A two-day evidentiary hearing is scheduled for late August as Garrett Arrowood continues his quest for a new trial.

Fina issues ruling on renewed motion

Circuit Judge David Fina issued an order Wednesday partially granting a motion brought on behalf of convicted murderer Garrett Arrowood, who is seeking a new trial after receiving a life sentence for his role in the death of his aunt, former educator Shelly Strickland. Arrowood's attorney renewed his motion to depose state prosecutors John Weed and James McCain (who oversaw Arrowood's first degree murder trial in 2016) as he prepares to present allegations of prosecutorial misconduct during an upcoming evidentiary hearing scheduled for August. While Fina denied Arrowood's initial motion, he granted the renewed

Wednesday crash

There are several tense moments Wednesday afternoon while emergency responders worked to extricate a woman pinned inside her car during a two-vehicle crash in front of the Perry post office. According to preliminary reports, the woman was attempting to cross all four lanes of traffic on Jefferson Street when she was hit by an oncoming truck. The resulting impact sent her four-door vehicle crashing into the brick sign located at the post office entrance. Both drivers were transported from the scene with minor injuries.

Eastern Equine Encephalitis Health officials confirm human case of EEE here

The Florida Department of Health in Taylor County (DOH-Taylor) confirmed late Thursday a human case of Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) here. Officials said there "is a heightened concern additional residents will become ill." "The risk of transmission to humans has increased. Taylor County Mosquito Control and DOH-Taylor are continuing surveillance and prevention efforts," Public Information Office Benjamin Fairbrother said.

"We have standing agreements with Taylor County Mosquito Control that they will spray the affected area as a precaution," he said. DOH-Taylor officials remind residents and visitors to take steps to avoid being bitten by mosquitoes and to take basic precautions to help limit exposure. While Fairbrother could not release details regarding the local patient who has been confirmed to be infected by the virus, family members said earlier this week that beach resident Debbie Clark Casey is "fighting for her life" in Shands Hospital in Gainesville. Casey's brother, Bish Clark, said doctors there confirmed the EEE diagnosis last Friday. "It took them eight days to confirm what it is," he said. Casey was airlifted to Shands after family members found her "nearly incoherent" at her home on Spradley wants lights at boat ramp, along Keaton Beach Rd.

Newly-appointed County Commissioner Steve Spradley is asking his fellow board members to consider a proposal to install lights at the Keaton Beach boat ramp and along Keaton Beach Road from the county boat ramp to county-owned Hodges Park. During the ensuing discussion at a recent commission meeting, the rest of the board said they were not against the idea, but warned their newest member of the unintended consequences of granting citizens' requests - namely upsetting other citizens who are not in favor of the proposal. Spradley began by discussing safety concerns surrounding the Keaton Beach boat ramp at night. "I believe this has probably been talked about in the past, but several residents down there approached me," Spradley said. "Of course, whenever I drive home at the beach, I don't pay that much

County seeks to cash in on palmetto berries

In an attempt to cash in on the lucrative saw palmetto berry market, county commissioners have agreed to advertise for bids from contractors who would harvest berries growing on county property this year - before they can be stolen by unauthorized individuals. "For the last couple of years on county property all along the Fenholloway River Road (Hampton Springs Road) we have seen all of the palmetto berries being robbed for several years in a row," Commissioner Jim Moody stated at the county's June 4 meeting. "We have 130 acres down Hampton Springs Road around the Fenholloway and they are really blooming good right now," Moody said. "There are in the flowering stage now and from the looks of them, it is going to be a bumper crop this year." "Last year, someone with 4 Rivers caught some of them and turned them in and confiscated their berries, which they weighed and sold and sent us a check for them," Moody said. "I would love to see us go out for bids and harvest them ourselves instead of just letting someone steal them and sell them." "They have to be harvested in September or October and there are

Men Today Father's Day

Stand up, step up Be a father

By CAITLYN BURCHETT
Contributing Writer
Five years ago, Dr. Willie J. Anderson Jr. became an instant father when he pledged his love at the altar to not only his bride, Lakeshia, but her two young children as well. Today, the Elder Pastor of Greater Grace Church of God -- who has no biological children of his own -- is known as "Bonus Dad" or "Buddy" to Zykerria, 12, Christian, 8, and serves as a father figure to many other youth in Perry. "When the Lord told me that Lakeshia was my wife, I said, 'No, she can't possibly be.' I never wanted any children, and the Lord said, 'You have children,'" Anderson said. "I was scared at first because of the decisions that I have made in my life. I am very strict on myself because of my mistakes. I battled with what do I say, what do I do? I didn't know how to be a dad," Anderson continued. Anderson said he wanted to make sure Zykerria and Christian knew he was not replacing their dads, but that he would be there to support, encourage and guide them as they navigated life. "Christian calls me 'Buddy.' When I go to the school to see him, people say, 'Hey Christian, there's your dad,' and he says, 'No, that's not my dad, that is my buddy.'" "At first it bothered me, and I asked him why. He

Cost of lighting would be $3,000 per year

Commissioners suggest Spradley poll more beach residents before continuing proposal attention to how dark it is. But it is very dark.

"First of all, in the boat ramp area, there is one light at the ramp which is thankfully there, but neither parking area is lit. I would suggest that they do need to be illuminated for safety's sake. There is no way to see whether there's anyone prowling or loitering around there. We had a transient down there earlier this month," Spradley said.

"A deputy will routinely -- if they have a call -- sit in their car and write their report on the computer in their car," Spradley said. "It's dark (at the ramp). It's not a good place for them to sit and do their reports. It's not safe for them. Someone could slip up behind them. It would be great if we had deputies sitting there doing their reports and watching traffic go by to have that presence there. As it is now, they're not."

At this point in the discussion, Spradley said he wanted to "expand" the conversation to include the entirety of Keaton Beach Road down to Hodges Park.

"There are currently Tri-County power poles about one block apart," he said. "I counted. There are 20 along that stretch there. I asked staff to get us some rough ideas on what it would cost. The engineers checked with Tri-County. For 20 lights -- and of course we could adjust that -- it would be approximately $3,000, and there would be a recurring cost of $230 every month, which is less than $3,000 a year to light that area."

He further suggested that they might be able to use Tourism Development (bed tax) funds to cover the cost because lighting the area could be considered making the area more attractive for tourists.

"I have a question and a comment," Commission Chair Pam Feagle said. "Just as Commissioner Page said last week, every time you think you've done something good, you'll find out sometimes it's not so good. I had an experience in Shady Grove where we put a light in the Shady Grove Park. We thought that was great. It was dark and (the light was) for security and safety and all these kinds of things. I thought I had done something really good. As it turned out, not everybody was pleased with that, and we actually had to take it down."

"I'm not opposed to what you're saying. I just want to bring that up," Feagle said. "I'm just wondering if we should have a public hearing, because unless you surveyed everybody..."

"I have not, and I will put it on the agenda to start that ball rolling to hold a public hearing or whatever we need to do," Spradley said. "I have talked to a lot of people and they're in agreement."

"What you're going to have is people on that road, those lights are going to be about even with their bedroom window," Commissioner Jim Moody said. "I've seen that at Dekle Beach. They complained about the lights being put there."

"Steve, I'll support whatever you want on this deal," Commissioner Malcolm Page said. "My suggestion is if you have somebody, like Commissioner Moody is speaking about who lives down there maybe full-time, and they don't want the light, just skip that one. Because in your planning you've got as many as 20 lights and four at the boat ramps. If you have lights at every block down the main Keaton Beach Road, and somebody complains about one light, just eliminate that one. It'd still be pretty well lit."

"The park is supposed to be closed at dark anyway," Moody said.

"It is, but it is the only bathrooms between Steinhatchee and town," Spradley said. "People will pull through and use those restrooms. There's a lot of vandalism that goes on there. It's not for people to use the ramp or the parking, it's for safety and security in there."

"I'm fine with lights around the restrooms and all, but it would be nice to do a house-to-house study down there," Moody said.

"We could do that or a public hearing," Spradley said.

"In an abundance of caution, I would suggest -- having gone through this a number of years -- we have the public hearing," Page said. "And then for anyone along the road, it would be publicized in the community that we're considering lights down the main Keaton Beach drive. And those that don't want it can show up at the public hearing. If nobody complains, we'll go ahead and approve the lights."

"Does that work for you Steve?" Page asked.

"Sure," Spradley said.

"Just as one commissioner to another, with the experience, you may want to go and talk to people and say, 'Hey, I brought this up, and we're going to have a public hearing,'" Feagle said.

"There's not that many, I could go door to door to speak with to the full-time residents, those are the main ones I'm concerned about,"

Spradley said.

"It's been my experience that you can't communicate too much," Feagle said.

"I know I did something similar in terms of grading a road one time," she said. "Most people who called me didn't want their road graded -- and I was brand new, so I didn't know any better -- so I directed staff to stop grading. Well, I started getting phone calls. So, I went to every house, and I asked each person if they wanted their road graded. It turned out the majority of the people did want their road graded, so, well -- majority rules."

"Well, I expect that they will (want the lights) for the most part," Spradley said. "But then, Marina Road will want it and Cedar Island will want it, so it has to be something we're measured with. I understand. You've got to start somewhere."

When Feagle asked whether the board wanted to schedule a public hearing on the issue, Assistant County Administrator LaWanda Pemberton said they needed to identify a funding source first, including determining whether they can use bed tax funds for the lights. The commission agreed to wait to take any action on the proposal until they heard back from staff on the funding options.

Shady Grove resident

Auley Rowell then addressed the board on the light issue.

"Please put an ad in the paper saying, 'Anybody else have a street that they want to have lights?'" he said. "Have a public hearing in Shady Grove and Steinhatchee. You're setting a precedent, lighting a street. The county's never done that. I'm not against it, but you're opening a can of worms. It's a good idea, but where does it stop?"

"Well, I think you need to analyze each situation," Feagle said. "Down there, you already have a history of problems with vandalism, and you've got a vagrant that's been there."

"I don't have a problem with the boat ramp or Hodges Park," Rowell said. "I'm just saying you're setting a precedent lighting up a county street."

Feagle replied, "I'm a firm believer that if you do something like this that's right, if the next request is not..."

"We'll consider it," Page interjected.

"Yes, but that doesn't mean we have to do it just because we did it for someone else," Feagle said. "Where it's unsafe, we need to make it safe."

"If that includes more lighting in Steinhatchee or Shady Grove, we'll consider those similarly to Keaton Beach, on an individual basis," Page said.

Judge: If prosecutors testify, defense may depose them

motion, stating in part: "The court finds that the defendant does not have the right to depose the assigned prosecutors in this case. Rather, the defendant must show good cause as to why he should be entitled to depose the prosecutors."

"This court finds that if either Mr. Weed or Mr. McCain testifies at the evidentiary hearing, then the defendant may depose whoever will be called to testify. Otherwise, neither Mr. Weed nor Mr. McCain would be an 'indispensable' witness, and there would be no good cause which would justify taking their depositions."

Arrowood's mother, Lisa, released the following statement regarding Fina's ruling, "We are very encouraged that we are finally being heard. The judge sent a loud and clear message to Weed and McCain. Either you are a witness and you must give a deposition, or you're not and you will not be allowed to testify, which means we will present all our evidence and you will not be able to make excuses for all the wrong you have done collecting, fabricating and tampering. We will not stop until all the facts are presented and there is some justice served...for Garrett and John Weed."

