

Man charged with operating meth lab in camper

WYATT NEWTON

by Teresa Eubanks, Journal Editor
A man deputies believed was making methamphetamine on a weekly basis in a camper behind his home was arrested Friday night.

Wyatt James Newton, 30, of Blountstown was charged with manufacture of methamphetamine, possession of methamphetamine and possession of listed chemicals. He was released on $12,500 bond.

According to the arrest report, deputies received several accounts of Newton's alleged activities. After learning he had just purchased lithium batteries - an integral part of the meth-making process - they decided to pay him a visit.

When Cpl. Eddie Dalton and Sgt. Jared Nichols arrived at a residence on Marcus B. Lane around 7:30 p.m., they saw Newton coming from a travel trailer south of the home, where he lives with his parents.

The two met Newton in the front yard and told him they had information that he was cooking methamphetamine and knew he had just bought batteries. The men then walked into the backyard toward the travel trailer and continued to talk.

At first, Newton said he dropped the batteries off at a friend's house. Then, he admitted that he has had a problem for a long time and needed help, according to the arrest report.

While speaking with Newton, Dalton looked through the window of the camper trailer and saw a reaction vessel floating in an Igloo cooler. He also spotted lithium batteries and other supplies used to make methamphetamine by the "one-pot" method. He went inside to deactivate the reaction vessel and found the bottle to be extremely hot, indicating the reaction process was just beginning.

Newton then agreed to give a statement about his activities, gave consent to search the travel trailer and offered to remove the materials in the meth lab.

During a recorded statement given after his arrest, Newton said that no one lives in the camper, which is owned by Chris Sandven, but remains parked on the Newton's property off Blackbottom Road, between Blountstown and Altha.

Newton said another man had provided him 24 pseudoephedrine pills to make meth with the understanding that he would get some of the finished product.

He said that he had just begun making meth before they arrived, explaining that he had put lighter fluid in a 20 ounce plastic bottle and submerged it in a cooler filled with hot water.

Numerous items known to be part of the meth-making process found inside the camper included coffee filters, two containers of suspected ammonium nitrate, salt, eyedroppers that contained suspected acid, lighter fluid, crushed pseudoephedrine pills and a Gatorade bottle that held what was believed to be acid that had a hose attached to it.

Other items found in the travel trailer included digital scales and a container with an unspecified amount of white powder inside that field-tested positive as methamphetamine.

Newton stated that neither his wife nor his parents had any knowledge that the camper was being used as a meth lab.

Driver 3 times over legal limit in 2nd DUI

by Teresa Eubanks, Journal Editor

A Blountstown man got his second DUI in two years after the Calhoun County Sheriff's Office received a report of a reckless driver on SR 73 in Clarksville Saturday.

Cpl. Eddie Dalton responded to the 6:45 p.m. call about a small white car "traveling all over the road."

OBDULIO ALVARADA-GALO

The vehicle was also said to have passed another car while driving uphill on SR 73.

The complainant followed the car until it turned into the Clarksville General Store parking lot. Major Roman Wood, who was returning from the north side of Altha, spotted the vehicle as it began to leave the store. When the driver saw him, he made a U-turn and accelerated onto S.R. 20, traveling east.

Wood followed and determined the car was traveling around 75 mph in a 60 mph zone and saw the driver cross the center line several times. The driver continued on for a half mile before pulling over in response to Wood's emergency lights.

The driver, identified as Obdulio Alvarada-Galo, 39, of Blountstown, was so intoxicated that he had to be helped out of his car. Due to his level of intoxication, Wood did not attempt roadside sobriety exercises.

During a breathalyzer test at the sheriff's office, the driver was found to be over three times the legal limit with alcohol blood level results of .261 and .280. Florida's legal limit is .08.

ARREST REPORTS

compiled by Journal Editor Teresa Eubanks

Shelton charged with meth, marijuana possession

An Altha woman charged with possession of methamphetamine, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana following a traffic stop earlier this year was taken into custody July 26.

Bond was set at $3,000 for Karen Shelton, 36.

According to the original arrest report, a white truck was traveling south on S.R. 73 on March 7 when a Calhoun County Sheriff's Deputy noticed that a damaged windshield was obstructing the driver's view. The deputy also noted that neither the driver, Deborah Smith, 38, nor Shelton, who was the passenger, were using their seat belt.

The deputy told the driver why she had been stopped and asked Shelton to step out of the truck. He told both women he wanted to search their purses; Smith consented but Shelton refused.

A drug dog was then used to conduct a free air sniff around the truck and if the canine alerted on the vehicle, the deputy advised he would then search it. Shelton told the deputy he did not have probable cause to do so.

As the dog was walked along the driver's side of the truck, he gave an alert which indicated an illegal substance was inside, according to the deputy's report. Shelton disputed his account of the dog's reaction and told him the animal did not alert.

Two deputies then searched the truck without finding any contraband, but when they looked through Shelton's purse, they found approximately one gram of methamphetamine and approximately 10 grams of marijuana, along with straws and rolling papers.

Man found hiding in closet arrested for meth possession

A search to serve a warrant on one man resulted in the arrest of two other people Thursday afternoon at a home on Hwy. 73A.

Calhoun County Sheriff's Deputies went to the Bates Road home of Christopher McCroan, 23, after getting a tip that Gerald Williams, 29, who was wanted on two outstanding warrants, was there. They were told Williams was traveling in a maroon Honda Accord that belonged to his girlfriend, Amanda Tucker-Hamlin, 23, of Altha.

When deputies arrived at the home, they saw the Accord in the backyard. A deputy met McCroan at the front door and took him into custody on a probation violation. When asked if anyone else was in the house, Hamlin said no.

During a search of the home, Williams was found hiding under a comforter in the closet of a back bedroom. He was taken into custody without incident. Hamlin was also arrested and charged with resisting an officer without violence by giving false information.

