Voter turnout swells for historic election

by Patty Brant
Caloosa Belle

Hendry County voters were somewhat slanted toward Republican Presidential candidate Mitt Romney, who took 52.49 percent of Hendry votes in the November 6 General Election. President Obama won the approval of 46.66 percent of Hendry's voters on his way to recapturing the Presidency.

Citizens turned out in good numbers, 10,305 (59.69 percent) of Hendry's 17,264 registered voters exercised their right to choose their officials.

In state races directly pertaining to Hendry County:

US Congress

Democratic Senator Bill Nelson retained his seat in the nation's Capitol as did District 25 US Congressman Mario Diaz-Balart, who won 75.6 percent of the district vote.

Florida Senate District 39

Democrat Dwight Bullard won over Republican Scott Hopes, 3,419 (53.24 percent) to 3,002 (46.75 percent), districtwide.

Florida House District 80

In this newly reorganized district, Republican Matt Hudson won out over Democrat and Immokalee native Pam Brown. Districtwide, the voting Epidermolysis Bullosa (EB). If you think pronouncing it is a lot to handle, try living with it.

Babies born with this genetic condition have skin that is so delicate and fragile that any type of friction can cause severe blistering, outside and inside the body. It is extremely painful and there is no cure.

The only treatment is daily wound care and bandaging.

It also carries a severe stigma. Children with the condition suffer stares and shunning by other kids and even adults who do not understand it.

Two LaBelle children, Corbyn and Novie Kohutek, and their family live with the daily stress of EB. At just 12 and 11, respectively, Corbyn and Novie have a message for the bigger world: We may look a little different but we're just like you.

When the two were small, their arms and legs had to be bandaged nightly. Their outside activities have to be curtailed.

Both children are small for their age and delicate looking, but their smiles are just as engaging as anyone's.

Corbyn and Novie have been in public school but this year have begun virtual school five hours a day- and they're very happy with it.

Of course, Corbyn likes being able to get up when he wants to - don't we all - but he gets very serious when he says that kids stare and that makes him uncomfortable, but it's even worse when adults stare.

And continue to stare.

"I'd like to tell them I was born with a rare skin disorder. I'm just like you," he said.

Both can still go to LMS school dances, games and participate in clubs. Corbyn would like to be in FBLA. He doesn't like to read Langford Ford presents "Go Further with Ford Night" Thursday, Nov. 15 from 4-9 p.m. – a free fundraising event that will benefit Susan G. Komen for the Cure, engaging consumers in the final "Random Acts of Fusion" adventure and offering them a chance to see the all-new 2013 Ford Fusion in person.

Go Further with Ford Night is the fun finale to Random Acts of Fusion, the unique trans-media program hosted by Ryan Seacrest that has generated more than 12 million consumer engagements with the Ford Fusion by playing out a story arc through multimedia platforms.

"We all want to be part of something bigger and Go Further with Ford Night is our way of offering our friends and neighbors the chance to have a lot of fun and enjoy the final random act," said Paul Langford. "They will be able to test their judging skills and perhaps win a unique VIP American Idol experience – and meet the all-new Ford Fusion in person," Pat Langford added.

For each person who attends Go Further with Ford Night on November 15, Langford Ford will donate $10 – up to a total of $500 – to Susan G. Komen for the Cure.

While at the dealership, consumers will have a unique opportunity to compete to win a special VIP experience with American Idol®. A computer with a webcam will be set up in the dealership to allow consumers to view a special message from Seacrest and test their judging skills on camera, in true American Idol style. American Idol premieres in January 2013 on FOX.

Entries will be sent back to Ford's program headquarters, where a team of experts will evaluate and select one winner to receive an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Hollywood and a unique VIP experience with American Idol.

Consumers 18 years and older who are interested in participating in Go Further with Ford Night may preregister for the event at www.RandomActsofFusion.com and be entered for a chance to win tickets to a live taping of American Idol. Additionally, registrants at dealerships on Thursday, Nov. 15, will be entered into a prize drawing to win an all-new 2013 Ford Fusion. No purchase is necessary and other restrictions apply. See full official rules online for details.

All-new Ford Fusion

With its sleek new design, the all-new Ford Fusion brings alive the next generation of more expressive vehicles from Ford.

