Hispanics overlooked in black/white tension

By DEBBIE CENZIPER
 Alligator Writer

In the midst of racial tensions between blacks and whites, another minority group said it is consistently ignored even though the tensions affect them also.

Juan Vitali, founder of the former Hispanic Student Union, said although Hispanic students represent a large minority at UF, their problems are overlooked. Hispanics face discrimination, but it's not as evident as that faced by blacks, he said.

"I've experienced many instances of racism," Vitali said,

"whether through my speaking to people and them making fun of the way I speak, or looking at me funny when I say my name. You can notice the difference in people when I say my name is Juan instead of John."

Several organizations, including the Hispanic Student Association and the Hispanic Engineering Society, try to group together the estimated 2,094 Hispanic students on campus.

Quality of Life Task Force co-chairman and education professor Gerardo Gonzalez said UF tends to ignore the problems facing Hispanic students, yet Hispanics are as much a minority group as others.

Hispanics have a low representation of faculty members, lower than any other minority group except American Indians, which limit the number of role models students may have, Gonzalez said. Hispanic students also tend to score lower on the College Level Academic Skills Test and similar tests, he said.

"If you look at typical indicators of progress, it's hard to say that Hispanics are doing OK," Gonzalez said. "It's just that we don't have any real data to tell us of students' perceptions."

But HSA member Victor Malo said Hispanics sit more on the sidelines in the fight between blacks and whites.

"We're caught in the middle, more of a neutral area," Malo said. "Blacks versus whites is more of an older racial tension."

Blacks present a more unified force than Hispanics, Malo said, because there are many different types of Hispanics such as Cuban, Mexican and Spanish.

Hispanics may fit in better because they are more integrated than blacks and have a lighter skin color, he said.

Malo said the recent formation of a white rights group, which is now awaiting UF approval to become an official organization, affects blacks more than Hispanics. Although Affirmative Action laws, which the group is opposed to, apply to Hispanics as well as blacks, Malo said he doesn't feel threatened by the group.

"I think they have a right to form their own union," Malo said. "But I'm not in accordance with what they stand for because I don't think they know what they're talking about."

Bryan starts final week

By RONALD DUPONT JR.
 Alligator Writer

After almost 30 years of service to UF — including a short term as its leader during one of its worst scandals ever — Interim President Robert Bryan will begin his final week in Tigert Hall today.

One might think this week would be an emotional time for him — a time to be teary-eyed, to shake thousands of hands, to make numerous farewell speeches.

Not so, he says.

"It's just like any other week," Bryan said Sunday from his new home. "You just keep doing things until you have to quit."

Bryan spent Saturday and Sunday moving out of the massive President's Mansion and said if anything is different about his final week, it will be his schedule at home.

"The coming week will be unusual — buying stuff and having to put it together, running down to Home Depot every half-hour," he said. "(My wife's) very happy. All of her nesting instincts are in full bloom."

Even his final staff meeting Friday, when he officially meets for the last time with those people who have worked for him for years, will be no different, he says.

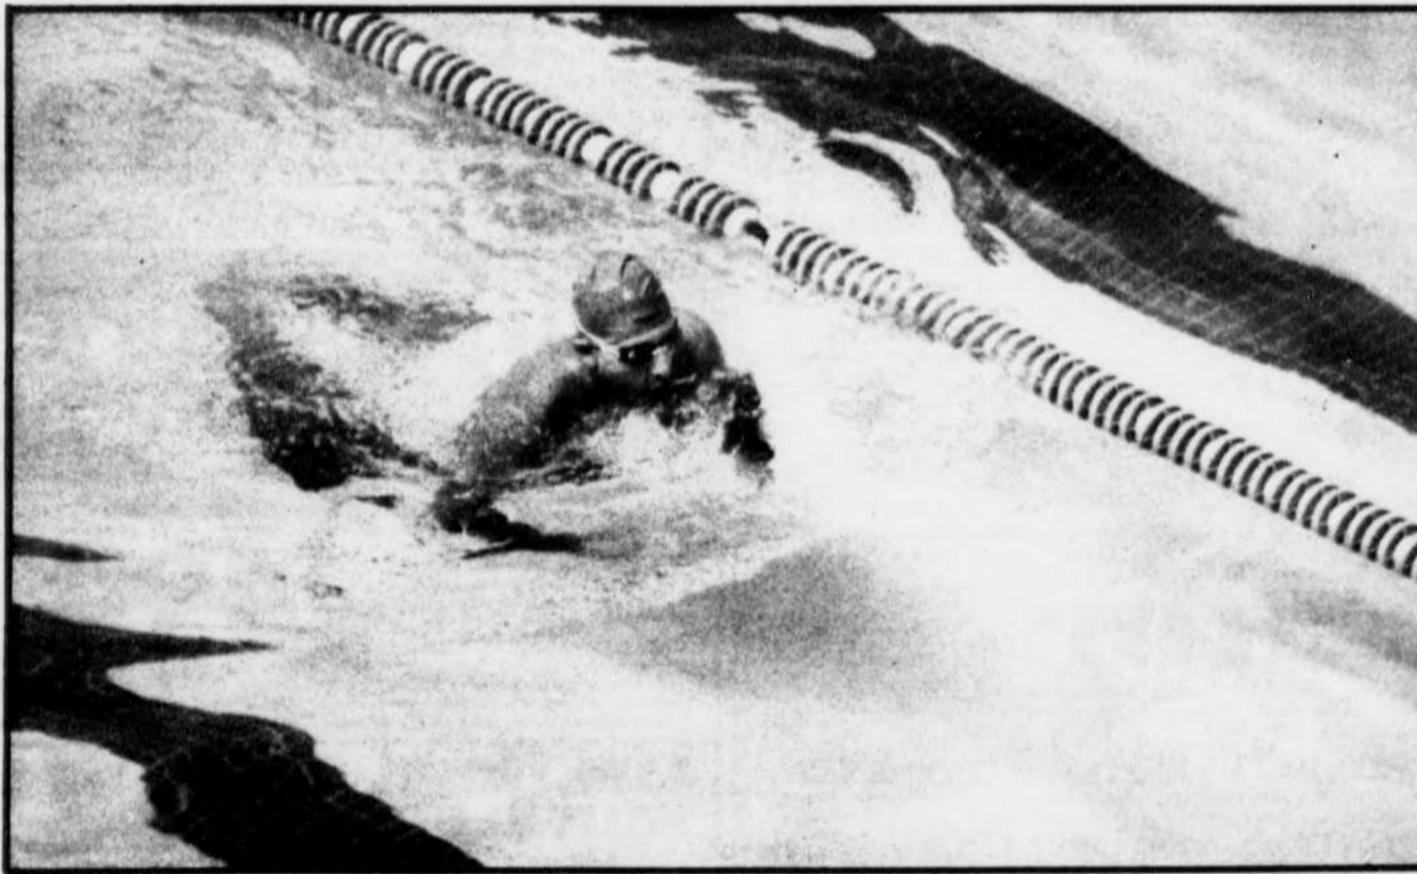

"No melodrama," Bryan said. "We'll go around the room and talk like we've always done."

