Honor Poker Runs slated June 21

Honor motorcycle and boat Poker Runs on behalf of Deputy Robert Lundy will be held Saturday, June 21.

Both runs will end at Sea Hag Marina in Steinhatchee for lunch and live music.

Cash prizes ($250) will be awarded for each run.

Registration for the motorcycle run will held at the Taylor County Courthouse from 12:30-1:15 p.m. The ride will begin at 1:30 p.m. The cost is $20 per bike and $5 for each additional hand or rider.

Boaters will be able to register at Keaton Beach Marina from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. The cost is $20 per boat and $5 each additional hand.

For more information, please contact Wendy Cruce at 838-5190.

Hungry for mullet?

AMVET Riders Chapter 20 will be selling fried mullet dinners today (Friday) from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Dinners (which include fried mullet, two sides and a drink) can be picked up at the clubhouse located at 1410 Jefferson Street. The cost will be $8 per plate.

Delivery is available for orders of five or more.

School board changes meeting date, schedules workshop

The District School Board of Taylor County has changed its next meeting date from Tuesday, June 17, to Tuesday, June 24.

The meeting will be held at the Alton H. Wentworth Administrative Complex, located at 318 North Clark St. The meeting time will be 6 p.m.

There will also be a workshop session at 5:30 p.m. The workshop topic will consider the need for relocation of K-2 classes.

Three authors to visit library

Three award-winning Tallahassee authors will visit the Taylor County Public Library Monday, June 30, at 5:15 p.m.

The event, hosted by the Friends of the Taylor County Public Library, will feature Rhett DeVane, author of humorous adult fiction and the middle-grade fantasy book "Elsbeth and Sim"; middle grade and young adult author M.R. Street; and Susan Womble, author of the "Newt's World" series.

The winners of the 2014 Friends' Short Story Contest will also be awarded at the event, which is free and open to the public.

The library is located at 403 N. Washington St.

Register for kindergarten

Perry Primary School has announced registration dates for incoming kindergarteners.

Parents/guardians will be able to register students each Tuesday and Thursday in June and July, from 8:30-11 a.m.

Required documentation includes: current physical and immunization records, proof of birth and Social Security card (for child).

For additional information, please call the school at 838-3506.

Commission finalizes incentive package for $220 million plant

The Taylor County Commission has approved a modified set of incentives geared toward drawing as much as $220 million in capital investment to the county in the form of Project Freedom, the code-name for a West Palm Beach company, BioNitrogen Corp.

In early May, the Taylor County Commission unanimously approved ad valorem property tax abatements for the company--should it choose to site here--totaling 95 percent of the increased property values resulting from the company's capital investments for a period of 10 years. (Taylor County voters authorized the commission to offer tax abatement incentives in 2008.) At the time, the commission's approval was contingent on the city council and Taylor County School Board providing their own incentive packages.

A week later, the city council unanimously approved its own incentive package, which included utility concessions, infrastructure construction and a short-term line of credit.

Originally, the county commission was seeking an interlocal agreement between itself and the Taylor County School Board under which the school district would contribute 25 percent of its increased tax revenue from the project to the county. (School districts do not have a mechanism to abate property taxes.)

According to Taylor County Development Authority Director Scott Frederick, subsequent talks with the district and the Florida Department of Education revealed that while the district would be in line to see around $700,000 in

Talk of the town

At passing glance, there would appear to be a new storefront in downtown Perry. However, a closer look reveals the "storefront" to be nothing more than a facade painted on a tarp covering the front of a dilapidated building on Green Street. The City of Perry's intent in installing the facade was twofold, City Manager Bob Brown said. "First, it abates the issue the owner has regarding non-compliance with the city's downtown appearance ordinance and, more importantly, it acts as a safeguard for any falling glass due to the fact that the framework for the front windows is not in good condition." The building was declared unsafe several years ago and fines continue to accrue against the property. The cost of the facade--which is fastened to a wood frame nailed to the adjoining buildings (with the property owners' permission)--was charged to the property owner. City officials said there have been on-going issues with the property owner's response to repeated code enforcement violation citations.

Council split on Holton request

Two members of the Perry City Council were willing to give city council candidate Tonya Holton a discounted rate on a $400-plus bill generated by a voluminous public records request made by her in April.

At Tuesday night's regular council meeting, Holton said she felt the bill was "an excessive amount to charge for public records" and asked if any other individuals had been billed with like charges.

Finance Director Penny Staffney, whose office handled the request, stated Florida statute "allows cities to charge an hourly rate, plus benefits" for records request, in addition to copying fees.

"It's the law. We had two employees who lost one

Summer school for teachers

TCHS' Piland selected for science summit

Patricia Joe (P.J.) Piland, a ninth and 10th grade science teacher at Taylor County High School (TCHS), has been selected by Georgia-Pacific to attend Keystone Science School's 2014 Key Issues Institute: Bringing Environmental Issues to the Classroom, set for June 24-29, in Silverthorne, Colo.

Held every June and July, the Key Issues program brings together middle-level educators from around the world for "a highly interactive four and a half-day workshop."

The program is designed to help teachers of all subjects build students' critical thinking skills. At the same time, its goal is to reinforce teachers' confidence and skills in bringing environmental issues and STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) based principles into the classroom.

"Teachers learn to present scientific concepts in an unbiased way to their students while discovering ways to make environmental issues and STEM fun and interesting," Keystone suggests.

Piland is one of 10 teachers sponsored to attend from Georgia-Pacific's facility communities in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Texas and Wisconsin.

"Georgia-Pacific and the Foley Cellulose Mill are proud to support teachers by helping them bring important environmental issues to life for their students," said Public Affairs Manager Scott Mixon.

"One of the most valuable benefits of the Keystone Science School program is that the teachers bring back the skills they've learned and teach these valuable lessons in our communities year after year."

At Key Issues, teachers work in teams to solve "real-life" scenarios such as investigating the source of a town's health epidemic, testing water quality of a nearby river and building a sustainable cable-car model. Teachers bring home lesson plans and lab kits to apply what they've learned to their local classrooms. The institute also coordinates ongoing support from other educators and instructors online.

Remember when...

1+1=4

By ANTHONY L. WHITE
anthonylamarwhite@yahoo.com

I thought I did the math.

I graduated in 1982.

