Fourth of July Fireworks Planned

By Katrina Elskén

Special to the Glades County Democrat

Glades County residents have a variety of choices for Fourth of July fireworks.

The city of Moore Haven will have a fireworks show at the Alvin Ward Boat Ramp at dark.

The city of LaBelle will sponsor fireworks over the Caloosahatchee River on July 4 at dusk. Spectators are invited to gather at the river in Barron Park in LaBelle. (If the fireworks show has to be postponed due to rain, they will try again on Saturday.)

The Fourth of July celebration at the Okee-Tantie Recreation Area, on Lake Okeechobee at the Kissimmee River, will include a variety of special events, ending with a fireworks show over the lake. The gates open at 4 p.m. Dairy Queen will host a Kids Zone with bounce houses.

at final reunion in New Bern, NC

By Melissa Beltz

Veterans of India Company 3rd Battalion, 4th Marines (1 3/4) were honored with several awards earlier this month for their service in the security operations leading up to the invasion of Panama and Operation Just Cause in 1989.

Corporal Phillip Nall, Corporal Todd Watson and Corporal Peter Ampupja were awarded the Combat Action Ribbon, the Navy Unit Commendation, the National Defense Service Medal and the Korean Defense Service Medal by CW04 Alex Nevglowski at the veterans' final reunion event at Union Point Park in New Bern, N.C.

Cpl. Nall, who was born in Clewiston and raised in Moore Haven, was thrilled to receive his awards at the event this month and said the awards were only 25 years in the making.

"It was an honor and a privilege to finally receive the awards we should have gotten 25 years ago. Thank you, Alex Nevglowski, for all the hard work you did getting your Marines what they deserve. Semper Fi," said Cpl. Nall.

Q. How can I improve my credit score before buying a home?

A. Whatever you do - DO NOT buy a car in the year prior to buying a house. It loses your buying power and opens up another new credit account! Wait until after closing. Never, never, never pay your bills late in the 12 months prior to buying a house.

Dehydration and Heat Exhaustion

BY PAT DOBBINS

Florida Department of Health

Hot temperatures and high humidity mean lots of sweating, and this can increase your chance of dehydration. To avoid becoming dehydrated, it is important to drink plenty of fluids, especially water -- even if you don't feel thirsty. Depending upon your physical activity and heat exposure during hot weather, it's a good idea to drink even more water. According to health experts, fluid requirements vary from person to person. Please keep in mind that people with medical conditions, such as kidney disease, heart disease, or those who require a fluid restricted diet or who have problems with fluid retention, should consult a physician before increasing their fluid consumption.

Knowing the signs of dehydration and knowing what to do, is very important.

Signs of dehydration can include excessive thirst, headache, weakness, feeling dizzy or light headed, nausea, muscle cramps, feeling overly tired or sluggish and feeling irritable. You may also experience decreased urine levels and/or urine that has a strong odor or is darker than normal. You may experience all, some or none of these signs, so the best way to avoid dehydration is to monitor your water or fluid intake, modify your physical activity or reduce the length of activity according to weather conditions.

Don't wait for the symptoms of dry mouth, flushed skin, headaches, light-headedness or fatigue. You should prevent dehydration by drinking plenty of fluids throughout the day. Help to avoid becoming dehydrated by staying out of the direct sun, wearing light-colored and loose-fitting clothing, limiting physical activity and using fans whenever possible. If you suspect you are becoming dehydrated, get to a cool or shady area and sip cool water or fluids. If your condition does not improve, seek medical attention immediately.

Another heat-related illness is heat exhaustion. Heat exhaustion can develop after exposure to high temperatures and inadequate or unbalanced replacement of fluids. The elderly, people with high blood pressure or people who work or exercise in a hot environment are more prone to heat exhaustion.

The warning signs of heat exhaustion vary, but may include heavy sweating, paleness, muscle cramps, dilated pupils, tiredness or weakness, feeling dizzy or lightheaded, headache, nausea or vomiting, fainting, skin that feels cool and moist, pulse rate that is fast and weak and breathing that is fast and shallow.

If heat exhaustion is untreated, it may progress to heat stroke. Seek medical attention immediately if your symptoms last longer than one hour, if symptoms become more severe or if you have heart problems or high blood pressure. Try to cool down by drinking cool, nonalcoholic beverages, resting in an air-conditioned environment, taking a cool shower, bath or sponge bath and wearing lightweight clothing. You should also try to prevent sun burn, which damages the skin's ability to dissipate heat.