Bryan joked that his last week may be hectic but shouldn't be too difficult. After all, he doesn't have to deal with budgets.

"Those are all Dr. Lombardi's tasks," he said, laughing.

Lombardi, who will be sworn in as UF's ninth president Monday, said he too, doesn't expect his last week — which ends Wednesday at Johns Hopkins University — to be unusual.

"I don't go for elaborate goodbyes," he said. "You sign your last papers, shake hands and walk out the door. On Wednesday, I'm gone."

By NICOLE SNEED

The Infirmary is cruising through school with a "C+" average, according to a survey sponsored by the Student Health Outreach Team.

Now members of SHOT are planning to sort their list of recommendations before handing it in to administrators.

Each semester, the survey asks students to grade Infirmary features, which includes distinguishing between their personal impression of services and what they thought was the general campus impression. At the bottom of the survey, a yes/no question asked students if they knew they could see a physician by request.

Students gave the Infirmary "B's" in convenience, confidentiality, phone service, personal impression of services and staff attentiveness. The Infirmary received a grade point average of 3.28 in staff attentiveness with 43 percent of the respondents giving them an "A."

Respondents gave the lowest scores to waiting time, understanding procedures and general campus impression of Student Health Services.

But respondents said they were less impressed with waiting, understanding Student Health Services procedures, and general campus impression of services.

History senior Robert Levinski said he gave the Infirmary a "C" for general impression on campus because he and his friends have had bad experiences, but he said services have improved in the four years he has been using them.

"I know a lot of people who won't come here because they're not sure of the service, but I think they are good," Levinski said, adding that he gave the Infirmary "A's" for

Demand for housing low; fall lottery canceled

By PATRICIA LEE
Alligator Writer

Dormitory residents who wish to remain on campus traditionally have taken their chances at getting fall housing. But this year their odds are improved.

The Division of Housing announced last week there would be no lottery for fall housing because fewer students applied than in past years.

All 2,593 students who sent a housing request and a $100 deposit to the housing office before the Feb. 14 deadline now are guaranteed housing for the fall semester and don't have to worry about being selected in the "lottery," the random drawing usually held each spring.

Because UF tries to give all incoming freshmen a chance to live on campus, students who already live in dorms must compete for spaces set aside for them. Of the 6,400 on-campus housing spaces, 2,700 are allotted for those who want to continue living in the dorms.

Because of limited opportunities for renewals, the lottery was established to give all students a chance to live on campus. Although entries for the drawing usually outnumber the spaces available, the lottery was canceled this year because the Division of Housing did not receive as many requests as in the past, Housing Associate Director Jack Worley said.

"Why that many students didn't apply, we don't know," Worley said.

"That's like asking, 'Why don't students do things on time?' But we're as happy as we can be about it, because it means we'll be able to accommodate more students," Worley said.

And even though there may appear to be extra space because the lottery was canceled, the 2,593 applications already exceed the number of spaces available, Worley said.

Of the 2,700 spaces reserved, 2,100 are set aside for the usual drawing. The other 600 are spaces allotted for students who apply and interview to live in co-ops, and for students who live in Yulee Scholarship Hall, for which they must meet special requirements.

"We have 493 over the quota for the lottery, but based on previous experience and what we know about cancelations and change of plans, everything should work out fine," Worley said. "In fact, we've already had 50 students petition after the deadline, and they're all getting in."

The lottery was started about 10 years ago, and since then, every spring semester a drawing has been held, Worley said. Students living on campus are notified in November and reminded in the spring to send their requests and $100 deposits. They then are grouped according to roommate preference and the last four digits of their social security numbers.

Each group of 97 to 100 names is placed into a barrel and any student included in one of the first 21 groups drawn is guaranteed housing for the fall.

The Division of Housing usually receives more entries than it can handle, but the lottery has been canceled twice before, Worley said. For students who don't want to move, the canceled lottery was good news.

"It came as a relief to me because I can't afford to live off campus right now," said Bill Barnwell, a freshman in Murphree Hall.

Anyone interested in housing for the fall still may have a chance, Worley said. Students should contact the housing office "the sooner, the better, because there may be room left, but it's still gonna be pretty snug."

Information about petitions is available from the Division of Housing at 392-2161.

Activist: Individual key in fight against toxic waste

By NANCIE GARMER
Alligator Writer

Individuals who are concerned about the environment must demand an end to the production of toxic wastes, environmental activist Kerry Dressler said Thursday.

Each year, millions of tons of contaminants and toxins seep into the country's soil and water, Dressler said during a workshop at the University Methodist Church.

"As people, we seem to have our own family lives and our own work lives, and as long as nothing is dropped on our doorstep, we mind our own business," Dressler said.

"But I recommend we start minding our neighbor's business, too."

Calling themselves "The Doom and Gloom Sisters," Dressler and Sandra O'Briant-Johnson described how more than 125 rivers, lakes and coastal waters in Florida are documented to have visible signs of pollution affecting fish, shellfish and wildlife. In Alachua County alone, there are 300 known leaking gas tanks.

Florida ranks sixth in the nation for the number of superfund sites — which are marked by the federal government as areas so contaminated that they warrant immediate attention. Eleven such sites exist within 60 miles of Gainesville.

An executive member of Concerned Citizens of North Florida, Dressler researches and provides environmental information for any person or group who wants it.

"Anywhere you look, there's a problem," she said. "You don't have to go out and look for something to work on, it will come to your front door knocking."

Each year, household and automotive products release more oil into Florida's soil than was dumped by the Exxon Valdez, a report issued by the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation states.

More than 500,000 tons of hazardous waste existed in the United States in 1940. By 1950, that figure had tripled. The 1986 estimate of hazardous waste in the country was 304 million tons, an increase of 600 percent over 46 years.

But the American Chemical Society published a report estimating the amount of current waste as somewhere between 580 million and 2.9 billion tons.

"We really have no idea how much of these hazardous materials we are producing," Dressler said.

Eliminating the use of toxic resources is the only way to solve the problem, O'Briant-Johnson said. Building incinerators and landfills is just creating a different type of problem.

"As long as you're producing toxic chemicals and not eliminating them, you are directing them toward someone," O'Briant-Johnson said.

Dressler recommended recycling and conscientious consumption as a means of reducing the use of toxins on the individual level. By buying non-toxic, recyclable products, hazardous wastes can be eliminated at the household level.

"We're talking about a national problem, but we don't have to look past our front and back doors to see it," Dressler said. "The crux of what is happening now, is we need more citizen involvement."

Nicaraguan voters flock to polls

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaraguans crowded the polls Sunday to choose between President Daniel Ortega's Sandinista Front and U.S.-backed opposition leader Violeta Chamorro in closely watched elections that could pave the way toward better relations with the United States.

Thousands of international observers spread out across the country to scrutinize the fairness of the voting, making the election the most closely watched in the nation's violence-wracked history.