It's 2014.

That means I graduated 34 years ago. Or, so I wrote in my column last week

"If you graduated in 1982, then you've been out of school 32 years," a reader called me and said.

"I know how long I've been out of high school," I replied, a bit puzzled as to why she was telling me this.

"Well, that's not what you wrote in your column," she explained. "You wrote that you had been out of school 34 years."

"No, I didn't."

"Yes, you did," she countered.

After hanging up the phone, I opened the News-Herald and there it was in black and white: "That is how we felt 34 years ago when it was our turn to walk across the stage as graduates of Taylor County High School's Class of 1982."

I couldn't believe my eyes. She was right. My math didn't check out.

"You know something, Anthony," another reader said, after stopping me the next day. "You're a good writer, but you're also the only person I know who can add one and one and come up with four."

Her assessment of my mathematical skills got me to thinking.

I used to be good at math.

In high school, I made a 31 out of 36 on the math portion of the ACT test.

I spent my first four years at the University of Florida studying industrial engineering, which meant I had to complete three courses of calculus, a course in differential equations, and a few more high-level math courses. I won't claim that they were easy, but I passed them all.

So, I don't know what happened.

"I'll tell you what happened," another more sympathetic reader tried to explain. "If you don't use it, you lose it."

Since I agreed somewhat with this particular reader, I posed the question, "Why do computer programs have spell check and not math check?"

He responded with a look that suggested he was thinking, "Duh? They're called calculators."

So, I elaborated. "I'm not talking about using a calculator to recheck my math. I'm talking about a math check program installed directly into the writing software."

If there had been a math check in the Microsoft Word program I use to write my columns and everything else, I would not have needed a separate calculator to make sure that 2014 minus 1982 was still and will always be 32. When I mistakenly typed 34, a squiggly red line would have appeared under the 34, letting me know that my computation was wrong. But since there was no math check or no squiggly red line under the 34, I kept writing.

When I finished last week's column, I read over it a couple of times to make sure there were no comma splices, dangling modifiers, run-on sentences, misspelled words, or awkward sentence structure. That's what good writers do.

From now on, however, I'll try my best to be more than just a good writer. I'm going to be a good math checker too.

You can count on it.

Morris to be reunion speaker

Descendants of Jim & Lou Hendry will gather June 22 in Lake Bird

By DONNA O'STEEN-MIXON

The family of the Rev. Jim and Lou Hendry will reunite for the 94th consecutive year Sunday, June 22, at Lake Bird Methodist Church starting at 11 a.m.

Jim and Lou were the parents of 14 children: Bethel, Leilah, Bill, Lyman, Louisanna, Bolon, Cleopatra, Addie, Jane, Helon, Suletia, Dewitt, Van and Garfield.

Jim was the son of Robert McFail and Martha Carlton Hendry, who relocated from Georgia to Florida around 1854. Jim was the first of their children to be born in Florida, being born in a part of Madison County that is now within the present boundary of Taylor County.

Jim was what was then called a "circuit rider." Leaving the Methodist Church (South) in 1880, he joined the Methodist Protestant Church and soon became president of that church's Florida Conference.

Even though his family's livelihood depended on an intense preoccupation with farming, raising livestock, hunting, cutting wood, splitting fence rails and hauling water, he found time outside of those chores and preaching for politics. An Independent, he won his race for state representative in 1886. In 1892 he joined the Populists Party and won again in the 1896 race.

The Rev. Garfield Hendry wrote of his father, "He led in the organization of several churches through the county and assisted in the construction of most of them with his own personal labor and contributed to their support. He was twice a member of the Florida Legislature and served with credit and distinction. He was not a politician for he stood unswervingly for his convictions and all his friends and neighbors knew where he could be found on any question of public interest. His personal life and ministry were above reproach. Truly, he put God first, others second and himself last. He was devoted to his family and faithful to his friends."

This year's reunion speaker will be Michael "Mike" Lyman Morris, the great grandson of Lyman Henry Hendry, the fourth of 14 children born to Jim and Lou.

Morris, an award-winning author, is a fifth generation native of Perry.

His background, seeped in southern culture inhabited by unique characters, where he finds inspiration for his work.

or two full days of work to handle this request. We had to research information that went back nine years. They were not able to do their regular jobs, so the law allows us to charge an hourly employee rate and a benefits fee. We have had law firms in the past contact us with records requests and we have charged them the same way. It's the standard set by statute," Staffney said.

"You are taking them away from their regular duties to do specific work for (someone else), that's why we are allowed to charge the benefits rate."

Holton stated that in her correspondence with City Manager Bob Brown, he asked for a $50 deposit and later gave her an estimated cost of "maybe $100."

At the meeting, Brown declined to engage in further dialogue with Holton on the matter, stating, "On the advice of counsel, I have been advised not to enter into any conversations with Ms. Holton."

(Holton has filed a federal lawsuit against Brown and the city regarding alleged violations of her first amendment rights as well as persecution as a self-proclaimed "whistle-blower.")

"I will be happy to answer any questions council may have though," Brown told council members.

He then explained that the hourly rate charge "was based on the lowest paid salary at City Hall (just over $10/hour). By law, we can charge the actual compensation rate, but we didn't so taxpayers actually absorbed some of the cost because we had personnel pulling records going back more than eight years.

"She was charged what is consistent with the law, consistent with what other people pay...it's the law," Brown said.

"That's the maximum allowed by the statute, it's not what the council has to charge," Holton said.

"So what it comes down to, is you are asking to be given this work product at a substantially lower cost which would be up to the council's decision and I'm saying no," said Vice Mayor Don Cook (who was in charge of the meeting due to Mayor Daryll Gunter's absence).

He then asked for input from the other members present.

"No," Councilman Mike Deming said.

"I think they are public records and she should be given them," Councilwoman Venita Woodfaulk said.

"I think it is still high. She should get them," Councilwoman Shirlye Hampton said.

"It's a moot point because we're split on it and there are only going to be four members at the next meeting as well, so this may have to wait until the first meeting in July to be resolved," Cook said.

"I thought the manager broke the tie," Holton interjected.

"The city manager never has a vote," Brown said.

"He works for them," Staffney said.

"I understand what you said, but I'm like Shirlye, this is just real high," Woodfaulk told Staffney.

"By law we could have charged more," Staffney said.

