So

"The three little Kittens, they put on their mittens
And soon eat up the pie!"

although it was a very big one, but then they were so hungry and it tasted so good. They felt very happy and comfortable afterwards until they happened to glance at their mittens and then they saw that they had dropped some gravy on them.

"O, Mammy dear, we greatly fear That we have soiled our mittens", whimpered they, for they were honest little Kitties and always told mother directly they had done something naughty, and did not try to hide it.