The verdict of the most influential observers — former President Jimmy Carter, the United Nations and the Organization of American States — could determine whether the Bush administration continues its support of the Contra rebels or begins a normalization process with the Sandinista government.

Tens of thousands of Nicaraguans lined up at polling stations in the capital before dawn, patiently waiting for the 7 a.m. start of voting.

Ortega was one of the first to vote, casting his ballot at voting station No. 166 in downtown Managua, just two blocks from the headquarters of Chamorro's

National Opposition Union, or UNO.

After voting, Ortega reiterated a warning that anti-Sandinista Contra guerrillas had infiltrated Nicaragua from base camps in neighboring Honduras and might try to disrupt the voting process.

Mariano Fiallos, president of the Supreme Electoral Council, said the polling was "completely normal" apart from the closing of seven polling stations in northern and central Nicaragua "because the movement of armed counterrevolutionaries (Contras) has been detected."

Fiallos said in a national radio and television address that another 12 polling stations had been moved due to a perceived threat of attacks by U.S.-backed Contra rebels. But there were no reports of combat in Nicaragua.

At the Loyola Institute in Managua, two people were injured when more than 100 voters waiting for the voting center to open pushed their way through a narrow gate. Radio Reports from Esteli, 160 miles north of the capital, said a 78-year-old woman died of an apparent heart attack as she prepared to vote.

Bishops seek non-violent solutions

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Anglican bishops of southern Africa urged for the first time Sunday that the African National Congress suspend its armed struggle against white rule, citing President Frederik de Klerk's reform initiatives.

Led by Archbishop Desmond Tutu, the bishops, announcing the results of a synod last week, urged the government to reciprocate by granting a general amnesty to all political prisoners and exiles and withdrawing an estimated 800 army troops deployed in the nation's black townships.

They also offered to de Klerk the prospect of their influential call on the international community for the lifting of economic sanctions against Pretoria once the path toward an apartheid-free South Africa becomes "irreversible."

The statement came exactly two weeks after the release of black leader Nelson Mandela from 27 years imprisonment. Mandela was ordered released by de Klerk, whose racial reform program unveiled on Feb. 2 also included the unbanning of the ANC.

The ANC has accepted de Klerk's offer of direct talks and said last week it intended to meet the South African president as soon as possible on obstacles standing in the way of formal power-sharing negotiations aimed at ending the country's racial conflict.

Although the bishops have consistently stated their opposition to violence as a political weapon, they have acknowledged factors that drove the ANC to take up arms after its banning in 1960 and never before called for a suspension of the armed struggle.

"With the lifting of restrictions on political organizations, a significant step has been taken towards a situation in which normal political activity will become possible. It seems to us, therefore, that many of the arguments for continuing the armed struggle are falling away," the bishops said in a statement.

"To allow violence to replace political debate at a time when we are closer than ever before to securing the right to make political choice through the ballot box is a recipe for disaster," they said.

Without specifically naming the ANC, they called on "those waging that struggle to declare a moratorium on offensive action and, whether they make an explicit declaration on the subject or not, to implement an effective suspension of that struggle."

Exxon payment proposal reported

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The proposed plea bargain between Exxon and the Justice Department calls for the White House to appoint an administrator to manage Exxon's $550 million in restitution payments, according to secret documents.

President Bush's appointee will decide how to spend the $550 million maximum payment required of Exxon under a deal that settles its criminal case before it is filed and also partially settles Exxon's federal civil liability, according to a draft agreement viewed by United Press International.

Exxon itself may challenge the White House administrator's decisions about spending Exxon money for environmental restoration projects, according to the draft agreement that gives the oil giant seven years to pay restitution in the country's worst oil spill.

The government promises not to sue Exxon over the oil spill for four years, according to the proposal.

The Exxon Valdez ran aground March 24 and spilled nearly 11 million gallons of oil into Prince William Sound, killing hundreds of thousands of animals, ruining fishing and coating hundreds of miles of shoreline with oil.

To become law, the plea bargain must be approved by the U.S. District Court in Anchorage, where filing is anticipated, perhaps this week.

The state of Alaska, which has not been allowed to see the proposed plea bargain, has rejected the deal, based on the terms of the proposed financial settlement the government has offered to Exxon.

"The deal is a very, very favorable deal for Exxon," Alaska Attorney General Douglas Baily said late last week, "and I'm sure that they're delighted with the accommodation that the Justice Department is giving them."

The money is intended for projects to restore the damaged environment and that will have aesthetic and recreational benefits.

Shuttle to make fifth launch attempt today

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Engineers fueled the shuttle Atlantis Sunday for a pre-dawn launch attempt Monday on a secret military mission, the fifth try in as many days to get the spaceship off the ground.

The liftoff was scrubbed for a fourth straight day early Sunday when a ground tracking computer malfunctioned. Technicians fixed the problem and NASA managers decided later in the day to proceed with final preparations for another attempt.

But Air Force meteorologists predicted a 60 percent chance of unacceptable weather conditions at launch time — mainly because of brisk winds in the area. The chances for unacceptable launch weather increase to 80 percent for Tuesday and Wednesday.

The four launch delays are a record for the post-Challenger period. The first delay came when Creighton became ill, weather was a factor in the next two delays and the third postponement was caused by the faulty computer.

The goal of the 34th shuttle mission is classified top secret, but the astronauts reportedly plan to deploy a $500 million photo-reconnaissance satellite into an orbit carrying it over more than 80 percent of the Soviet Union.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Greek system working toward integration

By KEVIN COTTON
and JANET THOMAS
Alligator Writers

Three years ago, Shawn came to UF with hopes of getting an education and enjoying the social atmosphere.

As a freshman with a small number of friends, Shawn decided that the best way to meet people was through the Greek system. So he decided to rush at the houses on Fraternity Row.

When the rushing and bidding was over, Shawn had been chosen as a pledge for Alpha Epsilon Pi. However, Shawn did not meet traditional standards for a pledge. He was a black student rushing a white fraternity. Soon afterward, Shawn found out why only a few blacks rush white fraternities.

After participating as an active AEPi brother for two years, Shawn distanced himself from the fraternity because of an absence of understanding from his fraternity brothers.

"One of the biggest problems is the lack of sensitivity due to the lack of knowledge of another persons' background," Shawn said. "They made jokes that were meant for laughs. But they also made jokes that were meant to alienate me from the other brothers."

Shawn, who asked that his real name not be used, grew disenchanted with the organization once he realized it wasn't helping his education.

"It had no relativity on my situation here at the university and Gainesville," he said. "I saw no need for the fraternity."

"When I first got here, I didn't know anything of Kappa Alpha Psi or the other black fraternities. When I got here, all I heard about was rush, so I decided to see what it was like. It's not like I went looking for a white fraternity."

In fall 1988, Travis Ross, a sophomore, decided to participate in rush after meeting another black student who had decided to join a fraternity. In becoming a member of Phi Kappa Tau, Ross felt he didn't suffer any prejudice from his friends or new fraternity brothers.

