Student may challenge random thumbprinting

By MATTHEW SAUER
Alligator Writer

A UF student is questioning the constitutional validity of the Florida Highway Patrol's policy of randomly thumbprinting people in southwest Gainesville.

UF junior Darin Janeczko, 20, was stopped by an out-of-town trooper earlier this month and was thumbprinted while leaving his southwest apartment complex on a moped. Janeczko said the trooper told him the stop was in connection with the recent murders of five local college students.

Robin Blumner, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida in Miami, said Monday that Janeczko's civil rights may have been violated, and the organization is considering suing the FHP.

"We've confirmed with the Florida Highway Patrol that they've been randomly stopping people, particularly white males, who are on foot, bikes, and mopeds, and thumbprinting them," Blumner said. "If you stop someone because they violated a traffic law, that's all you have reason to question them on."

FHP Lt. Paul Shinholster, who supervised the out-of-town troopers that supplemented southwest police patrols for the past two months, said thumbprinting is done on a statewide basis by all troopers.

"Any officer that has probable cause can use the (thumbprinting) at the officer's discretion," Shinholster said. "We have a fingerprinting policy for notification of a traffic violation."

Shinholster said a ruling by Circuit Judge Chester Chance gave troopers permission to thumbprint in cases where a traffic citation or a notice to appear in court is issued.

But Janeczko said he was fingerprinted without receiving a traffic citation.

"He was just looking for something to stop me for," Janeczko said. "He never issued me a ticket."

Instead, the officer recorded Janeczko's height, weight, hair and eye color, and other physical characteristics on a card, he said. The officer also asked him if he smoked.

Janeczko said the officer said the information was "evidence for the murders going on in Gainesville."

"I asked the officer if it was legal," Janeczko said. "He said 'We can do whatever we want.'"

Gainesville police spokeswoman Lt. Sadie Darnell said Monday that thumbprinting is permissible under Florida's new drunk-driving law and in a situation where a police officer has given someone a notice to appear in court.

"They have to have an arrestable situation," Darnell said.

Number enrolled at USF may surpass UF

By DEBBIE CENZIPER
Alligator Staff Writer

UF is the state's largest university, but it may lose that bragging right as enrollment skyrockets at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

The five-campus USF has 32,360 students enrolled this fall, trailing UF's enrollment by about 2,000 students. The school, which opened in 1960, has increased its enrollment annually by about 1,000 students, said Dan Casseday, USF director of media relations.

If USF's student population continues to soar, the university soon may overtake UF's enrollment, he said.

UF's numbers have not kept pace because of registration limits, such as former UF President Marshall Criser's "1,500 Plan." That three-year plan, begun in 1986 to stretch state money, shaved 500 students annually from UF's enrollment.

"As long as UF has capped enrollment, then it could happen in the next five to 10 years," Casseday said. "But overtaking the University of Florida is not foremost in our minds."

Casseday said the first thing on the school's agenda is adjusting to the student population boom and meeting its financial burden.

The school is looking for outside sources of support, such as private donations, to supplement money from the Legislature and meet ever-growing student demand, Casseday said.

"We're not dwelling so much on overtaking UF as we are on taking care of the students we have enrolled," Casseday said.

Board of Regents spokesman Pat Riordan said although USF almost has as many students as UF, many are only part time. Because legislators allot money according to the number of full-time students, USF won't receive more money than UF, he said.

The board is a 13-member body that governs the state's nine public universities.

About half of USF's students are part time, compared to only 16 percent of UF students.

"This means nothing to the University of Florida," Riordan said. "We have a system that is balanced in which we have nine different universities that each do different things."

A university's size isn't all-important, and all of the state's universities excel in different areas, Riordan said.

No one university can be designated as the state's best, he said.

"We have decided not to designate a flagship university," he said. "We are not going to put all our eggs in one basket."

Commendations mark former city employee's records

By JOHN F. BERRY
Alligator Writer

City records show that Ann Reno, the fired Gainesville employee who worked for the Clerk of the Commission office, once received a positive job evaluation from the supervisor who fired her.

It was one in a series of complementary evaluations Reno received from the city since she was hired in 1978. But a June 1989 report signed by former City Clerk Mary Ann Frazer described Reno as insubordinate. It also showed her productivity and workmanship needed improvement. Further documents showed that Reno failed to follow instructions.

Reno started working as a Gainesville Police Department secretary in 1978. In her nine years there, her evaluations complement her loyalty, efficiency and hard work. She earned a Police Service Award for absorbing the workload of two absent employees. She also earned a letter of commendation from Police Chief Wayland Clifton after she taught about 150 city employees how to use a new word processor.

Reno moved from GPD to City Hall after she was promoted from secretary to assistant city clerk in 1987. Her first job evaluation, signed by former City Clerk Mary Ann Frazer, used many of the same compliments Reno received at GPD.

According to the report, "She cares about people, her family and this city government...I admire her very much and enjoy working with her."

But Frazer fired Reno in June, then quit as Clerk of the Commission office on Oct. 5. Frazer began working as an assistant city clerk for the city in 1972 and was promoted to the clerk's job in 1976.

Program to encourage minority history students

By LAURA DEITSCH
Alligator Writer

If recent state budget cuts don't hinder spending, about 15 minority students will get $1,500 and a free summer studying in a new history program, UF history department Chairman Kermit Hall said.

The six-week program, designed to boost the number of minorities in history studies, will match students with faculty mentors.

The students will get a $1,000 stipend to offset lost summer income and expenses.

Students also will earn six history credits and a $1,500 a year salary if they assist the mentor after graduating from the program.

