Court rejects Bella Citta petition to rezone

BY GERALD A. ROGOVIN
CORRESPONDENT

The developers of the proposed 180-unit Bella Citta condominium/townhouse community are going to have to start all over again.

Their petition to rezone was rejected and sent back to the Venice City Council by the Twelfth Judicial Circuit Court last week.

Judge Robert B. Bennett Jr. granted the Petition for a Writ of Certiorari requested by the Sorrento Ranches Homeowners Association and two residents who had appealed the council's approval.

He based his ruling on the denial of the association's due process rights.

The Sorrento appeal had sought to quash the ordinance upholding the then-existing zoning map amendment.

Bennett ruled that the attorney for the homeowners was denied due process when he was prevented cross-examining a witness; and when he was denied the right to rebut the testimony of a witness.

The ruling means that the city must again advertise the proposed rezoning, then hold new hearings.

In a Jan. 8 council hearing, City Attorney Robert Anderson would not let Daniel J. Lobeck, the attorney for Sorrento Ranches, rebut the testimony of a Sorrento resident who spoke in favor of the rezoning.

Anderson told council members that "the public, whether the representative of a group or an individual, doesn't get a second chance. The main reason is that it (the proceeding) would never end."

Bennett's ruling noted that "efficiency oftentimes competes with due process, but due process must always prevail." He found that denying the opportunity to rebut "constitutes a violation of due process."

"In quasi-judicial zoning procedures, the parties must be able to cross-examine witnesses, and be informed of all the facts upon which the government acts, as a matter of law," Bennett observed in his ruling.

Lobeck described the decision as "a major victory for the right of neighborhoods to get the same opportunity to be heard as developers." The Sarasota County Council of Neighborhood Associations had filed a

Gas prices not expected to slow travel

BY NEIL HUGHES
STAFF WRITER

Unfazed Florida travelers are expected to buck the national trend and hit the road in large numbers this summer in spite of record gasoline prices, according to a survey from the American Automobile Association.

Consumers in AAA's Southeastern United States region indicated they, for the most part, will carry out travel plans even as gas prices move closer to $4 per gallon.

Stephen Carter, of AAA, said the summer is an important time for families and old friends to reconnect, and gas prices likely won't change that.

In the Southeast, about eight in 10 AAA members are expected to take at least one leisure trip this year, even as oil trades as high as $126 a barrel, compared to about $65 a year ago. Sixty-eight percent of AAA travelers will hit the road this summer alone, with more in the fall.

The survey also suggests that retirees are more affected by gas prices — in January, 41 percent of retirees surveyed said they would consider altering vacation plans and travel closer to home if gas prices exceeded $3.25 per gallon, a number topped months ago.

But in the overall demographics, only 19 percent said they would consider changing travel plans if gasoline reached even higher, to $3.50. And 28 percent said they would not change their plans no matter how much gasoline costs.

The survey suggests that most people who do alter their plans will simply take trips closer to home.

"It's not that they're not traveling," Carter said. "It's just that they're going to shorten their trip a little bit."

But their trips aren't expected to be that short. A March survey indicated that half of AAA members are planning a trip of 10 days or more this year, and 29 percent will travel for two weeks or more.

And though 62 percent of members say they will try to cut

Paperwork foul-up won't delay this citizenship appointment

BY JESSICA MILLER
INTERN

Two perfect strangers, born more than 40 years apart across the world from one another, came together in what some may say is an act of fate.

The men will take the step they have been waiting to take for many years, and they will do it together.

Henry Philips, 94, and George Roja, 49, will go to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services in Tampa Thursday, June 19, to be sworn in as United States citizens.

For the past 30 years, Philips has attempted to gain citizenship on several occasions yet never succeeded. Misdirected mail resulted in Philips missing his last citizenship appointment date.

Philips is from Canada, and although he never had problems with his visa, it was important for him to gain citizenship and the right to vote in the U.S.

Roja came to the U.S. with his family eight years ago from Cuba. All of his hard work paid off when he received his citizenship appointment letter on May 29.

"I saw a big mistake," Roja said.

Attached to his paperwork was Philips' citizenship information as well.

"My wife and daughter suggested I just mail the letter," Roja said. "I didn't think twice. I knew I had to deliver this important letter myself."

Roja drove from his home in North Port to Jacaranda Trace in Venice to hand-deliver Philips citizenship appointment letter.

"It was a real Christian effort," Philips said. "God was with us both."

Roja and Philips shared their stories of coming to the U.S. and built a strong bond.

"I did it following my heart," Roja said. "The best pay was this man's gratitude."

Philips has asked Roja to be his guest for dinner in Tampa

Publix buying 49 Albertsons statewide

BY BOB FLISS
CHARLOTTE SUN
BUSINESS EDITOR

Once a big player in Florida grocery retailing, Albertsons LLC is selling off more than half of its remaining stores to Publix Super Markets Inc.

In a deal announced Monday, Lakeland-based Publix stated that it would buy 49 Albertsons locations.

The sale should close in September, said Publix spokeswoman Maria Brous.

Afterward, most of the former Albertsons locations will reopen as Publix Supermarkets. Brous said the exact timetable will vary by location.

The sale will leave Albertsons with 44 stores in Florida, said company spokesman Shane McEntarffer. These remaining stores will be served from a distribution center in Plant City and an administrative office in Lake Mary.

Albertsons still has a substantial presence in some Southwest Florida communities, including Venice. The deal will convert about two-thirds of Albertsons area locations to Publix.

Included in the sale are two stores each in Fort Myers, Cape Coral and Naples. Publix will also buy single Albertsons locations in Sarasota, Palmetto, Bonita Springs, Parrish and Bradenton.

Not included in Albertsons' sale list was its store at 1590 U.S. 41 in Venice.

Also apparently making the cut was a store at 8415 Lockwood Ridge Road in Sarasota, along with single locations in

Bicycle Friendly Community? Close, no cigar

BY MONTY ANDREWS
GUEST WRITER

It is difficult writing this article for the reason our community recently received notification from the League of American Bicyclists that we did not receive the Bicycle Friendly Community designation we had applied for in May. Of the 26 cities making application, 11 were accepted, and 10, including Venice, received honorable mention.

Over a four-month period, our committee, comprised of local bicycle enthusiasts Wanda Short, Mike Gippert, Fred Hammett, Costa Xistris and myself plus considerable support from various members of city staff, worked diligently filling out the extensive application. Covering the five E’s, Engineering, Education, Encouragement, Enforcement, and Evaluation/Planning, the application was much more extensive than we initially anticipated.

Feedback from the League, although encouraging, indicates additional improvements are needed. The list provided will serve us well as we prepare to resubmit in 2009.

Since the program’s inception in 2003, 212 communities have applied and 84 have a bronze or higher designation.

City to test property maintenance code on itself

What are the implications of proactive code enforcement?

BY GREG GILES
NEWS EDITOR

The city is preparing to put itself under the glare of inspection — property maintenance inspections, that is.

This month city workers will begin testing a new "keeping-up-appearances" ordinance.

City council gave staff direction to proceed with drafting a new ordinance that adopts the International Property Maintenance Code. The IPMC has a much more detailed property inspection regime that the current city code.

"The self inspection is a way to work out the bugs," said City Manager Marty Black, and proves the city will hold itself to the same standards it will hold the public.

The ordinance will force homeowners and businesses to tidy up their property, but it could have unforeseen consequences.

That's why the city is trying out the ordinance on itself first.

"We're going to do pre-inspections in the city to determine the cost for the city," Black said.

"We'll start with city-owned facilities to determine what we will need to do to come into compliance with this code. It's a critical component. We'll cost out the implementation for staffing purposes, and for what it will take to bring city structures into compliance."

"It's incumbent in the downturn in the economy to keep up homes in the community," said Council Member Ernie Zavodnyik, during last month's council discussion on the IPMC. "We need a stronger tool to do that."

The code will be applied to all structures within city limits, in addition to the Florida Building Code.

It covers everything from requiring homes to be properly painted (including removing stains caused by irrigation), property drainage and security checks to see if door locks and air conditioners are in working condition.

Under the IPMC, for example, unlicensed automobiles may not be kept on private property. And windows will be required to have special insect screens. Even homeowners' clothes dryer exhaust systems fall under the purview of the code.

Director of Building and Code Enforcement Hans Behrens called the IPMC code a "burden" that would quickly overwhelm staff and the volunteer Code Enforcement Board.

He estimated adopting the code would require doubling staff from two to four inspectors, and driving the overall department budget up to $249,000.

Council members commented they didn't think it would increase staff load that much.

Sharky's litigation update

The city of Venice and owners of Sharky's Restaurant on the Pier have exhausted a court-ordered mediation process. "We're fully engaged in litigation at this point," said City Manager Marty Black. "All resources, at this point, are being devoted to litigation."