"We need to stand firm with state statute and uphold the law," Deming said.

"What if I ask for a bi-weekly payment plan? Would you release them then?" Holton said.

"I would go for that," Cook said. "And just release the documents to you as you pay for them?"

"Yes," Holton replied.

"How about this—I could put it on your utility bill once a month for whatever arrangement you want," Staffney offered.

"Money has been invested and if whatever she is looking for is in the first 50 pages, then there is no guarantee she will pay for the rest of the documents. That could be the same with any other records request we get if you do it like that. The work is done and it ought to be paid for before it is released," Brown said.

"It (the bill) will be (paid) tomorrow," Holton said.

As of presstime Thursday,

Holton had not paid the bill and the 847 pages of documents were still at City Hall.

"This was the largest records request I have ever seen since I've been with the city and her list included items that she did not really specify what she wanted, just general terms like 'all lawsuits from December 2005 to now, copies of all liability policies from 2005 to the present, copies of the city's contracts with FairPoint, Comcast, all correspondence with Ken Smith, the city manager's contract, all invoices sent out on letterhead...things like that," Staffney said.

In total, Holton was billed for 22 man hours, benefits (insurance and retirement) for those man hours and .15 per page.

additional tax revenue-based on a model with $100 million of capital investment on the part of BioNitrogen--corresponding reductions in state funding would negate most of the increase. Instead, the school district could expect to see a net increase of around $160,000 per year, mostly in its capital improvements fund (based on the $100 million model).

Frederick and City Manager Bob Brown approached the commission at their May 20 meeting, with a new proposal for consideration, under which the commission would agree to abate 70 percent of its property tax assessments for 10 years, reaching the same result they would have had under the proposed deal with the school district.

Using the same model--assuming a $100 million in capital investment--the county would still see approximately $235,000 in annual tax revenue from BioNitrogen after the abatements. The commission unanimously approved the new incentive package.

According to BioNitrogen's Operations Manager Brian Samuels, the company will utilize patented technology to convert biomass into urea fertilizer at a series of plants, including potentially one in Taylor County.

"The company's innovative, proven technologies transform residual agricultural and forestry waste and other biomass materials into urea fertilizer," Samuels said.

On May 14, the company held a ribbon cutting ceremony in Hendry County for its first plant, joining local and state officials for the event.

BioNitrogen is projected to create 52-55 manufacturing jobs in Taylor County with an average starting salary of $38,000 plus benefits. The total investment here has been estimated to be between $100 million and $220 million.

Ash: Students, teachers will benefit from Piland's trip

Pacific has sponsored more than 150 teachers from its facility communities across the country to attend Keystone Science School.

"I am grateful that Georgia-Pacific has a strong desire to emphasize the importance of receiving a quality education," TCHS Principal Audie Ash said.

"As principal of TCHS, I am thrilled that Piland was chosen to participate this summer in the Key Issues program and she is a worthy recipient of the Key Issues scholarship. Not only will she benefit personally from this experience, but I expect that her experience will inject a renewed passion for the art of teaching throughout our school. The greatest benefit will be received by our students. Taylor County High is proud of P.J."

According to Mixon, support of Keystone Science

School is just one example of community investments made by Georgia-Pacific. Annually, Georgia-Pacific contributes through in-kind giving and direct contributions to causes and organizations aligned with its philanthropic focus areas: education, environment, entrepreneurship and enrichment of its communities.

Headquartered in Atlanta, Ga., Georgia-Pacific is one of the world's leading manufacturers and marketers of building products, tissue, packaging, paper, cellulose and related chemicals. The company employs nearly 35,000 people worldwide. Since 1976, Keystone has taught scientific principles and leadership skills to young people, teachers and community members through engaging hands-on field experiences. Animal stories

...there's a pony named 'Cow' and a stray who found a home

By FLORRIE BURROUGHS
Shady Grove News

The Old Home Place

A lot of us have memories of "the Old Home Place"--a place where our parents or grandparents once lived. For me it was the old log house that had been the home of my grandparents, Auley and Inez Rowell. Three boys and seven girls were born to my paternal grandparents. All of their children have gone home to be with the Lord except my Aunt Lois Odom. Aunt Lois is one of the twins who were the youngest. Aunt Lois provides many memories of "those days." Some of what I write must be attributed to her and also to my Uncle Russell Tedder who are both very good writers and have good memories to share.

Our home was directly in front of the old house, but it was this place with the pecan trees and the running red rose bush where my Dad always picked red roses for us to wear on Mother's Day that was dear to us because our Grandparents had once lived there. There were many family reunions in this special place, the old home place.

As I have written before, I was born after my paternal grandparents had passed away. The log house that had been their home had been modified and had no interior walls or floors. I think it had been converted to a barn as I recall my Dad, Lawrence Rowell storing hay and tobacco there. My sister and I used it for a playhouse and spent many happy days playing with our dolls in that old house. Mama would give us empty grocery packages to play with, one of which was a tea box that always had a sweet fragrance. Still today, when I open up a package of tea, I am reminded of those days.

I gaze at the picture of my Grandma Rowell and wonder if I am anything like her. She died just a few months before I was born. I try to imagine what she must have been like. Do I have any of her good qualities as I have heard that she was a wonderful Christian woman with a great love for her family?

One of the stories that had been written about her expresses that love for her two sons who had gone to war. I can almost feel her pain. Then there was that great homecoming when they returned. She had noticed someone coming down the road, walking. She stared until she knew it was one of her boys safely home from the war and then bounded from the porch and ran to meet him. Ah! Sweet bliss!

This Old Home Place is still in the family, owned by my nephew Kyle, an 8th generation Taylor County rancher and has been designated as a Century Farm as it has been in our family for more than 100 years. When my 3-1/2 year old great nephew, Lawton, goes with his Dad to feed the cows, he calls it by what it should be called, "the home place."

Lobo makes three another dog. But a yellow Labrador hung out at my closed gate for about a week. I thought he belonged to a neighbor and I tried to get him to go home. He was there every morning but by the afternoon he disappeared. On Thursday evening, I left my gate open and when I looked on Friday morning, there he was, sitting just inside the gate. He appeared reluctant to come further into the yard, but after I spoke kindly to him, he followed me to the house. He was so thin his ribs were showing and he had cuts and scrapes all over his head and some on his neck.

