Sun seeks UF newspaper deal

■ THE PROPOSAL MAY COST MORE THAN $16,000.

By EMILY YEHLE
Alligator Writer
eyehle@alligator.org

The Gainesville Sun is on its "hands and knees begging" Student Government to pay more than $16,000 for its newspapers to be placed around campus for free, said Student Sen. Stephanie Ruby, who has been involved in the negotiations.

The Sun has approached SG several times over the past few years with a proposal to make its papers available to students for free like The New York Times and USA Today, said Jim Miller, circulation director.

SG officials, including Student Body Treasurer Dennis Ngin, have been in talks with the Sun to distribute the paper throughout campus during the Summer and Fall. Both parties say the proposal is tentative.

For the Summer, the program could cost students approximately $4,000 for about 500 papers a day.

If the distribution is successful during the Summer, SG officials will consider a $12,500 program for the Fall, where 1,250 papers a day would be provided.

All the money would come from SG's tuition-funded reserves.

Furthermore, SG and the Sun have talked about including a two-page insert that would be student-oriented. The section would probably be written by interns and edited by the Sun's staff, Miller said. Ruby said she envisioned the pages including stories and advertisements about organizations' events.

"This has the potential to be fun and artsy at the same time as being hard news," she said.

Both Miller and Ruby said the section could create more opportunities for students to get published.

Providing an alternative to the Alligator also would help both papers produce better stories, Ruby said. "My own view is that a little competition is a good thing, and while the Alligator is a great student newspaper, it would push both newspapers to check facts," she said.

However, Miller said he didn't think the program would make the Sun a competitor to the Alligator.

While the Alligator's circulation is 39,000, most of which is distributed around campus, the Sun is only talking about a little more than 1,000 papers a day, he added.

The free papers would provide a service to students and increase the Sun's circulation, which is appealing to its staff and advertisers, Miller said. Furthermore, the Sun runs more nationwide and state news than the Alligator, he said.

"It's apparent to me that they're so different," he said.

City Commission candidate and Student Sen. Mike Belle, who has been pushing the proposal, agrees that the additional paper will add something different to campus.

The Sun, he said, would provide students with stories by writers who are "entrenched" in the local scene.

Although Ngin has been involved in the talks with the Sun, he said he is unsure of whether more money should be poured into newspapers when SG already spends $40,000 a year to provide free New York Times and USA Today newspapers. Add to that the Alligator, and students might have all their bases covered, he said.

Belle said cost was the issue when the Sun staff approached SG executives last summer. Student Senate had just spent $40,000 on the readership program, and it was unclear how another similar program would benefit the students.

Student Body President Jamal Sowell decided not to pursue the offer, said Belle and Student Body President-elect Joe Goldberg, who

Candidates spar on bar hours

By BRIAN HAGEN
Alligator Writer
bhagen@alligator.org

All but one of the candidates for the District 3 seat on the City Commission support extending bar closing times to 3 a.m.

Belle

Candidates Mike Belle and Jack Donovan said they support a change Friday, but their opponent, incumbent Tony Domenech, has yet to stake out a position on the issue.

At a debate co-sponsored by UF's Office of Community Service's Local Empowerment Action Plan and the Alligator, Belle and Donovan said they would support allowing the establishments to stay open an extra hour, as long as liquor sales stopped at 2 a.m.

Belle contested that closing bars at 2 a.m. "doesn't put a kid in bed by 2:05," enforcing the idea that parties are transferred from downtown to area neighborhoods.

He suggested alternate entertainment and businesses be brought downtown.

Domenech, who was not present at Friday's debate, plans to withhold judgment until he receives more information at upcoming city Public Safety Committee meetings.

Donovan

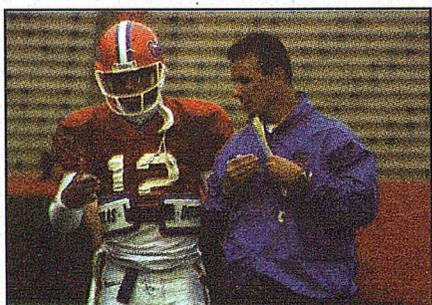

On the issue of student involvement, Donovan said he wants students to feel like they are a part of Gainesville.

A way to do that is by having a non-voting student member, who would have speaking rights and the ability to introduce ordinances, on the City Commission, Donovan said.

Belle disagreed. "We don't need it," Belle said, referring to his own candidacy as an opportunity to "put a fully participating member on the commission, a voting voice. The adjunct is just not enough."

CITY ELECTION ISSUES

Hopefuls talk traffic woes

By STEPHEN MAGRUDER
Alligator Writer
smagruder@alligator.org

Traffic congestion, constant road repair and severely limited campus parking are among the transportation-related issues the candidates for the District 3 City Commission seat say they are ready to take on.

Seeking to continue representing the heavily student-populated areas west and southwest of UF, incumbent Tony Domenech likened the city's roads to the body's circulatory system.

"There's places where you need good flow, and there's places where you don't," Domenech said.

He supports widening Southwest 62nd Boulevard, which runs roughly parallel to Interstate 75, saying the project would take some of the strain off the highway, which receives 12,000 to 15,000 cars daily solely from travel between Newberry and Williston roads.

"They're using I-75 as a local commuter - that's not a good idea," Domenech said.

A Gainesville resident for nearly 40 years, he said the city's roads need major renovations.

"Our city roads are way, way, way behind the curve," Domenech said, adding they should be the focus of taxpayers' money.

But both challengers Mike Belle and Jack Donovan said widening roads in some instances would cause more traffic.

"They actually advertise to motorists," Belle said.

He added that high-traffic roads bordering UF's campus, such as Southwest 34th Street and Archer Road, would fill up even if the roads were widened to six or even eight lanes.

"Our city roads are way, way, way behind the curve."

Tony Domenech
City Commissioner

Belle instead suggested working on parallel road projects, such as the reconstruction of Depot Avenue already underway, which runs parallel to University Avenue south of downtown.