The city sued the restaurant last year after city council learned the formula for divvying up revenue derived from the city-owned property was never written into the contract. Instead, the contract contains a few blank lines where the formula was to appear. The Pier Group, owners of Sharky's, balked when asked to formalize the agreement in new contract. The city sued. A late fall trial date is anticipated, Black said.

Despite the dispute, the city recently completed a new parking lot and landscaping project on the south side of the beachfront restaurant — part of the existing agreement which expands the enterprise.

Persona non grata

City Manager Marty Black sent the following e-mail on June 6 to Mike Rafferty, the original author of an alternate airport plan that has been hotly debated for months among council members and airport advocates.

"Mr. Rafferty, based upon the character of your responses on this and several other items, I find that it is no longer productive for the community to engage in your communications, particularly given your role with the FAA-rejected concept plans and related pending issues," Martin wrote.

"I have and will continue to devote my energies in pursuit of the public policy direction formally provided by Mayor and City Council. I am unsure as to what 'facts' you believe are being hidden by staff and find your insults as unproductive diversions that I simply can no longer afford, particularly under current working conditions, to devote time in response. I recognize that you had a great deal of personal pride in authorship in the concept plan critiqued by the FAA but we are at a point where the mayor and city council have already provided clear direction for how they wish to proceed to bring this community work to closure."

"I have always tried to be professional in all my contacts and efforts on behalf of and with the city," Rafferty replied.

Members of Venice City Council subpoenaed

STAFF REPORT

All members of the Venice city council — except John Moore — have been subpoenaed to appear in court Wednesday. Moore was on vacation, and thus didn't receive the subpoena. Members could be asked to comment on alleged Sunshine Law violations.

A lawsuit was filed by Attorney Andrea Mogensen on behalf of Sarasota resident Anthony Lorenzo in late May. "This is to prevent further e-mail deletions," said Mogensen. The lawsuit cites the city of Venice, Mayor Ed Martin, and Council Members Sue Lang, John Moore and John Simmonds for improperly deleting public records and other improper communications.

Council members are scheduled to appear before a Twelfth Judicial Circuit Court judge at the South County Administration Building on Wednesday to address Mogensen's emergency motion for temporary injunction. The injunction's intent is to halt further deletions of city-related e-mails, and gain access to private computers of council members to retrieve previously deleted e-mails.

Bonita Springs, Estero and Bradenton.

Actually, the real sugar in the deal for Publix lies about as far as you can travel from Southwest Florida and still be in the Sunshine State. Brous noted that buying four Pensacola-area Albertsons locations will finally give Publix a presence in Escambia County — one of the few Florida markets where Publix isn't a dominant player.

Based in Boise, Idaho, Albertsons LLC is one of the successor companies that picked up the retail properties of Albertsons Inc. following a 2006 corporate breakup.

The company was founded in Boise in 1939. After decades of acquisitions and sales, it was briefly the largest United States grocery chain in 1999, with about 2,500 locations in 37 states.

In July 2006, Albertsons Inc. was acquired by a management group composed of Minnesota-based grocery chain SuperValu Inc.; Cerberus Capital Management, a New York-based private equity investment firm; and CVS/pharmacy, the Rhode Island-based drugstore chain.

The sale price was $17.4 billion in cash, stock and debt assumption. SuperValu got about 1,100 stores out of the deal, including Albertsons and Acme supermarkets. CVS got about 700 Osco drug stores, which it converted to its own brand.

This left the rest of the assets, mostly Albertsons stores in Florida, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado, to Cerberus, which organized Albertsons LLC to control these properties. Cerberus currently operates about 325 Albertsons stores, using the old name under a licensing agreement with SuperValu.

Under Cerberus, Albertsons LLC closed 100 unprofitable stores in 2006, including eight in Florida. The following year, it divested its stores in Oklahoma.

"We will go in there together," Philips said.

Roja owns his own business, Picasso Painting & Waterproofing Inc., and is proud to become a U.S. citizen. "I am so happy," Roja said. "I have worked so hard for this."

After being on standby the past several presidential elections, Philips cannot wait to vote this year.

"I am going to vote for the first time," Philips said.

Although there is a significant age gap, as well as a language barrier, Roja and Philips share a connection.

"I see this man as my grandfather," Roja said. "I am so proud to have made a difference in his life."

friend-of-the-court brief in support of Sorrento on the same ground.

Sorrento homeowners originally objected to the Bella Citta rezoning, claiming it would be incompatible with land use in the area.

The Ranches is composed of 5-acre homesites.

Bella Citta, which would have abutted the western Sorrento border, was planned as a 180-unit multistory townhouse and condominium development. All of the buildings on the parcel would have been built on 20 acres because the other 26 are wetlands.

back where they can, they're also not obsessed with the price of gas. Compare that with 32 percent of members who say every dime counts.

Gas prices created a tough decision for Linda Pickrell, for whom paying hundreds of dollars in gas money to pick up her granddaughter from Kentucky to spend the summer in North Port was not an option.

The EK Williams accountant did several price comparisons between airlines and gas stations along her route from North Port to Kentucky and decided flying was cheaper.

"It's unbelievable how much we would have spent for gas," said Pickrell. She has to be on standby when her only daughter calls to tell her she's in labor, after which she will fly immediately to Kentucky to meet her in a hospital. "We just filled up our tank and it cost us $70. We figured we would have to fill up four times going up, and four going back. So that was $560, not counting getting gas there and then the wear and tear on our vehicle. We thought flying would be cheaper."

Pickrell and her husband, Phil, plan to make the journey three times from June to August so they keep looking for discounted airline tickets.

Travel agent Joyce Olsson said some of her clients would rather take the bus.

"We are seeing an increase in people taking our bus trips to the Hard Rock Casino in Tampa for $20," she said. "They know it's cheaper than a tank of gas and is good entertainment."

Olsson said she is seeing a decrease in overseas trips as the U.S. dollar is down. Therefore, she's working to still get customers great deals on other vacation destinations.

"Some people are holding back and not going to Europe right now," she said. "Others say they will go elsewhere until the economy gets better."

SUMMER TRAVEL PROJECTIONS FOR SOUTHEAST AAA MEMBERS

- 50 percent will not make changes to lower gasoline expenditures.
- 43 percent will save money in other areas to compensate.
- 62 percent say they will cut back where they can, but are not obsessed with rising gas prices.
- 32 percent say they will be more fuel efficient than in the past.
- 16 percent intend to buy a more fuel-efficient vehicle in 2008, while 4 percent may move closer to work to reduce their commute.

The worst in gas prices may be yet to come this summer. Many analysts have predicted prices will surge much higher, and may breach the psychologically important $4 level on a local basis soon. They are already above the $4 plateau in many parts of the country.

Some analysts are beginning to question whether gas prices will follow their typical pattern of peaking around Memorial Day, then declining through the summer.

The primary factor driving gas prices higher is the price of crude, which has doubled in the last year. Most predictions that oil prices have risen too far and would soon decline have fallen flat. As long as crude prices keep rising, gas prices may buck their normal pattern and follow, reasoned Jim Ritterbusch, president of energy consultancy Ritterbusch and Associates in Galena, Ill.

"This whole year has been unique," Ritterbusch said. "We're going to see other unique things ... taking place here as we go forward."

This summer, Englewood resident Allison Reed, her husband and two children are driving to New York for one week to visit family. She would not sacrifice a summer trip with her family for anything, because the time she spends with them is important.

The 34-year-old said she chose, instead, to cut other expenses.

"Everybody can cut somewhere," she said. "and most people alter the rest of their life instead."

County hurricane drill deemed a success

BY STEVEN J. SMITH
STAFF WRITER

Emergency Services Manager Ed McCrane is a little more confident now about how his team will handle hurricane season.

McCrane supervised a hurricane drill Thursday, successfully moving all Emergency Operations Center functions from the Ringling Boulevard center to newer, better-fortified Wilkinson Elementary School, about 6 miles away.

"There were about 400 people involved in this operation across the county," McCrane said. "And about 300 of those were here at the elementary school. We had members from different law enforcement agencies, the cities and elected officials."

Wilkinson Elementary is the alternate building EOC staff will occupy in the event of any storm stronger than a Category 2, which is the limit of the 1660 Ringling Blvd. building.

"Wilkinson Elementary has impact glass, is out of the storm surge at a higher elevation and can withstand winds of about 150 mph," McCrane said.

Emergency generators were brought to the school and fired up, while 9-1-1 services actually operated from there from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m., he said.

"It served as the Sarasota County Call Center for the day," McCrane said.

Glitches

A power failure was also simulated to test a switch in power from the main line to the generators.

"That switch took less than a minute and everything stayed up," McCrane said.

A central purpose of the drill was to check for glitches, and one did occur.

"We discovered that although we had a generator at the air-conditioning chiller, some of the air handlers weren't hooked up," he said. "So electricians from the school board, engineering and the generator company checked out the glitches and corrected them."

