Bird counters help us understand nature

GLADES COUNTY -- The Fourth Annual Fall North American Migration Count (NAMC) was conducted by the Florida Ornithological Society, Sept. 19. The bird count tallies the distribution of bird species and their estimated numbers.

The event initiates participation of bird watchers and wildlife enthusiasts. The spring and fall count is sponsored by local Audubon Societies and other organizations. Volunteers observed the skies and landscape in Glades and Hendry Counties at several locations.

Paul and Laurie Gray, Audubon of Florida, were the team leaders who took volunteers to Harney Pond Canal, Fort Center and Curry Island in Glades County. Other target spots in Glades were Fisheating Creek/Palmdale, Rainey Slough, Dinner Island, Muse and Ortona. Target spots for bird counts in Hendry County were at Stormwater Treatment Area 5 south of Clewiston, Okaloacoochee Slough State Forest, and Barron Park in LaBelle.

Paul Gray commented that birds help control the insect population and keep its numbers down which are beneficial to forest growth. A special bird of interest was one Short Tailed Hawk which is a "trophy bird", according to bird watchers.

Every fall and spring brings new information on migration patterns, because each species has its own unique migration pattern that can be studied. The timing of the count is selected to find as many migrants as possible before they reach the end of their journey. The peak of migration will not be in effect everywhere. Southern areas have birds that linger and some species will not reach northern areas yet.

The Florida NAMC is a chance for birders to collect useful information, and prepare for winter events that attract wildlife watch-

Burglary suspect threatens victim

MUSE -- On Sept. 8 a resident was returning home, and as she pulled into her driveway she saw a man on her front porch. He had loaded up a baby carriage with items from her home which included firearms.

Submitted GCSO Daniel Bryant.

The suspect took off running while he pushed the baby carriage, and headed to the back of the property. According to an arrest report, the victim gave chase and yelled at him. When the suspect came to the backyard fence he turned and told her that he would shoot her, and she saw he was holding her husband's rifle. The victim backed off and she watched him disappear into the woods.

She called in the emergency and at approximately 3:33 p.m., Glades County Deputy Sheriff Mark A. Taylor, road patrol, arrived to the Summerall Road area of Muse. The victim informed the deputy that she was not hurt, and gave a detailed description of the suspect's clothing, face and voice. Units responded from Glades County Sheriff's Office, Hendry County Sheriff's Of-

Pahokee Blue Devils suffers big loss to Dwyer

Glades Central stays unbeaten, while Moore Haven loses to Summit Christian

By Naji Tobias
INI Florida

PAHOKEE - A relatively close game between the Pahokee Blue Devils and the Dwyer Panthers turned into a blowout.

Though Pahokee lost to Dwyer, 34-6, it was really a defensive battle throughout the very hotly contested game.

There wasn't a whole lot of offense for either team - Dwyer outgained Pahokee by just 14 yards (227-213).

And only three offensive touchdowns were scored between both teams.

In the end, the difference of the game was essentially three second half defensive touchdowns registered by Dwyer - two of which were interceptions.

Down 7-6 in the beginning of the second half, Pahokee's De'Joshua Johnson threw his first of two interceptions on just the second play of the third quarter.

That miscue proved costly, as Dwyer defensive back Mike Ruiz stepped right in front of Johnson's pass, caught the ball and raced 15 yards right into Pahokee's end zone.

The interception occurred just over a minute into the third quarter.

Less than two minutes after that - Pahokee got the ball right back after Dwyer's score to put them up 14-6 - Johnson was sacked by Dwyer defensive end Curt Maggitt on a third-and-12 play.

The sack subsequently resulted in a lost fumble by Johnson, which allowed Maggitt to run 45 yards into the end zone to extend Dwyer's lead, 20-6.

Pahokee's offense had yet another opportunity to get back in the game.

Unfortunately, Dwyer ended another Pahokee drive on a sack of Johnson from a third down play - a 13-yard loss.

As Pahokee punted the ball the Dwyer with 3:36 left in the third, the Panthers seemed to be on its way to putting away the game for good.

However, a controversial fumble committed by Dwyer later in the quarter gave Pahokee new life.

This was made possible by a 10-yard run from Dwyer's Gerald Christian, who fumbled the ball at Pahokee's 20 yard line.

Referees ruled in favor of Pahokee recovering the pigskin at its own 24 with 1:13 left in the third.

Unfortunately for Pahokee, the last real chance of coming back ended quite disastrously on the ensuing drive.

Pahokee wideout Fred Pickett (five catches, 124 yards, 1 TD), had three of those receptions on the fateful possession.