In May, Fina granted Arrowood's motion to set an evidentiary hearing for "all of the defendant's claims" as contained in his "Amended Motion for Post-Conviction Relief," including his claims of prosecutorial misconduct.

Arrowood's allegations, contained in a motion filed in August of last year, asserts three claims:

- Brady Violation: Centered around a Garmin GPS device seized from Arrowood's vehicle, Arrowood's attorney, David W. Collins, claims that Weed failed to disclose the report detailing the contents of the GPS. "Prosecutor Weed's initial explanations that either the report did not reveal anything or he didn't know about it caused the defendant to seek out said information by a public records request. In other words, the state never voluntarily produced it until the defendant confirmed it existed, months after the trial."

- Giglio Violation: "The testimony elicited by prosecutor Weed of (the victim's daughter) Jessica Strickland, with his knowledge or imputed knowledge, was not accurate, which is a 'Giglio' violation. A 'Giglio' claim requires the testimony to be false. It requires that the prosecutor eliciting it knows it to be false. To withhold the GPS device report and to not disclose the seizure date of the pill organizer may be explained as negligent acts. The defendant does not concede such. However, Prosecutor Weed's elicitation of this testimony was intentional. Either alone or combined with the non-disclosures, there is more than reasonable likelihood such false testimony affected the verdict," Arrowood's motion claimed.

- Tampering with evidence: This third claim focuses on a pill organizer collected from the victim's home seven months after her murder, and one day prior to a grand jury being convened in the case. "Based upon the evidence described concerning the date and manner of the pill organizer's seizure and photos (of the organizer) show a probability of tampering," the motion alleges.

Strickland, a longtime educator and former school principal, was found shot to death in her garage at her home on O'Steen Road in June 2015. Arrowood was convicted of first degree murder a year later and sentenced to life in prison. Two additional men, Rodney Whiddon and his son, Manden Whiddon, were also charged in connection with the homicide.

Berry picking is big business in Florida

Berry picking is big business in Florida each year.

species of palm which grows wild in flatwood pine stands and open range land located throughout the Southeast — mainly in Florida and Georgia.

Saw palmetto plants generally grow well in sandy soil, reaching between three and six feet in height and can live for hundreds of years.

The fruit is bluish-black when fully ripe and has a distinctive sweet aroma, with a taste that is described as “slightly soapy and acrid.”

Saw palmetto berries have been picked and used for their medicinal benefits for centuries, as they are dried, ground-up and sold to pharmaceutical and herbal supplement manufacturers. Pharmaceutical companies have developed an extract from the dried berries that is widely used in Europe as a treatment for an enlarged or inflamed prostate gland.

The dried and powdered berries are sold in health food stores as a supplement and as an herbal medicine in eastern Asia.

Palmetto berries were also historically used by Native Americans and early pioneers for food and medicinal purposes. Various Native American civilizations — such as the Calusa and Tequesta — ate the berries and used them in medicines. Mayans crushed the berries and drank them as a tonic. Later, Seminole Indians used them as an antiseptic.

Florida’s Spanish settlers ate the berries in the 1500s and began exporting them to Europe in 1602, according to “Botanical Medicines: The Desk Reference for Major Herbal Supplements,” by Dennis J. McKenna and Kenneth Jones.

Settlers, forced to eat the berries when they couldn’t find anything else, called the taste “foul.”

Jonathan Dickinson, a Quaker merchant who shipwrecked with his family on the southeast Florida coast in the late 1690s during a trip from Jamaica to Philadelphia, wrote in an account of his trials that the local Native American people kept large stores of the berries in their homes.

Despite starving, Dickinson and his shipmates could hardly bear to eat them.

“We tasted them, but not one amongst us could suffer them to stay in our mouths; for we could compare them several contractors out there that would want to bid on it,” Moody said. “They could bid on how much they would pay us by the pound picked.”

“I believe this is going to be a good year for the berries. If we get them before they are stolen, I believe there could be $20,000 or more worth on this one property down there,” Moody added. “We have been getting a lot of rain, so it will be a great crop this year.”

“If we were to bid it out by the pound harvested, who will do the weighing?” County Attorney Conrad Bishop asked.

“The only way to get bids is to let them bid it by the pound they collect. You have to trust them — unless you want to pay to have someone out there with them. You have to let the contractor bid on how much he thinks he can get. They tell me if the thieves hit it, all the berries will be gone in just a few days,” Moody said. “No contractor will take a chance on giving you just a lump sum bid price because they can’t risk having the thieves come in and pick all the berries before they can. It only takes two days or so to get them all.”

“Thieves will put a 20-man or 50-man crew out on the edge of the road in the morning at daylight and they will be done by dark. I have had them stolen off of my property before and they were in and out in two days. The thieves know when to get them and just when they are ripe,” Moody added.

“The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) and Sheriff’s Office chased them all over the woods of Taylor County last year,” Moody stated, adding that his sources claimed the average berry picker can get paid $20 per hour.

“You could not pay me any amount of money to get out there with those rattlesnakes,” Clerk of Court Annie Mae Murphy quipped.

“Or those briars,” Commissioner Malcolm Page added.

“I have never heard of any of those pickers being bitten by a rattlesnake. They shake that bucket as they walk and the snakes just crawl away. Plus, they quit around about 1-2 p.m. when the snakes start coming out of their holes,” Moody said.

Assistant County Administrator LaWanda Pemberton searched online using her phone during the meeting before handing it to Bishop to read off a FWC bid advertisement for saw palmetto berry picking services on Camp Blanding property managed by the state in Starke, Florida.

“We will get a copy of their contract and go over it to prepare our own bid advertisement to bring back to the board,” Bishop said.

Pharmaceutical companies have developed an extract from dried palmetto berries that is widely used in Europe as a treatment for an enlarged or inflamed prostate gland. Additionally, dried and powdered berries are sold in health food stores as a supplement and as an herbal medicine in eastern Asia.

Anderson urges men in the community to ‘stand up’

BE A FATHER

said, ‘Because you are my buddy. I know I can always rely on you. You will always be here. You are my buddy.’ That moment took me past ‘dad’ to father,” Anderson said tearfully.

Through God and personal lessons learned, “Bonus Dad” Anderson is learning how to be the father his kids need.

“Fathers are the ones that cover you. My daughter is growing up, and she doesn’t always agree with things I say or decisions I make, but I am doing those things because I am a protector. After things happen, it is over. You can’t protect someone after something has happened. You have to protect by preventing. I know she will understand someday.”

Anderson likens parenting to a game of “double-dutch” -- knowing when to jump in and when to step back. Proverbs 3:5 is one scripture Anderson always turns to when parenting and guiding his children, as well as other youth in the community. It reads: “Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding. In all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make straight your paths.”

“I have to ask for guidance for every single thing. I messed my life up by doing it my way. You don’t want to hold up your destiny, because you won’t get out of the way of yourself. Don’t get in the way of yourself. An effective parent has to look past what they want and see the big picture. See His picture.”

Anderson is well-known in the community for taking time to talk with troubled teenagers and local youth. Through local schools and the Taylor County court system, Anderson has set up church-supervised community service to give struggling kids an opportunity to get on a better path.

Anderson attended Florida A&M University (FAMU) for dual enrollment through the Black Male College Explorers Program, an at-risk prevention/intervention program designed specifically to prevent black males from dropping out of high school, facilitate their admission to college and significantly increase their chances of earning a college degree.

The program was founded by Dr. Tommy Mitchell, the man whose message still rings clear in Anderson’s mind when asked why he volunteers so much of his time for the children in the community.

“Dr. Mitchell had a passion for saving others. He said ‘I don’t do this for money. I do this because I don’t want to see one of you lost. If I know your name or I know your face, and you go out of these doors and don’t succeed, I blame myself because I should have done something more.’”

Anderson believes the reason kids grow up to be successful in life, is because someone takes time to tell them they are proud of them.

“The same things I do in my household, I do in the street. We live in a society where people are not really paying attention to what you are saying, they are not really listening.

“When you are living in the black community, you have so many ‘dysfunctional’ families, you don’t hear that a lot. When students and young children come home, they are looking for that confirmation. They want to hear ‘I am proud of you. You can do it.’ So, when I am talking to kids in the community, I do that. I tell them, ‘I am proud of you,’” Anderson continued.

Having grown up in a full house with an aunt that worked long hours, Anderson said he did not get the validation and recognition at home he desired.

“My aunt did not have time to talk. I do not blame her or the situation, but it was my reaction to not getting enough praise at home for my achievements and decision making that lead to me getting in trouble. If I had someone at home telling me, ‘Hey, I am proud of you. Keep it up’ things might have been different. That’s why I do what I do.”

According to Anderson, most of what he does is just taking the time to talk with the youth, listen to what they are going through and then help them move past their current situation.

“I don’t want to baby these kids. I want them to know I understand. I understand the struggle, the issues, the bad days. ‘You are going to be great because I am going to make sure you are great. I am going to push you past your breaking point, with you knowing that as I am pushing you, I am going to be there.’ That is what I project to my kids, to all kids,” Anderson said.

When talking with the youth, Anderson recites a poem titled, “Equipment” by Edgar Albert Guest. It reads: “Figure it out for yourself, my lad, You’ve all that the greatest of men have had, Two arms, two hands, two legs, two eyes, And a brain to use if you would be wise. With this equipment they all began, So start for the top and say ‘I can’.”

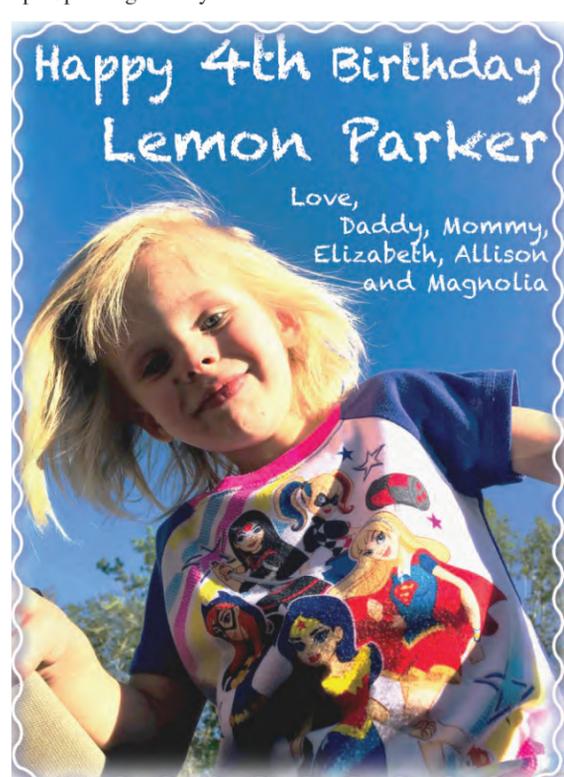

“When you are dealing with broken and dysfunctional families, the kids never see past where they are. And, with me knowing my mother was smoking crack and my father was in prison, the most dangerous thing I heard was, ‘You are going to be just like them,’ and that woke me up.