The exercise also included activation of a health and human services operation center, a Red Cross station, several population shelters, a pet-friendly shelter and a special-needs shelter. A transportation team drilled on moving injured people and damage assessment teams simulated reports while testing their communications systems.

An after-actions review then followed the exercise, to examine lessons learned.

"It was a little stressful," McCrane said afterward. "But we had the right people here and we're working out these issues before a real event. So when one comes, we'll be a little more comfortable."

SARASOTA COUNTY BRIEFS

New ordinance in effect

Nearly nine months after a landmark vote to adopt its fertilizer and landscape management ordinance, Sarasota County is in its first officially restricted season for fertilizer application.

From June 1 through Sept. 30, no fertilizer containing nitrogen or phosphorous may be used on lawns or plants. The ordinance applies to private residents and professional landscape companies.

Since the ordinance passed Aug. 27, 767 landscapers and about 150 residents have been trained in best management practices for fertilizer application. All training participants receive a numbered certificate and wallet card. Professional landscapers are also issued decals to display on company vehicles and trailers.

The county's fertilizer ordinance, which has inspired similar ordinances across the state, requires that outside the restricted season, fertilizers applied to turf and landscape plants shall contain no less than 50 percent slow-release nitrogen. It prohibits fertilizer application within 10 feet from the edge of any pond, stream, water course, lake, canal or designated wetland, unless existing regulations are more stringent.

The ordinance also recommends a voluntary 6-foot low-maintenance zone from the water's edge of any pond, water course, stream, lake, canal, wetland, designated wetland or the top of a seawall. This zone would be planted and managed to minimize the need for fertilization, watering and mowing.

This new ordinance does not apply to:

- Newly established turf or landscape plants for the first 60 days after installation or planting
- Farms operating under the Right to Farm Act
- Pastures that contain grazing livestock (exempt from slow-release nitrogen only)
- Golf courses, which shall follow best management practices established by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection

Failure to comply with the new ordinance could result in fines of up to $500 per violation.

For information call 861-5000 and ask for Water Resources, or visit www.scgov.net, click on County A-Z and select Fertilizer Management.

OUR VIEW

Whatever they say, it's about the money

Imagine this scenario:

A local government is concerned about rising health insurance costs. It wants to encourage healthy lifestyle choices among its employees, and it wants to minimize personal behaviors that can lead to illness and additional health care costs.

So top officials make a decision.

The government will no longer hire people who are 20 percent above the Health Department's recommended weight for their height. Chubby people no longer need apply. In addition, before being hired the person will have to swear in an affidavit that he or she was not overweight during the past 12 months.

There's a perfectly good rationale for this.

Obesity contributes to the development of hypertension and type 2 diabetes, which boosts insurance costs. People are free to be pudgy in another job, just not this one.

It's hard to believe the announcement of this policy wouldn't be met with a general outcry. It's also not much of a stretch to see parallels to Sarasota County's new no-tobacco hiring policy.

The county will no longer hire a smoker, or even one who has recently quit. All applicants will have to sign affidavits that they haven't used tobacco products for the past 12 months. (Presumably, it's also a no-chaw policy). All new hires will be nicotine-tested during physical exams.

This policy of nicotine negativity went into place May 19.

If you think the low-fat policy is that far from the no-smoke policy, consider a recent study by the University of Chicago and George Washington University, which found 67 percent of employers surveyed were "concerned about the effects of obesity on medical claims expenses." Nine in 10 thought obesity was "a preventable condition and the result of poor lifestyle choices."

Most favored weight-management programs in the workplace. But considering the experience with tobacco, corpulence bans may not be far behind.

"We are trying to create a healthy work force and be fiscally responsive," Sarasota County employee benefits manager Steve Marcinko told the Sun. Indeed, county health insurance costs run to about $32 million a year, officials noted.

But a ban — especially one stretching back a year — goes too far. They are legal, but rare.

It seems reasonable public policy to ban smoking on county property, at least for employees. Sun Coast Media Group, which owns this newspaper, has such a policy at its offices. You also can argue it's fair for smokers to pay higher health insurance costs, as we do.

It is certainly a good thing to offer programs to help employees stop smoking. (And to remove soda and snack machines from lunchrooms. Or to help pay employee memberships in health clubs.)

But with this policy a legal, but increasingly socially unacceptable behavior is used as an excuse to trim costs under the guise of promoting "a healthier work force and responsible stewardship of taxpayer dollars," as a county press release put it.

It shouldn't be a condition of employment to swear off Big Macs at lunch, Twinkies in the afternoon, a Bud after work or a Cohiba on Saturday night. Or to swear not to have indulged in any such legal activity 12 months previously.

Marty Black certainly will admit that times have been tough, certainly enough so that the city has required aggressive financial reduction management.

Luckily, he, staff and the city council have been ahead of the problem and saw the magnitude that was to hit. That by no means indicates that there weren't some tough decisions as the city has pared staff both through attrition and some layoffs.

One interesting indicator he tells of is how serious the construction bust has been; that the city has seen a 90 percent drop in construction material waste collection.

While most of the budget cuts have been in personnel, there have been a lot of cuts to expenses, including delaying some capital items. To show how impressively they have been able to get in front of the problem, the budget over the last two years has gone from $84 million to $68 million or a 19 percent reduction.

As he spoke to a Venice Area Chamber of Commerce crowd at the Plantation Country Club that was honoring businesses of the year, he indicated that he felt they would not have to make any more layoffs. That could certainly leave the door open to reductions later though attrition. His comments were before Jim Todora's comments on reductions to the tax rolls, which I think they anticipated.

While there is a lot of negative news he noted, April produced one indicator that was good news. More people were flushing their toilets than in the history of the city. He indicated that the increase in water usage was up about 5 percent over the year before and the most for April. The interesting thing is the increases are not from new population as construction has virtually stopped, but rather people visiting one of the top retirement cities in the country. There is some evidence that some of that is because of the exchange rate. Another positive was while residential permitting has virtually stopped, commercial permitting is up over last year.

This last weekend I went home to visit my dad in Champaign, Ill. The lady next to me on the flight into Bloomington, Ill., was involved with an interesting volunteer project that was done in conjunction with the parks and recreation department. They plant groves of trees as memorials. They have large stands of trees and then some a little smaller depending on the size of land they can find. So far they have done about five stands of trees. They plant all different kinds and pass on the cost to the person or organization donating. They are able to do that at a very reasonable cost since the parks department can purchase the trees at wholesale and do the work. It sounds like a good project for Venice Area Beautification or the Friends of Sarasota County Parks. Their goal is to provide a lot more trees to help the environment.

Admittedly gasoline is expensive but have you compared it to a gallon of some other products? Scope would be $84.48, and Lipton Tea would be $9.52, and Gatorade $10.17 and Vick's Nyquil $178.13. The topper is that Evian water bought in those 9-ounce bottles would be $21.19 a gallon.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Make new construction green

Editor:

"Creative financing gives solar a boost," proclaims a front-page article in the Gondolier Sun. An example is given of a resident who installed a $34,000 solar system, of which $20,000 was paid with state and federal subsidies. Now his electric bill is only $8.12 a month. So, he is ahead, isn't he?

Well, the $20,000 subsidy is "free" — it could be charged off, for example, as a 15-cent tax burden on every homeowner in Sarasota County.

Paying off the owner's $14,000 share over 30 years will cost about $100 per month. He will pay any needed repairs out of pocket. No mention is made for insuring the $34,000 installation, or how much money must be set aside for its replacement in 30 years.

On the positive side, the installation should reduce greenhouse gas emissions. And it would reduce the need for new power plants and power lines, which customer charges must pay for.

But, hey, wait a minute! Isn't the need for new power plants caused by growth? Wouldn't it make more sense just to mandate installation of solar panels on all new construction? It would be much cheaper than retrofitting existing homes.

Homeowner rules could mandate, rather than forbid, solar panels. No individual loans would be needed for solar systems. Subsidies would not be needed since the installation would be part of the homes, paid off over 30 years, and home interest costs would be tax deductible.

Why not? Oh, wait, I'm beginning to hear that faint, familiar whisper of my elected Florida officials in my ear: "Because the lobbyists of the growth industry in Tallahassee would object."

Friends abound along his walk

Editor:

Many friends are along my evening walks as I go to experience the best show in town — the sunsets at the end of Venice Avenue.

Each is different, but its beauty makes all those viewing strangers on blankets, chairs, benches or on "the deck" feel like family as they give a rousing cheer of acceptance to the silent show of this old setting sun.

Another old friend along Venice Avenue is the canopy of massive trees decorated with moss that filters the rays of the setting sun better than any eye protection made by man.

Once the sun is deep in the Gulf, my return to town is blessed by houses at 613 and 605, each an elegant statement of wealth presented with great dignity.

