miss stuff. There's so much to see."

There's a private collection of stones and crystals; a Harry Potter section; medical equipment oddities, such as shock therapy kits; Ouija boards, haunted dolls; and a 1900s rental casket.

Also, there's a scary movie display, a native-American section, Salem witch trials section, information about haunted tragedies, the Winchester Mystery House, Area 51, Bigfoot, Haunted Florida and the I-4 Dead Zone.

"We don't have a guided tour, but there are a lot of writings and information that go with each area," Mr. Pearce said. "It could take two hours if you read everything. Most people go through in 30 minutes to an hour."

His favorite room is the séances room, he said. "It's the one room I don't like going in alone."

Mr. Pearce said he and the owner of The Purple Rose, Tina Green, were talking about what else people could do when they got to Cassadaga.

"Well, a lot of people come to Cassadaga to get a reading, walk around, try some tours, shopping and that's pretty much all there was to do," he said. "So we thought to do this."

The museum has been open since February.

"It has been doing quite well," he said.

The Purple Rose, first owned by the late June Benjamin, offers tarot card readings, pet readings, crystals, jewelry, herbs, incense and many other like items.

The museum is open from noon to 6 p.m. Fridays and Sundays and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for 8- to 17-year-olds and under 7 is free with a paid adult. One Saturday a month, after hour tickets will be sold to ghost hunt the building, which has been around for 118 years.

For more information, call (386) 228-9865.

best chance of success," Mayor Partington said. "I know each of the cities, and the county overall, has their own critical needs as well. Even though I was frustrated when I first learned of this, the more I thought about it, the more I felt a delay is needed."

Informed choices are critical, and if the referendum pushes forward in a rush against the odds, the municipalities may lose their chance altogether, said County Manager James Dinneen.

"I understand where (the mayors) are coming from, and the funding is needed, but I think you only get one chance at this, and if you blow it, you thrown away your opportunity for years and years to come," Mr. Dinneen said. "I don't think the problem is going to go away, but (if we postpone) maybe we get more of an opportunity to get this done right, and not under a time crunch."

Although tabled for now, the referendum could see new life next spring in a special election.

Community fund distributes grants

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Community Foundation of East Central Florida has disbursed grants from three funds, totaling about $4,500.

The Flagler Community Fund, which was established in 2007 and has made $14,612 in grants to date, will grant $1,687 to Samaritan Ministries to assist abused and single mothers with transportation needs.

Southwest Volusia Community Fund, which was established in 2010 and has made $4,184 in grants to date, will grant $791 to Community Life Outreach Services Center to assist families in crisis to pay water bills and the Four Towns Family YMCA to pay for swim lessons for low-income children.

Simon J. Peabody Indigent Care Fund, which was established in 2006 and has made $83,185 in grants to date, will grant $2,079 to the Florida United Methodist Children's Home for the aging out of foster care program and Neighborhood Center of West Volusia for the food pantry.

The foundation works with area nonprofits to make the community a better place. A total of $125,712 in grants have been made to local nonprofits and close to $500,000 in grants have been brought into the community in partnerships with other nonprofits on programs serving Flagler and Volusia counties.

have elsewhere," she said. "They develop their leadership potential, learn independence and of course make friendships that will last a lifetime."

The coming summer will be even more special as the camp prepares to celebrate 100 years. Special activities and more are in the works for the family camp weekends, plus special events also are coming, camp officials said.

In 1919, L.R. Reynolds, then general director of the Daytona Beach YMCA, found a pristine spot on the edge of Lake Winona in DeLeon Springs and pitched tents there with several boys from the Y. According to the camp's history, Mr. Reynolds liked it so well that in 1920 the YMCA obtained 40 acres on Lake Winona and Camp Winona was born.

The new camp would be used by the county's three YMCA locations, New Smyrna Beach, Daytona Beach and DeLand, the camp's website states.

Sometime in the 1960s, girls were welcomed and fun in the sun ensued co-ed, according to information provided by camp officials.

YMCA Camp Winona is nestled among 68 secluded acres of oaks and pines on the shores of 88-acre spring fed Lake Winona, according to the camp's website. The heritage and programs have continued to provide fun and excitement in a safe atmosphere. That is why YMCA Camp Winona is "a place in the woods that finds a place in the heart!"