I gave him food and water which he quickly accepted. I called Animal Control and asked them to come pick up the dog telling myself that surely someone would adopt this dog. Later in the day Animal Control called and said it would be Monday before they could pick him up. Well, you know what happened over the weekend. It was just long enough for me and two of my granddaughters who were visiting to fall in love with him.

Animal Control called on Monday morning to verify that I still had the dog. I told them "yes" but asked them what they would do with this dog.

I was told they had picked up 18 strays that morning and the chances were very slim that this one would be adopted. When I learned of the almost certain fate of this dog, I told them to cancel the request to pick him up.

And now you know "the rest of the story." I named him Lobo. He appears to be about six months old and

Whiddon competes in Watermelon pageant

Kate Whiddon of Perry, a rising sophomore at Aucilla Christian Academy (ACA), will be among contestants vying for titles during the 2014 Watermelon Pageant planned Saturday night at the old Jefferson County High School on Water Street in Monticello.

Both Teen Miss and Miss Watermelon Queens will be selected.

Whiddon, the 15-year-old daughter of Stan and Shona Whiddon of Perry, has a 4.0 grade point average at ACA where she was a JV cheerleader for two years (serving as captain in eighth grade). She is now entering her second year as a varsity cheerleader.

Academically, she is pursuing all honors classes at ACA as well as online classes through Florida Virtual School.

Whiddon worked with the U.S. Forestry Service and Smokey Bear as the 2012 Teen Miss Taylor County and the 2013 Teen Miss Jefferson County Forestry, promoting forest management and wildfire prevention.

A member of ACA's Beta Club, she has participated in such community activities as Toys for Tots and Relay For Life.

This year's Miss Watermelon Pageant begins at 6:30 p.m. with an opening number, followed by sportswear and evening gown competitions.

Awards will also be presented for "Miss Photogenic" and "Miss Congeniality," the latter determined by the contestants themselves.

One of the Miss contestants will also be awarded the "Best Interview" award. Also new to this year will be awards given for "Prettiest Dress,"

Kate Whiddon

"Prettiest Smile," "Prettiest Hair" and "Best Stage Presence."

General admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Children three and under will be admitted free.

How did Red Hats begin? With a red hat, of course...

Cheryl Gregory gave the history of the Red Hat Society which was established April 25, 1998, by Sue Ellen Cooper in Fullerton, Calif. In 1997, she gave a friend a 55th birthday gift (a red hat bought from an antique store) with a copy of Jenny Joseph's poem entitled, "Warning," which begins, "When I am an old woman, I shall wear purple... With a red hat that doesn't go and doesn't suit me."

Cooper repeated this gift on several occasions and eventually the women bought purple outfits and held a tea party on April 25, 1998. Word spread quickly and widely, as there were many requests for help in starting a chapter. Cooper then established "Hatquarters" and now serves as Exalted Queen Mother of the Red Hat Society.

During this anniversary celebration, members heard announcements for events in May and names were drawn for handmade, crocheted items (doilies, dish cloths and coasters) which served as door prizes. Sharon Reed and Iona Walker were recognized for their April birthdays.

The group concluded by singing the Red Hat Anthem to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The next work day for Project Backyard is Saturday, June 28, and volunteers are urged--on that day, and others--"to be a light in your own backyard. Here, Damarcus Taylor proudly displays the motto and invites others to join in.

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY!

By SARAH HALL, Tidbits

Happy Father's Day!

Happy Father's Day...enjoy your children, your family and your life now, because when your children grow up, they find other things to enjoy.

Your family either becomes larger or separates itself from you.

And your life becomes so different from what you thought it would be.

"For we are here but a moment, strangers in the land; our days on earth are like a shadow, gone too soon, without a trace." (1 Chronicles 29:15 TLB)

FWC seeks public comment on proposed bass fishing changes

By BOB WATTENDORF
Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

It is time to speak out about Florida's proposed change to largemouth bass management by filling out an online survey or attending a local meeting (see MyFWC.com/Calendar).

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) wants to be sure management strategies optimize use and enjoyment of these fish in a sustainable manner.

Black bass--among which the Florida largemouth reigns supreme--are the most popular sportfish in North America.

A change is being considered to provide a five-bass daily bag limit, only one of which may be 16 inches in total length or longer. This means that each person would be allowed to keep up to five largemouth bass less than 16 inches, or four largemouth bass less than 16 inches and one largemouth bass 16 inches or longer each day.

This change would replace current length limits, but not the statewide bag limit of five bass. For the most part, this would become a statewide regulation, but limited exceptions for fisheries with special needs or opportunities would be possible and generally associated with fish management areas.

To take the survey, and learn more about largemouth bass as well as current and possible future management changes, go to MyFWC.com/Fishing and click on "Speak out on bass rules!" under the bass image near the middle of the page.

"The FWC takes public opinions very seriously," said Tom Champeau, director of the agency's Division of Freshwater Fisheries Management. "Combined with the best science and case studies that we have, public input helps us strive for optimal sustained use of these popular and valuable fish."

In 2011 the Black Bass Management Plan (BBMP) was approved, based on comments from more than 7,500 anglers. In addition to that, input from typical fishermen, Technical Advisory Group meetings involving guides, tournament anglers, marina owners, trophy bass fishermen, outdoor writers and tourism representatives were conducted to ensure a wide range of opinions.

The BBMP encouraged using the least restrictive regulations feasible to enhance trophy bass fisheries, maintain healthy bass populations statewide and provide diverse angling opportunities. Therefore, FWC staff reviewed biological data to evaluate effectiveness of various regulation strategies. In addition, public opinion came from almost 6,000 responses to a preliminary survey and open-house events around Florida in 2013. The resulting proposal would simplify regulations, allow more harvest of abundant smaller bass and further protect older fish, including spawning female bass. The FWC is seeking feedback on this proposed change and will continue to evaluate options for several months before submitting a final proposal. If the public supports the proposal, and FWC commissioners accept it, it could be implemented in July 2016.

The FWC promotes TrophyCatch as a volunteer citizen-science program that rewards anglers for catching, documenting and releasing bass heavier than 8 pounds (see TrophyCatchFlorida.com), thus further encouraging voluntary release of the biggest, oldest bass.