Several items indicating the use of methamphetamine were seen in plain view in the back bedroom where Williams was hiding. The arrest report listed that deputies found pieces of burnt tin foil, straws, a razor blade, a plate and two clear containers with a white residue inside that was suspected to be methamphetamine. There was not enough in the containers to test to determine if it was methamphetamine.

All three were taken to the county jail. Williams was charged with possession of methamphetamine with intent to distribute and failure to pay child support.

Woman arrested after vehicle stop at store

An Altha woman was charged with possession of a controlled substance after a piece of tin foil with methamphetamine residue was found in her purse, according to a report from the Blountstown Police Department.

CASEY BYRD

Casey Byrd, 28, was arrested July 18 after the occupants of a truck pulled over by members of the Calhoun-Liberty Drug Task Force in the parking lot at Harveys stated they had come to pick her up from the Dollar Store. The traffic stop was made after someone in the truck attempted to purchase pseudoephedrine from Golden's Drugs.

The arrest report said Byrd was acting "very suspicious" at the store. A makeup bag, she admitted was hers, was found in the truck and had an unspecified amount of methamphetamine in a plastic container inside the bag.

After being taken to the police department, Byrd stated that she had just gotten out of rehab and had been smoking methamphetamine since December.

She was given a conditional release following her arrest.

Making the most of the back-to-school sales tax holiday

The Florida Legislature and governor approved a back-to-school sales tax holiday on certain clothing and school supplies.

Beginning at 12:01 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 12 and running through midnight on Sunday, Aug. 14, consumers can purchase certain clothing with a sales price of $75 or less and school supplies having a sales price of $15 or less without paying sales tax on the items. Florida's Department of Revenue offers a detailed list of items that do and do not qualify for the tax exemption.

To help consumers make the most of the sales tax holiday, your BBB offers the following tips:

- Plan ahead. Set a realistic budget and stick to it. Make a list of the items you need to purchase to avoid buying on impulse. Be sure to check with your child's school for a list of required supplies to avoid return trips.

- Comparison shop, carefully. Tax holiday "sales" and promotions may not be the bargains they appear to be. Make sure you're comparing "apples to apples" when looking at sales and promotions.

- Be aware of your surroundings. Because stores may be particularly busy during the sales tax holiday, pay extra attention to those around you. Never leave your wallet, purse or credit card on a counter. Don't get overloaded with packages. Shop with a companion or ask for a security escort to your car.

- Shop at businesses you know to be trustworthy.

A RECAP OF RECENT OBSERVATIONS
BY LATE NIGHT TV HOSTS.

The number one movie in the country is "Captain America." Analysts say this movie is successful because it takes place in the 1940s and has a retro feel. The film takes audiences back to a time where America could actually fight a war and get out of a depression at the same time. Whole different thing from today.

America's demise began with the Laffer Curve Sept. 13, 1974

Small, seemingly insignificant events can have catastrophic consequences. One evening in September 1974 a fellow named Arthur Laffer was having dinner in a Washington DC restaurant with Dick Cheney and Donald Rumsfeld, both destined for GOP greatness.

Laffer, an economist of sorts, was allegedly explaining to Cheney and Rumsfeld that reducing high marginal tax rates would increase tax revenue. Laffer's point was that with lower rates, investors would create businesses that would hire tax paying workers.

Laffer allegedly sketched out his marginal tax rate diagram on a restaurant napkin, which became known as the Laffer Curve. The Laffer Curve is burned into the psyche of every conservative, every Tea Partier, every right-wing true believer.

It's the Laffer Curve talking whenever anyone says that reducing taxes will increase revenue because the "job creators," read that as rich people, will add a production line and hire people, but only if you give them a tax break. The Laffer Curve is a cornerstone of the Republican model of government. It's Republican talking point #1. It's more than that...it's almost a religious belief.

But, the reason that the Laffer Curve is just another scam is that if "reducing taxes" creates jobs, then "no taxes" would mean that the economy is at full buzz and unemployment is zero. It's not.

For example, President Reagan bought into the Laffer Curve silliness, better known as "trickledown economics." Reagan's 1981 tax cut reduced national revenues by 30 percent. George Bush's tax cuts cost the country $1.5 trillion over the past ten years. In 2011, federal revenue will be 14 percent of gross domestic product, the lowest rate in 61 years. If you should wonder why the U.S. is in the financial hopper, it's Republican blind allegiance to the Laffer Curve idiocy. However, try to make a politician understand that. Good luck.

As I was writing this piece, President Obama came on television and declared that an agreement was reached. No details of how much of the family jewels that he gave up to the Republicans.

Along with the Ryan Plan, the Republicans' Cut, Cap and Balance plan is their Cadillac proposal to reign in Obama's "out of control spending." America is going to become a second-rate country thanks to the Laffer Curve insanity coupled with the fact that Grover Norquist, a Washington lobbyist, who owns 235 Republican Representatives and 41 Senators who have signed the Norquist pledge that they will never raise taxes.

This debacle over the debt ceiling is telling. A country that can't handle its domestic affairs will soon have someone else handling their affairs. Do you think that the rest of the international community hasn't been watching America's goat rope? After this political donnybrook, do you think that other countries view America as a reliable partner that will always do the right thing? Will America air its dirty laundry the next time this issue arises? Yep. America's politicians and fringe elements of both parties will once again demonstrate how economically ignorant they are.

The July 25, 2011 edition of Fortune magazine highlights the Global 500 businesses. Of the top 50 employers of the Global 500, 15, or 30 percent, are Chinese companies. The U.S. has 12 companies in the top 50 that employ large labor forces. The 12 U.S. companies employ about six million and the 15 Chinese companies employ 8.6 million.

The rub is that US companies like Wal-Mart and McDonald's employ people in their foreign locations. So, some of Wal-Mart's 2,100,000 employees are in China and other foreign countries, unlike Chinese companies whose workers are Chinese nationals working in China. In addition, U.S. workers are largely service oriented like at Wal-Mart and McDonalds while Chinese workers are largely employed in manufacturing. Why is it such a mystery to Americans that the Chinese are manufacturing our stuff while American workers are flipping fries or working at retail selling Chinese manufactured products?