To learn more about attending camp for a week, or for a family weekend, or to donate to help a child go to camp this summer, visit campwinona.org/resources/donations.

Daytona Jeep Beach and the rise of the SUV

LAND LINES
DAN SMITH

I hope you all had a chance to see some of the hundreds of Jeeps that were here for the weekend of April 27-29.

If you were like me, you had a close-up as you sat alongside them in traffic. One thing about motorheads, if it burns fuel, somebody is in love with it. That was pretty evident as the Jeep Beach event has grown substantially. There was everything from mudders to Hummers. Every type of four-wheel drive, open vehicle that rolls was here in force and many of them were trailered down from distant points. I'm sure that event provided a nice boost to the local economy.

Seeing all of those Jeeps did remind me of a phenomenon I encountered while working as a contractor in Illinois back in the middle 1970s. I did a lot of work in a near west Chicago suburb that was populated by old Victorian/Edwardian and gothic-style homes that anyone would class in the million-dollar variety. The residents there were all people of means and each garage held a couple of nice Mercedes, Jaguars, Cadillacs or Lincolns.

After a while, I began to notice a trend. None of these wealthy people used their fine automobiles for everyday junkets, like taking the kids to school or going to the market. In fact, they seldom took those cars out of the garage at all. Instead, each driveway held a Jeep. The mothers, fathers and teenagers all used the utility vehicle for life's more mundane chores.

I remember at the time I found it unusual for all these expensive homes to own a Jeep, which back then was considered by most to be an off-road vehicle and not very stylish. Most of the Jeeps were not pretty or sporty or anything like that, though most did have removable side curtains. I am certain in the harsh Illinois winters the four-wheel drive Jeeps were practical, if not all that comfortable.

At the time, I mentioned this happening to anyone who cared to listen, though most were uninterested. As it later turned out, I was in on the birth of the SUV bonanza that would take over the American auto market in the 1980s and '90s. Apparently that same sort of thing was happening all across the U. S. and Detroit was paying attention.

Before too long almost every home in America would own some sort of vehicle classed as a sports utility vehicle. Sure those refined Jeeps quickly became a pretty far stretch from those basic types I had seen in the Chicago area, but make no mistake about it, soon grandmothers began driving four-wheel drives to the supermarket and because of that, those SUV's became all the more comfortable.

I remember the first time I saw a big Lincoln Navigator and a Cadillac Escalade, I knew then those little Illinois Jeeps had come full circle. Like many of you, I am now on my fourth SUV and I love it. This year as I traveled in the company of all the regular Jeeps in the crowd, attending Jeep Beach, I had to smile at the thought of all us more comfortable Jeep drivers rolling alongside in our own more plush version of a sport utility vehicle.

that can follow them the rest of their lives," he said. "I am confident that we will be able to do that with this new policy. I am also confident victims, once they understand what the civil citation process is or is going to be, are persuaded or encouraged and I think are going to be happy to participate and approve of that program."

The two-hour meeting, which focused on youth criminal justice, included testimony from a teacher's perspective (Andrew Spar), grandparent perspective (Rev. Willie Branch), parent perspective (Christina Townsend) and child perspective (Gabrielle Flynn).

Mr. Spar said he has spoken to teachers and "one of those challenges is the over-testing of our students and the fact education has become more of a task than an experience. We also have to look at the fact our schools are woefully understaffed. We do not have nearly enough school counselors. We need to have a social worker in every school.

"We need to remember that this in fact is a community effort and while today is a start it will take all of us here working side by side with our teachers, our administrators, our school board members and others to make sure that our children are never left behind," Mr. Spar said. "They need a balanced approach."

School Board Chairman Linda Cuthbert said Volusia's suspension rate is too high.

"It is extremely important that we look at . . . what causes their problems," Ms. Cuthbert said. "With so many people attending our schools now, we need more staff."

She encouraged people to contact legislators to request more school funding.

Rev. Branch described how his granddaughter, who he is raising, was arrested.

"Our school systems are not prepared to deal with children with behavioral issues," he said. "They don't try to find out why a child is acting out as they might be. She now has a record and all she needed was some help. Something must be done. Nobody on campus is asking the right questions. We must fight for our children. If we don't fight for them there is a straight path to the jailhouse behind prison walls, and for some an undertaker."