Initial surveys in 2013 were completed primarily by non-tournament anglers

Keaton Beach Fishing Report

Trout limits caught in 3.5 to 8 feet of water

BY PAT MCGRIFF
onemorecast@gtcom.net

Trout continued to please folks who fished Saturday and Sunday on the flats at Keaton Beach. Gulp, Cutbait and live pinfish fished under Back Bays and Cajun Thunders produced limits of trout from 3.5 to 8 feet of water.

Sunday, I took Caleb Bell and Mike Jones of Charleston, S.C., out with Jason Johnson of Tallahassee and they limited out with 20 trout weighing over 35 pounds! We had four trout over 21 inches long with one 24.5-inch sow trout for Mike. We fished live pinfish rigged under Back Bay Thunders in 3.5-4.5 feet of water.

Tuesday, I had Fred and Betty Hester of Thomasville, Ga., with Ted Hester (Fred's brother) from Washington D.C. along and they managed to catch their limit of 15 trout using live pinfish under Back Bays.

Jim and Mike Hardegree

of North Georgia way had their limit of 10 trout both Friday and Saturday bouncing Salt Water Assassin seashads and Gulp shrimp in 7 to 8 feet of water.

Here are a few reports from the girls at Sea Hag Marina at Keaton Beach:

Brenda Carter of Thomasville, Ga., had her limit of trout to 21 inches on June 3 from 4.5 - 6.5 feet of water using Gulp

Last Friday, Paul Wilson and Burt Dowling of Lake Park, Ga., fished north to land 10 trout with two over 20 inches and one keeper 19-inch redfish.

Derek Skinner of Valdosta, Ga., with Val Peret and John Skinner of Lake Park with Kevin Renecarge from Adel, Ga., went 33.5 miles offshore Saturday and brought back an 82 pound cobia! (Man, do I want to see some photos of that!) Said they caught it on 30-pound test line using a cigar minnow and dragging it behind the boat. Great catch!

Jason Johnson of Tallahassee and Mike Jones of Charleston, S.C., with a true "double" caught Saturday.

Love amidst life, death and cancer in 'Fault in our Stars'

I've been accused on occasion of not reviewing romance films. That's not entirely correct. I have no problem seeing a romance as long as it intrigues me, such as "(500) Days of Summer." And I can say that from the first trailer, "The Fault in Our Stars" intrigued me. It didn't hurt that the film stars Shailene Woodley, of whom I've been a fan ever since she burst onto the scene in George Clooney's "The Descendants," which earned her a Golden Globe nomination.

When I saw that first trailer, I had no idea it was based on a widely popular book which has sent millions of fans into hysterics. But the story of unlikely love between two teenage cancer patients did indeed intrigue me.

The film itself is a smart, funny, tragic, powerful and realistic portrayal of a teenage romance set against the backdrop of shortened lives. Having not read the book, I can't entirely gauge how fans will respond to this movie, but I would have to imagine they would be pleased. Featuring strong performances, steady direction and a story which finds a level of realism that few films can achieve, "A Fault in Our Stars" holds a powerful message that no matter our own circumstance, is worth seeing.

The story follows Hazel Grace Lancaster (Woodley), a 16-year-old girl battling long-term thyroid cancer, which has damaged her lungs to the point that she must always have an oxygen tank with her. Her mother, concerned with how much time she spends alone, encourages Hazel to attend a cancer support group, where she meets Augustus Waters (Ansel Elgort, "Divergent"), a teenage boy whose osteosarcoma has gone into remission, but not before it led to the amputation of his leg.

Augustus' direct manner and attitude intrigues Hazel and they become friends. But knowing cancer will cut her life tragically short, she is afraid of letting him get too close in order to save him from the hurt her eventual death will cause.

Augustus is not so easily dissuaded, but will this unlikely romance get a chance to blossom before life—or more specifically death—gets in the way?

Writing about teenagers is difficult for adults to get right, especially when the story portends to tell their "real" story. Too often the teenage characters sound more like an author writing dialogue than actual human beings talking. But author John Green seems to have pulled it off, finding that oh-so-thin line between melodrama and wisdom, more commonly referred to as realism. Bringing his story to film are screenwriters Scott Neustadter and Michael H. Weber, whose previous credits include "(500) Days of Summer" and "The Spectacular Now," which tops my list of 2013 films I still want to see.

At the helm is director Josh Boone ("Stuck in Love"), who guides us through Hazel and Augustus' story with a gentle hand, drawing out wonderful performances from the entire cast.

Woodley now finds herself in the lead of two massive book adaptations, this film coming on the heels of her work in "Divergent." In this movie, she is simply wonderful, portraying Hazel's often wide-ranging emotions from jubilation to despair. As her counterpart, Elgort had the unenviable task of bringing Augustus to life, a character who most closely borders on caricature, but with smart writing and much effort on the part of the actor stays true and relatable. Laura Dern ("Jurassic Park") and Sam Trammell ("True Blood") should also be noted for their work as Hazel's parents, who are trying to ensure her life is a full one while also having to accept it will be a short one. I have to say I really liked how the script treated them.

If I had one complaint about the story, it is that before even entering the theater I guessed one major plot turn, lessening its eventual impact, although based on the amount of sniffing I heard in the theater, that may be my complaint alone.

"The Fault in Our Stars" is a powerful film, with strong performances and a story that if you are lucky is not actually relatable, but still understandable. It is a movie that should enthrall fans and newcomers alike.

The film is rated PG-13 for thematic elements, some sexuality and brief strong language.

This year's Taylor Made Sing and Auction, which will be held tonight (Friday) from 5-7 p.m. at First United Methodist Church, will feature live music from LifeSong (shown above) as well as local duo Stephen "Buddy" Murphy and Mike Denmark.

Taylor Made Sing is tonight

The Taylor Made Sing and Auction, hosted by the Big Bend Hospice Taylor County Advisory Council, will be held tonight (Friday) from 5-7 p.m., in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church, located at 302 N. Jefferson St.

The $7 admission includes music from this year's headliner, Lifesong, along with local duo Stephen "Buddy" Murphy and Mike Denmark, a live auction with homemade cakes, merchandise and gift certificates from Taylor County's premier bakers and local merchants, a host of door prizes, including a rifle-chance drawing, and one lucky person will walk away with the winnings of the 50/50 raffle.