Pickett, who hauled in a 56-yard touchdown catch from Johnson in the first quarter for a 6-0 lead, caught passes of 39, 10 and 11 yards on the drive to put Pahokee in the red zone.

But as Pahokee tried to get into the end zone from the Dwyer 20 on first down, Ruiz picked off Johnson again with 10:32 left in the game.

It was over for Pahokee, especially as Dwyer methodically ate up the clock on offense, while wearing down the vaunted Blue Devil defense.

Dwyer quarterback Jacoby Brissett, who in the second quarter threw a 5-yard touchdown pass to Robert Clark for a 7-6 lead, sealed the Panthers win on a 4-yard run on a quarterback keeper with just 4:52 left.

That score put Dwyer up 27-6, with the game being officially out of reach for Pahokee.

"Defensively, we did alright," said Pahokee Blue Devils defensive end/outside linebacker Zachary Allen.

"We just could have played better on offense. We laid down at home in this game."

Johnson, who started at quarterback, finished 12-for-21 passing with 163 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions.

Emmanuel Perez, who came in for Johnson late in the fourth, threw just six passes in the game.

But two of them were interceptions - one of which was returned for a Dwyer touchdown by Shawn McClaine, who zoomed 40 yards into the end zone for a 34-6 lead at the game's conclusion.

"This was not a game we could make mistakes in and get away with it," said Pahokee offensive coordinator Jonathan Johnson.

"Offensively, we didn't block and we dropped the ball. We made a lot of mistakes."

"The gist of the game is that we turned the ball over four times," Thompson said of the loss.

"We allowed two pick-sixes and a fumble recovery for a touchdown. You can't have that happening against a team as good as Dwyer."

Jack Daniels, Dwyer's head coach, was thoroughly pleased with his team's efforts in their win.

"In order for us to win against Pahokee, we had to limit the big plays from De'Joshua [Johnson] and Chris [Dunkley]," Daniels said.

"They kept our coaching staff up all night the whole week," he continued.

"We knew they can create a lot of match-up problems on the field, so our defensive backs had to mix it up on coverage and we had to score whenever we got the chance to."

Dunkley, perhaps Pahokee's best overall

Moore Haven Lock closure extended to Sept. 28

MOORE HAVEN—The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Jacksonville District announced on Friday that Moore Haven Lock on Lake Okeechobee, which has been closed for repairs since June 1, will remain closed until a tentative date of at least Sept. 28. During this time, crossing the state via the Okeechobee Waterway will not be possible.

Repairing the lock is a $3.5 million, regularly-scheduled project, conducted once every ten years. The work includes upgrading navigational safety equipment, improving manatee protection screen systems and painting and sand-blasting lock gates. The repairs must be made while the lock is in a dewatered condition, and will ensure that the lock, which is more than 70 years old, will continue to function safely and properly. Repair crews are working extended hours to ensure the repairs are completed and the lock is restored to safe operating condition as early as possible.

Mariners may call the South Florida Operations Office at 863-983-8101 or visit the Jacksonville District Web site at <http://www.saj.usace.army.mil> click on the OPERATIONS DIVISION tab and select NOTICE TO NAVIGATION from the pull down menu, for current information from the homepage.

athlete, was limited to two catches for 39 yards in the game.

Notes: Dwyer's Matt Elam, one of the nation's best overall players, had 17 carries for 103 yards in the win.

Brissett finished 5-for-9 passing with 89 yards and a touchdown, in addition to five carries for 26 yards and the 4-yard score.

Dwyer (2-1) scored 27 of its 34 points off Pahokee's five turnovers - all of which happened in the second half.

Dwyer, who dropped out of the Rivals100 national rankings after a 21-7 loss to Glades Central in Week 1, re-enters the poll at No. 48.

Pahokee (2-1), which came into the game as the Rivals100 No. 16 team in the nation, dropped to No. 59.

Dwyer, the Beef O' Brady's No. 14 team in the state coming into this game, moved up three spots to No. 11.

Pahokee, who was No. 4 last week, moved down 11 spots to No. 15 in the state this week.

Glades Central 33, American Heritage (Delray) 14: The Raiders scored a big victory over the Stallions in Week 3.

L.J. Thomas led the way for Glades Central, as he threw for 382 yards and five touchdowns in the win.

Greg Dent caught two touchdowns from Thomas, while Kevin Benjamin, Demetrius Evans and Clive Walford each snagged one.

That means Glades Central's top four receivers - with Walford being the tight end - made a significant contribution in the victory, which moved them to 3-0.

