Festival charm in Glades County: March 6 & 7

INI/Nena Bolan

The historic past is celebrated at Chalo Nitka, a festival with great food, alligator wrestling, and a rodeo located in Moore Haven, Glades County. This is a photo of last year's successful parade, and all communities have come together once again to entertain neighbors and visitors.

Chalo Nitka celebrates food, cowhunters and Seminole Tribe

GLADES COUNTY -- The heart of winter in the Sunshine State concentrates at the Chalo Nitka Festival and Rodeo in Moore Haven, Glades County. On Thursday, March 5, catch the final evening of the youth livestock show. Watch the Pee Wee parade and livestock auction beginning at 6:45 p.m. Then Friday, March 6 begins with Kids Day that features a small fry fishing contest, pet parade, games and the opening of the midway at 5 p.m., followed by the Frontier Days Rodeo and country western dance.

The traditional ranch rodeo includes events that celebrate the ranching and livestock skills of early cowhunters and farm families. Athletes from the area will demonstrate their horse and cattle know-how in events like wild horse racing, wild cow milking and team roping. Showtime begins at 7 p.m. on March 6th and 7th at the Bronson Arena.

Watch the parade, Saturday, March 7 at 10 a.m. as it ambles past the historic 1920's Glades County courthouse along Avenue J. Proceed to the Chalo Nitka Park and indulge in an incredible food fair, and crafts exhibit while you watch Seminole Indian entertainment, dancing ladies and country music. An old-time favorite show is alligator wrestling done the Seminole way at 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Colorful patchwork clothing will be modeled at the Seminole fashion show at 4 p.m. Historic replicas of 1800's patchwork and modern styles will be displayed.

The Milestone Band, known for its performance at the Oklahoma Choctaw Coliseum, will perform at the Friday and Saturday night dances in the Doyle Conner Building. Also, the Andy Buster Band will play throughout the day starting at 11 a.m. on Saturday.

Andy Buster and brother, Paul "Cowbone" Buster, are song writers raised in the ways of Seminole and Miccosukee culture.

The Chalo Nitka Festival derives its name from the Seminole words that mean "big

County economic expansion

Bob Levy, President of RECO Realtors continues activity in leasing and sales activity at the Sutton/Chin Development fronting on US 27 (Enterprise zone) south of Moore Haven, Florida.

The 20 acre parcel has been attracting buyers and tenants expressing interest in short term and longer leases as well.

With the current unsettled economic conditions and the shortage of financing prevailing at this time, some commercial and industrial users are preferring leasing as an alternative.

This option presents entrepreneurs an opportunity to obtain properties with locations supporting their distribution and business objectives with more reasonable cash outlays as a method of establishing or expanding their business. Such companies as De Mott Auctions, Glades Electric Utilities and United Drilling have leased parcels in the past year.

The Moore Haven and Glades County areas are becoming more attractive due to its' location to serve the central and Southern Florida markets.

Parcels up to grade, from 1 acre and up can be configured with user requirements for ingress and egress established so that the properties comply with their needs as well as local zoning guidelines.

Extensive development of Moore Haven commercial properties, the plans for a large Inland Port a full service Marina, plus plans for the Miami International Airport overflow terminal and support airfield in the immediate area coupled with the County's "Pro-Development" posture, bodes well for the future of this community.

New lake channel markers

By Eric Kopp
INI Florida

Thanks to the foresight of Glades County Sheriff Stuart Whiddon, anglers and boaters on Lake Okeechobee are now finding it easier to locate channels within Glades County.

A project to replace seven channel markers destroyed by Hurricane Wilma on Oct. 24, 2005, was completed last week. Those channels are: Pearce Canal, Indian Prairie Canal, Dyess Ditch, Harney Pond, Fisheating Creek, Moore Haven Canal and Cochran's Pass.

Following the storm, Sheriff Whiddon was aware of the missing channel markers and became concerned about the possible safety hazard created by their absence. He then, along with the help of the Glades County Board of County Commissioners and Glades County Emergency Management, contacted the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and requested financial support with the project.