Have a safe and healthy summer!

Inland Birding: King Rail

BY MARGARET ENGLAND
Hendry-Glades Audubon

The King Rail is found across the eastern half of North America from the Atlantic coast to the Great Plains and from the Gulf of Mexico to southern Canada. Its breeding range is largely restricted to the coastal plain from Texas through the lower Mississippi River Valley and all of Florida. It can also be found close the Atlantic coastline north to New Jersey.

John James Audubon called the Kind Rail "Elegant Rails," while Illinois farmers nicknamed it the "stage driver," because of its "chck-chck" call, which reminded them of a rider urging on horses. This secretive bird is more often heard than seen.

They are the largest rail found in North America. These slender birds are about 15 inches long, with a 20-inch wingspan, and weigh about 13 ounces. King Rails have a small head and neck, hefty bill, sturdy legs and large feet with un-webbed toes. They look like a large chicken or large shorebird. Their neck and belly are rusty brown and contrast with the black and white barring in the sides. The upper parts are dark brown streaked with yellow. A rusty brown strip runs from the bill over the crown and down the nape of its gray face. Its plumage is rust-colored, unlike the gray or brown Clapper Rail.

King Rails prefer living in extensive wetlands with shallow water and a variety of plant species, such as grasses, cattails, sedges and millet. These marsh birds prefer fresh water, but can also be found in brackish or tidal wetlands where they forage for aquatic animals and insects, and occasionally small mammals and acorns. During fall and winter, they eat more aquatic plant seeds, including millet and rice.

In Florida, King Rails lay eggs as early as January, but most are laid between February and June. They form monogamous pairs who will defend their territory from other rails. The male will present its mate with food during courtship. Both sexes construct the grassy nest that is usually located in the center of a marsh. It is hidden in dense grasses and sedges and is elevated about damp ground or shallow water. Their young need drier areas for foraging.

The pair incubates 10 to 12 light, yellowish eggs marked with small brown spots for 21 to 23 days. The young are dependent on their parents for food for the next nine weeks and usually fledge at about 63 days of age.

School's Out Traffic Safety

Public schools closed for the summer

FLORIDA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) and our local safety partners remind motorists and students to take extra traffic safety precautions this summer.

During the summer, children are at increased risk of transportation-related injuries from pedestrian, bicycle and motor vehicle crashes. FDOT offers these tips for making summer safer for everyone.

Tips for Motorists

Slow down and obey all traffic laws, speed limits and traffic signals.

Keep an eye out for children walking or bicycling in the street, especially where there are no sidewalks.

Be alert for children playing and for those who may dart into the street without looking for traffic.

When backing out of a driveway or leaving a garage, watch for children walking, biking, skating or skateboarding.

Tips for Parents

Be a good role model. Always buckle up, always wear a helmet when biking, and always follow pedestrian safety rules.

Supervise young children when they are walking, biking or skating.

Provide your children with bright clothing so motorists can easily see them.

Make sure your child is properly buckled into the appropriate child safety seat in the back seat. Safety experts advise that all children under the age of 13 should ride in the back seat.

Make sure your teen driver understands and obeys all state traffic laws.

Tips for Youngsters

Always buckle up when riding in a car. Ride in the back seat, it's the safest place for young people.

Always wear a helmet and follow traffic safety rules when riding your bike.

Learn and practice safety rules for pedestrians. It's extremely important for you to use the sidewalk where available, look left-right-left when crossing the road and always walk facing traffic.

Always cross at crosswalks, obey all traffic signs and traffic lights.

Teen drivers should avoid speeding and minimize distractions (texting, talking on cell phones, eating, adjusting the radio) while driving. Never overload your vehicle. Require everyone riding with you to use safety belts.

Teen drivers should be good role models for younger brothers, sisters and friends, and should help them learn and follow traffic safety rules.

Gas Price Update

Average retail gasoline prices in Florida have risen 0.8 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.61/g Sunday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 8,237 gas outlets in Florida. This compares with the national average that has not moved in the last week to $3.68/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Florida during the past week, prices yesterday were 18.2 cents per gallon higher than the same day one year ago and are 1.9 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has increased 3.5 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 17.7 cents per gallon higher than this day one year ago.