With the win, Glades Central is now the Beef O' Brady's No. 4 team in the state, behind only No. 1 St. Thomas Aquinas, No. 2 Northwestern (Miami) and No. 3 Central (Miami).

Glades Central is also the Rivals100 No. 33 team in the country this week.

Summit Christian 21, Moore Haven 20: For the Terriers, now 2-1, Fred Hall remains as the team's brightest spot.

Hall scored two rushing touchdowns and registered 141 yards on the ground with 28 carries.

Keonte White, who added 19 carries for 126 yards, was 3-for-12 passing for 21 yards, with one touchdown and one interception.

White's touchdown pass was to Hunter Ward in the first quarter - a 12-yard pass to put Moore Haven up 6-0.

A failed two point conversion run after the score may have been the difference in this game.

Moore Haven's secondary allowed two touchdown passes from Summit Christian quarterback Chris Wimer, who also scored the game-winning score on a 1-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Fortunately for Moore Haven, Hall recorded a milestone, as he now stands - statistically - as one of the top overall running backs in the state, according to MaxPreps Florida.

After three games, Hall has 70 carries for 590 yards and 13 overall touchdowns.

The 13 touchdowns puts Hall as the No. 1 scorer in the state as of Week 3, according to MaxPreps Florida.

Week 4 games - all are on Friday, Sep. 25

Pahokee vs. Cardinal Newman - 7:30 p.m. (District 7-2B game)

A Walk in the Past: The story of the Treaty of Fort Gibson

By Butch Wilson
Clewiston Museum Director

In 1832, the Treaty of Payne's Landing (treaty to relocate Seminoles in the west) was signed by Seminole leaders and United States officials. However, the treaty wasn't binding, but contingent upon reports made by a special delegate of Seminoles that would travel to the Creek reservation in Arkansas Territory and appraise new land. The stipulations of the treaty would go into effect, only if the land was approved by the Seminole Nation. The Seminole people would then have three years from the date the treaty was signed to prepare and relocate to their new homeland in the west.

The Seminole delegates had scheduled to leave for the western lands in July, after the Green Corn Dance, but were delayed until October. They arrived in the Arkansas Territory in December and were greeted by barren lands, covered in a cold winter world of white. The party spent three months in the territory, waiting on government commissioners, who arrived in March. During this time they explored the land and got to know their Creek brethren.

Prior to returning to Florida, the Seminole delegates were asked to meet with the commissioners and sign a document at Fort Gibson, which was located in the Arkansas Territory. The document's wording was precise. A brief paragraph reads, "and the undersigned Seminole chiefs, delegated as aforesaid, on the behalf of their nation hereby declare themselves well satisfied with the location provided for them by the Commissioners, and agree that their nation shall commence the removal to their new home, as soon as the Government will make arrangements for their emigration, satisfactory to the Seminole nation." The document was called the Treaty of Fort Gibson or the Additional Treaty.

Needless to say, the Seminole delegates failed to get a hero's welcome when they arrived back home. The Seminole people were enraged at the news and ridiculed the delegates for allowing the Americans to pull the wool over their eyes. Seminole delegates defended their dignity, explaining they had been forced to sign the document and were not told its true meaning. We will probably never know what really transpired at Fort Gibson, but can only speculate.

These are questions that must be asked: (1) Why did the United States government send Seminole delegates out west in the dead of winter to approve the exchange of warm, sunny Seminole lands in Florida for the cold, barren western lands? The concept at first sounds ludicrous, but what if it was all part of a treacherous plan to get the delegates to sign a document they didn't fully understand? (2) Why would seven Seminole delegates sign a document that would impact the entire Seminole Nation without first consulting the Seminole people? The delegates knew they had never been given this authority by the Seminole Nation and to act without it could mean death.

Many historians believe the Treaty of Payne's Landing was muddied by the White Houses's political agenda. The Jacksonian Administration wanted the Seminoles moved west at all cost because they saw no alternative way to deal with the complex, Seminole Indian problem. The ole quote, "out of sight and out of mind" more or less summed up this philosophy.

Historians also believe there were people of dubious character that sped the treaty process along. Indian agent, John Phagan was said by some to be a man of questionable character. In 1832, acting Florida Governor, James D. Westcott, conducted an investigation of Phagan's stewardship, while the trusted Indian agent, with his Seminole delegate was returning home from their trip out west. Evidence of fraud and improper conduct were found.