Donovan said from what he has heard, Gainesville residents place a lot of importance on road repair, which he said he supports but noted that wider roads can be more dangerous for pedestrians to cross.

To promote city health, Donovan said he wants to work on improving some existing roads to alleviate stress on others while protecting neighborhoods and local parks.

"A beautiful city is one that people want to live in," Donovan said, adding that the environment should be considered during any road planning.

All three candidates emphasized the importance of increasing the number of buses on popular routes and ensuring bus efficiency.

"For a transportation system to work, it has to be reliable," he added.

To increase bus accountability, Belle said he favors GPS tracking systems on certain buses so students could locate the bus they planned to ride online before they left for the bus stop.

Donovan, like the other candidates, said he sees increased bus use as a means to avoiding some of the parking problems at UF. With about 48,000 students at UF and only 12,000 parking spaces, only about one out of every four students can feasibly drive to class.

The City Commission should coordinate its transportation plans with the university, he said.

Domenech, who attended UF in the late '60s and '70s, said parking has been a problem since he was a student, but more buses could help.

Belle, a bike enthusiast, suggested alternative methods such as biking and walking.

CITY ELECTIONS

Thrall shares city vision

By BRIAN HAGEN
Alligator Writer
bhagen@alligator.org

Alone on the debate stage due to District 2 incumbent Ed Braddy's absence from Friday's forum, UF professor Grant Thrall had an uninterrupted chance to attack his opponent's record and convey his positions.

Thrall

Thrall did not support Student Government's suggestion of a student adjunct, pointing out that no other interest group, such as cultural, gender and racial factions, is designated a special representative on the commission.

"I don't believe there are roadblocks to student participation now," he said.

The proposed 3 a.m. extension of bar and club closings fared better, so long as "at 2 o'clock, the tables are clear of alcohol." Police protection may have to be increased to take care of the extra hour, Thrall added.

Gainesville's traffic congestion could be solved by changing the working hours of government employees, Thrall said, citing the thousands who pour into UF's campus at the same early morning hours.

"We don't need to throw hundreds of millions of dollars at this," he said. "If we had staggered working hours on campus, we wouldn't have 12,500 cars on the road at eight in the morning."

As a professor of business geography and a real-estate market analyst, Thrall participated in the design of the University Corners project, a new mixed-use shopping and residential complex on the corner of University Avenue and Northwest 13th Street, which he said will include 1,200 new parking spaces.

"I am part of solving the problem of parking," he said, noting his membership on the Downtown Redevelopment Agency.

Thrall said his educational expertise, which has led him to write a book and work with major consulting firms, makes him the best candidate for improving business in Gainesville.

Hopefuls talk bar times

■ UF "AS FAR FROM THE CITY AS XANADU," CANDIDATE SAID.

By BRIAN HAGEN
Alligator Writer
bhagen@alligator.org

All registered Gainesville voters can cast a ballot in the At-Large race Tuesday, and incumbent Commissioner Rick Bryant along with challengers Gabriel Kaimowitz, Rob Brinkman and Dyonne McGraw came to campus to give them a reason to vote.

"The students have the numbers to put a member on the city council," Bryant said. "Go vote Tuesday."

On extending bar closing hours until 3 a.m., Bryant said he will wait to "let the experts do their homework" on the Public Safety Committee before taking a position. Kaimowitz cited what he sees as the bigger problem.

"There is nothing but alcohol to attract students downtown," he said, proposing alternative entertainment downtown.

Brinkman supported implementing a "responsible vendor program," which would prohibit the purchase of more than one drink at a time for of-age patrons, as well as later closing times for non-alcohol-serving dance clubs, which also must close at 2 a.m.

Brinkman

"I don't think we have any right to do this," he said. "I call it the 'Footloose Ordinance.'"

McGraw, who arrived after the anti-rave ordinance debate, said she supported a student adjunct position to promote a diversity of voices on the City Commission.

As to the town-gown relations between UF and Gainesville, Kaimowitz cited the "breakdown in communication" as the reason he decided to run.

"This university is as far from the city as Xanadu," Kaimowitz concluded.

We stay in so you can speak out

We here in the editorial board had nothing better to do on Friday night than interview City Commission candidates. Who needs Grog House when you can spend five hours meeting Gainesville's finest? Although there were some qualified candidates, particularly Rick Bryant, Tony Domenech, Grant Thrall, and Dyonne McGraw, we were less than amused by the others — except, of course, for Jack Donovan, whose colorful, butterfly tie skyrocketed him to the top of our best-dressed list.

In order to provide the students with the specifics necessary to make an informed decision at the ballot box, we held half-hour-long interviews with each candidate — or, as we like to call them, the longest 30 minutes of our lives. We provided the candidates with an opportunity to tell us about themselves, why they are running and what issues they felt are most important to the student body and the community.

As students in Gainesville, it is easy for us to write the City Commission off as a bunch of disgruntled residents trying to ruin our attempts at drunken debauchery and illicit sex. On the contrary, the commission has a lot of power over students, particularly when it comes to extending bar hours and tackling the dance-hall ordinance.

Although we were happy to see a fellow Gator running for the commission, Mike Belle's presentation was less than convincing. We would describe Belle as a wannabe Kennedy in a bad suit. Belle is a person with an agenda, but talking to him was reminiscent of listening to Charlie Brown's teacher — you know, "Whaa woh wawawawah woh woh wha." We understand the need for students to get involved in city affairs, but when your campaign centers on a program entitled "Better Gators, Better Neighbors," you have some issues. While we do support a student voice on the commission, we don't want it to be him. Aside from the fact that he has little to no experience when it comes to city government, a main tenet of his platform was that his lack of a family would allow him to spend all of his time on the job. Forgive me, but shouldn't a person on the commission have ties to the community? In the end, Belle was little more than Gainesville's own Ralph Nader — a man with lots of ideas but no concrete plan to resolve any of the city's woes.