"Just in time for the July 4 weekend, it appears the national average has hit a new 2014 high in the last week," said GasBuddy.com Senior Petroleum Analyst Patrick DeHaan. "The good news is that we're seeing signs that the peak price we hit last week is starting to unwind, but with July 4 just days away, motorists shouldn't be expecting any big retreats in price before the weekend. The situation in Iraq has cooled, and if the situation remains calm and hurricane season continues to be a non-story, motorists will continue to see a slow decline in prices. But while the situation is slowly turning around and prices declining, it will still be the most expensive July 4 at the pump since 2008," DeHaan said.

A Warning for Hurricane Season

By Lorie Ward, C.F.A.
Glades County Property Appraiser

The 2014 Hurricane/Storm season officially began on June 1 and will end November 30. The 2013 Atlantic hurricane season was the first since 1994 to feature no major hurricanes, and the first since 1968 to feature no storms of at least Category 2 intensity.

We are hoping for another season like last year. However, in the event that you do suffer damage to your property as a result of a storm or hurricane, you may want to take advantage of the online reporting feature on the property appraiser's website.

You can access it by going to www.GladesFLPA.com and clicking on the last tab on the left side that says, "Hurricane/

Lorie Ward

Storm Damage Reporting." Complete all areas that pertain to your loss or damage and click the "Submit" tab at the very bottom. This will be sent directly to the property appraiser, who will be in contact with you to set up a time to meet and assess the damages. This very well could result in a tax savings to you!

If you prefer, you may report your Hurricane/Storm Damage information by telephone or in person.

Your phone calls, emails and office visits are always welcome. The property appraiser's office is located in Room 202 on the second floor of the Glades County Courthouse, 500 Ave J, Moore Haven. Please call 863-946-6025 or email LorieWard@GladesFLPA.com for more information and stay safe this storm season!

2013 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report South Shore Water Association/City of Clewiston

Este informe contiene informacion muy importante sobre agua de beber. Traduzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

We are very pleased to provide you with this year's Annual Quality Water Report. We want to keep you informed about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. This report is provided pursuant to Federal and State drinking water requirements. We are pleased to report that our drinking water exceeds all federal and state requirements.

Your water source is City of Clewiston Reverse Osmosis (RO) Water Treatment Plant, which draws water from the Floridan Aquifer. After the RO process, the water is disinfected and fluoride is added to the drinking water. If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, or want to obtain a copy of this report, please contact the office at (863) 983-2323.

South Shore Water Association routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws, rules, and regulations. Except where indicated otherwise, this report is based on the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2013. Data obtained before January 1, 2013, and presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with the laws, rules, and regulations.

The FDEP conducted a SWAPP assessment of this water system in 2013. The assessment found 3 petroleum storage tanks as possible contamination sources. The concern level is moderate. The assessment results are available on the FDEP Source Water Assessment and Protection Program website at www.dep.state.fl.us/swapp

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can, also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

In this table you may find unfamiliar terms and abbreviations. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

- Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant, which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements, which a water system must follow.
- Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
- Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG): the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- Maximum residual disinfectant level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that residual of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
- Maximum residual disinfectant level goal or MRDLG: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/L): one part by weight of analyte to 1 million parts by weight of the water sample.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (µg/L): one part by weight of analyte to 1 billion parts by weight of the water sample.
- Picocuries per liter (pCi/L): measure of radioactivity in water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. South Shore is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Regional Collaboration: Response Exercise in Glades County

Florida Department of Health

Predicting disasters or hazardous incidents is impossible. The next major event can come at any moment. Preparation and planning for the unexpected is the only course of action.

On June 11, more than 70 emergency responders from the region joined forces with Glades County Public Safety, Local Emergency Planning Council, Florida Department of Health in Glades County and Wedgworth Fertilizer, Inc. to participate in an "Emergency Response Exercise." After months of planning, Glades County Public Safety, along with support from responders in the region, demonstrated the ability to operate in response to a major incident that included scenarios involving real people with simulated serious injuries.

The Planning Team worked closely together with responders and the private industry to provide a learning environment that mirrored a realistic incident. The Florida Department of Health in Hendry and Glades Counties coordinated "actors" by enlisting the help from 16 nursing students at Florida Gulf Coast University. Some of the students role-played as "victims," while others assisted with rapid triage.

Kelly Brantley, judicial assistant for Glades County, also volunteered to role-play in the exercise.

The simulated incident occurred at Wedgworth Fertilizer, Inc. in Moore Haven, but also included the Florida Department of Health in Glades County, which was used as a "medical staging site."

The responders and other exercise participants trained in areas that focused on emergency management, healthcare, the fire service, law enforcement, emergency medical services and hazardous materials. Following a hazardous event, response organizations specializing in a variety of skills are mobilized to assist in the rescue and recovery.