In town, the ice creamers and other strollers help give a quiet sidewalk company. My bench across from T.J. Carney's becomes a front row seat to the music show from T.J.'s open windows.

For but a short time, my mind is called away from those crazy gas prices or the deeply-felt horror of those collapsing schools in China, to the gifts of my old and familiar friends.

Thank you, Jack and Dot Senior, for retiring here and for a place to self discover those magical moments for their elder son, Richard R. Senior.

These moments can only be topped by having a catch on the beach, with my brother, Donald, where we are once again together as a family of four.

Noise pollution deserves attention

Editor:

The law the city of Sarasota passed on excessive auto noise should be instituted in all of Sarasota County.

I have a house on the other side of the wall on Pinebrook Road. When one of those cars with a sound system that would rival that of Van Wezel goes by, our whole house shakes. Also, when I am stopped at a stoplight, my car shakes.

If these kids want to hear loud music and go deaf by the age of 40, let them do it in the privacy of their home without invading my privacy.

I know our police work hard, but this should be one of their priorities while they are driving around protecting our neighborhoods.

No one's saving the trees

Editor:

While driving on Route 41 to North Port from Venice, I was so upset to see another developer knocking down all the trees along the highway. It is appalling that this can be happening, especially with the crisis of global warming.

There was a beautiful natural barrier of trees that required no upkeep of water or fertilizer. Now it's gone, to be replaced by high maintenance grass and a few palms.

We need to value our natural trees. Venice and North Port are allowing them to be destroyed.

Addiction is a medical crisis

Editor:

I sympathize with those who are addicted to nicotine. I nevertheless applaud the position of Sarasota County in denying employment to nicotine-dependent applicants.

Lives and millions of dollars will be saved as a consequence.

A broader and generally less-well-known addiction problem exists, however, and neither legislators nor anyone else seems inclined to do anything effective about it.

I refer to the issue of drug and alcohol addictions among health-care professionals — addictions that extract enormous and tragic costs from both patients and doctors.

Dr. David Hilfiker, in his book, "Healing The Wounds," underlines the latter aspect of the issue: "(T)he United States loses the equivalent of seven medical-school graduating classes each year to drug addiction, alcoholism and suicide."

This not-well-known fact is due, at least in part, to faulty procedures employed in choosing med-

LET 'EM HAVE IT: DO YOU SUPPORT VENICE AS A DESIGNATED "BIKE FRIENDLY COMMUNITY?" CALL US AT 207-1111.

Caller finds no more JOY in group

Unhappy. I have recently joined the JOY group at the Salvation Army; JOY stands for Just Older Youth. I understand that they had lost their leader, a lady who was relocating to England. I thoroughly enjoyed this group. It seemed like they had a lot of fun. They went on trips and I had been on a few of them. I was there the day the captain announced there would be no more trips and that things would be changed severely. I do not like the changes. The women seem upset and I noticed how much anger was there. Please bring this group back to what it was before — a friendly, lovable group.

Heading north. My family and I have finally decided to move out of Venice. We'll be leaving in August and moving back to Sarasota for many reasons, the smallest of which is paying for the Venice beach. If we're going to pay $6 to $10 to go to the Venice beach, we'd rather be going to Sarasota's beaches, Lido Beach and Siesta Key Beach. How many cannot get into the water because of the terrible shelf at Venice Beach? Many of us over 50 can get down into the water, but it's very hard getting up with the tow going against the shelf. This is not all that great of a beach. Once you lose the beachgoers, there's not going to be that many people going through town to shop. I think the people we've elected are worse than short-sighted, and I think the next time this town votes, I suggest they get people who are experienced enough so that they don't have to always commission people and pay for studies for everything. Let's get some people here who know what they're doing.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sarasota County had discussed a beach-parking fee that would not have applied to city beaches, but it recently dropped the idea.

Good times. With all the jobs being lost, not that many places for young people to go, not enough places for them to skateboard, gasoline prices going out of sight and food getting so expensive, how can council take away the one free place where families can enjoy themselves? I may not use the beaches much anymore — I'm well into my 80s — but I remember all the good times I spent at the beach. I want the poor as well as the rich to continue to enjoy our beautiful beaches.

EDITOR'S NOTE: There is no plan to charge to park at Venice's beaches, and the proposal to charge at county beaches is dead, at least for now.

Seeing red. Two articles caught my eye. One was about red tide causing health problems, the other by Bob Rigby, who has worked endlessly to try to solve red-tide problems for more than 20 years. The FDEP tested and proved his machines as an effective tool back then. Lockheed Martin said it would save the state $700 million to $800 million and do a good job. So why is this being ignored? State and federal governments give others millions of dollars to try to find out the solution to this problem, while Mr. Rigby's cure sits. He has the patents. He just needs the financial help. The red-tide health article said that there is a 19-percent increase in pneumonia and a 54-percent respiratory disease increase during periods of red tide. Can't the government help Mr. Rigby get his solution in motion soon?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lockheed Martin's comment was about Rigby's street-cleaning machine, not his red-tide cure.

Connection? I thought it was interesting to read on your front page about the anti-smoking hiring policy, and then I read a little further on that a politician who is running for president is having trouble giving up smoking. There must be a connection; what is it?

Forward. This is something of interest to people out there who use computers. Please be careful about opening forwarded e-mail, even if they are from so-called friends, because they can be very offensive. I received an e-mail that was racist and political in tone, even though it was sent by a friend. From now on, I will delete all forwards no matter who sent them.

Worse. I want to make a comment about the walkways at the Elephant's Trunk and going into the Dollar Store. I was almost to the middle of the walkway when four cars sped by, kids from Venice High. The last car had two young girls in it, and they just laughed their butts off. I'm 80 years old and I let that one have it. I think a cop should be there after those kids are let out of school. It's getting crazy here in Venice. I've been here for 30 years and it's worse than ever.

Light it. I'm calling about the blinking light at Venice East Boulevard and 41. Why don't they take down that blinking light and put up a traffic light? There have been many, many accidents on this corner. It is a very dangerous intersection. Please somebody, listen to us and put up a street light.

Misdated. I got a real chuckle about the Letter to the Editor in which the person writing in said that George McGovern told John McCain that if McGovern had been elected president, McCain would not have been shot down and would not have been in prison. Well, the problem is McGovern ran in 1972; McCain was shot down Oct. 26, 1967, five years before McGovern.

Helpful hints for motorists

STEPHEN BAUMANN
GUEST COLUMNIST

Welcome, class, to Driver's Education 101, the midseason update.

You may be wondering why I called you here this morning. Then again, if you've been on the roads in recent weeks, you know perfectly well. It's bumper-car time out there.

So put your hands on the wheel — the classic 10 o'clock and 2 o'clock position still works well — buckle up and turn the key. (To the right).

Proceed with me.

• Check the mirror if you're backing out. This allows you to see if your hair is in place or if you've got mustard stains on your nose.

• Look right for traffic. Then look left. This stretches the neck muscles and will help later when you need to discuss things with back-seat drivers.

• The floor pedal on the right is the accelerator. Step on it to move — forward if you are in drive, backward if in reverse. Step harder, go faster. While on a major road, consider traveling close to the speed listed on road signs. It is not required by law, but is a suggestion that keeps traffic flowing. Consider it a widely accepted target. Don't go far over either, although that's unlikely.

• The brake pedal is the one on the left. This stops the car. Do not confuse it with the pedal on the right, especially if you are parked in front of a large, plate-glass window. It also slows the car if applied lightly. Use it when trying to read the fine print on store signs next to roads with lots of traffic.

• The blinker arm is on the left of the steering column. This is a communication tool, which signals your intentions to other motorists. Use it if you intend to turn or to shift lanes. Please. If you have shifted lanes and still see a light blinking incessantly on the dashboard 3 miles later, nudge the lever back to the center position.

• The horn — another communication tool — is on the steering column. It lets others know how angry and frustrated you really are. If you hear it yourself, consider shifting lanes quickly, stomping on the brake, turning your head left and right, and leaving your blinker on.

• If you're bored, why not make a cell phone call? Even if you're busy, why not make a cell phone call? When you think about it, a car is a lot like a telephone booth on wheels — a 2-ton telephone booth on wheels.

• If you're hungry, eat something, preferably a Big Mac. A car is a lot like a dining room too, only 2 tons on wheels.

• Drive defensively. Remember, there are a lot of others on the road who have not had the benefit of a refresher Driver's Ed course.

Did you know you can get something free from the county? Yep, they give compost away at the Nokomis Community Center Park, and Shamrock Park. This is close to giving out manure. I'm sorry that joke smelled.

Unless and until the public discards their blinders concerning medical issues — and unless the public demands governmental action — too many doctors will continue to become and to remain addicts and too many patients will continue to die as a consequence.

