

help them with their firearms. Which I considered that an honor. There was time too that the Sheriff, D.C. Coleman, down in Dade County had his men pick up this Vincent Christy, who was a murderer who killed a whole entire Leopold family. That was quite a thing back in those days. And they had him in custody and they, they had fear of getting him to Miami without sufficient escort. So they called on me to escort them, and I went with them all the way to the Dade County Courthouse. Which I have a picture of that. And then next thing after that may have not been the first, but it's the first one I've heard about, I had to shoot a boy down there one night. He was a soldier, he stole a car. And he ran around the house, and I had an MP and the Shore Patrol with me. I hollered at him to halt and he wouldn't do it. I told him, I said if you don't stop I'm going to shoot you. Well, when I said that he headed right straight to my car which was setting there with the door open because I was after him so fast so I just leveled it out there and shot him. I've got pictures of it showing where he was hit. In the hospital it shows the operation, the removal of the bullet which I still have today.

CW: Did you kill him?

AF: No. I didn't intend to. But it was a very well delivered bullet right into the shoulder, right shoulder, it went right down his arm and stopped between the wrist and the elbow. And I'll show you those pictures if you want to see them later. Then we began to have technicians working on our radios. Before that we always had to depend on local