Although the project was approved, it could not be completed until Wednesday, Feb. 25, 2009, due to low water levels.

The total cost of the project was $54,357. Of that cost, FEMA paid 37,500 and Glades County paid $16,857.

After Tropical Storm Fay drenched the area in August of 2008, the water level rose considerably and Southeast General Contracting could now get on the lake with their 20-foot x 40-foot barge to set the markers.

According to Don Duncan, a spokesman for the Palm City company, the barge and its 5-ton crane was unloaded in the Harney Pond Canal and it took about a week for them to mount the lights and set the 12-inch x 30-foot oversized telephone polls.

Mr. Duncan said the barge

Location proposed for South Fla. inland port

Glades County EDC

The Glades County Economic Development Council, Inc. is working on a grass roots effort with Glades and Moore Haven public officials, the Florida Heartland Rural Economic Development Initiative (FHREDI), state legislators, EDC members, regional planners, state agencies, and other folks in the region to site an inland port in the center of the FHREDI region.

Glades County has an inland port site located just north west of the City of Moore Haven that is ideally located on the South Central Florida Express rail, U.S. 27, and U.S. 78.

An inland port is an intermodal logistics center that provides for the opportunity to move large transport containers from rail to road and road to rail. These containers will arrive at the inland port from the north, the west, the east, and the south either by truck or rail.

The origin of the containers will be from out of the state, within the state, from airports, or from the ports along the coast.

In addition, the inland port provides for the opportunity to generate light manufacturing and distribution centers near it and within the region around it.

Inland ports must be centrally located to key consumer markets and have efficient access to freight facilities (both rail and road).

According to EDC director Tracy Whirls, an inland port, in the right location:

- Will be a much needed south Florida infrastructure improvement for facilitating the movement of containers within the entire region including both the southwest and southeast Florida consumer markets
- Will help connect five plus seaports and three international airports
- Will utilize existing transportation infrastructure as efficiently as possible with the least amount of improvements to rail and roads required in early phases to reduce costs
- Will improve efficient utilization of rail and reduce semi-truck vehicle miles traveled throughout south Florida (especially the coastal congestion on I-95, the Turnpike, and I-75)

- Will free up east coast rail for urban passengers
- Will diversify the Florida, South Florida, Southwest Florida and Heartland regional economies
- Will provide a basis for a sustainable and well-diversified south Florida regional economy going forward

"In addition to the inland port functioning as a much needed piece of infrastructure for south Florida, it will also function, as conceived by the Port of Palm Beach, to facilitate and increase international trade in Florida as an international trade processing center," Ms. Whirls said. "It will help to expand the South Florida transportation and logistics industry, by making it cheaper, faster, more efficient and secure for companies to move goods into, out of and through various Florida markets and ports."

Currently there are many sites being considered for the inland port, including several in Palm Beach County, which have drawn opposition from environmental groups due to their proximity to or being within the proposed Everglades restoration project flow way, one at Hendry County's Airglades Airport and one at the Glades Moore Haven site.

The Moore Haven inland port site is in the center of the existing workforce of 100,000 in the FHREDI Heartland region.

The Moore Haven site is within half an hour's drive time to all of the unincorporated communities in Glades County, as well as Clewiston and Labelle in Hendry County, and within 45 minutes drive time of Lake Placid, Okeechobee and Belle Glade.

"This is critical," the EDC director said, "because if you move the location from the center of the region, it becomes too far to commute for many of the FHREDI region towns. A second Glades County pro-

According to Glades County Sheriff Stuart Whiddon, the project was finished last week. The markers were set on the lake at Pearce Canal, Indian Prairie Canal, Dyess Ditch, Harney Pond Canal, Fisheating Creek, Moore Haven Canal and Cochran's Pass. The original channel markers were destroyed in 2005 by Hurricane Wilma, but due to low water levels the project could not be completed until recently.