Students will attend two regular summer semester classes. One, an in-depth study of the 1960s, will focus on civil rights, the women's movement and changing America.

The other class will be a writing seminar in which students will make presentations on an area of the 1960s that they are interested in.

Hall, with the help of Robert Zieger and Hunt Davis, both history faculty members, said he developed the program because of the lack of minority students studying history.

"The pool of minority students is low," Minority Student Affairs Director Willie Robinson said.

Also, he said, students are more interested in the disciplines that pay the most, like law or medicine.

"There is no true appreciation of history potential, and this program sounds like it will encourage one," Robinson said.

State law offers CLAST waivers

By MIKE NEUMEIER
Alligator Writer

Under a new law, students who fail any portion of the College Level Academic Skills Test are able to file for a waiver exempting them from having to pass the test in order to graduate.

The 1990 state law allows Florida universities and community colleges to form a committee to grant waivers to those who failed to pass the CLAST, which is a graduation requirement. Students seeking a waiver must have failed the CLAST or any portion of it four times. Waivers will be granted on the basis of academic records and personal interviews.

Procedures on how the committees will act have not yet been formed, but the State Board of Education is expected to take up the issue with in the next 60 days, said Thomas Fisher, director of state testing programs.

"Each (university) president has the authority to establish a committee to grant waivers from one or more parts of the CLAST," Fisher said.

Students seeking a waiver must have failed the CLAST or any portion of it four times.

The committee will be chaired by the chief academic officer and its members will include a representative from the math department, the English department, the school's CLAST administrator and a fourth member from neither the math nor the English department.

"The difficulty level of the CLAST is a matter of opinion," Fisher said. "Eighty-five percent of those who take the test for their first time pass it and

Bush campaigns for Republicans

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UPI) — Shoving the budget fiasco aside and plunging headlong into campaigning for Republicans, President Bush promised Monday to clear the air of "Democratic falsehoods" in an attempt to minimize political fallout before next week's midterm elections.

The rancorous budget war finally over, a pact to trim the deficit in hand and virtually no one happy about it, Bush opened a final campaign drive to Nov. 6, which he promised would be a lively one.

Speaking to reporters after a top-dollar fund-raising stop in San Francisco, Bush clung to optimism for GOP prospects even as administration officials were admitting that damage had been done to the party by Bush's retreat on his 1988 pledge not to raise taxes.

Angry that Democrats had successfully painted him as more favorably disposed to the rich, Bush railed: "The opposition party — I'm used to that kind of demagoguery. And so I'm out here now on the campaign trail laying it to rest."

Of the truth behind who really are the taxers, Bush pledged to let Americans know that the Democrat-controlled Congress is the true culprit. "I've got to get that in focus because they've been getting away with this 'tax the rich' class warfare — the kind of garbage that they always resurrect at election time," he said.

And as he did over the weekend, Bush brushed aside concerns the GOP would suffer the most from the budget talks, and he hinted the new offensive in coming days would be a fierce one.

"We've been under constraints because I've been trying to get a deficit deal. Now I feel free, free to go out and take this message across the country," he said.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater announced details of a punishing campaign schedule for the president, beginning with a speech Tuesday to party faithfuls in Washington, and shifting into high gear Thursday with dozens of stops scheduled in more than seven states right up to Election Day.

Bush, besides taking on Democrats, took issue with his recent plunge in popularity, declaring, "These polls don't mean anything...I don't live and die by these."

Bush didn't want to talk about his fall in the polls on Sunday when the latest one registered his lowest approval rating as president.

Nor did he discuss the warfare within his own party caused by the budget negotiations and threatening the coming elections where one-third of the Senate and the entire House must stand for re-election.

Gorbachev favors Arab solution to crisis

RAMBOUILLET, France (UPI) — Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, saying war in the Persian Gulf is unacceptable, suggested Monday that Saudi Arabia work toward an "inter-Arab" solution to the conflict.

Gorbachev, at a joint news conference with French President Francois Mitterrand, said the latest information from Soviet envoy Yevgeny Primakov indicates Iraqi President Saddam Hussein appears to have softened his position on Kuwait.

"One sees signs showing that the leadership of Iraq could finally listen to good sense and the voices of the United Nations," Gorbachev told reporters at Mitterrand's chateau on the southern outskirts of Paris.

The Soviet Nobel Peace Prize laureate, who later left for home after his 24-hour visit to France, said if Arabs could construct a solution among themselves, "the Iraqi leadership would be more ready to accept that."

"Saudi Arabia is close, a neighbor, and has certain relations with Iraq. It could take an initiative as well as other countries," Gorbachev said. "There are inter-Arab mechanisms. They must act."

Gorbachev said there was no question of the U.N. Security Council breaking ranks, and he termed the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait as adventurism. But he affirmed, "The military option to this problem is unacceptable."

Mitterrand said France agreed with the Soviet proposal for an inter-Arab solution and emphasis on the Arab factor that ultimately would include addressing the Palestinian problem, the Israeli occupation of Arab territories and the plight of Lebanon.

"Our positions in this very sensitive area are concordant. We will defend these ideas in the U.N. Security Council," Mitterrand said.

Mitterrand said he rejoiced over the expected return of more than 300 French hostages from Iraq.

"But we will not rejoice completely until the other hostages have re-found their countries," he said.

For his part, Gorbachev pledged to continue to work for the release of some 3,000 Soviet citizens in Iraq.

Both presidents concurred that a Franco-Soviet treaty of cooperation they signed earlier would open a new era of relations between the two countries.