I didn’t want to be in that situation. Kids have to know that they can get out of the struggle and the bad days,” Anderson explained.

Anderson believes that the institution of the family comes from God, who has placed man at the head of the household. As the head, it is the father’s place to lead.

Anderson urges men in the community to stand up. Speaking to any father figure of Taylor County and beyond, Anderson said: “Your voice means something. A father has nothing to do with the name on the birth certificate. A father is someone who sees a need and steps up for that child. Stand up. Men have to stand up, command attention and set things in order. Don’t be afraid to be who God commanded you to be: A Father.”

Remember when...

Pastor dinners

By ANTHONY L. WHITE
anthonylamarwhite@yahoo.com

There was no way around it. If you were a child in my grandmother's house, Sunday mornings meant you were going to church. That meant, unless the church doors didn't open, my brothers and I were in Sunday School at 10 o'clock and church service at 11 o'clock.

Mt. Nebo Missionary Baptist Church was a skip and a hop from our house, so we usually left the house walking two minutes before Sunday School began.

At least one Sunday every other month, my trip to church was more than a 100-yard journey.

My Uncle Walter, who was pastor of Mt. Nebo was also pastor of a church in Cross City, and I would occasionally go with him to church in Cross City.

And our neighbor, the Rev. P.H., was pastor of a church in Georgia, and sometimes I would attend church with him.

Going to church in Cross City was no different than going to church at home. I was related to half the congregation in church, and after church, we ate dinner at a family member's house. So, unless we ate dinner at one of the other church sisters' house, no one was trying to impress us with a meal fit for a pastor.

However, attending church with the Rev. P.H. in Georgia was like being a judge in a competition of "Cooking for the Pastor."

It's funny what I remember about those trips with the Rev. P.H.

I remember the Rev. P.H. driving, Cousin Fannie Lou, his wife, in the front seat, and me, their son, Bobby, and Koski in the back seat playing "I Spy" and "20 Questions" because there was no radio or handheld games to keep us occupied.

I recall the hours it took us to get there because the Rev. P.H. always drove below the speed limit, but I don't recall the name of the town in Georgia we went to.

I can still visualize the small church at the end of a dirt road in a rural farming community, but most of all, I can still taste those after-church dinners cooked for the pastor.

We ate dinner at the home of an elderly lady, the "Mother of the Church," more than we ate at other houses. She was a great cook, and, every pastor dinner she prepared consisted of two entrees — always fried chicken and another meat, four or five sides — collards or mustard greens, fresh peas, macaroni and cheese, potato salad, and cornbread, two desserts — a cake and a cobbler, and a keg of homemade tea or lemonade.

Every dish she prepared was fit for a pastor, but her cornbread had to be created for the pastor's boss.

All the church sisters went out of their way on the Sunday the Rev. P.H. was having dinner at their house, but in the end, there was no competition over who won the "Cooking for the Pastor" competition.

All the meals were appreciated, and all of them were blessed.

But only one meal had the "Mother of the Church's" cornbread, which made a meal fit for a pastor so much more.

Bathing Beauty

Summer time is fun time in Taylor County -- bathing suits come out and everyone is ready to "dive in" to the nearest cool body of water...whether it be a pool, river, pond or the Gulf. Featured here are two advertisements from the 1920s promoting summer's best: (above) the very latest in swimsuit fashions were available at the Burton-Swartz Mercantile Company and (right) admission charges for the swimming pool at Hampton Springs started at 25¢ for adults and bathing suit rentals were 20¢.

BUCKLE UP

On July 1, a new law went into effect which many young parents may have complained about, but which hopefully prevented a few tragedies. The law required that all children age four and under to wear some sort of child restraint device while driving in an automobile. It is very specific in its wording, and while older children are allowed to wear seat belts, younger children and infants must be in an approved safety seat while in a car or truck. The cost of these devices was not light. An infant seat could cost as much as $100. But that price was minuscule when compared to the cost of losing a life.

WACISSA RIVER CANOE RACE AND RUN

It was good fun for a good cause Saturday, June 11, as more than 50 people participated in the March of Dimes Canoe Race and Canoe Run down the Wacissa River. The participants got free beer at the end of the race, courtesy of Miller Beer, but some of them started a bit sooner. A couple of the canoes tipped over at the starting line, but no one seemed to care that much. In the Canoe Run, North Floridians collected pledges from local businesses and individuals to benefit the March of Dimes. For the second year in a row, Perry residents Darlene and John Rice collected more pledges than any other entrants — a total of $903 — and won a canoe for their efforts.

NEW FACES ON PATROL

Taylor County residents may have noticed a number of new faces patrolling neighborhoods in the black and white patrol cars of the Perry Police Department. The newest members of the PPD were Officers John Ching, Ben Flowers, Gena Morgan and Investigator Jim Robertson.

Grand Opening

Shady Grove Community Center

Residents had the opportunity to tour the county's newly-completed $324,520 community center in Shady Grove during ribbon-cutting ceremonies held Thursday, June 7. County officials said this week they are finalizing a rental fee schedule and policies for the facility. The county's Community Services Director Deidra Newman will be the point of contact for all rental arrangements. The center, located adjacent to Shady Grove Park, was built by local contractor Michael Lynn. It boasts a state-of-the-art kitchen, lap and gap pine siding, a small stage and a fireplace, as well as wrap-around porches.

The exterior of the community center echoes a Cracker-style home with a pitched roof line and wrap-around porches.

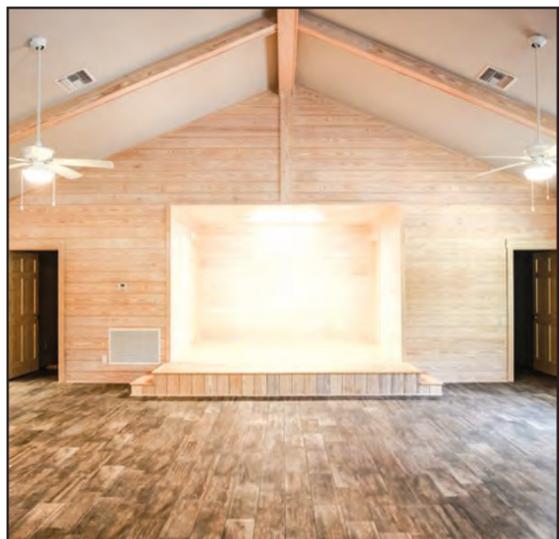

The kitchen is a chef's dream, with state-of-the-art appliances, custom cabinets and spacious counter tops. (Photos by Rebecca Vann Photography)

A stone fireplace anchors one end of the banquet hall.

The center's cathedral ceilings are complemented by wood beams. Lap siding covers the walls and lighted ceiling fans add a finishing touch.

The center also features a small stage.

Shady Grove Community Center Grand Opening/Ribbon Cutting

Attendance was very good last Thursday when the new community center was officially opened.

County Commissioner Pam Feagle welcomed everyone, Pastor Danny Lundy prayed a prayer of dedication, and yours truly thanked the county for their support, with special thanks to Commissioner Feagle and to Commissioner Malcom Page for their consistent support of improvements to the park as well as the new community center.

The center will serve citizens of Shady Grove and all of Taylor County.

After the ribbon cutting by Commissioner Feagle, guests enjoyed an array of delicious food provided by the Shady Grove Citizens Council. Thanks to Commissioner Feagle and to Joe Mattingly of Rocky's for providing the delicious chicken wings.

Rocking Chairs

The rocking chairs and gliders that were purchased for the community center have been placed on the porch and look good. We still have room for a few more rockers.

If anyone is interested, please call 838-6692. When I passed by the park today, I saw a mother sitting on the porch while her children played on the playground -- which was a pleasant sight!

BLESSING OF THE FLEET

Annual tradition continues Saturday at Keaton Beach

A "Blessing of the Fleet" will be held at Keaton Beach Boat Ramp from 9-11 a.m., Saturday, June 16, in conjunction with the opening day of the 2018 scallop season.

The Rev. Aquilla Hanson of St. James Episcopal Church continues the tradition of blessing the boats and crews at the beginning of scallop season by sprinkling holy water and blessing each vessel participating in the annual event. "The Blessing of the Fleet is a tradition that began centuries ago in Mediterranean fishing communities. The practice began predominantly Catholic, but is now practiced by all Christians. It is a blessing from the local priest and pastors that is meant to ensure a safe and bountiful season," Hanson said. "The tradition of Blessing of the Fleet is asking God to protect all the boats that will go out and, through God's graciousness, that the catch be bountiful and good. It's a wonderful celebration of our faith, our history, our legacy and the tradition of the church to bless those going to the seas for a catch. It is a real privilege that we recognize everything we get out of the Gulf of Mexico is a gift, so we need to say, 'thank you' to God," Hanson said.

Why be positive?

By SARAH HALL

The Jars

The preacher placed two identical jars on the table next to the pulpit. He quoted 1 Samuel 16:7 "The Lord does not look at the things man looks at. Man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart."

These jars came from the same factory, were made from the same materials and could hold the same amount, but they are different, he explained.

Then he upset one and it oozed out honey.

He turned over the other and vinegar spilled out.

"When a jar is upset, whatever is in it comes out. Until the jars were upset, they looked alike. The difference was within and could not be seen. When they were upset, their contents were revealed."

Until we are upset, we put on a good front. But when we are upset, we reveal our innermost thoughts and attitudes, for "out of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaks" (Luke 6:45).

What if someone tipped you over today? What would flow out? Would you reveal the "honey" of grace and patience, or the "vinegar" of anger and sarcasm?

"Above all, love each other deeply, because love covers over a multitude of sins" (1 Peter 4:8).

Have a terrific day knowing that the one who upsets you may be just looking for some honey.

It pays to be positive

Sometimes we try too hard to get what we already have.

A positive attitude is very important to our healing process. By now we should know that a positive attitude is a major key in our life.

We've read it so many times and we've heard it over and over, so by now we should believe it. Our physical and mental healing is at the top of the list.

No, it's not easy. When Jesus was teaching his disciples (Matthew 10:78), He bade them "As you go, preach, saying, the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, chase out devils; freely you have received, freely give."

Let nothing and no one divert your mind from believing that you will be healed.

In Psalm 107:9-20, David wrote, "I cried unto the Lord and He heard my cries and He delivered me."

Instead of questioning and criticizing the weaknesses of yourself and others, ask God to give you strength to obey and keep his commandments. Christ is giving all of us the same opportunity. He simply said, "Follow me!"

It is our responsibility to create within ourselves a positive attitude and an individual ministry of healing. Digest the Word of God as a hungry person digests a meal. Believers know without a doubt, we can be healed!

In the darkest moments, when pain is out of control, when tears cover your face and doubts begin to control your mind, pray. Pray and keep your positive thoughts active.

We can't give up, we've just got to fight. Jesus is there. He will not leave us or forsake us. The ministry of healing must be part of our daily lives. When the healing comes, remember to give Him thanks and glorify our Father, which is in Heaven.

Wise words

A good listener often has the reputation for wisdom. So if you don't know much, listen for all you're worth.