Although we are sure this has been helpful to the five UF students who will vote, we would like to see more student involvement in the city. The next time you complain about last call at a bar, we want you to remember who is responsible for setting those guidelines. The next time you complain about the crappy roads or the ungodly traffic, make a mental note of the last time you took the time to vote for anything, let alone city government. Come on Gators, get up and vote.

Elections keep on coming: Why should I care?

Not another election to not care about. It seems like every time I pick up the Alligator, the editorial screams at me to vote for someone who may or may not exist, for all I know, so I can "make a difference."

Why can't they understand I just want to sit around in a beanbag chair eating potato chips, watching football and thinking about getting drunk tonight? What else could a UF student possibly care about?

I can't possibly be bothered to take five minutes out of my day to vote for city commissioners who will let bars stay open an extra hour.

Matt Sanchez
Editorial Notebook
msanchez@alligator.org

What's the point in sobering up anyway? It'll just make the beer goggles drop that much sooner once I've got my nightly "casual college-student hookup" back to my apartment.

I definitely could not care less about electing someone who wants to give students a voice on the commission, or improve parking on campus and downtown, or try to fix traffic on University Avenue so it doesn't eventually start flowing backward.

Isn't being a college student all about complaining about the injustices inherent in our society? I'd be out of a job if I didn't have a reason to whine anymore. Sound familiar?

Seriously, guys and gals: Go out and vote. You can't complain about poor decisions made by our city officials — or stereotypes about apathetic students — if you don't try to elect city representatives who actually consider students to be real people.

Vote Domenech

City Commission District 3 incumbent candidate Tony Domenech told the Alligator editorial board about a meeting in which city representatives attempted to set aside students' interests because students "were just passing through Gainesville."

Domenech then asked representatives in the room to raise their hands if they attended UF. Almost everyone did.

His response was, "We're not passing through."

It is this commitment to the connection of UF, students and the city that sets Domenech apart from the other candidates.

The exchange between education and the community is especially familiar to him, as he and his wife — both educators — ran an educational software company for about 20 years. In addition, he has been a special-education teacher and a football coach — and we Gators love an ol' ball coach.

He also has proven he's willing to listen to students and consider issues they feel are important. For instance, he now stresses a detailed investigation into the possibility of extended bar closing times and a plan to resolve traffic-flow issues.

Still not convinced that Domenech is in tune with the students? If you happened to see a talkative old guy hanging out at The Swamp Restaurant or Orange & Brew on the night of the Student Government runoff elections, that was him.

Vote Thrall

UF professor and District 2 candidate Grant Thrall knows that students care about more than drinking, partying and hooking up — they also care about making money so they can afford to drink, party and, afterward, hook up.

His dedication to his students and his status as a business-location expert make us believe he can help Gainesville attract more of the entry-level jobs that students fight over every semester.

Even better, Thrall is the only candidate who speaks out about problems with parking in the city and UF — which students can attest to all too well.

He has circumvented the problem by riding to work on a Harley-Davidson motorcycle a la President Macher, but he has designs on improving things for those with a bit less of a wild streak.

His believes University Corners — a mixed-use development planned for the intersection of University Avenue and Northwest 13th Street — can help to satisfy both of these goals by providing retail jobs for students as well as possibly renting out the many parking spaces that are included in the project.

How can you argue with someone who wants to get you a job and make it easier for you to find a place to park?

Vote Brinkman

Candidates for At-Large Seat 2 Robert Brinkman and Dyonne McGraw agreed on a number of issues — all of which, they said, incumbent Rick Bryant faltered on during his term in office.

The issue that left the biggest impression on the editorial board was the panhandling ordinance that recently was instituted by the commission — and for which Bryant voted. While Gainesville residents have a right to not be unduly harassed when walking city streets, there is no call for making it illegal to hold up a sign at an intersection. Does anyone believe that political party supporters or groups seeking donations will be held to the same standard under this stipulation as homeless veterans trying to scrounge up enough change for a bite to eat?

While we feel Brinkman is more experienced and more capable than McGraw, we were glad to see that the two were willing to cooperate when they thought something was going wrong in our city government. Both emphatically said they would support the other in a runoff against Bryant.

The telling moment in our meeting with Brinkman was when he supported the idea, without our provocation, of students taking access into their own hands by electing a student to the District 3 seat, which heavily consists of students.

Definition of humanity under question

Martin Niemöller, German theologian and Protestant pastor, famously said, "In Germany they first came for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me — and by that time no one was left to speak up."

An American version today might read, "In America, they first came for the fetuses, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a fetus. Then they came for people in a persistent vegetative state, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't in a persistent vegetative state...."

The Terri Schiavo case has given us an opportunity to examine the most fundamental question: What makes us human? How one answers this question determines how one will respond to the most important issues of our day: issues of life and death.

So what does make us human? The humanists and secularists, for the most part, say it is our minds that separate human from beast.

This view is expressed well by Richard Carrier, an author, historian and philosopher. He writes, "... the fetus does not become truly neurologically active until the fifth month (an event we call "quickening"). This activity might only be a generative one, i.e. the spontaneous nerve pulses could merely be autonomous or spontaneous reflexes aimed at stimulating and developing muscle and organ tissue. Nevertheless, it is in this month that a complex cerebral cortex, the one unique feature of human — in contrast with animal — brains, begins to develop, and is typically complete, though still growing, by the sixth month...."

To this camp, it is neurological activity that makes us human. From this understanding of humanity, comes the next logical step: to treat those who do not measure up to the definition of human as inferior entities and, therefore, in need of

Jason Levitt
The Watchtower
letters@alligator.org less, if any, protection.

Schiavo, after all, is being "allowed to die" because she doesn't measure up to neurologists' definition of humanity. She is a "vegetable," not a human.

Florida law gives a specific definition the state of a non-human — a vegetable: "The absence of voluntary action or cognitive behavior of any kind. An inability to communicate or interact purposely with the environment."