She refused to comment Monday.

"It is in the best interest of the city that I don't comment on the situation," she said.

Reno said she misses her job and would work again for the city, but not the clerk's office. She said Monday she still doesn't understand why her relationship with Frazer went sour.

"There is no one incident that I know of that clarifies the situation," Reno said. "This is something that has wracked my brains out. While I was there, I tried to figure out what I did wrong."

In December of 1989, Reno took sick leave. When that expired in April, she used her two months of vacation time. The termination letter in Reno's personnel file states that Reno failed to properly explain why she was gone.

Reno said Monday that she handled all correspondence through her lawyer. She said working for Frazer caused her to become sick, lose 30 pounds and visit a psychologist.

Panel raps about Crew

By JENNIFER C. MITCHELL
Alligator Writer

The rap group 2 Live Crew will continue to be "As Nasty as They Wanna Be," but the lyrics from that album are still the subject of controversy, even at UF.

At a panel discussion hosted by a law of mass communications class Monday, participants discussed obscenity and freedom of expression. UF Professor Colleen Sullivan, newspaper columnist Bill Maxwell, and Mike Sorgius of Christian Leadership Ministries were on the original panel. Maxwell was unable to attend because of parking problems.

2 Live Crew was indicted on obscenity charges last June. Broward County Sheriff Nick Navarro also arrested a music store owner for selling the album "As Nasty As They Wanna Be." But band members were acquitted of the charges after their music was found to have political and cultural value.

Sullivan, a law professor and attorney, said that the First Amendment does not provide freedom for all expressions, including obscenity. The 2 Live Crew question is whether a "reasonable man" can find value in the songs, she said.

Sorgius said he is in favor of the First Amendment, but lyrics such as 2 Live Crew's are going too far.

"If you excuse this as tolerable lyrics in society, then I think we're in trouble," he said. "I can't imagine too much worse, or intolerable."

SG dead on Halloween

Aside from several committee appointments at tonight's Student Senate meeting, nothing is brewing in Student Government's cauldron this Halloween eve.

Sen. David Wallack said tonight's meeting at 7:30 in the Reitz Union shouldn't have much debate.

"We're just organizing, and then we'll start pumping things out," Wallack said.

SG elections caused committee restructuring, Senate President Adam Tanenbaum said Monday.

"The three main committees that provide most of the legislation — Judiciary, Finance and Budget — have just reorganized and got started again," said Tanenbaum, who gave up his Judiciary Committee chairmanship to become Senate president.

Former Senate President Andy Meyer said Senate comes in waves. "For a week or two, there will be nothing and you'll get out at 9 p.m., and then there will be five bills in one meeting and you'll be lucky to be out by 11."

A line in the sand

Flared-leg jeans were on their way out by the time we came around. So were peace symbols and tie-dyed clothing.

The memories most of us have about Vietnam are very vague, and they include only televised speeches about the war's end. Some of us, especially UF freshmen, don't even remember that.

The pictures of battle and the body bags arriving from Southeast Asia are things we've seen only in movies or recapped in TV documentaries.

But those things were very real. And soon they may be real again.

Some say war repeats itself about every 20 years because that's how long it takes for a new generation that knows nothing about war to grow up.

That seems to be indicative of the attitude surrounding the Persian Gulf crisis.

Many Americans seem to think it's great that President Bush is ready to "kick some butt." But they forget that aggression will include the loss of more than a few American lives.

Some students tend to think of war in terms of wins and losses, not the death of a brother, sister or father. But that's what would happen if the United States went to war with Iraq.

We're not saying U.S. troops shouldn't be in Saudi Arabia. We're saying we hope diplomacy isn't forgotten in the transfer of Stealth Bombers to the Middle East.

Now that the federal budget crisis is over, maybe Bush and his administration can turn their attention to solving the Middle East crisis diplomatically. We hope that's still an option for Bush, but with the messages he's getting from much of the country, he may decide that a demonstration of American force is easier than sitting at a negotiation table.

That's why we think it's important for citizens to approach the crisis with precaution and, to an extent, skepticism. Don't be too quick to assume a war is the best way to solve the situation. And when government officials tell you they've exhausted all possible diplomatic channels, question whether they've really done all they can.

We hope students stop to think about what going to war would mean to them and their future, because it's their generation that's going to suffer if the United States chooses bullets over discussion.

Reusables make for a happier earth

People look at me strangely when I order frozen yogurt — "Hold the spoon."

I figure I can save a good 10 pounds of landfill-clogging plastic cutlery by using my own metal spoon each time I buy yogurt. For me, that's at least twice a week — more if they have peanut butter.

Not to be preachy, but if just 10 people brought their own spoons, forks and maybe knives to their favorite yogurt shop/pizza place/fast-food joint, the area's trash would be 100 pounds lighter. And maybe food costs would go down because restaurants would not have to buy all those plastic forks. Well, probably not, but it's a nice thought.

For the serious environmentalist, go a step further. I don't want to say never eat at McDonald's, Zipp's, Taco Bell or any of those student favorites. Just think about what you're buying. Maybe head to the burger stand one less time a month. That will save a lot of styrofoam, paper, plastic and other nasties. It's better for your bod too.

Something I've been experimenting with is straw/lid deprivation. Each time you buy a soft drink, forego the straw and the lid. They're just two pieces of needless, evil plastic. If you're afraid of spills in the car, ask the counterperson to give you less ice.