Happy Father's Day

An Ode to Fathers

There are dads, husbands, granddads and others, but fathers stand out for themselves. They don't have to be prodded, persuaded, threatened or asked. They know who they are and what their responsibility and purpose on earth is. They are kind, loving, concerned, caring and responsible. They accept help only when needed. They are always available, eager and ready. Their arms are always open. Their love for their own and humanities are given freely. Their hearts know no limit. Their words are sweet, gentle and kind. God sent them. The family praises them. The community needs them. The world would be a better place to live in if there were more fathers.

More than $3,000 in cash, prizes handed out to winners

Nauti-Girls tourney draws 230 lady anglers

The 9th annual Nauti-Girls fishing tournament continues to grow each year, and once again broke the previous attendance record from last year's tournament with 230 lady anglers registering to fish this past weekend in Steinhatchee. The tide and weather were perfect for the event, and the fish were biting, as 110 fish were weighed in by lady anglers.

Over $3,000 in cash and prizes were awarded in the 14 winning categories.

Winning first place in the Red Grouper division was Kelly Driggers with a 5.1 lb. fish, followed by Ashley Ward, who received second place with a 4.55 lb. red grouper.

Marcie Fern claimed second-place in the Gag Grouper category with a fish weighing 13.1 lbs., behind Chloe Green, who won first place with a 15.8 lb. gag.

Diane Watson won the largest Flounder prize, weighing in a 3.15-lb. fish, while Paisley Baggs won the largest ladyfish with a 1.5 lb. fish.

Karen Reddish won by catching a 3.3 lb. redfish that was closest to the Mystery Redfish weight, while Brittany English caught the "Redfish with the Most Spots" (10) to win that category.

Winning the Largest Redfish division was Ashley Walker with a 6.5 lb. fish, followed by Camillia Pace, who just narrowly missed winning first place by one ounce. She had to settle for second place with a 6.4 lb. redfish.

In third place was Angela Dailey, who weighed in a 6.2 lb. redfish.

Laura Gauronsky hauled in the first-place fish in the Trout division, which weighed in at 5.15 lbs., followed by Linda Pena with a 4.3 lb. fish that claimed second place. Chelsea Morrow caught a 3.95 lb. trout that won her third place.

The huge support this tournament receives from its sponsors and participants allows the Steinhatchee Community Projects Board to contribute back to the communities of Jena and Steinhatchee throughout the year.

Proceeds from this event are used to maintain the Steinhatchee Community Center and to fund the Community Project Board's scholarship program for local youth, as well as to fulfill its mission to facilitate the services needed by citizens of Steinhatchee.

Chloe Green reeled in the first-place gag grouper weighing 15.8 pounds.

Ashley Walker caught the tournament's first-place redfish, which weighed 6.5 pounds.

Laura Gauronsky's first-place trout weighed 5.15 pounds.

Kelly Driggers took first place in the red grouper category with her 5.1-pound fish.

Paisley Baggs and team show off the largest ladyfish, along with the rest of their catch from the day. The winning fish weighed 1.5 pounds.

War Eagles prepping for season, several teams accepting players

The Taylor County War Eagles, sponsored by the Boys and Girls Club, are looking forward to beginning their third season as a member of (AYF) American Youth Football league.

The War Eagles have over 70 athletes -- ranging in age from 7 to 13 -- who have been practicing hard and are anxiously preparing for their jamboree game scheduled for Aug. 11 at the Taylor County Sports Complex.

The jamboree will consist of every team in the conference, including: Pensacola Hype, Tallahassee Warriors, Bainbridge Saints and the Wakulla Razorbacks.

The 7-and-Under (7U) War Eagles team, coached by Robert Murphy, is still accepting players for the fall football season.

Alan Dodimead is the coach of the 9U War Eagles, who will be returning eight starters from the 2017 season, led by Jayce Johnson, who was the team's "Most Valuable Player" last year.

Shanton Edwards will lead the 11U War Eagles squad that will return all of its players -- fueling very high expectations heading into the 2018 season.

The 11U War Eagles offense will be led by three-year starter Trayce Abercrombie at tailback, as Taylor County will feature a single-wing rushing attack.

The 13U War Eagles are still accepting players as well and encouraging all sixth graders that are interested in playing football to come join the team.

For any additional information, feel free to contact Shanton Edwards at 584-8448.

Keaton Beach Fishing Report

Trout fishing good as weather allows

By PAT MCGRIFF
onemorecast@gtcom.net

This past Saturday I had three ladies fishing with me in the Nauti-Girls Tournament out of Steinhatchee.

Laura Gavronsky of St. Augustine was one of the three. Laura caught the tournament-winning trout in the 2016 Nauti-Girls tourney while fishing on board One More Cast that year.

Well, Anita, Janice and Laura had all caught some nice trout on the first three drifts out in 6.5 to 7 feet of water, despite the flat-calm and slick conditions.

It was still, and it was HOT! I decided to cool us off by making a move to a shallower flat (4-5 feet).

Well, just as we got there -- on Laura's first cast -- Bang! The Back Bay Thunder never stopped moving as soon as it hit the water!

She set the hook, and the reel started screaming as the line was peeling off, when suddenly the fish buried up (or went to ground) and stopped moving.

I got Anita and Janice to pull their lines in and drove over behind where the fish had nosed up.

Well, it worked. The fish took off again, only to repeat the burying up part again.

This time she came up by herself, and as she rolled on the surface I saw it was a big trout!

After a gnarly dash under the boat, I managed to net the fish for Laura.

After the weigh-in, we discovered the 25.5-inch, 5.15 lb. beauty was good enough to earn Laura another first-place finish in the Nauti-Girl Trout Category.

Congratulations Laura! Two first-place finishes in three years!

We finished the trip with four reds and 12 trout, including three over 20 inches long.

This week trout fishing has been good, if you get out when the weather would allow.

We dodged the storms Tuesday for over two hours, running from one storm in front of Jabo, then driving south down below Piney Point, before turning around and heading back up toward Spring Warrior and settling in on some dark water in 3.5-4 feet, where we wound up with 13 trout, including three over 20 inches -- one of which was a 24-inch trout for Eric Mullis of Sylvester, Ga. down fishing with Cal Beanblossom and myself.

We also had three redfish measuring up to 24 inches that we caught on live pinfish under Back Bay Thunders.

Wednesday was the best day of the week for me as far as the weather was concerned, with beautiful blue skies moving in after an early-morning shower. I had Kaylan Love of Jacksonville, Florida and Don Ware of Cocoa Beach with me, as we reeled in 15 trout (with two over 20 inches) and released two reds over 29 inches.

We caught the trout in 5.5 to 6.5 feet and the reds in 3 feet of water -- all on live pinfish under Back Bays.

Additional sidewalks, lights for Loughridge Park among recommendations for council's 5-year plan

The Perry City Council is peering into a proverbial crystal ball and looking at recommendations for five years' worth of capital improvement projects.

Additional sidewalks and lights for the Loughridge Park walking trail are on the list, as well as the proposed canopy/balcony project for downtown Perry.

In discussions held throughout the past few regular meetings, council members have also expressed an interest in coordinating the city's sidewalk expansion project with any upcoming improvements the county has planned for Old Dixie Highway.

"We now have that in the plans for the next fiscal year or the year after. So when they do that, we should look at tying in Center Street to that," Mayor David Sullivan said.

"Since I relocated my offices to the corner of Center Street and Highway 27, I can tell you there is a lot of foot traffic and bicyclists on that road," he said.

Councilwoman Venita Woodfaulk asked that an additional paved area be added near the splash pad at Gerald Walker Park and Councilwoman Shirlee Hampton said she wanted to add a lighting project at Loughridge Park.

"Also, everybody knows what I really want -- what a lot of people want -- a swimming pool. I'll address that at a later date," Hampton said.

Looking at the recommendations presented by City Manager Bob Brown, she asked, "Are we still looking at $6.5 million for canopies downtown?"

"We bid out the whole project and it's still out for bids. Once they are back in, we'll have a better idea of the actual numbers," Brown said.

All of the projects fall under the five-year capital improvements program outlined by the city manager each year. The final recommendations must be approved by July 1.

Projects currently in the plan include:

- Fiscal Year 2018-19: sidewalk repair, $10,000; patio at Jerkins Splash Pad, $25,000; street construction/reconstruction, $200,000; water plant filtration (includes well), $2,875,000; Folsom Park Swimming

Spring, $100,000; and purchase new trash/dump truck, $115,000.

- Fiscal Year 2019-20: sidewalk repair, $10,000; street construction/reconstruction, $200,000; new water well, $800,000; and Loughridge Park trail lights, $75,000 (plus $5,000 reoccurring operating expenses).
- Fiscal Year 2020-21: sidewalk repair, $40,000; street construction/reconstruction, $200,000; lift station rehabilitation, $100,000; gas system expansion, $20,000 and garbage truck, $140,000.

- Fiscal Year 2021-22: sidewalk repair, $10,000; street construction/reconstruction, $200,000; construction new water plant, $6,200,000; and fire house refurbish, $150,000.
- Fiscal Year 2022-23: sidewalk repair, $10,000; street construction/reconstruction, $200,000; and move city compound from Drew Street to Goff Street, $2,000,000.

The city council is expected to formally adopt the plan at its next meeting, set Tuesday, June 26.

Cypress Creek Bridge, Fish Creek Bridge to be replaced

Residents of the south end of the county will soon see two bridges being replaced on Beach Road (CR 361), located on either side of Keaton Beach.

The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) is planning to replace the Cypress Creek Bridge and Fish Creek Bridge -- both located on the section of County Road (CR) 361 known as Beach Road -- within the next year.

The Cypress Lake Bridge (No. 380038) is located on Beach Road just south of Dead Man's Curve.

FDOT plans to replace the existing 75-year-old, 60-foot concrete bridge with a new structure that meets current traffic and load requirements.

A similar project also in the planning stages by FDOT includes replacing Fish Creek Bridge (No. 380068) located on Beach Road (CR 361) south of Keaton Beach and just north of the entrance to Hagan's Cove.

The project will include replacing the existing 65-year-old, 12-foot wide by 4-foot high concrete double box culvert bridge with a new structure meeting current traffic and load rating requirements.

At their March 5 meeting, county commissioners approved amendments to both agreements first signed by the county in 2016 to replace the bridges.

The Construction & Maintenance Agreements provide for FDOT to fund, design, manage and construct the bridge replacements at no expense to Taylor County, using federal funds.

The issue came before the county recently because FDOT was informed that specific language needed to be included in the agreements to limit its financial liability for any additions to the scope of the projects -- such as if the county were to request additional mowing cycles, litter pick-up, etc.

Under the revised agreements, any modifications to the project by Taylor County outside of the current scope would only be included at the county's expense.

According to County Engineer Kenneth Dudley, there are a total of seven bridge replacement projects in various stages of completion throughout the county.

One bridge replacement project is currently underway on the north end of the county near Shady Grove (Donaldson Bridge), and there are three more local bridge replacement projects in the design phase, including Rocky Creek Bridge on Woods Creek Road and two Spring Warrior Creek Bridges on the Beach Road.

CR14A ECONFINA RIVER (Donaldson Bridge) Replacement: Work began on Feb. 26, 2018 and is expected to be completed in 200 days. Total cost is $2.6 million, including $20,609 in engineering work and $2.3 million in construction work in 2018 and another $297,099 in 2019.