The debt ceiling and the national debt are not the main issues for the moment. Important? Yes, but not the anchor that is dragging the American economy into the hopper. The issue is lack of demand for U.S. manufactured goods and services, which equates to high employment rates. But it's easier for elected representatives to manufacture a crisis of choice like the debt ceiling dustup rather than do the heavy lifting of righting the America economy.

Cutting government spending during a recession is the most economically ignorant thing that the Congress can do. But Republicans have convinced Americans that debt is the issue and Tea Party representatives are "doing what the people ask them to do." Reduce the debt.

In due course, we will know the details of the Obama/Republican compromise. Both sides will declare victory and walk away leaving this place called America in tatters. The beginning of the end for America started in September 1974.

The forgotten war and its many forgotten warriors

Collectively, Washington has the attention span of a fruit fly. That's why all we have heard about lately are the consequences of failing to raise the federal debt limit -- action that has prompted no fewer than two dozen dueling news conferences, presidential addresses and Republican "responses" in the past weeks. Our political leaders and the mainstream media are totally focused on how this theoretical "potential catastrophe" can be ameliorated, while existential threats to our national security and very way of life are being ignored in Washington.

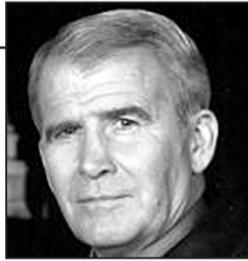

Meanwhile, in the real world, after nearly a decade at war, young Americans still are being killed and maimed in Afghanistan and Iraq. We now are engaged in "kinetic military operations" in Libya, Yemen and Pakistan and against pirates off the coast of Somalia. The so-called "Green Revolution" has left in its wake unstable "transitional" governments in Egypt and Tunisia that are vulnerable to radical Islamists. And the portent for trouble doesn't end there.

In Bahrain, strategically important headquarters to the U.S. 5th Fleet, Saudi special operations and Interior Ministry intelligence units now enforce "civil order" through measures described by opponents as "police state tactics." In Syria, Bashar Assad's violently repressive regime continues a vicious campaign of rape, plunder and murder orchestrated by the Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps in an effort to retain control over the Syrian people. In Iran, the ruling theocrats have completely ignored a fourth round of limp-wristed U.N.-imposed "international sanctions" and accelerated the process of building nuclear weapons and the means of delivering them.

The Obama administration's surreal response to all of this? Ignore what is actually happening on the ground -- particularly Iran's insidious role in these places and events -- and instead talk of nothing but domestic political concerns while making plans to slash U.S. defense spending dramatically.

A government official, speaking on background, describes the proposed cuts as "Draconian" and "totally devoid of any strategic reality." Though the O-Team has yet to identify specific reductions in defense and intelligence programs, "the target is to reduce national security expenditures by more than $600 billion." For the record, that is more than one-third larger than the "savings" advocated by former Defense Secretary Robert Gates and includes cuts in "every branch of the armed forces and every current and proposed weapons system." My source notes, "The ayatollahs in Tehran must be chortling at our willful neglect of responsibility to protect ourselves."

Whether that observation is accurate or not we may never know because we have very limited ability to collect human intelligence inside the Iranian regime. What we do know -- because those in the regime have announced it themselves -- is that Dr. Fereydoon Abbasi, the new head of their nuclear program, is in the process of installing the "next generation" of advanced centrifuges at the deep-underground Fordow uranium refinement facility, run by the Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps in Qom.