According to Renew America, the country's quest for quick and convenient meals has meant a 200 percent increase in waste from packaging alone. Those fun-to-eat microwave snacks are not just nutritional nightmares. The little trays and wrappers are mounding up on garbage piles everywhere. Some say more than half the cities on the east coast will run out of landfill room by the end of the year. Scary, huh?

Ignore the propaganda saying "we have environment-friendly styrofoam." No styrofoam is friendly. The Earth Works Group says that styrofoam cup that held your coffee this morning might be sitting on the Earth's surface even 500 years from now, barring total planetary destruction, of course. And Americans produce enough styrofoam cups to CIRCLE THE EARTH 436 TIMES! Think about it.

As a wise friend of mine is fond of saying, just living is a strain on the environment. But we could all be a little less consumptive. Stock the fridge with things like soup and fruit instead of things like the artery-clogging, plastic-packaged Lunch Buckets, which I doubt are real food.

A little less Velveeta means a happier planet. To quote a bumper sticker, "Live Simply, So Others May Simply Live." Who wants to eat fake cheese, anyway?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

UF's full-time staff equally pays

Editor: Please accept this letter in response to Diane Mercer's Oct. 24 letter in which she stated that faculty members do not pay for any of their health-care costs.

University Personnel Services certainly welcomes comments and suggestions about the scope of our employee benefits package. However, the main premise of Ms. Mercer's letter is incorrect.

The cost of health insurance is the same for all full-time employees at UF. Currently the total cost of family coverage is $267.66 per month; individual coverage is $121.56 per month.

Florida pays $184.20 per month and $97.80 per month, respectively, as its employer contribution to University of Florida health insurance coverage. This holds true for all state employees — faculty and staff alike.

If two married people, both employed full-time at the University of Florida, enroll in family coverage, the employee net cost is zero. Perhaps Ms. Mercer is confused about this spouse program. Regardless, we are sorry for any misunderstanding caused to or by Ms. Mercer.

Additionally, while it is true that the employee's portion of the insurance premium is increasing beginning Jan. 1, 1991, this increase is minimal, particularly in light of rising health-care costs in the state of Florida as well as across the country. This increase amounts to $12 per year for individual coverage and $24 per year for family coverage. Considering the Sept. 27 headline in the Gainesville Sun, "Health Costs Jump 20 Percent; Trend May Continue," state employees indeed continue to have comprehensive health-care coverage at a very reasonable cost.

We encourage employees with questions concerning their health insurance costs or any other employee benefit to contact the Fringe Benefits office at 392-1225. We look forward to providing additional information relative to their insurance needs.

think it is easy. Fifteen percent fail some part of it and think it is hard."

Jeaninne Webb, UF's CLAST test administrator, said she is still waiting to get the procedures from the State Board of Education, but any waivers given out will be "tightly controlled."

Webb said UF has always had an appeal process for disabled students who have repeatedly failed the CLAST but has never granted a waiver. Only one or two UF students repeatedly fail the CLAST; herefore, it will not have a great impact on UF, Webb said.

The policy originally was proposed to help international students who are working with English as a second language. Some students that come to Florida universities to study are able to communicate enough in English to get an engineering or math degree but not well enough to pass the essay portion of the CLAST, Fisher said.

"Some foreign students take the essay portion 10 to 12 times," Fisher said. "Some pass it eventually. Some go home with no degree."

Andreas Voyiadzakis, public relations director for Volunteers for International Student Affairs, said the new waivers may help some international students.

"Many students have problems with the CLAST," Voyiadzakis said. "Definitely international students have a problem with the CLAST because of the English."

"However, if we consider ourselves mature enough to be in a four-year school like UF, we should be mature enough to learn the tools and skills we need."

"I thought I wrote a lousy essay," Voyiadzakis said. "But my techniques and mechanics were correct, and I got an eight."

Currently the passing scores for the CLAST are 285 on math, 295 on English and language, 295 on reading, and four on the essay. The passing scores for the math section will increase to 295 and the essay to five on Aug. 1.

UF Vice Provost Gene Hemp said the policy will affect some universities, but not UF.

"By and large it's not a problem with our students," Hemp said.

"The number of students it would effect would be around nine to 12."

Hemp said UF tries to help students who might have problems with the CLAST. The university places such students in remedial classes to help them.

Fisher said that he thinks the new policy will be beneficial to some students if it is not abused.

"The CLAST was implemented to put a degree of quality on Florida schools," Fisher said. "If schools start granting whole scale waivers then it makes the whole process meaningless."

Phillip Is Grad School Associate Dean; To Coordinate Minority Recruitment

Michael Phillip has been appointed associate dean of the Graduate School, effective immediately.

He succeeds Roderick McDavis, who left UF one year ago to become dean of the University of Arkansas College of Education.

Phillip comes to UF from the University of Detroit School of Dentistry, where he was coordinator of minority recruitment and director of the genetics program. At the Graduate School he will be responsible for the multicultural program office, which focuses on recruitment, fellowships and retention for black and Hispanic students.

Also a biochemistry professor at the University of Detroit, Phillip taught at Baldwin Wallace College and John Carroll University. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Toronto and his doctorate at Michigan State University.

He has been honored with the Distinguished Faculty Award for Excellence in Teaching and Research, the Outstanding Foreign Student of the Year at Michigan State University and an award from the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars for cancer research.

Phillip's research includes tumor immunology in mice and chemotherapy in the treatment of transplanted tumors of mice. The author of numerous journal articles and abstracts, he has delivered speeches on topics such as infection control, tumor immunology, genetics in dentistry and black issues.