They will continue to die of medical errors, of demonstrably avoidable hospital-acquired infections and of neglect, at rates that are horrendous, generally unknown and that have been largely unmodified — for years and years.

Robert Bakken

Robert Allen Bakken, 84, Moorhead, Minn., died Friday, June 6, 2008, in Eventide Lutheran Home.

The son of Theodore and Nora (Larson) Bakken, Robert ("Bob") was born Oct. 21, 1923, in Stanley, N.D. He grew up in the Berthold, N.D., area and graduated from high school in 1942. He served his country in the U.S. Marine Corps from January of 1945 to August of 1946, stationed overseas in Guam.

After his discharge, he returned to North Dakota, where he graduated from Minot (N.D.) State Teacher's College in 1950.

On June 17, 1951, Bob was united in marriage to Gereldene Schultz at Omemee, N.D. They lived in the Stanley, N.D. area for six years, where he taught school. In 1957, they moved to Esko, Minn., where Bob was a high school science teacher. He continued his education at Bemidji (Minn.) State University and the University of Minnesota, Duluth, where he received his master's degree in 1974. From 1969 until his retirement in 1986, Bob served as principal of the high school in Wrenshall, Minn. Bob was a dedicated educator and touched the lives of many students during his career.

Bob was a member of the Cloquet Kiwanis Club, where he served as club president in 1978-1979 and District Lt. Governor in 1988-1989. He was active in Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Cloquet, Minn. He also served as the regional representative for the Minnesota State High School League for many years. In retirement, Bob and Geri spent winters in Venice, Fla., and would return to Minnesota for the summer. Bob was known for being a "people person" and for thinking of the needs of others. Besides playing a mean game of cards, he was also an avid golfer, scoring two "holes in one." In May of 2005, they moved to Moorhead and Bob became a resident of Eventide Lutheran Home.

He is survived by his wife, Gereldene Moorhead; a daughter, Cinda (Richard) Spieler, Hendrum, Minn.; two sons, Jon (Mary Cashman-Bakken) Bakken, Waterville, Minn., and Joel (Jan Witte-Bakken) Bakken, Moorhead; a brother, James (Marvel) Bakken, Minot; two sisters, Ethel Vangsness and Luverne Tufto, both Minot; nine grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. Robert was preceded in death by a daughter, Sharon Ann Bakken, who died in 1981, and his parents.

Services: Visitation will be on Wednesday from noon to 1 p.m., followed by a service at 1 p.m. at Korsmo Funeral Chapel, Moorhead, Minn.

Robert Agnew Benton

Robert Agnew Benton, 102, Venice, Fla., formerly of Goshen, Ind., died June 9, 2008. Mr. Benton was born Dec. 9, 1905, in St. Louis, Mo. He served in the U.S. Army Special Services during World War II and retired as Lieutenant Colonel in 1956.

Survivors include his daughters, Barbara Jo Hatten (Creighton) of Durango, Colo., Jacqueline Grace Burger of Venice, Fla, Marcia Gale Hamm and Rebecca Louise Benton (Gary Miller) all of Gainesville, Fla.; his son, David Errol Benton of Venice, Fla.; 13 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife of 52 years, Helen Louise; his wife of 17 years, Mary Isabel; his daughter, Dianne Clevenger; and granddaughter, Christina Harrington.

Services: Graveside services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, June 13, 2008, at Palms Memorial Park, Sarasota, Fla. Ewing Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Askew H. Clark

Askew Hamlin Clark, "Mr. Clark", a resident of Venice, Fla., passed away Thursday, June 5, 2008, at Venice Hospital.

Son of the late Mary Clark, he was born on June 11, 1924, in Virginia and graduated from the University of Salamanea in Spain, one of the four oldest universities in Europe. He majored in electrical engineering, specializing in electric motor design, although mathematics was his passion. Being an avid reader, he frequented the Venice Library. He was a World War II veteran and attended First Baptist Church in Venice.

He will be missed by his many friends including: Gordon Shaw, Ted Sivyer, Ken Sula, William Skaff, Bill Makela, Ed Mogford, Nancy Jennings, Marty VanPelt, Pat Charnley, Mary Silbaugh, Marty Speigelman and Carol Ostrander.

Services: A Celebration of Life service will be held at 4 p.m. June 13, 2008, at the First Baptist Church of Venice.

Lawrence R. Lamb

Lawrence R. Lamb, 72, of Nokomis, Fla., died May 30, 2008, in TideWell Hospice and Palliative Care in Venice.

He was born on Aug. 18, 1935, in Nutter Fort, W.Va., to Tony and Viola Lamb. He came here 36 years ago from Stow, Ohio. He served in the U.S. Army 1953-56 and 1960-63 and in the U.S. Marine Corps 1957-1960. He was past Post Commander and Life Member of VFW Post 8118 in Venice, past President and Life Member of FOE 3482 in Venice/Nokomis, Life Member of Chapter 101 of DAV and Life Member of the Marine Corps League. He is survived by his daughters, Anna Lamb of Nokomis, Sue Carney of Indian Lake Estates, Fla., and Brenda Doty of Tampa, Fla.; a sister, Alice Burbridge of Copley, Ohio; six grandchildren; and three great grandchildren. He was predeceased by two grandchildren Alisha Pope and David Olson. Arrangements by James A. McKee Funeral Homes, North Port.

Obesity and Back Pain
According to a recent survey of spine care professionals by the North American Spine Society, the number of obese patients being treated for spine-related disorders has increased by 67% over the past five years. Eighty-seven percent of the spine care professionals agreed that obesity plays a major role in back pain, and 94% recommended weight loss as a treatment for obese patients. Fifty-five percent of the spine care professionals found that weight loss resulted in major improvements in obese patients' symptoms. The three most common back problems in obese patients are degenerative disc disease, spondylolisthesis (slippage of the lower back disc), and disc rupture or herniation. Clearly, weight loss should be a top priority of obese patients with back pain.

Snook, tarpon on the beach

The Venice beach area has been very active this past week.

When I say the snook are on the beach, that's basically where they are. I laugh when I watch fishermen cast 70-80 feet out. I walk the beach most mornings and they are attaching the bait within five feet of the surf.

"Marvin" caught seven snook the other morning and I saw him catch another four Monday afternoon. He takes off the treble hooks on his lures and replaces them with a single hook. The snook have a much better chance of survival.

The tarpon have been very active just off of our beaches. Monday, there were at least six hookups within a half-mile of our shoreline. This is probably the peak of the tarpon season.

Also Monday, two five- to six-foot sharks were cruising the shoreline near the Venice Beach. I also saw a few trout caught at the beach. The reason for all of this activity is the shoreline is covered with glass minnows (anchovies) and small greenbacks.

Tarpon love glass minnows. I've watched them attack them at the jetty several times.

Well, fellow Sheepsheadites, the time has come to say goodbye until next week.

Mr.Sheepshead is Dave Hack. Contact him at 321-8849, 486-1998 or mrsheepshead@verizon.net.

Knights Trail hopes to survive county cuts

BY GERALD A. ROGOVIN
CORRESPONDENT

The prospect of another round of layoffs and reduced operations for Sarasota County has prompted a rare partnership of government and taxpayers.

Users of the Knights Trail pistol and rifle ranges, about 3.5 miles northwest of Laurel Road in Venice, have been seeking ways to ensure that the area trap shooting center remains open.

County parks and recreation has the same objective.

Between 500 and 700 people use the park's seven trap and skeet fields, pistol and rifle ranges and five shooting stands each of the days it is open each week.

Members of the Sarasota Trap and Skeet Club, numbering more than 500, are the mainstay of the user group. But unaffiliated recreational shooters are regulars.

They shoot at the ranges almost as much, according to Michael and Jean Rodney of Venice, who haven't missed a weekend in more than two years.

"It's our only recreation," he said. "I don't know what I'd do to stay sane if that place closed."

Usage fees increased in April to $11 from $7 by the county. "Nobody batted an eye," Rodney recalled. "So many 'snowbirds' come to shoot. They tell everyone how much better our facilities are than what's available in their states.

Knight's Trail Park

"I've used an indoor range in Sarasota and another in Punta Gorda. But they don't compare to Knights Trail," Rodney added.

John F. McCarthy, general manager of county parks and recreation, said that the county is committed to operate the ranges with a minimal subsidy.

"We'd rather no subsidy. But we're determined to keep Knights Trail open and operating year-round," he said.

McCarthy hopes to eliminate the subsidy by adding a light food/beverage concession. His department is developing a bid procedure for vendors to operate one. Range staffers have come up with some cost-saving ideas that are being implemented also.

According to Rodney, some shooters have talked about forming a friends group that would work voluntarily on behalf of the facility.

Shooting for sport dates back to the early 1900s in Great Britain, when trap shooters used live pigeons for targets. In 1920, a group of hunters in Andover, Massachusetts, practiced what they called "wing" shooting. A uniform series of shots was developed to keep competition fair and even for everyone. That began the modern version of skeet shooting.