Governor Westcott garnished Phagan's wages to recoup embezzled money that Phagan was accused of taking and later had him removed from office. In all fairness, there are those that think Phagan was set up by certain political adversaries he cultivated during his flowering career.

It is strange that federal and state government officials felt Phagan was a man of questionable character and not deemed trustworthy to maintain his honorable post as an Indian agent yet, they honored and proclaimed the Fort Gibson treaty that Phagan had helped facilitate as legal and binding. The Seminole delegates stated many times to government officials that Phagan was devious and had taken unscrupulous measures at their expense to secure their signatures on the document.

Was Phagan a chameleon of questionable character that walked like a duck, quacked like a duck and looked like a duck during the Treaty of Fort Gibson negotiations? We will never really know for certain, but it is probably safe to say that our state and federal governments will never have a shortage of ducks.

Indian agent Phagan, left an empty office seat that needed to be filled quickly, and Jackson had just the man. In 1833, he appointed Wiley Thompson, a man who had served with him during the Creek War. Thompson's experience as a major general of the Georgia Militia from 1817 to 1824, and later a Georgia politician in the House of Representatives, made him an excellent choice. Jackson's and Thompson's political views and their mutual understanding of Indian affairs put them in agreement with one another.

In 1833, President Jackson submitted the Treaty of Payne's Landing and the Treaty of Fort Gibson to the Senate. On April 8, 1834, the Treaty of Payne's Landing was ratified.

The stipulations in the Treaty of Payne's Landing now called for the removal of the Seminoles from Florida three years from the date it was signed, which was 1832. The western lands had met the approval of the Seminoles on paper only. The document was questionable, but legal in a court of law. The United States government now had only a year left to prepare and move the Seminoles from their beloved La Florida.

Thompson's decision to take the job as Indian agent in Florida came at a very bad time. He had the full responsibility of relocating the Seminoles to the Arkansas Territory, which was a nightmare alone, when one considers the logistics involved in transporting thousands of people, thousands of miles.

The hostile Seminoles were his greatest challenge. They had been subjected to the laws of the United States, since it purchased Florida from Spain in 1819 and legally took possession in 1821. The Seminole's hopes for lasting peace with the young nation were shattered when one year later the Treaty of Moultrie Creek was signed. The treaty forced them to cede all their lands in exchange for inferior lands the United States set aside for them as reservations.

Reservation life wasn't a good experience for the Seminoles, nor was their new neighbors, the Americans. The Seminoles had accumulated fifteen years of disappointment and bitterness and now doggedly refused to leave Florida. Their agenda to stay and Thompson's agenda to remove them soon put Thompson and the Seminoles at odds.

Thompson had several meetings with the Seminole chiefs at Fort King, (near present day Ocala) where he stayed. The meetings always became hostile because the Indians contested the Treaty of Fort Gibson, declaring it illegal. They would also bring up the Treaty of Moultrie Creek that was ratified in 1833, repeating the article that guaranteed them the right to live on the reservation lands for twenty years.

During the meetings, Thompson was interrupted by some of the younger Seminole men with groans, violent gestures and abusive language. The older chiefs were more courteous to Thompson because they had seen the consequences of the First Seminole War and longed for peace. The younger men saw only the injustices done to their nation and perceived violence and war as a means to end their suffering at the hands of the Americans.

The hostilities between the Seminoles and Thompson continued to grow. Thompson noticed that the Seminoles were purchasing far more powder and ball than was needed to sustain their hunting. He reported his findings to his superiors, but received no marching orders. Thompson grew increasingly concerned about the purchases and finally banned their sale to the Seminoles.

The Indians were inflamed when told they could no longer purchase powder and ball. The legendary Osceola was reported to have said, "Am I a negro, a slave? My skin is dark, but not black. I am an Indian – a Seminole. The white man shall not make me black. I will make the white man red with blood; and then blacken him in the sun and rain, where the wolf shall smell of his bones, and the buzzard live upon his flesh."

I hope you have enjoyed this story. Please contact the Clewiston Museum if you have questions, artifacts, pictures, or a "Whale of a Tale" that you would like to share. The Museum's hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The museum provides an interesting fossil display of prehistoric animals that once roamed the Glades thousands of years ago and artifacts that reflect the heritage of Clewiston. Its theater has a 65-seat capacity and presents movies on the history of Clewiston, sugar cane harvesting, and the orange industry. Stop by and enjoy a 45-minute group-tour for only $2 per person

A Breast Cancer Awareness Month

By Glenda Wilson

Many women (and men too) have their yearly mammograms marked and scheduled on their calendars.