Carnell Is Member Of U.S.-China Study/Teaching Team

Leading a group of 10 American teachers in China, UF English Professor Corbin Carnell spent his summer teaching and learning. The teaching team worked with 162 Chinese high school English teachers at the Anhui Institute of Education in Hefei, about 200 miles inland from Shanghai.

During the day, the American teachers met with the Chinese teacher-students in groups of 18 to work on grammar and pronunciation, and Carnell gave methodology and literature lectures.

"None of our students had ever been taught by a native English speaker before, and they regarded that as a great privilege," Carnell said. "They had us make tapes of reading from the texts they used in teaching, and you would have thought these tapes were gold."

The American teachers presented programs on American culture in the evenings. Each faculty member showed slides of his or her home town, and discussions focused on topics such as American religion, family and media. They also played word games, such as Scrabble and Boggle, and gave instruction in American baseball.

Carnell, who also taught in China in 1985, said he appreciated his American freedoms after visiting China.

"People must live in the apartment assigned them by the state, must work in a government-assigned job—many of our students did not want to be teachers—and there is no real freedom of speech or religion," he said.

Carnell said he wants to return to China, and he found the Chinese appreciate and respect their teachers.

"Everyone should spend some time in the Third World to see how wasteful and spoiled we are," Carnell said.

University Libraries Appoint McTigue Special Collections Department Head

The former head of the rare book collection at the New York Public Library is now head of the Department of Special Collections at University Libraries.

Bernard McTigue, who had worked at NYPL for 16 years, will now manage UF's special collections which include the Baldwin Library of children's literature, the historical University Archives, the Belknap Collection for the Performing Arts, the P.K. Yonge Library of Florida History and UF's collection of rare books and manuscripts.

McTigue began the duties of the new position in August.

The opportunity to shape and influence a young collection was what attracted McTigue to Florida.

"The UF special collections are still growing and are not viewed by the university as a vanity, but rather as an integral part of the research institution," McTigue said.

The three-pronged plan of the new chairman will bring UF's special collections to the general attention of the campus community.

McTigue's first priority is to improve access by listing UF's special collections in local and national databases, including the University Library's LUIS system.

"Awareness and use of these resources will grow through access to the catalog of UF's special collections," McTigue said.

Another way to promote awareness is through the kinds of exhibitions McTigue did at NYPL—a practice he plans to bring to UF.

Future plans call for UF's special collections to be housed together in a larger, renovated area in Library East with substantial exhibition space, McTigue said.

BERNARD MCTIGUE Comes To UF From New York Public Library

In the interim, he intends to cooperate with other gallery spaces on campus and to continue displays like the current Library East display case show of books and memorabilia from UF alumnus sportscaster Red Barber.

McTigue would also like to curate exhibits of contemporary book artists for the campus community. "People here will be struck by the book arts," McTigue said, noting that Gainesville has not often been exposed to bookmaking.

The final part of McTigue's strategy is to involve the Howe Society of UF's Friends of the Library, using exhibitions, lectures and presentations as special gatherings for library supporters.

McTigue holds bachelor's and master's degrees in library science from Columbia University and a master's degree in art history from Hunter College of the City University of New York.

Medical-Dental Team In UF's Health Center Develops Permanently Attached, Artificial Ear

A team of specialists at the Health Science Center created a permanently attached artificial ear for a Leesburg man whose left ear was removed to prevent the spread of skin cancer. He is the first patient in the Southeast to receive such an ear.

Using a dentistry technique, doctors inserted three metal posts in Carl Smith's skull directly behind his ear canal, and the inserts protrude through the skin to provide rigid attachment points for the silicone rubber ear.

"Most people can hardly tell it's not my real ear, and it's perfectly comfortable to wear," said Smith, an 80-year-old retiree.

Dr. Glenn Turner, director of the medical-dental team that created the ear, said that the loss of part of the face can be traumatic, and many patients withdraw from the world.

"We tell patients we can't make them whole again, but we can make them feel whole again," Turner said. "A prosthesis (the artificial ear) can dramatically improve their self-image, allow them to feel comfortable in public and get on with the rest of their life."

Artificial replacements for ears, noses, cheeks and other facial parts have been available for years at the Health Science Center, but they were held in place with medical-grade latex adhesive. Glues often hold their grip for only a few hours and can lose their grip because of perspiration or humidity. The rigidly attached ear has also benefited Smith because he can wear his reading glasses and both of his hearing

IFAS Researchers Ease Energy Crisis With New Anaerobic Composting Process

Turning Florida's municipal solid waste into methane gas and compost could help ease the energy crisis and solid waste buildup, said a UF agricultural engineer.

"For example, if a city generates 500,000 pounds of municipal solid waste (MSW) per day, it could produce 750,000 cubic feet of methane per day, worth about $2,000," said D.P. Chynoweth, associate professor of agricultural engineering at IFAS.

"Anaerobic composting is a viable way to make energy out of the biodegradable portion of the 16 million tons of MSW that Florida produces each year," Chynoweth said.

Anaerobic composting is the decomposition of MSW using bacteria in an air-free, controlled environment. Controlled anaerobic composting produces methane at a much faster pace than the conversion process in uncontrolled landfills or swamps. Methane produced by this process can be sold for heating and energy purposes.

"Instead of requiring energy to treat waste, anaerobic composting actually produces energy," Chynoweth said. "Once the digestion process is complete, the remaining residue can be used as compost. This makes anaerobic digestion both a clean and valuable method for the treatment of municipal solid waste."

IFAS researchers have developed a novel process for anaerobic composting of MSW called sequential batch anaerobic composting (SEBAC). In this process the separated, organic matter is coarsely shredded and packed into an anaerobic digester resembling a silo or a bunker similar to a controlled landfill.