In addition to its fresh face, Fusion offers the broadest selection of fuel-efficient powertrains in the midsize segment. It offers hybrid and plug-in hybrid alternatives, a pair of EcoBoost® four-cylinder engines, a normally aspirated four-cylinder engine, front-wheel-drive and all-wheel-drive applications, and a choice between automatic and manually shifted six-speed transmissions.

but he loves math and video games. Novie is the exact opposite. She's an avid reader and is currently working her way through the Harry Potter series.

Corbyn's the shy one; Novie is more outgoing

Both kids love drama and have been on stage with the Firehouse Players in LaBelle numerous times, including the theater's summer production of Big Bad Musical. Corbyn was in the LMS production of Dog Brain last year.

Tiny Novie has an amazing singing voice and won the LeHigh Spring Festival competition last year - $200 and a trophy. Next year she won't compete but will be part of the entertainment.

Both enjoy karaoke at American Legion Post 130 where mom is the new Commander and dad is the Sons of the Legion Sgt. at Arms. Corbyn is the youngest member of the SAL and Novie is in the Junior Auxiliary. At the post they talk to older people and also help with the Friday night fish fry.

Novie explained that they're "fragile like butterfly wings" and it hurts when someone grabs them. And that's not all that hurts. She wants people to know that, "We're disabled, not stupid." Sometimes people's reaction to them leaves the kids with that impression.

Like all kids, they have dreams. Novie wants to be a singer or a chef and Corbyn has his heart set on becoming a video game tester.

Novie said the coolest part of her is her heart; Corbyn said it's his stomach.

He said that, when people stare, he sometimes touches them and says "Now you've got it! They freak out!" It's not true, and maybe not nice, but then, staring isn't nice either.

Novie says that Angela Drapal, who works at the Legion Post is the nicest to them. She's their "second mom" and "she doesn't look at me like other people do."

Corbyn said their older brother Bryce is nicest to him because he makes him food. (Well, he did say his coolest part was his stomach.)

They also have an older sister, Allyssa, who just left for college.

Corbyn and Novie's dad, Richard, says philosophically, "We have good and bad days" but it's not as difficult as it was when they were younger.

He said families like theirs have a great asset in the Dystrophic Epidermolysis Bullosa Research Association of America (DEBRA), a national nonprofit organization that funds research for treatment and eventually a cure. It also provides direct services and support for EB patients and their families.

Through DEBRA they met other parents with these special children. Myra said it's "the best place to learn about the condition and how to deal with it." You can find information at www.Debra.org or 212-868-1573.

EB Awareness Week, October 25-31, just passed, but Corbyn and Novie have a message. Don't treat them different because they're not - not in any important way.

Following his lead

Hendry County Deputy David White and K-9 Henry worked with authorities in Gainesville on Thursday, Sept. 27, in the search for missing 18-year-old Christian Aguilar, a freshman at University of Florida. Aguilar was reported missing since September 20. On October 13, Aguilar's body was located in a wooded area in Levy County. Aguilar was last seen in Gainesville with his friend, Pedro Bravo, who was later arrested and charged with murder in the disappearance of Aguilar. Bravo has since been indicted by a Grand Jury on First Degree Murder and Kidnapping charges. Deputy White and Henry joined hundreds of other law enforcement personnel, family, friends and volunteers in the search of Aguilar.

Congressman, state rep confer with Chapman

Congressman Mario Diaz-Balart spent a day in Hendry County with County Commission Chairman Tris Chapman, Hendry County Economic Development Director Gregg Gillman, State Representative Matt Hudson and a group of Hendry County business owners, citrus growers and residents to learn about the issues facing Hendry County residents.

Following re-districting, Congressional District 25 now encompasses Hendry County. Prior to serving five terms in Washington D.C., Congressman Diaz-Balart was a member of the Florida House of Representatives.

"As an elected official, I work for you. I am here to listen, learn and act accordingly," said Congressmen Diaz-Balart.

Commissioner Chapman and EDC Executive Director Gillman rated jobs, economic development, SR 80/US 27 improvements and Herbert Hoover Dike repairs as key issues facing Hendry County.

Following the discussion, the Congressman toured Southern Gardens citrus processing facility, which employs more than 300 people, and later spent time discussing environmental issues along the Caloosahatchee River.

Pedestrian injured in Port LaBelle

A LeHigh Acres man has been charged with failure to use due care as a result of a mishap on Halloween night, October 31.

At about 7:25 p.m. Alfredo Mulero Baez, 50, of LeHigh Acres, was driving northbound on Eucalyptus Blvd. in Port LaBelle. Melissa Encarnacion, 38, of LaBelle, was northbound on the east grassy shoulder adjacent to the road. Baez failed to observe Ms.