Sporting clays courses are designed to simulate the hunting of ducks, pheasants, even rabbits. Six different sizes of clay targets, two-to-five inches in diameter, give the shooter the experience of actual hunting conditions.

The targets are hurled by a machine (also, at times, by a human, called a "puller") from a carousel holding 100-200 targets. The length of time the shooter gets a look at the target depends on its trajectory.

Zgrabik named high school All-America

STAFF REPORT

Venice High School catcher Chelsea Zgrabik has been selected to play in the Under Armour All-America Softball Game.

Only 30 high school players from across the country have been selected to participate in the inaugural three-day event at Disney's Wide World of Sports Complex in Orlando July 18-20.

"She's excited at heck," said Venice High School assistant coach and Chelsea's father, Mike Zgrabik.

VENICE LITTLE LEAGUE
SARASOTA COUNTY CUP

Lions set for title bout

STAFF REPORT

The Venice Lions are set to take on the winners of the losers' bracket in the Sarasota County Cup championship game at Twin Lakes Park in Sarasota Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Marlins and Nationals, both Sarasota teams, played for the right to challenge the Lions Tuesday at 7 p.m., but results were unavailable by press time.

The Marlins defeated the Nationals in their first matchup of the tournament in the winners' bracket semifinals. The Lions defeated the Marlins in the winners' bracket final.

The probable starter for the Lions is Beau Billings. Billings recorded wins for the Lions in the first round and the semifinals of the County Cup winners' bracket. Rhett Dinka, who pitched Venice to victory in the quarterfinals and finals of the winners' bracket, is also available for work today having observed at least three days' rest since throwing 90 pitches on Saturday.

Getting to the game

MarineMax braves weather with boat show

BY TRIPP MILLER
SPORTS EDITOR

Even with the economy is as bad as it is around here — and with gas prices creeping higher every 30 minutes or so — apparently the only thing that will keep people from boating is the rain.

While the economic downturn has certainly affected everyone, MarineMax Venice general manager Tim Joslin says he hasn't necessarily seen a significant impact on sales.

"People are still boating," he said. "They just don't go as far."

Over the weekend, MarineMax Venice sold five boats despite three days of thunderstorms at the inaugural Great American Boat Sale at The Crow's Nest.

"We had a successful show," Joslin said. "It wasn't as good as we wanted, but it was better than we expected based on the weather."

Joslin says MarineMax is planning more sales for later in the summer, but that specific dates and locations have not yet been determined.

"They're fun to do," he said. "We can get out and people get a chance to go out and touch the boats on the water and play with them. We're planning a few of them, but we haven't nailed them down."

Although not as many people are taking long getaways to the Florida Keys, for example, folks are still out on the water. You don't have to go very far, or burn very much gas, to enjoy a day on a boat.

"I call them Stress Reduction Vehicles or SRVs," Joslin said.

He and MarineMax will be helping to reduce some stress today, as 35 boaters are caravanning to Osprey for a boating luncheon at La Tosca Ristorante Italiano. Even if you don't own a boat, you can hitch a free ride on one of MarineMax's.

The group, which meets on the second Wednesday of every month, meets today at 11 a.m. in the MarineMax showroom.

WORKSHOPS – COMPREHENSIVE PLAN UPDATE
CITY OF VENICE

The Venice City Council will hold a workshop on Thursday, June 19, 2008 at 9:30 a.m. and Monday, June 23, 2008 at 9:30 a.m. The workshops will be held in Council Chambers, City Hall, City of Venice, 401 West Venice Avenue, Venice, Florida, 34285.

The purpose of the workshops is for City Council to review the second draft of the comprehensive plan, confirm policy direction, confirm future land use strategies and reach consensus on these. The workshops provide an informal setting for the public to participate in the planning process. The public is invited and encouraged to attend and public input from concerned citizens and affected property owners will be heard. Information will be posted on the city's website http://www.venicegov.com in advance of the meetings.

No stenographic record by a certified court reporter is made of this meeting nor will a verbatim record be prepared. Minutes will be written for the public record.

If you are disabled and need special assistance, please contact the City Clerk's office 24 hours prior to the meeting.

/s/ Lori Stelzer, MMC, City Clerk

Venice City Council objects to yacht club expansion

BY GREG GILES
NEWS EDITOR

On Tuesday Venice City Council voted to object to a proposed boat dock expansion by the Venice Yacht Club.

The action was in response to the Sarasota Board of County Commissioners' request for city input into the matter. The BOCC has final say over whether to approve the dock expansion.

Council went through a series of motions before it was able to clarify that it wasn't putting the final kabash on the plan. It did make clear the proposed dock, if built, would allow only a 38 foot wide space between the expanded dock and the planned Venice harbor mooring field for boaters to travel into and out of Higel Marine Park and other areas like the Freedom Boat Club.

Yacht club supporters asked council to support both projects. Those against the proposed dock said there are private slips for sale in the area that could satisfy the club's need for additional boat slips. They also cited environmental and safety concerns.

City Attorney Bob Anderson called the site congested and asked council to be careful in what it approves for the area so that it doesn't create a liability issue for the city.

Planning commission appointment tabled

In other news, city council found itself deadlocked June 10 over a proposed appointment by Mayor Ed Martin to fill a planning commission vacancy.

With only six council members in attendance — Council Member John Moore is on vacation — there weren't enough votes to affirm Martin's choice James Bennett. The three council members voted into office in November supported the appointment. Those already in office didn't. Council tabled the subject until its next meeting, awaiting Moore's return.

Moore has told Martin previously his philosophy on filling city advisory committees is to support whomever the mayor appoints as a matter of practice.

Bennett, a resident of the Sawgrass area of the city, would fill the unexpired term of Tom Bixler who recently passed away. The term runs from June 10, 2008 to Jan. 31, 2010.

Bennett was a member of the New Canaan, Conn. planning and zoning commission for 11 years (1985 to 1996), and served on the Southwestern Regional Planning Agency in Stamford, Conn. from 1995-2003. He graduated from Princeton University and was an Edward John Noble Fellow at Stanford University.

Bennett's resume lists him as online faculty for the University of Phoenix teaching business law, ethics, and ethics and information technology.

Efficiency study on hold

City council agreed last month to put an efficiency study on hold. Council asked for a proposal similar to one conducted in 2005 on the Venice Police Department that cost $50,000.

A citywide study, said Finance Director Jeff Snyder, could cost as much as $150,000. The study would be paid for as a percentage of the savings realized. But council members agreed the city operates in a fairly efficient manner, and nixed the idea.

"It's hard to argue against an efficiency study," said Council Member John Moore. Nevertheless, he didn't support the study, especially in light of City Manager Marty Black "doing an exceptional job in creating efficiencies in regard to the budget," Moore said, "I am wondering if this is something we could postpone. If we had the money to do it, I would support it. I don't know what we would gain by this."

Mayor Ed Martin agreed. "The city manager has done a very good job of reducing the budget and anticipating problems other cities are facing now. I feel it's an idea we should keep on the back burner," Martin said.

Moore made the motion to postpone the study. The vote in support was unanimous.

Hurricane 'hostages'

SUN PHOTO BY AUDREY BLACKWELL

Shelly Howarch, R.N., director of surgery, and Robin Lemieux, coordinator, medical staff services, were held "hostage" in high-rise buckets in the parking lot at Venice Regional Medical Center June 6 until they each got people to donate 20 units of blood. Howarch said she had 25 donors while Lemieux worked on getting donors. Florida Blood Centers, Venice, perform blood draws at the hospital once every eight weeks.

Polytech high school takes shape

FROM SARASOTA COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

As Suncoast Polytechnical High School takes shape in preparation for its Aug. 18 opening, Principal Jennifer Putnam and the school's teachers are already building relationships with local businesses.

Suncoast Polytechnical High School, located on Beneva Road on the campus of the Sarasota County Technical Institute, represents yet another step forward for the district's focus on Career and Technical Education.

From June 11-13, SPHS teachers will participate in "job shadowing" at local businesses, including the Geographic Information System (GIS) department of Sarasota County government, and an animation firm in Orlando.

"Job shadowing is a great way for our teachers to observe local businesses whose work is related to the courses our students will study," said Putnam. "We are fortunate that a number of forward-thinking business leaders in our community see the value of giving teachers real-world experiences they will be able to apply to the classroom. We hope to provide many more of these opportunities for our teachers, and later for our students. Executives see this as a way to support education and to ensure that they will have a highly qualified work force in the years to come."

In addition to the job shadowing opportunities for teachers, the school will host the Suncoast Polytechnical High School Business Partner Advocacy Board Luncheon. The event is set for noon to 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 18, in the SCTI cafeteria near Beneva and Proctor roads. Invited guests from local businesses will learn about the SPHS program, meet its faculty and explore potential school-business partnerships.