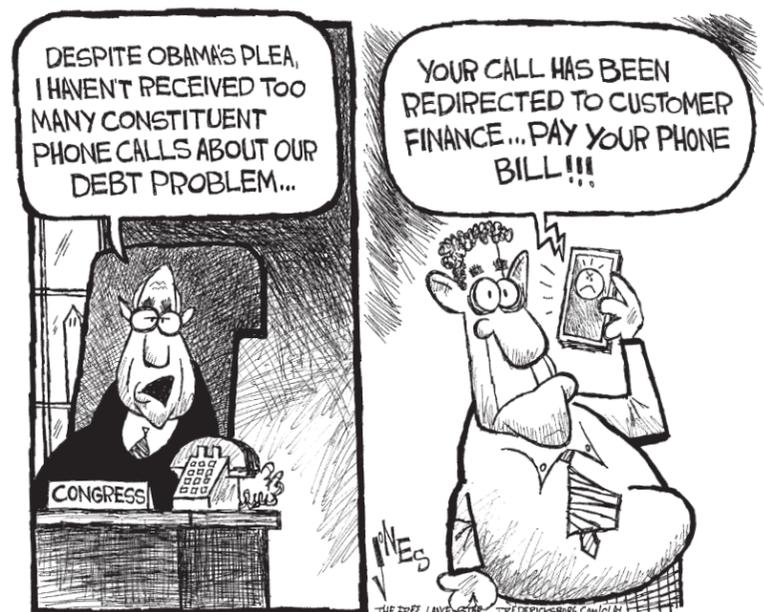

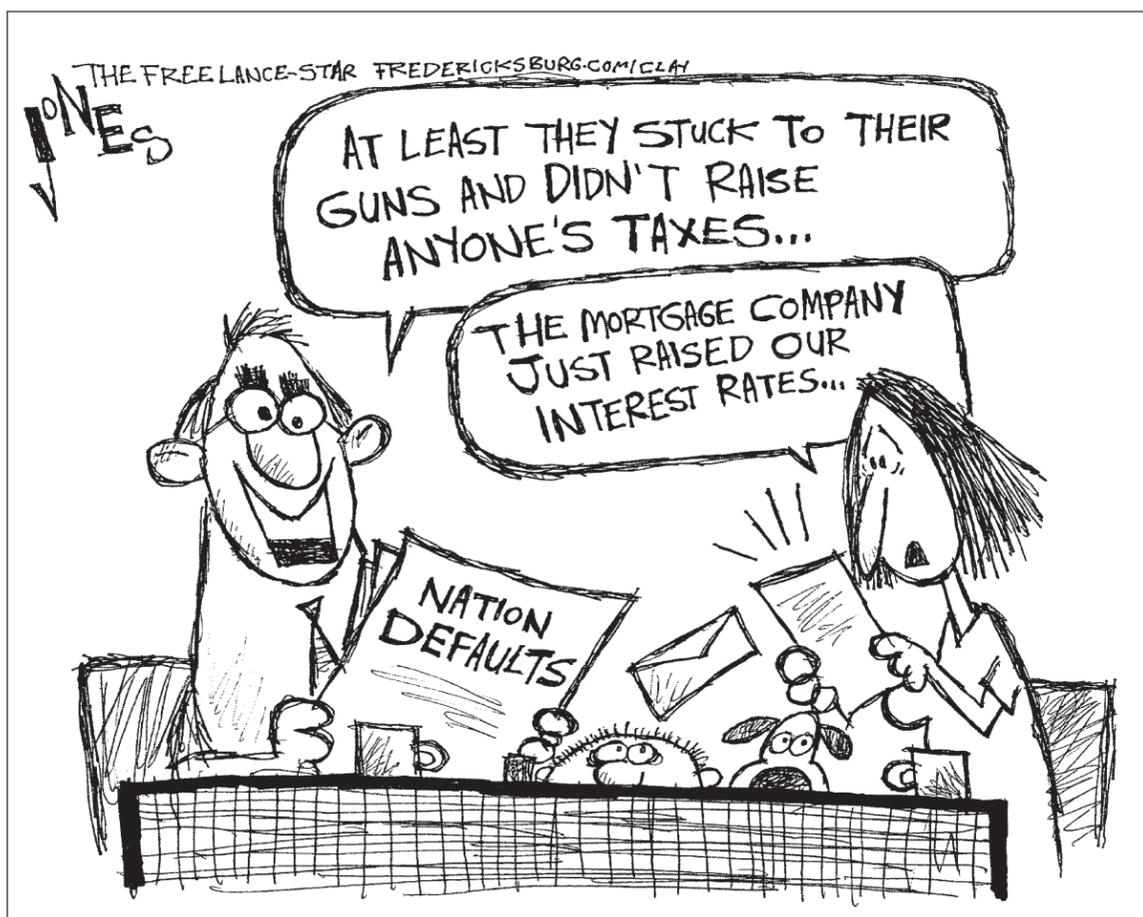

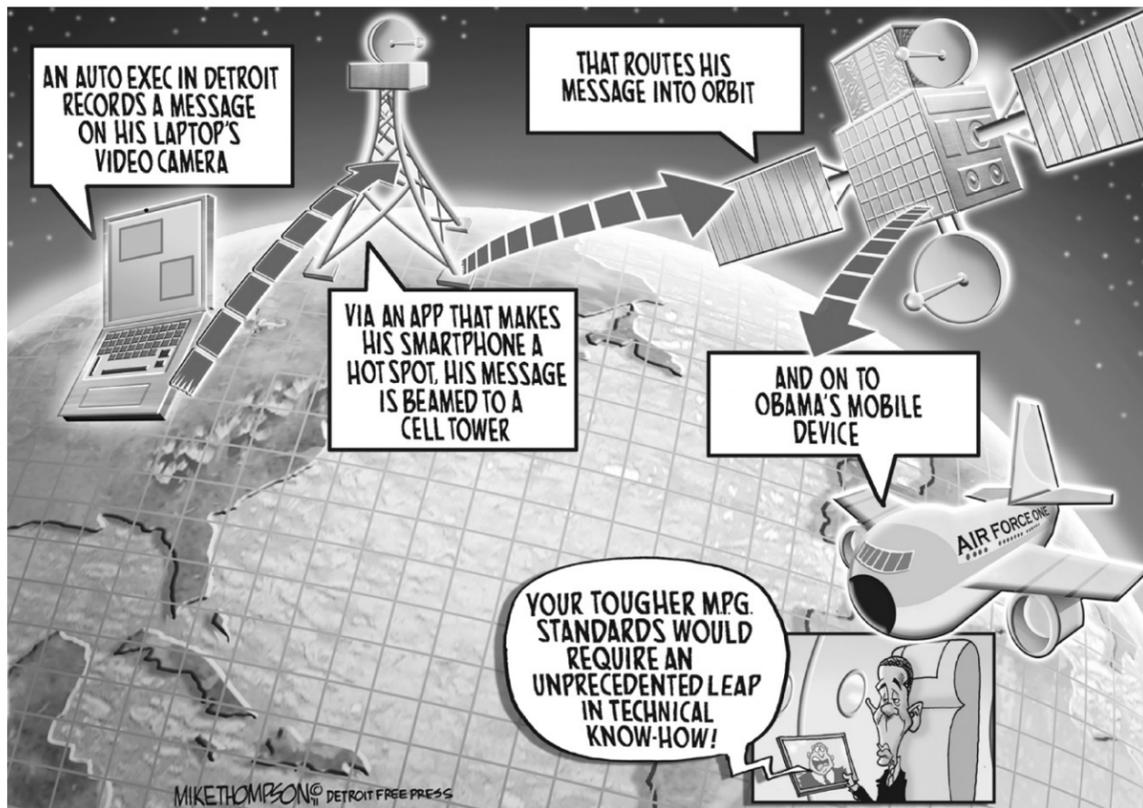

According to Iranian government websites, Abbasi, a nuclear physicist, has been a member of the IRGC since 1979, the year Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini became Iran's supreme leader. On Nov. 29 last year, Abbasi narrowly avoided assassination when a motorcyclist planted a magnetic bomb on the door of his car. In a nearly simultaneous attack, a similar device succeeded in killing one of his fellow nuclear weapons developers. And July 23, another of Abbasi's colleagues, Darioush Rezaeinejad -- identified as "an expert on electronic switching research," an essential component in all nuclear weapons -- was killed near Tehran University by gunmen on a motorcycle. Iranian officials blame U.S. and Israeli intelligence agents for these attacks, as they did when the "Stuxnet" worm temporarily disabled computers running IRGC nuclear research programs last July.