However, for those who do not, Hendry Regional Medical (HRMC) wants to remind you that October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and it's right around the corner.

Take this time to care you're your health; read some facts about breast cancer, taken from the American Cancer Society and the Centers for Disease Control, and schedule your mammogram.

Aside from non-melanoma skin cancer, breast cancer is the most common form of cancer in women.

White women have a higher incidence of breast cancer than African American women after age 40.

In contrast, African American women have a higher incidence rate before age 40 and are more likely to die from breast cancer at every age. (Breast cancer is the number one cause of cancer death in Hispanic women.)

There are different types of breast cancer. The kind of breast cancer depends on which cells in the breast turn into cancer.

Breast cancer can begin in different parts of the breast such as the ducts or the glands.

According to the latest statistics from the American Cancer Society, approximately 40,460 women in the United States were expected to die from breast cancer in 2007.

Lung cancer was the only type of cancer anticipated to cause more cancer deaths in women.

Also, about 2,030 cases of breast cancer were expected to occur among men, accounting for about 1% of all breast cancers.

This means that approximately 450 men were expected to die from breast cancer during the year 2007.

The National Cancer Institute estimates that approximately 2.4 million women with a history of breast cancer were alive in January 2004.

Most of these women were cancer-free, while others still had evidence of cancer and may have been undergoing treatment.

The 5-year relative survival rate is slightly lower among women diagnosed with breast cancer before age 40 (82%) compared to women diagnosed at ages 40 and older (89%).

Tumors diagnosed in younger women may be more aggressive and less responsive to treatment.

Mammograms

A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast. Mammograms are the best method to detect breast cancer early, when it is easier to treat and before it is big enough to feel or cause symptoms.

Having regular mammograms can lower the risk of dying from breast cancer.

If you are age 40 years or older, you should have a screening mammogram every one to two years.

Talk to your doctor if you have any breast symptoms or changes in your breast, or if breast cancer runs in your family.

You may be instructed to have mammograms before age 40 or more often than usual.

Preliminary results from a large clinical trial of digital versus traditional film mammograms reveal that those women with dense breasts who are pre- or perimenopausal (i.e., women who had a last menstrual period within 12 months of their mammograms) or who are younger than age 50 may benefit from having a digital rather than a film mammogram.

Digital mammography allows the radiologist to view the X-ray image more closely, zeroing in on suspicious or concerning areas and enabling them to make additional images.

Digital mammography takes less than half the time of traditional film-based exams.

Digital mammograms are performed at Hendry Regional Medical Center.

Schedule your yearly mammogram. Remember - the best form of protection is early detection!

Southern Gardens Citrus Plants Second Commercial Field Trial

Citrus Trees Resistant to Canker and Greening

Clewiston, FL – This week Southern Gardens Citrus began its second set of research field trials -- planting a group of citrus trees which have shown resistance to greening in the laboratory. These trees were developed in conjunction with Integrated Plant Genetics, a private research company based in Alachua, Florida.

"This field trial continues our efforts to develop a solution to the current challenging citrus diseases of greening and canker," said Ricke Kress, president.

Kress said that this research project was initiated in 2007 and that the trees have been planted in compliance with the issued field testing permit as received from the United States Department of Agriculture Biotechnology Regulatory Services.

Consistent with the previous planted field trials that are in place within the Southern Gardens Citrus Hendry County groves, "We will continue to follow all issued regulations related to the safety and integrity of the trial, including strict access control", said Rick Kress, president.

Kress said that Southern Gardens Citrus continues to be very proactive in working with all facets of the citrus industry including UF/IFAS, USDA, FDACS, Texas A&M AgriLife Research, Cornell University, and independent researchers in an effort to combat and eliminate the HLB/greening disease.

Citrus greening disease or Huanglongbing (HLB) is considered to be the most serious disease of citrus trees in the world. HLB was first identified and confirmed in Florida in September 2005. Today, HLB has spread to all Florida counties with commercial citrus groves.

Southern Gardens Citrus, one of the largest citrus producers in the state, has three groves in southwest Florida, all of which are infected to some extent with HLB.

Flu Season is here - Be prepared, get vaccinated

By Pat Dobbins

Administrator for the Hendry & Glades County Health Departments

Pat Dobbins.

Reports of the H1N1-Swine Flu keep flashing on the news screens and filling our newspapers, but it's also time to think about other flu viruses.

Our flu season typically starts in October and will last through the fall and winter. Symptoms of flu can include fever or chills and cough or sore throat. Other symptoms of flu can include runny nose, body aches, headache, tiredness, diarrhea, or vomiting.