Abortion also is acceptable given this definition of humanity. Medical ethicist Bonnie Steinbock explains, "If we're talking about life in the biological sense, eggs are alive, sperm are alive. Cancer tumors are alive. For me, what matters is this: When does it have the moral status of a human being? When does it have some kind of awareness of its surroundings? When it can feel pain, for example, because that's one of the most brute kinds of awareness there could be. And that happens, interestingly enough, just around the time of viability. It certainly doesn't happen with an embryo."

The other camp believes it is a soul that separates the human from the animal. The soul cannot be measured in any scientific setting, so the other camp derides a belief in it as superstitious, or even extreme.

The difference in these two views of humanity cannot be reconciled. Therefore, the issues that dig down into the marrow of what we define as human life will not go away. But those people who support the "choice" of abortion and euthanasia should be forewarned.

There have been many others who have tried to divide humanity into desirables and undesirables, or redefine some people as sub-humans. History, however, has not looked too kindly on these people.

Letters to the Editor

Social problems are exploited in politics

Editor: There is a big problem in politics today, and I think Andrew Meyer brought up a very valid point in his Friday column. Where does the tackling of the real problems begin? When will the solving of our social problems outweigh a politician's effort for re-election? Our representatives have a responsibility to protect people's rights and privileges, but when they start ignoring bigger problems like poverty and unemployment for more attractive PR issues like the Terri Schiavo case, it shows how truly self-serving party politics have become. It would be unfair to blame just the Republicans in this case or Democrats in another when the press is more to blame.

Let's send a different message out to our future leaders and hold our representatives accountable for setting an example. By tackling the issues that affect the masses and protecting the governing rights of specialized agencies, we can insure cases like Schiavo's are properly filtered without being cheapened by politicians vying for air time to have their face associated with the issue so they aren't left out come election day. It's time to get back to the real issues that will make real differences in America.

Let's all hope President Bush's visit to Russia in May will be covered as a trip to address policy issues and a struggling international relationship rather than being mistaken by the press as a tour to gain supporters for Schiavo's family or to get signatures for an anti-steroid petition in baseball.

Negative publicity benefited Gator Party

Editor: The Alligator editorial board members should congratulate themselves on a job well done. Have you ever heard the phrase "Bad publicity is better than no publicity at all?"

With your "fair" and extensive election coverage, you managed to do the complete opposite of what you originally set out to do: You put Joe Goldberg into office.

I am not a fraternity member, nor am I a member of the Gator Party. I did, however, notice your newspaper's motto is "We Inform, You Decide." It is very clear you informed the student body there was really only one candidate in this election. As a regular student attending the university, I could not tell you one single thing about any of the other candidates — not one.

In future elections you should try to remain objective, report the facts on every candidate involved and not focus your entire newspaper on mudslinging.

Easter brawl erupts

By ELIZABETH PRANN
Alligator Writer
eprann@alligator.org

In the early morning hours of Easter Sunday, a fight broke out in the midst of a crowd of approximately 100 people near downtown Gainesville, according to reports.

About 30 minutes after last call at area bars and clubs, two unruly partiers engaged in an altercation about eight blocks west of Main Street that resulted in two arrests, Gainesville Police reports state.

At 2:30 a.m., the incident initially involved about 10 people within about a two-block radius of 800 and 900 W. University Ave., according to reports, which characterized it as a "large, long-lasting disturbance" that went on for more than 10 minutes.

Gainesville resident Keionda Monique Sherman, of 7105 SW 57th Road, and an Archer man, Tarcel Divon King of 523 Broadwalk Blvd., were allegedly fighting and instigating others to take part in the two-block area, reports state.

Authorities warned Sherman, 19, to leave the scuffle, according to reports.

The two were then arrested at the scene for fighting, a misdemeanor offense, reports state. After he was taken into custody, King reportedly spit on the dashboard and front window of the patrol vehicle.

Officers stated in the reports that the fight endangered people in the area, and they did what was necessary to maintain order.

King and Sherman were booked into the Alachua County Jail at about 4 a.m. Sunday.

Group encourages college aspirations

By NATALIE KOULOUVARIS
Alligator Contributing Writer

The National Society of Collegiate Scholars held its annual March to College on Friday, bringing approximately 120 seventh graders and 30 high school students to roam UF's campus.

Shanteria Dixon, vice president of planning for the College Success Mentoring program and coordinator of March to College, said the purpose of the day is to encourage underprivileged seventh graders to seek a higher education after graduation.

"Many of the students we mentor are raised to believe college is not for them and only for the rich kids whose parents went to college, too," Dixon said.

Students from Howard W. Bishop Middle School, Abraham Lincoln Middle School and Eastside High School participated in group-building activities and listened to athlete speakers and student volunteers talk about financial aid, clubs and organizations on campus.

Usually students take tours of campus to give a broad view of what college is like. However, due to the rainy weather, the tours were canceled.

Instead, members from Beta Eta Sigma Black Honor Society came to talk about their experiences and answer questions. Delta-Sigma Theta Sorority members also entertained the students with dance and step routines.

"Many of the students we mentor are raised to believe college is not for them and only for the rich kids whose parents went to college, too."

Shanteria Dixon
March to College coordinator

NSCS member Jacqui Mullings said the march was a good way to get students excited about college and show them the different opportunities available.

"It was always a plan of mine to go to college, but I didn't really start thinking about it until freshman year of high school," Mullings said. "If I had been to something like this, I would have had a better sense of what was ahead of me."

Journalism college backs Sun plan

so different,” he said.

City Commission candidate and Student Sen. Mike Belle, who has been pushing the proposal, agrees that the additional paper will add something different to campus.

“The department has always regretted that the Sun chose to discontinue letting our students produce pages for the paper.”

William McKeen
department of journalism chairman

The Sun, he said, would provide students with stories by writers who are “entrenched” in the local scene.

Although Ngin has been involved in the talks with the Sun, he said he is unsure of whether more money should be poured into newspapers when SG already spends $40,000 a year to provide free New York Times and USA Today newspapers.

Add to that the Alligator, and students might have all their bases covered, he said.