"I don't think I would have pledged if I thought there would be any negative feedback from friends," Ross said.

Ross said because the fraternity had other minority members it helped ease his transition. Phi Kappa Tau currently has three black fraternity brothers.

"I guess this is where I felt comfortable. There are other minority brothers, and that helped," he said.

But Greek integration is not occurring just in fraternities. Sororities, both black and white, and "little sister" organizations are becoming less aware of skin color and more conscious of the person when choosing their members.

Tracey Waite, a white sophomore, said she joined the traditionally black sorority, Zeta Phi Beta, because she liked what the organization stood for. And UF junior Carolyn Perry became one of a few white KAPsi sweethearts because it was simply something she wanted to do.

"Becoming a Kappa Sweet wasn't planned. I didn't do it for a particular reason. I just did it," Perry said.

Two black women, Margot Roper and Michelle Rosemond, are now sisters of the predominantly white sororities, Alpha Omicron Pi and Phi Sigma Sigma, respectively.

While there has been some change, most Greek organizations still remain either predominantly black or white. The four traditionally black fraternities at UF, Kappa Alpha Psi, Alpha Phi Alpha, Omega Psi Phi and Phi Beta Sigma, are still all black.

KAPsi President Ernest Humphries said that although UF's chapter is all black, he is sure there are some white members nationally. Humphries said although he is not prejudiced, he is leery of those who join a fraternity of different racial origins.

"I am not in favor of it," Humphries said. "Not that I am prejudiced, but I would not want someone to put themselves in a position to be ostracized."

Humphries said the different cultural backgrounds also may put a strain on intra-fraternal relations.

"It can become a problem because they don't know where we come from, and we don't know where they come from," he said. "It puts you in somewhat of a funny position."

Professor Jack Faricy, faculty adviser for Kappa Sigma, said although Greek organizations on campus are either solely black or white, none can choose its members based on race.

"The university has policies of non-discrimination concerning the Greek system," Faricy said. "The small number of blacks in white fraternities is mainly because only 5 percent of the campus is black and when they do pledge it's with a traditionally black fraternity."

While UF's Greeks remain as separate as other parts of our society, Interfraternity Council president Tom Scantilli, says the council is taking measures to better relations with the Black Greek Council.

Scantilli said with the addition of Kappa Alpha Psi member Derrick Lyons on the executive board, relations are improving between the two councils.

"Everything we do, we want them to be a part of," Scantilli said. "The more we are aware of them the better we can work together."

Historical Profile

Langston Hughes (1902-1967) belongs in the ranks of the major American writers of the 20th century.

Hughes, sometimes referred to as "Poet Laureate of Harlem," was one of the better known authors of the Harlem Renaissance during the 1920s and 30s. He was also an accomplished song lyricist, librettist and newspaper columnist. Through newspaper columns, he created Jesse B. Simple, a Harlem character who saw life on the musical stage in Simply Heavenly.

Throughout the 1960s, Hughes edited several anthologies in an attempt to popularize black authors and their work including An African Treasury (1960).

Some of his popular works include Weary Blues (1926), Shakespeare in Harlem (1942) and his autobiography, The Big Sea.

Born in Joplin, Missouri, Hughes graduated from Lincoln University in 1928. Before becoming a writer, he was a literal "jack of all trades", working as a seaman, waiter, garden worker and laundry sorter. Prior to graduation, Hughes worked as a busboy in a Washington, D.C. hotel when Vachel Lindsay, a famous poet, stopped there as a guest. Hughes put copies of three of his poems beside the poet's plate in the dining room and returned to the kitchen.

Later, his first two books were published, launching a career in letters that was to sustain him for the rest of his life.

Campus Profile: Charles Harris Jr.

By GENTRY BENJAMIN
Alligator Writer

Charles Harris Jr. has been assisting minority journalism students at UF since January 1987 — and so far, it's looking pretty good.

Experienced in recruiting, Harris has spent 10 years in the minority recruitment and affairs field. He worked for both the University of North Florida and University of South Florida as coordinator of minority recruitment before coming to UF.

Harris, who graduated from UF in 1978, is director of the Minority Scholarship Program, where he specializes in three major areas.

The first is the recruitment of black students into the College of Journalism and Communications. The second is the retention of students, and the third is job placement.

Students are assisted with placement into internships while in school and jobs after graduation. The scholarship center also offers scholarships.

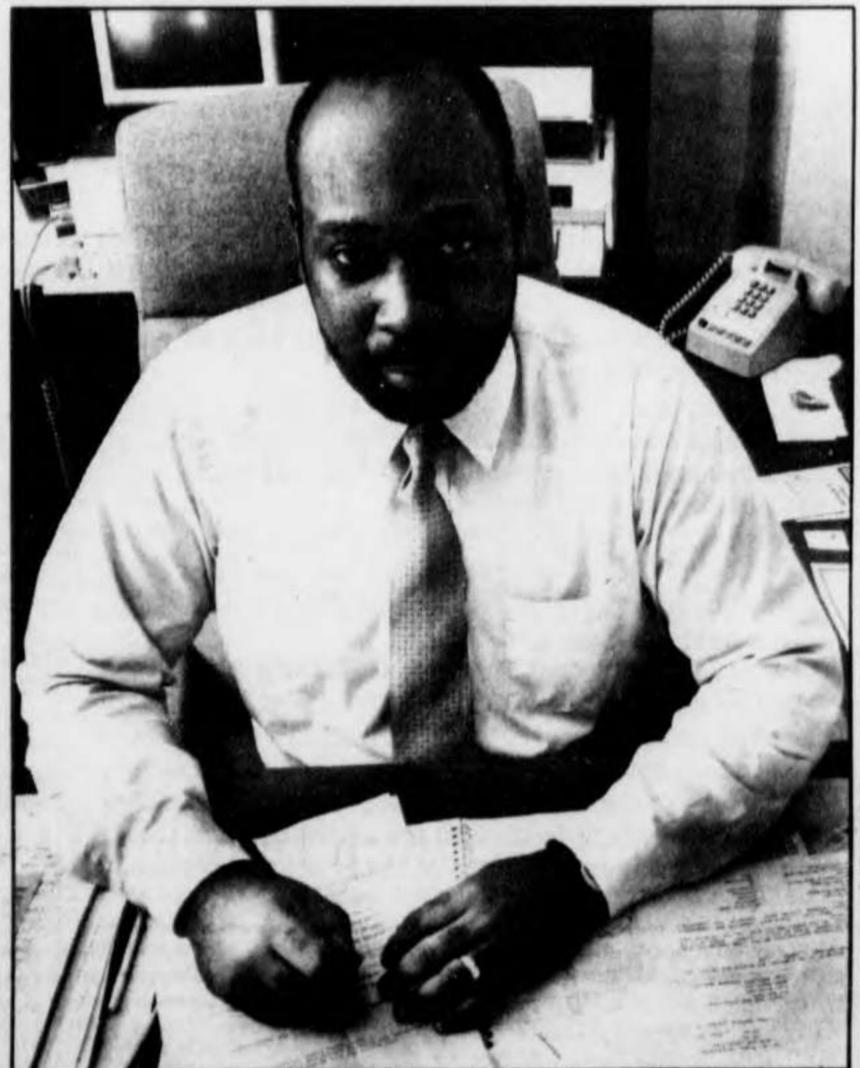

But Harris and the Minority Scholarship Office are responsible for more than just scholarships. Along with academic advisement and personal counseling, Harris also advises the Association of Black Communicators, a support organization for minority communications students.