Ms. Townsend described the difference restorative justice made in her daughter's life after an incident in high school versus what could have been a permanent criminal record. Her daughter, who just finished her first year of college, has a 4.0 GPA.

"We need to demand that all children in our state have access to civil citations," she said.

Gabrielle Flynn, who attends Pine Trail Elementary School in Ormond Beach described the trauma of classmates being arrested at her school recently.

Fr. Chris Hoffmann, pastor at Our Lady of Hope Catholic Church in Port Orange and F.A.I.T.H. co-chair, said the group needs to keep working with the state attorney's office and police on increasing the use of civil citations. "We will also keep working on establishing relationships with police chiefs that we have not met with," Fr. Hoffman said.

"It was a success, largely," he said. "I would say that it would rank favorably with other Actions that we have held."

He added, "The secret to our success is that we are impelled by our faith beliefs to make our world a better place. We don't do it for political or financial gain. We are non-partisan, but we tackle issues that have a public or political answer."

Hospitals centralize scheduling

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Florida Hospital has opened a centralized scheduling, pre-registration, insurance verification and outpatient authorization office with 43 employees in Suite 111 at 1061 Medical Center Drive in Orange City.

Pre-registration is completed before arriving to the hospital for imaging, respiratory, cardiology and nuclear medicine services to check patient insurance eligibility and determine any patient financial responsibility due at time of service.

Patients can visit FHimaging.org to request an appointment with a scheduling agent to find the right provider and location or view appointment times.

Patients interested in scheduling an appointment at either Florida Hospital Fish Memorial in Orange City or Florida Hospital DeLand in DeLand can call toll-free (833) 881-9081.

Patients interested in scheduling an appointment at Florida Hospital Flagler in Palm Coast, Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center in Daytona Beach or Florida Hospital New Smyrna in New Smyrna Beach can call (386) 231-5055.

In June, the office will have one phone number for all patients to call, regardless of desired facility.

Beginning May 14, the centralized office will offer extended hours from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The department uses a new phone system to speed up call response times. Also, the team has reduced the time it takes to schedule an appointment for a patient as referred by their physician.

Each Florida Hospital facility in Volusia and Flagler counties did have its own scheduling department, but hospital officials say the centralized service will improve the experience for patients.

Trayvion Stephens

The Volusia County Sheriff's Office is searching for an inmate of the Volusia County jail who walked off from a work crew April 30 in DeBary and remains at large.

The inmate, 19-year-old Trayvion Stephens (DOB Dec. 11, 1998), walked away from his work detail around noon in the area of 26 Florence Blvd., DeBary. He was wearing a lime green "VCDC" shirt and dark green pants.

Stephens was on a 270-day sentence for trespassing in an occupied structure and his release date was in September. Despite an extensive search by the Sheriff's Office and other agencies, Stephens has still not been found.

Anyone with information about Stephens' whereabouts is asked to call 911.

No drone zone

Last month, we went to the VW bus show at Port Orange City Center.

There was a large crowd with beautiful restored VWs, children, skate boarders and dogs on leashes. While working our way through the crowd,I heard a buzzing sound over my head. I looked up and three feet over my head was a drone (quad copter).

The guy was flying by looking at the screen on his transmitter, sent to him from a camera on the drone and not watching where he was going. I am a member of the Academy of Model Aeronautics and I know flying "anything" over crowds is against the law. I told him he was breaking the law, but he kept on flying.

It's people, like this guy, that don't know the rules, or just don't care, that are bringing the Federal Aviation Administration down on the rest of us who fly safe. If you have a drone, go to modelaircraft.org and look for the National Model Aircraft Safety Code. Please fly safe and keep our hobby safe before Uncle Sam takes it away.

In response to 'Death of cable TV'

I don't know how many of us are old enough to remember when we all had antennas on our roofs.

When the cable companies first started stringing their wires down our streets. The promise was "pay a modest fee and you will never have to see a commercial again."

The fees are no longer modest.

When you have a problem, it can take up to an hour of your time to get a live person on the line.

As far as commercials … there are several channels extending a half-hour segment to 36 minutes. Those extra six minutes of commercials not only extend a five-hour block to six hours (the extra hour all commercials).

The network not only makes money on the extra hour of paid commercials, but they also save money by not paying royalties on the television program they are not airing in that hour.