CR361 at FISH CREEK BRIDGE: In 2018, FDOT is scheduled to undertake project development and environmental work ($45,733), preliminary engineering ($30,188), right-of-way ($761) and highway/environmental work ($38,000) for a total of $114,682 in 2018. Actual construction ($2.3 million) of the bridge replacement is scheduled for 2019.

CR 361 (KEATON BEACH RD) OVER CLEARWATER CREEK BRIDGE: Preliminary engineering and project development and environmental work is now underway in 2018 ($16,649), followed by highways and right-of-way work in 2019 ($216,458) and actual bridge replacement construction scheduled for 2021 ($2.9 million).

CR 361 (KEATON BEACH RD) OVER SPRING WARRIOR CREEK BRIDGE #380035: Project development and environmental work ($455,684) is underway in 2018, with additional engineering ($705,684) set for 2019, followed by right-of-way work in 2020 ($30,000), 2021 ($46,550) and 2022 ($4089) and construction of the replacement bridge set for 2023 ($2,872,967).

CR 361 (KEATON BEACH RD) OVER SPRING WARRIOR CREEK BRIDGE #380037: Project development and environmental work begins in 2018 ($456,078), followed by preliminary engineering work in 2019 ($706,078). Highway and right-of-way work is planned for 2021 ($17,000) and 2022 ($33,224) before bridge replacement construction in 2023 ($3,074,636).

CR 361 (KEATON

BEACH ROAD) @ CYPRESS LAKE BRIDGE: Right-of-way ($3,957) and preliminary engineering work ($29,212) began in 2018, while actual construction is set for 2019 ($2,202,822).

CR361B OVER ROCKY CREEK BRIDGE: Project development and environmental work is now underway in 2018 ($456,540), preliminary engineering work is scheduled for 2019

($756,540), followed by highway and right-of-way work in 2021 ($29,000), 2022 ($50,700) and 2023 ($23,759). Construction of the bridge replacement over Rocky Creek is set for 2023 ($3,327,107).

Teaching position approved

TCMS to offer Agriculture

Taylor County Middle School (TCMS) students interested in agriculture will no longer have to wait until high school to study the subject, thanks to a unanimous vote by the Taylor County School Board to establish an Agriculture position at the middle school for the 2018-19 school year.

The board voted on the subject at their June 5 meeting, after TCMS Principal Kiki Puhl requested the position be established for the upcoming year.

"This allows us to introduce students to agriculture, and agriculture technology, at a younger age and broaden our program,"

Superintendent Danny Glover Jr. said during the meeting.

According to School Board Chairwoman Brenda Carlton, the Agriculture teacher at the middle school will work closely with the TCHS Agriculture teacher, "but the new position will be housed at the middle school."

UNDER THE MARQUEE

By MARK VIOLA

'Hotel Artemis' combines a lot of genres for a wild & fun ride

It's rather rare to see a movie that wears its influences on its sleeve right out in the open and still manages to feel mostly original. Quentin Tarantino has made a career of doing just that, which is apt, because there is definitely a bit of Tarantino in "Hotel Artemis" -- an action thriller about a group of criminals cooped up in an ultra-secret underground hospital set in a riot-torn Los Angeles of the near future.

The film is written and directed by Drew Pearce, who makes his feature directorial debut after helping to pen a handful of blockbusters, including "Iron Man 3" and "Mission: Impossible - Rogue Nation."

In "Hotel Artemis," he delivers an odd mix of the old and new. The entire film is set within an aging building seemingly unchanged from the 1920s, but outfitted with technology from the future to give it a science-fiction flavor that meshes surprisingly well.

The title location is run by the Nurse (Jodie Foster, "Panic Room"), who treats the world's criminals, as long as they can afford a membership and agree to abide by her rules -- including doing no harm to their fellow patients. Helping her is the orderly Everest (Dave Bautista, "Avengers: Infinity War").

On this particular night, with the city burning down around them, the patients (known only by the code names given to them upon arrival), include: Waikiki (Sterling K. Brown, "This Is Us"), who is there seeking treatment for his brother, Honolulu (Brian Tyree Henry, "Atlanta"), after a bank heist goes sideways; Nice (Sofia Boutella, "Atomic Blonde"), a woman who is much deadlier than she first appears; and Niagara (Charlie Day, "Pacific Rim: Uprising"), a jerk who sees himself above everyone else.

Unfortunately, most of them have one form of connection or another to the Wolf King (Jeff Goldblum, "Thor: Ragnarok"), the crime boss running the city who is on his way to the Artemis as well.

On the surface, there are obvious similarities to the Continental Hotel from the "John Wick" movies, and the over-the-top characters, in some ways, resemble those found in Tarantino's flicks, but as I said, there is enough originality here that I still found myself enjoying the movie. The story is admittedly rather predictable, however, and relies on a few too many coincidences.

Overall, the solid action, intriguing characters (although many of them could have used more development) and odd dichotomy between the film's set designs and its science-fiction elements produce a fun ride which doesn't overstay its welcome with a lean, 93-minute runtime.

It's not a great movie, and it's not as good as many of its influences, but action fans looking for something a bit less violent than "Upgrade" may want to check in for a stay.

The film is rated R for violence and language throughout, some sexual references and brief drug use.

'First Reformed' is about faith and radicalization in an unexpected package

While the summer-movie season is filled with big-budget blockbusters and high-profile projects, there is still room for smaller fare to find its way to the big screen. One of the latest to do so -- and make it to our area -- is "First Reformed," from writer/director Paul Schrader ("City Hall," "American Gigolo"), who has also penned some extremely well-known films such as "Taxi Driver" and "Raging Bull."

This is a slow, methodical film with multiple layers to the story of Toller (Ethan Hawke, "The Magnificent Seven"), a pastor dealing with demons from his past as he tries to lead the tiny flock of First Reformed, a centuries-old church in upstate New York. Toller's faith in mankind will be tested when he is asked by one of his parishioners Mary (Amanda Seyfried, "Les Misérables") to speak with her husband, Michael (Philip Etinger, "Dominion"), whose worries over environmental destruction have led him to despair.

"First Reformed" is a movie that both fascinated and completely befuddled me. As I said, there are multiple layers to the story, and I think different people will latch onto different ones. For me, I found myself watching a story of how someone can become radicalized through experiences both past and present. Considering how such stories these days are usually framed, I found this a very interesting departure.

Unfortunately, the ending seems to arrive completely out of left field, jarring not only myself but the handful of others who were in the theater with me. Despite my befuddlement over the ending, I can't seem to shake the movie, even days after watching it, which is a testament to what DID work.

Hawke, who has been one of my favorite actors since "Gattaca" in 1997, delivers his best performance in years as a man suffering physically, emotionally and spiritually. I also enjoyed Schrader's directing style, which was very low-key, allowing the scenes to develop slowly and providing the actors a chance to really shine.

All of that being said, "First Reformed" is not a mainstream movie, and if you're not into slow-moving character pieces, this is definitely not for you. Additionally, if you don't like narration, then stay far away. Toller is writing a journal and Hawke's voice over as Toller jots down his thoughts

'Ocean's 8' isn't an original score but it still manages to entertain

If you asked me to rank my favorite movies, something I have never done -- and have no plans to do so -- I'm quite confident that the 2001 remake of "Ocean's Eleven," starring George Clooney, Brad Pitt, Matt Damon and company, would be safely inside my Top 20 movies of all time. It's a great heist movie, and it sports one of the best ensembles I can think of in a movie of its type.

Unfortunately, its 2004 sequel, "Ocean's Twelve," was a disappointing mess, despite the return of the cast and director Steven Soderbergh. This eventually resulted in the much more satisfying "Ocean's Thirteen," which sent the franchise off on a better note, birthing the term "redemption movie" which I have used for films that try to make up for a disappointing installment.

Now, 11 years after the last film in the series, we have a new spin-off, "Ocean's 8," with an all-female principal cast centered around Debbie Ocean (Sandra Bullock, "Gravity"), the sister of criminal mastermind Danny Ocean (Clooney). After the massive backlash hurled at "Ghostbusters," another all-female project, I was curious to see if "Ocean's 8" would receive a similar treatment. Fortunately, it didn't happen, and I mostly credit that to the fact that this film is not a remake -- throwing out the original stories we've all come to love -- and instead is a new story set within the existing world of the films that came before it.

The film begins with Debbie about to be paroled from prison after a job went wrong, much like how the original film began with Danny. Also like that film, Debbie returns to the outside world with a plan ready to hatch for a big score, if she can gather together the right crew. And because she's a bit more efficient than her brother, Debbie will only need a total of eight. The target? The annual Met Gala, and more specifically a $150 million necklace around the neck of one of the attendees. If all goes well, each partner will walk away with an eight-figure payday.

Unfortunately, "Ocean's 8" is a heist movie that doesn't really deliver anything new to what we've seen before, but it still provides an entertaining two hours for those who like heist movies (myself included). If you are looking for a new spin on the genre or a truly inventive script, you're not going to find it here. Both from a writing and directing standpoint, with Gary Ross ("Pleasantville," "Seabiscuit") taking over the directing duties from Soderbergh as well as co-writing the script, this new film isn't as slick and styled as the original. What it does do is hit many of the same beats, so they're not as surprising or impactful as the first time we saw them.

But again, the film is a lot more entertaining than perhaps it has any right being and is still much better than "Ocean's Twelve." It is helped by a stellar cast that also includes Cate Blanchett ("Thor: Ragnarok"), Mindy Kaling ("The Mindy Project"), Sarah Paulson ("American Horror Story"), Awkwafina ("Neighbors 2: Sorority Rising"), Rihanna ("Annie"), Helena Bonham Carter ("Alice in Wonderland") and Anne Hathaway ("Interstellar").

The cast really is the film's best asset. Bullock is great as the mastermind and is quite believable as a career criminal. Blanchett is essentially the Brad Pitt character in this version, and provides the same quiet, calm partner for Bullock's Debbie. Hathaway plays the mark, and she admirably had fun with the persona given to her by the media and movie fans who have, for some reason, turned on her in recent years. I also really enjoyed where the story took her character.

I do wish "Ocean's 8" had the same freshness that "Ocean's Eleven" did, or at least found a way to give it a good polish, but despite those flaws, I still have to come back to the fact that I enjoyed watching the movie, which is really its biggest score.

The film is rated PG-13 for language, drug use and some suggestive content.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Theatre Tallahassee's 2017-18 season concludes with the main-stage production of Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park." Paul and Corie Bratter are newlyweds in every sense of the word. He's a straight-as-an-arrow lawyer, and she's a free spirit always looking for the latest kick. Their new apartment is her most recent find -- too expensive, with bad plumbing and in need of a paint job. After a six-day honeymoon, they get a surprise visit from Corie's loopy mother and decide to play matchmaker during a dinner with their neighbor-in-the-attic, Velasco, where everything that can go wrong, does. outnumbers the words the character actually speaks.

I found "First Reformed" an intriguing movie, despite -- or perhaps because of -- the fact I didn't fully understand it. It has an interesting, if sometimes infuriating, story, great performances and a haunting directing style.

Schrader ties all of these elements together into an oddly-shaped bundle resting under the metaphorical Christmas tree that I can't seem to keep myself from staring at in a vain attempt to figure out its mysteries.