Two lake navigation locks to close

Okeechobee, FL - In response to continuing drier-than-normal weather conditions, the South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) is set to close two navigation locks on the western shore of Lake Okeechobee to all boat traffic.

The affected locks are: The S-131 navigation lock at Lakeport is expected to close March 3.

The S-127 navigation lock at Buckhead Ridge is anticipated to close when the lake level hits 12.50 NGVD.

Currently, the forecast calls for continuing dry weather, with little to no significant rainfall predicted to recharge local drainage basins along the rim canals that flow into Lake Okeechobee.

During the 2006-2007 drought, the District took similar action - at the request of residents - after low water levels rendered the canals impassible and led to them becoming overgrown with vegetation. The lock closures helped preserve the remaining water in the canals. The locks will remain closed until rainfall recharges the lake.

For more information about the navigation locks, water levels or District projects, please contact the SFWMD Okeechobee Service Center at (863) 462-5260 or (800) 250-4200.

Don't let your drain cause you pain!

Think about what goes down your drain. If you have a septic system, everything that goes down your drain ends up in your septic tank. Well don't let that drain cause you pain! If you do not maintain your septic system properly, you are sure to have the pain and aggravation from a failed system, not to mention a hefty chunk out of your wallet! Failed septic systems are expensive to repair or replace. A septic system contains a large watertight tank that takes in, and partially treats the waste water that runs out of your home plumbing system. Just after the septic tank there should be a drain field that distributes the waste water into the soil for final treatment and disposal. If you have trouble with your septic system, you may notice clogging drains, your sink may back up when you flush the toilet, or you may notice a stinky smell similar to rotten eggs. Keep in mind that the well for your drinking water should be at least 75 feet away from your septic system. You don't want to drink your toilet water do you? If you start having trouble, septic tanks can be cleaned by a company which is permitted by the county health department. Septic tanks should be cleaned by licensed and experienced professionals who will pump out your septic tank contents into a tank truck and then dispose of the wastewater in an approved, sanitary manner. Here are some tips to help prevent septic system failure:

- Don't pour any type of cooking oils or grease down your drain.
- Never flush paper towels, newspapers, rags or sticks (This could clog your drains and fill up your septic tank rather quickly)
- Don't over-use household cleaning products in the showers, sinks, and tubs.
- Never flush any kind of pesticides into your system (you need the live bacteria in the septic tank to help break down the waste)

- Have your septic system inspected and pumped at least every three years by a licensed septic tank contractor or plumber.
- Never allow vehicles (cars, trucks, etc) to drive across or park on the drainfield (Protect it from being crushed)

Remember that your septic system is not a trash can. If you have any further questions on septic systems, please contact the Environmental Health office at the Hendry County Health Department 863-674-4041 or the Glades County Health Department 863-946-0212.

Patricia Dobbins is the Administrator for the Hendry and Glades County Health Departments. If you would like to read an article about a particular health topic, please call 863-674-4041, extension 120.

Risks associated with wildfire smoke

Hendry and Glades Counties - The Hendry and Glades County Health Departments and the Florida Department of Health (DOH) caution citizens that wildfire smoke is a respiratory irritant that can cause scratchy throat or irritated eyes and nose. Smoke can also worsen conditions such as asthma and other chronic respiratory or lung conditions.

How to protect your family from smoke:

- Pay attention to local news coverage or health warnings related to smoke.
- Use common sense when outside conditions are smoky. Avoid prolonged outdoor activities. It is especially important to limit time spent outdoors for children and persons with existing medical conditions.

- Stay indoors and run your air conditioner, if you have one. Keep the fresh air intake closed and the filter clean to prevent bringing additional smoke inside. For best results, run the air conditioning with re-circulated air.
- Help keep particle levels lower inside. When smoke levels are high, try to avoid using anything that burns, such as wood fireplaces, gas logs, gas stoves and even candles. Do not vacuum, which stirs up particles already inside your home. Also do not smoke tobacco.
- Follow your doctor's advice about taking medicines and following your asthma management plan if you have asthma or other lung disease. Call your doctor if your symptoms worsen.