Railroad horns

Where I come from in Minnesota they installed concrete barriers on each side of the intersection of a road and a train track going through town, so people could not go around the down arms of a crossing.

This allowed the train to not have to sound the horn. We need this in Port Orange. Some of those engineers enjoy blowing it a little to much.

Check it out at Coon Rapids, Minn.

Get off the curb to curb

Many dog owners have no idea what curb your dog really means.

They seem to think it means they stand at the curb area and let their dogs wonder around in the middle of private property attached to a 16- to 26-foot retractable leash.

True, some good owners pick up the stinky gooey excrement, but many just continue on to let their dogs urinate on as many mailbox posts as possible leaving us the odor behind in the hot Florida sun. Have some consideration folks.

In response to Gov. Scott auto inspections

Many people feel the added expense, additional taxes, waiting in line for your inspection on a hot day are reasons not to have automobile inspections.

This only serves to show the intelligence of these people. Wouldn't it be to our advantage to make sure everyone has automobile insurance and brakes that work. Everyone has brake lights that go on.

The next time someone is in an accident after being hit by an uninsured motorist, ask them what them think about yearly inspection stations.

Thanks for the donation

The Gopher Tortoise Council of Safety Harbor wishes to thank the recent donation to our conservation programs.

These donations help fund GTC outreach programs and provide grants for graduate student research and other educational programs across the Southeast.

Get rid of unused boxes

In New Smyrna Beach, beachside on Atlantic Avenue, just south of Saxon, are boxes and boxes that did contain free newspapers and magazines.

Probably 25 percent of them still have magazines and newspapers. The rest have not been used in forever and they look just awful. Why can't the city take up these empty ones?

Thanks, Jewish Federation

Thanks to the Jewish Federation in Ormond Beach for their food pantry. They treat people with dignity.

Lots of lodging coming to county

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

The pipeline of new and rebuilt hotels in Volusia County appears to be in a strong growth mode right now.

The Hard Rock Hotel in Daytona Beach grabbed a lot of attention recently, but coming up next is the Courtyard by Marriott in downtown DeLand, which also should create a buzz. It's expected to open in June and arguments on the hotel's exterior colors aside, should be a great addition to one of the county's most vibrant downtowns.

Right on its heels is a new hotel brand for Volusia, the Home 2 Suites by Hilton at Fentress and West International Speedway boulevards in Daytona Beach. It's a slightly upscale all-suites hotel that is well positioned for business travelers and race fans. Volusia also got another new brand earlier this year with the opening of a Delta Hotel by Marriott on the beach in Daytona Beach Shores. Also, on the beach in Daytona, the Ocean Breeze Hotel at 640 N. Atlantic Ave. will become a Marriott Renaissance Hotel.

Another big buzz will be created later this year with the opening of The Daytona, the Marriott Signature hotel at One Daytona. Meanwhile construction continues on the Protogroup's huge resort and building should start soon on The Lotus, a boutique hotel on North Atlantic in Daytona.

While that might seem like quite a bit of activity, there is a lot more getting added to planning boards, or more accurately, CAD-computers. Another Courtyard by Marriott is planned on the beach at Harvey and Ocean avenues in Daytona. Holiday Inn Express hotels are planned for Country Club Corners in DeLand and in the northwest corner of Interstate 95 and Taylor Road in Port Orange. Another hotel is planned for the southwest corner of I-95 and Taylor while in New Smyrna Beach, a hotel is planned for the northeast corner of I-95 and State Road 44. Also, in New Smyrna, a Hyatt Place is planned on Third Avenue at the foot of the South Causeway.

What all this means is that Volusia seems to have hit a sweet spot for the hospitality business, attracting a lot of people traveling for business, leisure and other reasons.

In restaurant news the former Buffet City site at 1070 Volusia Ave., Orange City, will be auctioned May 24 along with restaurant buildings in Leeds, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn. The former Earl St. Grill, 715 Earl St., Daytona Beach, is becoming the Health Nut Cafe. Signs are going up for Sakana Japanese Steakhouse and Sushi, replacing Sapporo at 501 Seabreeze Blvd., Daytona Beach.