Belle said cost was the issue when the Sun staff approached SG executives last summer. Student Senate had just spent $40,000 on the readership program, and it was unclear how another similar program would benefit the students.

Student Body President Jamal Sowell decided not to pursue the offer, said Belle and Student Body President-elect Joe Goldberg, who was the Student Senate president at the time. Sowell was unavailable for comment.

Goldberg said he supported the program, which would include a student-oriented Web site.

“I think it’s great,” he said. “I think students need another outlet besides the Alligator.”

Goldberg said he would continue the talks when he takes his position in May but promised to continue the current readership program, which must be funded annually.

Although the Sun has never had a deal with SG, several versions of the two-page insert have occurred over the years.

Once students wrote a few pages at the Sun as part of a journalism course, said William McKeen, Colon cancer is the second leading cancer killer and everyone aged 50 and older is at risk. More than 50,000 Americans will die from colon cancer and 131,600 new cases will be diagnosed this year.

Colon cancer is an equal opportunity disease that affects both women and men. This silent killer frequently begins without symptoms and those with a family history are at even greater risk.

Colon cancer is preventable-even curable when detected early. In fact, if cancer is found early enough, the patient has more than a 90 percent chance of survival.

Colon cancer screenings are safe and effective and are now covered by Medicare and an increasing number of other health providers. There’s even a test that can be used in the privacy of your own home.

Alligator Goodbyes

- ◆ Send a heartfelt Congratulations! to that special someone who has worked so hard to earn their degree...and Good Luck on their journey into their new life...
- ◆ Wish your friends *Thank you & fond farewell...*they've been a big part of your life and it's hard to part company...
- ◆ Thank the helpful professor, dean, or advisor that took the time to make your life so much easier...
- ◆ Tell your loved ones how grateful you are for their support, encouragement and love...
- ◆ Bid adieu to Gainesville and all it has meant during your time here...favorite places, favorite people, favorite things...
- ◆ Your memories will be captured in a special place...messages will appear in Graduation 2005, published on April 5th.

Boxer Dog-

You made it out of the doghouse at last! Have fun making lots of kibbles at your new job!

Love, Mama Hound.

Jim K- The scholar, the humanist. Your academic dedication has been an inspiration to us all. All those 3am nights of intense studying and your fantastic devotion to the pursuit of knowledge will serve you well in your career at the Brain Trust. Love, MAK & SEH

To Jeri-

My sister, my friend, and my confidante. You are my light, my inspiration, my buddy 4 life. Cancun - the DG house - Spring Break - so many memories! I love you girl!

-Bobbi

Relays ended early

For the beginning of the outdoor season, the UF men's track and field team may have gotten their feet a little wetter than they had planned on.

The 62nd annual Florida Relays were cut short after rain delays and a cancellation of all events on Saturday.

Despite the weather, Alex Harris posted a NCAA-regional qualifying mark in the long jump and the men's relay teams scored first-place times on both the 4x200-meter and 4x1500-meter relays.

"It wasn't really about the victories," men's head coach Mike Holloway said. "It's always nice to win, but I was really satisfied by the effort of the guys that ran in those relays."

The Gators also dominated in the 5000-meter run as Henok Lechebo, Brent Schneider and Ryan Leary scored three of the four best times.

— BLAKE BONSAK

The Gators finished fourth in the women's 4x200-meter-relay (1:33.48).

UF didn't fare much better in the women's 4x1500-meter relay as the Gators finished fifth (19:14.83).

In pole vault action, Chandra Lacombe and Chelo Canino posted regional qualifying marks of 3.97 meters and 3.80 meters, respectively.

— CHUCK BAER

UF still working on running game

haven't done much to dispel the worry, tailbacks Wynn, Sklyer Thornton and newly-arrived Anthony Gay, who took last year off after attending Jones High in Orlando, each recorded runs of 10 yards or more.

UF's defense also played as well, if not better than, the offense. In addition to Jackson's hard hits, Meyer lauded the performance of defensive tackle Ray McDonald, who played through a minor ankle sprain.

One defender, whom Meyer dubbed his favorite player earlier this month, isn't so thrilled with UF's practice defense.

Standout freshman linebacker Brandon Siler griped about the playing time of the linebacking corps.

Meyer's spread offense requires fewer defending linebackers than former coach Ron Zook's, often leaving Siler stranded during team scrimmages.

"Right now, I'm frustrated because I'm not on all the plays getting to the ball every time," Siler said. "It just really restricts how much the linebackers can get in there."

Lochte ties Auburn team in event wins

Lochte earned Swimmer of the Meet honors for the first time in his career during the event. Though he finished second for the first time all year in the 100-yard backstroke, Lochte still won two more individual events.

Amidst all the records that Lochte has set, Troy says that he is never surprised about Lochte breaking records. Still, after swimming events that he does not normally partake in and having the success that he does, Lochte is becoming one of the marquee figures in college swimming.

"During this meet Ryan was fantastic," Troy said. "He really showed a lot of toughness and character during the meet."

Even with Lochte earning as many individual titles as the entire Auburn team did, it was not a big enough cushion for the Gators to finish in the top three.

After finishing sixth twice in a row before this fifth-place finish, Troy said the Gators will have to receive more contributions from other swimmers to improve next year.

"It was a great season," Troy said. "We wanted to be a little bit better at the end, but we'll go back and start working on a few things for next year."

These plays are crazy.

Cornelius is also convinced.

"It's going to throw [SEC defenses] off because we have a lot of different direction plays," he said. "We have a lot of different options; we don't have plays that just go one way. If you over-pursue it, we're going to come over around the backside."

But aren't SEC defenses a lot faster than Mountain West Conference defenses? Sure. But that doesn't matter, according to Cornelius.

"Speed on speed — usually the offense wins," he said.

The offense looked kind of sloppy on Saturday. It reminded me of Ron Zook trying trick plays and them back-firing every time. The Gators fumbled a few times and dropped a shovel pass. These mistakes are correctable, to use a Zook-ism.