World Champion women's boxer Laura "Lady Ram" Ramsey, visited Pahokee PAL boxers last week. The boxer told the boys about her personal story, and even sparred for a few rounds with some of the athletes.

By Steven Tillings

Last Friday evening, top middleweight female boxer Laura (Lady Ram) Ramsey came to Pahokee to visit the PAL youth boxing program.

Boxing teams from the sheriff's Belle Glade PAL, and Palm Beach Gardens PAL came to the Pahokee boxing gym located at 603 Bacom Point Road to see the top female boxer.

The Pahokee gym's coach deputy sheriff Mike LeStrange introduced Ms. Ramsey to all the adults and youth in attendance.

The professional boxer was greeted with a standing ovation as she entered the facility.

Ramsey came with gifts for the youth boxers with her life story, and how she rose to become a boxing champion.

Ramsey told the kids that her life was saved through boxing.

Prior to becoming a boxer, Ramsey was obese, and as a result of her excessive weight, her body functions shut down, making her extremely ill.

She reluctantly tried the boxing training routine and found herself losing weight. She subsequently became one of the best athletes in the sport. Lilia Ali, who is the former heavyweight champion's daughter, was signed to box Ramsey, however, Ali backed out of the match for an unknown reason.

After sparring with the 30 youngsters, Ramsey watched and evaluated their sparring sessions as coaches Willie Wiggins from Belle Glade's team, Afshin Motedaely from Palm Beach Gardens, and LeStrange assigned the sparring matches.

The kids were surprised when Ramsey donned her boxing gear and sparred for six rounds with two very experienced amateur boxers who were with adults in attendance.

After six rounds, Ramsey showed no fatigue with the exhibition.

Pahokee PAL boxer, 13-year-old Deonte Adams, said he was impressed with Ramsey's skill and learned from her.

Ramsey concluded her visit with signing autographs for the attendees.

Ramsey said she was impressed with the Pahokee program and promised to return.

For more information about the Pahokee Police Athletic League boxing program, please contact Palm Beach County deputy sheriff Mike LeStrange at 561-254-7773 or deputy Malaura Duplantis at 561-996-1670.

Visitors to that Far, Distant Shore

By Butch Wilson Clewiston Museum

The high bows of the ocean-going dugouts rose and then plunged downward like sharp daggers though the cresting waves.

The long, thick bodied crafts sank deep into the dark, treacherous troughs of the waves, before rising once again to meet the mountainous walls of green water that toyed with each dugout.

Men, burnt by a thousand suns, showed no fear as they gazed across the stormy tempest with experienced eyes that were intent on an invisible path, which would lead them to a distant shore.

Their dugouts followed a true course across the Florida Straits, traveling unerringly like a flock of migratory birds to a fixed point on the hidden horizon.

The mariners paddled tirelessly the entire day, steering their dugouts through contrary currents and squalls.

Hours of endless toil finally rewarded the mariners with tiny distant clouds that formed on the horizon.

The growing clouds gradually materialized into "Firma Tierra." It was a land of lush, tropical forest, green sloping hills and great flocks of parrots that painted the sky in a barrage of rainbow colors.

A distant shore called Isla de Cotorras, or Isle of Parrots, an island we know today as Cuba.

Could primitive Cypress dugouts survive such a "Tall Tale" journey across the Florida Straits - a place where treacherous waters from an oceanic river called the Gulf Stream, collides with the prevailing winds in a constant duel of wills?

Is there historical proof that such a craft existed among the Native American Nations in south Florida?

It is time to take "A Walk in the Past" and read some interesting, historical tidbits written by a long forgotten Spanish soldier.

The Spanish established three forts in south Florida during the 1500s, to protect their shipping interest and citizens from other European powers and Indians.

Pedro Menendez, the first appointed Spanish governor of Florida, was initially successful in establishing friendly, political relations with the Indian Nations that lived around the graphically dispersed, Spanish forts in south Florida.

However, this peace was short lived because of Spanish harshness and rivalry among the Indian Nations that bred contempt, hate and wars.