Encarnacion. The right side rear view mirror of his 2004 Ford pickup struck the victim. Impact caused the mirror to disengage from the vehicle's door.

Ms. Encarnacion came to a rest in the prone position facing east, partially on the grassy shoulder and partially on the road. She sustained serious injuries and was transported to Lee Memorial Hospital.

Museum plans year end events

Julie Osterhout Boardman has volunteered to be LaBelle Heritage Museum's membership chair and will be contacting folks about renewing their dues or finally joining LHM if they are not currently a member.

Pat Johnson has rescheduled her November and December soap-making classes because of conflicts with family events. The November class will be held on Friday morning, November 16, at 9 o'clock with the December class scheduled for Saturday morning, December 15, also at 9 o'clock. Pat limits her students to people 16 years of age and older because of the caustic chemicals involved in soap making. Classes are usually limited to eight participants with a standby list. If you are interested in either class, call the museum at 674-0034 and leave your name and telephone number.

The City of LaBelle "discovered" three boxes of missing historic interviews. Pat Johnson will catalog and convert these boxes of tapes, both video and audio, to digital format for storage on a 320 gigabyte hard drive.

Win this Gator car and support the museum.

The interviews will become available for research, and some may also be available for sale in either DVD or CD format once Pat has completed the digital transfers and indexing.

LHM has a UF Florida Gators kiddie pedal car, donated by inveterate UGA Bulldog fan Tommy Smith and his wife Lynda Rider Smith, that is our end of the year fundraiser. Chances are $10 each with the drawing to be held on Saturday, December 15, at the Christmas Holidays Open House at LaBelle's Historic Capt. F. A. Hendry House at 512 Fraser Street. $10 tickets are available at the museum or wherever the car is on display - currently Florida Community Bank - up to the evening of the drawing if any are still available. Call 674-0034 and leave your name and number if you want someone to contact you about ticket[s] for this pedal car that retails for a minimum $150 without its special UF Orange & Blue paint job and Gator Logos.

Jeannie Horlacher will be looking for volunteers to help decorate the LHM room at the Hendry House during the last week in November and also for LHM's schedule during the open house during the second week in December. Contact her at g8rbait@embarqmail.com or call 863-517-1081.

The museum is also working on moving the storage building from 150 South Lee Street to 360 North Bridge Street where it will be used to store exhibits that will be highlighted in the museum itself on a regular basis as well as being incorporated into traveling exhibits to be displayed in local public locations to present and promote LaBelle's heritage.

More Interview Questions

by Matt Kindermann

This week we will discuss some other interview questions and how you should form your answer. The two types of interview structures are behavioral/situational and traditional. Traditional interview questions are designed for specific, factual answers and are mostly closed-ended and verifiable. Behavioral interview questions are designed to reveal the "real you" in hypothetical situations. If you plan for a Behavioral-type interview, you should be more than prepared for a traditional-type interview.

Matthew Kindermann

One good question that employers give to open up the interview, and one that often stumps the job seeker which sets the tone for the rest of the interview, is "tell us a little about yourself." You should have a 30 to 45-second response planned for this question that highlights your educational, professional and social achievements. This question is not the same as asking a first date to tell you more about themselves, keep your answer professional and topic related.

For instance, person who is facing a financial crisis, family problems and medicals issues, could answer by saying "I graduated with my AS in 1992 and I went to work for a small business doing book-keeping and maintaining the cash registers. I felt that my skills could be better used in a more challenging environment so I began researching larger firms where I found you. I knew I wanted to work here as soon as I read about how the company gives back to the local community. I began to take refresher classes in spreadsheets and financing, which lead me to go back to school part time in order to pursue my BS in accounting. When I saw this position advertised I just knew that it was the perfect match for me."

The object of this question from the employer perspective is to get the candidate to spill some personal information in order to see if there is any drama that could potentially affect job performance. Revealing any personal information beyond academic or professional experience can affect the way the interviewers perceive you. Stick to your resume, if it did not go on the application, think twice about talking about is in the interview. For best perceptions, always limit your answers to 45 seconds or less to avoid rambling and boring everyone. Smile in-between questions, look each interviewer in the eyes and change your inflection once or twice to show off your communications skills.