"This type of training allows responders to deploy to an unfamiliar location and into an unknown situation and manage the incident on arrival," said John Gibbons, planner and program manager for Hazardous Waste/Materials Program of the Southwest Florida Regional Planning Council.

"This was as realistic as you can make it. You respond like you train," said Bob Kosisiba, exercise facilitator and regional planner/consultant for the Florida Department of Health. "If you don't have reality in training, when something happens you're not going to be as prepared. We learned from each other and shared ideas. This training exercise provided the opportunity to learn together, get a common picture and spend time strengthening professional relationships."

Wildfire Glades County: Contained

By Melissa Yunas
Wildfire Mitigation Specialist

Florida Forest Service responded to a wildfire in the Silver Lake area of Muse on June 26. There were two columns of smoke, so firefighters thought initially there were two wildfires. It was later found that there were two columns of smoke because a small walking trail separated the wildfire.

The wildfire was quickly contained by Florida Forest Service dozer at 4:50 p.m. If the woods are thick and engines can't safely gain access to a fire, control lines are created around the fire by the Florida Forest Service dozers. By creating control lines around the fire, the dozer plow removes vegetation and leaves behind a strip of bare soil that stops the spread of the fire. Simply put, the bulldozer is removing the fuel from the fire triangle and causing the fire to go out.

No homes or structures were threatened and the cause is under investigation.

Containment vs. Controlled?

Contained - The status of a wildfire suppression action signifying that a control line has been completed around the fire, and any associated spot fires, which can reasonably be expected to stop the fire's spread. Controlled - Dead Out. (National Wildfire Coordinating Group's glossary of Wildland Fire Terminology.)

Safety Message

Homeowners can help your Florida Forest Service by keeping their home 30 feet way from the woods. This allows firefighters to safely work around the home. Please visit www.firewise.org/ for more information on wildfires.

RELIGION NEWS AND INFORMATION

Celebrating July 4th: Religious Freedom

BY DR. TODD BUCK
First Baptist Church of Clewiston

It is a pleasure to be able to 'speak' to each of you through this venue. Pastor John was a blessing to each of us, and I hope to simply continue his and Pastor Thomas' fine contributions through this column.

As July opens it seems the world stage again is in chaos over the mixture of religion and politics. It is helpful around July 4th to remember our heritage of freedom of religion, and how that is significant to all Americans.

In his crusade for freedom of conscience, Roger Williams founded the colony of Rhode Island in 1636 as a stronghold of religious liberty after the land was deeded to him by the Narragansett Indians. He settled in Providence with 13 other householders and in one year formed the first genuine democracy, as well as the first church-divorced and conscience-free community in modern history. Williams felt that government is the natural way provided by God to cope with the corrupt nature of man. But since government could not be trusted to know which religion is true, he considered the best hope for true religion the protection of the freedom of all religion, along with non-religion, from the state.

His famous dictum was that 'Forced religion stinks in the nostrils of God.' Williams was not worried that entwining church with state would tarnish the government. Rather, he believed that government interference in religion or endorsement of any individual faith would inevitably pollute religion.

...REMEMBER OUR HERITAGE OF FREEDOM OF RELIGION, AND HOW THAT IS SIGNIFICANT TO ALL AMERICANS.

- DR. TODD BUCK

A refuge from rampant religious persecution, Rhode Island became home to the first Jewish synagogue in America and a sanctuary for Quakers who were being killed and persecuted in Massachusetts and other colonies. Rhode Island was an open door to all people; a safe harbor in a vast sea of tyranny and oppression that reflected out the light of liberty.

Before founding Rhode Island, Williams was exiled by law from Salem in the Massachusetts Bay Colony after being repeatedly hauled before the Salem Court for spreading "diverse, new, and dangerous opinions" that questioned the Church. The law exiling Williams was not repealed until 1936 when the Massachusetts House passed Bill 488, ending 300 years of exile.

Williams brilliantly argued that citizens cannot be discriminated against on the basis of their religion, nor can they be coerced into practicing a religion that they do not wish to claim as their own. America has been a land of religious liberty ever since. The city of Philadelphia commemorated the founding of the state 50 years earlier by commissioning a bell. In the Old Testament, the 50th year is the Jubilee - a year of liberty and freedom. Mindful of that fact, the citizens of Philadelphia engraved the bell with a text from Leviticus: 'Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof' (Lev. 25:10). It is still one of the great privileges as citizens of the United States to worship (and not worship) under the full protection of the law. May we ever be such a land!