We are asking that you plan to stay home if you are sick until at least 24 hours after you no longer have a fever (100 degrees Fahrenheit) This should be determined without the use of fever-reducing medicines (any medicine that contains ibuprofen or acetaminophen such as Tylenol, Advil, or Aleve). Other signs of a fever can include having chills, feeling very warm, have a flushed appearance, or are sweating. If your symptoms are severe, please see your healthcare provider.

You will keep hearing reminders to cover your coughs and sneezes and to wash your hands often with soap and water, or to use an alcohol-based hand cleaner if soap and water are not available. This sounds like common sense, right?

If a severe flu outbreak hits our community, please take additional steps to avoid spreading the flu virus in schools, in the workplace, and in our communities. Take actions now to prepare! Get your vaccine for seasonal flu. Many health providers in our community now have the vaccine for seasonal flu. Also ask your healthcare provider if the pneumonia vaccine is right for you.

Vaccination guidance for seasonal flu and H1N1-Swine Flu are different. The 2009 H1N1-Swine Flu vaccine is not intended to replace the seasonal flu vaccine – it is intended to be used along-side seasonal flu vaccine

Seasonal Flu Vaccine

People who should get a seasonal flu vaccination each year include:

- Children aged 6 months up to their 19th birthday
- Pregnant women
- People 50 years of age and older
- People of any age with certain chronic medical conditions
- People who live in nursing homes and other long-term care facilities
- People who live with or care for those at high risk for complications from flu, including: Health care workers, household contacts of persons at high risk for complications from the flu, household contacts and out of home caregivers of children less than 6 months of age (these children are too young to be vaccinated)

H1N1-Swine Flu Vaccine

Once the 2009 H1N1-Swine Flu vaccine becomes available, the groups recommended to receive this vaccine include:

- Pregnant women because they are at higher risk of complications and can potentially provide protection to infants who cannot be vaccinated
- Household contacts and caregivers for children younger than 6 months of age because younger infants are at higher risk of influenza-related complications and cannot be vaccinated
- Healthcare and emergency medical services personnel because this can be a potential source of infection for vulnerable patients. Also, increased absenteeism in this population could reduce healthcare system capacity
- All people from 6 months through 24 years of age: Children from 6 months through 18 years of age because children have close contact with each other in school and day care settings, which increases the likelihood of disease spread. Young adults 19 through 24 years of age: Healthy young adults often live, work, and study in close contact with each other, and they socialize more often
- People aged 25 through 64 years who have chronic health conditions and may have higher risk of medical complications from influenza.

For more information about priority groups for this vaccination, please talk with your healthcare provider or you can go on-line at: www.cdc.gov/h1n1flu/vaccination/acip.htm.

Make plans to take care of your family members at home if they get sick. Have a plan on how to care for your children if they cannot attend school. Be prepared in case you get sick and need to stay home. Have the following items on hand: fever-reducing medicines that contain acetaminophen or ibuprofen (such as Tylenol, Advil, Aleve, etc.), alcohol-based hand cleaners, tissues, lots of liquids to drink and other items to help you be comfortable while you are sick. Being prepared will help avoid the need to make trips out in public while you are sick.

There are many ways to learn about the flu and what you can do to help minimize your chances of getting sick as well as knowing what to do if unfortunately you do get sick. To find out more about preparing for the flu, please talk to your healthcare provider or you can go on-line at: www.flu.gov. You can also call 1-800-CDC-INFO (1-800-232-4636) or call the Florida Flu Information Line 1-877-352-3581 or visit the website www.myflusafety.com

By working together, we can protect our families and our communities!

Remembrance of the Storm: Hurricane victims honored

1928 storm remembered at service

By Charles M. Murphy
Okeechobee News

They came to remember history and to honor the dead.

The East Stuart Historical Society hosted the 81st remembrance of the Storm of 1928 at the Port Mayaca Cemetery on Wednesday.

The service paid homage to the 1,600 people, mostly black migrant farm laborers who lost their lives in one of the deadliest natural disasters in U.S. history on Sept. 16, 1928.

The storm was one of the most powerful hurricanes that ever slammed into Palm Beach County, Lake Okeechobee, and what is now known as the Treasure Coast. The official death toll at one time was 1,836, but historians believe as many as 3,000 were killed.

Searches went on for at least six weeks to find bodies. Many were buried in mass graves, some were stacked in piles and burned, and many bones are still found out in the Glades by farmers. Some 674 bodies were placed in unmarked graves in West Palm Beach. Seventy white victims were buried at West Palm Beach's Woodlawn Cemetery.