The movie is rated R for some disturbing violent images.

THIS WEEKEND AT THE MOVIES

June is proving to be a bountiful month when it comes to new movies, with another three wide releases arriving this week.

Up first is "Incredibles 2," the much-anticipated sequel to one of Pixar's most beloved films -- 2004's "The Incredibles." After 14 years, writer/director Brad Bird is finally back to deliver the next chapter in the lives of the Parr family, who just happen to be superheroes in disguise. Despite the long wait between movies, the story reportedly picks up almost immediately after the end of the first film, this time with Elastigirl (Holly Hunter) going out to fight crime while her husband, Mr. Incredible (Craig T. Nelson) stays at home with the kids, Violet (Sarah Vowell), Dash (Huck Milner, taking over for Spencer Fox) and Jack Jack (Eli Fucile). The trailers have kept much of the story under wraps, but a new threat will arise, and the Parrs will have to decide whether to break their cover once again. I've complained many times about sequels, but I've been anticipating this one for the past 14 years. Hopefully it is worth the wait.

The film is rated PG for action sequences and some brief mild language.

"Superfly" is a remake of the 1972 blaxploitation film "Super Fly." The updated version is directed by prolific music-video creator Director X ("Across the Line") with a script from Alex Tse ("Watchmen"). The story follows Youngblood Priest (Trevor Jackson, "Grown-ish"), a big player in the Atlanta, Ga., criminal underground. He has it all, but when a new threat arrives with connections to Mexican cartels, he will have to make one last big score if he has any hope of escaping with his life and everything he cares about. The cast also includes Michael Kenneth Williams ("The Wire"), Jason Mitchell ("Straight Outta Compton"), Lex Scott Davis ("Training Day") and Jennifer Morrison ("Once Upon a Time"). I've never seen the original film, but the trailer looks solid, and this could be a quality summer crime thriller.

The movie is rated R for violence and language throughout, strong sexuality, nudity and drug content.

Finally, we have "Tag," perhaps the most ridiculous movie ever based on a true story. The ensemble comedy revolves around a group of former classmates who have been continuing a game of tag for decades, sometimes traveling across the country to play. When one of the friends (Jeremy Renner, "Captain America: Civil War") -- who has never been tagged -- announces he is about to retire, the rest of the group sets out to finally do what has never been done. The cast includes Isla Fisher ("Now You See Me"), Jake Johnson ("The New Girl"), Jon Hamm ("Baby Driver"), Ed Helms ("The Hangover"), Rashida Jones ("Parks and Recreation") and Annabelle Wallis ("The Mummy"). Amazingly, this movie is based on a Wall Street Journal article about real-life people. I have no idea if this is going to be any good, but based on the premise alone, I want to see it!

The film is rated R for language throughout, crude sexual content, drug use and brief nudity.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

FROM THE RECIPE BOOK: SIMPLIFY COCKTAIL PARTY PREP

Hosting is a big responsibility that only gets bigger when food is being served.

Hosts without much time on their hands to prepare foods for cocktail hour need only a few minutes to whip up the following recipe for "Gorgonzola Canapés with Walnuts" from A.J. Rathbun's "Party Snacks!" (Harvard Common Press).

- Gorgonzola Canapés with Walnuts
Makes 30 canapés
- 1 1/2 cups crumbled Gorgonzola cheese
 - 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
 - 30 sturdy round

- crackers
 - 3/4 cup dried cranberries
 - 1/4 cup minced fresh parsley
1. In a medium-size bowl, toss the Gorgonzola and walnuts. When tossing, be gentle, as you don't want to end up with big clumps.
 2. Top each cracker with a small mound of the cheese mixture, pressing the mixture lightly onto each cracker to keep it from slipping off. Top each cracker with 3 or 4 cranberries, and sprinkle a touch of minced parsley on top of each.

Don't forget your boat ramp decal

County-maintained boat ramps require a yearly pass or a daily pass paid at the ramp, before launching your vessel. Boat ramp decals are valid a year from the date issued and should be affixed to the winch post of the trailer, back glass of the vehicle or bumper of the vehicle.

The boat ramp decal gives you access to Aucilla at Mandalay, Aucilla at Bowden's Landing, Dark Island, Keaton Beach and the Steinhatchee boat ramps.

Annual passes (decals) are $20, while a daily pass is $5. Decals can be purchased at the Taylor County Tax Collector's offices in the courthouse and on U.S. 19, as well as Wilson's Bait & Tackle, Steinhatchee Bait & Tackle and Sea Hag Marina in Steinhatchee.

Decals can also be purchased online at www.taylorcountytaxcollector.com.

Long-term goals call for 150 employees by 2021

Amrouch's senior financial partners.

"Amrouch is excited about the ceremony and an opportunity to personally meet the community's leadership," Frederick said. "I'd like to thank everyone who had a hand in the effort to make this project a reality."

"Special thanks to Taylor County Board of County Commissioners Chair Pam Feagle, Perry Mayor David Sullivan and each member of the county commission and city council for taking time to engage in one-on-one meetings with Amrouch executives," Frederick said. "Additionally, I want to recognize Mark Wiggins, Taylor County Tax Collector, for his assistance in this initiative."

"Amrouch was able to meet one-on-one with elected officials from both government entities, and that is what separated us from the competition. The company was impressed with the united front demonstrated by city and county officials, which played an integral part in their decision-making process to select Perry and Taylor County over a similar facility in a bordering state," Frederick added. "Economic development is a team sport, and you can't win without teamwork."

"Please make plans to attend this event and show your support for Taylor County's newest corporate citizen," Frederick said.

Taylor County's economic outlook grew much brighter in March when news broke that Amrouch Snacks had finalized a deal to purchase the former Snyder's-Lance potato chip plant in Perry and planned to re-open the shuttered facility that closed in September 2017.

Amrouch held a community job fair that drew several hundred applicants before opening with a workforce of around 40 individuals.

The family-owned company now manufactures, produces and distributes quality extruded and puffed corn snacks for private label (store brands for stores like Family Dollar), with packaging and boxes stating the products are manufactured and distributed from the local Perry plant located on Hwy. 19.

The first run of cheese balls, cheese puffs, veggie straws, jalepeno straws, multi-grain chips and onion rings were produced last month.

The Snyder's-Lance plant was employing 101 people when the company announced in July it was closing the plant. The last bag of potato chips left the line on Sept. 27.

Just days following the plant closure, Frederick and the TCDA formed a task force to identify food-related companies that could move or expand operations in Perry.

After four months of communicating with national real estate firms specializing in food properties from

New England to California, Amrouch Snacks was identified as a good fit for both the building and the community.

Company executives made several visits to Perry to tour the facility, and soon after a broker signed a binder to purchase the property and equipment.

The TCDA was engaged in final negotiations with the company and facilitated the actual sale closing near the end of the first quarter of 2018.

In addition to opening a food manufacturing plant here, the company is reportedly considering building a packaging plant on site, which could have a positive impact on the number of employees it would need to effectively operate both plants.

Amrouch Snacks President Mahmoud Amrouch told the Perry City Council his company planned to offer salaries ranging from $13-$29 per hour. Projections called for the total number of employees to reach 60 within a number of months, and long-term goals include employing a total of 150 people by 2021.

"We have been looking all over the Southeast for a new facility. The challenge at our Miami facility is space, and that is why the plant here is such a good fit. It would allow us to go after the bigger contracts," Amrouch said.

The company also has a factory in Istanbul, Turkey with 300 employees.

"We initially produced packaging (for snack foods) and we are using profits from that line to grow our business. Our first year in the U.S., we had 10 employees. We almost tripled that number in just two years," Amrouch said.

80% of palmetto berry supply is from Florida

BIG BUSINESS

to nothing else, but rotten cheese steeped in tobacco juice," Dickinson wrote.

Some in the Far East believe the berries are a powerful aphrodisiac.

"More than two million American men use saw palmetto for enlarged prostate, and it is commonly recommended as an alternative treatment by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration," according to the Mayo Clinic web page.

Palmetto berry extracts have also been used for low sperm count, low sex drive, hair loss, bronchitis, diabetes, inflammation, migraine and prostate cancer, "although there is limited evidence supporting its effectiveness for these conditions," the Mayo Clinic website adds.

According to the Swanson Health Products, 80 percent of world's saw palmetto berry supply comes from Florida.

In recent years, palmetto berry poaching has become a major problem for land managers statewide. Berry-picking season starts in early August and can continue into September each year.

The palmetto berry market price can fluctuate daily, ranging from below $1 per pound to as high as $3 per pound during short periods of time when demand is high, but supplies are limited because plants fail to produce.

In 1995, with cattle prices low, a saw palmetto fruit boom provided much-needed income for some South Florida ranchers. One arrangement between landowners and pickers called for a 50/50 split of the proceeds.

On several properties the rancher's cut averaged about $100 per picker per day.

However, lured by the thought of making $200 or more per day, some pickers made a beeline for the berries, cutting fences, which caused cattle to be struck by vehicles and ranchers to be held liable for damage.

In addition to working in the sweltering heat, palmetto berry pickers have to deal with mosquitoes and yellow flies as well as rattlesnakes. During a palmetto berry "boom" of 1995, news reports indicated four pickers died after being bitten by snakes, and another drowned crossing a canal.

It is illegal to harvest any fruit, berries (including saw palmetto berries) plants or animals found on state and county property, especially on conservation lands, preserves and parks.

Anyone who enters public or private land to pick berries without lawful permission can be arrested for trespassing. Taking berries constitutes the crime of theft, which can be a misdemeanor or felony depending on the amount and value of the berries taken.

Private property owners can protect themselves by putting "NO TRESPASSING" signs on their property, as well as signs indicating that berry pickers are not allowed.

2018 Scallop Guide
Tips • Regulations • Recipes

Season opens Saturday for most of Taylor

For the second year in a row, the annual scallop season is opening early off much of the Taylor County coast, with scallopers first hitting the water this Saturday, June 16.

This region includes all state waters east of Rock Island near the mouth of the Fenholloway River in Taylor County (including the Beaches Area and Steinhatchee) and north of Alligator Pass Daybeacon #4 near the mouth of the Suwannee River in Levy County.

In addition to opening two weeks early, the region will close two weeks early as well on Sept. 10.

After implementing it last year for the first time, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) once again approved regionally-specific bay scallop open season dates for 2018 at its meeting in February.

The remainder of northwestern Taylor north through Franklin County (including Carrabelle, Lanark and St. Marks) will open

July 1 through Sept. 24. This region includes all state waters from the westernmost point of St. Vincent Island in Franklin County to Rock Island near the mouth of the Fenholloway River in Taylor County.

"Each summer, thousands of Floridians and visitors come to our coastal communities for the world's best scalloping," Gov. Rick Scott said.

"With the opening of scallop season, along with Florida's abundant fishing opportunities, I am encouraging everyone to experience for themselves why Florida is the Fishing Capital of the World. This is a great time to get outside and enjoy the Gulf Coast's beautiful waters, pristine beaches and world-class seafood."

"Harvesting bay scallops is a fun outdoor activity for the whole family," said Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) Chairman Bo Rivard. "The conservation of this species is important for recreation and the economics of these coastal areas."