Independence Day: One Nation Under God

BY REV. SAMUEL S. THOMAS, PH. D.+
Saint Martin's Church

"Live as free men, yet without using your freedom as a pretext for evil, but live as servants of God. Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the King" - 1 Peter 2:16-17. The Lord, who came to this earth, came because there was something here worth saving and loving: humanity! His presence and earthly ministry is full of encounters with the worldly powers of His day, and He lived in a time when the people of His land were under foreign domination.

In spite of this, Jesus commended people to "Then render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's" (Matthew 22:21, Mark 12:17, Luke 20:25). Jesus came to make this pronouncement when He was being challenged by those who attempted to entrap Him and declare himself in opposition to the government of His day. Instead, the Lord declared their responsibility to the government and that His followers should work within the body politic.

His teaching impacted His followers with enough significance that three of the four Gospel writers recorded it. Peter's first epistle tells us to "live as free men..." and we are fortunate in this country to have more freedom than other countries. Peter goes on to admonish us to use our freedom wisely -- something our ancestors sought and why many spend years trying to come here. Peter must have foreseen our allegiance, "...one nation under God..." when he reminded us to "live as servants of God."

The history of the country that we share and celebrate at this time is a history of recognizing God's place in our formation and foundation; as such, we can honor our leadership who are called to hold fast to those founding principles and that we might be "...one nation under God." It is in understanding that our leadership is to protect and make as perfect as humanly possible our liberties, justice, pursuit of happiness and life itself, and in that understanding give honor to our leadership.

We in turn have an obligation to use our freedom to our own best ends. Our laws act as shields and sources of protection, not sources of wielding power or imposing wills. We have an obligation to uphold the freedom of religion, the source of our values and the means by which we know of our roots and reasons for being here. There shall be a separation of Church and state, but each has its place in our society and each should jointly contribute to the well-being of the citizens of the earthly realm and the heavenly one.

We have come to the time when we celebrate our national origins once more: the Fourth of July, or Independence Day. As I reflected, I thought about what we were struggling to achieve independence from: oppression of our freedoms and our God-given rights.

The first Independence Day celebrated a foundation of a people who could claim, "Now we're on our own," and could use their new-found freedoms to provide a pinnacle of government, with people clamoring to get in and be part of it ever since. Peter's admonition still is with us, that we may live as free men, make the best God-given uses of that freedom, serving God by keeping those values that are synonymous with His values, honoring one another and loving our corporate national brotherhood as a means for collectively providing for our fulfillment.

This is a holiday when we can reflect on what God has given us and be truly thankful. We can show our thanks by working to make the best of all of the opportunities and freedoms we have, rendering to our corporate national family on earth and seeing that we use all of our resources to be a part of the heavenly one that is to come.

PETER'S FIRST EPISTLE TELLS US TO "LIVE AS FREE MEN..." AND WE ARE FORTUNATE IN THIS COUNTRY TO HAVE MORE FREEDOM THAN OTHER COUNTRIES. PETER GOES ON TO ADMONISH US TO USE OUR FREEDOM WISELY -- SOMETHING OUR ANCESTORS SOUGHT AND WHY MANY SPEND YEARS TRYING TO COME HERE.

- REV. SAMUEL S. THOMAS

May this be a blessed holiday for us all; may we use the time to reflect, give thanks to God for what we have and work to further His kingdoms.

Southwest Florida School Districts Improve Student Performance on FCAT

Commissioner of Education Pam Stewart recognized, on June 26, school districts in Southwest Florida for improved student performance on state assessments in reading, mathematics and science.

"I applaud teachers and school leaders for their focus on increasing student academic performance," said Commissioner Stewart. "As we transition to new standards and assessments next year, I am confident students will continue to succeed."

Collier County improved from 2013 in four of the seven assessment areas. Students in eighth grade went up by four percentage points in science while sixth through eighth grade students improved two percentage points in reading.

Glades County students increased in four of the seven assessment areas from 2013. Eighth graders jumped 18 percentage points in science, while students in grades six through eight improved 12 percentage points in math and six percentage points in reading.

Hardee County improved in five of the seven assessment areas announced today, including a seven-percentage-point jump in grades three through five in math, and a four-percentage-point increase in fifth grade science.

Hendry County bettered its test scores from 2013 in four of the seven assessment areas. Eighth grade students improved seven percentage points in science and sixth through eighth graders increased by two percentage points in reading.