Survivor Purnell Green, who was four years old when the storm hit, remembered spending the night at an old two story packing house in Belle Glade, "I was playing the whole time, the whole night. I was holding onto my mothers dress standing by the window, patting the water, second story up. At four years old, you don't think nothing is serious."

Green had to spend days in the hospital because he drank water out of ditches that contained dead bodies. He noted there was no advance warning of the storm. His father was told by Seminole Indians to leave the Glades before the storm. They said some big water was coming.

"He said he was too busy making money, and waited until the last minute. Father had a boat, and he carried us to this building. He then went back for my mother's wedding stuff. We didn't see him for days. He picked up at the hospital in West Palm Beach."

Bells were tolled for the victims and Burnett said many thought he and his mom had perished in the storm so bells were actually tolled for them.

Burnett also survived a plane crash in Greensboro, S.C. and fought in World War II.

Another survivor, Esther Williams, lived in a shack in Santee Quarters, on U.S. 441 near Canal Point during the storm. She said it began to rain and the water began to flow, knocking on the windows and doors of the tiny shack. "I don't remember too much about it. The weather was bad. It was storming and raining. Little huts were blowing about everywhere, even across the railroad. Many people got lost. One lady, the Aunt of two women who now live in Indiantown, got lost in a tree, they never found her."

Williams said she tries to forget about the deaths and destruction but the Lord won't let her. She noted God has been good to her and those memories remind her of the Lord and his kindness.

"Later that day the sun started shining but the damage had already been done. They had bodies in boxes sitting besides the road in Pahokee, other bodies were just thrown into holes," she added.

Fannie Moore, Dr. W. Jay Thompson, Ava Locklear, and the Reverend Jerry Gore, all participated in Wednesday's observance.

Indiantown's Thelma Water read a number of proclamations from local governments which honored the victims of the storm.

The unnamed storm of 1928 filled Lake Okeechobee to the brim, broke out man-made dikes and literally swept people away. The storm still colors Florida's past and changed the Glades and Florida forever, she said.

Ms. Locklear said the search for bodies went on for six weeks until authorities ran out of money. She noted most of the victims were impoverished migrant workers who had come to Florida to take advantage of the agriculture boom of the 1920s. She explained that whites and blacks were buried separately at first. However, as the search went on and decomposition set in, Ms. Locklear said it was very hard to distinguish between the black and white victims, and many were buried together, or burned.

Burglary investigations lead to arrests

$8,000 worth of items recovered in Moore Haven incident

By Nena Bolan
Glades County Democrat

MOORE HAVEN -- Glades County Detective Sergeant Steve Harris responded to a burglary at a Moore Haven residence along Avenue K, August 27. The resident explained that he came home from work and noticed his front door was ajar. When he entered his bedroom he saw several items on the bed that are normally secured in another area. He discovered that firearms, coins and other valuables were missing. A case of shotgun shells was sitting by the front door.

Detective Sergeant Harris did not find a point of entry, however the victim thinks suspects entered through a back door which is situated so neighbors cannot easily see intruders. According to an arrest report, the detective sergeant believes someone knew where to look for items since the place was not ransacked.

On August 28, the victim advised Detective Sergeant Harris that he had placed several phone calls to acquaintances to see if they had heard any information. Later, he received a call from Dwight Christopher Billings who mentioned that he found two of the missing guns. Mr. Billings asked the victim to come meet him in LaBelle. The victim traveled there, and Billings explained that an unknown male was trying to sell the guns at the Live Oak Bar.

Mr. Billings then retrieved two shotguns in their cases. The victim took them back, and later met with the detective sergeant, whereby they were processed for fingerprints.

According to the arrest report, a friend of his was at the residence about a week before the incident. The friend explained that while he was there, Mr. Billings came by to talk to the victim, and the friend explained he was at work. The victim commented that he has not invited Mr. Billings to his residence, nor does he have regular contact with Mr. Billings.

On Sept. 2, Detective Sergeant Harris met with Dwight Billings in LaBelle and they went to the Hendry County Sheriff's Office annex building. According to the arrest report, Mr. Billings explained he had to provide $100 for information he gained at the bar, and also paid an additional $600 for the two shotguns. Then Detective Sergeant Harris informed Mr. Billings that fingerprints were recovered; and a car belonging to his girlfriend was identified by witnesses as being at the scene of the incident.

The suspect then cooperated and commented that he and Joseph Allen Malphrus, 20; and Christopher Bradley Layton, 20, had jimmed the rear door of the house on Avenue K. Fourteen firearms, coins and jewelry were taken and stored at various places.