Lifesong members Bryant Thigpen, Ethan Brooks and Jessica Ratliff perform original songs as well as southern gospel classics and "songs that will take you back to the days of the church hymnal."

Starting at 5 p.m., a prepared chicken dinner will be available at the serving line for takeout orders and attendees.

"Big Bend Hospice truly cares about our community, and the many families that we serve," said Michele Brantley, Big Bend Hospice community relations coordinator.

All proceeds from the Taylor Made Sing and Auction benefit patient care for Big Bend Hospice patients in Taylor County.

'Edge of Tomorrow' provides fun summer action in sci-fi package

It is true that there are no original ideas remaining. Now that isn't as nihilistic as it might sound. I'm just saying that no matter how original a novel or film is, someone can always find a previous work to compare it to.

Likewise, there are some plot devices that become so synonymous with a certain title, that any succeeding work will always find itself compared that particular one. For example, take the time loop, in which a character continuously relives the same day (or days) over and over again.

I would bet that for many of you, this brought to mind the classic film, "Groundhog Day," starring Bill Murray as a weatherman cursed to live the same day over and over...and over. This wasn't the first use of the time loop, nor was it the last, but it is the best known.

So it wasn't entirely surprising when a friend said "Edge of Tomorrow" looked dumb, and derisively referred to it as a sci-fi "Groundhog Day." Although the second description is not without merit, I would say it is hardly an insult.

Based on the Japanese novel "All You Have is Kill," "Edge of Tomorrow," starring Tom Cruise (Jack Reacher) and Emily Blunt ("Looper"), is a fun sci-fi popcorn flick, full of action and featuring a story that while not especially deep, does provide an intriguing two hours.

Cruise is not a stranger to the sci-fi genre, and while his last film "Oblivion" found few fans, "Edge of Tomorrow" is much more straight-forward (time loops notwithstanding), and should provide the kind of explosions and battles we've come to expect from our summer blockbusters.

The story is pretty simple. Earth has been invaded by alien creatures called Mimics, which have decimated Europe and are preparing to take over the rest of planet. Making a stand in England, the human military plans a modern day D-Day invasion into France, hoping to stomp out the threat in one massive blow.

Military spokesman, Major William Cage (Cruise), unexpectedly finds himself at the front line of the invasion. Without the necessary training, or frankly the will, to be an actual soldier, he is killed within minutes of making his landing, along with nearly the entire human force.

Instead of moving on to the great beyond, however, Cage finds himself waking up the morning before the invasion, with the exact same sequence of events playing out, leading once again to his death. As the movie's slogan says, "Live. Die. Repeat."

On one of these sojourns to his seemingly inevitable demise, Cage meets Rita Vrataski (Blunt), a hero from an earlier battle who seems to understand what is happening to Cage and how it could help humanity find a way to win the war against the Mimics.

The film is directed by Doug Liman ("The Bourne Identity," "Jumper"), who brings his big-budget experience to bare, creating some exciting battle sequences, which remain interesting and compelling even after we've seen them a dozen times or so. That is the problem facing any time loop story: keeping the audience interested despite the repeats. Like "Groundhog Day" before it, "Edge of Tomorrow" is able to find nuances within Cage's day, showing us how his action alters other events.

Of course, this kind of hit-and-miss way of figuring out your day can lead to some humorous moments, and the film doesn't shy away from the comic relief. On the flip side, the story also gives us glimpses of the toll the loop has on Cage, much in the way that the more comedic "Groundhog Day" did with Murray's weatherman. I actually would have liked to see a bit more of this side from "Edge of Tomorrow," as it would have given the overall film some additional depth and staying power, but overall, the film works quite well as a sci-fi action flick.

"Edge of Tomorrow" provides the fun, the intrigue, the action and the big-named actors we want from our summer blockbusters. Sure, there have been better films released this summer, but fun is fun, and "Edge of Tomorrow" gives us fun.

The film is rated PG-13 for intense sequences of sci-fi action and violence, language and brief suggestive material.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Taylor Made sing offers music, great deals

MAY 28 – JUNE 22

The Hippodrome in Gainesville presents "The Great American Trailer Park Christmas Musical." It's Christmas-time in Armadillo Acres and the residents are filled with holiday warmth and beer. Everyone's invited over to Betty, Lin and Pickles' to catch up with Starke's rowdiest residents for a cat-fightin', sun-worshipping, chair-throwin', good-ole festive Hipp summer musical good time. Come find out what happens next in this knee-slapping, toe-tappin' sequel to "The Great American Trailer Park Musical." Ticket prices vary on showtime and seat location. Call us at 850-584-5513 to add your event.

this weekend at the movies

The string of strong summer openings should continue this weekend with two anticipated sequels.

Up first is "22 Jump Street," which reunites Channing Tatum and Jonah Hill as cops Schmidt and Jenko, who must go undercover again, this time in college. The first film, an adaptation of the 1980s television series, was a surprise hit, and while this will be the third R-rated comedy to hit theaters this summer, it should easily find an audience, especially with everyone returning, including co-directors Phil Lord and Christopher Miller.

The movie is rated R for language throughout, sexual content, drug material, brief nudity and some violence.

"How to Train Your Dragon 2" heralds the return of Hiccup (voiced by Jay Baruchel) and the rest of the vikings gang, not to mention their dragon partners. In this film, Hiccup discovers an ice cave home to hundreds of dragons led by a mysterious rider who holds a surprising connection to him. But all is not well, because the warlord Drago (Djimon Hounsou, "Blood Diamond") is leading an army to steal all of their dragons. The first movie is still the best animated product to come out of Dreamworks Animation, and I've been eagerly awaiting its sequel. The early buzz has been strong and this could easily be the best animated film of the year.

The film is rated PG for adventure action and some mild rude humor.

County speech winners advance to district, earn honorable mention

By ABBEY L. THARPE
4-H Extension Agent I

Today's 4-H Youth Development Program is teaching youth life skills that will benefit them throughout their adult life. One of the programs 4-H sponsors along with Tropicana is the 4-H/Tropicana Public Speaking Program.

This educational program aims to teach young people the techniques of effective public speaking. It is designed to give elementary and middle-school age students experience in the preparation and delivery of a speech. The 4-H/Tropicana program is administered in all 67 counties in Florida and is sponsored by the University of Florida Cooperative Extension Service and Tropicana.