Once packed, leachate, an organic liquid that contains microorganisms and nutrients, is introduced into the digester to start the conversion process. As the leachate percolates through the digester, it carries away the organic acids that would inhibit the conversion process.

"We can get degradation of the biodegradable organics and convert it into methane in 20 to 30 days," Chynoweth said. "It takes a landfill 10 to 20 years to complete the same conversion process."

"Now we are able to convert half of the material into methane gas," said Dr. Wayne H. Smith, director of UF's Center for Biomass Energy Systems. "The organic material that is not biodegradable will become compost."

"Anaerobic composting could be used today to treat up to 70 percent of the total solid waste stream," Chynoweth said.

Division Of Sponsored Research Offers Small-Business Seminars For Faculty

UF's Office of Patent, Copyright and Technology Licensing in the Division of Sponsored Research is offering a series of seminars on small-business formation, planning and financing through Dec. 15 for selected UF faculty members and Gainesville business leaders.

The seminars, conducted by business management and accounting firm Ernst & Young, are designed to review the challenges facing the start-up business, including financing, managing, product presentation to potential investors and moving the product forward to the marketplace.

Except as described below, attendance is limited to 20 UF faculty and 5 individuals from the Gainesville business community. Materials fee for the series is $15. For reservations, call Bruce Clary, 392-8929.

The seminars, which will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. at the locations listed below, will cover the following topics:

Oct. 30—"Small Business Formation," 1151 McCarty Hall.

Nov. 5—"Valuing Technology," 264 Grinter Hall.

Nov. 13—"Developing a Winning Business Plan," 1151 McCarty Hall.

Nov. 20—"Financing Alternatives," 1151 McCarty Hall.

scent will be chosen for the program based on teacher recommendation letters, essays the students will prepare and the sincerity of their interest, Hall said.

Room, board, books and tuition will be provided for students who enroll, and they will stay in UF residence halls.

Mentors target sophomores and juniors to monitor their work and follow through on the students while they are at UF.

This way, professors can identify skills and talents the students possess, Hall said.

Classes will be held at UF, but students from many historically black schools such as Bethune-Cookman, Edgar Waters and Spelman colleges will be participating, as well as students from community colleges throughout Florida.

"The program sounds like a great idea to me," Black Student Union president Angela Eubanks said.

The students will be able to work with a variety of primary materials such as original historical documents, Hall said, and they will be taking field trips to archives and places of historical significance around Florida.

Two of the three grants that Hall has applied for are from federal government agencies. The third is a private fund, the Pew Memorial Trust in Philadelphia.

"As soon as the money is definite, the program will be definite," Hall said. The summer cuts may affect the funding of this project, he said, but probably will not affect a related program geared toward high school students.

That three-week program will be similar to the college program as students will be matched with teachers acting as mentors. The students and teachers will be attending separate seminars but will meet at the end of the day.

After graduating from the college program, students go to work for the professor who was their mentor so they have someone to help them in their graduate studies and guide them in career choices.

WALT KELLY'S POGO By Doyle & Sternachy

POGO'S THE IDEAL STRAW HORSE CANDIDATE FOR ME TO RUN AGAINST-- HE'S GOT ALL TH' QUALITIES VOTERS HATE!

HE'S HONEST, INTELLIGENT, FAIR AN' OPEN-MINDED, ONLY INNERSTED IN FOLKS OTHER THAN HIMSELF...

AN' TO TOP IT OFF, HE ACTUALLY SLEEPS IN THE BILL O' RIGHTS!

WELL, MESSIE THEY DON'T HATE IT, BUT THEY SURE DON'T SEEM TO ELECT IT!

VOTERS HATE THAT?

Rowell makes the most of recent playing time

By ALEX MARVEZ
Alligator Writer

In recent weeks, UF right tackle Tony Rowell has earned compliments from his teammates and coaches since supplanting Glenn Neely on the first-team.

Right guard Chris Bromley agrees with those two statements. He also said Rowell has added something fun to the offensive line — the "soup bone," a type of block with the forearm.

"When we're watching the films, we make fun of Tony because he always gives soup bones to the other team," Bromley said. "He's kind of reckless, but he's controlled in the way a lineman has to be."

"He's aggressive, and the offensive line needed that."

Rowell's aggressiveness may have been magnified by playing on the Gators' defensive line the past two seasons before being converted last spring.

But Rowell, who has the reputation among some teammates as a "wildman," said rumors of his off-the-field behavior are exaggerated.

"I guess I'm more hyper coming from the defensive side of the line," Rowell said. "I'm calm when I go out (at night), though. I'm just not the type of person who can watch TV. I've got to go out and be doing something."

Rowell, a junior from Melbourne High School, broke his foot midway through last spring's practice sessions and didn't start until Gators' 59-0 victory over Akron.

Before that game, Rowell saw action mostly as a tight end in blocking situations. To make himself eligible, Rowell had to switch from his regular jersey number (56) to No. 93 because backs and receivers can't wear numbers 50-79.

Rowell

Rowell's chance to start came when the Gators' offensive line surrendered four sacks Oct. 13 in a 45-3 loss to Tennessee.

Neely, who was the starting left tackle, surrendered three of the sacks, prompting Spurrier to move right tackle Mark White into Neely's position and to make Rowell the right tackle.

Starting is nothing new for Rowell, though. He started at defensive tackle last season against Louisiana State and Vanderbilt.