The warring Indians made it futile for the Spaniards to stay, so they eventually abandoned all three forts.

The departing Spaniards left in their wake, vengeful Indian nations that were quick to repay an old score.

The Indians vented a cold ruthlessness on any Spanish person who had the misfortune to wreck on their coast.

An unknown number of men, women and children became victims to the Indian hostilities that lasted from 1571 to 1612.

Most victims were immediately killed, but some were enslaved and reserved for a later fateful day.

In 1612, the Spanish Florida governor, Fernandez de Olivera, sent a messenger to request a truce with the Calusa Indians.

The Calusa Casique, who dominated the Calusa Nation and other neighboring Indians, responded to the message, asking for peace and friendship with the Spaniards.

It is strange that the Calusa would want peace and friendship with the Spaniards, since some of the Calusas probably remembered the encroaching forts and harsh treatment that the Spaniards had meted out to them and other Indian Nations.

The Calusa Casique's motives were probably purely political because the Spanish had successfully established forts, settlements and missions in Central and North Florida.

There were lurking fears or phobia that other Indian tribes living in Central and North Florida would make alliances with the Spaniards and become a powerful, threatening force to the Calusa Indian Nation.

The Calusa Casique was particularly correct in his assumptions. However, the threat would come much later and from Indian Nations living further north.

No doubt the governor's reasons for peace were also strictly political because he wanted the looting, killing and enslavement of Spanish citizens to end.

Governor Olivera sent an expedition under the command of Juan Rodriguez de Cortaya to confirm the messenger's report that the Calusa Casique really wanted peace.

Cortaya set out with a launch down the west coast of Florida with one pilot (navigator) and 20 soldiers for Tampa Bay.

The expedition made its way to Tampa Bay without mishap and then southward to Charlotte Harbor, where the Calusa Casique lived.

Cortaya reported in his journal the numerous Indian villages and Indians he encountered at Tampa Bay and present day Charlotte Harbor.

His report is interesting because the south Florida Indian Nations were still very populous.

They had not yet been weakened by European diseases that would one day sweep across the Florida Peninsula like the Black Plague, bringing death and destruction to the Florida Indian Nations.

When Cortaya entered Charlotte Harbor, he was greeted by sixty canoes and a great number of unarmed male Indians who brought many women with them, which was a sign of peace.

The Casique arrived in a dugout that carried 40 people, greeting Coraya and his crew in a friendly manner.

The Calusa Casique gave the Spaniards gold presents and a Negro from Havana, Cuba, who had been blown off course in a dugout by a storm to their shores.

The Casique told Coraya there were other Spanish castaways and that he would return them to the Spaniards.

The Calusa Casique promised Coraya that the Calusa nation would not harm shipwrecked persons in the future.

Cortaya's journal mentioned a dugout with a large, load capacity of 40 people. A dugout of this size could probably safely travel across the Florida Straits to Cuba or the Bahamas Islands.

Further evidence for sea voyages to and from Cuba are substantiated when Cortaya's journal alludes to the Negro from Havana, Cuba, who was blown off course in his dugout by a storm to the Calusa shores.

Another interesting Spanish memoir states that Ponce De Leon was cursed in Spanish by Florida Indians in 1521 that had fled Cuba to escape the Spanish cruelty.

We will probably never know how far the South Florida Indians and Caribbean Indians ventured on their epic, oceanic voyages.

I would like to think that they had the same vision and spirit that all adventurous people have, "To go where no man has gone before."

There will be more "Tale Tales" in next week's edition "A Walk in the Past," when the Spanish return to south Florida in the late 1600s.

I hope you have enjoyed this story. Contact the Clewiston Museum if you have questions, artifacts, pictures, or a "Whale of a Tale" that you would like to share.

The Museum's hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Butch Wilson is the Clewiston Museum Director. He can be reached at clewistonmuseum@embargmail.com, or by phone at 863-983-2870.

What is the health threat from wildfire smoke?