With the support from faculty and students, Harris said he feels few improvements need to be made. Harris said he would also like to see the program open to all minority students.

"The integration aspect is very important," he said. "Black students should become involved with other professional organizations within the college, such as SPJ (Society of Professional Journalists)."

Every day, Harris helps shape the professional and academic careers of students entering the journalism college. His advice to the young people of UF is a reflection of his own philosophy on education.

"Minorities in the U.S. need to reach a level of acceptance and tolerance," he said. "I think it is unfortunate that students, black and white, do not understand or comprehend history. Because if young students try to get a full understanding of what happened in the past, there would not be a need for wsu (white student union) or BSU (Black Student Union)."

REGGIE GRANT—ALLIGATOR

Charles Harris Jr., director of the Minority Scholarship Program for the College of Journalism and Communications, recruits minority journalism students, helps them obtain scholarships and assists them in finding jobs.

OPINIONS

They've gone too far

Well, now the whole world knows where seven-year-old Hilary Foretich is. She's living with her maternal grandparents in New Zealand.

Hilary is the daughter of Jean Elizabeth Morgan, 42 — the Washington plastic surgeon who spent more than two years in jail after refusing to let her husband have visitation rights with Hilary. Morgan charged that her husband Eric Foretich had sexually abused the child but couldn't prove it in court and was told to let Eric see his daughter. She refused, sent her daughter away, was found in contempt of court and sent to jail.

Some time last week, Eric went to Great Britain with his investigators, looking for Hilary. His attorneys obtained a court order and got testimony from a British talk-show producer who had learned that Hilary had attended a prep school in England and was living with her grandparents in New Zealand. Records from there were very easy to check and Eric found his daughter late last week.

Some may argue that it was good for the father to find his daughter. Others would be hesitant because of the sexual abuse charges, though they are unsubstantiated.

We say the British journalist shouldn't have been involved. The family trusted the journalist and now their secret is out, for good or bad. Journalists should never be forced to testify. Ever.

One last word

We know everyone is sick of hearing about Student Government and its elections but there is one more thing that we think you should know. His name is Pat Siracusa.

Siracusa has been in SG for about two years. He was Student Senate's parliamentarian then got elected as a senator. Now, he's just hanging around.

You'll probably see Siracusa's name in the paper but know right now that he holds no elected or appointed office in SG — neither in Student Body President Ed Scales' administration or in President-elect Michael Browne's administration.

In similar responses at different times, (hmmmm) both Scales and Browne said Siracusa is a good campaign manager and loves political debate but wasn't and won't be involved in policy-making.

Browne said that even though he is practically best friends with Siracusa, he didn't want the man associated with his campaign last month because "he's a thug" and people hate him.

About 10 days before election day, Browne officially asked Siracusa for help because of the talent he has with elections, but has assured us that Siracusa's days of SG involvement are numbered.

"He doesn't speak for me — ever," Browne said. "He won't have anything to do with my administration. You're not going to see much of Pat Siracusa anymore, I can guarantee it."

Letters Policy

Letters to the editor should not exceed 200 words (about one 8-by-10 page). They should be typed, double-spaced and signed. They should include a typed name, address and telephone number. Names will be withheld if the writer shows just cause. If you have any questions call the editorial page editor at 376-4458.

Emotional column had mistakes

Regarding Mr. Dupont's Feb. 16 opinion in The Alligator.

Error #1: The Today party, not the chairman of the Election Commission filed a complaint against the Vision candidate who was quoted in The Alligator.

Error #2: UF Student Body statute 720.7 prohibits intentional comments designed to injure another candidate. But 720.71 does provide truth as a defense.

The Honor Court chancellor, myself, expected the reporter to get on the stand and testify. If she felt she had a privilege, then show up and claim it and the Election Commission will take it from there.

Even attorneys who have a legally recognized privilege, as opposed to reporters, have to show up in court to testify. But don't expect not to be subpoenaed just because you feel you should have a privilege.

Privileges are earned, they are not a right — as you see it. Until the present there is no legally recognized reporter privilege. As chancellor I am bound to apply the law as it is, not as I would like it to be.

This case did not involve a confidential informant. The case involved a quote. The commission knew who said it because the candidate's name appeared directly after the quotation marks.

The candidate denied making the statement. All the reporter had to do was to state "for the record" that she stood behind her story — that's it! You'd better believe if someone called me a liar I would defend myself.

Error #3: The Honor court has no jurisdiction over professors, only students and their effects.

Error #4: This is the big one. You did not "confront me" about the matter, you asked me for information about the 720 codes under the pretense of writing an informative article.

That is a journalist's job — to inform. Instead, overcome by emotion you wrote a personal attack filled with factual inaccuracies.

◆ Cris Martinez

Anyone with legal training will tell you that the proper forum for interpretation of the U.S. Constitution is a federal court. The Board of Masters can only interpret the UF Student Body Constitution and statutes. The Board may apply settled federal law, but we are not so presumptuous as to take on the role of the United States Supreme Court. Although I do not expect you to know that, I do expect you to research your articles for some factual basis.

From a correct statement, "Who are we to interpret the U.S. Constitution," you sink to a personal attack.

Who elected me? Well, 4,220 students did last year. I was also endorsed by The Alligator. Personally attacking an official on an incorrect premise is weak and fit for a supermarket tabloid.

The chancellor is the judicial officer of Student Government and as such has subpoena power granted under UF Student Body Constitution, Article IV, Section 6(G). The power is there, the only thing you can do is vote for a person who will use it wisely.

As a judicial officer, I am bound by the law as it is — no reporter privilege — not as you would like it to be. The legislature, not the judiciary, is the proper forum to change a law that you do not agree with, that's what separation of powers is all about.

Contrary to Mr. Dupont's statement, it is factually inaccurate articles distorted by emotion, not subpoenas, that weaken the bond between a newspaper and its readers.

Cris Martinez is the former chancellor of the Student Honor Court.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Group forms to share cultures

Editor: The racial tension on this campus is quite suffocating. We should all realize that we are here to receive the education that will aid in our future careers. We are also here to learn how to deal with people of various cultures, religions and races.

Upon leaving UF, the various cultures we will have to face will grow tremendously. Those persons filled with prejudice of any sort will have to meet with this dilemma sooner or later and the results will probably be negative.

Why not face it now and attempt to release one's self from this unnecessary frustration?