Neither U.S. nor Israeli intelligence officials will confirm or deny involvement in these events. But they both acknowledge, on background, "This is all part of a forgotten war being fought in the shadows against our nations' greatest enemy. But direct action events such as these will, at best, slow Iranian nuclear weapons deployment, not stop it." That will come only with regime change in Tehran.

Thus far, support for real transformation in Tehran appears beyond the capacity of the constantly inconsistent Obama administration. After dithering for weeks, the president eventually got around to demanding that Hosni Mubarak surrender power in Cairo. Since then, he has ineffectively insisted that Moammar Gadhafi leave Tripoli. His call for Bashar Assad to step down in Damascus has been ignored. And now he refuses to issue an executive order barring any company that does business in Iran from doing business in the United States.

Such a measure could well be the catalyst to bring about regime change in Tehran. It certainly would be more effective than toothless U.N. sanctions. And it might well serve to prevent a nuclear-armed Iran from making the next war against a unilaterally disarmed America and our ally Israel truly unforgettable.

It's time for our country to stop the 'insane spending'

To the editor,

Cox's Corner, "Our pathetic political process," is little more than an emotional rant against Republicans, conservatives and Tea Partiers. He offers little substance and a lot of insults. I'm sure that his comrades Barack Obama, Nancy Pelosi and Harry Reed, are very proud of him.

Mr. Cox invoked the name of James Madison and proclaimed that "he would be spinning in his grave," at the current affairs of the government. I believe that he is right, we just disagree on the why. James Madison and Thomas Jefferson were anti-big government and here are their thoughts on the 10th Amendment, which underscores the powers of the states and the people. "Whensever the general government assumes undelegated powers, its acts are unauthoritative, void and of no force."

In essence, a state could nullify —interpose its sovereignty against — a federal law if it deemed that law unconstitutional. In their view, the Supreme Court did not matter, the Congress did not matter, the president did not matter, it was the states that had the ultimate sovereign authority to protect the rights of the people. If we believe the federal government is exceeding its constitutional authority, the remedy is of the people to defend themselves through their respective state legislatures and governors, where sovereignty rightly resides.

Barack Obama said that we commoners had no idea how to budget and only a professional politician had that wisdom. Well, I'm ignorant enough to believe that you can't borrow your way out of debt.

This is no joke, regardless of past practices, we must stop this insane spending. We do not have a revenue problem, we have a spending problem. Barack Obama is a liar when he says we will default, the 14th Amendment guarantees the payment, which is 15% of our revenue. There is more than enough money for social security, medicare, Disabled American Veterans, active military, law enforcement, etc... President Ronald Reagan would never have threatened our seniors, our crippled, or our brave military men and women.

Concerned business owners find grateful customer's lost diamond

To the editor,

It seems more and more these days that it's not often that you get a chance to really find and experience kindness that is shown by others. However, recently, I did find and receive such kindness.

A few days ago, I discovered that I had lost the diamond out of my engagement ring. Of course I was very disturbed about this and immediately began retracing my steps. I decided to call Lindy's Restaurant in Blountstown, where I had lunch. Since I knew that it could have fallen out anywhere, in the back of my mind I really didn't see much chance of ever finding it.

When I called Lindy's, Chad answered the phone. When I told him what had happened he seemed very concerned and asked me where I was sitting and where I parked. I told him but also told him if he would just sweep, I would come look through everything.

It started to sink in to me that the diamond I had worn on my finger for thirty years was probably gone forever.

About thirty minutes later Chad called and said he had found my diamond. Now, I was almost in tears from losing it and now was almost in tears that he had found it. I told him I would be there immediately to get it.

When I got there Tanya gave it to me with a big smile on her face. She said that when Chad initially looked for it he could not find it. However, Tanya and Chad did not give up. They pulled the booth out where I had been sitting and through their extra time and effort, they found it.

You know, most people that are busy making a living would not have taken the time out of their busy day to make such an effort. I appreciate the time and effort that they took to help me retrieve something that was so important to me.

The point is that it became important to them also, which to me, is a sign of true integrity and character and that is something that you don't find everyday.

Thank you Tanya and Chad for making what could have been an awful experience turn into such a positive one.

Reader offers his response to a 'conservative' comment

To the editor,

John Crocker's recent letter to the editor stated that "... a stack of $1,000 bills... would be 6 1/2 inches high to equal one million dollars; it would be 68 feet high to equal one billion dollars; it would be 6 1/2 miles high to equal one trillion dollars."

That statement is misleading and full of misinformation. In fact, since one billion dollars equals one thousand million dollars, the stack which equals one billion dollars would be 6,500 inches high, which equals 542 feet -- Not 68 feet.

And since one trillion dollars equals one thousand billion dollars, the stack which contains one trillion dollars would be 542,000 feet, which equals 103 miles -- Not 6 1/2 miles.

Perhaps Mr. Crocker was simply being "conservative."

What, besides thyme, could I plant in between the bluestone slates of my patio?

—H. G., Valdosta, Ga.

You don't specify whether your patio gets trod upon frequently or sustains only sporadic use, so here are suggestions for either case. Whatever you choose, research that plant's soil preferences and adjust your patio soil accordingly.

It's easy to dig out what's there and add a shovel or two of better stuff as you transplant. Water amply, especially as plants first take hold. The bluestone will make your patio dry out quickly, so keep an eagle eye on the young transplants until they regain their equilibrium.

For high-traffic areas, consider pussytoes (Antennaria dioica) or selfheal (Prunella vulgaris). These can generally withstand a high degree

Which flowers attract butterflies? Also, when a "woolly bear" caterpillar turns into a butterfly, what does it look like?

—C. S., Manchester, Conn.