More than 1,200 students in the county participate in the program. Students in third through sixth grades from the elementary school and middle school took part in the program.

The top speeches were selected from the class level, school level and then from the county level. The top county winners received a plaque and the first place county winner in each division received $50 and a full scholarship to 4-H camp this summer (a $230 value).

The top county winners in the fourth and fifth grade division were: first place, Caroline Gray with her speech titled "The Ghost Upstairs;" second place, Malayshia White, "The Bahamas;" third place, Ja'Kovie Island, "Imagination;" honorable mention, Madison Sadler,

"The Snake Bite;" and honorable mention, Kinsey Goodman, "My Disney Cruise."

The top winners for the sixth grade division were: first place, Bradley LaValle, "6th Grade Survival Guide;"

second place, Elizabeth Blue, "Life in a Campaign;" and third place, Robert, "Animal Prison."

The top speaker from the fourth/fifth grade division and sixth grade division advanced to a district competition held May 15 in Tallahassee. Both Caroline Gray and Bradley LaValle received honorable mention at the district level.

The results of 4-H and Tropicana's dedication to this program are evident in the confidence displayed by young people in making prepared or extemporaneous presentations later in their school and professional careers. The 4-H/Tropicana Public Speaking Program offers young people this opportunity and teaches them to be better communicators--a skill which will benefit them throughout life.

(Above) The county winners in fourth and fifth grade were: first place, Caroline Gray; second place, Malayshia White; and third place, Ja'Kovie Island with honorable mention to both Madison Sadler and Kinsey Goodman. (Right) The top winners for the sixth grade division were: first place, Bradley LaValle (center); second place, Elizabeth Blue; and third place, Robert Glanton.

Rotary Club hosts dance on June 20

The Perry Rotary Club will host its second annual Father-Daughter Dance on Friday, June 20, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Perry Woman's Club.

Tickets are $25 for a father and daughter and $10 for each additional daughter.

The event will include music, door prizes, heavy hors d'oeuvres and refreshments.

Photo packages will be available as well.

Tickets can be purchased at the Perry-Taylor County Chamber of Commerce or from any Perry Rotarian. For more information, call 584-5366.

Justice in the classroom

Blue shares lessons on U.S. Constitution

County Court Judge Bill Blue went back to school May 20-22, teaching Taylor County High School (TCHS) history students about the U.S. Constitution.

The Florida Supreme Court, as part of the justice teaching program, encourages judges and lawyers to help teach Florida students about the U.S. and Florida Constitutions, the legal process and the role of the judiciary.

Participating lawyers and judges typically volunteer to speak to one or two class periods each year. The purpose of the exercise is not simply to educate the students.

"The bench and bar have found that when people have a better understanding of the role of the judiciary, and the lawyers' role within the judicial system, they come away with a greater appreciation for the U.S. Constitution and the judicial system. They also then tend to view judges and lawyers more favorably," according to Blue.

Students in William Goggans' history classes received three lessons each. The first lesson was about the purpose of the U.S. Constitution, how the government is organized and rights protected by the Constitution.

In the second lecture, students participated in an "Invaders" role-playing scenario. The classes divided into small groups, the "Invaders" instructed each group to select only five rights they could keep, and the "Invaders" abolished the rest. Blue quizzed then the groups about why they selected the rights they chose, and pointed out the significance of the rights they lost.

He asked the class, "If you chose to keep the freedom of religion, but not the freedom of assembly, how is your inability to assemble going to affect the way you worship?"

The point of the question, Blue said, was "to teach students how important each and every right guaranteed by the Bill of Rights is to our way of life, and along the way point out differences between our own country and others where certain rights and liberties are not guaranteed."

On the third day, students participated in a Constitution "scavenger hunt." The students searched the U.S. Constitution to find where answers to certain questions are found.

Marshall K. Jones II

Air Force Airman 1st Class Marshall K. Jones II graduated from basic military training at Joint Base San Antonio-Lackland, San Antonio, Texas.

The airman completed an intensive, eight-week program that included training in military discipline and studies, Air Force core values, physical fitness and basic warfare principles and skills.

Airmen who complete basic training earn four credits toward an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Jones earned distinction as an honor graduate.

He is the grandson of Sherry Brady of Perry.

The airman is a 2011 graduate of Aucilla Christian Academy. He earned an associate degree in 2012 from North Florida Community College.

BUILT TOUGH & STANDING STRONG

Donate $10 for a chance to win a new truck

Timberland Ford and Marker 1 have joined forces for a "Built Tough & Standing Strong" fundraising drawing to benefit shooting survivors Mike Cook, Taylor County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Lundy and John Mahoney.

Timberland owner Brett Falicon is working with Marker 1 to provide a new 2013 F150 truck for the drawing. A $10 donation enters your name to win the vehicle.

The drawing will be held in Steinhatchee Saturday, June 28.

"These men push the limits on the words 'Built Tough & Standing Strong.' Due to events that took place Feb. 5 at Timberland Ford in Perry, these men's lives are forever changed. Going to work and doing their job is all they had expected on this February day," Falicon said.

"You never know what is in store for you. One thing I know is that we are loving, compassionate people who want to help each other in hard times and, trust me when I say, this is a financial hardship on the lives of these men who are proving just like the Ford truck they are built strong and are still standing strong."

For entry information, contact Puddy at (352) 356-7100, Audrey at (850) 371-0966, Linda at (352) 213-7371 or Falicon at (850) 584-6178.

Online entries through PayPal are available through the "Built Tough & Standing Strong" Facebook link.