BRT Apartments Corp. reported an entity in which it has an 80 percent equity interest acquired Anatole Apartments, a 208-unit multi-family property in Daytona Beach, for $20.5 million.

On a final note, the City of Ormond Beach is working on Project Simba for the former Food Lion store on East Granada Boulevard. I don't think it will be a Lion King-themed store.

Will the 'real' financial planner please stand up?

PLAN STRONGER
DAVID D. HOLLAND

Sharing helpful financial information is why I host a weekly public television show and write these columns.

My grandmother and parents were educators, so I think teaching must be in my blood. Just like a teacher, I am "hooked" on turning "the lightbulbs" on for my "pupils." It is very rewarding when clients "get it" and they understand the steps they need to take to achieve their financial goals. That's what financial planning is all about.

With that said, I'm going to let you in on a little-known fact about financial planners.

There are no requirements to be a financial planner. Most people are surprised to learn this. Accountants, insurance agents and securities brokers might call themselves "financial planners" without any specialized financial training or any credentials. Of course, this has created a lot of confusion for investors.

The BIG distinction comes when a "planner" uses a credential after his/her name. There are a variety of financial designations. Some are harder to obtain than others. For example, the Certified Financial Planner certification is often recognized as a top-level financial planning credential. Just 70,000 or so professionals hold it nationally. It requires a tremendous amount of studying, a long and rigorous final exam, and continuing education. I know, because we have four CFP practitioners in my office.

Other widely-respected "financial planning" designations include the Personal Financial Specialist and the Chartered Financial Consultant. Of course, there are caveats:

1. These are not the only financial credentials. You can learn more about financial credentials at finra.org/investors/professional-designations.

2. Working with a planner who has credentials doesn't guarantee a good experience or success; you'll need to screen and interview them. Go to CFP.net if you'd like to find a CFP professional in your area.

3. Some very knowledgeable and capable advisers never obtain professional credentials. They should not be dismissed out of hand. It is important, therefore, to consider other factors when selecting advisers, such as, where they work, their experience, and whether they've had regulatory problems or customer complaints. For complaints, visit brokercheck.org for securities brokers and sec.gov/reportspubs/investor-publications/investor-brokershtm.html for investment advisers.

If you are considering a new financial relationship, you are not alone. It happens frequently. Investors change advisers for a variety of reasons, including when they have a loss of confidence in the adviser, a loss of money, a change in geographic location or a change in their financial needs. A new relationship might also be considered when the adviser you work with changes geographic location or employer affiliation, retires or dies.

Before hiring a new adviser, ask around, do some research and think about what you are looking for from an adviser. Do you want most of your services "under one roof" or do you want to work with multiple advisers? Most importantly, take the time to interview a few advisers before making a decision.

If someone tells you that they are a "financial planner," you can say, "Oh, that's great! Which credentials do you hold?" Then, go look them up!

David D. Holland, a Certified Financial Planner practitioner, hosts a weekly TV show Mondays on WDSC Channel 15 at 7 p.m. He has also authored two books in his Confessions of a Financial Planner series. Mr. Holland offers investment advice through Holland Advisory Services Inc., a registered investment adviser in Ormond Beach. He can be contacted at (386) 671-7526. Email financial questions to questions@planstronger.com.

Looking good

Bruce D. Henderson/staff photographer

DeLand Mayor Bob Apgar, surrounded by city commissioners and other dignitaries, cuts a ribbon on Saturday, April 28, to officially re-opening the West Georgia Avenue after an extensive streetscape project that includes blocking traffic to part of the street to create a pedestrian plaza. As part of the improvements, crews repaved one of the adjacent alleys, which is home to the "Wings" mural. That passageway has since been renamed Persimmon Lane.

Broadway in Daytona Beach will bring "Chicago (The Musical)" to the Peabody Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. May 15-16, at 600 Auditorium Blvd., Daytona Beach.

There's never been a better time to experience "Chicago," Broadway's razzle-dazzle smash.

With a legendary book by Fred Ebb and Bob Fosse, music by John Kander and lyrics by Fred Ebb, "Chicago" is now the No. 1 longest-running American musical in Broadway history -- and it still shows no sign of ever slowing down.

Produced by Barry and Fran Weissler, "Chicago" is the winner of six 1997 Tony Awards, including Best Musical Revival and the Grammy Award for Best Musical Cast Recording.