"What had really hurt me this season was not playing in the spring," Rowell said. "I felt a lot of pressure starting, especially midway through the season, because a lot of eyes are on you that think you shouldn't be there. I've got to do the best to prove I do."

McGeorge was happy with Rowell's performance at tackle.

"He needs more experience, but he did some things real well," McGeorge said. "His effort and intensity is what we wanted."

Rowell will not have long to rest on his laurels, though. The Gators play host to Auburn Saturday and Rowell most likely will be assigned to block defensive tackle David Rocker, an All-America candidate.

"I don't know how to prepare for him, because I've never prepared against anyone that good," Rowell said. "He's one of the best in the nation, and this will tell me how I'm going to do on the offensive line."

Kruger says team's improvement visible

By MATT FOGLESON
Alligator Writer

The UF basketball team entered its third week of practice Monday, and head coach Lon Kruger said the team had its best practice of the season.

"I thought today was probably the best workout of the year," Kruger said. "I think we're about where you'd expect to be."

Intrasquad scrimmages again highlighted Monday's practice. Kruger divided the team into blue and white squads.

The white team, which included senior forward Livingston Chatman and senior center Dwayne Davis, won two of the three games, which ended when one team scored 11 points.

Sophomore forward Stacey Poole, senior guard Renaldo Garcia and junior guard Brian Hogan joined Chatman and Davis on the white team. Walk-ons Darryl Findley and Gary Willoughby also wore white jerseys.

Davis scored 12 points on 6-of-7 shooting, and Chatman added 10 points.

"Dwayne and Livingston each had their best workouts," Kruger said.

Davis also made eight of nine field goal attempts when the team ran offensive drills before the scrimmages.

Kruger said Poole, the team's Most Valuable Player last year, also continues to impress him, even though Poole is still not at full strength because of a knee injury. Poole continues to wear a brace in practice.

"Stacey's feeling more comfortable with that knee," Kruger said. "He's doing about as well as you could expect a guy lugging around a knee brace."

UF volleyball player Kim Hale tries to block a spike. Hale says the team is confident they can beat Florida State tonight.

Volleyball team to visit 'Noles

By HUGH HENCKEN
Alligator Writer

The UF volleyball team travels to Tallahassee tonight to take on the Florida State Seminoles.

The Gators volleyball team has won a season high six consecutive games, increasing their overall record to 12-11 and 4-2 in the Southeastern Conference. UF has not lost since playing Auburn Oct. 12th.

UF and FSU split their first two matches. But freshman Kim Hale says the Gators have improved since the two teams last met.

"Our practices and games are so much better," Hale said. "We have just completely turned around."

In the last meeting, the Gators could not stop FSU's Maggie Philgence, who led the Seminoles to victory with 19 kills. Junior Steffi Legall led the Gators with 16 kills, and Hale helped with 13 kills of her own.

"I have no intentions of losing (against FSU)," Hale said. "I do not think anyone on our team does."

Virginia and Nebraska on top of UPI Poll

United Press International

NEW YORK — Virginia and Nebraska, two schools whose high rankings have been criticized because of weak schedules, get a chance to overcome those doubts next week.

The No. 1 Cavaliers and No. 2 Cornhuskers continued to hold the top two positions Sunday in the United Press International college football ratings, with Notre Dame jumping over Auburn into the third position.

Virginia received 35 of 56 first-place votes cast by the 59-member UPI Board of Coaches and finished with 807 of a possible 840 points. Nebraska received 16 first-place votes and 773 points, Notre Dame topped one ballot with 700 points and Auburn led three ballots with 630 points.

The high rankings of Nebraska and, to a lesser extent, Virginia have been criticized by those who say the teams play in weak conferences and did not have a strong non-conference schedule.

However, both schools face critical tests this week with New Year's Day bowl bids on the line. Victories next Saturday would give the Cavaliers and Cornhuskers a defense against detractors.

"I don't know how these people think," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne, who has said several times this year that the Cornhuskers' weak schedule resulted from last-minute scrambling caused by opponent cancellations. "We just play the best we can."

The Cavaliers, 7-0, were idle Saturday in preparation for next week's Atlantic Coast Conference showdown against 6-0-1 Georgia Tech, with the ACC's automatic Citrus Bowl berth on the line.

Nebraska defeated Iowa State 45-13 to improve to 8-0 heading into next Saturday's game against Colorado for the Big Eight title and Orange Bowl berth.

"We just hope we play well this week," Osborne said. "We've still got Kansas and Oklahoma after that, so we're still in the tough part of our schedule."

No. 3 Notre Dame used a 31-22 victory over Pittsburgh to move past Auburn, which held on for a 17-16 victory over Mississippi State by blocking an extra-point attempt with 2:33 remaining.

No. 5 Washington, which received the final first-place vote, moved up one spot after hammering California 46-7. The Huskies switched places with No. 6 Illinois, a 21-3 winner over Wisconsin.

No. 7 Colorado improved one place after a 32-23 triumph over Oklahoma, and No. 8 Miami also moved up a spot following its 45-10 victory over Texas Tech. No. 9 Brigham Young fell two spots despite a 55-31 victory over New Mexico, and Tennessee remained 10th after an idle week.

No. 11 Florida State remained unchanged, while No. 12 Texas jumped two spots after beating Arkansas. Iowa remained 13th and No. 14 Georgia Tech dropped two places despite a 48-31 victory over Duke.

No. 15 Mississippi, No. 16 Wyoming, No. 17 Clemson and No. 18 Michigan won to maintain their positions, while No. 19 Arizona and No. 20 Oregon each moved up two places after Pacific-10 Conference Victories.