Horoscopes for the third week of June

- ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
People seem to be going out of their way to be nice to you, Aries. While you may suspect they have ulterior motives, their kindness really is nothing more than good will.
- TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, approach your workload with an optimistic attitude this week. You can expect your efforts to produce positive results that don't go unnoticed.
- GEMINI - May 22/June 21
It is an uphill battle to focus on chores this week, Gemini. You would rather be out having fun, but putting off chores now will only lead to more work down the road.
- CANCER - June 22/July 22
Cancer, although you are capable of keeping up appearances this week, you will be lost in your own thoughts. Personal issues prove to be a distraction.
- LEO - July 23/Aug 23
Leo, serve as a diplomat this week, placing yourself in the middle of conflict because you want to help. Keep a level head and don't get swept into the argument.
- VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, your ability to focus is very strong, but this week you cannot seem to get your mind to cooperate. You may have a million things to think about.
- LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
You are tempted to join the party this week, even though you know it is probably a better idea to decline. But the prospect of socializing and having a good time is too tempting.
- SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you often feel uncomfortable when you have too many loose ends. It may take quite a while this week to wrap up all of your obligations before you can relax.
- SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, the more you ponder the decisions you have to make, the more you struggle to determine a positive outcome. Give yourself some breathing room.
- CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Career issues must be dealt with, Capricorn. You may have been running through various options, and if you have reached a decision, then go with your gut instincts.
- AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, although everyone around you seems to be stressing out, for some reason you are able to breeze through your days without a worry in the world.
- PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Your intuition is telling you to proceed with caution, Pisces. Watch where you step, but don't let caution take over your life.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

FROM THE RECIPE BOOK

Shrimp dish tailor-made for warm evenings

Lighter fare is more popular when the weather warms up, as many people don't want to feel weighed down by their diet. Fish is a popular summertime meal for many reasons, not the least of which is that fish tends to be light but still flavorful. In addition, many meals featuring fish can be whipped up rather quickly.

Such is the case with the following recipe for "Grilled Garlic Shrimp With a Fresh Heirloom Tomato Sauce" from Laurey Masterton's "The Fresh Honey Cookbook" (Storey Publishing). Fresh and simple, this meal can be enjoyed as a change of pace at summer barbecues or simply as a light weeknight meal with the family.

Grilled Garlic Shrimp With a Fresh Heirloom Tomato Sauce

Serves 6

- For the marinated shrimp:*
- 1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
 - 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
 - 2 garlic cloves, minced
 - 36 large shrimp, peeled and deveined
 - 12 6-inch wooden skewers
- For the tomato sauce:*
- 3 pounds assorted large heirloom tomatoes
 - 1 small sweet onion, minced
 - 1 garlic clove, minced
 - 1/2 teaspoon sea salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
 - 1 tablespoon honey, preferably sourwood honey
 - 1/4 cup fresh basil leaves, cut into thin strips (chiffonade is the formal name for this cut), plus more for garnish
 - Sea salt
 - Freshly ground black pepper

- split, remove with a slotted spoon and place in a bowl of cool water. At this point, it will be very easy to slip off the skins.
- Cut the peeled tomatoes into a small dice. Put the cut tomatoes into a large bowl. Add the onion, garlic, salt, pepper, and honey. Stir gently to combine.
 - Skewer the shrimp, 3 per skewer. Grill the skewered shrimp for 1 to 2 minutes on each side, until they are pink. Sprinkle lightly with sea salt and a couple grinds of fresh pepper.
 - Just before serving, add the basil leaves to the tomato sauce. Taste and add more salt if necessary.
 - Ladle the tomato sauce onto a serving platter and arrange the skewers on top of the sauce. Garnish with more basil leaves and enjoy!

Judges at Rotary

Circuit Court Judge Greg Parker (left photo) and County Judge Bill Blue (right photo) recently visited the Perry Rotary Club. Parker spoke about the U.S. Constitution, while Blue talked about his position as county judge and programs being put into place to help juveniles in the court system. Shown above with them is Perry Rotary Club President Sondra Shaw.

2013 survey results: Only 16 percent of anglers normally eat the bass they catch

(52 percent) and casual tournament fishermen who normally fish local club tournaments, with 9 percent fishing more than 20 tournaments a year. Most respondents primarily targeted bass and fished frequently. So FWC incorporated input from those most affected by any changes.

A few takeaways were that only 16 percent normally eat the bass they catch, and 57 percent are happy if they don't keep any bass. When asked about current regulations, 57 percent did not want to increase the bag limit and 21 percent wanted to reduce it. Since a five-bass daily bag limit is sustainable, there is not a recommendation to change it.

Currently, south and east of the Suwannee River there is a 14-inch minimum length limit, and in the Suwannee River and north and west of it there is a 12-inch minimum length limit for bass. Biological data show that protecting these smaller fish is not necessary. Furthermore, different size limits complicate regulations. What is advantageous is protecting bigger fish, which are rarer and take longer to produce – hence the proposed harvest limit of only one bass 16 inches or longer per day. This regulation would be more lenient in the south fishing zone (east of Highway 441 and south of State Road 80), which currently allows only one bass over 14 inches.

There is no plan to alter the Bass Tournament Exemption Permit process (see MyFWC.com/Permits then click on "Freshwater" and "Black Bass Tournament"). Organizations holding bass tournaments may apply online for a temporary exemption to bass size limits.

This helps ensure the health of Florida freshwater resources while encouraging fishing participation from small clubs to major tournaments. In return for a temporary exemption to allow weigh-in prior to live-release of the bass, tournament participants must forego any harvest, including what would otherwise be their five-fish bag limit. Any fish that die must be donated to charity or for research. Tournaments are not required to have a permit if they abide by existing regulations and don't seek an exemption.

Every opinion is important, pro or con. So please review the background materials and complete a survey yourself (see <http://bit.ly/BassRules>).

Ashley Wallace and Jeremiah Owens were recently awarded their Shotokan Karate black belts from the American Shotokan Karate-do Kenkojuku Alliance.

"Earning Black Belts at the Perry Shotokan Karate Dojo has been rare," Jimmy Bowden said.

"The Perry Dojo has operated in Perry for 41 years and only nine students have continued their training until reaching their black belt."

Those who have reached black belt include: Bowden, 5th Dan; Doug Chaffin, 1st Dan; Thomas Smith, 1st Dan; Sean Padgett, 3rd Dan; Jay Padgett, 1st Dan; Kenneth Dudley, 2nd Dan; Jackie Koeller, 2nd Dan; Wallace, 1st Dan and Owens, 1st Dan.

Wallace, a 17-year-old junior at Taylor County High School, is the daughter of Rick and Dara Wallace. She started her study of karate in February 2008 and has trained regularly since then.

Owens, a 26-year-old Taylor County Deputy Sheriff, is the son of Dr. Miles and Patty Owens. He started his study of karate in September 2001 and has trained regularly except for his time while earning his Bachelor's degree at Florida State.