Smoke from wildfires is a mixture of gases and fine particles from burning trees and other plant materials. Smoke can hurt your eyes, irritate your respiratory system and worsen chronic heart and lung diseases. Fortunately, most persons who are exposed to thick smoke will not have health problems. How much and how long you are exposed to the smoke, as well as your age and degree of susceptibility play a role in determining whether or not someone will experience smoke-related problems. If you are experiencing serious medical problems for any reason, seek medical treatment immediately.

How can I tell if the smoke is affecting my family or me?

- Smoke can cause coughing, scratchy throat, irritated sinuses, shortness of breath, chest pain, headaches, stinging eyes and runny nose.
- If you have heart or lung disease, smoke might make your symptoms worse.
- People who have heart disease might experience chest pain, rapid heartbeat, shortness of breath and fatigue.
- Smoke may worsen symptoms for people who have pre-existing respiratory conditions, such as respiratory allergies, asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) in the following ways:

- Inability to breathe normally;
 - Cough with or without mucus;
 - Chest discomfort;
 - Wheezing and shortness of breath;
- When smoke levels are high enough, even healthy people may experience some of these symptoms.

How can I protect myself and my family from the harmful effects of smoke?

- Limit your exposure to the smoke by:
- Staying indoors whenever possible.
 - Using air conditioners Using mechanical air cleaners.
 - Keeping windows closed while driving in a vehicle.
- Will I suffocate in my house?
 No. The most common call for evacuation during a wildfire is due to the direct threat of the fire, not smoke. Leaving the area of thick smoke may be an option for those who are sensitive to smoke. However, it is often difficult to predict the duration, intensity and direction of smoke, making this an unattractive choice to many people.
- Should I wear a mask?
 The Department of Health does not recommend the wearing of any masks or respirators at this time.
- Will a wet towel or bandana provide any help?
 The Department of Health

does not recommend using wet towels or bandanas. Since wet towels or bandanas may not be sealed to the face and their capacity to filter very small particles is unknown, they will likely provide little to no protection.

What should I do if I must drive to work?

Individuals can reduce the amount of smoke particles in their vehicles by keeping the windows closed. The car's ventilation systems typically remove a portion of the particle coming in from outside. For best results, individuals may want to use the "re-circulate air" feature found in most cars, which will help keep the particulate levels lower.

Do air-purifying machines help remove smoke particles inside buildings?

Some air cleaners may be effective at reducing indoor particle levels, but most are not effective at removing gases and odors and also tend to be expensive. Humidifiers or de-humidifiers are not technically air cleaners and will not significantly reduce the amount of particles in the air during a smoke event.

What should I do about closing up my house when it is so hot in there?

If you do not have an air conditioner and if it is too warm to stay inside with the windows closed, seek alternative shelter.

If I have respiratory problems and can't reach my doctor, where should I go?

If you have a medical emergency, you should call 911 or go to the hospital emergency room immediately.

What do I bring if I'm told to evacuate my home?

If asked to evacuate your home, be sure to bring your important family documents (birth certificates, wills, insurance policies), valuables and your family disaster supply kit. Your disaster supply kit should contain enough food, water and supplies to sustain your family for at least three days. Do not forget any medications or special items such as a first aid kit. For additional information on how to prepare your family for disasters, review the "Family Preparedness Guide" at www.doh.state.fl.us/rw_webmaster/prepareenglish06.pdf. It is extremely important for families to create their own disaster plan before a disaster strikes so they are quickly able to determine what valuables they may want to bring, what items need to be stored and how to preserve keepsakes.

Where can I find information about the air quality in the area I live?

The Florida Department of Environmental Protection provides updated information on outdoor air quality in Florida at <http://www.floridadep.org/air/airquality.htm>.

As an employee or volunteer,

Weather woes hamper sugar crop

Belle Glade --- Despite the impacts from the lingering water shortage and January freeze event, the 2008-09 Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida harvest produced respectable results setting several records in the processing facility including most sugarcane ground per crop day and lowest fuel oil usage during the harvest season.