An unidentified minor was questioned the same day, and advised Detective Sergeant Harris that she had driven the three suspects to the victim's house earlier in the week, but someone was there and they left. She returned them to the scene on Aug. 27 and dropped them off, then she drove around and waited for a phone call. When the call was received the unidentified minor went back to the scene and the suspects loaded the items and they left, according to the arrest report.

When the interviews were over, the detective sergeant took Dwight Christopher Billings, 20, to different locations to retrieve the stolen items. Approximately $8,000 worth of firearms, ammunition, coins, jewelry and swords were recovered, according to a GCSO press release.

Additionally, Detective Sergeant Harris and Detective Sergeant Mike Pepitone were able to conduct further investigations after the suspects, Mr. Malphrus and Mr. Layton, were arrested on warrants. They were interviewed about other burglaries in Hendry and Glades Counties. Mr. Billings and Mr. Malphrus, admitted to stealing a stereo and microwave oven from the Maple Corner Manufactured Home Park in west Glades County.

Both detective sergeants assisted Investigator McVey of the Hendry County Sheriff's Office with five or six burglaries in the LaBelle area; and recovered firearms, a satellite radio, GPS systems and other items.

Dwight Billings has been charged with one count of armed burglary to a dwelling, one count of burglary to an unoccupied structure and two counts of grand theft. Mr. Billings is in the Glades County Jail on bond. Christopher Layton has been charged with one count of armed burglary to a dwelling and one count of grand theft. Mr. Layton is held on bond. Joseph Malphrus has been charged with one count of armed burglary to a dwelling, one count of burglary to an unoccupied structure and two counts of grand theft. Mr. Malphrus is held on bond.

Anyone having additional information regarding these or any other criminal activities is asked to contact the Glades County Sheriff's Office at 863-946-1600.

FSA announces qualified Biomass Conversion Facility

The Florida Acting State Executive Director for the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Debra Folsom announced that Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida biomass conversion facility is now qualified under the Biomass Crop Assistance Program (BCAP). Eligible material owners may be eligible for matching payments for delivery of eligible material to Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida. The contact information for this facility is listed on FSA's BCAP webpage located at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/energy>. Owners of eligible material in Broward, Glades, Hendry, Okeechobee, and Palm Beach counties in Florida may contact their nearest FSA county office to begin applying for collection, harvest, storage and transportation (CHST) matching payments. The CHST matching payments are paid at a rate of $1 for $1 per dry-ton equivalent received from a qualified biomass conversion facility, not to exceed $45 per dry-ton equivalent. An eligible material owner is able to receive payments for a period of two years. The purpose of the matching payments is to assist biomass producers with the CHST cost of delivering biomass to a qualified biomass conversion facility.

Eligible material owners or producers, who market eligible material to a qualified biomass conversion facility, must apply for the CHST matching payment program at their nearest FSA county office before the eligible material is delivered. Eligible material owners must provide an agreement with the qualified biomass conversion facility as part of an application for a CHST matching payment. After the products delivered, a producer must provide FSA with documentation of product quantity, quality, and payment rate. County offices will validate payment requests with information provided under the terms of the Agreement with the qualified biomass conversion facilities.

For more information on the BCAP and on what material is eligible please visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/energy> or call your county office.

office and from Fish and Wildlife Commission. A search perimeter was set up.

According to the arrest report, GCSO's Deputy Sheriff Gary Johnson, Captain Jeff Hill and Chief Deputy DeWayne Pottorff apprehended the suspect after a foot pursuit across pastures, ditches and wooded areas. The suspect, Daniel Isaiah Bryant, 28, Old Muse Road, LaBelle, was brought to the scene, and according to the arrest report, he kept repeating that it was not him. The victim was able to identify clothing, physical appearance and his voice.

When the suspect was caught he was not in possession of the stolen property. GCSO Criminal Investigation Division was able to obtain physical evidence. The suspect then confessed to the burglary, and many stolen items were recovered with the suspect's cooperation.

A pocket knife found in the suspect's pocket was positively identified by the victim's husband. Several firearms, compound hunting bows, knives, coins and sporting goods were among the items retrieved.

According to Chief Deputy Pottorff, the victim commented that when the suspect allegedly threatened to shoot her, she knew that the firearms were loaded. She then backed off and called 911. Daniel Isaiah Bryant was charged with aggravated assault with a firearm, armed burglary and grand theft of firearms. Bond was set at $45,000.