Security at Talkin' Monkeys

Security in this day and age has become a concern for everyone, but it has become a necessity for one local charity. The Talkin' Monkeys Project, an educational primate sanctuary and Service Learning Center for colleges and universities around the world, has recently found itself in dire need of a security system. The charity, a fixture in our community for almost ten years, has been receiving aggressive harassment from a singular source for several years, but when death threats to both human and non human primates began, the directors of the sanctuary knew they needed more help. Many law enforcement agencies became involved and the consensus was for a state of the art surveillance security system to be installed for protection and to aid in the conviction in any criminal activity. Unfortunately, this type of system comes at great expense.

The Talkin' Monkeys Project posted on Facebook their concerns and needs and concerned members of our community jumped into action to help. Many residents and businesses from Hendry, Glades and Lee counties rallied to help the sanctuary by holding a raffle to offset this expense! Kim Hamilton, and Mary and Craig Bartoshuk set the wheels in motion to obtain prizes and print tickets. Numerous people helped to sell tickets. Prizes poured in from all over the United States, including other primate conservation centers and zoos in California, North Carolina and Texas.

The monkeys and apes helped too, by painting some pictures for the raffle! Donations poured in from all over the world - from Australia, Japan, Canada, Germany, England, Ireland and Scotland as well as from friends here in the United States. The support was overwhelming - the first batch of tickets were sold, more had to be printed! The drawing was held at the sanctuary on October 21 with the committee watching as Dobby, the four-year-old gibbon pulled the tickets. Kim Hamilton held the large container with the ticket stubs, Mary Bartoshuk documented the winners, Dr. Misotti held Dobby's hand and Craig Bartoshuk photographed the event.

Marc and Whitney Ellis of H2O Pictures of Sarasota, volunteers of the sanctuary for many years, coordinated and negotiated with tech companies to purchase the equipment at greatly reduced rates and arranged for the wiring to be donated. They also arranged for the computer tech to set up the system upon installation, pro bono. The 800+ feet of conduit for the wiring was donated by Quality Electric of Clewiston and was installed by volunteers, along with the poles to hold the cameras. Volunteers gathered to pull the wires, set the cameras and tie it all into the computer system. The monies from the raffle supplied the final resources needed to complete the system and allow it to be accessible on line as requested by law enforcement agencies.

The system is online for the Hendry County Sheriff's office and other agencies to tie into it 24/7. The cameras are wide angle lens with infra red and audio. The system is capable of seven day storage of video and audio. It is a labor of love for the entire global community and it begins and ends in Hendry County. The Talkin' Monkeys Project and its charges are all truly grateful for the spontaneous and overwhelming support.

LHS Cowboy Marching Band in sync at MPA's

by Sarah Lapp

The LaBelle High School marching band, led by new band instructor, Ms. Jennifer Ponsart, hit all the right notes on Saturday, Oct. 27. The band traveled to Gulf Coast High School in Naples for their annual Music Performance Assessment, better known as MPA's, to compete in the district 18 category. Drum majors Courtney Inman and Frankie Kendrick, along with color guard captain Jessica Smith, led the band to an "Excellent" overall rating.

The Cowboy band competed alongside 20 other schools in four scrutinized categories: musicianship, marching technique, auxiliary, and general effect. The Cowboy band received three "excellent"s and a single "good" to secure their composite score of "Excellent."

"I had expected us to receive a "Good,"

so when I found out that we did even better, I jumped up and down, yelled, and ran around. It is even more special to do this well, because it is my Senior year," Timothy Smith recounted.

Color guard member Trisha Donaldson admitted that "even though I got terribly sunburned at MPA's, it was still a great time. I was glad to go out with a bang."

In the weeks leading up to MPA's, the Cowboy band revved up their tempo to prepare for the stiff judging and competition at Gulf Coast High School.

"We kept the same rehearsal times, during 5th period and every Monday evening, but greatly increased our dedication. My band poured everything they had into their practices. Once we arrived at MPA's, the wind started to pick up, and I was worried about the flags getting tossed around. But, the entire band and color guard performed perfectly. I could not be more proud. Those kids were simply amazing," Ms. Ponsart smiled.

The Cowboy band, dominated by freshmen and emerging with a brand new instructor, overcame blustering winds on the day of the Homecoming Dance to snag the honor of an "excellent" show. Now, that is music to my ears.

In all cases of questionable value, such as promises of guaranteed income from work-at-home programs - if it sounds too good to be true, chances are that it is. If you have questions or doubts about any ad on these pages, we advise that before responding or sending money ahead of time, you check with the Better Business Bureau at 772-878-2010 for previous complaints.
