

B: _____

J: _____? Oh, Willie Sakin? Yeah, it was, it was over there in Fayette County. Yeah, he went over there _____, I think he went over there to get something or something or other and _____ drunk and got made, just went to shooting. Killed two.

P: Did white people ever get put in prison for doing that?

J: No, God. People done just like they wanted to do. If they done anything to me when I was working for Mr. Bill, and Bill said, That's my man -- don't bother him. All right.

P: But nothing was ever done _____

J: No, wasn't nothing ever done about it. I know there one time -- you don't know nothing about this Baker's Law -- but that was Baker's Law along in then, a colored fellow'd come through here, just walking around here, and he got at him and killed him, carried him across the river and buried him, and 'bout six months some people come here with all them badges and pistols -- George _____ and Jay _____ and Tom Cruz wasn't in that. Jay _____ and Tom Cruz and now they done dig that colored fellow up. Now that was a time. And when they dug him up, in about two or three weeks he come _____ die. They didn't, didn't get to have not court over that. He died. It made her so mad cause they done dig up that colored fellow and dress him and sent him back home. He got _____ and died over it, I believe. That's right. I'm going to tell you what I know cause I've been here. I've been here since 1919 and that is nearly about sixty-two or three years, ain't it Mr. Bill?

B: Wasn't there a deputy sheriff or a sheriff or something _____, black man threw him off the street?

J: That was, I wasn't, you're talking about Jack _____, now. I meant Tom Cruz and them. But that was up there around _____ or something. Boy's name Whitman?

B: Yes.

J: That was when, I think that was when Lloyd _____ and them was in that.

B: Didn't they put a sign on him...