The 118-day 2008-09 harvest commenced on October 27, 2008 with liquidation completed on February 23, 2009. The 47 grower-members of Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida produced 2,555,577 tons of sugarcane grown on 59,527 acres in Palm Beach County. This yielded 300,811 short tons raw value (STRV) sugar and 16 million gallons of blackstrap molasses. This compares to last year's production of 2,599,517 tons of cane producing 300,157 STRV sugar and 16 million gallons of blackstrap molasses. Sugar yields improved this year at 11.53% compared to last year's 11.3%, but below the high of 11.73% achieved in 2003-04.

Records included the highest tons of sugarcane ground per crop day; lowest fuel oil per ton of cane; and highest quality of raw sugar. The Cooperative saves over $60 million or 700,000 barrels of oil a year by using the fibrous portion of the sugarcane stalk called bagasse to fuel its bio-mass boilers.

"The drought-stressed crop from the past two seasons translates into lower tonnage in the field than we normally would have expected," said Cooperative President and CEO George H. Wedgworth. "Our growers, for the most part, survived with minimal damage from the January 21, 2009 widespread, hard freeze. However, we expect to see additional damage reflected in next year's crop from the extended water shortage and lost growth from the freeze."

The Cooperative is made up of 47 grower-owners and employs 600 people during the harvest season. The primary functions of the Cooperative are the harvesting, transporting and processing of sugarcane and the sales of raw sugar to American Sugar Refining Inc., (ASR) that is co-owned by the Cooperative and Florida Crystals Corporation. Refined sugar is then marketed nationwide through Domino Foods, Inc.

Glades County student makes finalist for National Merit Scholarship

Over 1.5 million students in more than 21,000 high schools entered the 2009 National Merit Scholarship Program by taking the 2007 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The 16,000 semifinalists were the highest-scoring entrants in each state and represent less than 1 percent of each state's high school seniors.

To be considered in the rigorous competition for National Merit Scholarships, Semifinalists must advance to the Finalist level of the competition by meeting additional standards and fulfilling several requirements. These include having a record of very high academic performance in college preparatory course work, submitting SAT scores that confirm the PSAT/NMSQT performance, and being fully endorsed and recommended by a high school official. As part of completing the detailed scholarship application, each Semifinalist writes a self-descriptive essay and gives information about extracurricular activities and leadership positions. A school official must provide a written recommendation and characterization of the Semifinalist, the student's academic record, and information about the school's curricula and grading system. The total file of information collected about each Semifinalist is used in the selection process. Finalists are considered for one of 2,500 single-payment National Merit $2500 Scholarships. In addition, about 1,100 National Merit Scholarships will be provided by corporations, company foundations, and other business organizations for Finalists who meet criteria specified by the award sponsor. Some corporate-sponsored scholarships are one-time awards that provide a single payment (generally between $2,500 and $5,000), but most are renewable for up to four years of college undergraduate study.

Renewable awards are of two types: those that specify a fixed yearly stipend (between $1000 and $5000) that is the same for every recipient of the sponsor's scholarships, and those that provide variable stipends (ranging from $500 to $10,000 per year) that are individually determined, taking into account college costs and family financial circumstances.

We are very proud of Aaron and wish him the best in moving up to the next level - that of being a Scholarship Recipient. Aaron has already been accepted at the University of Florida.