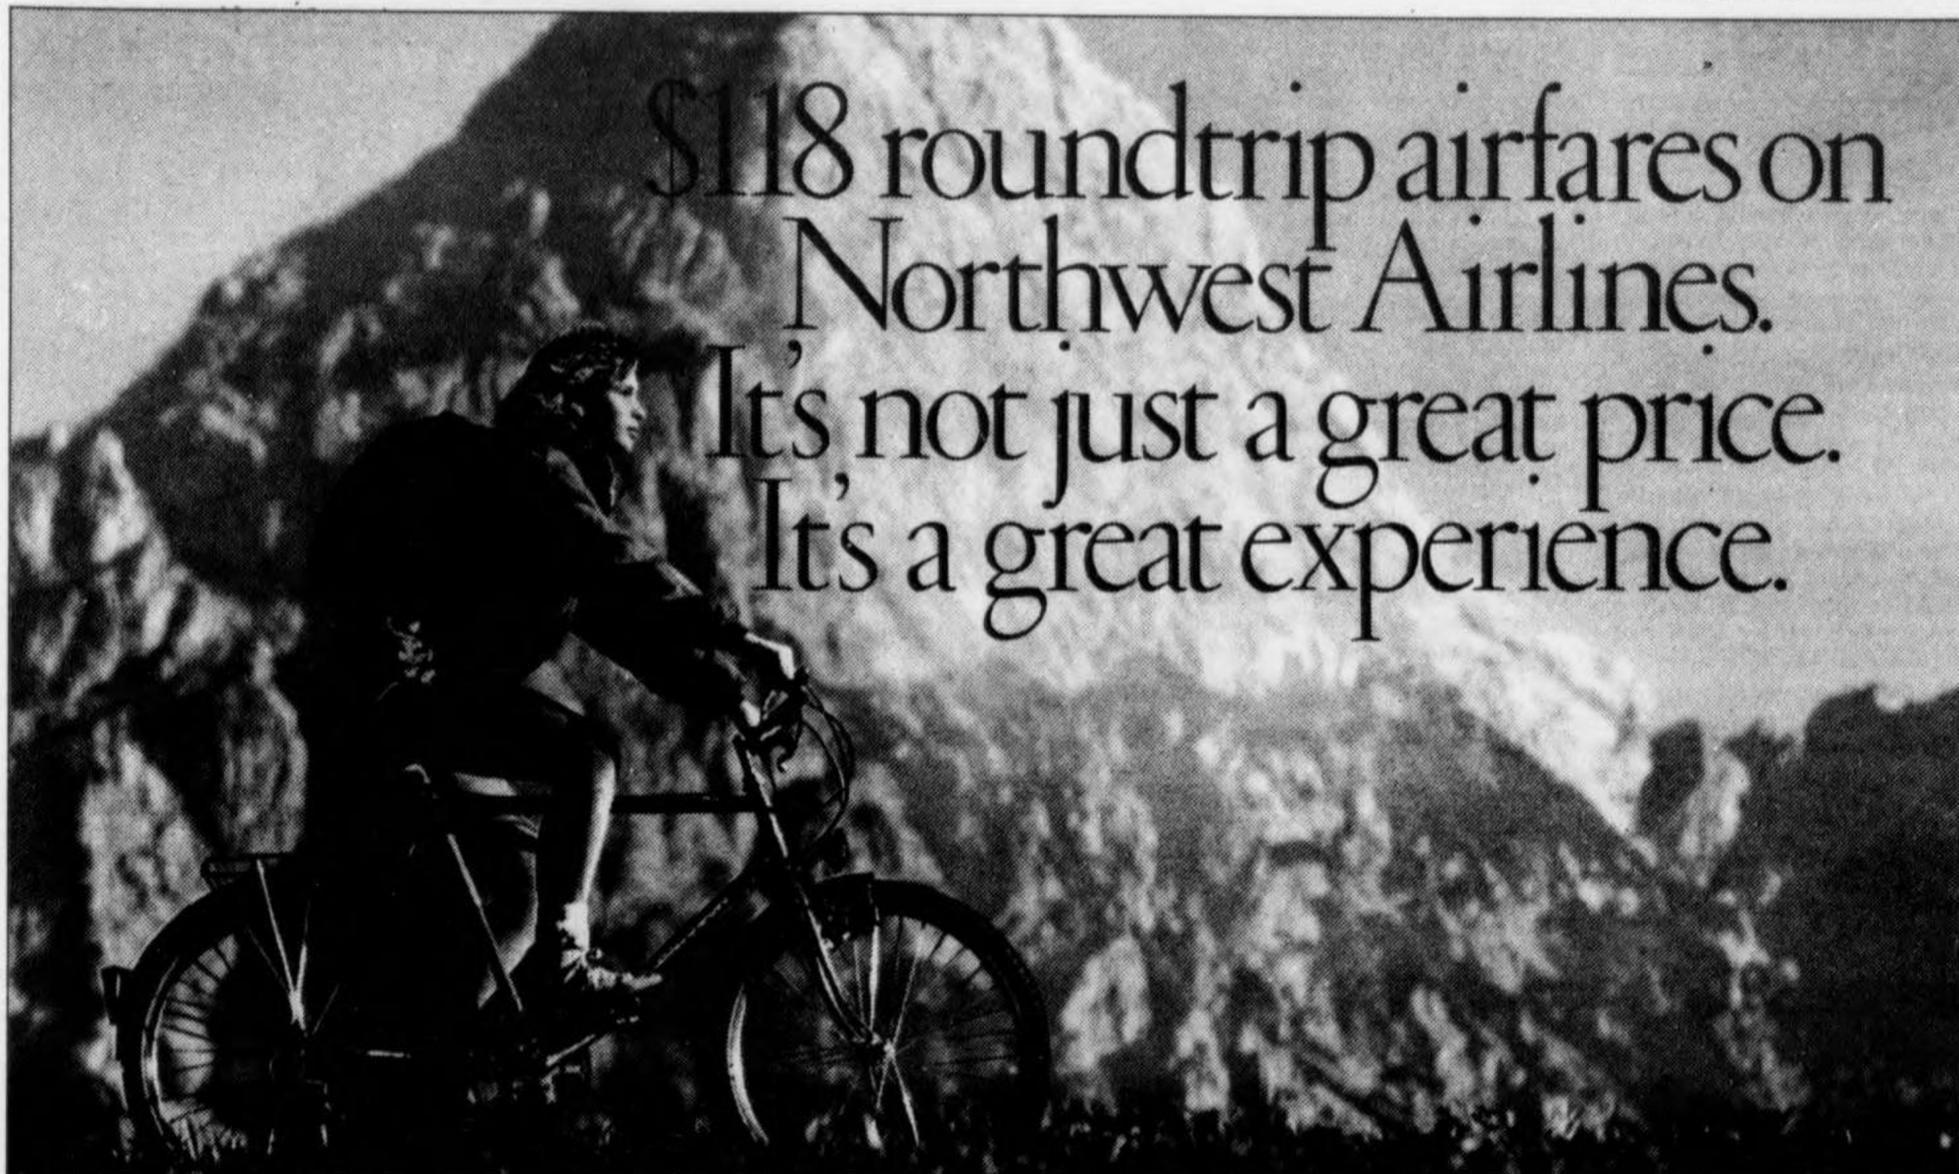

Roxy Oliver, the president of the Black Student Union, created some sort of hope for me as a young black woman.