UF drops one place in AP Poll after week off

For taking last Saturday off, UF dropped one spot to 15th in the latest Associated Press Top 25, the news agency announced Monday.

NOTEBOOK

◆ Gregg Doyel

Notre Dame, which beat Pittsburgh 31-22 Saturday, and Nebraska, a 45-13 winner over Iowa State, leaped ahead of Auburn and into second and third, respectively, behind Virginia. The Tigers fell from second to fourth after escaping Starkville with a 17-16 win over Mississippi State.

Despite big wins over Texas Tech and Louisiana State respectively, neither Miami nor Florida State moved up in the polls. Miami is ranked eighth and FSU is 12th.

First place votes went to Virginia (44), Notre Dame (6), Nebraska (5), Auburn (2), No. 6 Houston (2) and No. 7 Washington (1).

Tiger Watch

UF sophomore Shane Matthews could wind up on the endangered quarterback list if he has to endure another day like Sept. 13.

Matthews and the rest of the Gators face another life-threatening defense Saturday when Auburn comes to town for a 7:30 p.m. date. ESPN will televise the contest.

"They definitely have a physical defensive line," senior guard Chris Bromley said. "But they always have a good defensive line, a bull-rushing type."

But Auburn hasn't been bullying opponents this year like it has in the past. The Tigers defense, typically among the nation's leaders, is just third in the SEC, allowing almost 263 yards a game.

But statistics aren't enough to convince senior tight end Kirk Kirkpatrick that the Tigers have lost a bit of their bite.

"Their defense is such a big-play defense, you have to give them credit," Kirkpatrick said. "Our offensive line will have to be up for them."

Odom healthy

Starting inside linebacker Jerry Odom said he may not be completely healthy, but he won't miss his last chance to beat Auburn.

Odom, despite missing the final quarter against Tennessee and the entire Akron contest with a sprained knee, leads the Gators with 54 tackles.

"Yeah, I'll play at 90 percent or so," Odom said. "I'm sure there'll be some pain and some discomfort, but I don't see how it's going to keep me from playing. And I've got another five days before I can play."

UF takes third and fifth in SEC meet

By CHERYL BOSSEN
Alligator Writer

The University of Tennessee won in both the men's and women's Southeastern Conference cross country championships Monday morning on the University Golf Course.

The Volunteers took the men's competition on the strength of Todd Williams' consecutive SEC individual title in a course-record time of 24 minutes, 6 seconds. Tennessee, who joined UF by placing three runners in the top 10, edged Kentucky in the team race with 52 points to the Wildcats' 57 points. UF came in third with 60 points.

UF finished fifth in the women's competition.

After the meet, UF's John Webb and Tennessee's Doug Brown were voted Co-Coaches of the Year in the SEC.

Senior Patty Weigand led the Volunteers, who had four runners in the top 10, to the 41 point victory. Weigand set the 5,000-meter course record with a time of 16:45.1, nearly a minute better than former Gator Shelly Steely's 1989 record of 17:40.5.

In the men's competition, UF's Mike Mykytok led until about the three-mile mark. From then on, LSU's Terry Thornton dualed with Williams. Thornton held on to a slim lead until Williams overtook him with less than 10 meters to go. Thornton finished just three-tenths of a second behind Williams.

For UF, Mike LeValle placed sixth, Dan Middleman (7th), and Mykytok (8th) gained All-SEC honors by placing in the top 10.

Rounding out the men's team standings were Alabama (90), Auburn (148), Georgia (176), LSU (180), Ole Miss (186), Mississippi State (239) and Vanderbilt (308).

In the women's competition, Georgia was second overall with a team score of 55 points, followed by Alabama (88), Auburn (101) and UF (111).

The first 13 runners to finish broke the course record and there were three Gators, sophomore Coralena Velsen, senior Wendy Frazier and freshman Marny Westphal.

Velsen earned her second consecutive All-SEC honors as she placed third with a personal best of 17:14.7. Frazier finished in 11th place with 17:36.8 and Westphal placed 13th, equaling her career best of 17:40.4.

"I was surprised at my finish," said Velsen, who placed ninth last year as a freshman. "I didn't think I would do this well."

Tennessee's Weigand was out early along with Georgia's Keli Butler, who placed second with a time of 16:51.6. Weigand took the lead for a good two-thirds of the race.

UF's fourth and fifth runners couldn't close the gap between UF's first three finishers as senior Stacey Watkins placed 41st (18:56.5) and freshman Breda Gaffney placed 43rd with (19:00.0). Sophomore Katie Dearing was 48th with 19:19.0 and junior Samara Benson was 57th with 20:26.9.

UF's Finnegan loses qualifier

UF men's tennis player Gary Finnegan lost his chance for a berth in the Volvo/ITCA Collegiate Championships Monday in Athens, Ga.

University of North Carolina's Andre Janasik eliminated Finnegan, a junior, in the quarterfinals of the qualifying tournament, 7-5, 6-1.

The winner of the quarterfinal round is eligible to compete in the 64 player main draw championships which begin today.

UF coach Ian Duvenhage was pleased with Finnegan's performance despite his loss.

"Gary (Finnegan) has seemed to tire in long matches but pulled things together and got the wins," Duvenhage said.

UF's men's squad will play again this weekend as the Gators play host to the Barnett Bank Invitational at the Varsity Courts. The tournament begins Friday and will run until Sunday.

Meanwhile UF's women's team will be on the road this weekend as it competes in the Southeastern Conference Indoor Championships in Knoxville, Tenn.