Set amidst the razzle-dazzle decadence of the 1920s, "Chicago" is the story of Roxie Hart, a housewife and nightclub dancer who maliciously murders her on-the-side lover after he threatens to walk out on her. Desperate to avoid conviction, she dupes the public, the media and her rival cellmate, Velma Kelly, by hiring Chicago's slickest criminal lawyer to transform her malicious crime into a barrage of sensational headlines, the likes of which might just as easily be ripped from today's tabloids.

Tickets start at $40 plus applicable service fees. For tickets, call the box office at (386) 671-3460.

Horoscopes

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20

Aries, you feel especially creative this week and want to focus on the future. You may have concrete ideas, but don't know just how to put those plans into action. Seek assistance.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21

Taurus, learning to detach from thoughts and feelings can help you learn which ideas are important and which ones are extraneous. This can help you reduce stress.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21

Gemini, if you feel like something is lacking in your life right now, you may want to surround yourself with some friends who provide inspiration and compel change.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22

Cancer, rather than looking to others for validation, take an inward look and praise yourself. There are so many things you do well, and these are deserving of attention.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23

Leo, you could have some psychically tuned feelings this week and will seem to know about things before they happen. Trust your instincts.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Make yourself more available to your loved ones over the next few days, Virgo. Try connecting with them by discussing your goals and asking advice.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Libra, compassion and understanding will drive your actions over the course of this week. You seem especially connected to others and their feelings.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Scorpio, a hectic schedule may have you feeling tense and resentful of all your responsibilities. Concentrate on one task at a time rather than obsessing about it all.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Reminiscing about the past can be a good way to connect you with your history, Sagittarius. Just do not dwell too much on what should've been. Use it as a chance to grow.

On Mother's Day, give her what she deserves

CHEF COSTA'S COOKING CORNER
COSTA MAGOULAS

May 13 is a very special day and it's almost here.

Mother's Day is the biggest restaurant day of the year when almost half of the population eats out. Except at my house where my wife would rather have me cook for her.

I don't blame her. I can cook anything she wants anyway she likes it. We really have a great relationship. I do all the cooking and food shopping. She has a full time job but takes care of all the painting, plumbing, household finances, children, doctor appointments, car repairs and trip organizing.

Most of all she is a very nice person with a kind and giving heart. We really enjoy each other's company and it doesn't matter what we do as long as it's together. Does all this sound familiar?

Yes, Moms are special. Their intense love for family is legendary, but their ability to nurture goes beyond words. From a scratched knee to a broken heart, a word from mom seems to heal all.

So what can we do on Mother's Day to honor her? Flowers, candy and dinner – it's not enough. Nothing is enough! We can start by honoring her every day. Maybe make breakfast for her on a Saturday morning, say thank you when she does the laundry or tell her how nice the meal was she just cooked. Stop taking the everyday things she does for granted and let her know how much you appreciate it. You will be surprised how much 'Mom' will love it.

On Mother's Day, do something personal like giving her a handwritten note, a scrapbook of family photos, or a special dinner with wine and do it yourself from the heart. That will be something she will remember forever. So, what should you cook? I will give you a couple good ideas. You decide.

Steak Au Poive

Ingredients

2 tenderloin steaks, 6 to 8 ounces each and no more than 1 1/2 inches thick
Kosher salt
1 tablespoon whole peppercorns
1 tablespoon unsalted butter
1 teaspoon olive oil
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/3 cup beef stock
1/3 cup brandy or bourbon
1 cup heavy cream

Directions

Remove the steaks from the refrigerator for at least 30 minutes and up to 1 hour prior to cooking. Sprinkle all sides with salt. Coarsely crush the peppercorns with a mortar and pestle, the bottom of a cast iron skillet, or using a mallet and pie pan. Spread the peppercorns evenly onto a plate. Press the fillets, on both sides, into the pepper until it coats the surface. Set aside.

In a medium skillet over medium heat, melt the butter and olive oil. As soon as the butter and oil begin to turn golden and smoke, gently place the steaks in the pan. For medium-rare, cook for four minutes on each side. Once done, remove the steaks cover with a plate and set aside.