Butterflies, in general, prefer bright-color flowers. Some are quite partial to the flowers that bloom on milkweeds and thistles, which is why you'll often see butterflies in meadows that have been left alone over time. For planting purposes, many fragrant flowers and herbs, such as bee balms, mints, sage, sweetrocket, and various phlox, work well. Shrubs such as honeysuckles, lilacs, and, of course, butterfly bushes, offer their allure.

Other butterfly favorites include alliums, asters, cornflowers, dianthus, hollyhocks, lavender, lupines, pansies, purple coneflowers, rock cress, sea holly, Shasta daisies, snapdragons, sweet alyssum, and zinnias. Goldenrod is also popular with butterflies.

As for the woolly bear caterpillar, it's often compared to a brown-and-black-striped bottle brush in appearance. When transformed into an adult, it becomes a nice, pinkish-yellow creature called the common Isabella moth (Pyrarctia isabella).

The body of the Isabella moth has rows of small black spots that run vertically down its back. It belongs to the tiger moth family (Arctiidae).

Have you heard of something called Grains of Paradise?

What is it?

—F. P., Nampa, Idaho

Grains of Paradise, with the Latin name Amomum melegueta, is a spice something like black peppercorns. It can be crushed with a mortar and spread on tuna steaks or other fish or meats as a crust. It's fairly hot tasting and, according to its fans, irresistible. Think of steak au poivre or blackened tuna in a peppery sauce. Originally from West Africa, Grains of Paradise is harvested wild and can be expensive.

Some sources describe it as "like cardamom," while others say that it is a cardamom fruit. Real cardamom, however, is from the ginger family (Zingiberaceae). In any case, the fragrant Grains of Paradise is sometimes prescribed for stomach complaints. Considered a stimulant, it is thought to reduce mucus buildups. It has also been suggested for morning sickness. For culinary and medicinal purposes, the powdered form is used. If used for cooking, it is generally added toward the end. Certainly for any me-

From the Old English "loaf" and "mass," Lammas Day was an early blessing of the harvest, especially the first grains, when it was traditional to bring a new loaf of bread to the local church, or to the landlord, as an offering of the first fruits of one's labors. Lammas was one of the quarter-days marked for payment of rents. Some historians associate Lammas Day with festivities relating to John Barleycorn, a personification of the barley grain that goes into making malt beverages at "Hlaefmaest" or Lammas-tide.

Pioneer Settlement selling honey

Honey is a treat and is man's oldest sweetener. It is an excellent substitute for sugar in our drinks and food, and is being sold at the Panhandle Pioneer Settlement in Blountstown.

Honey is composed of two main sugars that do not need to be broken down by the digestive process, so it is quickly absorbed into the bloodstream. Honey gives a quick energy boost to the body. It also contains protein, vitamins and minerals, but no cholesterol.

Honey has less than 2% sodium, and as such can be labeled as a sodium-free product by Food & Drug Administration standards.

Honey has been used in many different medical treatments over the years. The reason is because honey tends to withdraw water.

Call 674-2777 for more information on how you can purchase your honey.

Second arrest made in June 29 traffic stop

A woman riding in a truck involved in a June traffic stop was taken into custody last week.

Stacy Lynn Shaw, 35, was charged by warrant for possession of listed chemicals and attempting to manufacture methamphetamine.

Shaw was in the passenger's seat when a Blountstown Police Officer pulled over William Shane Black, 39, as he drove past a patrol car at the intersection of Angle Street and Hwy. 71 after making a purchase of cold medicine containing pseudoephedrine at Golden's Drugs.

The arrest report noted that Shaw attempted to conceal some cold medicine under her arm. When officers found it, she stated she knew it was the main ingredient to make meth and they had just bought it at the drug store.

In addition to cold medicine, officers found charcoal lighter fluid and ammonium nitrate, commonly used to make methamphetamine, during a search of the truck. When asked what he planned to do with the items, Black replied that he was taking them to a man in Liberty County to cook into methamphetamine. She is being held on $10,000 bond.

STACY SHAW

Intoxicated man arrested after disturbance Saturday

A man who was acting erratically at Hungry Howie's in Blountstown Saturday night was arrested on a charge of disorderly intoxication.

Arrested was Curtis Strickland, 40.

According to the arrest report, a deputy arrived a little after 8 p.m. to find Strickland sitting cross-legged on the concrete near the restaurant's main entrance. He was sweating heavily and smelled strongly of Listerine and an alcoholic beverage.

When asked how he was doing, Strickland's response was slurred and incoherent.

Deputy John Sheetz went inside to talk with the employees, who took him into the bathroom to show him where an empty bottle of mouth rinse had been left in the toilet tank. The two employees said Strickland had been coming inside to use the phone, smelling as though he was intoxicated.

When the deputy walked outside, he found Strickland taking his clothes off and ordered him to stop. Strickland took off his shirt and leaned back near the door and then lay down on the concrete as customers were trying to go inside.

The deputy took him by the arm and drove him to jail.

CURTIS STRICKLAND

O'Brian charged with DUI Saturday morning on 69-A

An Altha man who was pulled over after a deputy noticed he wasn't wearing a seatbelt was charged with DUI after failing a roadside sobriety test early Saturday morning.

ARNOLD O'BRIAN

Arnold Mason O'Brian, 23, of Altha also received written warnings for not wearing his seatbelt and for the tinting on his windows.

O'Brian was traveling along Hwy. 69-A around 1:38 a.m. when he caught the attention of Calhoun County deputies monitoring traffic.

When Cpl. Eddie Dalton spoke with the driver, he noted the strong odor of an alcoholic beverage emitting from O'Brian's face.

After having some difficulty following instructions to walk, count and keep his balance to determine if he was sober, O'Brian told a deputy, "I failed."

Breath samples taken at the jail resulted in one reading of .204 and a second reading of .208. Florida's legal limit is .08.