Meanwhile, local law enforcement and emergency management officials are urging boaters to use caution while on the water with the number of divers searching for scallops.

"Be sure to use your dive flags and slow down," Taylor County Emergency Management officials said. "Boat ramps will be congested, so be patient and obey flagmen and officers."

The remaining areas include:

- Levy, Citrus and Hernando counties (including Cedar Key, Crystal River and Homosassa): July 1 through Sept. 24. This region includes all state waters south of Alligator Pass Daybeacon #4 near the mouth of the Suwannee River in Levy County and north of the Hernando - Pasco county line.

- St. Joseph Bay and Gulf

County: Aug. 17 through Sept. 30. This region includes all state waters from the Mexico Beach Canal in Bay County to the westernmost point of St. Vincent Island in Franklin County.

- Pasco County: FWC established a trial 10-day open season to run July 20-29. This region includes all state waters south of the Hernando - Pasco county line and north of the Seminar to be held in Steinhatchee tonight

What will the scallop crop be like this year off the Taylor County coast?

You can learn the answer to that and more at an informational "Scallop Seminar" scheduled for Friday, June 15, at Steinhatchee Community Center (1013 Riverside Drive) in Steinhatchee.

According to Taylor County Sea Grant UF/IFAS Extension Marine and Natural Resources Extension Agent Victor Blanco, the seminar will begin at 7 p.m. and include:

- Welcome and Opening Remarks, Catherine Bethea.
- Taylor County Scallop Season Monitoring Report, Victor Blanco.
- Seagrass Safe and Scallop Season, Savanna Barry, PhD, Sea Grant - Nature Coast Biological Station.

- Remarks on Regulations during Scallop Season, FWC Law Enforcement Lt. Mike Guy.

- Florida Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) notes on Scallop Populations, Fish and Wildlife Research Institute's (FWRI) Stephen Geiger, PhD

- Questions & Answer and Discussion period.

Data gathered during the 2018 annual scallop population abundance survey will be presented by Dr. Steve Geiger during the scallop seminar.

FWC wants your opinion on regional scallop seasons

SEASON OPENS

Anclote Key Lighthouse in northern Pinellas County, and includes all waters of the Anclote River.

These dates are for 2018 only. Later this year or in early 2019, the FWC will consider setting the 2019 seasons for Gulf and Pasco counties, consider continuing the 2018 season structure for the remaining portions of the open scallop harvest area in 2019, and will work toward creating a more permanent season structure starting in 2020, FWC officials said.

As the 2018 and 2019 seasons move forward, those who want to share their comments on what they would like to see for a future season structure can do so at MyFWC.com/SaltwaterComments or by email at Marine@MyFWC.com.

“The FWC is very interested in understanding whether the public prefers regional differences in the season dates or if a consistent season across the harvest area is of greater value, as well as what season dates work best for various regions. Public feedback will be important for determining whether further changes are needed when making a decision about the long-term season dates,” officials said.

Scallopers need a Florida saltwater fishing license to harvest on a boat or from shore

Beginning Saturday, the open scalloping area will be south of Rock Island near the mouth of the Fenholloway River in Taylor County (including the Beaches Area and Steinhatchee) and north of Alligator Pass Daybeacon #4 near the mouth of the Suwannee River in Levy County.

The season opens for the rest of Taylor County on July 1.

It is illegal to possess bay scallops while you're in or on state waters outside the open harvest areas, or to land bay scallops outside the open areas.

There is a daily limit of 2 gallons of whole bay scallops in the shell or 1 pint of bay scallop meat per person. In addition, no more than 10 gallons of whole bay scallops in the shell or one-half gallon of bay scallop meat may be possessed aboard any vessel at any time. This is the daily limit, not a per trip limit. (No double trips!)

You are allowed to harvest bay scallops only by hand or with a landing or dip net. Bay scallops may not be harvested for commercial purposes.

Unless otherwise exempt, you will need a regular Florida saltwater fishing license when you use a boat to harvest scallops.

If you wade from shore, you will need a regular Florida saltwater fishing license or a free resident shore-based license. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, on its website, has attempted to clarify who qualifies as "fishing from shore."

Scallopers who wade into the water are considered to be fishing from shore as long as they can stand on the bottom and do not access or leave the area by boat. If a scalloper arrives at a location by boat, he or she must have a regular saltwater fishing license, regardless of whether he fishes from shore.

It is illegal to land scallops outside open harvest areas. For example, it would be legal to take scallops from waters off the Taylor County coast where the season is open, but it would be illegal to dock your boat north of Rock Island (at least until the rest of the county opens for harvest on July 1).

For more information, visit <http://myfwc.com/license/recreational/saltwater-fishing/shoreline-faqs>.

Surveys conducted in June

Each summer, FWRI biologists assess bay scallop populations along the Gulf coast of Florida, in open and closed recreational harvest areas.

Surveys are usually initiated in June and completed in July. Scientists look at long-term trends in the abundance of scallops in both the open and closed areas and present those findings to the FWC's Division of Marine Fisheries Management.

Scientists classify bay scallop abundances into categories based on the average number of scallops per square meter (approximately 1.2 square yards).

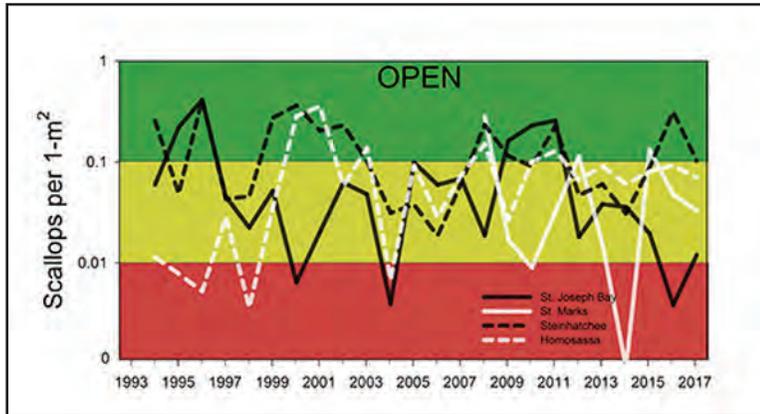

"Collapsed" (red) populations average between 0 and 0.01

scallop per square meter (m²); "Vulnerable" (yellow) populations average between 0.01 and 0.1 scallop per m² and "Stable" (green) populations average between 0.1 and 1 scallop per m².

Based on the historic landings data, bay scallop abundances in Florida were likely greater than one scallop per square meter, and capable of supporting a commercial fishery.

In the last 20 years, the greatest average observed at a study site in a given year was 0.50 scallop per square meter.

Steinhatchee has had the highest counts in 2016 and 2017. The latest counts for 2018 will be released tonight during a seminar at the Steinhatchee Community Center.

Scallop Count in Steinhatchee Area

Year	Count*
2017	62.0
2016	189.0
2015	52.0
2014	18.0
2013	36.2
2012	28.2
2011	136.1
2010	54.5
2009	69.0
2008	140.0
2007	36.8
2006	11.2
2005	22.7
2004	18.8

Want to help scallop research? Fill out a survey after your trip

The UF/IFAS Extension and Florida Wildlife Research Institute (FWRI) are implementing the 2018 Scallop Season Monitoring Program this year, which means and residents and visitors will find volunteers and staff at the Keaton Beach and Steinhatchee boat ramps surveying incoming boats and counting trailers in the parking lots.

Crews will be surveying scallopers and counting trailers at local boat ramps at various times during the week and on weekends throughout the 2018 scallop season, which runs from June 16 to Sept. 10 in that portion of the county.

If you are willing to participate in to helping to collect the data at the Steinhatchee or Keaton Beach public boat ramp, contact Victor Blanco at: (850) 838-3508 or email: victorblancomar@Taylor County Marine Agent Ext. 305 or (786) 449-9677 (cell) ufl.edu.

KNOW THE FACTS HAVE A PLAN.

Hurricanes are one of nature's most serious and dangerous threats. We have seen the devastating impact that violent storms like Hurricane Katrina can have on communities. While recent hurricane seasons have been relatively quiet for Florida, this could change. Unfortunately, after a quiet year or two, people can develop "hurricane amnesia."

Weather experts say it's not a matter of IF another hurricane will hit the Capital Area region, but WHEN. That is why it is so important to be prepared.

The 2018 Hurricane Survival Guide for the Capital Area will provide you with the critical information you need to protect yourself, your family, and your property. MAKE A PLAN or review the plan you have, and talk to your family about it. For more information, you can visit www.redcross.org/fl/tallahassee or contact your local emergency management office.

IF YOU DECIDE TO STAY

PLAN TO STAY IF...

- You live in a structure that is built after 1973 when Florida adopted a standard building code.
- You do not live in a manufactured or mobile home.
- Your home is not vulnerable to storm surge or inland flooding.
- You have reduced the threat of falling trees by trimming and/or removing dead, dying or diseased trees.
- You have mitigated the effects of severe winds on your home by installing hurricane shutters on windows and bracing your garage door.
- You have prepared a multi-hazard Disaster Response Plan for yourself, your family and your pets.
- You have prepared a Disaster Survival Kit that includes cash, two weeks supply of food, water and one month's supply of prescription medicines.
- You have identified a Safe Room within your home.
- You have a battery-powered radio with extra batteries.

IF YOU DECIDE TO GO

PLAN TO GO IF...

- An evacuation order has been issued.
- You live in a manufactured or mobile home.
- You live in a structure that was built prior to 1973 when Florida adopted a standard building code.
- Your home is vulnerable to storm surge or inland flooding.
- You can leave early enough to meet estimated regional clearance times. It is very dangerous to be on the highway during a storm.

- Camera/film/batteries
- Protective mask for air pollution

Scallopers: Important notes to remember out there

- Even though there is not a size limit for recreational scallop harvesting, it is recommended you harvest only scallops over 1-1/2 inches. Do not harvest scallops that are too small to eat.
- Beware of tides. Prop scars in seagrass beds deteriorate the ecosystem, directly affecting scallop abundance.
- Be boater safe. Follow navigation regulations, especially the "Divers Down" flag.
- Avoid eating raw scallops. As soon as you harvest your scallops, put them on ice and use clean utensils to shuck them.
- Garbage and trash can not navigate back to shore on its own. Be responsible for your trash, and leave no loose items on the boat.
- Remember: Scuba divers and snorkelers are required to carry and display a diver's down flag on board their vessel.

Scallop Season Opens June 16

Taylor County
Commissioner
Steve Spradley

welcomes all the boaters this weekend with the beginning of Scallop Season. He encourages you to be patient at our ramps and watch for those dive flags when on the water.

PLEASE BE SAFE!!!

Don't forget your divers-down flag

With scallop season opening off most of the Taylor County coast this Saturday, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is reminding everyone engaged in this fun outdoor activity to use a divers-down warning device whenever they are snorkeling or scuba diving while searching for these tasty treats.

The divers-down symbol is rectangular or square and red in color with a white diagonal stripe. A divers-down flag displayed on a boat must be at least 20 inches by 24 inches and displayed at the highest point where it can be observed from 360 degrees around the vessel. A buoy may not be used or displayed from a vessel. A divers-down flag or buoy, displayed from the water, must be at least 12 inches by 12 inches. A flag must have a wire or other stiffener to hold it open, and a buoy may be three- or four-sided.