Now, 10 students, myself being one of them, have come together and created Friends through Racial Experiences Sharing in Humanity. FRESH is not trying to change the world. We are simply creating a release along with some hope for the vast number of students who are as suffocated as I am.

I urge all interested parties to come listen to what we have to say. The initial meeting will be held Monday Feb. 26, at 8 p.m., in room B-65 of the J. Wayne Reitz Union.

confidentiality, consideration and understanding Student Health Services procedure.

Computer Science senior Kevin Lahey said he found it difficult to understand Student Health Services procedure because he felt as if he was being "handed off" by many staff members each time he had visited.

"I've been here three or four times and it's hard for me to keep track of where I'm going," Lahey said.

First-time Infirmary patient Yvette Canup said she was satisfied with the length of waiting to see someone but was frustrated that she couldn't schedule an appointment sooner than three weeks in advance.

Although survey author Hillary Lane said the Infirmary didn't score lower than a "C", they are planning on improving those services that received an average score.

The group is planning to meet with Infirmary Director Boyd Kellett Friday to decide which problems to look into further and how to improve Infirmary procedure.

"The survey tells us where our problems lie," Lane said. "Now the Infirmary and SHOT will follow up on problem areas."

Lane said students who gave the Infirmary high grades in campus impression were the ones who used the Infirmary more often. Thirty-five percent of the respondents said their personal impression of services was better than the general campus impression.

Thursday night SHOT members gathered to brainstorm possible improvements where the Infirmary scored average. But as in all brainstorming sessions, Lane said, the group will have to weed out implausible solutions before turning them in to administrators.

"Some of the things the Infirmary doesn't have the funds for, or the manpower," Lane said.

third on a single by Tim Vannatta and scored on a single by Mario Linares.

But then the Gators left two runners on base in the second, seventh and eighth innings, and were unable to score with one out and the bases loaded in the fourth.

Burke, who walked two batters Saturday in relief during the Gators' 5-4 victory over the Hurricanes, committed the same type of error against FIU (11-5) after storming through the first seven innings. He walked lead-off batter Thomas Lane, who then advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Michael Warner.

Burke then walked Fausto Tejero. With the count 1-2 on Roger Bowman, Lane advanced to third on a passed ball. Two pitches later, Bowman tripled.

The Gators were more successful against fourth-ranked Miami (11-2). While winning the first game of the series, the Gators had 13 hits, and Cord Corbitt improved to 2-0 in 7 2/3 innings of duty.

UF lost the nightcap 12-10. Jim Bell and Ricky Britton each homered, the first in eight games for the Gators.

■ Moberg injured — again. UF outfielder Mike Moberg, who was 7-for-10 in the Miami series with four runs batted in, suffered a slight hamstring pull Sunday in the fifth inning while running to first base. Arnold said Moberg, who sprained his ankle earlier this season and missed almost all of last year with injuries, is questionable for Tuesday's home game.

New football coach Steve Spurrier will get his first look at the Gators at work today as spring football practice begins.

Today's practice also will mark the return of four players, including quarterback Kyle Morris, who were suspended from the team for gambling. The NCAA reinstated the foursome last week.

Lady Gators win SEC indoor title

By JOSEPH TODD
Alligator Writer

The UF women's track team celebrated Coach Beverly Kearney's 32nd birthday Sunday with their first Southeastern Conference Indoor Championship in the 34-year history of the meet.

The Lady Gators overcame a 20-point deficit after Saturday's competition to beat three-time defending champion Louisiana State 117-99 in the O'Connell Center. Tennessee finished third with 83 points.

UF's men finished third in the meet.

Sophomore Anita Howard was clearly the show for the Lady Gators as she accumulated 20 points. Howard took first in the 55 meters in 6.72 seconds for 10 points, finished second in the 200 in 23.51 for eight points and anchored the second place 4x400 relay, which finished in 3:39.41 for eight points.

"Coach Kearney really motivated us to come back after Saturday's competition," Howard said. "(Kearney) is really a mother figure to us. It was understood that we'd win this for her birthday."

Kearney also received another birthday present, this one from her peers — SEC coach of the year honors.

The Lady Gators track program was not the only one to celebrate a victory after a long wait. Sophomore Tasha Downing, who set her personal record of 53.59 seconds in the 400 five years ago as a sophomore at Boston Technical High School, finally broke it with a third-place and NCAA-qualifying time of 53.43.

Downing's and Howard's record performances made the comeback possible, but it was freshman Leah Kirklín's victory in the triple jump (41 feet, 5 inches) that set the tone for Sunday's comeback effort.

UF sophomore Maria Galloni leaped a personal-best 6 feet, 3/4 inch to win the high jump.

Meanwhile, the men had a very successful meet even though they finished third to LSU and Tennessee.

"We had some outstanding performances," Coach John Webb said. "We got Mark Everett, Earl Diamond and the mile-relay qualified for nationals. We have to be realistic with the team championship. We have eight freshmen, and some of them aren't ready to compete against LSU's quality and depth."

Everett used a fast opening lap in the 800 and then a kick with 200 meters remaining that pulled him away from the field, setting a collegiate record of 1:46.28.

KEVIN WISNIEWSKI — ALLIGATOR

UF's Anita Howard competes against Alabama's Diane Dunrod in the women's 4-by-400 relay Sunday at the SEC Indoor Championships.

Freshman Scott Peters stayed close enough to Everett to finish third in 1:49.99.

Sophomore Tyrone Kemp's first-place time of 45.78 in the 400 continued his assault on 1988 Olympian Antonio McKay's records. Kemp stopped McKay's 17-match win streak at the Millrose Games earlier this month. Sunday, Kemp's time bettered McKay's collegiate record of 45.79, which was set in 1984 while McKay competed for Georgia Tech in the O'Connell Center.

Diamond, who in the 55 hurdles came off the blocks in fourth place, pulled away after the third hurdle to easily win in 7.23. The mile relay team of Everett, Diamond, Lewis Lacy and Kemp set a meet record of 3:08.46.

UF men, women win conference swim titles

By SHARON GINN
Alligator Writer

The UF men's swim team pulled off its biggest upset of the season this weekend, defeating third-ranked Tennessee to win the 1990 Southeastern Conference championship at the Alabama Aquatic Center in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Gators swimmer Martin Zubero, a five-time All-American, played a large part in the victory. The junior set one U.S. open record and three SEC meet records, won three individual events and swam on two winning relays.

Lady Gator Whitney Hedgepeth led the third-ranked UF women to their fifth consecutive SEC title. Hedgepeth, a freshman who has proven herself to be a strong and versatile swimmer, won three individual events and swam legs on four winning relays.

Hedgepeth and Zubero were named the SEC Outstanding Performers of the meet, while Gators coach Randy Reese was named the SEC men's and women's coach of the year.