Add brandy to the pan and carefully ignite the alcohol with a long match. Gently shake pan until the flames die. Return the pan to medium heat and add the cream, mustard, stock, bring the mixture to a boil and whisk until the sauce coats the back of a spoon, about five to six minutes. Season, to taste, with salt. Add the steaks back to the pan, spoon the sauce over and serve.

Chocolate Mousse

Ingredients

1 quart heavy or whipping cream
14 ounces bittersweet chocolate, melted in the microwave. 20 -30 seconds

Directions

Whip the cream to soft peaks and add about 1/3 of the melted chocolate. Fold gently with a rubber spatula. Mix the remaining chocolate into the whipped cream. Mix only until combined, as you will deflate the cream if you over mix. Place the mousse into decorative serving cups. Top with a cherry.

Three ERAU Eagles named all conference

The Embry-Riddle men's tennis team placed three players on the 2018 All-Sunshine State Conference team.

The Eagles' tandem of Rodolfo Arreygue and Andres Donayre was one of three doubles teams to garner first team recognition. The pair compiled a team-best 22-9 record, which includes a 6-2 ledger in conference play.

Mr. Donayre and Juan Ortiz Couder both garnered second team honors in singles. Mr. Ortiz Couder is ranked 28th in the latest ITA/NCAA II poll and has posted a 19-13 singles mark.

Mr. Donayre also has 19 wins on the year and is ranked 36th nationally.

Catch of the week

Doug Hodson of New Smyrna Beach caught and released this Red Snapper while fishing with Captain Doug Davis about 22 miles offshore out of Ponce Inlet recently. If you'd like to show off your Catch of the Week, send a "jpeg" format photo with your name, hometown and where you caught the fish to newsdy-@hometownnewsol.com.

Sea trout are aces, but jacks are better

FISHING WITH DAN
DAN SMITH

Fishing out of the newly opened Salty Dawg Outfitters bait and tackle at High Bridge, I launched the kayak for an unusual second day in a row.

These days I usually need a day or two to let my tired muscles recover from a long paddle, but if there is one thing that will make me forget that pain is a turned-on fishery. The previous day I had caught a nice limit of spotted sea trout and released at least eight more. With the trout on fire, I had to return.

Once more I found the fish were hungry and, before 8 a.m., I had caught a limit of four, including one over 20 inches. Whenever I get into a situation where the fish are biting and I must practice catch and release, I like to try out new lures. If you know the fish are hungry and ready to hit, it is a perfect time to find out just how well some little used lures will work.

With that in mind, I retired my chartreuse shrimp tail jig for the day and went to some of the MirrOdine plugs that had been given to me by the good folks at the MirrOlure Co. In this instance, those flashy little suspending lures found no success no matter which color I tried. I had caught fish with them on different days, but here the trout were feeding on shrimp.

Next, I tried the peppermint crunch tail from Grandslam Baits in Edgewater. That bait brought some bites, but the fish were only tasting it and were not hitting with any enthusiasm. My next try was the Grandslam lite beer soft shrimp tail and that too failed. The all white tail was no better, but then I put on the hot apple cider pink tail with silver fleck and the trout ate it just as they had the chartreuse.

I was having fun with that until the unthinkable happened. I had a hit right at the Green Peanut that almost ripped the rod from my hand. The fish was at a right angle to the boat and nearly pulled me over before I could get straightened out. Oh mama! What was so strong?

The first run was a long one and when I looked at my reel, I could see only a few more turns of line left. It was make or break time. I pulled back hard attempting to turn the monster with my little 10-pound test line. It yielded some, but not much. In the inshore, the only thing I have ever been hooked to with that much power was the 40-inch red drum the guys from Wham Bam Charters had put me on a while back, so I assumed my quarry to be that.

The fish was still way off from the kayak and I couldn't get a look at it until it made a flip and the bright yellow forked tail of a jack came out of the water. What a jack! After another 15 minutes of arm cramping battle, I was able to put the fish into my small landing net. Actually only the jacks head would go into the net.

With the four trout already on board I had no room for the fish, but I was not about to release it after all the trouble I had just gone through to catch it. I had a one inch bow line on the kayak, so I tied it off and left it in the water. It weighed in at 18 pounds. That is the largest jack I have ever caught in the inshore on light line. Actually, it was the largest jack I had ever seen come out of three feet of water. Smoked fish dip for my entire neighborhood!

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for purchase for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.