SPHS is being built to accommodate 600 students in 23 classrooms. The $16 million facility will encompass 70,000 square feet, including a covered gym area.

Bicycle Friendly Community label remains elusive

BY GREG GILES

SUN FILE PHOTO

The League of American Bicyclists awarded Venice an honorable mention after the city applied to become a Bicycle Friendly Community.

Bicycle enthusiasts in Venice were disappointed to learn the city was not selected as a Bicycle Friendly Community this year.

The League of American Bicyclists, which sponsors the program, did recognize the city's application for honorable mention, giving hope that next year the city will succeed.

The designation is much heralded, and can bring with it grant opportunities and attract bicycle-related tourism to the area.

"While Venice was not selected this year, reviewers hope this marks a commitment that is surfacing in the community to make improvements in the future," wrote panelists in a written review of the city's application.

"I was a little disappointed," said Monty Andrews. "It was not quite good enough to earn a bike friendly community designation."

He led the application effort as a member of the city Parks and Recreation Advisory Board and chaired a subcommittee, comprised of local bicycle supporters Wanda Short, Mike Gippert, Fred Hammett and Costa Xistris, to fill out the paperwork.

Lack of a designated full-time city staff person to oversee the effort was one of two key improvements cited by the League of American Bicyclists if the city decides to reapply for the designation.

"Making the bicycle and pedestrian a coordinator a full-time position would greatly increase the amount of work that can get done in the community," wrote the LAB.

LAB also suggested creating a comprehensive bike plan for the community to "expand encouragement, education, enforcement and engineering programs to increase usage."

Highlights of the application, according to the LAB, were the Legacy Trail connection to the Venetian Waterway Park Trail system, the amount of bike parking at public buildings, buses with bike racks and the accommodations on the community's three bridges.

"With the new political and community support for cycling, and the coming improvements to the network and programs, Venice is destined to be a Bicycle Friendly Community, as well as an Active Living Seniors model community," LAB wrote.

Twenty-six cities and counties applied for the designation — including Sarasota County, which also received honorable mention. According to Andrews, 11 were accepted and 10 received honorable mention.

Fifty cities are currently certified.

Andrews said LAB officials broached the subject of combining the county and city application, since the county has a full-time bicycle/pedestrian coordinator position.

Andrews said the advisory board would rather seek the designation on its own, at least for the next round of applications. The city could reapply as soon as August 2008, but Andrews said developing the bicyclist comprehensive plan will likely mean a reapplying again in spring 2009.

Light up the skies

This past weekend CJ Fishman and Benny Weaver and their cohorts at Sertoma Club of Venice kicked off the drive to raise $10,000 to fund the annual July 4 fireworks display at the Venice Jetties. The club donation of $10,000 will be matched by $10,000 from the city, Fishman said when he stopped by the Venice Gondolier Sun offices the other day.

The effort will continue every Saturday and Sunday through the end of June. Sertoma members will be at three Venice area Publix stores: The Publix on the island, the Publix near Pinebrook on East Venice Avenue and the Publix near Laurel Road on U.S. 41 in Nokomis.

They will be there from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. on Sunday and from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

If you donate $5, you will get an American flag pin that flashes so you too can light up the night on July 4.

Any amount is welcome though, so when you are shopping, be sure to make a donation to Sertoma's annual fireworks fund.

Tryouts extended

If you have always wanted to be a star, The Players Theatre in Sarasota could be the place where your light begins to sparkle. The Players has extended the application date for its annual talent search to June 20. Just $25 per person gets your foot in the door for one of three audition dates in July and the chance to be in The Players Talent Search Grand Finale Show at 7 p.m. Aug. 23, at The Players, 838 North Tamiami Trail. Winners will receive several prizes, including an invitation to be a guest on the 1220 WIBQ radio show Talk of the Suncoast, with host Cliff Roles, to spend a day with an artistic director (Murray Chase of the Venice Little Theatre, Rick Kerby of the Manatee Players or Jeffery Kin of The Players) and a class at The Players Studio. Those are just some of the prizes.

Auditions will be held July 12, 19 and 26 at The Players Performing Arts Studio, 500 Tallevast Road, Sarasota. To learn more, visit www.theplayers.org or call (941) 360-0120.

Care for the caregiver now available at the Caregiver Resource Center

Informational pamphlets hang on one wall of the Caregiver Resource Center at the Senior Friendship Centers in Venice.

Facility's grand opening is Thursday

Caregivers in Venice now have a place to receive some tender loving care of their own.

The grand opening for the new Caregiver Resource Center at the Senior Friendship Centers in Venice is tomorrow. It's a dream come true for Kathleen Simmonds, director Adult Day Services and Caregiver Resource Center, her steering committee and community partners.

For worn and weary caregivers, it's a one-stop single point of entry for information, relief and respite.

"This will be a central point where caregivers can get information and education," Simmonds said. "It's open to caregivers without charge."

The center's mission is supporting, educating and connecting caregivers through community partnerships.

Educational programs, compassionate support and access to a wealth of information of special interest to anyone caring for a loved one are available at the Caregivers Resource Center.

New Dell computers provide easy access to online assistance. And, of course, there is a staff of caring, experienced volunteers to assist caregivers visiting the center from 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Simmonds, her steering committee, staff and volunteers know how much stress caregivers are under in their dual rolls of raising their families and caring for aging parents or other loved ones. So they have worked really hard to give the center a feeling of welcome and comfort.

From the welcome sign at the entrance to the beautiful modern art that lines the hallway, the comfort of caregivers has been taken into consideration. Rooms have been painted varying shades of blue to soothe the stressed-out caregiver's soul. Caregivers can go to the center for information or to have someone sit with them and help them figure out what they need or what to do next.

"The Caregivers Resource Center is a collaborative effort with TideWell Hospice, Habitat for Humanity and a variety of agencies and businesses," Simmonds said.

Habitat for Humanity donated the chairs for the nurturing room which will feature aromatherapy, counseling and small group sessions.

Respite care is provided for families so they can leave their loved one in The Living Rooms program and do what they need to do in the resource center. Simmonds said the cost for this is estimated as low as $2.65 an hour.

"It's even possible that it could be lower if funds are available through Sponsor-A-Senior, which is a pay-it-forward type of program," she said.

Artwork hangs on the walls of the Caregiver Resource Center at the Senior Friendship Centers in Venice.

"The Tempest"

Linda MacCluggage plays Prospera in "The Tempest" at the Players Theatre, 838 N. Tamiami Trail, Sarasota. "The Tempest" by William Shakespeare runs through June 15. This production boasts a strong cast of local actors in some non-traditional roles. Those not familiar with Shakespeare will love this updated, hip and shortened version set in the late 1960s. Shakespeare lovers will appreciate the scope and the universality of the bard's words and how they relate to contemporary issues. Come hang out as The Players serves up a groovy Shakespearean clambake. Tickets are $20 for adults, $12 for students. Purchase tickets by calling (941) 365-2494 or going online to www.theplayers.org.

GOREN BRIDGE

Q 1 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 10 6 4 ♡ A J 4 ◇ K Q 9 7 ♣ K 8 5

The bidding has proceeded:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
1◇	1♠	Dbl*	Pass

*negative, for takeout

What do you bid?

A - The bidding has not developed well for North-South. Looking at a flat hand and having bid his only four-card suit, and with no vestige of a stopper in the enemy suit, what is South supposed to bid? The only course of action is to bid one no trump — that should show a balanced minimum without necessarily promising a stopper in the enemy suit.

Q 2 - North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A K 8 6 5 ♡ 9 6 ◇ Q 8 ♣ K 10 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
1♠	Dbl	Rdbl	3♡
Pass	4♡	Pass	Pass

What action do you take?

A - North's redouble says the hand belongs to you, and that either you play the hand or the opponents play it doubled. Since you cannot double four hearts, and since partner has shown no great liking for you to play four spades, you must bid five clubs.

Q 3 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ K 10 7 ♡ A 10 ◇ K J 6 ♣ A K J 9 3

The bidding has proceeded:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
1♣	1NT	Pass	Pass

What action do you take?

A - Essentially, all doubles of no-trump contracts are for penalties, so partner should play you for a hand too strong for a one no-trump opener. He should pass all doubles except with a near-yarborough and a long suit. Double.

Q 4 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 5 ♡ 9 7 6 4 2 ◇ 7 ♣ A J 8 7 5 2

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?

A - It is unlikely to be your hand, and you would not like to be defending almost any contract the opponents might bid. Make it as difficult as possible for them to judge accurately where they belong. Raise to four hearts.

Q 5 - Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A Q 8 5 ♡ K Q 8 7 3 ◇ Void ♣ A Q 10 2

Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A - Despite your 18 high-card points, this is not the hand for any jump shift or vigorous action — you might need a lot of room to explore and your void in partner's hand is a major flaw. Start with a quiet one heart and make sure your next bid is forcing.