Tennessee, the 1989 SEC champion, was heavily favored to beat 11th-ranked UF in the meet, which ran Wednesday through Saturday. But Reese, knowing the Gators needed their fastest times of the year to win, had his men rest for two weeks to bring their times down.

Apparently, the technique worked. The Gators outscored the Vols 820-754, with Alabama scoring 626.5 to take third in the meet.

The Lady Gators scored 897 points to the Lady Vols' 722. Alabama also placed third in the women's meet with 446 points.

It was the fifth time the Gators have captured both men's and women's titles in the same SEC tournament, the last time being in 1986. No other university has ever garnered two team wins at the SECs.

Zubero turned in a time of 1 minute, 43.40 seconds in the preliminaries of the 200-yard backstroke event to break the U.S. open record — which translates into the fastest time ever in the United States in that event — by nearly three seconds. He went on to win that event with a time of 1:43.88.

Zubero also won the 100 backstroke and the 200 individual medley events, setting SEC meet records in each. He contributed to victories by the 200 medley relay team, which also set a new U.S. open record, and the 400 medley relay team.

Sophomore Anthony Nesty, a gold medalist in the 1988 Olympics, beat out Tennessee's Melvin Stewart in the 200 butterfly, setting an SEC meet record of 1:43.86. Stewart was ranked first in the world in that event last year. Nesty also set an SEC meet record in the 100 fly, winning the event with a time of 47.06.

Hedgepeth swam a 4:43.05 to set an SEC meet record in the 500 free. She also won the 100 fly and 100 free individual events.

Men's golf team cruises to win at Doral

The second-ranked UF men's golf team cruised to an easy victory this weekend at the Doral Park Invitational in Miami, winning the tournament by 30 strokes over second-place Louisiana State. The No. 2 Gators scored a 2-over par 866 in the three-day event.

AROUND SPORTS

Senior Chris DiMarco took individual honors with a six-under-par 210, tying the tournament record. Senior Dudley Hart, who led after two rounds, finished third at 212.

DiMarco's final round of 68 was barely good enough to beat LSU's Rett Crowder, who shot a 65 Sunday to finish one stroke off the lead.

Men's netters improve to 6-0

Playing No. 1 singles for the first time, UF freshman Bruce Haddad won his sixth consecutive dual singles match Sunday as the UF men's tennis team capped off a successful weekend by beating Southwestern Louisiana 8-1 at the Varsity Courts.

The Gators, 6-0, also defeated Florida International Saturday and Illinois Friday by 8-1 scores.

To extend his streak, Haddad beat 29th-ranked Curtis Hollinger, 7-6, 7-6. He recovered from deficits in the first and second sets to force the tiebreakers, which he won 7-5 both times.

UF's only loss was at No. 4 singles, where Jim Spencer fell for the first time this spring, 7-6, 6-3, to Chris Weekes.

In the weekend of tennis, David Blair showed signs of regaining the form he had in the fall, and the Gators showed their depth.

After losing in straight sets on Friday, Blair was down 3-6, 3-5, 15-40 to FIU's Marcos Perez Saturday before rallying to win the match. He followed that performance with an easy win Sunday over Jim Williams 6-1, 6-2.

Warren Brooks, Doug Proudian and Sam Ridlon played for the first time this year, NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The 1989-90 edition of the UF basketball team officially will go into the record books for futility.

UF tied a school mark for consecutive losses Saturday with its 14th straight defeat of the season — a 67-54 Southeastern Conference loss to Vanderbilt at the Memorial Coliseum. The streak matches the record set by UF's 1981-82 team, which finished 5-22.

By winning, the Commodores broke a losing streak of their own. After losing seven games in a row, Vanderbilt finally found a team it could beat.

"It was too much of a familiar tune for us coming up on the short end," said UF interim coach Don DeVoe, whose team fell to 6-19 overall and 2-14 in the SEC. "But I thought the Florida team did a commendable job adhering to the game plan. We controlled the game tempo about as well as we could expect."

Steve Grant scored 17 points to lead Vandy.

Vanderbilt (13-12, 6-10) held UF to only eight points in the first 14 minutes of the second half and went ahead 52-40 after a fast break dunk by Morgan Wheat and two free throws by Eric Reid.

UF cut the deficit to 59-54 on Scott Stewart's 15-footer with 1:55 to play. But Grant, Kevin Anglin and Reid then each hit two free throws to preserve the victory.

Vanderbilt coach Eddie Fogler put Grant into the starting lineup for the first time this season in an attempt to spark his team. The 6-foot-7 junior responded by scoring the most points of his career, shooting 5-for-5 from the field and "I thought Grant was really good inside," Fogler said. "I thought it was a pretty gutsy defensive effort. Florida hit some shots early and then they played their deliberate style."

Reid finished with 14 points, Wheat had 12 and Derrick Wilcox had 11 for Vanderbilt. For UF, Stewart had 13, Dwayne Davis had 12 and Renaldo Garcia and Stacey Poole scored 10 each.

UF maintained a five-point advantage for much of the first half but needed two free throws by Garcia with five seconds left to hold a 32-31 edge at halftime.

Baseball team loses two of three

By ALEX MARVEZ

MIAMI — Even after splitting a grueling two-game series Saturday against Miami, the UF baseball team wasn't flat through most of Sunday's 3-1 loss against Florida International at University Park.

Only when it was time for the Gators to make a key play did they have as much fizz as a can of soda accidentally left open for three days.

While the Gators churned out nine hits, they left nine runners on base. Freshman John Burke (2-2) gave up only two hits and struck out seven batters in eight innings, but he allowed a two-run triple in the eighth that decided the game.

"I knew we were going to have a problem (Sunday) with intensity," UF coach Joe Arnold said. "We got nine hits and just could not get a key hit, could not drive in a key run."

UF, 7-5 and ranked 15th in the nation in the Collegiate Baseball/ESPN poll, started well by scoring in the second inning. Herbert Perry reached second base on an error by FIU shortstop Juan Barquin, moved to

Lady Gators close with loss to Vandy

By GREGG DOYEL

Back in November, the UF women's basketball team lost its 1989-90 opener to UNLV by 23 points. Sunday, one coach and three players later, the Lady Gators lost their regular-season finale to Vanderbilt by 22, 82-60.

Despite the loss of head coach Carol Whitmire and injured players Donna Davis, Kellye Cargile and Jennifer Montgomery, UF heads into the March 2 Southeastern Conference Tournament with its best regular-season record in six years, 14-12.

Juniors Rhvonja Smith and Sophia Witherspoon paced the Lady Gators offensively. Smith had 19 points, while Witherspoon chipped in 15 and added 12 rebounds.

UF shot just 25.3 percent from the field, compared to Vanderbilt's 54 percent.

Vanderbilt center Wendy Scholtens, the nation's 10th leading scorer, poured in 26 points and grabbed 17 rebounds for the Lady Commodores, 21-9. Forward Misty Lamb added 17 points of her own.