Calhoun & Liberty County schools among those recognized by DOE as Florida's top performing districts

TALLAHASSEE – Education Commissioner John L. Winn recognized some of Florida's highest performing school districts for either maintaining or improving their district grade to an "A" or having all "A" or "B" graded schools in 2011. Of the districts highlighted, 13 have earned an impressive "A" grade since the inception of district grades in 2004, while 21 districts this year alone have no schools graded lower than a "B." Twelve school districts also had schools improve their grades dramatically, moving up to an "A" from either a "D" or an "F" grade last year.

"It is my pleasure to honor these high-performing districts and schools for the incredible work they do to ensure our students are being prepared for success in life," said Commissioner Winn. "Achieving these kinds of results takes a coordinated effort at all levels and I couldn't be more proud of what these students, teachers, school leaders and other dedicated stakeholders were able to accomplish during the last school year."

School districts that have consistently earned an "A" grade since the inception of district grades: Brevard, Calhoun, Charlotte, Clay, Gilchrist, Leon, Martin, Nassau, Okaloosa, St. Johns, Santa Rosa, Sarasota and Seminole. The district grading formula takes into account student performance on reading, writing, mathematics and science state assessments, as well as student learning gains from the previous year.

School districts that have all "A" and "B" graded schools in 2011: Calhoun, Charlotte, Citrus, Dixie, Franklin, Gilchrist, Gulf, Holmes, Indian River, Jackson, Lafayette, Levy, Liberty, Martin, Nassau, Okaloosa, St. John's, Santa Rosa, Sumter, Union and Walton.

DOE launches education-themed YouTube channel

TALLAHASSEE – The Florida Department of Education (DOE) launched an education-centered YouTube channel that provides informative video content to a variety of education stakeholders throughout the state. The EducationFL channel features a growing library of videos that will help teachers, parents, students and others enhance their connection to, and understanding of, Florida education. This new video channel also helps to enhance the Department's expanding social media presence and provide new ways of collecting stakeholder input.

"The Department is always looking for new and creative ways to increase awareness and understanding of Florida's education system and the ongoing efforts to improve it," said Education Commissioner John L. Winn. "We see this as a great opportunity to provide visually enhanced content that accomplishes that goal, while helping to create new dialogue opportunities with Florida residents and educators."

The newly created channel features a variety of content intended for a wide range of audiences. Some notable videos include helpful updates related to ongoing changes to many aspects of the state's education system, useful tips teachers can use in their classrooms, ways parents can get involved in their child's education, literacy public service announcements, event celebrations and a self-written rap video about reading performed by at-risk youth.

The Department has also created social media accounts on Facebook, Twitter and blogs for specific audiences. To view these sites or to learn more about the Department, visit www.fldoe.org.

GARDENING

Many factors cause sudden death in plants

You leave on vacation and everything in the landscape is alive and well. You return one week later to find a completely dead shrub in the midst of several other healthy ones. What happened?

Plants can die or severely decline surprising quickly. It happens more often in the summer months due to the increase demand for water. However, the cause may have been there for months or even years. There are a number of reasons why plants die suddenly and sometimes it takes a lot of investigation to find the cause.

Reasons why a plant, whether a tree, a shrub, a ground cover or bedding plant may suddenly die include cultural, environmental and physiological factors. Cultural factors are things applied or done to the plant that it doesn't like. Physiological factors include things within the plant that causes or triggers disease or death.

Cultural and environmental factors are probably the most common causes of sudden death and include

by Theresa Friday,
*Horticulture Extension Agent,
Santa Rosa County*

everything from water stress to a leaky gas line on the mower.

In a vast number of sudden death cases, the cause is either too much or too little water. Even the best gardeners loose plants to drought. Combine water repellent soils to irrigation problems and plants can die of dehydration. One way to investigate this cause is to dig down into the soil to a depth of roughly one foot and see how moist it is.

Incorrect fertilization can also lead to sudden death. Spilling or applying too much fertilizer results in a large, rapid buildup of soil salts around the roots and this effectively causes moisture to be sucked out of the plant, which can lead to death by dehydration.

Another reason for sudden death is root injury. If a large proportion of the roots are damaged by pruning to install fences, pools or driveways, plants can be severely damaged. If impervious paving is installed, it blocks moisture from penetrating and stops the soil from 'breathing'. Plant roots need oxygen to operate, so if that's cut off they can die. Normally one side of the tree or shrub declines much more rapidly than the other.

A more ominous reason of sudden death is mushroom root rot. This disease is caused by a mushroom producing fungus (Armillaria spp.) that feeds on dead and living roots and woody debris in soils. The fungus may remain alive for years on roots and stems, as parasites on living host tissue or as saprophytes on dead woody material.

While the best way to identify mushroom root rot is through the honey-colored mushrooms it produces, it is not the quickest.

Mushrooms may take many months to emerge. In the absence of mushrooms, field identification of mushroom root rot is based on the presence of mycelial fans.

Mycelial fans are white mats of fungal material between the inner bark and wood. They tend to have a strong mushroom odor and often have a fan-like pattern. To see these fans, gently scrape off the bark at the base of the dead shrub or tree and look for a creamy layer of material.

Although mushroom root rot disease is among the most studied diseases of trees in the world, the fact remains that, in many cases, we do not have an effective, practical means of reducing the disease. Remove the dead tree and shrub as soon as possible.

An amazing feature of Armillaria is that the mycelium, especially in actively decaying wood, is bioluminescent.

Such glowing wood is known commonly as foxfire.

Gardening Friends to meet Aug. 9

Gardening Friends of the Big Bend will have this month's meeting at the North Florida Research and Education Center near Quincy at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 9.

GFBB member, Master Gardener, and animal enthusiast Wendy Adams will share her trip to Africa in a presentation entitled "A Walk on the Wild Side: A Gardener's Journey through the Great Migration in Tanzania".

Through Wendy's photography we can enjoy her typical enthusiasm focused upon this "bucket list" trip of a lifetime.