Q 6 - Vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A K 8 ♡ J 10 5 ◇ A K 8 4 ♣ Q J 7

Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A - Believe it or not, there is a textbook bid that describes your hand exactly — 16-18 points with no ruffing value, i.e., a 4-3-3-3 pattern. Jump to three no trump.

Wife disappoints husband only when she speaks

DEAR ABBY
COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: I am happily married to the most wonderful woman in the world. I feel blessed to have her in my life and to be a part of hers.

I am not an elitist; I like to think I am a humble person. But I do believe in correct grammar, proper pronunciation and the eloquent employment of words in conversation. My wife did not have the benefit of an upbringing in which these were practiced. She comes from the "ain't got no" school of speaking.

I can accept this at home, but in business as a corporate executive, I am embarrassed by her low verbal skills.

I would never hurt or shame my wife by correcting her in front of anyone. The obvious answer is to bring it up in private. I did that, but she is not inclined to improve her word skills. She has mentioned a friend who tried to help her in this endeavor, but it went nowhere. I wish I could do something. Any ideas on how I can help? — WORDSMITH IN ILLINOIS

DEAR WORDSMITH: The most important line in your letter is the one in which you say you have spoken to your wife about the problem, "but she is not inclined to improve her word skills." You might try one more time, and tell her you're afraid her poor English will affect your chances for promotion and you would appreciate it if she would take some courses in English grammar and literature. But you can't force her.

You say you have a happy marriage and your wife is the most wonderful woman in the world. Nobody has everything. Love her for who she is and stop worrying about how others perceive her.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend I'll call "Rose" who lives in a senior complex. Somehow she discovered that her key will fit random apartments in the complex, and she goes in when her neighbors are not present. I have told Rose that what she's doing isn't right, but she says "they all rent from the same person," so she's doing nothing wrong. She does not go in for any reason other than to nose around. Sometimes she asks a friend to go with her on these little trips. What do you think about this? — PUZZLED IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR PUZZLED: Because everyone rents from the same person does not give ANYONE — including the landlord — the right to enter someone's apartment without permission. Rose is trespassing, and it's against the law.

It doesn't make sense that her key fits "random apartments" unless she has somehow gotten hold of a pass key. Management should be informed that their security system has been breached because the tenants have a right to privacy.

DEAR ABBY: I have had terrible luck lately at fast-food drive-through restaurants. I eat on a budget, and I'm getting tired of pulling away only to find my order is incomplete — or worse, inedible.

My husband says I should check the order before I pull away, but I'm afraid it would be rude because it holds up the line. What do you recommend? — STALE BURGER BUNS IN ILLINOIS

DEAR S.B.B.: Fast-food restaurants do not always have experienced help. That's why it makes sense to check your order before you leave as your husband suggested — and doing so is not "rude." However, there is no excuse for a customer being served stale or improperly cooked food. If that happened to me, I would complain to the manager, and if it wasn't corrected, I'd take my business to another establishment.

What teens need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS and getting along with peers and parents is in "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $6 (U.S. funds) to: Dear Abby — Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included in the price.)

Celebrating dad: The champion in your family

FROM NAPSA

If you've ever spent time on the links with your dad, you know that golf creates a more intimate experience between fathers, sons and daughters than just talking about doglegs and bunkers. If this rings true, you may want to tee up a new Web site — one that celebrates this emotional connection.

Recognizing this unique bond, the Golf Channel is honoring fathers everywhere through an initiative that gives dad his due. The network has established a place where people can celebrate special connections with their fathers (or father figures), as well as give them a chance through a special contest to send their dad on a dream trip to the home of golf — St. Andrews, Scotland.

"If you've ever played the game of golf, chances are it was your father who placed that golf club in your hands for the very first time," said Golf Channel President Page Thompson. "And, most likely, it was your father who taught you the lessons that have not only served you well on the golf course, but also in life."

The site, www.GolfChannel.com/FathersDay, offers a place where people can post recollections and lessons learned from time spent on the golf course with their fathers.

For many professional golfers — and even the hundreds of Hollywood celebrities who are hooked on the game — it was their father who first sparked their interest. Golf Channel asked some of them to share stories about their dads and the life lessons they learned through golf, or about passing along that same love of the game to their own children.

"By the sheer nature of the sport, golf has played such an important role in starting or enriching father-son and father-daughter relationships," added Thompson. "Through a dad's wisdom and guidance, you learned about honor, tradition, respect, sportsmanship, perseverance and patience. And because of golf, you shared time and memories with your father that will last forever."

In essence, the network's celebration of dad demonstrates that while he was teaching you how to swing a driver, he was really trying to build confidence, and while he was lecturing about the rules of the game, it was really about learning integrity.

The site allows users to enter the contest, watch videos and even take a video tour of St. Andrews, where more memories will be made for a dad and his lucky kid.

SUN NEWSPAPERS

Katie Bliss makes sure everyone leaves the Healthcare Volunteers of Venice recruiting breakfast at Pelican Pointe Golf & Country Club with a lovely, long-stemmed rose.

Venice Middle School students gave the audience at the Venice Historical Society meeting some circus magic as they showcased their work.

President Sue Chapman invited teacher Barbara Woody to introduce the student-created video showing circus performers sharing circus memories.

"When you start out, you have to knock on doors," said Pedro Reis. "You work hard to develop an act that no one else will do. Then, when you become the best, someone comes and knocks on your door."

Pedro Reis spoke those inspirational words in his interview telling why he got the call to perform in the center ring.

Dolly Jacobs, Jackie LeClaire, Chuck Sidlow, Reis and other circus performers mingled with the more than 150 people on hand at the Venice Public Library for photos and circus stories.

At a small gathering after the meeting, Chapman presented Woody with a plaque and a check for her work.

Bravo to Betty Intagliata for spearheading this project and for all those involved in making everyone experience circus sparkle in Venice one more time.

Healthcare Volunteers recruit and salute

Frank Collins, president of Healthcare Volunteers of Venice, welcomed volunteers and recruits to a continental breakfast at Pelican Pointe Golf & Country Club. Ingrid Tetreault, Russ Schimke, Junie Fontana and Shirley Case called the volunteer program as one of the best in the country. Nineteen recruits committed that day.

A few weeks later the volunteers filled the dining room at the Boca Royale Golf & Country Club for breakfast and awards.

"We care about quality, service and performance," Venice Regional Medical Center CEO Melody Trimble told the group. "It's our hospital that shines every day because of you."

It was a time to shine for volunteers receiving new badges, including Rose Hynes, celebrating 14,000 hours over 20 years of service.

Treasurer Bob Joynson reported the HVV program provided $66,800 in scholarships to area students.

One of our best

The special person of this week is Venice Middle School teacher Barbara Woody.

This teacher exemplifies great teaching. Her passion for Venice history and willingness to work with the community and the Venice Historical Society on grants and innovative projects give her students an opportunity to excel.

Barbara Woody is one of the teachers who help make Venice a great place to live.

Corrections

The column in the June 4 edition gave an incorrect location for the College Club luncheon. It was held at Jacaranda West Country Club. Also, Lois Peeler's name was misspelled. Apologies to her and all the club members.

Venice Middle School teacher Barbara Woody led the team developing a circus presentation for Venice.

Barbara Gurtler speaks several languages and believes she can serve as a volunteer even though she is still in private practice with her European Holistic Therapeutic Body Work Therapy.

Bill and Betty Wade celebrate 5,000 volunteer hours with Healthcare Volunteers of Venice.

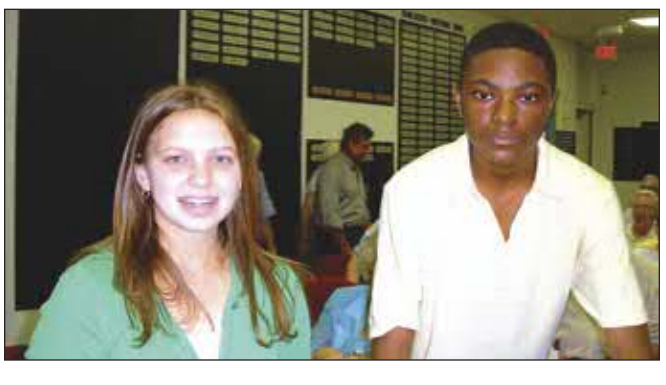
Rose Hynes celebrates 14,000 volunteer hours with the Healthcare Volunteers of Venice.



Mary Kagarise and Toussaint Thomas get the presentation ready for the Venice Historical Society meeting. The Venice Middle School students worked with a team of students to create a circus presentation for Venice.

John Osborne, left, Mary Huba and Penny Phelps served as mentors with the Venice High School students for the circus project.