Lee County also improved in four of the seven assessment areas from 2013, led by third through fifth grade students gaining two percentage points in math.

Overall, statewide student achievement improved in most of the assessment areas. Compared to last year, students improved in reading by one percentage point in grades four, five, six, eight and 10. In math, students improved by two percentage points in grade four and one percentage point in grades five, six and seven. For science, students across the state improved two percentage points in grade eight and one percentage point in grade five.

Next year, a new assessment based on the Florida Standards will replace the FCAT 2.0. The Florida Standards for mathematics and English language arts stress a broader approach for student learning, including an increased emphasis on analytical thinking. With the new and more rigorous standards, a new assessment was needed to measure student progress.

Florida's recent academic gains have received national attention. The Sunshine State jumped from 11th to sixth in the nation for educational quality in 2013. Florida has the highest graduation rate in the nation for Hispanic students. In the past decade, the number of Florida graduates participating in AP courses has more than doubled, and the number of low-income graduates taking AP courses has increased tenfold. And Florida's graduation rate is 75.6 percent for 2012/13 -- an increase of 1.1 percentage points over the prior year and up five percentage points since 2010/11.

The 2014 FCAT 2.0 Reading, Mathematics and Science results are available at 2014 Statewide Assessment Scores.

Jobs are Available in Glades and Hendry

By Anne Coffey

If you could eavesdrop on casual conversations here in Glades County or Hendry County, you would note that the main topic usually turns to the lack of job opportunities. If you attended a community luncheon at the Moore Haven Correctional Facility a few days ago you would have heard one of the guests say that there is an entire group of enthusiastic, hard-working people just waiting to help you.

Yes, thanks to the Southwest Florida Workforce Development program, also known as Career Source, training, counseling, and resources are available right down the road in Clewiston.

These services, available in five Southwest Florida counties, are open to individuals and businesses. In fact, Career Source is number one in the state for job placements.

The leader of this determined group of trainers is Joe Paterno, executive director, who has spent over 38 years in the field of providing jobs and lifetime careers for all sorts of individuals. He has been the perfect person for this more-than-challenging job, since he is an eternal optimist and always smiling, and has withstood the financial ups and downs of this unusual state, where tourism is revered above all, and sugarcane, cattle and citrus are second in the money game. He has dealt with every type of person you can imagine that has gravitated to this land of sunlight, beaches and unlimited employment -- they hope. Now, there is a small catch to the availability of these opportunities. You must want to work, you must follow advice, directions and have a lot of determination.

Mr. Paterno has proven that the above criteria can and will create excellent workers. Many of his staff have been in these offices nearly as long as Mr. Paterno. One successful story is that of Becky Meeler, a career development counselor who has been with the group for over 30 years.

Fellow workers said she is as kind and as open-minded today as she was back then as a student. Suset Cunningham, interim supervisor for Immokalee, LaBelle and Clewiston, says her reward for doing the job she loves is helping those in need. "We want to help companies and we work hard to shorten the time between training applicants for them and putting them on the job.

Many are migrants and when they come in they are very needy," she said. "It is not discouraging. We want to help and we do. The unemployment numbers are lessening." Ms. Cunningham said that the newest training involves science technology and math programs.

Much of this can be had at the Immokalee Technology Center. An extended list of technology training is available throughout the five counties. Computer skills can also be learned and are helpful for those who never used computers in school.

Your first action as a person needing a job in this area, or an existing or new company needing special training for employees, would be to contact the Career Source Center located in Clewiston.

You do not, however, need an appointment and they have more than adequate staff to help you. One person receives the same training and help as an existing or new business. The applicants do not need to limit themselves to past jobs.

They will help you update your resume, learn about new job training skills, tell you how to utilize your current or past job skills, and in some cases provide transportation. The slowest time for the offices is summer, so this may be the most opportune time to apply.

Another vital suggestion -- Dress neatly, wear clean clothes, wear a tidy hairstyle, and wear a big, beautiful smile. Think carefully before you answer questions. Don't reek of cigarette smoke.

Yes, you are probably worried beyond description if you are an unemployed parent or caretaker. But remember, these folks are there to help you. They want to help you. They will follow through if you do the same.

Five counties are profiting from these convenient and necessary services: Glades, Hendry, Lee, Charlotte and Collier, with offices in Clewiston, Fort Myers, Immokalee, LaBelle and Naples. Nearby Highlands County is served by Heartland Services.