A business meeting will follow the program. Under discussion will be a report of the Nominations Committee, a re-cap of the recent Tropicals Workshop and plans for the upcoming Florida Nursery, Growers and Landscape Association meeting on Thursday, Aug. 18, the Plantaholic Preview Party on Wednesday, Sept. 28, and the Saturday Plant Sale on Saturday, Oct. 1.

The purpose of this group is to promote gardening and gardening research by supporting and assisting the faculty and staff of NFREC, an arm of the University of Florida's Institute for Food and Agricultural Sciences.

For more information, contact Clara Skipper at (850) 671-2565 or Dr. Gary Knox at (850) 875-7162.

Covenant Hospice named one of Top 100 Best Companies to Work for in FL

PENSACOLA — Covenant Hospice was recently named one of Florida's Best Companies To Work For. One-hundred companies were recognized in small, medium and large company categories. Covenant Hospice ranked 27th in the large company category, the only company in Northwest Florida named in this category.

The rankings — the third annual statewide Best Companies list — appear in the August issue of Florida Trend and on FloridaTrend.com. The Best Companies To Work For in Florida program was created by Florida Trend and Best Companies Group and endorsed by the HR Florida State Council.

"We are truly honored and humbled by this designation, as it highlights the passion and commitment of our staff and volunteers, coupled with the emphasis our leaders place on doing worthwhile work and making a difference," said Dale O. Knee, Covenant Hospice President & CEO. "Whether caring for patients directly or serving in administrative roles to support the caregivers, our employees strive to provide excellence in compassionate care to our patients, their loved ones, and the community."

To be considered for participation, companies or government entities had to employ at least 15 workers in Florida and be at least a year old. Companies that chose to participate in the Best Companies To Work For in Florida process underwent a two-part survey process. The first part consisted of evaluating each company's workplace policies, practices, philosophy, systems and demographics. The second part consisted of an employee survey to measure employee satisfaction.

The combined scores determined the top companies and the final ranking. Best Companies Group managed the overall registration, survey and analysis process and determined the final rankings. Companies were not required to pay a participation fee to go through the online assessment process. For a complete list of the 100 Best Companies to Work For in Florida, go to www.FloridaTrend.com/BestCompanies.

Canoe for Cancer proceeds to benefit Covenant Hospice MARIANNA — Sheila Hayes presents Covenant Hospice with a donation from the 3rd Annual Canoe for Cancer Benefit. The canoe trip was another success this year.

On June 4, Hayes organized the annual event that she feels very passionate about. "We had 50 participants donate and canoe for the fight against cancer," she said.

Sheila made the decision to keep the proceeds local, giving half to a local family fighting cancer and the other to Covenant Hospice.

Jennifer Griffin, Development Manager with Covenant said, "Covenant Hospice is honored to be one of the recipients of the proceeds."

Gear up for football season by 'Tailgating with a Purpose'

TALLAHASSEE — Covenant Hospice will host "Tailgating With a Purpose" from 5-8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 27 at Langford Green outside Doak Campbell Stadium. Come show your school (or professional) spirit and celebrate the return of football season with a concert by Sarah Mac Band and Wilson Dean Band, food from local eateries, a silent auction and the opportunity to win a package that includes four tickets to the Florida State vs. Oklahoma football game on Sept. 17. Tickets are available for advance purchase or at the door and parking is complimentary.

Proceeds of the event will support Covenant Hospice's unfunded programs in Franklin, Gadsden, Jefferson, Leon, Liberty, Madison, Taylor and Wakulla counties. Covenant Hospice is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to providing comprehensive, compassionate end-of-life care to patients and their families. "Income from this event will help offset the $2.4 million cost of indigent care we provide, along with our unfunded support services, such as bereavement and chaplain services, and our children's and volunteer programs," said Lydia Claire Brooks, Development Manager for Covenant Hospice.

To purchase a ticket for Tailgating With a Purpose or for more information, call Lydia Claire Brooks at (850) 701-0137 or via email lydiaclaire.brooks@covenanthospice.org.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Reward offered for information in alligator killing in Walton County

The Humane Society of the United States and The Humane Society Wildlife Land Trust are offering a reward of up to $2,500 for information leading to the identification, arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for illegally killing an alligator in Walton County, Fla.

According to the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, on June 17, a dead alligator was found in a private pond on Dead River Road off of Highway 81 between the towns of Bruce and Red River.

The alligator's head and tail were cut off and the animal's remains were stuffed into an Old Roy brand bag of dog food. Officers believe that the alligator was killed between June 14 and June 16 in the Red Bay area. The alligator was caught with hook and bait.

"Poaching is a serious crime and we implore anyone with information about this case to come forward," said Jennifer Hobgood, Florida state director for The HSUS. "The Humane Society of the United States thanks the FWC for their efforts to find the person(s) responsible."

THE HUMANE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES

Poaching: Wildlife officials estimate that for every wild animal killed legally — tens of millions of animals per year — another is killed illegally.

anytime, anywhere and sometimes do so in particularly cruel ways. Wildlife officials report that poachers often commit other crimes as well.

The HSUS and HSWLT work with state and federal wildlife agencies nationwide to offer rewards of $2,500 for information leading to arrest and conviction of suspected poachers.

The Investigators: Anyone with information is asked to contact the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission at 1-888-404-3922. Officer Darrell Johnson is the contact officer in charge of the case. Callers may remain anonymous.

Visit humanesociety.org/poaching for more information.

Every year, thousands of poachers are arrested nationwide; however, it is estimated that only 1 to 5 percent of poached animals are discovered by law enforcement.

SS office will begin closing at 3 p.m. daily

Effective Aug. 15, the Marianna Social Security office will be open to the public Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. — a reduction of 30 minutes each weekday.

While agency employees will continue to work their regular hours, this shorter public window will allow them to complete face-to-face service with the visiting public without incurring the cost of overtime. Congress provided Social Security with nearly $1 billion less than the President requested for the budget this fiscal year, which makes it impossible for the agency to provide the amount of overtime needed to handle service to the public as we have in the past.

Many services can be taken care of at www.socialsecurity.gov or by dialing (800) 772-1213.