Port

posed inland port site, at Palmdale, was discounted for this reason, because it is too far from a commuting workforce in South Bay, Belle Glade and Pahokee. A company looking to invest hundreds of millions of dollars in an inland port, needs access to that 100,000 workforce within 45 minutes." An inland port will offer not only numerous entry level jobs, but also managerial and other opportunities providing high-skilled/high-waged jobs. Those jobs, Ms. Whirls noted, include direct jobs, not just in initial construction, but trucking, maintenance, warehousing, dispatch, management, parts, rail, heavy equipment operators and security. Indirect jobs include business opportunities to support shippers, distributors, freight forwarders, manufacturers, restaurants, fueling, retail and vocational training. "Transportation logistics jobs are full time, year round jobs," Ms. Whirls said. "And that is what the FHREDI region needs". The Moore Haven site has more direct frontage on the SCFX rail and direct or close access to state highways than any other site. The Moore Haven site has been through much of the environmental due diligence necessary for siting a project of this scope in a timely manner. Even more importantly, the land owners have vowed to make the Moore Haven site the most competitively priced site for the inland port project. "For an inland port project to work," the economic development director said, "the economics as a business must work: Lower infrastructure cost (rail and road) will allow phasing and attract investors and the right company to fund, design, develop, market, and operate the South Florida Inland Port over time." According to Ms. Whirls, the location of the inland port must be based on its economic and environmental feasibility. "We are concerned that if a decision is made to site the project without thorough vetting based on infrastructure required and cost, providing maximum economic stimulus and jobs for as much of the FHREDI region as possible, serving a consumer market both on the west and east coast, and environmental compatibility, that a private company will not come to Florida to fund, construct, and operate it. The inland port concept is being developed throughout the US and there are a limited amount of companies that can fund, construct, and operate one. Those companies are being courted by many, many states." "This may be the largest economic development project that has ever been proposed for the State and we need to make sure we do not lose the right company to another state. The wrong site could be chosen by the government and Florida would have missed the opportunity of a life time," Ms Whirls added with emphasis. "We believe the right location for the inland port will enjoy broad based support from Florida business leaders, including airport and port authorities, governmental officials, residents and environmental groups," the EDC director said. "And we believe the Moore Haven site is the right location for the inland port." For more information on the inland port project, contact the Glades County Economic Development Council at 863-946-0300.

has a shallow draft and can operate in 12 to 14 inches of water. Texas Aquatics, out of Avon Park, received the bid for the project and then subcontracted with the Palm City company to set the poles. The lights will make the signs more visible to boaters at night,

"We had the lights, the solar panels and the batteries and we made the mounting brackets that slipped over the top of the poles," explained Mike Hulon, from Texas Aquatics. Just under the light, at the top of the pole, is a large white sign with the name of the canal emblazoned on it in big red letters. The lights will make the signs more visible to boaters at night, and in bad weather. "We went out and checked them Friday, Feb. 27, and they were all working," said Captain Daryl Lewis from the Glades County Sheriff's Office on Monday, March 2. Mr. Duncan said the poles were driven into the lake bottom at a minimum depth of 10 to 12 feet.

Suspect charged with aggravated assault

By Nena Bolan
Glades County Democrat

GLADES COUNTY -- On Feb. 26, about 2:19 a.m., Deputy Sheriff S.R. Casserly, Sergeant T. Nieves and Deputy Sheriff R. Okupski responded to a domestic dispute in eastern Glades County. According to an arrest report, a female victim had called and reported that her spouse was threatening to kill her and that she had locked herself in a bathroom; and that there were several firearms in the residence. Upon arrival outside the residence, deputies could hear a loud disturbance. Deputy Sheriff

Casserly announced "Sheriff's Office" and they entered the house. According to the arrest report, after entering the residence, deputies realized that the alleged suspect, Danny B. Mitchell, 58, was unarmed and deputies secured their firearms and unholstered their tasers. Then the suspect began to resist verbal commands to place his arms in the air. Then the suspect retreated to a bedroom and closed the door behind him. Deputy Sheriffs Casserly and Okupski immediately opened the door and according to an arrest report, the alleged suspect, Mr. Mitchell, raised a shotgun and pointed it at all law units in the doorway. Deputies deployed tasers and the suspect was immobilized and secured in handcuffs. When the Mossberg 410 shotgun was retrieved, it was found to be unloaded. Other firearms were found on a couch in the living room. The female occupant was found in good health and assisted by a victim's advocate. Danny B. Mitchell was taken to the county jail and charged with aggravated assault and three counts of aggravated assault on a law enforcement officer. Staff writer Nena Bolan can be reached at nenabolan@yahoo.com