All divers must prominently display a divers-down device in the area in which the diving occurs.

"Displaying and understanding what constitutes a proper divers-down symbol are critical," said Capt. Tom Shipp of FWC's Boating and Waterways Section. "These safety devices are meant to alert boaters to the presence of people under the water's surface and to give them plenty of room."

All vessels must make reasonable effort to stay at least 100 feet away from a divers-down device within a river, inlet or channel. In open waters, vessels must make reasonable effort to stay 300 feet away. For safety, divers should stay within those same distances of their displayed device. A vessel that approaches closer must be fully off plane and at idle speed.

"Divers share the responsibility of boating safety with the boat operators," Shipp said. "Diving without the divers-down symbol properly displayed or using it for reasons other than to inform others of the presence of divers is unlawful."

The divers-down device should only be displayed when divers are in the water. When divers or snorkelers exit the water, it must be taken down.

A divers-down flag displayed on a boat must be at least 20 inches by 24 inches and displayed at the highest point where it can be observed from 360 degrees around the vessel. A buoy may not be used or displayed from a vessel. A divers-down flag or buoy, displayed from the water, must be at least 12 inches by 12 inches. (Photo courtesy of FWC)

Here's a quick guide to making the most of scallop season...

Think it's hard to scallop? Basically, the only materials you need for scalloping are a snorkel, mask, fins (or water shoes) and a mesh bag to hold your catch.

Once you're geared up, you'll need a boat to take you out, a "divers-down" to warn others you are in the water and a recreational saltwater fishing license to keep things legal.

Scallops congregate in shallow water hidden in manatee and turtle grass.

If you see a large group of boats in a certain area, chances are they've found a "sweet spot" with lots of scallops. You should have some luck around the same vicinity.

If you see one scallop shell, there's bound to be more around. (Hint: Before you head out, ask around to find out where the "hot spots" are for the season.)

Of course, not everyone answers the call of open waters.

Those who aren't yet ready to test their sea legs should try their luck at Hagen's Cove, where you can join hundreds of other landlubbers wading into shallow waters in search of scallops.

After you've pulled in your fair share, head back to shore to get them cleaned.

Before you begin the task of cleaning your catch, be sure to get some instructions to help move things along.

You might have thought it easy enough to get them out of the water, but it's not so simple getting scallops to come out of their shells.

What you'll need: a place to set up shop (most marinas have ample facilities), a knife or other sharp flat object to open the shell, a spoon to scoop out the scallop and a container to hold the meat.

Now all that is left is a quick trip to the grill or frying pan... and enjoying a delicious meal of scallops you caught yourself.

Recipes for the day's catch

BAY SCALLOP SAUTE

Recipe by Larry Olmsted

Yield: 3 servings Prep: 5 minutes
Cook: 5 minutes

Serve with crusty French bread for dipping in the sauce. Because scallops contain a lot of water that gushes out as soon as they are hot, they need a lot of heat applied quickly. It's important to pat the scallops dry and get your pan (and the oil mixture) very hot—this ensures the scallops brown, instead of watering out. Also, make sure the scallops aren't crowded in the skillet, as that will cause them to steam.

Ingredients:

1 tablespoon canola oil
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound bay scallops, patted dry
1 clove garlic, slivered
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons white wine
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
Chopped fresh parsley for garnish

Instructions:

Heat oil and half the butter in a large heavy skillet over medium-high heat until mixture starts to brown.

Add half the scallops and cook without moving until seared, about 30 seconds. Flip and sear other side, about 30 seconds. Remove from pan. Add remaining butter to pan and repeat with remaining scallops. Return first batch to pan and remove from heat.

Add garlic, lemon juice and wine. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with parsley. Serve immediately.

BAKED BAY SCALLOPS WITH LEMON GARLIC CREAM

Yield: 2 servings Time: 30 minutes

This simple yet impressive baked scallop dinner can be prepped up to a day in advance, then refrigerated until you're ready to serve. Just add crusty bread and a green salad and you're got a complete meal.

Ingredients:

1/2 cup panko breadcrumbs
1 tablespoon butter, melted
Kosher salt
2 tablespoons finely grated Parmesan cheese
2 teaspoons chopped fresh thyme

2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon lemon zest
Freshly ground black pepper
1/2 cup heavy cream
2 cups (16 ounces) bay scallops, cleaned (any tough muscles removed)

Instructions:

In a small bowl, combine the breadcrumbs, butter, a pinch of salt and the Parmesan. In another small bowl, combine the thyme, garlic, lemon zest, a hefty pinch of black pepper and the cream.

Divide the bay scallops between 2 individual gratin dishes. Pour half of the cream mixture over each dish of scallops, then sprinkle each evenly with the breadcrumbs. At this point, the scallops can be wrapped and refrigerated for up to 24 hours or baked immediately.

When ready to bake, heat the oven to 400 degrees. Place the gratin dishes on a baking sheet. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the cream is bubbling all over and the crumbs are browned.

LINGUINE WITH BROCCOLI AND BAY SCALLOPS

Ingredients:

4 cups broccoli florets, and stems
1/2 lb dried linguine (or 3/4 lb fresh)
3/4 cup butter
2 teaspoons garlic, minced
1 lb bay scallop
1 teaspoon salt (or to taste)
1 teaspoon pepper
2/3 cup parmesan cheese (or more)

Instructions:

1. Peel broccoli stems and cut into 1/4 inch thick slices.
2. Blanch broccoli in boiling salted water, drain and refresh under cold water, drain and set aside.
3. Cook linguine til al dente in a large pot of boiling water. Drain well and toss with 1/4 cup butter.
4. Heat remaining 1/2 cup butter in a large skillet.
5. Add garlic and saute till softened.
6. Add scallops, salt and pepper.
7. Saute 3 minutes or till scallops are opaque.
8. Add broccoli and heat 1 minute.
9. Add pasta and heat through.
10. Add cheese and serve at once.

Scallop season brings big money to Taylor County economy

It's no secret that the annual scallop season draws thousands of people to the Taylor County coast each summer. But how much of an impact do those people have on both the county's natural resources, as well as its economy?

Although the environmental impact is still being evaluated, and will require additional years of study, preliminary results from the 2017 season show a $3.5 million to $5 million impact to local businesses thanks to the influx of visitors.

Researchers with the Taylor County Extension Office, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) and the University of Florida last year conducted a survey of local scallopers.

"Scalloping is a very important driver of the economy, and we need to make sure we keep the population healthy to keep the economy healthy too," Taylor County Marine Agent Victor Blanco said.

Last summer, surveys were conducted at both the Keaton Beach and Steinhatchee public boat ramps, collecting data on both those who were heading out on the Gulf, as well as their plans once they were on the water.

Based on the responses, from an economic standpoint, those using the Keaton Beach public boat ramp spent on average approximately $80 to $100 per day locally during their visit. In Steinhatchee, this figure was closer to around $250.

Although the final economic estimates are still being calculated,

Blanco said the economic impact from scalloping will ultimately fall somewhere between $3.5 million and $5 million.

More than half of those leaving from the ramp were aged 31 and above, and 60 percent had a family combined income between $75,000 and $150,000. Additionally, 79 percent of those surveyed were from Florida, followed by 19 percent from Georgia and one percent each from Alabama and South Carolina.

Meanwhile, those surveyed were almost evenly split between male and female, but were overwhelmingly white (98 percent) with just one percent each reporting as either Hispanic or Native American.

About 64 percent stated they scallop over seagrass beds, while 28 percent targeted areas with mixed bottoms. In a related question, 10 percent of boaters admitted to scarring seagrass beds, while an additional 18 percent said they either didn't know or weren't sure.

Scallop season pumps millions into the economy.

The Tobacco Road Band will perform July 4 in Perry.

Celebrate the 4th!

After scalloping on the Gulf of Mexico, don't miss these opportunities to end the Fourth of July with music and fireworks.

Steinhatchee will host its annual Fourth of July celebration Wednesday, July 4, at the Steinhatchee Community Center. Local non-profit organizations will be on hand to offer a variety of concessions.

A fireworks show will light the skies "at dark." Residents and visitors are reminded that the bridge will be closed from 8:30 to 10 p.m. for the fireworks display.

Fireworks will also fill the skies in downtown Perry, which will also be hosting a red, white and blue Independence Day celebration on the 4th of July.

Live music, concessions and a beer tent are planned at Rosehead Park. The fun begins at 6:30 p.m. The musical line-up includes the Tobacco Road Band and River Dan. Admission is free.

1 pound linguine
12 jumbo shrimp, peeled and deveined
12 large sea scallops, tough foot muscles removed

Freshly ground pepper
3 1/2 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, plus lemon wedges for garnish
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/4 cup torn fresh basil
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Instructions:

Bring a large pot of salted water to a boil. Add the linguine and cook as the label directs.

Meanwhile, heat a large skillet over medium-high heat. Pat the shrimp and scallops dry, then season with salt and pepper.

Add 1 1/2 tablespoons butter to the pan and cook the shrimp until golden on one side, about 3 minutes. Turn the shrimp and add half of the garlic; cook until the garlic is fragrant but the shrimp are still translucent, 1 to 2 more minutes. Transfer the shrimp to a plate.

Add the scallops to the skillet and cook until golden on one side, about 3 minutes.

Turn the scallops, add the remaining garlic and cook 1 to 2 more minutes. Add the lemon juice and wine and bring to a boil, scraping up any browned bits with a wooden spoon. Cook until the sauce is reduced by half, about 3 minutes. Return the shrimp to the pan, then add the basil and the remaining 2 tablespoons butter; season with salt and pepper.

Drain the pasta and transfer to a large serving bowl. Toss with the shrimp, scallops and sauce; garnish with parsley and lemon.

SIMPLE FRIED SCALLOPS

Yield: 4 servings

Ingredients:

1 lb scallops
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon Old Bay Seasoning
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
lemon wedge

Instructions:

Use whole small (bay) scallops or sliced large (sea) scallops.

Rinse and pat scallops dry.

Roll in flour mixed with the Old Bay seasoning. Shake off excess.

Sauté in a butter-oil mix.

Bay scallops will be done in two minutes, sea scallops (if left whole) take longer.

Sprinkle with parsley and serve with lemon wedges.

BAKED BAY SCALLOPS

Ingredients:

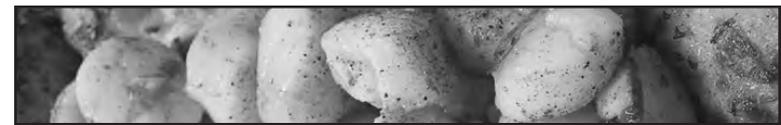

4 Tbsp butter, melted
1 1/2 lb bay scallops
1/2 c seasoned bread crumbs
1 tsp onion powder
1/2 tsp paprika
1/2 tsp parsley flakes
1 tsp garlic, minced
1/4 c parmesan cheese, grated

Instructions:

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Pour melted butter into a casserole dish. Distribute butter and scallops evenly inside the dish.

Combine the bread crumbs, garlic powder, paprika, parsley, minced garlic and Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle this mixture over the scallops.

Bake in pre-heated oven until scallops are firm, about 20 minutes.