But once they are fixed, watch out. When a quarterback has three options on a base play, it's going to be fun to watch. More importantly, the triple threat is going to force defenses to try to be everywhere at once.

"The threat of option, the threat of a guy scrambling, the threat of a guy out of the pocket is for real, and that's what we need in this offense," Meyer said.

For real is right.

Two out of three ain't bad.

Gators fall short in SECs

By DAN TREAT
Alligator Writer
dtreat@alligator.org

Their entire season had been geared toward this moment.

Heading into Saturday's Southeastern Conference Championships, the Gators brimmed with confidence fresh off their highest-scoring performance and boasting victories against two of their biggest rivals.

It wasn't meant to be.

And it wasn't even close.

UF (17-7, 5-1 SEC) took fourth place for the second consecutive year with a 196.05, their lowest score since the first weekend in February.

"It's still tough [to take]," UF coach Rhonda Faehn said. "It's definitely something that the coaching staff and the team are going to take a while to get over."

Faehn

No. 8 Georgia breezed to its second consecutive title with a 197.25, easily outpacing second-place Louisiana State's 196.975.

No. 5 Alabama finished third at 196.7.

The Gators started the meet with a bye. High-scoring opening routines by Georgia and LSU on floor exercise and vault, however, immediately placed the Gators in catch-up mode.

After recording its third-best total of the season on uneven bars, 49.125, UF faltered on balance beam, an event on which the Gators were ranked No. 3 nationally. The 48.975 score marked the first time UF failed to break 49 on the event since its meet at Georgia on Feb. 4.

"We started out really well on bars, and then they got a little bit tight on beam," Faehn said. "I think that when we started to focus in on scores, it started to affect them mentally, that they were a little bit behind the ball on being able to win and we let that get to us."

While the Gators rebounded slightly on floor exercise, they turned in their worst performance of the year on vault. Just like the balance beam woes, UF failed to break 49 on vault for the first time all season.

In her first appearance at the SEC Championships, Ashley Reed finished seventh in the individual all-around with a 39.3.

"She started us off great on our beam lineup and hit floor, and that was really nice to see," Faehn said.

Georgia's Katie Heenan won the all-around with a 39.625.

UF's season isn't done yet, as the Gators will host an NCAA Regional on April 9. The Gators will be looking to correct the jitters acquired during the conference meet.

"Obviously it's something we need to work on and fix," Faehn said. "So in the next two weeks before regionals and nationals we'll go over with them how they let that happen and why they let that happen so it doesn't happen again."

UF downs 'Cocks, takes series

■ SOUTH CAROLINA SHUT OUT THE GATORS ON FRIDAY.

By TIM CASEY
Alligator Writer
tcasey@alligator.org

The UF baseball team survived a Friday night scare to win its first conference series of the season, largely due to the rubber arm of Connor Falkenbach.

The Gators (19-7, 3-3 Southeastern Conference) won their weekend series against then-No. 6 South Carolina (19-5, 2-4 SEC) 2-1 after being shut out at home on Friday 2-0. It was the first time UF was shut out at home since April 16, 1999, against Kentucky.

On Sunday, the No. 11 Gators won its first conference series of the season in convincing fashion, defeating the Gamecocks 6-1 and out-hitting the opposition 11-5.

Senior right-hander Connor Falkenbach pitched five scoreless innings in relief to earn his first victory of the season.

"It's hard losing on Friday night," Falkenbach said. "You want to win Friday night to get a good start to the weekend. We just put Friday night behind us. We just came out and tried to win Saturday and Sunday because you'll win the series if you do that."

Falkenbach pitched in all three games, not allowing a run in 8.1 innings, but says he'll be ready to pitch against Florida State on Wednesday.

Falkenbach entered the game with no outs and two runners on in the fifth inning, but got out of the jam left by starting pitcher Alan Horne.

