

is she holding in her left hand? What has she in her right hand? What is she cutting off with the knife? She is cutting off some of the dough which the pie-crust is made of.

Is Susan a white woman? Do you think Susan is talking now? Does she look pleased? What do you think she is pleased about? I think she is pleased because Miss Mary has come down to the kitchen to show her how to make pies. Which has the biggest nose, Miss Mary, or Susan? Which has the thickest lips?

Susan says she can make pretty good pies, but she says she thinks Miss Mary can make better pies. Do you see the young girl? Is she a white girl? Does she look any like Susan? Do you suppose she thinks her curls are pretty?

What has Susan on her head? Are her arms as white as Miss Mary's? Is her face as white? Are her hands black? Yes, but they are as clean as they would be if they were white.

What is the little boy doing? Has he any cap on his head? What kind of hair has he? Why does he open his mouth so? Can he see any better with his mouth open?

What kind of a pie do you suppose Miss Mary is making? It may be a peach-pie, or a mince-pie, or an apple-pie, or a currant-pie, or some other kind of pie. What kind of a pie do you love best?

What do you see on the table? I see a bottle, with a long neck, and a cork in it; and a jar with a spoon in it. Do you think there is any thing else in the jar?