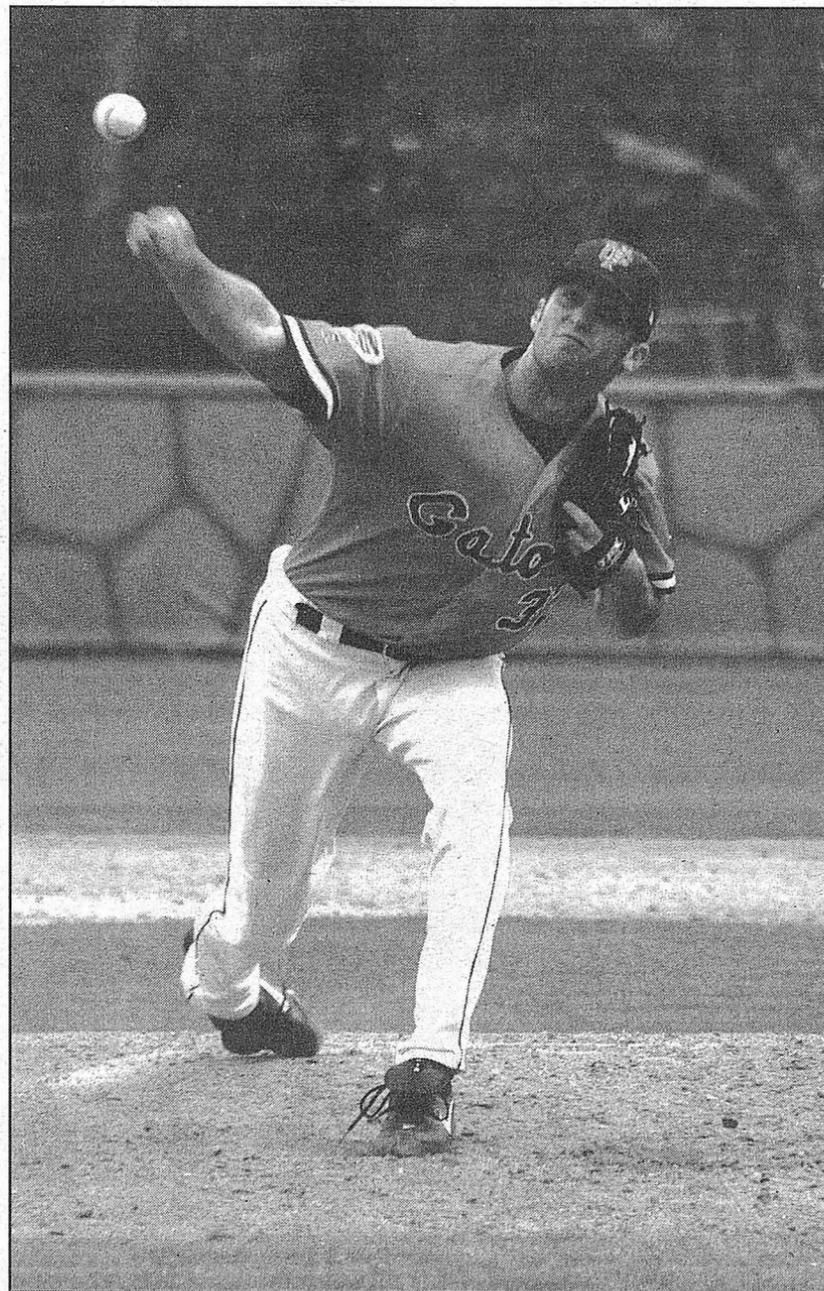

"[Alan] battled back after that first inning where he struggled a little bit," Falkenbach said. "After that, he threw great. I had to come in there and stop them from scoring a few runs, and I was able to do that."

Horne struggled in the first inning, but did not allow a hit in his next three innings.

"I'm still working to get better," Horne said. "I didn't really make it that deep in the game again. I'm still very frustrated by that. I just need to get off to better starts with lower pitch counts and go deeper into the game."

Sophomore leftfielder Gavin Dickey sparked the Gators, robbing a home run from South Carolina first baseman Steve Pearce, then hitting a double in his first at bat on consecutive nights.

Jeff Corsaletti continued his hot-hitting his fourth home run of the season and batted .455 in the series.

Tim Casey / Alligator

UF's Alan Horne allowed one earned run in four innings against South Carolina on Sunday. Senior reliever Connor Falkenbach earned the win.

The only UF hitter to enjoy more offensive success in the series was sophomore second baseman Adam Davis. Davis had six hits in 13 at bats to raise his season average to .288.

On Saturday Dickey ignited the UF offense by stretching a routine single into a double, only six hours after evading defensive linemen in the football team's practice.

UF won the game 7-3, aided by eight walks issued by South Carolina pitchers. Tommy Boss improved to 4-1 while Darren O'Day earned his second save of the year.

UF coach Pat McMahon pulled starting first baseman Matt LaPorta on Saturday due to flu-like symptoms. The slugger did not play on Sunday.

Dickey was in the starting lineup for the game scheduled to begin at 4 p.m., but was given over three hours of extra rest because of a weather delay.

"This is huge, a two-game swing," Dickey said. "We could have been 2-4 [in the conference], but now we're 3-3."

Softball sweeps Ole Miss, extends win streak to 13

By WILLIS JACOBSON
Alligator Writer

After waiting weeks to return to its home field, the No. 14 UF softball team (27-6, 6-0 Southeastern Conference) was forced to wait a little longer before it could actually play on it.

The Gators finally were able to take the field after Saturday's game time was changed from noon to 8 p.m. en route to a three-game sweep of Mississippi (21-14, 3-6 SEC). The sweep extended UF's win streak to 13 games, the longest in school history.

The Gators outscored the Rebels by a combined score of 19-2, including a 12-0 victory in game two.

"We were glad to get three wins," Coach Karen Johns said. "I thought we played great defense the whole weekend and we had great pitching and that carried us through. We dealt with some adversity with the weather, though, and I thought we did a good job handling that."

Along with solid pitching and defense, UF's bats were as hot as ever. Led by junior Lindsey Cameron, who homered in each game and drove in nine of the team's 19 runs, the Gators out-hit the Rebels by a margin of 28-11. Nine of those hits came in the seven-run second inning of game two, in which the Gators sent 12 batters to the plate.

"We had great at-bats; there were only maybe a couple that I wasn't satisfied with," Johns said. "We just have to do a better job getting on early, and not having to hit so much with two outs."

Cameron, whose three home runs gave her 10 for the season and 23 for her career, is only five short of tying the UF career record.

The Gators will return to action on Tuesday when they continue their homestand against No. 10 Alabama (36-7, 9-3 SEC).

Leak shows quick release in weekend scrimmage

■ GATORS SHOW OFF COACH'S NEW OFFENSE.

by LOUIS ANASTASIS
Alligator Staff Writer
lanastasis@alligator.org

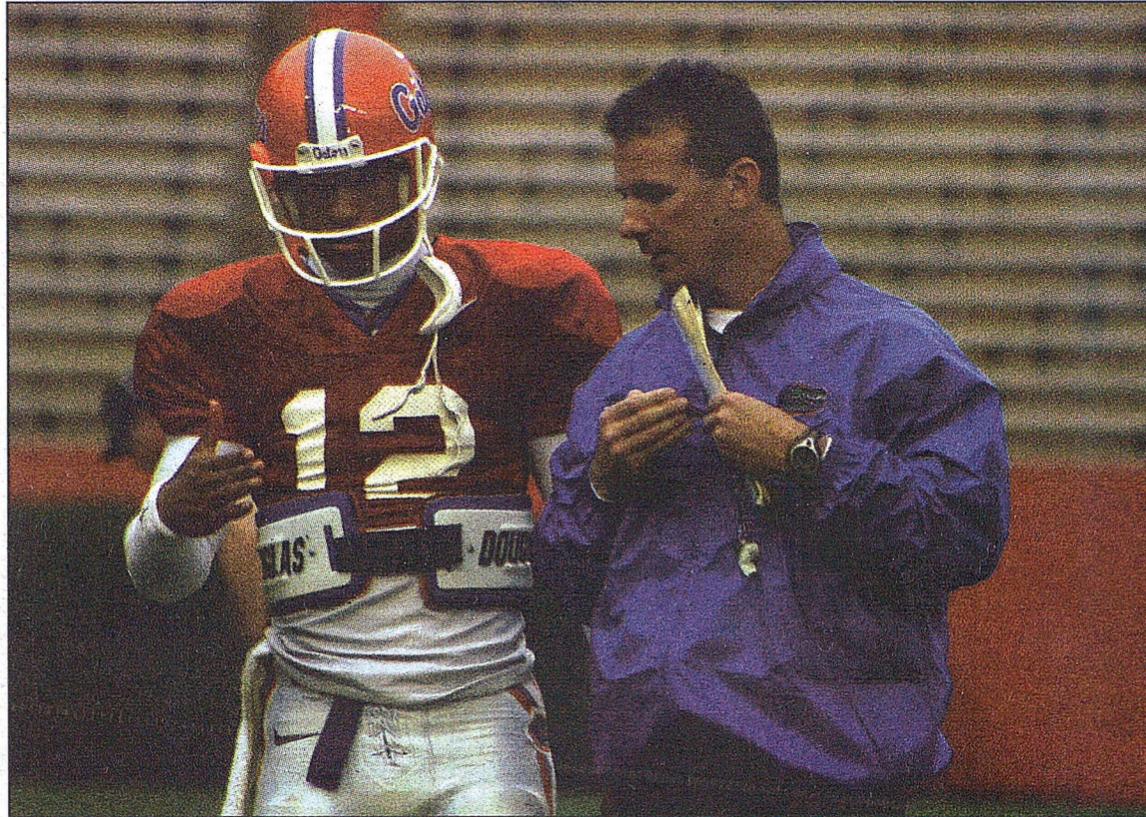

Chris Leak's throws zipped a little faster, DeShawn Wynn ran a little harder and Kyle Jackson crushed receivers with the vengeance of New England Patriots safety Rodney Harrison.

Things are changing in Gainesville. There was no better example of this than UF's first full scrimmage Saturday.

After learning intricacies like the permanent shotgun and man-to-man defense in just five practices, the Gators took Coach Urban Meyer's playbook to the Swamp. The outcome – at least at the start – wasn't pretty.

"I don't think we're a tough team," Meyer said. "We're just not. You can paint it however you want to paint it, but we're not a tough football team. But it's March, so we've got a long way to go."

UF's offense seemed confused at times. Fumbled snaps, dropped pitches and overthrown passes dotted the field. But a few miscommunications later, the Gators pulled off a trick-play Utah fans would appreciate.

Tim Casey / Alligator

UF quarterback Chris Leak gets some on-the-job training from Coach Urban Meyer. Leak unveiled his new spread offense in UF's first full spring scrimmage on Saturday.

Leak rolled to his right with tight end Tate Casey running alongside in an option set. But after faking a pitch to Casey, Leak flipped the ball to wide receiver Jemalle Cornelius who was sprinting in the opposite direction. Cornelius then zoomed past the baffled defense for 12 yards, drawing cheers from the sparse crowd that braved the rain.

"The defense never knows what you're going to do or where it's going," said Leak, who completed 6-of-11 passes for 98 yards in the scrimmage's regular phase. "[The offense is] very versatile."

The only thing more striking

"We're just not. You can paint it however you want to paint it, but we're not a tough football team. But it's March, so we've got a long way to go."

than Leak's orchestrated reverse was his throwing release.

Criticized for his inability to make quick passes, Leak displayed much speedier throws than the Gators had grown accustomed to. His throwing motion also appeared tweaked, even if slightly.

Leak had been taught to bring the football back to his nape before every throw by his father, Curtis. Saturday, he didn't seem to wind back as far. But the sophomore denied working on anything besides the quickness of his throws.

"Every quarterback has his own release and motion," said Leak, who connected on a 65-yard touchdown pass with wide receiver Chad Jackson on Saturday. "You have to have the motion you know. I just have to keep doing what I'm doing."

UF's chief concern entering spring practice was the running game. And while the Gators NCAA Championships, the UF men's swim team was hoping to dethrone two-time defending champion Auburn.

Apparently Auburn didn't get the message, as the Tigers swam their way to a third straight title and the Gators finished a disappointing fifth. UF coach Gregg Troy said that consistency was the way to be successful in swimming, and the standings showed which team achieved that.

"Yesterday was not a good day for us at all," Troy said. "Our team showed a lot of character by overcoming adversity and some injuries that popped up during the meet. I cannot say enough of how proud I am of how this team bounced back from a tough day."

While consistency may not have been a virtue for UF this time around, that does not mean there weren't any bright spots.

Meyer's plays not tricks

I remember it like it was yesterday. Urban Meyer was hired and the naysaying began.

His gimmick offense won't work in the Southeastern Conference. The SEC is too fast for his "trickeration" to work.

After UF's first scrimmage, I have a good feeling what I expect from his offense.

These plays Meyer's offense is known for are not "trick plays." They're the basis of his offense.

On the craziest play I saw Saturday, quarterback Chris Leak faked a pitch to tight end – that's right, tight end – Tate Casey before pitching to receiver Jemalle Cornelius who was in motion coming around the other end. The play went for about 12 yards.

"It's like an option reverse," Cornelius said. "It's a nice play, though. Every time we watch it on film, it goes for at least 10-12 yards."

This was the kind of play that even fakes the cameraman out. You know, when you're watching TV and the camera goes one way and the ball the other. I think we're going to see it a lot next year.

Meyer said his base plays give the quarterback three options – to run it, to pitch it or to dump it off in the form of a shovel pass.

This offense is going to work in the SEC. I'm convinced. I don't care if it's too "gimmick oriented."

TODAY IN UF SPORTS HISTORY

■ 1992: Former Olympian Ben Johnson finishes last in the 200-meter dash at the Florida Relays. Johnson set a world record and won a gold medal in the 100-meter dash at the 1988 Olympics. Johnson was stripped of both, however, because of steroids.
